FINANCE RATION EX- ED IN SCOPE

Finance Committee enlarged and strengthened to the extent that important American products carried on with ease. On account of the dry and droughty conditions in Europe where our products are greatly needed, there will be of much in distributing to the foreign market.

Warren Dies at Weslaco.

Program was received here that R. W. Warren, former business man, had passed away at Weslaco, Tex.

COTTON AND FEED THRIVING AFTER SHOWERS

The rather general shower that fell over this country Tuesday afternoon was a great benefit, both to growing and maturing crops. The precipitation was a good deal heavier along the river strip of country to the west. Messrs. C. A. Benedict, J. H. Payne, R. A. Shaver and Farmer made a tour of inspection lately and state that never were in better condition now. Cotton, corn and sorghum are all in prime condition. The overflow of stock water is overflowing. Cotton picking is the first of the season heading by fifteen days. The great crop is now in sight and everyone who helps should be prepared for any emergency after which the bidding

CONCRETE DIP AND ROAD WORK SPEEDING UP

J. W. Herring has been employed to put in a concrete dip on the small stream north of town near the home of Geo. Stubbs. The June rains washed out the culvert over this ravine and it has been in bad condition since then. We are also glad to report that the several road overseers of this precinct are becoming active, with the prospect of greatly improving the roads before crop moving time in the fall. Where permanent road improvement cannot be accomplished, temporary relief will be secured by strawing the worst sand-beds. The people are thoroughly aroused over the road situation and we think that the farmers can rest assured that they will have reasonably good roads over which to haul their crops this year.

is more than apt to run the price of labor to the point of destroying profit to the grower again this year.

ANCIENT AND MODERN IDEALS IN CONFLICT

Ideals change as time goes by. The Youth who once forbade a King passage through a gateway because he had orders to let no one pass, received the approval of the King because he had faithfully carried out his orders. But up in Antioch, Ill. a village marshall was discharged because he arrested Williams Jennings Bryan for speeding. The council had recently passed speed law and the marshall was only enforcing it according to his sworn duty. A city council that will fire an officer because he enforces the law they pass ought to be eggs. If this is a Democratic and men have certain rights, why should they busying themselves passing laws to be obeyed by one class of people and ignored by another. If fast driving is hazardous,

WORLD'S GREAT- EST TENOR PASSES AWAY IN ITALY

Enrico Caruso, who sang his way into the hearts of the people of all the world as well as into the possession of about $6,000,000 of this world's goods, died at Naples, Italy, Tuesday, August 2nd. Caruso was world famous as a tenor singer possessing a voice distinct above any other generation. Caruso was singing Germany at her trial of arms—let's see, how many of our war profiteers did we send to jail?—Columbia (S. C.)

HABITS AND DIETS OF AMER- ICAN PEOPLE

American farmers seem to be as generously supplied with meat as any class of people. It will seem surprising to city housekeepers that eggs are not used as abundantly on farms as among people at large. Milk is generously used, even though there are fewer children than the average in farm homes. Other healthful dairy products assure farm families decided advantages over other groups. Except in the Southern States, where "quick" breads are often preferred to yeast raised kinds, wheat bread is the staple. Corn breads are popular everywhere, but are chiefly used to give variety. A relatively large proportion of starchey vegetables was reported and a relatively small quantity of green and succulent kinds, although farm families have the best opportunities for growing vegetables at home.

These and other points about farm diet are brought out in studies recently made by the Office of Home Economics in cooperation with the Bureau of Markets and Crops Estimates of the United States Department of Agriculture. They show the food actually eaten by typical American homes. The survey are of different families from different parts of the country.

of weather. The material for surfacing this road made only a small hole in the side of the creek by the roadside from which the gravel was taken. Granite gravel from the creek-bed makes the surface of a fine road from Granite to Mangum, in Greer county, Southwestern Oklahoma. There are many other localities where materials close at hand applied with interest and intelligence have made excellent, all-weather roads at low cost in comparison with the kinds of roads which good roads enthusiasts so generally insist are the only ones worth considering.

Good roads, like all other good things, will not come to us from somewhere "away off yonder." There seem to be too much interest in big contracts for expensive roads and not enough systematic and sincere effort to make good roads with materials at hand at moderate expense. Road problems are strictly local. Some localities will find the most expensive roads the cheapest. But beyond question, more localities and more miles can be more economically served by gravel roads costing not more than $5,000 a mile. And annual interest charge on a mile of road costing $40,000 will maintain in fine condition about 10 miles of gravel road. Let's do some digging into the gravel bank.—Oklahoma Farmer

We have very much the same condition here that we have in Oklahoma and we have an abundance of gravel in convenient places. Why not attempt a gravel road campaign in this vicinity?

The Epworth Leagues of the Stamford District will have a picnic and track meet at Weisert, Aug. 9th. This was to have been in June, but was rained out. Let every one come with lunch ready to take part in the games and races. This is for Juniors, Intermediate, and Seniors.

Anyway, just why are the Rotarians appealed to in the matter of keeping the war salaries bolstered up in the colleges? Are they wiser or more patriotic than other bodies of men and women operating for the common good under their several organizations? The medical association, the legal fraternity, the bankers, the editorial association, merchants, hotel keepers, barbers, mechanics, blacksmiths, ministers, farmers, lumber men, and others of whatever chosen work must undoubtedly have as much intelligence and foresightedness as these special people who have been called on to champion the high salary cause. We have heard of the Lord's chosen people, but we did not know that the University people were going to try to imitate His methods. The reason and cause for this appeal is apparent. The Rotarians are a club people whose lives have been cast in pleasant places and whose taxes bother them very little, therefore they would naturally be expected to lead a more willing life than those whose backs are already bent under the tax burdens of recent years. But the legislature has heard its masters voice from the song of its constituents and the treasury is going to be filled with more than a million dollars.

One of the greatest services which the home demonstration and girls' club movements are rendering is to arrange for the skillful housewives in a community to show how they prepare the things for which they are famous. prevalent over nearly all the European country at this time. From Russia an appeal has already been received by the United States for aid for her hungry millions. The stronger nations will buy their supplies for a while but no doubt some of them will eventually fall into the Charity list. France and England each have suffered heavily from lack of rain and the American will have no occasion to waste anything this year although his commodities may not sell high and the pay will be a little slow, yet the fortunate ones must in the name of humanity, aid those whose efforts have been blighted by a pitiless drought.

President Harding is preparing invitations to be forwarded to the world powers for a conference on disarmament. In this an effort will be made to reduce the armies of the nations as well as battleship construction. War expenses, past, present and future have mounted to such sums as to make a retrenchment necessary, and the practical way is for each nation to agree to some concerted action, so that no one nation may acquire a preponderance in fighting equipment.

A FISH STORY

Fisherman: "When I was out the other day I hooked the finest bass I ever saw. I had to play him for thirty minutes and just as I was lifting him into the boat he got away. It nearly broke my heart, he was such a beauty-weighed just six and a quarter pounds."

"How do you know what he weighed," spoke up a friend, "you say he got away?"

Fisherman: "Why, by the SCALES on his back."

Now if we were all like this bass we wouldn't need the stock of scales we are now carrying. We have a scale for every need, and a good scale is often needed, and always a good investment.

Hotbands Have Meaning.
There's a reason for placing the bow of the hatband at the left side, which dates back to the days when men used to settle their troubles with a sword. It was very necessary then to be able to draw one's weapon at a moment's notice—quarrels broke out almost without provocation. Feathers or hanging plumes were always worn on the left side, so that there was no chance of their interfering with the freedom of the sword arm. As time went on, feathers gave place to ribbons, sometimes used to secure the hat to the head; the ends of these were brought to the left side to be out of the way of the right arm. When men ceased to settle their quarrels summarily with weapons, the left side of the hat continued to carry any little extra decoration allowed on it; and there it has remained to this day.

For European Children.
Italy and neighboring countries, especially Switzerland, at the end of October held at Milan a conference on child welfare to discuss more specifically, seaside and country homes for needy children, placement of children in foreign countries; vacation camps; also provision of institutional care in cities; state, local and international organization of child welfare; better training of social workers engaged in child welfare service, and improvement of technique generally. The public welfare department of the city of Milan, which called this conference, is especially concerned over the duplication of efforts, the lack of proper care in the smaller communities and interaction between town and country. One definite aim is that of making international co-operation in this field a means of encouraging closer relationship between the peoples.

IDEA WOULD PLEASE DICKEN.

First Free Children's Library in England to Be Opened in Old Home of Novelist.

There is to be opened soon the first free library for children in England in a building in which that lover of children, Charles Dickens, spent several eventful years of his own childhood. It is an idea so appropriate and fitting that all supporters of the scheme must wish for its success, remarks the Christian Science Monitor. The house in question is 33 Johnson street, Somers town, and the Dickens family lived here after they left Chatham, being tenants of the house for five years. From this house Dickens, the father, was taken to the Debtors' prison, the Marshalsea, an incident which afterward supplied his son with "copy" for two of his most famous books, "The Pickwick Papers" and "Little Dorrit." Dickens is a striking example of how much can be accomplished by a case of real genius under adverse conditions, and it is he himself in "David Copperfield" who tells us what help enlightenment he got in his childhood surroundings from the few which made up his father's tiny library. Though small, that library which treasure trove to a clever boy, of these masterpieces is composed of many stories—and from Fielding, Smollett, Goldsmith and De-foe, Dickens must have learned the middle of words, and the grace and dignity of a tale told.

If his old home becomes the home of a free library for children who, like him, have a chance to forget the hard facts of their lives in the works of great authors, everyone who has the welfare of children at heart, must rejoice.
