---this do in remembrance of me." 1 Cor. 11:24.

There is power in communion. When Jesus said, "do in remembrance of me" he placed himself in the center of our existence as the source of our life and the answer to our needs. Jesus also said, "Without me you can do nothing." He is all knowledge, wisdom, faith, and love. He is your healing for all sickness, forgiveness for all sin, peace for your troubled heart, strength for your weakness. He is everything you are not. As you commune and believe in Him, life spreads throughout your being nourishing, strengthening, healing your whole life.

Brookreson says, "I am young enough to do the job with vigor and old enough to have acquired the sober judgment which I feel the office demands."

"I believe that every person should be accorded the rights and privileges provided by the law plus a speedy and fair trial, yet giving him ample time to prepare adequate defense."

"I believe a judge should not overly inconvenience the public in jury call, but am of the firm opinion that the ends of justice must be met."

Brookreson's candidacy rests on a solid foundation. He appreciates his constituents and looks forward to the privilege of serving them as their next District Judge.

Contesting the Contest

Decisions of the judges shall be final.

No said Rule Number Seven in the dot-counting contest sponsored by a neighborhood store. But when the judges rejected Myrtle's entry on grounds of neatness, she took the matter to court.

Their announcement didn't say a word about neatness," she complained. "Not even the judges can make decisions that are outside the rules of the contest."

The court agreed with Myrtle, and her entry went on to victory.

Contests create a legal contract between the sponsoring company and the contestants. Accordingly, the basic principles of contract law will apply. Once the terms of the agreement are fixed, neither side can arbitrarily make changes.

However, if the contest judges keep within the limits of the original contract, they generally do have broad discretion.

In another case, contestants were supposed to deposit their entries in person at the show-room of a local automobile dealer. One contestant, disqualified by the judges for having mailed in his entry, insisted that this was too flimsy a reason for him to be barred.

But this time, the judges' ruling was upheld in court. The court said they had acted within the reasonable scope of their authority.

What about a rule against participation by company employees and their families? Again, the specific wording is crucial. In one case, the father of a company salesman submitted an entry in a football pool contest.

According to the rules, "no employee or member of his immediate family" could compete. Was the father a member of his son's "immediate family"?

In a court hearing, he pointed out that the son lived in his own home, on his own income, with his own wife and children. The court concluded there was enough separateness between the two men to leave the father eligible.

He took first prize.

DRESS-UP FOR FUN AND PICTURES

NEW YORK (ED)—Dressing up in grown-up clothes has always been a favorite pastime for little girls. Whether the props come from a treasure chest in the attic or from Mommy's closet makes little difference (except perhaps to Mommy). The results are always delightful and/or hilarious.

From the photographer's point of view, the possibilities are endless, because the small, dressed-up ladies make good subjects whether they are self-consciously posing or so absorbed that they are totally unaware of the camera.

By adding one prop to the scene, however, the photographer can produce a series of especially memorable pictures. All he has to do is put his models in front of a mirror, and get them started mugging at themselves. From his position behind or beside the mirror, he can then capture each dramatic moment.

The ideal camera for this type of shooting has automatic film advance, so there need be no interruption in the shooting. With a magicube on a Kodak Instamatic X-45 or X-90 camera, it is possible to make four shots in a row almost as fast as you can press the button. If you are working near a bright or sunny window, and your camera does not indicate a need for flash, you can shoot the full 12 or 20 exposures without pause.

There are a couple of other points to bear in mind in making these especially memorable pictures.

Shoot from the children's level or even slightly below.

Watch the background, to be

When a little girl has an opportunity to dress up in a vintage outfit, she'll be happy to pose for your camera.

sure unrelated clutter doesn't detract from your pictures.

Stay as close as your camera allows. That is, four feet for most fixed-focus cameras, three feet for adjustable cameras, and two feet for the Kodak Instamatic X-35 and X-45 cameras, which have a special close-up setting.

Last, and perhaps most important, have fun!

A modern young lady likes to dress up in Mommy's wig. With a magicube on your camera, you can catch every wonderful moment as she admires herself in the mirror.

Eggs And Milk Listed As April Plentiful Food

The April spotlight shines on eight foods in unusually good supply.

"Eggs are the featured item on the U.S. Department of Agriculture's April plentiful foods list," noted Mrs. Mary Y. Newberry.

Milk and dairy products are in the listing, along with potatoes and potato products. Make the list complete by adding canned cranberry sauce and cranberry juice cocktail, canned and frozen concentrated grape juice, canned applesauce and apple juice, prunes and prune juice and canned pears.

Spring remains the traditional time for plentiful supplies of milk and dairy products and they're familiar items on the "plentiful" list of USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service this time of year.

An abundance of eggs is always good news to the busy homemaker.

Heatly Relinquishes Chairmanship

(Editor's Note: The following editorial comment appeared in the Vernon Daily Record on April 3, 1972 and we felt that the article would be of interest to our readers.)

Austin correspondents were no doubt taken by surprise when Rep. W.J. Heatly relinquished the chairmanship of the House Appropriations Committee at the opening of the special session last week. His action brought to a close the longest tenure as chairman of a major committee in the State's history, but it was not in keeping with the image members of the Capitol press corps had been building up over the years.

In making the statement a day prior to the opening of the session, Mr. Heatly said he did so in order to eliminate the possibility that he might be an issue in the speaker's race. The election of a Speaker came off without incident and expected controversy didn't materialize.

It is common knowledge that Mr. Heatly is not exactly the public official most admired by Austin correspondents. Over the years no opportunity to give him adverse publicity has been overlooked. Part of the explanation is personality, but more than anything else is the fact that a top position in the Legislature can be held a long time by a member from a rural district.

Mr. Heatly's competence in handling the complicated task of spending billions of dollars of taxpayers' money has never been publicly challenged. Nor has his knowledge of State Government been questioned.

Admittedly Mr. Heatly isn't the most tactful person in Texas as official life. Even his friends agree he would make low marks as a politician of the traditional pattern and could very well do with less brusqueness and could use some of the Dale Carnegie philosophy for winning friends and influencing people.

But from the time he first went to Austin as a freshman Representative he has held choice committee assignments. This, colleagues from big cities and members of the Austin press corps have been unable to understand, although the explanation is quite simple. When other members are partying Hill Heatly is busy up on legislation and studying reports from the Comptroller's office which show where the State's money comes from and how it is spent.

There is no substitute for work, even in public office. Speakers have given Mr. Heatly membership on significant committees because he will work and knows what he is doing. If, as some of his critics affirm, he has been top man in the House for the past dozen years or so, it is quite a compliment, because the record has been good. The public service has been improved and expanded to meet the needs of a growing state, while costs have been held to relatively low levels. This is the point his critics miss.

Brother Of Local Man Dies Friday

Funeral services were held for Monroe Cash, brother of Otis Cash, Saturday at 3 p.m. in the Truscott Church of Christ with Jerry Miller, minister of Merkel, officiating. Burial was in the Truscott Cemetery.

Mr. Cash, 89, died Friday in a Wichita Falls hospital.

Son's injury comeback

Family has special thanks

RANDY HINES

By PHIL STEPHENS
Nothing but desire and character could have pushed Randy Hines to overcome his small size and constant injuries to play football for the Irving Tigers.

Hines overcame a broken leg, torn kidney and two broken hands in his high school career to earn a spot on the coaches' All-City team for 1971 in the defensive backfield and his perseverance also earned him the honor of being the Irving Daily News Player of the Year in 1971, which is awarded annually every year on Thanksgiving.

But Randy seemed to be jinxed from his freshman year, when he broke his right leg during spring practice. By the time his leg healed he had missed most of his sophomore football season and could look forward only to his sophomore spring training.

That year he tore a kidney in spring practice and missed the spring program once more.

AT THIS point, a lot of players might have been tempted to call it quits, but Hines wanted to achieve his goal of playing on the varsity so he just looked forward to his junior season.

Playing on the junior varsity and against the varsity on "dummy" teams, Hines broke his hand at the first of the season. Using a special pad to protect against further injury to his hand, Hines played through the whole season with the painful injury.

During the summer preceding his senior year,

Randy worked out every day on his own. With his small size (5-9 and 155 pounds) and his slow (100 yards in 11.8) speed, Hines knew he would have to be very agile and quick and would have to know his position extremely well to even get a chance to start for the varsity.

By this time, Randy had conditioned himself to just overlook painful injuries such as a hip pointer and another broken hand that bothered him his final season, 1971.

RANDY'S perseverance and acquired skill earned him a slot on the All-city team selected by the Irving coaches and earned him the respect and friendship of his teammates.

Randy's comeback is all the more meaningful because he is such a fine academic student and has led his class in grade point average through his junior year. Hines has had plenty of other outlets to turn to, such as church, since he is an active member of First Baptist in Irving, and outdoor sports like hunting and fishing, which he pursues actively.

But Hines stuck to football and has earned the respect of his own coach Neil Hoskins and opposing coaches. "I don't think there is anyone who helped our team more than Hines," Hoskins said. "He is a tremendous kid and I would love to have him back; he's a winner because he was never beaten on effort."

NINITZ COACH Wayne Bingham said Hines stabilized Irving's defensive secondary because he was always in the right place at the right time.

"Hines played with a lot of heart," Bingham said.

Naturally, his father, Curtis Hines, who is MacArthur vice-principal, is proud his son stayed with football and credits his athletic success as having taught his son something a dad can't teach.

And Randy feels he received two important things from athletics. First, he treasures the association with players and coaches. But he also learned that when one hits the ground to bounce right back up. And he knows that isn't just football advice.

present and bring a salad, officials said, and guests are welcome to attend the salad supper.

Dr. H.O. Gagua of Sweetwater a past Grand Patron of the Grand Chapter of Texas, will be the speaker for the important occasion.

The stated meeting will follow at 8:00 p.m. upstairs in the hall.

COMING FROM a family background of coaching (his father Curtis Hines coached 14 years) Randy entered football with one goal in mind, to play varsity ball.

Sophomore News

By MARTHA JONES

The last school week was only three days long, due to the Easter holidays. This short week did not seem to bother any of the students very much.

On Easter Sunday, the Choir sang at the Sunrise Service. To everyone's surprise, not one choir member fell asleep! The Sophomores that participated in this activity included Art Crowover, Ginger Crowover, Diane Clonts, Denise Grindstaff, Debbie Bishop, and Martha Jones.

On Wednesday and Thursday of this week, three Sophomores will be in Merkel to present the One-Act Play "Trifles" by Susan Glaspell. They are Martha Jones, Adrian Gonzales, and Chris Larson.

Johnny McCown and Randy Eggenbacher fulfilled their life-long dream Sunday when they went to the Drag Races at Lubbock. They were so impressed that they want to take their cars down to Lubbock and run them! Who knows, maybe we'll have a Gene Snow in the Sophomore class!

The Anson Relays were Saturday April 8, and several Sophomores won medals. Neffron Gonzales ran in the 440 yard Relay and won fourth. He also ran in the Mile Relay and the relay team won third. Roy Posey won third in the 880 yard run. Ricky Hacker placed third in the hurdles. Stanley Newton took double honors with second place in the Discus and third place in the Shot Put.

Twirler tryouts were Friday afternoon. One Sophomore, Debbie Bishop, was chosen to represent the Greyhound Band along with three other girls. Debbie was a twirler last year.

The Knox City Jr. High Band leaves here today for the band contests in Cisco. Before we start to play down there we'll have some fun playing pot-pot golf or go skating.

Jr. High Band News

By ADRIAN JONES

The Jr High Band is planning an exciting trip to Cisco Thursday.

Before we play, we plan to go skating, play miniature golf, and go sight-seeing.

We play two pieces that Mr. Hays has selected and we sight-read one.

The two selected pieces are Truax Field by Ted Mesang and Little Scotch Suite by Lery Jackson. Truax Field is an exciting march with a lot of movement. Little Scotch Suite is a suite in three movements.

Besides these two pieces and the sightreading piece, the band members are also playing solos, trios, and ensembles.

We are judged on these pieces and are rated. If we are good enough, we get a medal.

Tune in next week for a full report on the Jr. High Band at Cisco.
