New Vendor Drug Details Explained

Effective September 1, 1971, a new addition to the Texas Medical Assistance Program, the vendor drug program was initiated in order to provide pharmacy services to eligible welfare recipients. Payment is now made on behalf of eligible recipients directly to the participating pharmacy or pharmacist who provides this service.

There is no distinction between drugs prescribed for chronic or acute illnesses but there is a list of non-allowed drugs, even though prescribed by a physician, which the recipient must pay for individually.

Further limitations include a basic coverage limited to two prescriptions or a total of twelve dollars ($12.00) per month per recipient. If a recipient has medical needs for drugs in excess of this basic coverage, a prior authorization mechanism has been built into this program allowing provision of all eligible drugs to each recipient in excess of this basic coverage.

This Vendor Drug Program requires three integral parts of authorization (1) Texas Medical Assistance Record Booklet (2) Plastic Identification Card and (3) a Medical Care Identification Card (that is received monthly with the recipient's check). These three items plus their doctor's prescription must be taken to their druggist and the State pays directly to the druggist.

If any further information concerning this program is needed, contact your local welfare office in Knox City.

State Board Of Education Expands Training Program Contracts

Austin - The State Board of Education Saturday (October 2) broadened the high school-community college contract training program to include private colleges, technical schools, and large public high schools.

The plan, which begins in February, 1972, expands the one-year-old program which allowed high school students to attend technical training courses in public community colleges within driving distance of their home district.

During the 1970-71 school year, 452 high school students studied 15 different occupations in nine community colleges. Their job skills range from auto mechanics to cosmetology, date processing to sign painting.

Under the expansion plan authorized by the 62nd Legislature, high school students will be able to attend similar classes in private colleges and trade or technical schools. The updated program also allows students to transfer from one public school district to another offering technical programs not available at home.

Schools offering the courses must comply with state guidelines on class size, teacher certification, and facilities. All classes must be offered during regular school hours.

Once the contract is approved by the Texas Education Agency, state funds totaling a maximum of $390 per student will be released to the home school district to cover the cost of the course. During the first year, the cost totaled $264 per student.

"We believe this program will provide opportunities for students to learn the kinds of skills that will make them a living while still in school regardless of the facilities available in their home district," John Guemple, Texas Education Agency associate commissioner for occupational education and technology, says.

Students may enroll for a minimum of one year but no more than two years.

"Many school districts just don't have the money or the large number of students necessary to build and support extensive technical training programs. Under this plan, we can offer the student what he or she needs regardless of the size of the home school."

Community colleges offering high school students specialized courses during the first semester of the 1971-72 school year include Cisco Junior College, Cook County Junior College in Galesville, Texas Education Foundation (Gary Job Corps Center), San Marcos, Hill Country Junior College, Hillsboro, Laredo Junior College. Also, Paris Junior College,

San Jacinto Junior College, Houston; Tarrant County Junior College, Fort Worth; Temple Junior College; Western Texas College, Snyder; and Victoria Junior College.

Delivery Service Links Eastern Texas To Major Part Of Nation

A package pickup and delivery service that will link eastern Texas with a major part of the nation will be started on October 4 by United Parcel Service.

The national package delivery company will institute the interstate service in Texas areas covered by Zip Codes having the first three digits 750 through 762 and 770 through 777. Service to the remainder of Texas will open early next year.

The new service will give Texas shippers access to a package service area covering 34 other states, including all states east of the Mississippi River, the full states of Minnesota, Iowa, Louisiana, North Dakota; and three partial states: Arkansas, with the exception of a narrow strip along the northwestern and western borders of the state, northern Nebraska and eastern Missouri.

United Parcel Service has been providing its service within the commercial zones of Dallas-Ft. Worth since Sept. 14, 1970, and in the Houston commercial zone since April 9, 1971.

The company will handle packages that weigh up to 50 pounds and have a maximum combined length and girth of 108 inches. Queries about the new service may be made by calling collect to (214) 350-3341.

The service is being instituted as a result of a grant of authority from the Interstate Commerce Commission. The company has applications pending for additional operating authority which, if granted and fully implemented, would permit Texas shippers to reach states to the west as well.

United Parcel Service has been in the package delivery business since 1907 and presently offers its service in 38 full states and parts of seven others. It provides pickup, transportation and delivery of packages at rates comparable to those for uninsured parcel post.

In order to provide the new service to any address in the east Texas area, the company will be operating from facilities located in Dallas, Ft. Worth, Tyler, Sulphur Springs, Lufkin, Houston, Beaumont, and Texas City.

Approximately 270 employees and 200 vehicles will work out of these operating locations at the start of service. Each operating location will provide package pickup and delivery service to its surrounding area.

of appearance. It is company policy to wash or clean each vehicle daily and to repaint vehicles at regular intervals. United Parcel Service adheres to these standards so that its drivers will be welcome anywhere, including professional offices, retail stores and private homes.

Coaches' Comments

By COACH HIBBITTS

When you get beat 61-0 there just isn't much you can say. The score fairly well explains itself. I've always believed that winning and losing are frames of mind. You can get into a habit of doing either one. We've gotten into the losing frame of mind and the only way we can break it, is to win a game. This week would be the time to start. The Greyhounds defeated the Moguls last year for the first time in 11 years. This is always one of the hardest fought games of the year because the loser has to live around the winner for a year, with the towns being only 11 miles apart. Our intentions this week are to regain the old fighting spirit and pride, which it takes to win ballgames, and to go to Munday with one thing in mind that is to "beat a Mogul."

Our annual King and Queen representatives came in second place. We are very proud of all the hard work and would like to thank you for your support. We are receiving material from several states on interesting places to visit on our trip. There are so many places we would like to visit it will be hard to choose just one. Some of the places we are considering are: Acapulco, Mexico; Los Angeles and San Francisco, California; Nashville, Tennessee; and Miami, Florida. We are proud of two seniors, Mary Jo Campbell and Brent Hallsback. Friday they were elected voting delegates to the district FTA meeting at Wichita Falls High, October 16. Charlie Lieb was elected alternate. We saw a film on the presidents in Civics class. We always enjoy the films. Friday we had an assembly program. A young girl and boy from Holland sang folk songs. They could both speak four languages and provided a very interesting program. We are also proud of Carol King who will be a candidate in the Miss FTA Contest Tuesday night. Good luck, Carol!!! Friday we had Jimmy Mahan to speak to our Senior English

Here From Fort Worth

Dr. and Mrs. Hugh Panchman Jr. and children, Alan, Vicki, Deirdre, and Richard visited Mrs. Panchman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Graham this past weekend. They enjoyed dove hunting here with the assistance of "Uncle" Jeff Graham, and reported good luck. The grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Graham, joined them for Sunday dinner and a good visit. ### Control Peach Tree Borer

Knox County peach tree owners who plan to use Paradichlorobenzene Crystals for controlling the peach tree borer should make plans to treat the trees between October 20 and November 15, according to County Agent Herman H. Collier. The Paradichlorobenzene crystals should be put down when the soil is dry and soil temperature is 55 degrees F or above. Remove weeds, loosen and level soil about 1 foot from the tree trunk. Place PDB crystals in a narrow circular band, preferable in a groove about 2 inches from the trunk. Place several shovels of clean soil over the crystals and mound the earth into a cone-shaped pile about 6 inches high around the base of the tree. Avoid pushing any of the material against the tree since crystals can cause injury. Compact the soil with the back of the shovel. Remove the earth mounds early in the spring. For 2 and 3 year old trees use 1/2 ounce of crystals; 4 to 5 year old trees 3/4 ounce and for mature trees 1 ounce. The time of year as mentioned above for the application is very important says Collier.

1040 U.S. Individual Income Tax Return

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q) I don't understand the letter I got from the IRS. What should I do?
 A) Contact your local IRS office and explain the situation to them. Identify the letter you received so that the person helping you can advise you what action may be necessary.

Q) I'm trying to determine whether I can claim my mother as a dependent next year. Do I count the Social Security benefits she receives in figuring if I furnished one-half of her total support?
 A) Social Security benefits used by the dependent for her support during the year must be included in computing total support, even though such sums are tax exempt. For example, if your mother's only two sources of support are you and Social Security, you would have to provide more than she gets from Social Security to meet the support test.

Q) Do U.S. citizens living in another country have to pay U.S. income tax?
 A) U.S. citizens, wherever they are, are subject to U.S. tax laws. Under certain conditions, however, certain income earned abroad by those who are bona fide residents of a foreign country or who are physically present in a foreign country for a specified period of time is not subject to U.S. tax. Details can be found in Publication No. 54, Tax Guide for U.S. Citizens Abroad, available free by dropping a postcard to your IRS District Office.

Q) How can I get a copy of my 1969 federal income tax return?
 A) Write the IRS Service Center where you filed your return. Be sure to include your name, address and Social Security number. The basic rate for reproduction of a document is one dollar per page.

The Old Timer

use Service does not consider this benefit taxable income.

Q - Does the $12,500 or 60 per cent VA loan guaranty limit the amount I can pay for a home?
 A - No. You can pay as much, or borrow as much as your ability to pay. However, VA will limit its guaranty to the amount you specified.

News From VA

Q - I am a veteran of World War II who has just reached his 65th birthday. Am I entitled to a VA pension?
 A - You may be eligible provided your income from all sources does not exceed $2,300 a year if you are single, or $3,500 a year if you have dependents.

Q - Can an eligible veteran buy a used mobile home?
 A - Yes, provided the used mobile home is the security for a loan previously made or guaranteed by VA, or for a loan guaranteed, insured or made by another Federal Agency. However, present VA regulations provide only for loans on new mobile homes.

Q - Is the educational allowance I receive under the G. I. Bill taxable?
 A - No. The Internal Revenue Service does not consider this benefit taxable income.

Chamberlain Retires From SFASU Faculty

Dr. C.K. Chamberlain has retired after serving 25 years as a member of the faculty at Stephen F. Austin State University.

The veteran educator's retirement was effective Aug. 31.

He joined the SFA faculty in June, 1946. But his association with education in Nacogdoches dates back to 1928 when he joined the faculty of the Nacogdoches High School as history teacher.

A native of Burnet, Tex., Dr. Chamberlain first began his teaching career in 1921 in the Crosbyton public school system. He later taught at Knox City High School before coming to Nacogdoches.

Dr. Chamberlain served as principal of the Nacogdoches High School for many years and was acting superintendent from 1942-46.

He was honored earlier this year when the Minnie Stevens Piper Foundation of San Antonio selected him as a Piper Professor for 1971. He was presented a certificate and a cash award of $1,000 from the Piper Foundation. The award was for "outstanding scholarly and academic achievement."

At the time of his retirement, Dr. Chamberlain held the rank of professor in the SFA history department. He served as head of the SFA history department from 1957-1970.

Recognized as an outstanding historian, Dr. Chamberlain has been an official of the East Texas Historical Association for many years. He has served as editor of the association's journal for the past several years.

He also is a member of the Texas Historical Association, the Southern Historical Association and the American Historical Association.

His wife is the former Ruth Teague of Knox City.

ARMYWORM INFESTATION

Large infestations of fall armyworms are present in field, ranges and lawns in Knox County. These larvae attack grain sorghum, corn, small grains and grasses as well as alfalfa, peas and beans. The large numbers of fall armyworms are a result of the cool, wet weather which was experienced during August and September.

Damage by the fall armyworms is generally heaviest in fields and lawns that are in a lush green growing condition. The larval stage lasts about 20 days during which time the larvae feed continuously. There may be several generations in one year.

Insecticidal control of fall armyworms is accomplished most efficiently when fall armyworms are small. Several applications of insecticides may be required to control larger larvae. Chlordane, Carbaryl (Sevin) or Toxaphene sprays may be used on lawns, Carbaryl, Methyl Parathion or Parathion may be used on small grains. Label instructions found on the containers should be followed.

HOG CHOLERA NOT ERADICATED YET

Quarantines for hog cholera have been placed on portions Lubbock, Hockley and Lamb counties by federal and state animal health agencies, according to Dr. Gilbert R. Hollis, area swine specialist.

The quarantines were enacted because of two confirmed outbreaks of hog cholera, one each in Lubbock and Hockley counties. The action is part of a stepped-up campaign to wipe out this costly swine disease, Hollis adds. The quarantine will be removed when the threat of disease spread has been eliminated.

The specialist explains that no swine in the quarantined areas can be moved without health certification from an accredited state or federal veterinarian. Any producer within the area who wants to take hogs to slaughter may call the Ramada Inn at 763-9343, and ask for any member of the Hog Cholera team. The producer can then obtain farm inspection and a certificate for movement.

"All swine farms within the federally quarantined areas will be inspected by the state animal health officials for signs of sickness," Hollis says, "and this inspection will be completed as quickly as possible."

Swine producers within the quarantined areas who wish to exhibit at the Panhandle-South Plains Fair may do so as long as the hogs are accompanied by a certificate of inspection. After the fair, these hogs must be taken directly home and isolated for 30 days.

The specialist urges any producer who has sickness in swine to notify a veterinarian, county agent or the animal health officials. Hollis will also receive reports at 763-9451.

SS Reports

Worried about proving your age? Social security manager for Vernon, Wayne Klipping, said the people at your social security office may be able to help when you make your claim. There are some things you can do ahead of time. If you were born in a state that kept birth records when you were born, write for your birth certificate. If the state where you were born wasn't keeping birth records at the time, the next best thing is a baptismal record.

If you were baptized before age 5, you'll be asked to find out if there is a record. If there is, it is all the proof of age you'll need.

If you have no birth or baptismal record, the people working in the social security office will be happy to suggest some other possibilities. Some examples are an old family Bible, school records and federal census records.

You may not recall now, but when you bought your marriage license you gave your age. You may also have some old insurance policies about the house. The list of proofs to try is quite long. When you file your claim, it helps if you have already found the oldest thing you can that shows your age. Usually, the older the record the better it is for proving your age. It will help the people at the social security office pay you your benefits sooner if you think ahead on your age.

Many times a telephone call before you visit the social security office will help. You may even be able to file your claim by phone. The telephone number in Vernon is 552-9342.

Fall is putting a chill in the air. Time for heaters and time for caution because of an odorless, colorless, tasteless gas called carbon monoxide. This gas can lull a person into unconsciousness before the victim knows he's in trouble.

"Each year in this country nearly 10,000 persons suffer carbon monoxide poisoning," says Texas Health Commissioner Dr. James E. Peavy. "Nearly all require medical care or hospitalization. Each year about 1,400 persons died as a direct result of this deadly gas. In 1970, some 30 Texans died from carbon monoxide poisoning."

About 70 percent of the deaths occur in the home. Most deaths occur in the winter months when the hazards are greatest due to the use of heating devices and fuel burning equipment. In recent years, however, many deaths have occurred during the summer, because of the increased use of air conditioning. That may seem contradictory, but the fault is in the air conditioners' air return systems which may be introducing carbon monoxide into the home.

A recent study reported by the U. S. Public Health Service Injury Control Program illustrates the potential seriousness of the problem. Forty percent of the homes and establishments investigated had one or more appliances that were emitting unduly high levels of carbon monoxide. About one-fourth of these appliances were discharging gas in amounts exceeding 200 parts per million units of air -- a very dangerous level.

Gas range ovens, gas floor furnaces and gas space heaters were the three leading appliances inspected which were emitting carbon monoxide. The study clearly indicated carbon monoxide was emanating from many different sources and was very difficult to detect.

Early symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning include yawning, headache, nausea, dizziness, ringing in the ears, and abdominal pains. Gaspy breathing and unconsciousness quickly follow. The victim should get fresh air immediately and he should be kept lying down and warm. A physician should be called promptly, and inhalations of oxygen or oxygen-carbon dioxide mixture administered.

Since the nerve cells are involved in the poisoning, temporary or permanent damage can be done to the brain, with serious disturbances of vision, hearing, speech, and memory.

A new training program, tailor-made to equip local sanitarians with a capability for teaching the principles of sanitary food preparation and service to local food handlers, was launched this week in Austin.

The new course is an effort by the Texas State Department of Health to make food hygiene courses readily available at the local level. Heretofore, the State Health Department, Division of Public Health Education, has been providing instructors on request to train food handlers in a given community in methods of food-borne disease control.

Officials at the State Health Department concluded more progress could be made if they used the "multiplier effect." State Health Department officials will train local sanitarians, health educators, and other public health personnel to teach courses of their own.

Local health officials could then supervise the training of local food handlers in the proper food hygiene techniques, giving them more training at more convenient times and with more follow-up services.

These training programs for community health officials will be conducted by the State Health Department once every quarter, or a total of four a year. The courses will be conducted in the different geographical areas of the state in an effort to eventually cover the entire state. The three-day course held in Austin this week taught its 50 participants how to teach food hygiene practices to virtually anyone who serves food.

The Texas Association of Sanitarians is cooperating in the seminars.

Sanitarians will be provided with an instructor's guide, films on various phases of food hygiene, demonstration materials, illustrative color slides, and similar materials.

Health officials hope the training program will help to reduce the incidence of food-borne disease in Texas.

A recent study by the National Restaurant Association indicates that only 8 percent of food poisoning cases result from food that has been kept too long; another 38 percent can be laid to improper refrigeration. The rest are due to improper handling or preparation, poor insect or rodent control, infection among the help, and poor sanitary practices, such as dishwashing.

Veterans and servicemen interested in information on VA-guaranteed loans for mobile homes will find the pamphlet "Questions and Answers on Mobile Home Loans to Veterans" useful. They are available free at all local VA offices, or from the VA Central Office (26), Washington, D. C. 20430.

Tax Man Sam Sez

An average Texan may do a bit of bragging on quite a few of the finer things that we enjoy around these parts, but most of them would admit that they need a little more learning when it comes to addin' and subtractin' and figurin' income tax returns. Internal Revenue's Dallas District sings praises of the Texas schools and the teachers that give about 200,000 students some of the fundamentals of how to prepare a basic Form 1040 income tax return. IRS is also proud of the more than 150 adult education sessions that were held to help several thousand adults.

However, the good tax folks have to admit that income tax learning just don't come easy for most of us. We can only hope that our school teachers and the tax folks and a lot of others keep up the good work because--let's face it--most of us need to know a lot more about our personal income tax business.
