Lone Star Explains Why Increase Needed

Lone Star Gas Company District Manager Lester Yates today in explaining the two step rate filed with Knox City pointed out the following significant points about the proposed monthly rate.

1. The graduated increase in the cost of gas will hopefully encourage conservation.
2. The proposed rate is an attempt to comply with the Federal Energy Administration policies.
3. The new rate will assist low and fixed income groups. Large volume users will carry a greater portion of the revenue deficiency.

Yates stated that the increase for small consumptions would be very little but the more gas the customer uses, the more the increase would be per Mcf. Readers will find in another portion of this paper some actual 1974 consumptions for two customers that will help to show the effect of this increase.

Lone Star noted that the increase is needed to offset the affect of inflation and the spiraling cost of natural gas.

In 1970 the average cost of natural gas purchased by Lone Star was approximately 18 cents per Mcf, but as of February, 1975, the weighted average cost had increased to 73 cents per Mcf. "While we have been able to recover a portion of this increase in the majority of the towns and cities served by Lone Star through gas cost adjustments, this has not been the case in Knox City," Yates said.

nights, worked in the concession stand, and to those who had kept books, as well as to all the contestants who participated in the playnights this year.

Keep your cool!

1. Make sure the weatherstripping on your windows and doors is doing its job; keeping the cool air in and sealing the hot air out.
2. Keep the flue closed inside fireplace while it isn't being used. A chimney can draw off a lot of cool air.
3. When the hot sun rays are beating against your windows, draw the drapes until it has changed position. Drapes with insulated linings are best to ward off the heat.
4. If you have changeable blinds, your air conditioner, change filter(s) as frequently if they are not changeable.

Free Entertainment At West Texas Fair

Tanya Tucker, Ray Stevens, Jerry Reed and the "Great American Thrill High Diving Team" will appear at this year's West Texas Bicentennial Fun Fair '75, Sam Hill, Fair Association president, announced today at a noon luncheon of the executive board held at the Petroleum Club.

In a departure from past fair practice, this year's celebrity entertainment will be free for all fairgoers. Performances will be held by one of these entertainers each night except Sunday.

"We're extremely pleased to be able to offer West Texans such high-quality entertainment free of charge," Hill said. "We think this is just one more reason why this year's Bicentennial fun fair will be one of the most memorable ever."

Tanya Tucker, a 16-year-old singer born in Seminole, Texas, will appear September 6, opening night of the fair. Originally a country-western singer, Miss Tucker now includes a full range of popular music. She broke into national prominence with "Delta Dawn" in 1972. Her current hit is "Lizzie and the Rainman."

Jerry Reed, a country-pop songwriter and singer, will also appear opening night. Among Reed's best known hits are "Amos Moses," "When You're Hot, You're Hot," and "Guitar Man." He recently co-starred with Burt Reynolds in the film W.W. and the Dixie Dance Kings.

Ray Stevens will appear September 8 and 9, for two shows each night. Stevens' most recent titles include "The Streaker" and "Misty."

Copper Breaks State Park Dam, Reservoir Completed

WICHITA FALLS - State Senator Ray Farabee announced today the completion of construction on the dam and reservoir at Copper breaks State Park, halfway between Crowell and Quanah.

Farabee stated that the new dam and reservoir marked a significant step in developing the resources of the park. Facilities in the park include 25 campsites, 40 picnic areas, 25 shaded rest areas as well as rest room facilities and a headquarters building. Another aspect of the park is the interpretive center where the history and geography of the area is described.

"Completion of the new dam and reservoir," Farabee said, "adds a new dimension to the recreational capacity of this park." Texas Parks and Wildlife Department plans for the reservoir include fishing, swimming, and boating. The reservoir which now contains in excess of 20 surface acres of water will hold up to 58 surface acres when full. At this point swimming will be possible in a specially constructed swimming area that is complete with a sandy beach. A boat ramp with easy access to the highway has also been constructed for future use. For the fisherman, the reservoir has been stocked with large mouth bass and muskie.

"These facilities," Farabee stated, "will be a source of enjoyment to the people of the 30th Senatorial District while providing a recreational area that will attract visitors from across the state."

Reddy's helpful tips for your Room Air-Conditioners

Your air conditioner will operate inefficiently if filters are not cleaned regularly. Dirt and lint collected on the filters, restricts air flow to the coils. Clean filters every two weeks.

Let nature help you save energy by shading your home with trees and shrubs to help cut down on summer cooling costs. Draw draperies against afternoon sun.

Remember to keep outside doors, windows, and fireplace dampers closed. If you have window units, close the heating vents near the floor, as cool air falls and can escape through vents.

You purchased fine home comfort when you bought your air conditioning unit. Properly maintained, it will offer you years of efficient service. A once-a-year check-up by your dealer pays dividends in savings on operating and breakdown costs.

Football started today (Monday). Coach Reed said there were 13 boys that showed up for workout this morning. There were several that did not make it, he is hoping that they will come in a few days. Some are visiting and some were probably just sleepy this morning. We are already having trouble at our house trying to figure out when to get this done and that done and still make football workouts twice a day, we'll make it some how, we always do.

They will have two scrimmages, but I was unable to get the names of the schools as the latest details have not been worked out yet. I will have more about this next week.

Airplanes are a wonderful way to travel, I guess, I have never been on one yet. We carried my mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Manning to Lubbock yesterday (Sunday) to board Continental Airlines for a visit with his sisters and families in California. The way I figured it they would be nearly to their destination by the time we drove back to O'Brien, at any rate they would be in the state of California. That is pretty fast traveling.

SAGA OF THE FARMER - RANCHER

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following poem, written by a widow who operates a farm at Murchison and published recently in the Athens Daily Review, graphically portrays the current dilemma in which many farmers and ranchers find themselves. It was brought to the News office and we are taking the liberty of re-printing it for our readers.)

By Rosie Hatton

I heard a quotation about the farm and ranch man That raises cattle and tills the land.

It was the only business that buys retail Then turns around and sells wholesale.

Well, no truer words were ever spoken, No wonder our poor old backs are broken From trying so hard to beat the heat, With low price cattle and high price meat.

If prices stay so high and cattle so low, The poor old farmer will have to go.

So who's gonna feed this whole darn nation If the farmer doesn't get some consideration?

He never gets to keep any of his pay, It goes for high priced fertilizer, feed and hay.

He can't afford the luxury of punching a clock, Everything he has is usually in hock.

He just works from dawn until it's too dark to see

Then comes home to rest from his misery, Not a dime in his poor old worn-out jeans And nothing to eat but pork-less beans.

The things he has raised he can't afford to eat, Like milk, butter, eggs and meat.

He carries that to market and practically gives it away To buy more fertilizer, feed and hay.

So he starts all over on the merry-go-round.

That's why they're all leaving and going to town, So who's gonna feed us? We're all in a whirl; What's gonna happen to this sin cursed world?

For man, in his ignorance and unbeliefs, Has led us to a dead-end of no relief.

Well, it's going to take God with his mighty hand To straighten out this mess that was made by man.

Social Security Is 40 Years Old This Month

Social security is 40 years old this August, and "the program has matured with our growing and changing nation," according to Carl R. Beisner of the Vernon social security office.

The Social Security Act became law on August 14, 1935. President Franklin D. Roosevelt called it "a law which will give some measure of protection to the average citizen and to his family against...poverty-stricken old age."

In the beginning, social security benefits were for retired workers only. "Over the years," Mr. Beisner said, "the law has been amended so that now monthly benefits are paid to eligible retired and disabled workers and their families and to dependents of deceased workers who worked long enough in jobs covered by social security."

Originally, social security covered jobs in commerce and industry only, and about 26 million workers had the protection. "Today," Mr. Beisner said, "more than nine out of 10 jobs are covered, and about 100 million workers--and their families--have social security protection."

Survivors benefits for dependents of deceased workers were provided for by a 1939 amendment to the law. Disability insurance was added in 1954 to give workers protection against loss of earnings due to disability.

Social security benefits are based on work and earnings. "The first benefits were paid in 1940 to about 222,000 persons," Mr. Beisner said. "The average monthly payment was about $22 to a retired worker and $47 to a widowed mother with two children in her care."

Today social security pays benefits to about 31 million persons. The average monthly payment is about $202 to a retired worker and $472 to a widowed mother with two children in her care, according to Mr. Beisner.

Under a 1972 amendment, social security benefits are now tied to the cost of living. "Unless a general social security benefit increase is enacted," Mr. Beisner said, "benefits are increased automatically once a year to keep pace with price increases of three percent or more."

Social security benefits are funded by contributions from workers, employers, and self-employed people. Employees and employers each contribute 5.85 percent of the first $14,100 of yearly earnings from work covered by social security. Self-employed people contribute 7.9 percent.

The Social Security Administration administers Medicare, which started in 1965, and the supplemental security income program, which started in 1974.

Over 23 million persons have Medicare, which helps pay the health care bills of persons 65 or over, of disabled persons who have been entitled to social security disability benefits for at least 24 consecutive months, and of many persons with chronic kidney disease. The supplemental security income program makes monthly payments to over 4 million persons with little or no income and limited resources who are 65 or over or blind or disabled.

The Social Security Administration is an agency of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

To most women, the fact that August 14 marks the 40th anniversary of the Social Security Act probably wouldn't seem very significant. But it should, because social security is particularly relevant to women.

"In the past four decades," says Carl R. Beisner of the Vernon social security office, "women's role in society has changed dramatically."

"Back in 1935, when the original social security law was written," Mr. Beisner said, "the working world was a 'man's' world. The woman's 'place' was in the home. Men were the breadwinners in the American family. Women were wives, and wives were dependents."

"Of course, some women did work in those days--10 to 13 million is the best figure available. But, most of them were young, single women who would quit working when they got married."

"In ever-increasing numbers, women are working throughout their adult lives. Many women choose not to marry, devoting their lives instead to a career. Those who do marry are likely to continue working, either part time or full time. The working mother is no longer the exception and soon may be the rule. Even women who do stay home while their children are young often return to jobs later on."

"In fact," Mr. Beisner said, "more than 36.3 million women are working in jobs and professions today. That's almost 40 percent of the total civilian labor force in this country."

As women's lifestyles have changed, so has the social security program. Mr. Beisner explained how the protection women have under social security--both as dependents and as workers--has increased over the years.

"The program became a family program in 1939, the year before monthly benefits were first payable. Under old-age and survivors insurance, as it was called, benefits also were payable to aged wives or widows, children under 18, or, if there was no surviving widow or children, to surviving aged parents.

"But throughout the early years of the program," said Beisner, "the law was based on the premise that a man was responsible for the support of his wife and children. Benefits for children were payable on the record of a working mother without a husband, but were not available to children of a working wife whose husband was present. And benefits couldn't be paid to the husband or widower of a working wife."

The program remained that way throughout the 1940's. During those years, Congress gave priority to legislation relating to the war and post-war problems.

"It was with the 1950 social security amendments," Mr. Beisner said, "that protection for women really began to improve. Benefits were added for wives under 65 who had children in their care."

"And, because more women were entering the labor force--by 1950, there were over 18.3 million women workers--the law began to recognize the importance of a working wife's earnings. The program now provided for benefits to dependent aged husbands and widowers."

Another important change concerning women workers was enacted in 1967.

"Prior to 1967," Mr. Beisner explained, "children could get benefits on their mother's work record only if she met a requirement for recent work under social security. A provision of the 1967 amendments eliminated this requirement, and children could get benefits on their mother's work record under the same conditions that they could receive them on their father's work record." Over the years, many other changes were made, and virtually all of them affected women.

Disability insurance was added in 1954; Medicare for the aged, in 1965; and Medicare for certain disabled people under 65, in 1972. The age at which people can start getting benefits has been lowered several times. Now, workers and their wives or dependent husbands can start getting reduced retirement benefits at age 62. Widows and dependent widowers can get benefits as early as age 60. And disabled widows and disabled dependent widowers can get reduced payments at age 50.

"A significant change in social security," said Mr. Beisner, "came just this year. In March 1975, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that widowed fathers are entitled to survivors benefits on the same basis as widowed mothers."

"Prior to the Court's ruling, if a father died, both his children and their mother could get benefits. But, if the mother died, only the children could get benefits; the father could not."

"The Court's decision provided women workers with the same survivors insurance protection as men workers. It recognizes the impact that loss of a mother's earnings can have on the family."

Women who want more information about their protection under social security should ask for a copy of "Your Social Security" at any social security office.

TIPS FOR DIPS AND SEASONED SPREADS

Blue Bonnet is introducing a new product that fills today's consumers' need to economize, but still serve wholesome meals and party dishes. The product is Blue Bonnet Spread...which has the flavor and look of margarine, but has 25 per cent less fat and calories. It comes in 2-pound bowls, selling at an average of $1.25-$1.30 or 63-65 per pound.

Ideal as a table spread or as a recipe ingredient, Blue Bonnet Spread is especially delicious in a dip or seasoned spread for bread and crackers. Essentially the same, dips and spreads differ mainly in consistency. Dips must be soft enough not to break the cracker or potato chips used as scoops...but not so soft they drip. Spreads must be soft enough to spread without breaking the crackers or tearing the bread...but not runny.

Suggested here are two dips and a cheese spread. Popular in the Southwest is Guacamole Dip, a seasoned avocado-whipped mixture flecked with chopped tomatoes. Tortilla chips are a perfect partner. Dilly Shrimp Dip combines cream cheese with chopped shrimp and dill. It's good for dunking raw vegetables as well as crackers. Muenster Cheese Spread, with its confetti-like dots of pimiento, is a zesty spread for cocktail rye, pumpernickel or Syrian flat bread.

GUACAMOLE DIP
2 (about 12 ounces each) ripe avocados, peeled and cubed
1/4 cup Blue Bonnet Spread
3 tablespoons grated onion
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 medium clove garlic, crushed
2 teaspoons salt

2 to 3 drops liquid hot pepper sauce
1/2 cup finely chopped tomato

In a small mixer bowl combine avocados, Blue Bonnet Spread, onion, lemon juice, garlic, salt, and pepper sauce. Beat until well blended and smooth. Stir in tomato. Chill at least 1 hour before serving. Makes about 3 cups.

DILLY SHRIMP DIP
1 can (4-1/2-ounce) small shrimp
1 package (8-ounce) cream cheese, softened
1/3 cup Blue Bonnet Spread
1 tablespoon grated onion
1/4 teaspoon dill weed
Milk
Drain shrimp, rinse and drain again. In a small mixer bowl, combine cream cheese and Blue Bonnet Spread; beat until well blended. Stir in shrimp, onion and dill weed.

Chill until ready to use. If necessary, add milk by teaspoons until desired consistency is reached. Makes about 1-2/3 cups.

MUENSTER CHEESE SPREAD
8 ounces Muenster cheese, grated
2 tablespoons finely chopped pimiento
1/4 cup Blue Bonnet Spread
Combine cheese and pimiento. Blend in Blue Bonnet Spread until smooth. Chill until ready to serve. Spread on crackers or use as sandwich filling. Makes about 1-1/2 cups.

Rain - A Blessing Or A Curse

By Arche Lieb

District Conservationist
Soil Conservation Service

Most people are glad to see a good rain, especially farmers and ranchers. Rain means moisture to produce crops and grass for livestock but have you ever heard a farmer say, "We got too much rain," or "That rain really washed my field." If the land is not properly prepared to receive large amounts of rainfall, heavy damage can be expected. The recent rains we received in the County points this out.

If a field has a large wash, or ditch, if terraces are broken, if signs of water erosion can be plainly seen on cultivated land, valuable topsoil and moisture is being lost. Water erosion can remove large amounts of soil ranging from 10 to 20 tons per acre. Moisture for producing crops and grass can end up in the river. Erosion can start when raindrops strike bare soil. This is called raindrop erosion. Unprotected fields will lose soil during each rain. Large amounts of runoff will cause sheet and gully erosion on unprotected areas.

The wise land user will recognize the signs of water erosion and use sound conservation practices for control. A cropping system that will keep cover on the land and farming methods that leave crop residues on the soil surface will prevent raindrop erosion and reduce runoff. Properly constructed terraces will prevent sheet erosion and channel water to safe outlets.

Oil and Gas Data For Neighboring Counties

In recent weeks the News ran a story on how the production of crude oil and natural gas in 1974 continued to have a significant impact on the economy of Knox County.

Since neighboring counties of Stonewall, Haskell and King also contribute to our local economy, the News requested data on their Counties and found Stonewall ranked 63rd in the state in the total value of petroleum and produced $38,960,573, with $38,219,720 of that coming from the sale of 5,459,960 barrels of crude oil; $740,853 from the sale of 2,545,888 MCF of natural gas.

This study by the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association shows also that Stonewall County's petroleum production last year resulted in the payment of $4,870,072 to royalty owners.

The survey also shows that the State of Texas received $1,813,671 in production taxes from county wells, with $1,758,107 coming from crude oil output and $55,564 from natural gas production.

Oil and gas developers and producers spent an estimated $1,431,096 drilling 59 wells in the county last year, with 58.5 percent of that figure lost in 42 dry holes. The total drilling yielded 17 oil wells. The exploratory effort in the county included the drilling of one wildcat well seeking new oil and gas fields.

According to the Texas Employment Commission, 121 oil and gas industry employees worked in the Conservation Program or the Agricultural Conservation Program. These programs are administered by the Soil Conservation Service and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service at Knox City.

All programs and services of the USDA are available to everyone without regard to race, creed, color, sex, or national origin.

Haskell County ranked 89th in the state in the total value of petroleum producing $20,172,386, with $20,025,299 of that coming from the sale of 2,806,757 barrels of crude oil; $147,087 from the sale of 505,452 MCF of natural gas.

This study also showed that a payment of $2,521,548 was made to royalty owners.

The survey also shows that the State received $932,195 in production taxes with $921,164 coming from crude oil and $11,031 from natural gas production.

The developers and producers spent an estimated $1,346,976 drilling 51 wells last year, with 42.9 percent of that figure lost in 29 dry holes. The total drilling yielded 22 oil wells, with one wildcat.

A total of 106 employees shared a payroll of $1,066,072.

King County ranked 99th

The study showed that a payment of $2,253,670 was made to royalty owners.

The survey shows that the State received $835,464 in production taxes, with $819,653 from crude oil and $15,811 from natural gas production.

The developers and producers spent an estimated $3,789,721 drilling 50 wells last year, with 59.8 percent of that figure lost in 31 dry holes. The total drilling yielded 18 oil wells.
