Politicians reveal plans

By RICK WHITE

U.S. Rep. Larry Combest has always been a friend of Texas agriculture. Now, he's in a position to be its biggest ally.

A landslide winner in Tuesday's General election, the Republican incumbent from Lubbock will be officially elevated to the position of Chairman of the House Agriculture Committee in January when the 106th Congress convenes.

Combest earned an eighth term in Congress by receiving 83 percent of the vote in his race against Democratic newcomer Sidney Blankenship.

Combest said American agriculture has been missing a strong advocate and that's where he will step in.

"I don't think the message about how important agriculture is to the United States economy is getting out," Combest said.

He plans to try and educate the American public and his fellow legislators "about the difficulties, perils, trials and tribulations of the American farmer and the huge investments and risks it takes to continue to provide the cheapest food in all the world."

He also hopes to install a safety net in the current farm program to protect farmers facing failed crops and record-low prices like this production year.

"We need to get a safety net in place," Combest said. "This year proves the need for one in spades."

Combest's plan is to put money aside each budget year to help compensate producers during crisis periods.

Area state legislators Pete Laney and Teel Bivens were also re-elected Tuesday.

Laney was elected to his 14th term as State Representative for District 85 and is expected to be named to his fourth term as Texas Speaker of the House.

The Hale Center Democrat gained 74 percent of the vote while fending off Republican challenger Hollis Cain of Springlake for the second-straight election.

Bivens, an Amarillo Republican, ran unopposed while gaining his third term as State Senator in District 31.

Both said the state's $4 bil-

A QUICK READ OF THE NEWS

FSA begins payments

The Bailey County Farm Service Agency office began making $2.8 million in payments to Bailey County farmers Friday to help offset heavy losses resulting from low commodity prices.

"These income loss assistance payments are part of a relief package designed to help farmers whose livelihoods are on the line," said Bailey County FSA executive director Kim Hanlin. "They will make the difference for many family farmers who can plan for a spring crop now instead of a spring auction."

The payments will be issued only to those farmers who were eligible under the 1996 Farm Bill for fiscal year 1998 final Production Flexibility Contract (PFC) payments, sometimes called market transition payments.

A total of $2.8 billion is being provided in relief payments to farmers across the country. Although $3.057 billion was appropriated for the payments, Congress mandated that $200 million be made available for assistance to dairy farmers.

As a result, individual farmers will receive about 49.72% of their total FY 1998 PFC Payment.

"You don't have to file an application to receive these payments," said Kim Hanlin. "They will be automatically paid to eligible farmers."

USDA intends to make announcements about other provisions in the relief package, including disaster relief, in the upcoming weeks.

County voter turnout lowest in this decade

Despite reports to the contrary, voter turnout in Bailey County for Tuesday's General Election was the lowest it has been this decade.

According to the Bailey County Clerk's office, 50.5 percent of registered voters cast ballots Tuesday, which is slightly below the figures for previous gubernatorial elections in the 1990s.

The total number of ballots cast Tuesday was 1,852. There are 3,661 registered voters in Bailey County according to county records.

In 1990, the voter turnout was 52.8 percent and in 1994 it was 52.1 percent. In Presidential election years, the numbers were 66.6 percent in 1992 and 54.8 percent in 1996.

Tuesday's figures caught Bailey County Judge Marilyn

1990	52.8

Cox off guard.

"I'm surprised, real surprised," Cox said. "I just assumed it would be a record-breaking year."

Most polling officials felt it was one of the heaviest turnouts they had seen, Cox said. Five of the seven polling places ran out of ballots.

Plus, a record number of 556 ballots were received during early voting, which was two to three times the normal turnout.

Mules wrap up district title with 14-0 win

WOODROW — Call them selfish.

After winning their first district title since 1979, the Muleshoe Mules had no intentions of sharing it.

Sticking to a vanilla game plan, Muleshoe did enough to lick Lubbock Cooper 14-0 on Friday and captured the District 2-3A title outright.

Greg Pena rushed for 105 yards and a touchdown and Muleshoe held Cooper to 92 yards and forced three turnovers while winning its fourth-straight game.

"We didn't want to share that gold football (district trophy) with anyone," Muleshoe coach David Wood said. "It wasn't pretty, but a win is a win."

The Mules (9-1, 5-0) will face District 1-3A co-champion Amarillo River Road (6-4, 4-1) in the bi-district round of the Class 3A Division II playoffs next week at a time and site to be determined. It will be Muleshoe's first playoff appearance since 1983.

Sanford-Fritch edged River Road 19-16 to create a three-way tie for first in 1-3A.

Muleshoe took an early 7-0 lead against Cooper on its second drive when Pena scored from a yard out with 5:39 left in the first quarter.

Taking advantage of a short field, the Mules drove 42 yards in four plays and appeared headed for an easy win.

But Cooper (3-7, 1-4) had other plans.

Clogging the middle with an eight-man front, a game Pirate defense kept the Mules off the scoreboard until Matt McClanahan (101 yards of total offense) scored on a 26-yard run two minutes into the fourth quarter. Manuel Campolla's 29-yard run on a reverse set up the score.

After the teams traded turnovers, Lubbock reached the Muleshoe 10 on a 41-yard pass from Stan Finch to Lynney Tucker.

But after consecutive sacks, Campolla intercepted Finch's fourth-down pass at the two-yard line to end the threat.

Muleshoe finished with 277 yards, but was sabotaged by untimely penalties and two turnovers.

Posting its fifth shutout, Muleshoe has allowed just 55 points all season.

Corrupt cop hits lucky streak

SAN JOSE, Calif. - A California ex-cop now in jail on burglary charges has been awarded early retirement and a $27,000-per-year pension because his addiction to gambling has left him officially "disabled".

The San Jose, Calif. Police and Fire Retirement Board voted 3-2 Thursday evening to offer a disability pension to former city policeman Johnny Venzon, Jr., who is currently in the Santa Clara County Jail charged with a string of thefts allegedly undertaken to support his gambling habit.

He has been charged with 14 separate counts of burglary, one of grand theft, and one of receiving stolen property. His bail is set at $300,000.

Medical experts have said that Venzon suffers from obsessive-compulsive disorder centered on gambling, which they said represents a "pathological" problem standing in the way of his career with the police.

City Attorney Joan Gallo said "the board granted his retirement because of his psychiatric disability not because he was a gambler."

Texas Republicans make history

AUSTIN — The Republican Party of Texas has dramatically changed the course of Texas history, according to Susan Weddington, Republican Party of Texas Chairman.

Voters have elected Republicans to every statewide office for the first time since Reconstruction.

On November 3rd, Texas voters elected a Republican to every statewide seat including: Governor, Lt. Governor, Attorney General, Comptroller, Land Commissioner, Agriculture Commissioner, Railroad Commissioner, and all the Judicial seats. The Republican Party of Texas maintained the GOP majority in the Texas Senate, and gained 3 additional seats in the Texas House of Representatives.

Additionally, preliminary analysis reveals that Republicans made substantial gains at the county level.

"The Republican Party of Texas had clear goals this election year and we achieved or made substantial progress toward all of them," said Weddington.

PLANS

lion budget surplus and education were the top issues the Texas Legislature faces this year.

"Speaker Laney plans to meet with other members of the Legislature to make sure they plan to follow the same conservative fiscal policy that produced last year's record surplus," a Laney spokesman said.

Laney would also like to see homeowners get school property tax relief and the establishment a "rainy day fund" for tough economic times.

Bivens, Chairman of the Senate Education Committee, said he would also like to see tax relief because of the budget surplus and more state dollars put into education.

Bivens is a strong proponent of the state helping school districts build new school buildings.

On the agriculture front, Bivens said he will closely monitor a state supreme court's ruling on the so-called "right-to-recapture" law in regards to water rights.

Pesticide applicators need to check CEUs

Bailey County Extension agent Curtis Preston reminds pesticide applicators to check to see if they have the necessary continuing education units (CEUs) to renew their license. Many private applicators, as well as all commercial and non-commercial applicators, face a Feb. 28 renewal date.

"Applicators should check their CEUs while there's still plenty of time to get the credits," Preston said. "It's important to stay informed of changing regulations as well as new products and new application methods."

Private applicators must renew their license's every five years and obtain 15 CEUs during that period. Two credits must be in integrated pest management and two in laws and regulations. Applicators must self-certify their credits by listing them on the renewal form that they should receive by early December.

Private applicators also may earn the required credits by passing a comprehensive recertification exam. This test costs $50 for each attempt. After passing, an applicator will receive a certificate of completion for 15 CEUs.

Commercial and non-commercial applicators renew each year and must earn five CEUs annually, including one CEU in each of two of the following categories: Laws and regulations, integrated pest management and drift minimization.

Preston advises pesticide applicators to check with their county Texas Agricultural Extension Service office for courses offered, or call the Texas Department of Agriculture at 1-800-TELL-TDA or (512) 463-7548 for a list of approved courses.

THE GENERAL PUBLIC & CO-OP MEMBERS ARE INVITED TO ATTEND

BAILEY COUNTY ELECTRIC CO-OP'S SECOND COMMUNITY MEETING

- November 12, 1998 Springlake-Earth Auditorium 9:30 a.m.
- November 12, 1998 Lazbuddie School Cafeteria 2:30 p.m.
- November 13, 1998 Bailey County Coliseum 9:30 a.m.
- November 13, 1998 Morton Activity Building 1:30 p.m.

HOW WILL YOU BE PURCHASING ELECTRICITY IN THE FUTURE?

The movement through the Federal and State Government is toward electric industry deregulation. There very well could be a bill passed with some kind of deregulation in the next legislative session. We will be discussing the pros and cons of purchasing electricity and the effect on the electric utility.

What will you be giving up?

We are concerned that people need to understand the way they will purchase electricity. Please make a point to join us for this very important meeting.

Winter Residents

Sandhill cranes are flocking to the Muleshoe National Wildlife Refuge, some in transit and some to take up winter residence. The cranes summer in Canada and return to Texas and New Mexico each fall to enjoy milder winter temperatures and readily available food supplies.

Sandhill Cranes flock to Refuge

By LESLI RADFORD
Journal staff writer

Bailey's County's winter residents are arriving on schedule, according to Don Clapp, Muleshoe Wildlife Refuge Manager.

Despite a lack of summer rain, Clapp said 5,000 sandhill cranes were counted at the Refuge last week — more than expected. Additional arrivals are expected later in the season. There were approximately 2,500 cranes wading in the lakes Monday night.

"We had four and a half inches of rain all year," said Clapp. "We received 1.8 inches last Saturday which helped the lakes."

Sandhill cranes migrate to the lakes of the Refuge twice a year, during the spring and the fall. They usually spend their winters on the plains and migrate back north to Canada during the summer.

Clapp said the birds start flying into Texas during September and continue to arrive until the first of December. An all-time peak of 250,000 cranes was witnessed in February 1981.

He explained that the birds fly in migratory patterns similar to an hour glass. "They branch out in the north and come migrating season, they fly toward the Central Flyway, which is the middle of the states. Once they hit the southern region, they branch out again."

Cranes will fly several thousand miles to migrate to warmer weather for the winter.

Clapp said the birds are favoring Paul's Lake this season because, "It's the only lake that has held water this year." He said that earlier in the summer, all the lakes dried up and there was a worry that there would be no water for the migrating birds.

Paul's Lake now stands under five inches of water, Clapp said.

"The cranes like shallow water. They are wading birds."

Clapp said that the birds usually favor two of the larger lakes on the refuge, Goose and White Lake, because of the open area around them. "They like open areas with no brush," said

Clapp. "It makes them feel safe from their predators such as the coyote."

A stable number of 7,000 cranes will visit the refuge in transit and approximately 1,000 will winter here.

Clapp explained that when the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) started in the late 1980s, the migration of cranes to the refuge decreased.

"Most of the land they fed on was being planted in milo. They prefer grains. How many birds land here depends on how much food and water they have."

Cranes mostly feed on grains and insects.

The cranes stand three to four feet tall, are grey in color and when mature, they develop a red mask. They generally weigh 12 lbs. and live 20-30 years.

The birds mate for life and usually lay two eggs annually with one surviving chick. At the age of three, the chicks take off on their own to mate.

The Muleshoe Wildlife Refuge is the oldest national wildlife refuge in Texas. It was established as a wintering area for migratory birds and sandhill cranes. The refuge office is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m.-4:30 p.m.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

THE LIFE OF A PETTY KING

KINGS WERE NUMEROUS IN BIBLICAL DAYS. EVERY CITY HAD ITS OWN KING MUCH AS TODAY WE HAVE MAYORS TO CONDUCT AND OFFICIATE THE BUSINESS OF THE CITIES. HOWBEIT, THE MODERN MAYOR MUST CONSULT THE CITY COUNCIL, ALDERMEN, ETC., THE BIBLICAL KINGS AND THEIR AURA OF ROYALTY ENABLED THEM TO ASSUME MUCH GREATER AND DICTATORIAL POWERS, WHEREAS MODERN MAYORS ARE CONCERNED WITH BUDGETS, UNION DEMANDS, TRADE AGREEMENTS, AND COMMERCE FOR THE CITY IN GENERAL, THE BIBLICAL SMALL-TIME KING WAS MORE CONCERNED WITH WHAT CITY HE WOULD MAKE WAR ON FOR THE PURPOSE OF PLUNDERING, TAKING SLAVES, AND ANNEXING TERRITORY. HIS NEXT CONCERN WAS WHAT ENEMY MIGHT ATTACK HIS CITY FOR THE SAME REASONS. ALL OF WHICH FORCED THESE ANCIENT KINGS INTO A SERIES OF ALLIANCES WITH THEIR NEIGHBORING CITIES TO FORESTALL SUCH A CALAMITY BEFALLING THEM, THE END RESULT WAS A MAZE OF COMPLICATED POLITICAL RELATIONSHIPS WHICH TODAY MIGHT TAKE A COMPUTER TO UNSCRAMBLE!

Feedlot Causes of Death

BAXTER BLACK
ON THE EDGE OF COMMON SENSE

In my career as a feedlot veterinarian, determination of cause of death was an integral part of the doctor crew's chores. I devised an extensive list with coded causes. It included everything from ACUTE PNEUMONIA and CHRONIC PNEUMONIA, BLOAT and ENTEROTEXEMIA to MALIGNANT CATARRHAL FEVER and ENDOCARDITIS. But to allow that no death went uncoded, the list concluded with UNKNOWN and OTHER.

To the credit of the first rate feedlot doctors I worked with, these last two categories were small in number. UNKNOWN was an essential classification 'cause sometimes . . . ya just don't know.

Other times you know the cause of death, but it happens so seldom it doesn't justify a specific code fo it's own.

Say, for instance during the night a steer escapes the pen, makes his way to the ensiled corn pit, eats himself under a ledge horn high, it falls on him and suffocates. You might have a general category RAN OUT OF BREATH, but you don't

Granted that would be a broad enough classification to include other examples like steer that got loose in the chronic pasture and was chased by #2 heelers till he collapsed and died from exhaustion. But RAN OUT OF BREATH is awful clost to QUIT BREATHING as a cause of death and not usually a specific enough explanation for the cattle feeding customer, i.e. "Well, Mr. Torluemke, you lost head last week."

"My gosh, what did they die of?" "They just quit breathin'."

SHOT was never a coded cause although there were occasions when it was penciled in. I remember a big on-the-fight Bramer steer escaping into a neighboring suburb. We followed him with the dead wagon. He died on a front lawn.

There were also those who died of HBCV, HIT BY COMPANY VEHICLE. But to have it happen so frequently that it deserved its own code would not build customer confidence in your day to day operation. We didn't have a code for SCARED TO DEATH. But I remember two cases that happened as a direct result of the consulting nutritionist trying to read bunks from his Cessna 180. I simply turned them in as NUTRITIONALLY RELATED.

More come to mind that fit in the OTHER category:

SUICIDE, LACK OF SLEEP, TANK HEATHER ELECTROCUTION, CLAUSTROPHOBIA, COPENHAGEN ALLERGY, IMPERSONATION OF A GAME ANIMAL and OLD AGE. All unusual but possible occurrence. Which just goes to show we need to leave a line in our own biography for the unexpected.

Court finds ignorance not adequate defense

AUSTIN—Ignorance of the Texas Open Meetings Act is no excuse for violating it, the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals ruled last week.

"The act places a duty upon members of governmental bodies to hold open meetings and a . . . duty to find an exception to the general rule if they desire to have a closed meeting," Judge Morris Overstreet wrote in an opinion joined by the entire nine-member court.

"Neglect of this duty will subject a member of a governmental body to criminal sanction," Overstreet said in the case involving the former president of a South Texas school board.

The appeal was brought to the state's highest criminal court by Joseph Louis Tovar, former president of the Somerset Independent School District Board, The Associated Press reported.

Tovar was found guilty by a jury of knowingly participating in and knowingly calling a special, closed-door school board meeting in 1994 that violated the Open Meetings Act.

According to court records, subjects discussed at the meeting included whether and where a new high school should be built and a policy for observing a moment of silence during the school day.

Tovar's punishment originally was assessed at six months in jail and a $500 fine on each of the two indictments. That sentence was suspended in the district court. He was instead ordered on community supervision for six months.

The Court of Criminal Appeals agreed to consider whether a lower appeals court was wrong to uphold the convictions based on a conclusion that a public official can be guilty of violating the law even when the official is unaware the meeting isn't permitted.

Tovar argued that jurors should have been instructed that he could be found guilty only if they found he called or participated in the meeting knowing that it wasn't permitted.

Tovar's appeal was supported by groups including the Texas Municipal League, Texas City Attorneys Association and the Texas Association of School Boards Legal Assistance Fund, The AP reported.

Suzy Woodford, executive director of the government watchdog group Common Cause, applauded the ruling. "We hope this will send a message to people that they need to follow . . . not only the letter but the spirit of the law and realize that the public's business must be done in public.

"The law is available. Public officials need to know what the law is that covers them, and not having read the act and not having a clue is no excuse," she told the AP.

UT chief seeking to reopen UT Tower

University of Texas President Larry Faulkner last week asked the UT board of regents to allow tours of the observation deck at the top of the 28-floor UT Tower.

The board of regents will decide on Faulkner's request at a Nov. 11-12 meeting in Houston.

The observation deck served as a sniper's nest for rifleman Charles Whitman, who shot and killed 14 people and wounded 32 others on Aug. 1, 1966. The deck was closed in 1975 after several students jumped from it to their deaths.

Faulkner said he believes that reopening the deck to the public will help Texans to heal bad memories associated with the 307 foot -tall landmark.

The Tower "is the strongest image uniting members of the university community," Faulkner said in a report published by the Austin American-Statesman.

Faulkner wants the observation deck open by the May 1999 graduation. "We should actively use this icon of higher education in positive ways," he said.

■ Texas Health Commissioner William R. Archer III last week lifted a requirement that Galveston Bay oysters be removed from their shells and packed in containers labeled "For Cooked Consumption Only." Harvesting in the bay was halted from June 26 to Oct. 3, after a diarrheal illness was linked to oysters from the bay. The shucking and labeling requirements were imposed Oct. 3.

■ Senate Finance Committee Chairman Bill Ratliff, R-Mount Pleasant, last week said a $2.6 billion surplus — not the $6.3 billion surplus candidates have projected for the biennial state budget — is more realistic when the demands of Texas' growing population are taken into account.

The Author of Life Will Have the Last Word

Recently my younger brother Jim and I walked among headstones dotting the small country cemetery nestled near the Edith Community a little over 8 miles outside of Robert Lee, Texas.

Well-kept but absolutely blending in with their surroundings, the headstones had grown up where once only mesquite trees and prickly Gerry, and only one date. Date of birth. Date of death. The same.

Not far away was a larger stone bearing two names, a mother and child. The date of her death was the date of the birth, and the death of her child. And it pointed to another death. A death of dreams. Her dreams, of course. But also the dreams of a husband/father as on that day the sun of his deepest joy was unexpectedly eclipsed by an even deeper sadness.

More than a few of the names in that country cemetery I recognized. Names of Robert Lee families. Harmon. Bruton. Boykin. King. Peay.

And names like Key and Shropshire. Both strains of blood run in my veins.

And Shelburne. The first time I ever saw that name chiselled on a headstone, it caught me by surprise. Still makes me feel funny. It shouldn't.

Alf Key, my great-granddad, donated the land for that cemetery. His bones lay there. Not far from the windmill and ruins of his old homestead. As do D.P. Key's, his son and my grandfather, and Wilma Shelburne's, D.P.'s daughter. My mother.

The pattern on the quilt is emerging. Death hasn't skipped a single generation. And it won't skip mine.

But the Author of Life will have the last word in the story.

Curtis Shelburne is minister of the 16th & D Church of Christ in Muleshoe.

pears had dotted the landscape. Not far off, but far enough away to be absolutely unobtrusive, was a defunct country café and a flock of goats.

A few jackrabbits darted in and out between the stones, oblivious to the mute but powerful witness those granite markers bore to untold stories and the fabric of life and love, tragedy and triumph, joy and sadness laid out before us in the patchwork quilt of humanity's struggle. Jim and I walked, talked, and wondered about the stories.

Just a little way over from where we were standing was a short white stone, a little stone lamb resting on its top, bearing the names of three boys, triplets we supposed, Terry, Kerry, &

Brenna Emerson of Mesa, Ariz., served as the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Fara Black of Muleshoe, and Archelle Simmonian of California. The maid's floor-length dress was hunter green, silk-faced satin with an A-line silhouette. They each carried white rose bouquets.

with Venetian rose-point, seed pearls and iridescent sequins, covered the bodice, trimmed the puff sleeves, the hem of the floor-length gown, and the semi-cathedral train.

The same decorative designs were repeated on the tiara-headpiece, which featured a detachable, tulle chapel-length veil and blusher. Her cascading bouquet consisted of white roses and pink star-gazer lilies.

Something "old" was a pearl necklace given to the bride by her maternal grandmother, Jerie Flowers, which she had received from her mother, the late Marie White. Something "new" was her veil and train, "borrowed" was a diamond bracelet belonging to the bride's mother, "blue" was a Texas bluebonnet nestled deep within the bridal bouquet. Gil Adams read the poem "Love" by Roy Croft. Damon St. Clair sang "I Cross My Heart" and "The Rose" was sung by Fara Black. Other musical selections included "Romance and Roses", "Tara's Theme", and "We Go Together".

A reception and dance at the Muleshoe Country Club immediately followed the ceremony. House party members were Brenda Black, Jana St. Clair, Janis Woodall, Tyree Green, and Kristine Isaacson.

After a honeymoon trip to San Antonio, the couple returned to Lubbock where the bride works at Bailey's Bookstore and the groom is a sales manager at West Teleservices. They both attend Texas Tech.

Watson JH students play for Hoops for Heart fund

Watson Junior High students and staff members recently participated in the American Heart Association's Hoops For Heart Program.

The program is designed to bring awareness to students about heart disease, and to inform students on ways to prevent heart disease. Students had a great time engaging in the physical activity, as well as being of service to the community.

A total of 60 students at Watson Junior High participated in the Hoops For Heart program, and many others helped organize the event. The Junior High broadcasting class helped advertise the event, and the Life Management Skills class organized the event and ran it off with the help of teacher and coach Heidi Bohler.

The Hoops For Heart event consisted of individual and team free throw shooting contests. Individuals had two minutes to make as many baskets from the free throw line as possible. Teams of three were given three minutes to make as many baskets from the free throw line as possible. Winners of the individual contest included:

- Female Winner: Laura Perez, 14 baskets;
- Male Winner: J.C. Orozco, 7 baskets.

• Team Winners: Yuri Aguirre, Ashley Gutierrez, and Brittany Thomason.

The individual winners will shoot baskets at halftime during a Texas Tech Red Raider basketball game in December.

Participants raised a total of $1,800 in donations, which was donated to the American Heart Association.
