Stonewall Plant Narrowly Escapes Inundation

Brazos River Crests Tuesday Morning

When an employee of Cities Service Oil Company pulls the graveyard shift at the Stonewall Gasoline Plant twelve miles south of Knox City, it is usually an uneventful and lonely shift. However, this was not entirely so for Gerald Huff last Sunday night, because Monday morning about 5 or 5:30 o'clock, water from the nearby Salt Fork of the Brazos River which merges with the Clear Fork in Haskell County, began to overflow into a field adjoining the plant.

C.O. Thomas, plant superintendent, said that the field to the north of the plant was "bone dry" about 5 o'clock Monday morning as every bit of the 2 1/2 inches of rain received Sunday had gone into the dry ground, but the waters from a heavy 10 1/2 inch rain at Jayton plus heavy rains at the Labbock area began to join forces, the Salt Fork started its rampage.

Thomas said that after heavy rains in 1956 got into the plant, a dike was built around the plant to avert another serious threat. He said they realized that the rising waters looked like trouble and called in two bulldozers from T & S Trucking Co. of Rule. The men immediately set out to build a higher dam and with the all-night help of the dozer operators, plus the crew and their shovels, plus the plant's dog, Jigger, who "treed" a rattlesnake until the men had time to kill it (which incidentally had eight or nine rattles and a button), the plant was miraculously saved from the swirling, red waters. Mr. Thomas related that they had dug down as far as possible, and after hitting water, decided that they had better get all the electric motors out as they expected the water to break through at any time. Jimmy Lynn of Lynn Electric Motor Co. was called out about 9:00 o'clock Monday night and worked along with the crew in an effort to save the motors. Thomas said the damage would have been in the "thousands" if the water had gotten into the plant.

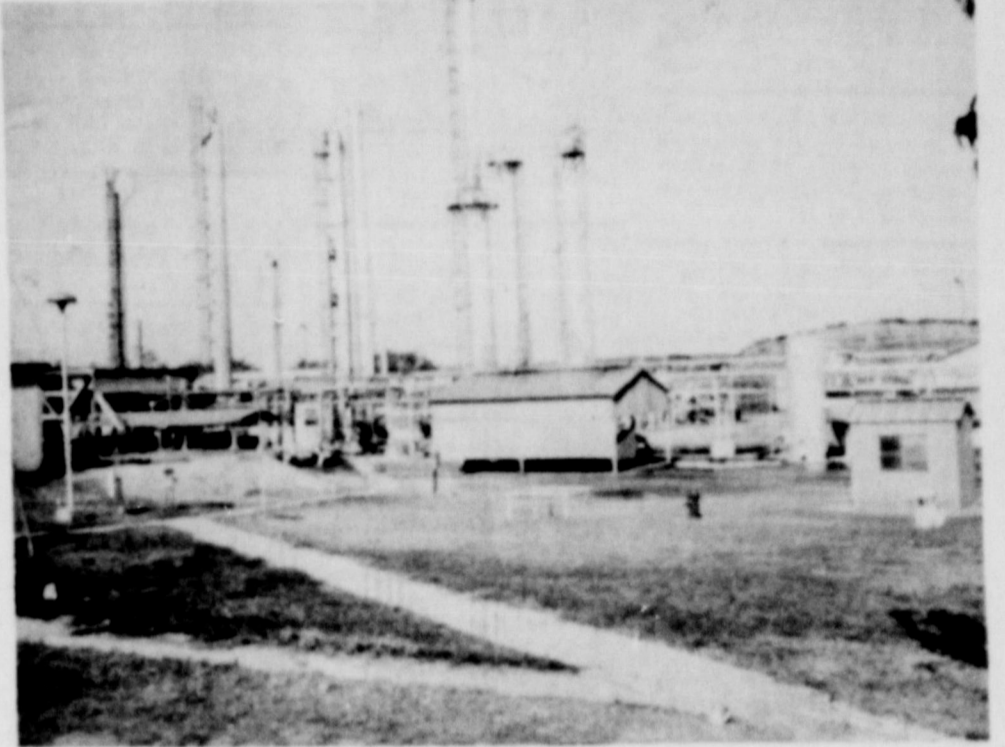

He said the water level rose approximately a foot and a half above the height of the original dike.

The rising waters crested about 4:00 a.m., Thomas said and at the time had begun going over the west river bridge. Farm-to-market Road 143 was closed to traffic Monday afternoon and remained closed Tuesday night with part of the road washed out just west of the bridge. Mr. and Mrs. B. Hendrix, who live west of the bridge were cut off from their home as hundreds of acres of land along the river bank were underwater. Several head of cattle were reported lost to the flood waters. Water was running over the highway north of town just south of the river bridge, but the road remained open. However, the FM road through Rhineland was also closed to through traffic due to the high water.

The Stonewall Gasoline Plant serves a wide area for liquefied petroleum products, according to Celso Gonzales, clerk at the plant. Gonzales said that two butane trucks from Houston are loaded every night, in addition to the tank cars carrying LPG products to Lake Charles, Louisiana, Georgia, Tennessee, South Carolina, Alabama, Arkansas, and Florida. Among the customers purchasing LPG products at the loading dock at O'Brien are those from Abilene, Afton, Stamford, Childress, Haskell, Munday, Seymour, Vernon, Paducah, Gilliland, Aspermont, Hamlin, Crowell, Olney, Breckenridge, Weinert, Rule, Rochester, O'Brien and Knox City.

Gonzales said that residue gas goes to Lone Star Gas Company and local producers. The plant employs fifteen men and two summer employees. Thomas moved here in January 1970 as plant superintendent. Field superintendent Homer Tyler, who is on vacation at the present time, assumed his duties here last year.

'Hounds' First Scrimmage Aug. 25

A "B" team scrimmage has been scheduled for Saturday, September 2 at Haskell and will begin at 9:00 a.m. Graham and Labbock Dunbar will scrimmage on the Greyhound field August 31, at 6:00 p.m.

B-K Electric's Annual Meet Friday At Seymour

B-K Electric Cooperative, Inc. has set the special annual meeting of its members tomorrow night, Friday, August 18 at 7:30 o'clock at the football stadium in Seymour. Registration also begins at 6:00 o'clock and attendance awards are being furnished by the wholesale suppliers and the Cooperative in the approximate value of $2,400.00. There will be a grand prize of a major electric appliance and many smaller prizes. The first 500 members who register will receive a gift. Children will receive prizes too.

Resign BROWN of Texas A & M University has been secured by the Board of Directors as guest speaker. He is very familiar with the many problems of rural Texas and rural America and the directors are inviting the public to come and hear him. They feel that it will be a rewarding experience.

Members will also take action on (1) Report of Officers, Directors and Committees, (2) Election of two directors of the Cooperative, and (3) Transaction of all other business which may come before the meeting.

Rain Halts Milo Harvest

Maize harvest, which got underway here about the first week in August has been halted due to the rains and the moisture content of the grain.

According to some reports, the milo crop is expected to make average to above average yields as compared to last year's crop.

Some farmers have sprayed their maize fields for various insects, that have caused damage to the grain.

Maize price opened at $1.35 per hundred, but has gone up to $2.00.

Charlie Groves, manager of Farmers Grain Co. here, reported Tuesday at press time that harvest was expected to resume today.

Formal Awards Made For Millers Creek Construction

Formal awards have been made on four of the six stages for construction on the Millers Creek Reservoir. Some preliminary work by contractors are on site this week, but formal "ground-breaking" is not expected until some time in September.

Progress with all agencies concerned are now on schedule. Some delay in getting the project underway has been experienced due to working out added requirements with the federal government, the state of Texas, and land acquisition which has been time consuming. All land needed for the reservoir has now been acquired, and only a few of the supply line right-of-way tracts are lacking.

According to the Authority's agreement with member towns, the water supply was projected for a two year completion from the time the agreement was written, and member towns scheduled to begin making monthly payments to the Authority after October 1, of this year.

The Authority has no intention of charging member towns for water that is not available at this time, and the only alternative is to continue a tax levy to meet interest payments on bonds sold for land purchase.

Pete Beecher, general manager of the Authority, has been working with personnel of the State of Texas, Bond Division, the bond attorneys of the Authority, and the engineering department. A budget has been worked out to meet bond payments and operational costs.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors on August 8, when the tax issue was discussed, the Board adopted the resolution to reduce tax rates if the Authority from the previous .50 cent rate of assessed valuation to .40 cent per hundred on the 1972 rolls.

"A man's life consisteth in the abundance of things which he possesseth" Luke 12:15.
Things in themselves can never satisfy the heart nor give us the quality of life so much desired. Only love can do that. When we go to Him who is the fountain of life we will find the quality of life that is joy unspeakable and full of glory; for our Lord Jesus came to bring life abundantly. A life full of love, kindness and tenderness. A quality of life that only Christ our Saviour can give, which brings joy and contentment.

KEEP HORSES OFF SORGHUM-SUDAN PASTURES

Dr. James Armstrong, veterinarian with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, warns horse owners to keep their animals off of sorghum-sudan pastures due to a disease called "sorghum cystitis." Freshly cut sorghum-sudan hay will also bring on the condition. Armstrong points out that all horses may be affected but that the condition appears to be more serious in younger animals. A number of cases have been reported recently by Dr. William Romane who heads up the large animal clinic at Texas A&M University's College of Veterinary Medicine.

"The first signs usually are incoordination of the rear legs," Armstrong explains, "in about half the horses observed this was followed by involuntary discharge of urine. Thus, mares may show hair loss on the inner part of the hind legs due to urine scalding. Geldings may have a loss of hair on the belly. In either case, the urine drip may be continuous and may become intense if the horse moves suddenly. The condition may also cause mares to abort."

Sorghum cystitis occurs most frequently during times of medium to high rainfall, usually from June to November, points out the veterinarian. It occurs mainly when horses feed on fast fresh growth of sorghum-sudan hybrids, sorghum grazer and Johnsongrass. Uncured or improperly cured hay from these grasses also causes the illness. However, horses eating well-cured hay from these three forages have not been affected. Also, no cases have been reported after the first frost.

"There is no cure for the condition once the horse has it," emphasizes Armstrong. "Several treatments have been used with little success. However, when affected animals are removed from the pasture and fed a balanced ration, they usually improved somewhat." The urine discharge and incoordination have been observed in some horses for as long as three years.

NEW AGRICULTURAL YEARBOOK DEALS WITH ENVIRONMENT

This year's Yearbook of Agriculture is dedicated to improving our environment with plants. The new volume has just come off the press and is titled "Landscape for Living." According to Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butts, the 416-page yearbook is "a handbook with something for everyone on improving the quality of life in urban and suburban America and in the countryside."

"Landscape for Living" includes background information and how-to-do-it advice for home gardeners and features a multitude of pictures and illustrations. It also delves into the biology of many plants.

The book discusses land planning, redesigning downtown shopping areas, and new towns. Authored by specialists from the U. S. Department of Agriculture and various state land-grant universities, the yearbook provides a vast amount of information on "plants in action" - how plants help raise the spirits of inner city residents, teach youth about the environment, and provide new vistas for senior citizens.

Chapters on practical gardening cover shrubs, perennials, annuals, lawns, vegetables, fruits and herbs. How-to-do-it articles discuss plant propagation, greenhouses, fertilizing, mulching and composting.

The yearbook is devoted to a new subject each year and dates back well over 100 years. It may be ordered from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402.

Hungry Bugs

The United States Department of Agriculture reports that insect pests, unless stopped by pesticides, cause a 25 to 30% decrease in the annual production of fruit and vegetables. This figure becomes even more serious when combined with facts given by the Food and Agricultural Office of the United Nations. FAO found the 1969 world food production showed no increase over that of 1968 - even though the population grew. Without the use of pesticides, there will not be enough food to feed the world.

THE BROTHERS

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Manning were in Springtown last week returning their grandchildren, Shane and Shawna Gibson, who had visited with them for a few days. They also took Jeremy Brothers home after his visit with the J.O. Brothers family and Humberto Gutierrez family.

Lee Underwood, student of Hardin-Simmons, was in charge of the Sunday services at the O'Brien Baptist Church in absence of the pastor, Mackie Lee who was in a revival in Hollis Oklahoma.

It is about that time of the year again when all the students return to school. School will take up Monday morning, August 21 at 8:30 a.m. The high school boys have already started their football practice. Right now they think Coach Underwood is probably the meanest man alive. They said they had to run, run, run, and run again. Boys, I have a suggestion to make for next summer, instead of laying around most of the summer, get you a job moving irrigation pipe and you will be in fine shape for starting your practice. In fact I will even give you a job, see me next summer.

We are looking forward to seeing our boys win all their games this year. They have some good players returning and gained a few boys from grade school this time. So let's plan to get behind these boys and cheer them on.

WEEKEND VISITORS

Visitors in the Lynn Tankersley home over the weekend included their daughter, Phyllis of Lubbock, Curtis Smith of Fort Worth, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Smith of Canyon, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hollis, Robbie and Holly of Wichita Falls, and Mr. and Mrs. Mike Hewitt and Michelle.

THE DIKE THAT HELD shows the depth the dozers dug in the foreground before hitting water. The "lake" created by the rising waters was above the guard rail around the pump at the right only a couple of hours before this picture was made Tuesday morning about 11:00 o'clock. A road normally runs through this area and was dry early Monday morning until the water started backing up.

THE WEST BANK OF THE BRAZOS RIVER is visible in the background behind the pump near the center of the photo. This picture was made from the west end of the dike at Cities-Service Oil Co.'s Stonewall Plant and shows how near the river the plant is situated.

THE RED, SWIRLING WATERS OF THE BRAZOS RIVER six miles west of Knox City are pictured here Monday morning about 11:30 o'clock. The Salt Fork, which intersects the Clear Fork of the Brazos in Haskell County, continued to rise until 4:00 a.m. Tuesday morning and was running across the river bridge near the center. Farm to Market Road 143 was closed to traffic due to high water and road damage.

UNDERGOES SURGERY

Former resident Mrs. Robert J. (Dorothy) Willison of Odessa underwent major surgery Monday morning in Odessa.

Word was received by friends here Tuesday that she came through surgery "fine" and was doing real well.

The Rev. and Mrs. B.J. Foster left Sunday night after church services for Odessa to be with the Willisons.

SUFFERS HEART ATTACK

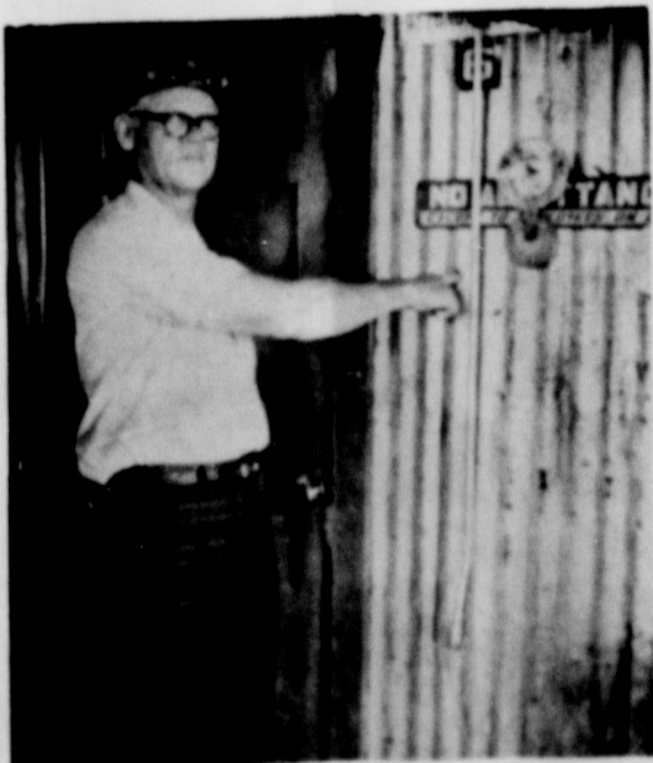

Jim Herring of San Antonio, nephew of Mrs. Carrie Belle Benedict, recently suffered a heart attack at Kelly Air Force Base where he is employed.

He is presently in the intensive care unit at Nix Memorial Hospital there.

The Herrings are frequent visitors in Knox City.

FROM NEW MEXICO

Mr. and Mrs. C.L. Heavington, Randy, Cory and Laura, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Heavington and Hilary all of Lovington, New Mexico and Mrs. Ella Mae Atchison of Tatum were weekend guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Wright and Becky.

PLANT SUPERINTENDENT C.O. THOMAS points to the water level inside the plant where 1956 flood waters inundated the equipment, delaying operations for more than a week. It was after this that the dike was built.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Radar Vs. Motorist

Citizen Haines, given a ticket for speeding, determined to fight his case in court. At the hearing, officers relied on radar evidence to prove the charge against him. According to radar, Haines had indeed been travelling well over the speed limit.

But the police overlooked one thing. They failed to produce evidence that their radar equipment was in good working order on the day Haines was arrested. Result: he won an acquittal.

This case illustrates how the law, while accepting the benefits of technical progress, is also concerned with fair play for the individual. Almost everywhere, in traffic cases, courts will insist on evidence that the radar equipment was working properly when it was put to use.

Today it is standard practice for such equipment to be checked regularly. Usually this is done by tuning forks or by clocked road tests. Even so, some motorists, still not convinced, have challenged the entire principle of radar, calling it too experimental to be trusted in the courtroom.

In an earlier day, the law too was skeptical about radar as a scientific principle. But now that skepticism has largely disappeared. As one judge put it:

"X-rays, electrocardiograms, time by watches, identity by fingerprinting, and ballistic evidence are freely accepted in our courts for their general reliability, without the necessity of expert testimony as to the scientific principles underlying them. The use of radar for speed detection may now be said to fall in this category."

In one case an arrested motorist, flagged down by radar, tried a different tack. He claimed he was the victim of an illegal "speed trap." But the evidence showed:

- 1) that the vehicle containing the radar equipment was plainly marked as a police car; and
- 2) that the officers manning it were dressed in their regular uniforms.

Unable to see any "trap" in this situation, the court ordered the motorist to pay his fine. The judge felt that a speeder could not complain merely because the police had found a new and better way to catch him.

Mansfields Have Unusual Hobbies

Last week when M.H. Mansfield, who owns and operates Mansfield Park six miles north of Knox City, came by the office and asked if we would like a picture of his tobacco plants, we thought this would be an interesting story for our readers. Little did we know until we arrived at their place that this was only the beginning of our tour of unusual sights.

Mansfield, who was born in Kentucky and lived there until he was eleven years old, has relatives still living there. When his daughter, Mrs. Renella Watson, her husband Wayne, and young daughter Gerri were in Glasgow, Ky., on their vacation the latter part of May, Mr. Mansfield's cousin gave Renella ten tobacco plants to bring home to her father. Mansfield explained that the tobacco is broadcast in a seed bed in Kentucky about March each year and then transplanted about the first of June.

Mr. Mansfield planted his ten plants June 1 and lost only two. The tallest of the plants, approximately nine feet tall, is now blooming. He explained that the month of August is usually harvest time in Kentucky.

As we walked to the location of the tobacco, our host pointed to a gourd and said, "If you will come in the house, I will show you what we do with these."

Taking him up on the invitation, we were quite shocked to see life-size "dolls" Mrs. Mansfield has made from the gourds. She paints the gourds, then sketches features for their faces, colors them, and puts hair and boards on some. For the smaller sizes she uses dolls for the bodies. However, on the larger ones, she has had to make their bodies and has made clothes for all of them. We remarked that she should have quite a market for the unusual "dolls" but she explained that she had never sold any of her handwork, but that she has given some of it away.

Even more unusual than making dolls out of gourds is their combined hobby as taxidermists. One corner of their large living room displays the many beautiful birds and animals the Mansfields have preserved. Mrs. Mansfield explained to us that it all began about five years ago when her husband accidentally killed their beautiful peacock and she could not bear the thought of taking it to the river and disposing of it. It was then that the couple decided to see if they could possibly stuff the bird and keep it. The couple has done exceptional jobs on a snow goose, several owls and hawks of different sizes and varieties, turtles of all sizes, an armadillo, red fox, skunks (a mother and three little ones), squirrels. (Incidentally she has dressed an entire wedding party of squirrels), red birds and blue jays, that have been killed accidentally by various persons and many others.

While we were marvelling at their talents, granddaughter Gerri came up with still more when she brought to our attention two beautiful bats Mrs. Mansfield has made from peacock tail coverts, a pair of shoes she covered with rattlesnake skins, a rattlesnake bag to match, and a very unusual bag of armadillo skins. There was also another collection of necklaces, earrings, and bracelets made of rattlesnake rattlers and spray-twisted in various colors.

We suggested to the couple that they open up a museum in connection with the roadside park they have operated for a number of years. Maybe they will take us up on the idea and place the items on display.

The Mansfields met and married in Parker County, Texas in 1923 where Mr. Mansfield had moved with his family from Kentucky when he was 11 years old. They moved to Weimert in the fall of 1925 and to Knox Co. in 1933.

The Mansfields have four children, the older two adopted. The adopted children are E.J. Mansfield of Concord, California, and Mrs. Jack (Louise) Abbott of Kenai, Alaska. The other children are Weldon Mansfield of Amarillo and Mrs. Wayne (Renella) Watson, who lives here and is a teacher in the local schools.

STANDING BESIDE TWO OF THE HUGE TOBACCO PLANTS are M.H. Mansfield and his granddaughter, Gerri.

PROUDLY DISPLAYING THE COLLECTION OF COSTUME JEWELRY her grandmother has made from rattlesnake rattlers is Gerri, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Watson.

Goof Proof Party

Even the most fumbling hostess can be the talk of the town if she concentrates on the extras that make a successful party.

To insure a good time, hold an informal buffet-style gathering; it's easier on your nerves, and the guests feel more comfortable when the affair isn't "Black tie." Here are some party tips that work for me:

Setting. Since the weather is warm why not hold your party outdoors? There's something romantic about dining under the stars. Set up card tables and chairs (you can probably borrow some from neighbors) and cover tables with brightly colored cloths.

Food. Serve buffet style. A cold picnic buffet (chicken, potato salad, roast beef) or a sizzling barbecue (with your husband as chef) are the best ways to feed a hungry crowd.

Atmosphere. An evening garden party can be lovely, but you'll need more than star light if guests are to recognize the food - and each other. This doesn't mean you need harsh lights blazing; after all, it's not like guests are trying to escape from a prison yard. Sylvania's stained glass PAR lamp will bathe your yard in soft color.

Safety. Don't surprise your guests by keeping certain areas in the dark. Shrubs, ponds, steps should be illuminated as carefully as the food.

Comfort. All your work will be ruined if you're bothered by those winged party crashers, insects. Help avoid them with Sylvania's "Bug Failer." The "Failer's" special coating makes it less attractive to insects.

Being a super-hostess is easy if you plan an outdoor party. The informal atmosphere and soft lighting bring out the best in both hosts and guests.

Mansfields Have Unusual Hobbies

Last week when M.H. Mansfield, who owns and operates Mansfield Park six miles north of Knox City, came by the office and asked if we would like a picture of his tobacco plants, we thought this would be an interesting story for our readers. Little did we know until we arrived at their place that this was only the beginning of our tour of unusual sights.

Mansfield, who was born in Kentucky and lived there until he was eleven years old, has relatives still living there. When his daughter, Mrs. Renella Watson, her husband Wayne, and young daughter Gerri were in Glasgow, Ky., on their vacation the latter part of May, Mr. Mansfield's cousin gave Renella ten tobacco plants to bring home to her father. Mansfield explained that the tobacco is broadcast in a seed bed in Kentucky about March each year and then transplanted about the first of June.

Mr. Mansfield planted his ten plants June 1 and lost only two. The tallest of the plants, approximately nine feet tall, is now blooming. He explained that the month of August is usually harvest time in Kentucky.

As we walked to the location of the tobacco, our host pointed to a gourd and said, "If you will come in the house, I will show you what we do with these."

Taking him up on the invitation, we were quite shocked to see life-size "dolls" Mrs. Mansfield has made from the gourds. She paints the gourds, then sketches features for their faces, colors them, and puts hair and beads on some. For the smaller sizes she used dolls for the bodies. However, on the larger ones, she has had to make their bodies and has made clothes for all of them. We remarked that she should have quite a market for the unusual "dolls" but she explained that she had never sold any of her handwork, but that she has given some of it away.

Even more unusual than making dolls out of gourds is their combined hobby as taxidermists. One corner of their large living room displays the many beautiful birds and animals the Mansfields have preserved. Mrs. Mansfield explained to us that it all began about five years ago when her husband accidentally killed their beautiful peacock and she could not bear the thought of taking it to the river and disposing of it. It was then that the couple decided to see if they could possibly stuff the bird and keep it. The couple has done exceptional jobs on a snow goose, several owls and hawks of different sizes and varieties, turtles of all sizes, an armadillo, red fox, skunks (a mother and three little ones), squirrels. (Incidentally she has dressed an entire wedding party of squirrels), red birds and blue jays, that have been killed accidentally by various persons and many others.

While we were marveling at their talents, granddaughter Gerri came up with still more when she brought to our attention two beautiful bats Mrs. Mansfield has made from peacock tail coverts, a pair of shoes she covered with rattlesnake skins, a rattlesnake bag to match, and a very unusual bag of armadillo skins. There was also another collection of necklaces, earrings, and bracelets made of rattlesnake rattles and spray-painted in various colors.

We suggested to the couple that they open up a museum in connection with the roadside park they have operated for a number of years. Maybe they will take us up on the idea and place the items on display.

The Mansfields met and married in Parker County, Texas in 1923 where Mr. Mansfield had moved with his family from Kentucky when he was 11 years old. They moved to Weibert in the fall of 1925 and to Knox Co. in 1933.

The Mansfields have four children, the older two adopted. The adopted children are E.R. Mansfield of Concord, California, and Mrs. Jack (Louise) Abbott of Kenai, Alaska. The other children are Welton Mansfield of Amarillo and Mrs. Wayne (Glenella) Watson, who lives here and is a teacher in the local schools.

Local SCS Employee Attends Training

Pete Elliston of the local Soil Conservation office recently attended an irrigation training session held in Crosbyton Special emphasis during the training was placed on irrigation tail water recovery systems. A tour of the Crosbyton-Floydada area was made with stops at several locations where design, installation, functioning and cost share of the systems were discussed and observed.

According to Elliston, of the systems toured a saving in irrigation water of up to 35 percent was noted. The training session was conducted by Y.A. McAdams, area engineer for the Lubbock area of the Soil Conservation Service.

According to Arche Lieb, local district conservationist, the Soil Conservation Service will provide the needed technical assistance to install this practice for Knox County landowners and operators. Cost share is also available from the ASCS office through the Rural Environmental Assistance program.

Goof Proof Party

Even the most fumbling hostess can be the talk of the town if she concentrates on the extras that make a successful party.

To insure a good time, hold an informal buffet-style gathering; it's easier on your nerves, and the guests feel more comfortable when the affair isn't "Black tie." Here are some party tips that work for me: Setting. Since the weather is warm why not hold your party outdoors? There's something romantic about dining under the stars. Set up card tables and chairs (you can probably borrow some from neighbors) and cover tables with brightly colored cloths.

Food. Serve buffet style. A cold picnic buffet (chicken, potato salad, roast beef) or a sizzling barbecue (with your husband as chef) are the best ways to feed a hungry crowd.

Atmosphere. An evening garden party can be lovely, but you'll need more than star light if guests are to recognize the food - and each other. This doesn't mean you need harsh lights blazing; after all, it's not like guests are trying to escape from a prison yard. Sylvania's stained glass PAR lamp will bathe your yard in soft color.

Safety. Don't surprise your guests by keeping certain areas in the dark. Shrubs, ponds, steps should be illuminated as carefully as the food.

Comfort. All your work will be ruined if you're bothered by those winged party crashers - insects. Help avoid them with Sylvania's "Bug Foiler." The "Foiler's" special coating makes it less attractive to insects.

Being a super-hostess is easy if you plan an outdoor party. The informal atmosphere and soft lighting bring out the best in both hostess and guests.

How to Beat the High Cost of Meat

CHICKEN BREASTS BOLOGNESE, served with an unusual salad from Sicily, is festive fare with a delicious Italian accent.

NEW YORK (ED) - Money-minded homemakers beat the high cost of meat with a repertoire of chicken dishes that are as creative as they are economical. Some of the most interesting boast an Italian accent - a school of chicken cookery that gives the all-American bird a distinctively worldly flavor.

Breast of Chicken Bolognese, a favorite from the Italian kitchens of Progresso, is the festive center of attention of a party-worthy menu. Start with antipasto; serve the cheese-layered chicken with Sicilian salad; finish with Cafe Espresso and a creamy-sweet dessert, Multi Bene!

BREAST OF CHICKEN BOLOGNESE
6 chicken breasts, skinned, boned and slightly flattened
2 eggs, beaten
1 cup flavored Italian bread crumbs
6 Tbsps. butter
1/2 cup dry white wine or chicken broth
6 thin slices Fontina (or Gruyere) cheese, cut the size of the chicken breasts
6 thin slices prosciutto (or smoked ham)
1/2 cup Progresso spaghetti sauce with meat flavor
Salt and Pepper to taste

Season breasts lightly with salt and pepper. Dust with flour, dip in beaten egg and cover generously with flavored Italian bread crumbs. Heat butter in large skillet; brown breasts over fairly high heat for three or four minutes on each side. Reduce heat to low, add 1/2 cup broth or wine and cover. Cook for 25 minutes, or until breasts are fork tender. Remove cover. Cover each breast with a slice of ham and cheese, broil for a minute or two, until the cheese melts. Meantime, heat sauce right from jar. Arrange chicken breasts on platter and top each with spoonful of spaghetti sauce with meat flavor. Serves 6.

SICILIAN SALAD
1 medium head Romaine lettuce, washed and torn into bite sized pieces
1 can (16 oz.) mushroom stems and pieces, drained
1 cup chopped pickles
4 stalks celery, thinly sliced
1 can (12 oz.) Progresso piccalilli peppers
1/2 cup olive oil
1/2 cup white wine vinegar
1/2 flat anchovy filets, washed free of salt
2 Tbsps. tiny capers
12 stuffed manzanilla olives
Salt and Pepper

Toss lettuce, mushrooms, chopped pickles, celery and piccalilli peppers with oil, vinegar, salt and pepper. Top with anchovies, capers and stuffed manzanilla olives. Serves 6.

U.S. Savings Bonds help keep today's plans from becoming tomorrow's broken dreams.

We all have plans. We plan for a vacation, plan to buy a boat, or a house; or send our children through college. And, in order to keep those plans from becoming broken dreams, we need money.

That's where the Payroll Savings Plan comes in handy. When you join where you work, an amount you specify is set aside from your paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds.

It's an easy way to save money and collect some interest at the same time. Keep today's plans alive. Buy U.S. Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan. You won't end up with a bunch of broken dreams tomorrow.

Now U.S. Bonds pay 5 1/2% interest when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months 14 days the first year. Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen, or destroyed. When needed they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America.

Now Bonds mature in less than six years.
