Seniors To Present Play Friday Night

"No Opera at the Opry House Tonight", a full-length melodrama by Tim Kelly will be presented Friday night, April 6, at 7:30 in the elementary gym by the Senior Class.

The play is an old-fashioned melodrama, written with a fast contemporary flair. The Salami Opera Company is about to fall apart in the dusty hamlet of Desert Rat in the Arizona Territory. And that foul-willian, Baron Wolfgang von Wolfpack, knows that the prima donna, Alma Pumpnickle, is about to inherit a fortune in gold mines. He's force her to marry him at once except that she has no title and family pride prevents him from marrying a commoner. His confederate, notorious confidence woman Liverspot, discovers a young nobleman, Count Ornt, living incognito as Billy Bright, a composer so poor he cannot afford a piano. Through shady means she schemes to have the young couple married so Alma will have a title and when the marriage is annulled Wolfpack will be able to marry her and claim her unsuspected wealth. (There is a hilarious marriage scene where the bride and groom never meet!) Before Wolfpack can claim his prize, however, he must reckon with Madam Violetta (whose operatic performance "must be heard to be depreciated") a sea captain who brings bad news, and other assorted obstacles. The action terminates with a performance of Billy's opera "The Pistachio" and the complete ruin of Wolfpack's evil plot.

The cast includes, Shari Shelton, as Betty; Greg Clonts, as Billy Bright; Bobby Reeves as Big Gulch; Will Whiteley as Claude Hopper; Debbie Wall as Alma Pumpnickle; Larry Callaway as Wolfgang von Wolfpack; Cindy Foster as Lily Liverspot. Patricia Lewis as

TO THE O'BRIEN VOTERS, MUNICIPAL SALES TAX.

Your City Council, after discussions with a number of the citizens of O'Brien has made preparations to submit to the registered voters in the city a municipal 1 percent sales and use tax election to be held on April 7, 1973, along with the city officers election.

Each person would share the sales tax as he chooses to spend-each person pays according to his ability to pay.

Your city provides you more of the services you use every day than any other level of government, yet your city gets less of the tax dollar. The 1 percent sales tax would go directly to your city services.

The sales tax is set by law. It cannot be raised. It is simple to collect as it would be collected along with the state sales tax, gone to the State Comptroller, and is sent back to the city.

O'Brien and of course all the larger ones, have had this tax for some time and report good results, and a relief for the taxpayers.

The tax applies to retail sales, not wholesale.

The tax is deductible from the Federal income tax.

It applies only to those items now taxed by the State Sales and Use Tax. Among many exempt items are cigarettes, water, telephone, food products not prepared for eating, prescription medicines and eyeglasses, cement, gasoline and farm machinery, seed and stock seed. Persons living outside the city limits who shop in town and enjoy our facilities would also pay a fair share.

Any registered voter inside the city is eligible to vote.

Please give this your careful consideration. CITY COUNCIL O'BRIEN, TEXAS

Letter To The Editor

DEAR Mr. Editor: It seems that the people of O'Brien are a night confused over the city election what's come up today.

What with the present situation of gain backwards in city government and the future outlook gain even faster in reverse; it looks like that the votin population ain't got a good enough insight into what's casin' it all.

Now it seems to me that them what ain't already elected ought be the culprits of inefficiency and poor management; so that don't leave nobody but them what's already got things in a mess.

Some of us what's tired of that murky water, them rough roads, them sudden without warm water shutdowns, and them unfixed holes what was caused by water line fixings ain't been without a good deal of patience. We all feel its time to get this thing out in the open, cause them ill rumors don't do much but hatch up to the one what starts 'em over time.

Wit a letter wants a change, but got to vote and change things. Them people what don't want to hurt nobody's feelings or are afraid to change done forgot how this country got to where it is today.

Wit this don't do some good I think I better whip up the gate money and politic for myself the next time.

Streams In Desert Places

By OZELLE STEPHENS

"I am he that liveth, and was dead; and behold, am alive forevermore, and have the keys of hell and death. Rev. 1:5.

The Holy Spirit meant to impress the great truth of the resurrection upon all people because he often mentioned it in the new testament. In fact the bodily resurrection is the cornerstone of our faith and assures us that He was truly the son of God, that Jesus was the living Saviour, our Redeemer and eternal sovereign of Heaven and earth. It is very important that we believe in the One who rose from the dead and that He is the Master of our lives.

Spring Planting Behind Schedule... Texas on Quarterly Report... Summer Potato Plantings Increase... Early Lamb Crop Outlook... Egg Production Crops

Planting schedules throughout Texas are behind schedule from as much as two to four weeks in many areas. All of the state with perhaps exceptions in some sections have adequate moisture for 1973 spring growing. Cotton planting in the Lower Rio Grande Valley has been hampered by a long siege of wet, cold weather. Seeded preparation is considerably behind schedule from the Blacklands to the Valley.

Wheat continues to make excellent growth on the High and Low Plains, Edwards Plateau, East Texas and Central Texas. Oats are also providing good grazing in most areas.

Grain sorghum planting is underway in the southern half of the state but has been slowed due to wet weather.

HOG numbers are down nine percent in Texas as of March 1. On that date there were 1,150,000 head of hogs and pigs in the state. Texas recently has been added to a quarterly hog report, which shows the increased importance of the swine industry in Texas in relation to the rest of the nation.

Texas hog producers intend to farrow 62,000 sows during March to May, which is nine percent more than a year ago.

June-August intended farrowings are estimated at 68,000 head, the same as a year ago.

Of the March 1 inventory of hogs and pigs in Texas, 16 percent were reported as being kept for breeding purposes.

Nationwide, hogs and pigs in the 10 corn belt states are up two percent from a year ago. The December 1972-February 1973 pig crop is six percent above last year. A nine percent increase in sows farrowing was partially offset by a three percent decrease in average litter rate.

EARLY lamb crop in Texas as well as the nation shows a four percent decline from a year ago. For the three-state total-Texas, Kansas and California-the early lamb crop totaled 1,831,000 head. For Texas, the lamb crop totaled 970,000 head. The Jan. 1 inventory of ewes one year old and older was down nine percent. Lambing is reported to be ahead of last year.

Texas sheep and lambs on feed as of March 1 totaled 237,000 head, which is down nine percent from a year ago and 30 percent below Jan. 1. Sheep and lambs on feed are those intended for slaughter being fed a ration of grain or other concentrates or on succulent pastures and expected within the next three months to produce a carcass which will grade good or better.

INTENDED plantings for summer potatoes in Texas this year is estimated to be six percent more than a year ago. Growers intend to plant 15,500 acres this year compared to 14,500 acres last season. Early plantings are underway on the High Plains and will continue through April.

Potatoes in the Lower Rio Grande Valley have emerged and most fields reportedly have a good stand. Growth has been slowed by seasonable cold weather and excessive rains.

EGG production in Texas showed a big decline during February. The production was 20 percent below a year ago and seven percent under a month ago. Nationwide, egg production was down nine percent a year ago and a month ago.

Benefits Derived From Minimum Tillage Farming

Reduced air pollution and lower burning costs—these are two goals of a new farming technique being used by Texas conservation farmers.

Called minimum tillage, the system limits cultural operations to only those essential to crop production.

Archie Lieb, district conservationist for the U.S. Soil Conservation Service at Knox City said with minimum tillage farming, crops are planted directly into a mulch left undisturbed from previous crop. Competition is controlled with herbicides.

"This system leaves a protective cover on the soil surface," Lieb pointed out. "Cover from dead stalks and leaves is one of the best known methods of reducing wind and soil water erosion."

Lieb said farmers using the system in the Knox County area report eliminating four to six tractor trips across a field per year. This not only saves time but it also reduces production costs. Some of these savings, however, are offset by herbicide costs.

Cotton yields generally have been increased by minimum tillage, especially on the sandier soils, Lieb said. Grain sorghum yields have been about the same with minimum tillage.

Lieb listed these other major advantages of minimum tillage:

1. Conserves moisture. The protective mulch of crop residues keeps the soil cooler in the summer and warmer in the winter; this effectively reduces evaporation.
2. Better seedling survival. Surface residues protect young seedlings from wind damage or from being covered by soil dislodged during heavy rains.
3. Increases wildlife food and cover. Stalks, leaves, and scattered seed left on the soil surface greatly benefit quail and dove.

To begin a minimum tillage farming system, Lieb said farmers should either start with a high residue producing crop, such as grain sorghum, or plant the first crop into thick mulch of crop residues. He said minimum tillage systems can fail if a crop such as cotton is planted on land without sufficient cover to protect the young seedlings.

Most farmers adopt equipment on hand for minimum tillage farming. Flex planters, coulters, and picker wheels, are usually mounted on double or triple tool bar hook-ups for planting in surface mulches.

Lieb said Soil Conservation Service technicians, working through the local Wichita Branch Soil and Water Conservation District, can help farmers plan minimum tillage farming systems.

He also said SCS has a booklet available which explains minimum tillage in detail. To get a few copies, contact the SCS office, located at Knox City, or Write Soil Conservation Service, Box 127, Knox City, Texas.

BEWARE OF BLOAT IN CATTLE

With the arrival of warmer weather and rapid legume growth, bloat may become a problem in your cattle. Texas livestock raisers should remember that bloat is often an important cause of cattle deaths.

Bloat is basically caused by the failure of gas to escape from the rumen (stomach) of an animal through normal and regular belching.

Cattlemen should observe cattle closely for signs of bloat whenever animals are turned in on fresh pastures. There are many and varied causes of bloat and many forms of prevention.

Ranchers should become familiar with preventive measures and first-aid treatments that can be applied until veterinary assistance can be obtained. Five measures that can help prevent bloat are:

1. Keep good quality hay in portable racks where cattle are grazing. The dry feed encourages belching.
2. Avoid turning cattle in on wet pastures the first day after a rain. More water means more fermentation and results in more gas formation.
3. Be sure cattle are not extremely hungry when turned on pastures. Feed them with good quality roughage first.
4. Change into pastures gradually. Allow access to pastures for increasing time periods until cattle have full access to pasture.
5. Keep salt and minerals available for animals at all times to help prevent bloat through better digestion.

Another measure for bloat control is the use of poisonous where cattle have had problems in certain pastures. Limited trials conducted by the California Extension Service indicate that frothy bloat in animals was effectively controlled when adequate amounts of poisonous were consumed.

NEW TEXAS GRASSES

Forage producers in Texas now have several new pasture grasses available to fit a variety of conditions, according to a Texas Agricultural Extension Service agronomist. Kibingrass 75 is a warm-season perennial bunchgrass for southern and western areas. TAM Winter-green harding-grass is a perennial cool-season grass for eastern areas.

Lieb said farmers using the system in the Knox County area report eliminating four to six tractor trips across a field per year. This not only saves time but it also reduces production costs. Some of these savings, however, are offset by herbicide costs.

Cotton yields generally have been increased by minimum tillage, especially on the sandier soils, Lieb said. Grain sorghum yields have been about the same with minimum tillage.

calcareous soils. A new South Texas grass is Higgins buffelgrass. Another warm-season perennial bunchgrass is lovegrass. Renner lovegrass being the newest variety. Midland and Coastal bermudagrasses are also popular.

GROWING TOMATOES IN WIRE CAGES

Gardeners can produce a better crop of tomatoes by using wire cages.

A five-by-five-foot section of six-inch mesh concrete reinforcing wire makes an excellent cage about 19 inches in diameter when bent into a cylinder and the ends are bent together. By snapping off the bottom rung, the cage can be pushed into the ground about six inches deep.

Push the cage over each plant. No suckering, pruning or training is necessary. The plant grows up through the cage with some of the leaves and stems coming through the six-inch squares of wire mesh, supporting the plant in an upright position.

Cages allow plants to develop naturally, providing adequate shade for ripening fruit. Sun-scorch and fruit cracking are minimal with caged plants when soil moisture is maintained at an adequate level and foliage diseases are controlled.

Plastic, paper, aluminum foil or heavy organic mulch on the soil in the cage will control weeds and reduce moisture loss. However, organic mulch should be used only after the soil has become warm, as it can slow plant growth if used during cool spring weather.

Six caged plants of the large fruited tomato varieties should provide plenty of tomatoes for a family of four or five during the normal harvest period. Some growers have obtained over 50 pounds of fruit per plant in cages.

A good method of watering tomato plants, either with or without cages is to place cans placed in the ground with only about one inch of the sides above ground. Cut off the top of each can and perforate the bottom before placing it in the ground. Use two cans per plant or 14 cans for six plants. With tomato plants set two feet apart, place two cans about 16 inches apart between plants, starting with two cans on either end of the row.

After plants start to fruit, place one to two level teaspoons of a complete fertilizer in each can once a week. Fill the cans with water two to three times a week or as needed.

This method can also be used for producing fall tomatoes when seeds are started in June, however, black plastic mulch should not be used for a fall crop.

ROLLING PLAINS VEGETABLE AND FRUIT SHOW

Rules and regulations for the Rolling Plains Vegetable and Fruit Show to be held in the Sears Garden Center, Wichita Falls, Texas June 30 are available at the Extension Office.

There will be divisions for both youth and adults with first place winning entries to be sold at auction.

4-H members interested in vegetables or fruit production are encouraged to make preparations to enter the show.

NEW JOHNSONGRASS CONTROL

Studies by a Texas A&M University graduate student show that a chemical called glyphosate may be effective for controlling Johnsongrass, one of the stubbornest field pests in Texas agriculture. The new chemical is strictly experimental and is aimed at Fall Fields. It tests it outperformed terbacil, axolon, dalapon, and DMA plus MH.

Grain Payments Unchanged As Set-Asides Laid

No change has been made in feed grain program payments as a result of the lowering of feed grain set-aside from an acreage equal to 25 percent of a farm's base to 30 percent, reports John Barry Radd State Farm Program Official.

The set-aside acreage reduction is automatic, he said, and producers have no added paper work and no required visits to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) County Office.

"The only change is that the set-aside requirement for producers who enrolled under the 25 percent set-aside plan has been reduced to 10 percent," said ASCS State Committee Chairman Radd.

"These producers will be notified by the ASCS County

Office of the change of their farm. If they already had their set-aside land inspected and measured, it can be re-measured at their request at no additional cost.

"I want to emphasize that payments for all participants in the feed grain program are unchanged—whether they signed under what was the 25 percent set-aside plan or under the zero set-aside plan," Radd said.

He pointed out that payments are calculated on half the feed grain base times farm yield payment rate.

However, those feed grain producers who signed up to set aside acreage are required to set aside 10 percent of their feed grain base and maintain their conserving base in order to qualify for payment. On their remaining cropland acreage they are free to plant any crop they choose, except quota crops which are peanuts, cotton, long staple cotton, and tobacco.

Those producers who signed for the zero set-aside plan agreed to accept a reduced payment in order to have all of their cropland except their conserving base free for planting. They also agreed to limit their feed grain plantings to no more than their 1972 production.

"None of this is changed," the ASCS Committee Chairman said, adding that producers cannot switch from the set-aside they signed up for.

He also said there is no change in the provision which allows haying and grazing on set-aside acreage, with a reduction in payment. The per-acre payment deduction for haying and grazing set-aside land and for alternate crops remain as previously announced.

"The lowering of required set-aside acreage probably was the least disruptive action that could be made in the 1973 Feed Grain Program. And action was required to free up more acreage for planting and livestock use."

"Study of the March 1 planting intentions report showed that not enough corn would be planted—and barely enough soy-

Price Strongly Opposes Diverting Highway Funds

Congressman Price in a letter to the Honorable John A. Blaznik, chairman of the House Committee on public works, expressed strong opposition to the Diversion of Monies in the Highway Trust Fund to finance any form of a mass transit system. Content of the Congressman's letter is as follows:

May 1 Final Date For Wheat Certification

Producers who have signed up in the 1973 wheat program have through May 1 to certify compliance at the Knox County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) office, according to Jerry L. May, County Executive Director of the Knox County ASCS Office.

He pointed out that this final wheat certification date applies to all who signed up in the wheat program, even if they are substituting feed grains for wheat.

Another final certification date in Knox County for 1973 is August 1, for feed grains (corn, grain sorghum) and cotton.

With the wheat certification date only 3 weeks away, farmers who want ASCS measurement service should make their requests as soon as possible. This service, offered at a nominal fee which covers cost, can provide assurance to a producer before he certifies that he is in compliance with program regulations.

Farmers certification means that the producer certifies to his crop acreage, set-aside acreage if any, and that he is in compliance with all program regulations and will continue in compliance throughout the year.

Program payments follow certification and will begin in July, with most payments expected to be made the first week in July.

Correct certification is very important to a producer, since an error can result in loss of some or all of the farm program payment.

"Producers who have questions about certification are urged to call or come in to the ASCS office to get the questions fully answered before certification. Every farmer should know exactly what he is certifying before he signs his name."

Spot checks are made each year on farms participating in the programs. Farms to be spot-checked are selected on a random basis. Knox County farmers have an excellent record and few errors have been found in past years. Usually these have been minor.

Area Students On Honor List

Area students recognized for their academic achievement in the College of Business Administration are Gary D. Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Moore and Terri L. Tankersley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bits Whitten of Knox City. A total of 896 students in the College of Business Administration qualified for the dean's honor list for the 1972 fall semester, according to Dean Jack D. Steele.

To qualify for the honor list, a student must be enrolled in 12 hours of courses, excluding pass-fail courses, and have a least a 3.0 grade point average. Texas Tech uses a 4.0 grading system.

The College of Business Administration is one of six colleges and two schools at Texas Tech University, which will be observing its Fiftieth Anniversary 1973-75. The fall enrollment was more than 21,490.

DEPRESSIVE ILLNESSES

A new HEW pamphlet, Learning About Depressive Illnesses, reports that depressive illnesses afflict as many as 8 million Americans. The pamphlet describes for the lay reader how a person's reactions to a sad or disappointing experience may persist abnormally, resulting in serious emotional depression. The pamphlet reports that depressive illnesses respond well to treatment, and explains treatment methods used. CARBON MONOXIDE RISK

As a follow-up to recent studies showing carbon monoxide in homes causes some 1,400 deaths and 12,000 injuries a year, a team of HEW environmental health specialists is conducting a nationwide carbon monoxide survey this winter. The team is working with health departments in 26 cities to assess the threat of carbon monoxide gas, usually emitted by unvented heating and cooking appliances.

More than 82 million Americans have a gum disease called Perio, the major cause of tooth loss in adults, says HEW's National Institutes of Health. A booklet on Perio is available by writing Division of Dental Health, NIH, 9000 Rockville Pike, Bethesda, Maryland 20014.

BETTER FOOD LABELING

HEW's Food and Drug Administration has initiated a program to give consumers better information about the identity, quality and nutritional value of foods by regulating advertising and labeling by food merchandisers. The proposed regulations will put into practice recommendations of the White House Conference on Food, Nutrition and Health. At the same time the new labeling regulations take effect, FDA will launch an education program to tell consumers how to interpret and use the new label information.

NEW YORK, (ED)—Inflation-fighters may be seeing their labors bear fruit in the more mysterious reaches of the American economy—but don't try to prove it when you go to the supermarket. As more and more money seems to buy less and less, shoppers are taking a personal approach toward dollar-stretching. Cutting down on food bills comes first.

One of the best cures for budget blues is the versatile chicken. Prepared Italian style, with linguini, and served with an orange salad that's just loaded with snuff-fighting Vitamin C, it's the kind of meal that belongs in the file of family favorites.

- LINGUINI CHICKEN
3-4 lb. roasting chicken
2 eggs
1 tsp. oregano
salt and pepper
1 cup red-flavored Italian bread crumbs
2 Tbsps. olive oil
1 cup grated Parmesan cheese
1 jar (10½ oz.) Progresso marinara sauce
1 lb. linguini
- ORANGE SALAD
4 large navel oranges
romaine or Boston lettuce juice of 1 lemon, strained
¼ cup Progresso olive oil
1 tsp. oregano
dash of granulated sugar
dash of pepper
- Peel oranges. Remove all traces of white membrane. Separate orange segments and arrange on bed of romaine or Boston lettuce. Mix all other ingredients. Pour over orange salad. Chill and serve. Serves 4.
