THE MOTORIST WHO TAKES CHANCES

You see them on streets and highways every day motorist who take chances.

You see them turning corners at high speed. Or stealing another's right of way. Or passing an hills and curves. Or driving on the wrong side of the road. Or cutting in and out of thick traffic. Or come roaring into intersections and road junctions without looking to either side. Or operating at speeds which are obviously higher than are safe under driving conditions of the moment. And, every once in a while, you see such a motorist cause an accident. Perhaps there is little damage done. Or perhaps a life is lost and valuable property is needlessly destroyed.

The reckless motorist comprise ten per cent or less of the driving population. But he causes ninety per cent of the accidents. If the reckless drivers simply injured each other it wouldn't be particularly important to the rest of us. But they seldom do that they maim and kill the careful, the competent, the prudent. And you never know who's going to be next.

This year about thirty thousand people are going to be killed because someone was reckless, discourteous. Not one of a thousand of those deaths is really due to an unavoidable accident an occurrence which is almost as rare as the dodo. They all can be prevented. And they will be when there is a concerted public drive against those who make places of danger out of public highways.

The Child Reader

by MARJORIE BARROWS
 Editor, Child Life Magazine.

One afternoon many years ago a wharf rat on San Francisco Bay wandered into the Oakland Public Library. There, opening a bound volume of a children's magazine, he stumbled upon a story. It was a story about a boy like himself—a runaway, a gang leader of wharf rats, who had certain semi-piratical adventures, but who, after a hard lesson, learned of better ways of living his life.

Making of Jack London.
 The dramatic, exciting story awoke in the young reader the uneasy consciousness of his own wrong actions. He walked out of that library resolving to lead just as adventurous a life but one that carried with it a clear conscience. So he joined the Fish Patrol, cruised about the bay, fought poachers, and before long began to write stories about his adventures.

That boy was Jack London. The experience of this famous writer occurs, in a rather less dramatic fashion, in the life of every boy or girl.

Careful investigators have discovered that next to persons, nothing has more influence on children than what they read. If a hero they admire acts under certain circumstances as they themselves would like to act, they'll remember it.

They Imitate the Hero.
 And when the time comes, they'll unconsciously be influenced by that hero's action and try to do likewise. The heroine's kindness, ambition, steadfastness, loyalty, the hero's resourcefulness, quick-wittedness, pain-taking qualities, courage, magnanimity, modesty—all these examples "sink in" and are emulated both now and later. One story with hidden character-building values is worth a dozen sermons from parents or teachers.

Let us try to see that this sort of a story, full of plenty of adventure for the boy, full of interesting plots and characters for the girl, is convenient for them to pick up.

Jack London isn't the only one to be tremendously influenced by the printed word.

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR WITT FOR BOND ISSUE

Austin, Texas, Aug. 9. Lieutenant Governor Edgar Witt of Waco, an original opponent of the proposed constitutional amendment permitting the legislature to issue relief bonds, today announced that after acquainting himself with the relief situation he believes it would be a tragedy not to adopt the proposal.

"When the legislature submitted the proposed amendment last spring," said the lieutenant governor, "I was hopeful that we wouldn't need Federal aid in Texas. But there have been developments since then, and I have learned the true and dark picture of suffering in Texas and I now believe it would be sheer tragedy to defeat the relief bonds."

"In the first place the drought and crop failures in certain sections change the picture from what it was three months ago. I am told authoritatively that before the end of this winter there may be as high as 95 per cent of all the inhabitants in some Panhandle counties who will have to be publicly fed. So much Texas cotton has been plowed up and crops are so short that the usually dependable labor of cotton picking will be reduced by more than half of normal.

"Twenty per cent of our population is now on relief rolls, but that is only a part of the picture. More than that proportion are unemployed using the last of their reserves or savings, but not yet on relief rolls. The class will be the first absorbed in the re-employment provided by the National Recovery Act, leaving those on the rolls still to be publicly maintained.

"Some people don't like what they term setting a precedent in voting bonds. I don't like it either, but we are confronted with a condition and not a theory. Two years ago the people, by a direct vote, authorized the legislature to spend money on a Centennial celebration but it has taken cognizance of the depression and has not appropriated any money for that purpose. I am certain that if the people vote to trust the issue of relief goods to the legislature, not one dollar more than needed will be issued and the whole issue will be thoroughly safeguarded against waste, extravagance and corruption.

COTTON STATISTICS

(By the Cotton Textile Institute)

Cotton provides jobs for 17 per cent of all American workers, a percentage larger than that of any other one industry.

Cotton provides a living for 27 per cent of the farm population.

Cotton accounts for $6,000,000,000 of the retail sales of the country, or 12 per cent.

Cotton is the greatest item in the Nation's export trade.

Cotton requires the use of 700,000 square miles of land in its production, an area equal to the combined areas of France, Spain, Germany and Italy.

Salaries and wages to members of the cotton textile industry amount to $2,000,000,000 a year.

The garment industry alone pays out $1,500,000 in wages annually. The men's shirt industry pays out $1,000,000 in wages annually.

The cotton small wares industry alone pays out $19,464,000 in wages annually.

Southern people may reap greater benefits from the cotton empire by intelligent contribution to efforts to increase the use of cotton fabrics.

Sub-Irrigation Is Proving Successful In Knox County

That my garden is the best and it is so much less trouble, less water and work and the soil doesn't bake, said Mrs. Rebecca Gillipie home demonstration agent who laid 220 feet of concrete in her garden in the early spring. "My garden I have much larger better produce than ever before. It is so much easier than my old garden. The only fault I find with it is that I cannot put every one of these two rows of tile.

This year I have planted tomatoes and peppers on the tile. I have been using tomatoes for weeks. I planted marjoram, sage and I find that they have less foliage but that they produce more tomatoes than any I have ever used."

It is an example of the gardens here tiled as a result of the irrigation given in March.

Miss Faulkner, County Home Demonstration Agent, is on her vacation week but will return to work next week, August 14.

TEXAS AS TO SIZE

Pennsylvania, New York, Illinois, Michigan, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Delaware and New Jersey could set the standard in Texas, and there would be no need for the Lone Star state for a standardized commonwealth. If Texas, in northeast Texas, were to set the standard, it would be a good thing for Los Angeles, and if Brownsville swung northward on Anahuac, it would almost scrape the Canadian border.

THE NEW YORK TIMES MAKES A SURVEY

For a good many months we've been talking about recovery. At first that talk principally represented optimism. Then some actual signs of recovery began to appear. The indexes took on a more cheerful tone. Now there's no longer any question about it. Recovery is here. There's hardly an industry that isn't feeling new blood in its veins these days.

A recent New York Times' survey is a good example. It is based on six of the most trustworthy barometers—automobile production, steel mill activity, lumber production, electric power output, freight car loadings and cotton forwardings. On March 18 the combined index stood at 69.6. On July 1 it had reached 97.3 a gain of better than 50 per cent.

Here are some reports, mostly based on Department of Commerce findings:

COMMODITY PRICES—

There has been a continued upward movement. EMPLOYMENT—Improvement marked and widespread. During June more than 500,000 persons found work in manufacturing and 16 non-manufacturing industries, irrespective of agriculture, railroads and other fields.

FINANCE—Still very recently stock prices moved constantly up. The recession that followed is of no particular importance; it is principally the result of profit taking in a speculator's market.

CONSTRUCTION—In the first half of June contracts represented the highest activity since fall. Most pronounced gain was in non-residential construction.

TRANSPORTATION—Railroad carloadings are much better than last year at this time, and improvement has been sustained.

AUTOMOBILES—It is customary for a seasonal decline to appear in June. This year there was an increase instead. In May passenger car output was 56 per cent above the monthly average for the year.

CHEMICAL INDUSTRIES—Customarily experience a seasonal drop in June; this year the drop has not occurred, and prices have risen.

FOODSTUFFS—Activity greater. Payrolls in all groups, with the exception of flour milling, higher. Wholesale food prices advanced.

LUMBER—Continued improvement of the last few months during May and June. Western pine output recently touched the comparatively high level of 35.7 per cent of capacity.

STEEL—There has been continued contrasessional improvement. In the latter part of June activity reached 59 per cent of capacity, the highest in two years, and has advanced since. A year ago rate was about 45 per cent of capacity.

TEXTILES—Production increased sharply in May and continued into June, with consequent gains in both employment totals and payrolls, reinforcing.

PAPER—Sharing in the general industrial gain. In June, for the first time since February, 1929, shipments of newspaper exceeded those of the corresponding month of the preceding year.

WOOL—Rising prices accompany increase output. Prospective wool clip is affected by bad weather in Australia and Western United States.

SILK—Deliversies increasing since first of the year, now close to normal.

SILVER—Recently touched 33 and one-fourth cents, highest price since May, 1929.

One of the most important factors in the present trend, is the way seasonal influences are being overridden. A hundred industries are showing improvements at a time when a summer decline almost invariably occurs. Another excellent sign is the continued decline in the number of business failures a field which some of the blackest marks of depression have been registered the past few years.

Tells How She Took 4 Ins. Off Hips 7 Ins. Off Waist

In 40 days by taking Kruschen Salts, Mrs. Helga Blaugh of New York City reduced 26 1/2 pounds—took 4 inches off hips, 3 inches off bust and 7 1/2 inches off waist. She writes: "I haven't gone hungry a moment—I feel fine and look 10 years younger."

To get rid of double chins, bulging hips, ugly rolls of fat on waist and upper arms SAFELY and without discomfort—at the same time build up glorious health and acquire a clear skin, bright eyes, energy and vivaciousness—to look younger and feel it—take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast. One jar lasts 4 weeks and costs but a trifle at any drug store the world over. Make sure you get Kruschen because it's SAFE. Money back if not joyfully satisfied.

UNTIL WE LEARNED BETTER

Until we learned better, we used to mix wood and steel in our car bodies and wheels.

It was the best way to make bodies—then. But the state of the art has advanced.

Of course, it is more expensive to make an all-steel body than to make a wooden frame and nail steel panels on to it. The better way involves an initial expenditure of several millions of dollars for new dies, which renders a change very costly. Cars, especially large expensive cars which are produced in small volume, cannot afford this, because the dies cost as much for one car as for a million. That alone explains why all-steel bodies are not used in all cars.

But our basic policy from the beginning is to make a good car better, regardless of cost.

For example, when we discarded wood-steel body construction, it was not because we lacked wood. We still have some thousands of acres of the best hard wood in America. Economy would urge us to use up the wood first, and then adopt the better all-steel body. But we decided that quality was more important than expense.

We weighed the reasons, for and against, before we made the change. We could see only one reason for retaining a mixed wood-and-steel body—nailing the metal on, instead of welding an all-steel body into a strong one-piece whole. That reason was, it would be cheaper—for us.

Our reasons for adopting an all-steel body were these: A wood-steel body is not much stronger structurally than its wooden frame. In all American climates, wood construction weakens with age. Every used car gives evidence of this. Rain seeps in between joints and the wood decays. A car may have a metal surface, and yet not be of steel construction. Under extreme shock or stress the steel body remains intact—dented perhaps, but not crushed.

Steel does not need wood for strength or protection. Wood is fine for furniture, but not for the high speed vehicles of 1933.

In the Ford body there are no joints to squeak, no seams to crack or leak.

The all-steel body is more expensive—to us, but not to you.

By all odds, then, steel bodies seem preferable. Wheels also have become all-steel. No one argues that an electrically welded one-piece steel wheel, such as the Ford wheel, needs to be "strengthened" by adding wood to it.

The one-piece all-steel body is the strongest, safest, quietest, most durable body made. That is our only reason for making them.

SIX GREAT MEN

Here is another business principle seemingly equally impracticable.

Remember the words of the Lord Jesus how he said, "It is more blessed to give than to receive."

We came perilously near to losing those words. They are not recorded in any one of the four Gospels, Matthew, Mark, Luke and John all forgot them. But Paul did not. He who had abandoned a social position and an assured career for the service of the Galilean, he who had given more than any of them, he heard the word and remembered. He understood.

Are they empty words? Do they bring destruction upon a business which regards them seriously? Is a man a fool to let them be a grudging influence in his life? I talked one day with H. C. Wells after his Outline of History had appeared. I said:

"You have stood upon a mountain and viewed the whole panorama of human progress. You have seen the captains and the kings, the princes and the prophets, the scientists and the adventurers—the millionaires and the dreamers—and have lived and loved and struggled their little hours upon the earth. In this vast army what heads rise above the common level? Among all those who have half dozen men all deserve to be called great?"

He turned the question over in his mind for a day or two, and then gave me a list of six names, with his reasons for each. An extraordinary list!

Jesus of Nazareth, Buddha, Aristotle, Roger Bacon, Abraham Lincoln.

Think of the thousands of emperors who battled—for fame, and fastened their immortality into monuments of brick and stone. Yet there is only one emperor, Asoka, on the list; and he is not there because of his victories but because he voluntarily abandoned war, after his success, and devoted himself to the betterment of his millions of subjects.

Think of the host who have struggled for wealth, fretting over figures, denying their generous instincts, cheating and grasping and worrying. Yet a millionaire is on the list, excepting again Asoka.

The tumult and the shouting dies. The captains and the kinks depart. And when the historian, looking over the field where they contended for the prize, seeks for something which has endured, he finds the message of a teacher, the dream of a scientist the vision of a seer. "These six men stood on the corners of history," said Wells in his picturesque way. "Events hinged on them. The current of human thought was freer and clearer because they had lived and worked. They took little from the world and left it much. They did not get; they gave; in the giving, gained eternal influence."

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Benedict, Mrs. O. D. Reid, Grady Benedict and Mable visited in Wichita Falls Wednesday.

We do body and top work in our service department. Ashcroft Chevrolet.

TEXAS BOYS' WORK EXHIBITED AT FAIR

Four Fisher Guild Models From State Remain in Annual Race for Scholarships

CHICAGO, Aug. 9 (Special)—A feature of A Century of Progress which has excited widespread comment among visitors the past 10 days is the exhibit of Fisher Body Craftsmen's Guild winning Napoleonic coach models, which are craftsmen of Texas are prominently represented. The exhibit is on view in the General Motors Building, and consists of from three to four coach models from each of the 48 states, the District of Columbia, and the seven Canadian Guild districts—a total of about 200 models. They are arranged on tables, in long rows, and all first glances appear exactly alike. Actually, however, they differ in the degree to which they correspond to the plans from which they were built, and 12 Guild judges, each an experienced craftsman himself, are busy with templates and gauges, measuring every model and recording the scores. This scoring will be the basis for the presentation of the year's six international awards, each consisting of a four-year university scholarship valued at $2,500.

Announcement of the scholarship awards will be made on the night of Aug. 18, and will be broadcast by Edwin C. Hill over the Columbia network. It will mark the opening of the third annual convention of the Guild, which falls during Farm Week at the Fair. Two boys from each state, who have earned the right by constructing the winning state models, will come here as guests of the Guild, enjoy a four-day outing, and compete for the scholarships. The Texas delegates will be Chester Myers and Jack Norman, of San Antonio. Two other Texas boys, Truman Cotton, of Fort Arthur, and Wilson Mangum, of Crosbyton, also have models in the Fair exhibit, having finished second in their respective age divisions in the state.

Your Lowest Priced Domestic Servant

PRICES are going up. So say the newspapers and business experts . . . so say the price tags in the stores. Food, clothing, commodities in general, are moving steadily to higher levels to meet changing conditions.

But Natural Gas Service, always your lowest priced domestic servant considering the value received, remains at its same modest price level. Instead of advancing to keep pace with other costs, it now becomes by comparison an even greater value than before.

Yes, you can still cook a dinner for three people, make 33 cups of coffee, or operate a gas refrigerator from 8 to 10 hours for a gas cost of only ONE CENT for each of these operations, because Natural Gas Service remains your lowest priced domestic servant!
