Prayer of a Railroad Man

At an annual meeting of conductors and engineers some time ago in the south, Reverend George R. Stuart, one of the favorites of the railroad men of the south, was asked to take part and open the meeting with prayer. He was loudly applauded as he entered the hall and stepped upon the platform to offer prayer. The railroad men with their wives and daughters present reverently bowed their heads, and George Stuart, with trembling lips and deep emotions offered the following prayer, and as he left the platform a dozen men gripped his hand and brushed a tear from their eyes.

"O Lord, we meet as a body of railroad men, with our wives and daughters, to consult for our interest. We are reminded that life itself is a train and the road to heaven a railroad, God's truth the rail, God's love the fire, and His promise the signal lights. O Lord, we recognize Thee as the General Manager of our road the Superintendent of our train and Chief Dispatcher. Thou didst survey the right-of-way, and Thy Son purchased it with His Blood. Thou didst lay the track and ballast the road Thou hast furnished the rolling stock. Thou art the owner and controller of all. We look to Thee for all our orders, and Thou must sign the checks for our daily bread. Be merciful in handling our human mistakes and bunders and not discharge Thy unworthy servants. We are grateful for the Bible, Thy book of rules and instructions; be merciful in our examination and look with charity upon our failures. Thy promises and warnings are our head lights and hand lanterns; help us to use them so as to save our train from wreck. Deliver us from broken rails, blind switches, false signals, and mistaken orders. Be with us on every high bridge of responsibility, on every sharp curve of emergency, and in every dark tunnel of trouble let the light of Thy promises shine out bright. Grant us passes for our wives and children and let them go with us. When the storm of temptation and trial comes, save us from the fatal slide and washouts that have wrecked so many trains on the road of life. Let our way, be kept secure by Thy gardian care, always show the steel rail and rock ballast, and be solid and firm and free from obstruction. Deliver us from the snares of our enemy. May the headlights of Thy truth shine bright on a thrown switch, false signal or fatal obstruction placed for the wreckage of our train. May the emergency brake of a strong will save us.

"As we make our last run, headed homeward, if it be Thy will, order our train in on time. Let the light of promises burn bright to light the last dark tunnel of death. As we run through it to the Grand Central Station of the skies, may have the approving smile of the General Manager and Superintendent; sign with joy the pay roll, receive our wages and have an eternal layoff with God and the angels and the loved ones at home. And we will praise Thee forever. Amen."

This prayer of George R. Stuart is a fine piece of comparative literature. Would that we all could see our work as clearly in its reality as did Reverend Stuart.

Mrs. C. B. Stovall is enjoying today (Thursday) the company of the Baptist ladies who are spending the time quilting. Two quilts were in the frames at ten o'clock this morning and the group quilting hope to finish several quilts for Mrs. Stovall before the set of sun this afternoon.

J. C. Floyd, 14 year old son of Mrs. A. J. Floyd received a number of bruises accompanied by a high fever, when he jumped from a rapidly gliding bicycle Sunday afternoon.

J. C. was riding by holding to the end of a rope, the other end of which was tied to the horn of a saddle horse which, without being directed, changed its course and circled a bust. J. C. thinking the horse was going to trip him, jumped from the bicycle and made a number of revolutions in his landing. He was considerably bruised and thrown into a high fever; however, attending physician believed him to suffer no internal injury.

Arizona Man Preaches Here

Reverend C. B. Stovall and the membership of the Knox City Baptist church were pleased Sunday to have the Reverend S. E. Stevenson of Phoenix Arizona to preach at the eleven o'clock hour. Brother Stevenson is Secretary of Missions for the State of Arizona. His business in Texas was to attend the meeting of the Executive Board which was held in Dallas. Before returning to his work in Arizona, Brother Stevenson drove to Munday to visit relatives. He drove over to Knox City Sunday, being accompanied by Mr. Reeves of Munday, where he gladly accepted the invitation from Brother Stovall to speak Sunday morning.

Brother Stevenson attended school in both Fort Worth and Abilene. He is a former pastor of Rule and has a host of friends here in west Texas. He is a personal friend of Reverend Stovall; for it was under the preaching and leadership of Brother Stevenson that Reverend Stovall surrendered to the Ministry.

Reverend Stevenson gave a survey of the work of the Southern Baptist Church in Arizona. There are only twelve Southern Baptist Churches in the state of Arizona. It is practically a new field for religious endeavor. Of these twelve churches, Brother Stevenson organized three or four. He is returning to Arizona to organize another Southern Baptist church, which church he will serve as pastor.

In addition to the survey of the work of the church in Arizona, Brother Stevenson brought a very inspiring message to the members of the church Sunday morning.

GEORGE WASHINGTON'S RELIGIOUS LIFE

A glimpse into the religion of George Washington provides an interesting study. It is evident in nearly everything the man did, but especially is it striking in his military service during the Revolution and in his public communications during his administration as the First President of this country.

In his youth George Washington was probably as thoughtlessly concerned over religion as are most young people. Nothing has been recorded of any particular church service he rendered during his young manhood. However, as commanding officer of the Virginia militia on the frontier during the Indian troubles of that section, Washington evinced a pronounced appreciation for religion. He wrote many insistent letters to Governor Dinwiddie requesting a chaplain for his troops.

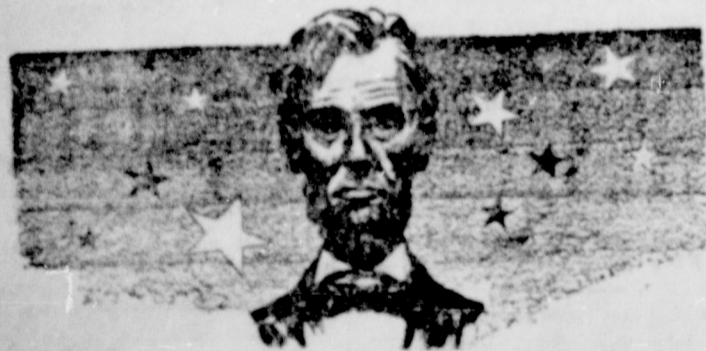

At Fort Loudoun, Winchester, Virginia, when he was twenty-four years old, the young Colonel ordered that "the men parade tomorrow morning at beating the long roll, with their arms and ammunition clean and in good order, and to be marched by the Sergeants of the respective companies to the Fort, there to remain until prayers are over." When some of his officers appeared negligent in this matter he issued still more emphatic orders to the same effect. Thereafter, Sunday services among these frontier troops was a standing order.

Perhaps after his marriage Washington was introduced to some extent in his church attendance by Mrs. Washington. While no positive statement can be made to this effect, it nevertheless appears likely from a study of the records, that Washington's attendance at church became a bit more consistent after his marriage.

In those of his diaries which have been preserved covering the time he was at Mount Vernon, there is a record of Washington's attendance at church, either at Pohick or Christ Church in Alexandria on an average of once a month. From this time forward Washington attended church wherever possible. As Yeardleyman of both Pohick and Christ Church, he was concerned in administrative affairs of the church.

An interesting incident with regard to Washington's religious life is the fact on June 1, 1774, the day the Boston Port Bill became effective, Washington recorded in his diary that he "went to Church and fasted all day." This was in accordance with the proclamation issued by the House of Burgesses.

LINCOLN

Abraham Lincoln represented qualities which we consider outstandingly American. He was a practical idealist. His faith in the principal of freedom and his consistent fight to maintain it won him a perpetual place among the world's immortals. There is, today, a stringency, a restriction in the free flow of money. Let us face it with the same perseverance as Lincoln faced his problems. America today has a condition of saving which amounts to hoarding. It is not conducive to healthy business. We can struggle out of this slavery sanely, buying wisely.

The First National Bank
26 Years of Service
Knox City, Texas

Throughout the Revolution, even when hope ebbed to the depths Washington believed that Providence was directing the affairs of America. He knew better than any other man the great difficulties which stood in the way of success. Better than any one else he knew that the cause had been saved from ruin by some event totally unexpected when it appeared that no human effort could rescue it.

No finer attitude of tolerance for other men's faith and beliefs has ever been given than that of George Washington's. A lways he opposed persecution of any nature, and insisted that it was men's right to worship God as he saw fit. The true worth of George Washington's religion is expressed in his last words which he breathed with the greatest of difficulty. "I fell from the first, that the disorder would prove fatal but I am not afraid to go."

"WHEN SOMEONE CARES"

When you meet some disappointment, and yer feelin' kind o' blue; when yer pans have all got sidetracked, or some friend has proved untrue; when yer toilin' pravin', strugglin', at the bottom, up the stairs--it's like a panacea--just to see that someone cares.

Someone who can appreciate one's efforts when he tries; someone who seems to understand--an' so can sympathize; someone who when he's for away, still wonders how he fares someone who never can forget someone who really cares.

It will send a thrill of rapture through the framework of the heart it will stir the inner being till the tear drops want to start; for this life is worth the livin' when someone your sorrows shares--life is truly worth the livin' when you know someone cares.

Oh, this world is not all sunshine, many days dark clouds disclose there's a cross for every joybell and a thorn for every rose; but the cross is not so grievous, nor the thorn the rosebud wears, an' teh clouds have silver linin'--when someone really cares.-- J. E. Kelly in the Oregon Pulse.

TODAY AND TOMORROW

By Frank Parker Stockbridge

SHIRTS

The latest scheme to symbolize the anti-war movement is for everybody who is opposed to war to wear a green shirt. Mussolini and his followers wear a black shirt, the symbol of an organized dictatorship. Garibaldi, the Italian liberator, and his followers, wore red shirts, now the symbol of the Russian Communists. I have had an invitation from an organization called the "New History Society" to buy a green shirt and become an Internationalist.

Personally, I don't think I shall put on a green shirt. The implication is that the wearer is not only opposed to war and is, therefore, willing to hand his country over to anybody else who wants to take it.

I think I will order a red-white and-blue shirt with a star-spangled collar!

HOUSING

I look for another big building boom very soon after the loosening up of bank credits and frozen assets makes money available for housing purposes.

I think we are going to see some innovations in home construction methods in the next few years, which will make it possible for a larger percentage of people to become home owners. I know of several groups of home planners who think they are going to be able to build houses to sell for $15,000 which will be better in every way than houses which now sell for from $10,000 to $15,000.

That is only one of the big changes that are coming, and coming soon.

GOLD

The head of a big New York bank told me this story the other night.

"One of our largest depositors came into the bank this morning and asked if we had a safe deposit box big enough to hold a million dollars in gold. I told him we had plenty of boxes of that size, which surprised him. We sat down and figured out how much space a million dollars worth of pure gold would occupy. It worked out to a box seventeen and one half inches square and thirteen and one half inches high. That would hold four thousand and thirty-two pounds of gold, which is a little more than a million dollars.

"I asked him what he wanted to know for, and he said that he was going to put a million dollars into gold coin and take it out of circulation. I told him he was crazy, because if everybody did that his gold wouldn't be worth anything, but he insisted, so we got him the gold for his million-dollar check, and there it is down in our safe deposit vault, doing nobody any good, not even the owner, because he has to pay rent for the box and is getting no interest.

Which proves, if it proves anything, that all the fools aren't dead yet.

MONEY

The actual money in the possession of all of the people in the United States, including the banks and the Treasury, at the beginning of this year was nine billion four hundred twenty-two million five hundred twelve thousand dollars. Not quite half of that is in gold, and more than half of the rest of it is in Federal Reserve notes. The amount of actual money in circulation is about $45 per person. This is the highest that has ever been in our history, with the exception of the year 1920, when it reached $51 per head.

The idea that the larger the volume of money in circulation the more prosperous we are is not borne out by a study of these honey figures. When business is active and public confidence in the banks is not shaken, people use comparatively little actual money and Federal Reserve notes and Treasury notes are retired from circulation.

TRADITION

Local traditions are often incorrect. Some years ago, in Cincinnati, I was told by local historians that Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe wrote the famous book, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," while her husband was a professor at Lane Theological Seminary in that city. A few years later I was shown a house at Mandarin, Florida which was pointed out with pride as the place where Mrs. Stowe wrote "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

The other day I was a guest at the home of Lyman Beecher Stowe, Mrs. Stow's grandson who has in his study the walnut table on which his grandmother's famous book was written and many of her personal mementos. He said that the famous book was begun at Brunswick Maine where her husband was a professor in Bowdoin College, and finished at Andover, Massachusetts, where he taught at the Theological Seminary.

the college?" Frost demanded. The preacher said he thought it would be hypocritical for him to ask the Almighty to help a cause to which he could give no aid himself. "My brother, since you can do nothing to help us, will you join me in prayer for your church and your ministry?"

The pastor could not refuse. Down on their knees they went together, and Frost proceeded to send up to the Pearly Gates not only a prayer for the church but a most eloquent and moving presentation of the need of the Kentucky mountaineers and the little college that was struggling to help them.

When the prayer was finished the preacher's eyes were full. "You must come to my church Sunday morning," he said. "My people must hear you."

Frost went, and so began the friendship of many people in Cincinnati for Berea College.

Mr. Walter Williams, wire chief of the Telephone Company of Seymour, was in Knox City Tuesday.

Holt Moseley spent the first of the week in Mexico attending to business interests.

H. E. Wall and family spent Sunday with relatives in Haskell.

Mr. O. F. Priest of Sonora Texas was the guest of Holt Moseley last week.

Lloyd Pyeatt of Baton Rouge La was the guest of his brother, Victor, over the weekend.

Reverend Sharp attended the District meeting of Methodist pastors held Monday afternoon in Munday.

Frost was a seer and a prophet. He knew the sterling character of the Kentucky mountain people; he was thrilled by the vision of what Berea College could mean to them. Full of courage, he journeyed up to Cincinnati and called upon the pastor of the leading Protestant church. "Will you invite some of the generous people of your city to a meeting and let me tell them about the needs of the mountains?" Frost asked.

"Oh, no," replied the pastor. "I couldn't think of that!"

"Will you let me preach in your pulpit Sunday morning?"

"No. We have a positive rule that Sunday morning service is never to be devoted to any charitable appeal."

"Well, I don't suppose you get many people out in the evening," Frost persisted. "Will you let me speak Sunday evening?"

"Again the preacher refused. "How about the Wednesday evening prayer meeting?"

"No."

"Well, then, will you pray for the mountain people and the success of

PRAYERS

A lady from Kansas sends a very personal question: "Have you," she asks, "ever known of any instance of the efficiency of prayer?"

The answer is, Yes. And this is the story.

Years ago when my revered friend Dr. William Goodell Frost left his comfortable professorship of Greek at Oberlin College to take the presidency of the struggling little college at Berea, Kentucky, his friends thought he had made a terrible mistake.

The buildings were old and dilapidated. The faculty was underpaid. There were plenty of debts, and no income. The president, in addition to his scholastic duties, was expected to ride the rails from city to city and beg for funds to meet the current expenses.

"Will you let me preach in your pulpit Sunday morning?"

"No. We have a positive rule that Sunday morning service is never to be devoted to any charitable appeal."

"Well, I don't suppose you get many people out in the evening," Frost persisted. "Will you let me speak Sunday evening?"

"Again the preacher refused. "How about the Wednesday evening prayer meeting?"

"No."

"Well, then, will you pray for the mountain people and the success of
