School Exams M E Conference Well Attended

The Knox City school is busy this week with their regular six weeks exams. This is the last period of six weeks, there being only four more weeks of school. June the third has been set for the closing of school.

Mr. J. W. Cloud, Superintendent states that there are seventeen seniors who are expected to graduate this year. These boys and girls with the help and guidance of the teachers are making arrangements for the final services of the school honoring their graduation. Complete calendar with the names of the speakers for the different occasions will be given in the Herald next week.

Mr. Cloud states that the school has gotten a very nice this year. He expressed much appreciation for the cooperation given this year by the parents especially in the Saturday school days. The work done on Saturday, says Mr. Cloud, has been better than the teachers expected. It would be and this fact is due to the cooperation that has been given by parents and the interest shown by the students themselves.

A few weeks back the football grounds were sodded. This is something that the school, the football boys especially, have tried to get done for the past number of years. Now it has been done. By the next football season the gridiron will be covered with a carpet of grass which will make the playing a great deal easier on the boys.

The seventh grade history class heard with much interest the account of the battle of Shiloh as given last Wednesday afternoon by Mr. A. P. Oliver. Mr. Oliver began with his enlistment in the Confederate army and carried the class through a large part of the civil war. He talked about an hour, dwelling longest upon the battle of Shiloh and others in which Commander Albert Sidney Johnson was in charge. Oliver's talk, their eagerness evident in the many questions which they asked.

HOUSE CROWDED AT SENIOR PLAY

The school auditorium was crowded Wednesday night to see Almas Miss Sherlock, the Senior play. The play was directed by Miss Carlisle. The characters were unusually well chosen, each portrayed his part as no other senior could. Miss Doris Stoker, heroine of the play, did justice to the credit given her by the director in selecting Doris for the heavy part.

Another interesting feature was the style show given by the home economics class. In addition to displaying some nice, well fitting dresses, the girls gave a clever number.

NAZARENES TO GIVE OLD FASHION MOTHERS PLAY

Announcement was made Wednesday by Mrs. Keaton, pastor of the local Nazarene church that an old fashion Mothers play would be given at the Nazarene Tabernacle Sunday night. Several characters will be in the play. Every one is invited to the service Sunday evening.

Reverend J. H. Sharp will speak at the graduating exercises of the school Friday night of this week.

M E Conference Well Attended

Spirit of Conference Elevating Report Adopted

The Stamford District M. E. Conference which convened in Knox City this week and adjourned Wednesday afternoon was termed a success from the opening sermon Sunday night throughout the final reports given on Wednesday afternoon.

The way in which the local church entertained the conference was spoken of by the guests as being the best the Conference has known in some years. The ladies of the church who bore the burden of serving the large number of guests, brought credit upon the church and town in doing their service so splendidly. Many of the usually termed (chicken eating preachers) expressed their sincere appreciation of the fine meals served in the dining hall of the church.

The conference began Monday evening with a sermon delivered by Reverend Yarbrough of Throckmorton. Only a few out of town delegates arrived Monday evening; however, Tuesday saw a large number arrive. The Conference proper opened Tuesday morning with a song service led by Reverend Jack Thompson of Welnet, Reverend G. S. Slover gave the scripture lesson which was followed by an address of welcome by Mr. Roy Smith.

Reverend J. C. Mann, secretary of the conference called the roll. Reports of the different Pastoral Charges of the District were given. These reports revealed the fact that the churches of the Stamford District are all about the same condition. While some features of the reports were discouraging, others were very encouraging. It was noticeable that some of the best reports came from the smallest churches, even the Mission churches.

11:00 O'clock Sermon
Dr. A. J. Weeks of Dallas, editor of the Southwestern Advocate, gave the principal message of the morning, or the eleven o'clock sermon.

At twelve o'clock the 175 guests present and some 50 local delegates gathered in the dining hall of the church where a very fine dinner was served.

Afternoon Session
The afternoon session began at one o'clock which was a continuation of the reports of the pastoral charges. Following these reports Dr. W. F. Barnett of Waco, head of the Methodist Orphanage of Waco, spoke in behalf of this institution.

Dr. A. J. Weeks of Dallas then spoke in behalf of the Southwestern Advocate; Reverend Jim Watson of Lubbock spoke in behalf of the Sunday School work and the conference at large and Mrs. Randall of Seymour spoke in behalf of the Women's Missionary Society. Mrs. T. R. Odell of Throckmorton brought a message on the work of the young people.

The afternoon session adjourned with the announcement of the various committee meetings which took place then.

Evening Service
The evening meal was served at six o'clock and all delegates enjoyed a couple of hours visiting together or resting in their respective places of abode. At eight o'clock Reverend H. C. Gordon of Seymour delivered a splendid sermon.

Wednesday Session
The Wednesday morning session opened with reports from the various committees which convened the evening before. Reverend John H. Crow of Munday delivered to eleven o'clock sermon Wednesday following which the delegates again met in the dining hall for another excellent dinner. Another fine attraction of this noon meal was music furnished by the choral club of the school directed by Mrs. E. Q. Warren.

At one o'clock Mrs. Fletcher spoke on the reports of the Social Service and Temperance Committees were made and the report adopted by the Conference. Below are these two reports.

The Conference made a resolution See CONFERENCE Page 2 Column 4

Such love and understanding is all that makes a sorrow like ours bearable. May God's blessings be yours.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Cypert and children.

THE SOPHOMORES HAVE STEAK FRY

The sophomores were entertained with a stake fry, Wednesday afternoon April 27, at Campbells Ranch. After they arrived they explored for a while. Part of them climbed hills while another part preferred to follow small streams of water which ran through the pastures.

Stake was fried and served with bread, pickles, onions, fruit and cake.

Bohannon, Wynell Edwards, Jeff Graham, Irene Holland, Mary Lou Graham, Roger Hammock, Ione Messer, Jonell Robbins, Odell Thompson, Addie Short, Marcellous Stovall, Rowena Wall, Miss Lillian Park, and Mickle Sweeney. KNOX CITY DEFEATED BY RHINELAND 9 TO 4

Knox City ball club was defeated Sunday by Rhine land by a score of 9 to 4, in a very interesting, but unsensational ball game. The local boys contributing 5 errors, which all cost runs, and ultimately, defeated them. The nice pitching of Jess Hill was all that kept the score from piling up on the other side of the score book and many of the runs made by Rhine land were made thru errors by the locals.

Well-well thats just another ball game but we feel that our club will come out from their slump, next Sunday when they jump on the Goree team at Goree so watch their smoke from here out.

The service at the Methodist Church Sunday morning will be in honor of "Mother", states Reverend Sharp, pastor. In addition to this announcement, Brother Sharp states that at the close of the services babies will be accepted for baptism.

The morning service Sunday promises to be good at the Methodist church and every one has an invitation to attend. And don't forget your rose, either the red or white as you need.

The Hathway family are leaving today, for today for Missouri. They will go through Arkansas and spend some time picking berries.

Mr. and Mrs. Arledge were in route to Stamford to see their grandson who is in the Stamford hospital. They were driving along and ran into a truck, which had no lights and had stopped in the middle of the road. Both Mr. and Mrs. Arledge were badly cut and bruised and several bones broken. Not only the grandson is in the Stamford hospital but also Mr. and Mrs. Arledge.

Henry Arledge says his parents are getting along nicely but it will take some time for both to completely recover.

Baptist Bulletin

Because of the funeral at the Methodist church last Sunday morning we dismissed our service and did not take the collection that we had planned for; this collection will be taken next Sunday. Let every loyal Baptist be in his or her place.

Sunday is also "Rally Day" for our Sunday School. A good program has been arranged. Come to church and Sunday School. Honor Mother on National Mother's Day by attending Church and Sunday School. Wear a rose. No one deserves more honor than Mother. Come!

Texas History Class Asking for Credit

The Texas History class of the Knox City school is asking for credit with the State University this year. This is the first year Texas History has been offered in our high school and the instructor, Mr. Dean, has a unique plan of teaching the subject.

The students of the Texas History class have been doing an unusual amount of work in furnishing material for the support of Texas. The chief aim of the course, says Mr. Dean, is to acquaint the class with Texas as she has progressed from infancy to full fledged statehood. Keen interest has been shown by the students in doing research work. A unique method of class work for high school courses has been conducted and with the aid of the extension and loan library at Austin Texas a wide scope of information has been obtained, instructor Dean says.

The students have expressed their desire for research work in history classes because of the pleasure in doing this kind of work. Information has been obtained that is not published in books and through the cooperation of the students information on such subjects as Early Traditions of Texas, The Texas Cowmen, Texas Heroes, Review of Texas Pioneers, The Rivers of Texas, Transportation in Texas, Texas under the different flags, etc has been secured.

The class solicits information of any nature that tends to throw light on the development of our great state, Texas. Following is a representative theme taken from the class.

STEPHEN FULLER AUSTIN

By Essie Mae Leaverton Texas History

Considering the task the complete responsibility for the and its for reaching F. Austin has claims greater colonial pro American history. Texas of her debt of gratitude to the great pioneer of her civilization, always cherished his memory. Austin was not the David Crockett or Daniel Boone type of pioneer. He was a scholar, a trained business man, a legislator, preferring a professional life to one of wildness-breaking; yet the story of his career is marked by episodes as thrilling and as picturesque as any that could be fashioned by a novelist's pen. The pioneer is the man who goes before, looks beyond, counts the cost, and then takes the first step in settling an untried and unknown country. Moses Austin began this work Stephen F. Austin finished it.

Stephen F. Austin was born on the southwestern frontier of Virginia at the end of 1793, amid the midst of historic scenes of the state where the birth of democracy was consummated and consecrated. He was taught from the time he was a little boy to depend upon himself and not to ask anybody to do for him what he could do for himself. When but a lad Stephen was taken by his parents to far away Missouri.

That was a long and tiresome journey through a wilderness infested with many tribes of prowling savages. Here true chivalry of the American frontiersman was exhibited. But courage was never wanting in old Moses Austin. The oxen fed upon the native grass along the route. The family depended for its meat upon the trusty rifle and the keen eye of old Moses, the father and husband. There was no highway with painted signboards to point the way, but only aim biased trails marked here and there with grave of a victim of the Indians. The further penetrate to frontier, Indian massacres were common. Little curly headed Stephen knew but little of the hardships and dangers of the journey and sat for a great part of the journey in the great covered wagon and played on his pumpkin stem flute. The pumpkin stem flute was the fore-runner of the modern flute a few

Knox City was well represented at the various fishing pools over the last weekend. Just how much luck each of the many groups had we are not sure; however, it sounds like many of our fish stories are really "fishy".

When questioned: "Did you go fishing the first, Mr. Frizzell?" he replied, emphatically, "No, I did not go fishing Sunday".

E. Q. Warren must have been right when he stated that he went fishing in 1928.

The only thing wrong with Russell Boyd's fishing, says Dr. Frizzell, is that his fishing is like so many bridge hands, plenty of length but no strength.

And Jimmie Ashcroft is the "angler".

No doubt Spring has come and gone and summer is here for sure. T. E. Robbins is strutting a pair of new "hope it don't rain" trousers this week.

Above it all though, the most exciting happening of the town this week was the arrival of a new Ford at Warren Brothers, Mack, the all-around handy man of the Herald office, assisted in ushering the new Ford into town and beyond a doubt he is "sold" on the car. No, we don't mean Mack is buying a new Ford, he just would like to.

The lady editor took a short drive in the new car and found it to be exactly what it is said to be. The only objection that we could find with the thing is that it belonged to some one else other than the Herald family.

To see one of the new Fords means to want a new Ford.

Knox City has been visited this week by quite a few representatives of insurance companies as well as "roofing men". The hail last Friday night damaged the roof of most all the business houses and every man has had his insurance agent on the job. Repair work is in progress this week on many of the buildings in town.

For some reason or other it seems that a certain group of people are misinformed as to who is the hostess in a certain home when there is an ice cream feed. As a matter of fact, and information as well, those who enjoyed the ice cream feed in the Cooner home Saturday night of last week were the guests of Miss Jerene Cooner and Stella was just the "little sister."

The members of the Christiana Womans Association state this week that they have two city lots planted in black eyed peas. The use of the two lots was donated by Mother Land and Paul Land donated his work in plowing them and planting the peas.

The Christian Womens Association plan to make this black eyed pea crop with donated work all together. They are wondering who will be the first to give their work in hoeing or plowing out the peas.

The purpose of this black eyed pea patch is to feed those in need. It is hoped, says Mrs. McCarty, that every one will work up an appetite for black eyed peas for the crop promises to be plentiful.

We understand that Buck Propps got "hung up" on a nail at the Sinclair Station Tuesday afternoon.

"I am a little thing with a big meaning. I help everybody. I unlock doors, open hearts, dispel prejudice. I create friendship and goodwill. I inspire respect and admiration. Everybody loves me. I bore nobody. I violate no law. I cost nothing. Many have praised me, none have condemned me. I am pleasing to those of high and low degree. I am useful every moment of the day—I am courteous"—and I hope I am the rule of the Knox County Herald.

Mrs. Bigley of Shamrock is here with her mother, Mrs. J. M. Lee.

Mrs. A. E. Hughes of Vera is a patient in teh hospital this week.

Joe Averitt and family spent Saturday night and Sunday n Rule.

Glenn Fox of Rochester spent Sunday here with D. D. Hariston.

Miss Johnnie Cowan spent Monday in Munday.

Mr. Templeton of Benjamin was a Knox City visitor Sunday.

Lloyd Waldrip spent Tuesday in Abilene.

Paul Goodyear of Anson spent the weekend here in the H. M. Warren home.

Mr. Raymond Elliott of Abilene was the guest of Miss Ruth Hammock Sunday.

Mrs. J. E. Clarke and daughter Mary Eliza spent Saturday night here with relatives and friends.

H. W. Warren, Heavy Cagle and Tom Waggoner were in Abilene Monday attending a Ford meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Moody were called to Truscott last week in the death of his nephew Claude Jarrel.

Mrs. Walter Harris of Munday is a patient in the local hospital this week.

Grady Taylor of Forney, was here the first of the week visiting in the D. W. Davis home.

Hassie Huntsman of Stamford was seen driving in Knox City Sunday accompanied by a fine looking young lady. They visited with friends here.

The Junior class of the Knox City high school will give their play in the school auditorium on Friday night of next week.

Mrs. Myrtle Browning has been elected to teach school next year in the Lone Star school. The Lone Star school is fortunate.

Miss Gladys Buckholt returned home Tuesday evening from her visit in the valley. She reports having a perfectly wonderful time.

Hollis Warren of this city with Sid Liles and Chic Pruitt of Munday spent the weekend at Lake Kemp.

Dewey Lee, who has been with relatives near Guthrie, returned home Tuesday afternoon, his sister, Mrs. Bagley and Mr. Harry Whitbank went to Guthrie for him.

Buy a regular $1.00 can of White double action polish and cleaner for 99 cents and receive free a $1.00 can of White Top Dressing. Regular $2.00 value for 99 cents at Ashcroft's

Mr. Frank Cochran and Mr. Rothell of Westover spent Friday evening of last week here the guests of Misses Sydna Edwards and Bernice Raney. The young men came over for the senior play which of course was postponed because of the rain.

When you go to the home of Joe Cook, the comedian, here in New York, you are met by a solemn butler who very carefully takes you coat and hat and then a moment later throws them on the floor. It is one way Joe has of getting a laugh out of life.

New York architects point out that in the apartment houses of the city, kitchens are getting smaller and bath rooms larger.

of Thanks to the Knox City church for its splendid entertainment.

Social Service Report

Convinced of the futility of war as a means of settling international disagreements, the deploring the intolerable financial burdens imposed upon the world by the world war, and recognizing the fact that another world appeal to arms likely would completely wreck, if not entirely destroy civilization, we therefore as a District Conference place ourselves on record as favoring the sympathy and active cooperation of the United States with every possible means and method of international arbitration, and simultaneous disarmament that would tend to make real and effective the Kellogg-Briand pact of the outlawry of war.

We absolutely refuse to serve in war except in conflict of defense.

Temperance Report

Of all the nineteen amendments to the constitution of the United States the 18th had the longest and most detailed consideration. Beginning nearly a century ago with the most detailed consideration. Beginning nearly a century ago with the protest of womanhood the evils of alcohol as a beverage was studied through the years from every possible view point.

For forty years no session of the national congress failed to receive urgent appeals to enact a law that would outlaw liquor.

The 18th amendment to the constitution was ratified by forty six of the forty eight states of the United States, the largest number in favor of any of the amendments.

The basis of American Prohibition is moral; but its capstone is economic; science demonstrated that legalized liquor traffic is a grievous financial burden. It being demonstrated that every dollar received in license tax from that source provided evils that cost the general public two to twenty dollars.

Science established the fact that alcohol is not a medicine, contains no food value, is not even a stimulant and that it is a narcotic poison that creates and appetite for itself. National prohibition was won by education. Its lack of enforcement comes from failure to continue education against its evils.

The legalized traffic was never amendable by law. The present day bootlegger is a national criminal creating in defiance of constitutional law.

The greatest enemy of prohibition is the patron of the bootlegger. The second greatest enemy of prohibition is the drug store selling liquor substitutes and filling illegal prescriptions. The third greatest enemy of prohibition is the medical doctor who prostitutes his sacred office by issuing liquor prescriptions for financial consideration.

In view of the above detailed facts this District Conference resolves and goes on record by vote as follows:

1. To remember that American Prohibition laws are the result of church activities, both in the matter of securing legislative action against liquor and in law enforcement.

2. To renew our affirmation of confidence of both the Womans Christian Temperance Union and the Anti Saloon League of America, and pledge them our continued confidence and active support.

3. We as preachers and laymen pledge ourselves to renew activity both in the matter of education against alcohol as a beverage and in the matter of enforcing laws against it. In every possible way and manner we will use our moral and legal influence against both the bootlegger and his patrons.

4. We will refuse to support for public office any and all candidates about whom there may be doubt as to sympathy with prohibition laws and their enforcement.

Physicians tell us that one condition is nearly always present when a child has a digestive upset, a starting colic or other little ailment. Constipation. The first step towards relief is to rid the body of impure wastes. And for this nothing is better than genuine Castoria! Castoria is a pure vegetable preparation made specially for babies and children. This means it is mild and gentle; that it contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics. Yet it always gets results! You never have to coax children to take Castoria. Real Castoria always bears the name:

and prosperity are a matter of real concern to us. We fully realize that farming is a serious business and that making a success of it is a most worthy accomplishment.

Fortune does not smile upon the business man when the people of his town and surrounding country are unable to maintain a secure financial position.

We can not hope for any large measure of success unless the good folks of this community prosper.

For the present, at least, the possibility of making money on the farms lies in the ability of the farmer to cut the cost of production through the application of sound farming principles and the intelligent use of improved methods.

Texas History

at a boarding school in Connecticut. When far away Missouri was reached after months of wearisome travel, Moses Austin was not willing that his children should remain in the wilderness alone, but should attend the best schools in the country. So in keeping with his ideal Austin was sent to Connecticut.

Of the primary education of Stephen we know little except that it was evidently not neglected. He was eleven years old when his fathers friends decided that he should go to Bacon Academy. In connection with Stephen's education at Bacon Academy there has been two letters written by Moses Austin, preserved. The first, which was addressed to one of the directors at the Academy. In this letter Moses requested that his son be prepared for Yale. He expressed the desire that his son learn music. The other letter was a code for the social conduct of Stephen. Stephen fulfilled his fathers ideals. Contrary to his fathers plans however, Stephen did not attend Yale but crossed the mountains and entered Transylvania University at Lexington Kentucky. In school, Stephen applied himself diligently, becoming skilled especially in the ancient language and mathematics. But along with his education the christian influence brought into his very earliest life grew stronger and more beautiful. He was a real boy.

When young Austin left the University at the age of 17, he was fitted by habits of life and training to know the value of frontier experience and the school had given him the cultural as well as the practical lessons which enabled him to cope with the diplomats of Spain in Mexico. He was to write his name in the hearts of men and nations in handing to the United States government a territory which Napoleon had intended to use as a bomb with which to destroy the great nation, and which Spain would use as a bone of contention until she herself could destroy the new republic. This silent, thoughtful youth, who oftentimes played the flute in silence, gave to America a world, and to the world an America. In 1910 Austin found himself engaged in a series of enterprises which, though they did not bring him wealth, gave his experience.

Moses Austin was getting old Austin had gone to Missouri with the intention of making a fortune. He made far more money than he had hoped. But as he grew older he engaged in some unsafe enterprise. The whole world was on the verge of bankruptcy. Moses bought shares in the bank of Missouri. Just at the time Stephen came home from college his father was near ruin. Stephen engaged in the bank with the hopes of saving father. The property of both was lost. After the bank failure there was other work for Stephen F. Austin. Governor Miller appointed him to the judgeship of a circuit in the federal court of Arkansas. This was a distinction that has never come to any man so young. After two years Austin quit this work and moved to New Orleans where his father was. Stephen F. entered newspaper work in the Crescent City.

In New Orleans consulted and advised his father. The two talked over a plan to take a Colony to Texas. Without delay Moses Austin began arrangements to visit Texas and as permission to establish a colony. Moses went to San Antonio to see Governor Martinez. Martinez was rude to Austin and ordered him to leave. As Moses walked away he met Baron de Bastrop. With Bastrop's aid Moses got permission to bring a colony to Texas. On his way home Moses met many hardships. When at last he did reach home he was sick from hunger and exposure. June 10, 1821 he died. What the father had begun the son was to finish.

Stephen reached the Guadalupe on August 10, 1821. Martinez told Austin to chose his home. After choosing a beautiful home Austin went for his colonist. Austin's friend J. L. Hawkins, helped him fit a small ship, the Lively Austin told the men in charge of the ship to go up the Colorado river until they found a good settlement and then to fortify themselves against the Indians. The Lively was never heard from. Austin reached Texas and decided to go to Mexico.

His two trips to Mexico City mark, perhaps, the most exciting periods in Austins life. The first was a training school for the years to follow. It taught him much about the ways of Mexican officials and of Mexican people. It did much to develop within him that tact and understanding which enabled him for so long to hold the trust and confidence of the Mexicans. Going to Mexico City to secure a confirmation of his grant, he brought into the political ferment which began with the overthrow of the Spanish Colonial Government and the usurping of the throne by Iturbide, and which culminated in the revolution that established the Republic of Mexico.

Throwing himself on the side of the liberals, Austin worked tactfully toward the overthrow of Iturbide, and was one of the leaders in the movement which forced the emperor to abdicate on May 19, 1823. The liberal constitution of the Mexican Republic was drafted largely by Stephen F. Austin. Austin had little trouble in receiving a confirmation of his grant. On April 18, 1823, Austin started for Texas.

On his way home Austin stopped at Monterey where he received the rank of Colonel. By 1825 San Felipe de Austin had become a busy settlement. People were coming to the settlement from the United States and strong towns were being formed. Mexico passed a new law and Austin went to Mexico again.

In the Mexican Capital Austin again ran against intrigues. Here he met Anthony Butler, confidential agent of President Andrew Jackson, who had sent instructions to buy Texas from Mexico for any price up to $5,000,000. A band of European land speculators were working to secure the separation of Texas from Coahuila and its incorporation as a territory in order that they might purchase for almost the vast extent of public lands in Texas. Notwithstanding the fact that Jackson wanted Texas for her public lands, Butler entered the company and promised to wait until public lands were bought. Austin was offered a bribe of $1,000,000 to cast his influence with the company. He refused. Austin thwarted one of the biggest land schemes that has ever been planned. On the way home he was thrown in prison.

For three years Austin was held imprisoned without trial, nine months of which he was confined in a dungeon. He had no lights and little food. He wrote accounts of each day in a diary. Often he asked for books but got none. Finally he was pardoned for an offence he had never committed.

After his terrible years in prison, disappointed and heartsick, Austin entered active Army service. He gave his own means to the equipment of the Texas soldiers, who were restless and eager to take arms against Mexico. The first fight occurred at Gonzales, October 2, 1835. Austin was elected commander and chief of the army of the people. After organizing the army, he marched to San Antonio, the Mexican stronghold, to which place Mexican soldiers had been sent to take arms away from the Texans. The Texans captured Goliad.

A general meeting was held to consider all matters pertaining to the welfare of Texas. Austin with several other men were sent to the United States for aid. Austin pledged his private fortune on the way there to secure loans. Austin expressed his belief that Texas would be admitted to the Union and admitted she was. Austin was one of the candidates for president but soldiers wanted Houston. Austin was appointed Secretary of State, December 27, 1836 Austin died from pneumonia.

Austin gave his love, his ideal of a home, his happiness, to Texas. Although he earned many girls with his flute he gave up that ideal for the people of Texas. Monuments have been erected in his honor. Our Capitol was named for him. A teachers College bears the name of the "Empire Builder."

Stephen Fuller Austin was the father of "our" Texas.

Where Does She Get Her "Pep?"

SHE doesn't look seventy. Nor feel that old. The woman who stimulates her organs can have energy that women half her age will envy!

At middle-age your vital organs begin to slow down. You may not be sick, simply sluggish. But why endure a condition of half-health when there's a stimulant that will stir a stagnant system to new life and energy in a week's time?

This remarkable stimulant is perfectly harmless. It is, in fact, a family doctor's prescription. So, if you're tired of trying every patent medicine that comes along, tell the druggist you want a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin. Take a bit of this delicious syrup every day or so, until you know by the way you feel that your lazy liver is again active, and your bowels are poison-free.

Men, women, and children who are run-down, who tire easily, get bilious spells or have frequent headaches, are soon straightened out when they get this prescriptive preparation of pure pepsin, active senna, and fresh laxative herbs. (Syrup pepsin is all the help the bowels need, and you do not form the very bad habit of always taking cathartics.)

Keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin in the house, and take a stimulating spoonful every now and then. It is all that a great many people ever take to keep strong and vigorous, and absolutely free from constipation.

Advertisements Printed for Your Convenience

Suppose all the advertisers in your favorite newspaper should stop advertising for a week.

What inconvenience would result! How much telephoning and shopping around to get the answers to such questions as: "What's playing at the theatres? When will that new vacuum cleaner be on sale? Who is offering shoe bargains? Where can I buy that dry shampoo Emily told me about?"

The answers to these questions, and to hundreds of similar ones that people ask every day, are news, VITAL news. You're really interested to learn that a certain store is selling a product you need for a price you can afford to pay.

Furthermore, the advertisements save your time, for you can read them quickly. They save your energy, for you can read them at home and plan just what to buy. And they save your money by enabling you to adjust your needs to the limitations of your budget. In short, they are pocketbook editorials, condensing and interpreting for you the merchandise news of the day.
