Readers Urged To Speak For Freedom Of POW's

As Americans and Christians are our fellowman, on behalf of the war in Vietnam, it is our duty to speak here in the name of our representatives to give the subject of POW's the attention it deserves in the forthcoming session of our views on Vietnam, our prisoners in the where these men and the treatment they are receiving is so reprehensible that it should be a disgrace to our country. We urge our readers to write a letter to the Editor, New York Times, 229 West 43rd Street, New York, 10036 and tell them if you have sent your message expressing your concern.

(sample letter, post card)

"Urgently request release of prisoners of war be given highest priority this session of Congress."

(letter sample)

Your Excellency of Minister Thuy,

I, as an American citizen, am deeply concerned about the inhumane treatment of American Prisoners of War being held in North Vietnam, South Vietnam and Laos.

The best interest of peace can be served only by giving these men the protection of the Geneva Convention.

Citizens might go a step further and ask their ministers to deliver sermons on the subject of American Prisoners of War and What We Can Do to Help.

cell, Congressman, 13th Texas District, C/o. House Post Office, Washington, D.C., 20515.

A letter or postcard can take the place of a telegram and should be sent to United We Stand, Box 100,000, Dallas Texas, 75235.

The Communist officials of North Vietnam are definitely influenced by American protests, expressions of concern for the American prisoners are known to be effective and have in the past produced better treatment of the prisoners and occasionally the release of some.

It is therefore important that we as citizens of the United States make ourselves heard by such officials. We urge our readers to write a letter to-day expressing deep concern for the American Prisoners of War and the inhumane treatment they are receiving in the prison camps of North Vietnam, South Vietnam and Laos.

We suggest that you point out to them that the best interests of peace can be served by giving these men the protection of the Geneva Convention. Send your letters air mail to:

His Excellency, The President, Democratic Republic of Vietnam, Hanoi, North Vietnam, and Minister Xuan Thuy, Delegation of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam, Paris, France.

According to Major Joe Carpenter of the U.S. Air Force, one of nine Americans who was freed by the North Vietnamese, there are over 1500 prisoners of war or men missing in action with only about 400 known to be in enemy hands. When you support the appeal for the release of the POW's, request also a list of the names of those men held in their camps.

Speak to your neighbors, friends, each of your associates, and urge them to join you in your efforts and then write a letter to your newspaper editor and the Editor, New York Times, 229 West 43rd Street, New York, 10036 and tell them if you have sent your message expressing your concern.

Indian Official Tours Plant Materials Center Here Thurs.

Another V.I.P. can now be added to the list of dignitaries who have toured the Plant Materials Center northwest of Knox City in recent months. Last Thursday, we were privileged to sit in on a very informative and educational interview with Daljit Aurora, Indian Civil Service official who was visiting the local center.

Mr. Aurora, Collector, Anantapur District in the state of Andhra Pradesh, arrived in the United States July 15 and is traveling on a study award sponsored by the Ford Foundation. After a week in Washington, D. C., Mr. Aurora began a six-week tour of field locations with developmental programs in dryland agriculture.

His position as collector identifies him as administrative officer in the district with power and influence in the planning and development of the district's natural resources. He has tremendous responsibilities in supervising an area comparable to ten or eleven counties with 2,000,000 persons in the area contained in 7,400 square miles. Sixty departments are under his direct supervision and these include not only his agricultural duties, but also those responsible for the peoples' welfare, health, and protection. Department heads must report to him and he in turn reports to the government.

Local School Board Adopts New Budget

At a public hearing Monday evening on the proposed 1970-71 Knox City School Budget, the Board adopted the 1970-71 school budget and set this year's tax rate.

The 1970-71 budget calls for expenditures of $295,184 and estimated revenue of $292,225, based on 95% tax collection and expected federal and state revenue.

The revenue is listed as follows:

$147,650 local taxes, compared to $143,395 1969-70 and $144,350 state and federal, compared to 153,264 in 1969-70. Revenue from county sources is listed at $225.00 the same as in 1969-70.

Expenditures call for, Administration, $28,552; Instruction, $190,322; Health Service, $4,000; Transportation, $4,805; Operation of Plant, $19,665; Maintenance of Plant, $6,000; Fixed Charges, $4,850; Student Body Activities, $5,000; Capital Outlay, $2,500; Debt Service, $27,790; and Outgoing Transfers, $1,700.

The overall increase in the current operational budget is due primarily to the increase in teachers salaries provided by the 60th Legislature under House Bill 240 and the loss of a state supported teacher's salary because of a decline in enrollment.

Coach Hibbitts said that morning workout time will be shortened beginning on Monday of next week to give the players time to get to class. He added that a virus has hampered progress somewhat.

Local Conservation Programs Improve Area Environment

Knox City - Locally-led conservation programs have dramatically reduced many forms of pollution and have improved the quality of our environment, according to Arche E. Lieb, district conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service.

"Many of us who have been concerned with conservation for a long time find it a little startling that our goals of conservation, purer water, and a better environment are now in the middle of a national crusade," Lieb said. "Reforestation, establishing grasses and legumes, terracing, and other conservation practices installed by Texas landowners have had a big impact on pollution abatement.

The SCS has given technical assistance to local soil and water conservation districts with conservation programs since 1939 and according to Lieb, sediment, for example, is the largest pollutant of water. It washes from unprotected land into streams and lakes and soil particles often carry disease and wastes which ruin fishing and increase the cost of purifying water.

"More than 30 years of conservation work by the landowners of this country has greatly reduced the volume of soil washing from rural lands," Lieb stated and pointed out that a large portion of sediment pollution today comes from urban construction sites, roadbanks, parking lots, and other non-farm uses. He said that many conservation practices are effective on farmlands and can also be used to curb nonfarm erosion.

"Air pollution from agricultural sources is a rare, localized problem now," Lieb added. "But wind-blown soil from farmland once polluted the air on a grand scale."

At one time clouds of dust from land that had been mismanaged and overused darkened the skies over Washington, New York, and other eastern cities but proper conservation has eliminated much of that type of pollution.

"Permanent cover, tree windbreaks, wind stripcropping, and better management in many ways are now keeping the landowners' soil at home - and out of the air.

"Burning woodlands, prairies, and crop residues once sent natural plant nutrients up in clouds of smoke that blanket the countryside in some parts of Texas for weeks at a time," Lieb said. "Now thanks to enlightened conservation methods, indiscriminate burning is no longer practiced. This source of pollution from our farmlands has been almost eliminated."

Leib explained that conservation farming reduces the need for chemical pesticides and herbicides which are sometimes guilty of air and water pollution.

Often crop rotations are used to conserve and improve the soil and fight insects, weeds and diseases, he continued. "Certain plants kill nematodes, for example, a rotation to include these plants will help control nematodes."

"The conservation farmer strives to reduce soil loss and runoff thereby reducing the likelihood of fertilizers and chemicals washing into streams and lakes.

"New ways are being found to use or dispose of wastes that once went into streams. Wood chips, fruit processing plant wastes, animal by-products, and a long list of other materials are proving to be useful as soil conditioners or fertilizers. Conservation is founded on a positive approach to planning for the protection and improvement of environment.

A fine example of that approach will be noted in the Texas Hill Country where ranchers are joining with ornithologists in a program to inventory and preserve nesting sites for a songbird of limited range - the golden-cheeked warbler. SCS land-use information is helping locate stands of ash cedar, the tree in which the golden-cheeked warbler builds his nest.

"This is a unique example of planning ahead to avoid detrimental activities," Lieb said, "but the same positive principle can be used in planning for recreation, industry, housing developments, and the like. Such planning should begin with the land and its related resources."

Lieb concluded by pointing out that most conservation work is done in rural areas by farmers and ranchers - not the technical help that has been provided and ranchers - but the technical help that has been proven successful in rural programs is also available for non-farm use.

Coaches' Comments

By COACH CHARLES HIBBITTS

There have been some changes this year in the football program. First of all Jerry Lowrey has been added to the coaching staff as football assistant and head basketball coach. We are proud of this because of Coach Lowrey's wide range of ability.

Coach Rogers is back with us this year and will assist in football and serve as head track coach.

Another change is that the coaches must be involved in an in-service training course from 8:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. during the week of August 17 through August 21 thereby creating a tremendous disadvantage since school begins next week which requires that we be here at 8 a.m. for junior high football. All of this means that immediately following workouts, we must take-off. Let me add, however, that this is necessary and is required of every teacher and coach in the state.

Anyway workouts have been going smoothly and we are anxious to get our first scrimmage underway which will be against Throckmorton on Friday, August 28 at 7:30 p.m. here.

If you haven't been to a workout they begin at 6:30 each morning and at 6:00 in the afternoon except on Saturday afternoon.

It is impossible to match India's climate in the U.S.A., but the Southern Great Plains dryland farming areas have, in principle, some of the same problems that face Mr. Aurora in the administration of his district. He will visit Western Kansas, Oklahoma, and Texas in areas where both the Great Plains Conservation Program and watershed operations can be seen, that would be pertinent to his interests. He is not necessarily interested in highly technical phases but rather in "how things get done."

In regard to religion, we were told that five percent of the population is Christian, 17% is Moslem, and the remainder is Hindu.

We asked Mr. Aurora what things had impressed him here that might be in contrast to those in his native land. He replied that family tradition was strong in India with no divorces and that also more discipline and respect were noted in his country.

At the conclusion of the six week tour, Mr. Aurora will be spending one semester on informal studies at a university in the States.

Mr. Garrison drove Mr. Aurora to Amarillo last Friday afternoon where he was to tour the Bushland Agriculture Research Station before returning to Lubbock to tour the Soil Conservation Service facilities. From Lubbock, Mr. Aurora will travel to Temple to the State SCS office.

It was indeed a pleasure to talk with such an interesting and well-educated person, and Mr. Aurora concluded by saying that he sincerely hoped that he could, in some way, convey to the American people that his country is not the backward one that the average American believes, and if everyone could have met and talked with Mr. Aurora, he would have certainly been convinced of this fact!

lated a sound maintenance program, instituted procedures for the survey of damaged and worn-out equipment, provided numerous improvements in the working and living conditions of his men, and ultimately molded his large section into a cohesive, efficient unit which provided timely transportation support to the command. When the Motor Transport Section was relocated in December 1968, he worked tirelessly and with meticulous attention to detail as he skillfully supervised the construction of the new cantonment and carefully organized his section to insure its expeditious movement with an absolute minimum of disruption of transportation services.

Assigned the additional duty of Assistant Group Narcotics Control and Investigation Officer on January 1, 1969, he quickly obtained a keen insight to his new and demanding duties and conducted numerous lectures within the command and in the two neighboring hospitals concerning the law and illegal use of narcotics. Subsequently moved to the position of Group Narcotic Officer, he coordinated closely with III Marine Amphibious Force Narcotic Agents, the establish effective control procedures and a comprehensive education program which significantly reduced the incidence of narcotics use within the command. Capt. Tackitt's superb professionalism, untiring initiative, and steadfast devotion to duty contributed significantly to the accomplishment of his unit's mission and were in keeping with the highest traditions of the Marine Corps and of the United States Naval Service.

The medal and citation was authorized by H. W. Buse Jr., Lt. General, U.S. Marine Corps Commanding General of Fleet Marine Force, Pacific.

Capt. Tackitt who left Knox City Monday following a week's visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Streams In Desert Places
BY OZELLE STEPHENS
Psalm 131 thru 6 (Paraphrased)
David wanted to tell the world about the glory of God and His majesty so he looked up and declared, "The heavens are telling the glory of God; they are a marvelous display of His craftsmanship. Day and night they keep telling about God. Without a sound or work, silent in the skies, their message reaches out to all the world. The sun lives in the heavens where God placed it. And moves out across the skies as radiant as a bridegroom going to his wedding or as joyous as an athlete looking forward to a race. The sun crosses the heavens from end to end and nothing can hide from its heat."

Tax Man Sam Sez:

If you are one of those affluent Americans who can still find household help you may have a problem with your maid tax. As most folks know, household employees are covered by Social Security if you pay the household employee more than $50 per calendar quarter. This is not an optional tax - and the fact that the maid does not want you to pay Social Security tax on her has no bearing. You are liable under the law to pay Social Security taxes if the total wages for the quarter exceeded $50 for the employee.

Under the new 1969 Tax Reform Act the employees can voluntarily ask that income tax be withheld from their wages as household or agricultural employees. When Internal Revenue Service issues regulations you can also withhold the voluntary income tax deduction on your household or farm employees, and pay this in addition to the Social Security tax.

Church Rites Saturday Unite Miss Hodges And Phil Acree

Floral arrangements in blue and white flanked by greenery and candelabra formed the altar setting for the Saturday evening wedding, uniting Miss Betty Marvorseen Hodges and Phillip Edward Acree at the First Baptist Church in Knox City.

Miss Hodges is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hodges of Knox City and Acree is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Acree of Rochester.

The Rev. Aubrey Headstream of Haskell officiated at the double ring ceremony and Mrs. Melvin A. Lowrey, organist, and Misses Gwen and Stacy Angle, vocalists, provided traditional wedding music.

Presented for marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of rose lace over taffeta. The modified Empire bodice featured rounded neckline and long puffed sleeves banded at the wrists. Her rose lace veil was held by a large bow, her bridal bouquet was of gardenias surrounded by pom poms, and she carried a pin belonging to the groom's grandmother clipped to a handkerchief, which belonged to her grandmother.

Mrs. Jan Kilgore of Knox City was her sister's matron of honor and bridesmaid was Patti Acree, sister of the groom of Rochester. They wore identical dresses of royal blue brocade fashioned in Empire design featuring rounded neckline and brief sleeves. Their veil headpieces were held by large bows and they each carried a single long-stemmed white mum.

Miss Tammy Kilgore was ringbearer and candles were lighted by the bride's sister, Sue, and the groom's brother, Bob.

Bud Adkins of Abilene served as best man and groomsman was Larry Wadzeck of Rochester. Ushers were the bride's brother, Glenn, of Fort Worth and Cary Headstream of Haskell.

SS Reports

Texas school teachers and other school employees who are social security beneficiaries may not receive the usual three full months' social security benefits this year because of the extension of the school year, according to Wayne Klipping, social security manager.

Under the new Minimum Foundation Program, students in Texas are required to attend classes 180 days; classroom teachers will work 190 days; counselors and administrative personnel will work 200 days. The longer school year, plus teacher workshops which precede the actual classroom work will mean that teachers and others may begin work in August, rather than September.

Social security benefits are paid to beneficiaries who do not earn more than $140 in a month. It is believed that beneficiaries who are school teachers, counselors, administrative personnel, and some other employees - may earn over $140 in August. In such cases, the benefit check normally received on September 3, will not be due.

Daily wages of school employees can be computed in the following way. Divide the annual salary by the number of working days. For example, an annual salary of $9700 divided by 190 days (classroom teacher) equals $50 per day. There-

Guests From Around The World Bolster Six Flags Attendance

With the tourist travel season just getting into full swing, Six Flags Over Texas has already counted its millionth guest of 1970. The huge theme park between Dallas and Fort Worth began the year's operation April 11. The 1,000,000 mark was hit on Wednesday, July 15. Before the Park closes for the season, November 29, the total attendance figure is expected to be near the two million mark.

Six Flags will be on daily operation through Labor Day, and then will go on a Saturday and Sunday only schedule through closing day, November 29. C. E. Pafford, the entertainment center's vice president and general manager, said, "We have been exceptionally pleased with the great number of out-of-state guests who have made Six Flags a part of their vacations this year." He said approximately 40 percent of all guests have come from outside Texas, with many coming from foreign countries.

Pafford said a sharp increase in camper travel is thought to be one of the factors in the increasing number of visitors from distant points. He said there has been a marked increase in the number of campers and camper trailers on the Six Flags parking lots this year.

Pafford said the Spring season was one of the best in the park's history. He noted that school groups from throughout the nation helped swell the crowds inside the 145-acre facility during the weeks just prior to the close of school. A single-day attendance record was set May 16, when 34,381 persons passed through the turnstiles.

Pafford said the number of guests counted thus far has substantially exceeded projections made prior to opening.

CORPUS CHRISTI, TEXAS—Scenes such as this are being re-enacted daily in a stricken coastal bend area of Texas as American Red Cross relief workers bring 65,000 families whose homes were damaged by the worst hurricane ever to hit the Cross is seeking generous contributions from the American people to help meet long-range needs of Celia's victims. Contributions should be sent to your local Red Cross chapter.

Red Cross Asks For Help To Aid Hurricane Victims

Disaster is a human tragedy on a mass scale - on such a scale, in fact, that it is often hard to comprehend. A case in point is the misery caused by Hurricane Celia recently in Texas. The American Red Cross reports that, in addition to the deaths and injuries in the disaster, more than 64,600 homes were destroyed or damaged. But an added figure, perhaps one more easy to comprehend, is the fact that this one horrible storm brought losses to more than 65,000 families. Right now, amid the wreckage and debris along the Gulf coast of Texas, plans are underway to build anew. As always, the Red Cross is there, giving hope and helping to rebuild the thousands of lives that have been shattered in just a few hours. Its financial assistance to the victims is an outright gift. Repayment is neither asked for nor implied.

The task before the Red Cross is a great one. American Red Cross volunteers and staff will be on the scene for months, helping Celia's victims reconstruct and repair their homes, replace lost household furnishings and occupational equipment, and to assist with the medical bills from disaster-caused injuries and illness.

Because of the magnitude of the disaster, the Red Cross is asking for more than $10 million in contributions. Your contribution, no matter how small, will help to meet the needs of those who have been devastated by this disaster. The Red Cross is a voluntary organization that depends on the generosity of the people of this country. Your contribution will help to meet the needs of those who have been devastated by this disaster.

Returning cropland to pastureland has reduced soil losses by wind erosion. The grass previously planted to soil-depleting crops was the ground bare and exposed to the wind. The grass protected against erosion by the Jack Stubbins of town. In addition to the protection, it furnishes excellent forage for livestock.
