

Grasshopper Poison At Benjamin

The first shipment of bran to be used in eradication of grasshoppers in Knox County was received Thursday, according to W. W. Rice, County agent.

The poison can be obtained by farmers who need it by calling at the office of the county agent in Benjamin. The government furnishes the bran and poison mixture and each farmer must furnish the syrup and amyl-acetate or fruit juice.

Mr. Rice said that the infestation this year in Knox County and over much of the state was very serious. He is advising the farmers to poison while the grasshoppers are small and before damage reaches the critical stage. It is thought if the first hoppers are poisoned, the second crop will not be so large.

KECK GETS BIG CROWD

Saturday C. H. Keck Grocery used thirty six inches of advertisements in last weeks Herald announcing he was giving away absolutely free to his customers six, twenty four pound sacks of flour, the only requirement was that you call in person and register. More than four hundred registered during the day and as the time for drawing arrived it was impossible for the people to get inside the building. He also served Folgers coffee free during the day.

He informed us that he was more than pleased with the crowd and his sales for the day was much larger than he expected. This is more evidence that advertising will bring the people to the place of business; it is then up to the merchant to sell the goods. Some people expect too much of advertising, but the merchant that keeps his name before the public each and every week will find that his business will increase weekly.

MOTHER'S DAY

A CHRISTIAN MOTHER

A Mother's Day Tribute, by a Christian Minister
"Mother, I believe God wants me in the ministry."
With these words I voiced the conviction that had been growing in my heart for some days since I had accepted Christ as my Savior.

That was a critical moment in my Christian experience. I was somewhat nebulous in my thinking concerning what constituted a "call" to the ministry. Had my mother tried to discourage me, she might have succeeded, but she did not. Instead she quietly replied with true Christian nobility, "Son, if God wants you in His service, then that is exactly where you ought to be."

I did not realize at that time what that reply must have cost my mother. Her father had been a minister with a large family to feed and clothe. Full well she knew the privations and necessities of a minister's life. Also throughout my life up to that time, on account of the illness of my father and financial reverses which we had suffered, this precious mother of mine had been compelled to teach in a business college in order to win bread for her family. I was just getting to the age where I could be of some assistance. I was even then employed and earning my first wage. Mother knew that the choice I was making would deprive her of any financial assistance on my part. She knew that for me to enter the ministry was to commit myself to work which would never bring large financial returns. She knew that years would be required in training for the work which I was undertaking, for which I had not even finished high school—years in which I would do well to pay my own expenses, and certainly would be unable to help in the family expenses. I was the only son,—the only one humanly speaking, to whom she could look if my father were to suffer another breakdown in health. But she never hesitated. Not a tremor was discernible in her voice as she told me that the greatest calling which could ever come to a man's life was a call to the service of the Lord, and she encouraged me in the step I was taking.

A few months later our family moved to Utah. It was my plan to stay in Denver, in training for the Lord's service. My father had gone on before. He had written for the rest of the family to come, for he had found work, and he was gaining strength. One day Mother said to me, "Harold, are you sure that God has called you into His service?"

"Quite sure, Mother," I replied, for confidence had grown in my heart that my Lord had accepted me when I gave Him my life, and that He did want me in His service.

"That is all I want to know, Son," this noble mother of mine said. "Let nothing move you from your determination to obey."

And so a few days later, the time had come for us to part. I was working in Daniel's and Fisher's Stores Company, in Denver, and I wanted to get off to go the the station to see my mother off. But she insisted that I go to work as usual. We had gotten her baggage to the station, and she walked with me from our apartment to the store, then turned down Sixteenth street toward the station. As we said good-by, she pressed a kiss upon my lips and said, "Good-by, Son, God bless you," then turned and went quickly down the street without looking back.

I was a little hurt that she did not look back. I watched her until she was out of sight, hoping to see her look my way again, so that I might wave to her. I did not understand that her grief at the parting was even more overwhelming than my own, as I stood, with my hat in hand, unashamed of the tears streaming down my face. It was not until years later that I understood why she had left so quickly, why she did not look back. How well I know, now, that her own heart was breaking and her own eyes were swimming with tears! But her heart was fixed, she was determined that nothing, not a single word of hers, not a single tear, should move from my purpose. And throughout the years since then, never has that dear saint of God done anything to discourage or dissuade her son from carrying out his God-appointed task. No sacrifice has been too much, no price too great to pay to permit me to continue in the service of the Lord.

A plain-clad woman, with work-worn hands, was sitting in the chapel, listening to the exercises that made her son a college graduate. This young man had earned high honors in his scholastic career, and was to be honored by receiving an insignia, denoting the highest honor that could be bestowed upon him. When that presentation was made, that son responded in a few words of appreciation, then marched from the platform straight to where that homely-clad little woman sat. He took from his breast the decoration which had been awarded him, and pinned it upon the faded gown of his mother, and pressed a kiss upon her brow. Then standing erect, he addressed the assembled company, saying, "Not to me, but to my mother belongs this honor, for it was she who sacrificed and who worked long hours over the washboard to make it possible for her son to pursue his education."

And so, if God is pleased to grant me reward for what service He has permitted me to render, I feel sure that my heroic mother will be given greater honor for the long hours of arduous toil by which she provided bread for her sick husband and for her two dependent children; for the efforts she made to see that her children were brought up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord; and for the sacrifice she was willing to make, and the privations she was willing to endure, that her son might serve his Lord without distraction.

Surely one of the choicest gifts of God to man is a noble Christian mother. With all my heart I can say "Amen" to the Scripture which says, "Her children arise up, and call her blessed." Prov. 31:28.

DO YOU LOVE LIFE?

"If you love life, don't squander time. For that's the stuff life's made of."
This very true quotation expresses my sentiments exactly. If you love to live, why waste half or more of your life loafing around? No one likes a slacker. Have you accomplished anything in your life to be proud of? Have you reached the first rung in your ladder of happiness and success? If you have not, when do you plan to begin? Tomorrow? Oh, no, tomorrow will never come. Today is the day. Why waste your time waiting for something to come to you? Go out and get it! It shall not be yours for the asking, but striving, hoping, and praying, and finally achieving a goal or an ideal can lift a man from the depths of despair to universal delight.

No matter how little and insignificant it may seem to you, to the achiever, an achievement means a start, a beginning. Have you waited hopefully for a word of encouragement or a look of appreciation that no one ever gave you? Have you slighted your friends in this same manner? Every small advancement leads to greater and better things. Every small bit counts.

Life is short. Much too short to continue living in a big, easy rocking chair. Get out on our own. Work a little and find out what makes some people bigger successes than others. Experience is the best teacher of all. Live to learn and see and profit by the mistakes of others. Life has no favorites. It is impartial. Do not put off till tomorrow what can be done today. Do you love life? Enough to sacrifice a little of that smug disposition of yours? Then do something about it! Now is the time! Now!

K. C. BAND ATTENDS SAN ANGELO CONVENTION

The Knox City High School Band chartered a bus that carried 39 band members and five cars carried the others. The bus left Knox City at 6:15 A. M. Thursday morning and arrived in San Angelo at 10:15 a. m.

First theses and band assemblies played at the Baptist Church. After that, hotel rooms were issued and all was quiet till 2:45. The band practiced marching on the Junior High Football field.

Then Friday morning at 11:00 the band assembled in the municipal auditorium for the concert. At 12:30 the required numbers were played and the band rested that afternoon until 5:30 when the marching contest began.

Knox City Band won third division playing in concert and also third division marching in class C. The classes were arranged according to the number of high school and our class is C. Pecos and Crane won first division in class C and Monahans won second division Class E.

At 7:15 p. m. Saturday night the band left for home. They arrived home at 12:15 A. M. Sunday morning.

Due to a serious situation that happened, caused by too many hamburgers, an hour or two stop at the hospital in Abilene caused this delay. But in spite of the sleepless but wonderful trip, they were very happy to get home.

ANNUAL JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET TO BE HELD

Friday night is to be a gala occasion for the Juniors and their forty guests. The Juniors have been working on the banquet for the past week, but this will probably be the busiest week of all their young lives.

The Junior-Senior banquet is an adapted annual affair of the Juniors of Knox City High School. Each year the Juniors are hosts and hostesses to the Seniors and other honorary guests. The banquet is given for the benefit and in honor of the departing class of the year.

The banquet to be given to the Senior class by the Junior class is to be held Friday evening, May 6, 1938. The banquet is to be one that the Seniors will like and remember always, as this is probably the last social affair that the Junior class will be able to give to this departing Senior class. They want it to be the very best and are willing to do their utmost to make it a success.

By ?? and ???
"You can't eat, you can't sleep, you go crazy." There is only two things that get you in that condition, love and "The Dipsy Doodle."

In compiling the paper this week we find that our dear, dear editor is slightly emotionally under the weather. The staff seems to be behind the eight ball. So you had better watch out. Maybe her experiences Saturday night could explain things if we could get her to talk about it but since last Wednesday and Friday nights she has decided to be seen and not be heard. And she was seen.

Little Sophomore Sammy seemed to be very forlorn over the week end. Better he should get him a rooster and go along on the next band tour.

Ruth wasn't in church this Sunday night, it seems she managed to have a perfectly wonderful time in spite of all gossiping and gabby tongues. Well Ruth, you have got your eyes open.

Sallye, Roust-about, McElroy entertained with the greatest of ease one of Sunset's most gallant young gallants Saturday night, and had a bunch of fun, too, I betcha.

Geneva, always get 'em Walker has had a very recent change of heart from shall we say to S to S. Catch, Catch!

Two of the younger generation were seen courtin' last Sunday afternoon. Well, well, we all think its mighty swell when such a swell little guy as Gerald is the boy-friend.

Mary Frances is a changed girl. She seems so full of pep and vitality. She nearly bubbles over all the time. M. F. stands side by side with destiny. Fun over the week ends, too.

At this time we wish to bring some of the original and brilliant responses to this personal investigation carried on by your favorite news scoops of the week. "If your date should start carrying on a flirtation with another member of the opposite sex, what would you do?"

So they say — Mr. Shumaker, "I never had a date. Shucks!"

James Ray Swift, "Do likewise."

Wynette Farmer, "Get some thing to eat and forget it all."

Doyle Walker, "Use cave man stuff, providing the other guy isn't too big."

Faye Heath, "Flirt with the extra"

Ruth McGee, "Rotate, and then 'Home James.'"

Dorothy Shaver, "It never happens to me, I attract all the attention myself."

Gertrude Decker, "Smile."

Mary Frances Reeder, "Try psychology, whatever that is"

Glenn Huntsman, "Take her home."

Hamilton Coates, "Sleep it off."

John B. White, "Feed her rat poison."

PUNISHMENT A BLESSING

On April 28 period from 1:30 until 2:00 found the High School Students and teachers in a good old heart to hear confession of their feelings toward their school and classes. After which all felt closer drawn and more attached to each other.

Confess your faults one to another. This is a lovely way to punish and correct faults. This is why our superintendent is a successful school man. He is a builder; he knows when and how to lay the brick that builds character.

"Being dependable" was the main subject discussed.

We missed the students that were away on their music tour, and we think that they missed a great blessing.

Evelys Shaver of Rochester was the week end guest of Dorothy Shaver.

Dorothy Shaver, Ruth McGee and Sallye McElroy attended the Senior Day entertainment at Hardin-Simmons University at Abilene.

Mrs. Harry Garrison and daughter returned from Weatherford after spending a week with her parents. Mr. and Mrs. John Melton of that city.

Mrs. T. E. Robbins spent the weekend in Abilene with her daughter, Jo Nell, who is a senior at Hardin-Simmons.

Right Beauty; Wrong College

Chosen as "the only beautiful girl" at the University of Chicago, Miss Joy Hawley, graduate and former beauty of Texas State College for Women, turned out to be enrolled in Northwestern University, where she has already been named a 1938 beauty.

The mix-up began when a Chicago U. magazine stated, "There hasn't been a really beautiful woman around here since Little Egypt reared her skirts on the World's Fair midway in 1893." To debunk the article, Chicago U. boys went down to the photographers and with the help of three prominent judges selected what they thought was the picture of a Chicago co-ed.

Great was the chagrin of the C. U. student body when their triumphant choice turned out to be a Northwestern girl. Miss Hawley is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Hawley of Denton, Texas.

By W. D. McFarlane, M. C. Road Improvement

Congress has authorized $200,000,000 for road improvement and grade-crossing elimination for the next fiscal year. Approval of primary construction programs have already been granted to 25 States and 17 others for secondary roads, both to be matched by States. FSCC Will Buy Dry Skim Milk
The AAA announced that Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation has made awards for the purchase of 91 cars, 3,642,000 pounds, of roller process skim milk under the dairy products purchase program. These awards are in addition to the awards granted early in March for the purchase of 5,000,000 pounds of spray process dry skim milk. The milk will be allocated to relief agencies.

Relief and Taxes

The Appropriations Committee is now hearing testimony on relief needs of the country. The President has already stated clearly his views on this important question. From the testimony we are hearing it is evident the President's views are very conservative concerning the relief needs for the immediate future.

The conference committee will report the compromise tax bill this Thursday. The agreement reached retained practically the House provision on undistributed profits and the Senate provision on capital gains, together with additional cushions and loop holes to protect chislers and tax dodgers, added in the Senate.

Wage and Hour

The Wage and Hour Bill, Senate 2475 was reported by the House Labor Committee by a vote of 14 to 4 and after bitter debate the Rules Committee refused to give this legislation a rule by a vote of 8 to 6. Five Democrats and three Republicans constituting the majority against granting a rule. Unless the Committee favorably reports this legislation before the House. It is believed the required signatures will be had within a short time should this procedure be necessary.

Anti-Trust Monopoly

The President sent one of his strongest messages to Congress Friday, clearly setting forth his views regarding monopolies and suggesting a very definite remedy to correct same. The message was well received throughout the Nation and practically all are in accord except the monopolies themselves, that the remedy suggested should be speedily enacted into law and of course carried out. The writer has spoken many times on this important question and has offered legislation to correct the known existing evils. It is to be hoped we can enact legislation in the near future correcting these abuses. It will require favorable public approval to get Anti-trust enforcement the same as all other law enforcement. Such a program of education should be carried on.

The Calendar

The House last week considered unanimous and consent calendars bills on Monday and Tuesday. Naval Construction for the West Coast on Wednesday and amendments to the Merchant Marine Act on Thursday and this week we will consider the consent calendar, additional Federal Judges and conference reports and perhaps roads legislation.

The Senate last week continued their debate on the Naval Expansion program. This measure will be pending business this week.

THANKS FOR BILLION DOLLARS!

Speeding 3,000 miles through the clouds from the orange groves of the West, Patricia Ellis, youthful screen star, brought to President Franklin D. Roosevelt a baby navel orange tree, the direct descendant of the parent tree sent to California 65 years ago by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Thus did 15,000 California citrus growers symbolically repay the U. S. Government a billion dollar debt in one of the most unique events growing out of the strangest story of plant propagation in the history of horticultural science.

At the White House, in behalf of the President, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt received the tree and a box of navel oranges from the original 65 year old tree.

Since the propagation of this seedless variety, more than nine million navel orange trees have sprung into abundant growth in California's sun-kissed groves and the original importation has been characterized by the U. S. Department of Agriculture as "the most valuable fruit introduction yet made."

A Man Who Leaves NO WILL Does His Family a Big Injustice

A Life's Savings is Protected by a Will Make Your Own Last Will and Testament

Make Your Will NOW. Safeguard Your Loved Ones.

Everyone needs a Will, those who have little, more than those who have much. Neglect to make a Will causes untold grief, suffering, family disputes.

This Actually Happened

A happy man with a good wife and two lovely children, owned a $7,000.00 house with only a $2,000.00 mortgage, and had about $3,000.00 in the bank. He caught a cold; it developed into double pneumonia and within a week he was dead.

There was no will. An executor had to be appointed by the court, a bond paid and a lawyer appointed. He had two brothers with whom he was on bad terms. Each applied for one-third of the estate. The executor got 5% and had one year to settle.

The mortgage was foreclosed, the widow dispossessed. Today this man's family are on relief, destitute. If our Will booklet at a total cost of one dollar had been used, all this trouble would have been saved. Things like that are happening every day.

A Legal Valid Will—$1

Our booklet giving samples of Standard Last Wills and Testaments, with many separate clauses, enables one to make just the kind of Will desired by simply copying the wording and filling in your names.

With our booklet comes a Will blank with full instructions how to sign and have it legally witnessed so as to make in SECRET, without other legal advice, a perfectly legal will.

Mail One Dollar for booklet and legal form Will blank.

W. W. BROWN COMPANY

9 Longmeadow Rd., Yonkers, N. Y. I enclose herewith one dollar for which send me, postpaid, your booklet "How to Make Your Last Will & Testament" and blank legal Will form.

A CERTAIN young lady who gives interpretive dances in rather scanty costume was engaged to go to a staid community in New England and dance before the local dramatic and literary society.

The day after her appearance the entertainment committee—all women—held a meeting to discuss the affair of the night before. Several had been heard, when one member raised her voice.

"Personally," she said, "I enjoyed it ever so much. To me it was most artistic and symbolic and everything. But if you ask me, I must say this: It certainly was no place to take a nervous man!"

And there's an eating place in Victoria named "Hangover Cafe."

Phillip Mittanck, fill-up-my-tank, owns a filling station in Pleasanton.

A writer seeking a subject for a fast-moving biography would do well to look into the career of General Lane, for whom a commemorative tablet has been placed in the courthouse in Marshall. He fought at San Jacinto, commanded a company of Texas Rangers in frontier fights with Indians and bad men, served as an officer in the War with Mexico and was a brigadier general in the Confederate army. As he lived almost to the opening of the twentieth century, no doubt many interesting facts could be learned from persons who are still living and who knew him personally.

Among newspaper publishers of Texas, few have had experiences as exciting as had W. M. Hamilton of Palestine. Many years ago he edited a newspaper in Monterey, Mexico, and if O. Henry had met him, the great short story writer could have added one more tale to his volume of the tropics, "Cabbages and King."

And now your columnist has been classified. There is a cafe in Fort Worth that specializes in scrambled eggs and the eggs are beaten up into a fluff before being placed on the griddle. This war correspondent however preferred them scrambled in the regular and, informed of that fact, the waiter turned and yelled.

"Two eggs, country."
A "country Campbell" similar to the kind of press that District Judge Ralph Yarborough turned by hand when he was a boy was inspected with much interest by the candidate for Attorney General recently when he visited Liberty Hill. The press is now turned by electricity, of course.

J. E. McFarland, Jacksonville publisher, has one of the most modern, high-speed presses to be found anywhere but, in a corner of the building, is an old style press which originally was turned by hand. "The work was so hard that I had to get a different negro each press day," he humorously relates. "Finally, when the supply of negroes ran out, I brought in the first steam engine Jacksonville ever saw."

LETTER RECEIVED BY EDITOR ABOUT HIGHWAY

Knox County Herald
Knox City, Texas
Dear Editor,

Since the highway designation meet held at Sunset School Monday night, April 25, I have come to the conclusion that we can get the right of way from Munday west to the Knox City-Benjamin highway, and the one from Knox City-Benjamin highway beginning at the Wm. Cameron Lumber Yard at Knox City and running east to the Munday and Weinert highway cheaper than we could get the right of way from about 5 miles west of Munday, and then running across about 4 sections of land in a southwestern direction and there straight west to the Wm. Cameron Lumber yard in Knox City and Benjamin highway. The right-of-way on both of these routes would almost all be donated as they would run along section lines nearly all the way and the building of these two highways would create a feeling of good will among the people of Knox City and the people of Munday and all farmers living between the Knox City and Benjamin highway south of the Brazos river and the Munday and Weinert highway in Knox County whereas cutting across 4 sections of land in a south western and north eastern direction would engender a feeling of ill will that might not be wiped out in a generation besides the price that would be justly asked by the owners would be prohibitive for this right of way and damages.

Let us all get together and build these two highways and our children and children's children will praise our good judgement in locating these highways as we did.

Your very truly,
M. A. Verhalen

I'M NOT GROWING OLD

They say that I am growing old, I've heard them tell it times untold,
In language plain and bold, but I'm not growing old.
This frail shell in which I dwell is growing old, I know full well,
But I'm not this shell.
What if my hair is turning gray?
Gray hairs are honorable they say.
What if my eyesight's growing dim?
I still can see to follow Him
Who sacrificed his life for me upon the Cross of Calvary.
Why should I care if Time's old plow has left its furrows on my brow?
Another house, not made with hands awaits me in the Glory Land!
What though I falter in my walk?
What though my tongue refuse to talk?
I still can tread the narrow way, I still can watch, and praise and pray!
My hearing may not as keen as in the past it might have been,
Still I can hear my Savior say, in whispers soft, "This is the way."
The outward man, do what I can, to lengthen out his life's short span,
Shall perish, and return to dust, as everything in nature must.
The inward man, the Scriptures say, is growing stronger every day,
Then how can I be growing old when safe within my Savior's fold?
'Ere long my soul shall fly away, and leave this tenement of clay,
This robe of flesh I'll drop, and rise to seize the everlasting prize—
I'll meet you on the streets of gold.
And prove to you I'm not growing old!

Denton Texas — the rapid growth of the annual State Class B Track and Field Carnival to be held at North Texas State Teachers College on May 6-7 this year under the direction of Dean T. J. Fouts is shown by the above map.

The 525 schoolboy athletes who will participate in this year's meet come from 150 high schools in the 68 counties indicated above. Last year 303 came from 66 schools to take part. Interest in the Class B meet has grown steadily since it was organized eight years ago by Roy Bedichek, director of the University Interscholastic League, and other League officials in cooperation with Dean Fouts, director of athletics at North Texas. Its purpose is to secure wider participation in League activities on the part of smaller schools in the state.

A feature of the Saturday afternoon's final program this year will be an exhibition run by a world's record relay team. The run will be staged by either the two sets of twins, the Rideouts and Browns, who on February 5 set an indoor world's record for the mile and seven eighths medley at the 31st annual Milrose Games in Madison Square Garden, or by squad composed of the Rideouts, Alvin Chrisman, and Henry Morgan, who on April 29 set all existing records for the distance medley at the Relay in Philadelphia.

The new rock home of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Robbins is nearing completion. It is located about one mile south of town on the Robbins farm, and when completed will be one of the most attractive and modern homes in or near Knox City.

An interesting fact about the construction of this house is, that all rocks which have been donated by friends, are named for the donors and easily identified by either Mr. Robbins or Mrs. Robbins.

SENIORS ATTEND SENIOR DAY AT H. S. U.

Saturday was annual Senior Day at Hardin-Simmons University, and the seniors of Sunset attended. Everyone had an enjoyable time, for they were entertained royally from 10:00 o'clock until five. The famous Cowboy Band gave a musical show, followed by the tumbling team, the moral club, trick roper, and many other interesting amusements. Lunch was served at 12:00 o'clock at the pit.

The evening's activities were equally enjoyable. There were many educational benefits to be derived from the Fine Arts Building, and from the Science Building; which showed tests in Chemistry, Science, etc. At the Corral there was skating for those who were interested.

At three-thirty another main event of the day came off. The I. S. U. Cowboys of next year divided as nearly equally as possible and played a football game for the benefit of their guests.

The Sunset Seniors enjoyed the day to the fullest extent and who knows, it might have changed someone's mind about the college he is going to attend.

The Sunset Seniors also enjoyed having the Munday Seniors accompany them on the bus to Abilene for Hardin-Simmons Senior Day. The entire group of thirty nine seniors and sponsors made a congenial pleasant crowd.

MOTHER

What a sweet name, and how much it expresses, it spells care and tenderness and all of an understanding and sympathy are there. God's voice is heard in such a brief and gentle name. Common things of life are wrapped in those six letters: Home and a sheltering roof and food come to us. But greater than that is a mother's love. How much they try to help us and how much they take from us. Yet, no matter what we do, they are always patient, ready to lend a helping hand. What a job a mother's place is, what problems she faces, still she never becomes discouraged, but tries to do things for our good.

Friends? Do you have them? Yes, but our mothers are the greatest friends we have. Why is it they never think of themselves but of their loved ones first.

My heart goes out to those who are motherless. As for myself I wouldn't know which way to turn. We may think ourselves as independent of our mothers; but imagine yourself without that great person, and then you'll see how much you rely upon her.

So my friends speak the word reverently, and never forget for what it stands.

I should like to quote a stanza of a song here. I think you will never forget it because since the first time I heard it, it has lingered with me. I think it expresses much and it holds a special place in my memories.

"M is for the many things she gave me

O is for only that she's growing old.

T is for the tears she shed to save me

H is for her heart of purest gold

E is for her eyes of moonlight shining

R is for the right she has always done

Put them all together, they spell Mother, the word that means the world to me"

Safety in Numbers!

New Figures on Road Maps Help Drivers

New Conoco Maps Make You Think in Hours Instead of Miles

PONCA CITY, Okla. — Numerals that indicate the average driving time from town to town in hours and minutes have been added to United States maps issued by the Conoco Travel Bureau, America's largest free travel service which is maintained by the Continental Oil Company. This new automobile safety development is the most advanced road map improvement in recent years.

The new driving time figures, which are printed in red beneath each mileage figure, are expected to save the driver the trouble of calculating his own probable time and to encourage him to think in terms of reasonable time of arrival instead of the distance he has to cover.

Continental's driving time figures are the result of long investigation and careful checking of practically all of the well-travelled roads in the country. The hours and minutes as they appear on the new maps represent effective but reasonable speeds under normal traffic conditions and over dry roads.

In each case, consideration has been given to the nature of the route and to whether there are unusual number of hills, turns or other features. For example, where a distance of 182 miles of flat straightaway in Arizona requires only 4 hours and 20 minutes at a safe pace, the same distance in the West Virginia hills requires 5 hours and 27 minutes.

The driver is expected to make allowances if he is in the habit of driving unusually fast or slow or if he encounters bad weather or heavy traffic. In test use, motorists seem to have no difficulty in learning how much allowance to make after a few trials, and the easy calculation of the probable hour of arrival appears to set a standard that removes some of the uncertainty and makes for more comfortable driving.

SAVE OUR STANDARD OF LIVING

Rallying to the defense of the American standard of living, an editorial in a recent issue of Collier's magazine tellingly assails a proposal for an ultra-radical federal antichain store bill as "another political effort to destroy national markets and to make business local rather than national."

Under this bill, a company would be forced to pay a tax of $1,000 a store for all stores in excess of 500 — and this would then be multiplied by the entire number of states in which a chain operates! It is obvious that no large chain could continue to exist if this law is passed—the total tax would run far into the tens of millions annually. Collier's states that the bill's "sponsors predict that the chains would be broken up within two years after its enactment." Their purpose is destruction—complete and final—of a system of distribution that has been of untold benefit to both producer and consumer.

Collier's opposes this measure because of its effect on the American standard of living. As it says, "The approach of Congress to proposals such as this — bill is purely political — Whether consumers get better service or worse service, whether prices are higher or lower under one system or another, is distinctly outside the range of political interest — Sometime somebody will have to do some clear thinking and plain talking if our high American Standard of living is to be preserved, restored or raised. Governments can destroy what we already possess but up to now no government has raised any people's standard of living."

The passage of this bill would inevitably result in higher prices to the consumer, or the establishment of great super-markets that would be destructive of independent merchants. It would restrict markets of farmers, throw men out of work and destroy a great source of normal taxes. It is an outstanding example of "business baiting" legislation which is so largely responsible for continued business depression in America.

THE REWARDS OF FIRE PREVENTION

Winter is over. The good days are here. And millions of people will soon start a pleasant round of motoring trips, picnics, camping excursions and other forms of outdoor recreation.

If you are one of these, you will see nature at her best. But do your part to make sure that she continues at her best—by being careful with fire.

There are millions of acres of ravished, blackened stump land in this country that once bore magnificent trees—because some one was careless with a campfire. Some of the finest natural garden spots have been turned into ashy wastes—because someone was careless with a cigarette. Animals and humans have perished horribly in holocausts of raging flame because someone took a chance with fire.

Almost all states have laws against throwing matches or lighted tobacco from cars—obey them rigorously. They are sound laws, designed for your protection, and they deserve your cooperation. An excellent practice is to break a match in two between your fingers before dropping it—then you will know that it really is out.

Don't go on a camping trip without the basic tools of fire control—a shovel and a good-sized bucket. If possible, make a rock fireplace for your fire. Under no circumstances build it near brush, dry leaves or other easily inflammable materials. Do not build a large fire—a relatively small one is adequate for all camping needs. And when you are through with it, really put it out—douse it with water, and shovel dirt over the ash. Be certain that not a spars remains.

The prevention of fire in the outdoors is its own reward—it guarantees that there will be a beauty spot for you to visit next year.

FACE THE FACTS — FIX THE PUMP

After five years of pump priming, the water seems to have gone back into the well. It doesn't do much good to prime a pump unless the mechanism is right to hold the water.

We might as well face the fact that it looks as if too much political meddling with business has just about wrecked the pump.

Walter Lippmann, one of the most fearless and realistic writers in the nation, in a recent syndicated article, shows that mere government spending will never solve the question of depression as long as business incentive is discouraged. Easy credit will only put business deeper in the hole, unless it is permitted to make a profit. On the possibility of business expansion under such conditions, Mr. Lippmann says:

"With capital gains and undistributed profits taxes are piled on enormous surtaxes, all the risks remain but the prospect of profit is virtually gone." In addition to necessity for correcting such a killing tax system, Mr. Lippmann adds that "business will have to be assured that the sit-down strike is not going to be permitted and that there is going to be an end of tolerated violence and of government favoritism in collective bargaining. There will have to be peace with the utilities. There will have to be peace with the railroads and some end to the arrangement by which rates are fixed by one government board and wages by another." And he might have added, a cessation of legislative proposals in Congress to destroy business and drive up the cost of living.

How can pump priming do any good with rotten valves to hold the water after it is raised from the bottom of the well?

BUSINESS FAILURES INCREASE

Commercial failure in Texas during March exceeded those of the preceding month and March of last year both in the number that failed and in the total liabilities of these firms, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research has pointed out.

"According to reports issued by Dun and Bradstreet, Inc., there were seventeen commercial failures in Texas during March compared with fifteen the month before and seven the corresponding month of last year," the Bureau's statement said. "Total liability of these establishments was $248,000, an increase of 62.1 per cent over the preceding month and 145.5 per cent over March last year. For the entire first quarter of 1938 there were 54 failures, compared with 34 during the first three months of last year; and aggregate liabilities were $546,000, an increase of 72.2 per cent over the like period a year ago.

NO FEDERAL CONTROL

Carl Crowley's former federal job, in the Postmaster General's department, will give him no "inside track" with Federal forces in his race for Governor of Texas, according to information from Postmaster General James A. Farley, made public here by Bob Baker, Secretary of the Senate.

Baker had asked Farley for denial or confirmation of a report that the national administration was backing Crowley.

Farley said the National Democratic Committee, which he heads "denies no man the right to aspire to office and has no concern in primary struggles for these nominations."

Despite the machine age, there were about 20,000 blacksmith shops and 248 livery stables in operation at the time the last Business Census was taken.

LOST: CHANCE FOR MARTYRDOM

Newspaper pictures saw Dr. Frances E. Townsend smiling broadly as he waves the pardon from President Roosevelt, which saved the originator of the Townsend "plan"—which, really, never was a plan at all,—from serving thirty days in jail for contempt of the United States Senate. One wonders, though, if the smile worn by Dr. Townsend was really heartfelt. The Presidential pardon made the doctor a news figure again for one week. But the jail term would have made him a martyr for thirty days, and even beyond. That would have been worth many reams of newspaper publicity.

Well, the so-called plan will not get that free publicity now. Dr. Townsend was preparing to go to jail with a typewriter under his arm. Now he will have to take his typewriter elsewhere and it is a safe wager that there won't be nearly so much demand for the products of the machine as if had been set to clattering behind iron bars. It is too bad for the Doctor, perhaps, but we have an idea it is just as well for the country.

It seems a long time since the Townsend scheme for bringing unbelievable prosperity to the country by paying two hundred dollars a month to every man and woman over sixty years of age was the subject of heated controversy throughout the United States. Actually, though it hasn't been very long. Perhaps it seems a long time because so many other "plans" have been breathed into existence since then, to have their brief day of publicity-inspired glory and then to give way to some new and more grandiose plan to bring back prosperity. Some of these plans have been received seriously in quarters which scouted the idea back of the Townsend plan, though they possessed little, if any more economic soundness than the California physician's around and 'round the money goes brainstorm. Best proof of their worthlessness is the fact that we are again—or still—in a depression.

But the plans keep coming. It is well enough that the Townsend scheme didn't receive the shot in the arm that would have been given it by sending its originator to the jailhouse. We're pretty well supplied with plans that are at least newer, even though they are not sounder, than the California physician's penicillin idea.

Depression or Repression

During the last six months, it has been prevalent criticism of the Administration—made by friends as well as opponents—that the President and his official circle apparently greatly underestimated the importance and the severity of the slump in business that began last October.

Whether or not the President actually took this attitude it is obvious that he now views the recession as a major crisis which has endangered all the gains made since the depths of 1932. Two dramatic events occurring recently, vividly illustrate this.

First, his last "fireside chat" was almost startlingly different in tone and attitude from most of its predecessors. As one anti-Administration newspaper, the Portland Oregonian, described it, "There was no baiting of business, no hatefulness of phrase, nor any appeal to class consciousness. Instead there was gratefully evident the recognition of all classes of Americans in a common Americanism, confronted by identical questions to be solved by fraternal solution of all classes of Americans was highly conciliatory. Whether the President will continue to hold such an attitude cannot be said but it is a reasonable deduction that at the present time the Administration has reached the conclusion that it is essential to extend a friendly hand to all elements in our national life, to dispel distrust and bitterness, to cement so far as possible the warring factions, and to precede 'reform' with an attempt at 'recovery.'"

Second, the President's message to Congress shows how seriously he regards present conditions. And this message will continue to be the subject of a tremendous amount of debate and difference of opinion. Briefly, the Administration proposes to fight bad times now with the same weapon it used to fight bad times before—a pump-priming program of a size unprecedented before 1932 and it has three phases: 1. Direct government spending, thru the WPA, the Farm Security Administration, the National Youth Administration, and the CCC. 2. The release of about 2,000,000,000 in new credit through changes in the gold and federal reserve policies. 3. The creation of new jobs through changes in the gold and federal reserve policies. 4. The creation of new jobs through slum clearance, highways, flood control and other public works. It was also suggested that the SEC relax its regulations somewhat in order to make it easier for small business to get new money.

The entire program would result in the government spending $4,500,000,000 more than it is spending now. Yet, while no provision is made for increasing revenue, it is said that this will increase the national debt by only a third of that sum that seemingly magical trick would be accomplished by devaluing part of our vast gold reserve against which no gold certificates exist.

The former spending program, which began almost as soon as the President took office, was approved almost unanimously by Congress and by the nation as a whole. The present program will not meet so enthusiastic a reception. One bloc believes that the former spending program failed, and that another will fail, too. Another bloc, even though it favors increased spending, will be unwilling to approve it unless some means of raising the money is found, so as to not further boost the debt. A third bloc thinks that tax and labor troubles should be corrected before we try anything else and believes that if business were aided in this manner it would go ahead and spend on its own hook, thus obviating or lessening the need for government spending on a larger scale. All such blocs are important and influential and are manned by Democrats as well as Republicans. It is the members of the President's own party, not the opposition, that have made the present session of Congress, culminating in the startling defeat of the reorganization measure, a stormy one for the White House.

There is the situation as it exists today. We are in a period of lethargic business and, while the consensus of expert opinion does not anticipate further declines, it does not anticipate substantial betterment in the near future, either. The Congress is in a rebellious mood. The President has taken it is believed that he will suggest no new "unusual" legislation this year. What that all adds up to is anybody's guess. One good guess is that we will have greater spending, and a mild shot of inflation—but not on as big a scale as the President suggests.

Governor Allred Declares Texas Bread Week

GOVERNOR JAMES V. ALLRED by special proclamation calls upon the citizens of Texas to observe the week of May 9th as TEXAS BREAD WEEK by serving bread, toast, sweet rolls, cake, and other baked wheat foods. The Governor points out that this program is important to the agricultural and industrial welfare of Texas because the increased consumption of bakery products increases the consumption of wheat, flour, milk, butter and cottonseed-oil products. These products all are important to the prosperity of Texas agriculture. Farmers, millers, bakers and grocers are cooperating to put the proclamation into effect.

Gas Company Wins First Round In Federal Court

Federal Judge James C. Wilson sitting in Fort Worth Monday restrained temporarily the cities of Quanah, Memphis and Wellington from enforcing ordinances reducing natural gas rates. United Gas Corporation which serves the cities, filed separate petitions for each city charging that the company had not been given an opportunity to be heard before the reduction was ordered.

This follows closely a federal court temporary injunction against El Paso where the city council had reduced rates without giving the company a hearing. This case was filed by Texas Cities Gas Company, a member of Lone Star Gas System.

A few cities and towns passed rate reduction ordinances or resolutions inviting the Railroad Commission to investigate gas rates, following announcement by two Railroad Commissioners who are running for offices, that the commission would take concurrent original jurisdiction with city councils and investigate gas rates free of charge upon invitation. Lone Star Gas System officials deny that the commission has such a legal right.

"As a result of another decision in the Travis County District Court last week denying the Texas Railroad Commission an injunction against Texas Cities and Community Natural Gas Companies, we expect to proceed by every legal means possible to prevent the Railroad Commission from making this Company a political football and putting it to the enormous and unnecessary expense of rate controversies," Roy C. Coffey, general attorney for Lone Star, said. "We will permit the commission access to our books, records and property over our protest in incorporated cities and towns, as we agreed in open court, until the Commission's jurisdiction is finally settled. Regulation as prescribed by law is not opposed by us, but we will resist any and all illegal aggressions against our gas service for political purposes.

"The state attempted to enjoin the company from trying to prevent the Railroad Commission from exercising original jurisdiction in incorporated cities and towns. We believe this original jurisdiction is exclusive with the City Council in such towns, and we expect to do everything we can legally to keep the Commission within the law in this matter.

"It is evident that since the the Commission has done nothing to make valuations in these towns for seventeen years and has during such time taken the position that they had no original jurisdiction under law in such cities, the Commission's sudden change in this election year is nothing more than a political move."

DO YOU REMEMBER? ?

From the files of the Knox City Journal, May 5, 1922.

Governor Calls Special Election
May 6th is date set to decide who shall represent this district during short term.

The candidates were, E. L. Covey of Goree, Dr. J. T. Horton of Quanah, and G. M. Bryan of Knox City. Mr. Covey was the first to enter the race and inasmuch as Knox County has not furnished the representative from this district for several years, it seems to us that it would be appropriate for the voters of this county to stand by a home man at this time.

Bro. Nash of Knox City has one of those printing presses that mystify rather than satisfy. It is small and intricate, contrary and headstrong. About the time it gets to printing good it quits and any amount of coaxing will not persuade it to print again until it gets ready. We have worked with all kinds of country newspaper presses in years gone by except this particular kind and we must confess that after spending a few hours over there, we came away just as ignorant as we were, in so far as that printing press is concerned, only we did learn that J. O. Nash is one of the best natured fellows we have ever come in contact with as he had spent several days working with the pesky thing and was still in the best of humor. — Monday Times.

FACULTY DINNER

Misses Bernice Swift and Pauline Benton graciously entertained the members of the Knox City School faculty with a dinner Thursday evening, April 28th at the home of the former.

A lovely color scheme of pink and white was carried out. Tall pink candles in gleaming crystal holders lent a mellow glow to the center piece of rose-hued snap-dragons. The white lace table covering was over pink, further carrying out the chosen colors.

The climax of the evening occurred when Mrs. A. M. Whitis was presented with a surprise birthday gift from the other members of the faculty.

Those enjoying the very delightful evening included: Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Whitis, M. and Mrs. E. R. Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. E. Q. Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Baker, Misses Ruth Rice, Pauline Cherry, Delene Reid, Frances Hicks, Mr. Jack Wetzel and Charles Shumaker and the hostess.

 Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
 Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
 Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder trouble may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Hughes Gets School Money From Austin

First payment of transportation aid to Knox County was in the amount of $2617.00, according to a letter of transmittal by the First Assistant State Auditor. This amount was supposed to represent 50 per cent of the transportation aid approved for Knox County by the State Auditor on the basis of the information furnished them by the Equalization Division of the State Department of Education. The original application from Knox County based on reports from the various school districts of the county was for a total of $6,452.70. If $2617.00 represented 50 per cent of the amount to be received by the county, then the county had been cut $1218.70.

Appearing in Austin, Saturday, April 30th, before the Auditors Committee, County Superintendent Hughes succeeded in getting the $1218.70 restored and an adjustment made which resulted in an additional amount of $327.00 added to the original $6,452.70 applied for by the schools of the county.

ONLY YOUR MILEAGE MERCHANT OIL-PLATES YOUR ENGINE

Do you need any reminder of what oil you bought? Not if it delivers smooth long mileage that you can't forget! Then here's the real big value of the little drain tag you get from Your Mileage Merchant: he marks it with your mileage today as you change to his patented

Conoco Germ Processed oil, and then you can keep tabs on how far you go before you ever need another quart in your OIL-PLATED engine.

OIL-PLATING is exclusive with Conoco Germ Processed oil. The patent-guarded Germ Process forces this oil to "magnetize" on to the working parts in the form of implanted slippery OIL-PLATING. The parts that used to wear worst and make your oil "rub out" fastest, now possess this oil-over, deep-seated OIL-PLATING. It can neither drain down while your engine is stopped, nor let loose in all the whirl of 4,000 revolutions a minute. Therefore OIL-PLATING, done only by Your Mileage Merchant, distinctly tells you why your Germ Processed oil and your car money won't do a "disappearing act."
