

Washington, D. C. May 25—As this is being written the House is still debating an extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act.

Following World War I, instead of decreasing tariffs and promoting world trade, we increased tariffs and then loaned large sums of money to foreign countries.

Under the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act the administration, through the Departments of State, Commerce, the Tariff Commission and other government agencies, started out to make trades or contracts with other nations as to duties and quotas on imports and exports.

In order of importance our best customers in 1937 were: United Kingdom, Canada, France, Mexico, Belgium, Argentina, the Netherlands, and Cuba.

I have always voted for Reciprocal Trade Agreement Acts, and will vote for the present extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act.

Lieutenant Colonel J. E. Brinkmeyer was a recent guest at a Texas Delegation luncheon. He was rescued from the Jap prison camp at Cabanatuan.

It seems a bit strange to me to call cabinet members by their first names. However, the new Secretary of Agriculture, Representative Clinton Anderson of New Mexico, and the new Attorney General, Tom C. Clark of Dallas, have long been good personal friends of mine and other members of the Texas Delegation in Congress.

Southern and western Members of Congress are delighted that President Truman is going south and west for new cabinet members. The majority of President Roosevelt's cabinet throughout his tenure of office were from the state of New York.

Combines Busy As Wheat Crop Ripens Under Blazing Sun

Forty-three combines and 33 trucks from Kansas, Oklahoma, Nebraska and the Panhandle of Texas came to Knox County this past week for the wheat harvest.

The 33 trucks in most cases, have been able to find employment and it is expected that all grain elevators in the county will receive a deluge of wheat by the end of the week, or at least by the early part of next week.

Custom combine operators who have written the County Agent, R. O. Dunkle, for information, have been advised that we already have more combines than will be required to take care of the harvest.

O'Brien Firm Hires Cotton Seed Expert

Believing in the old theory of "practicing what you preach," research and experimentation to produce a better breed of cotton for West Texas has been the sole aim of the Northern Star Seed Farms, located at O'Brien.

growers in a large area of the Southwestern states. Evidence of the success to produce a breed of cotton suited to this region is manifested in the steady demand for seed to a point where orders have exceeded the entire "take" of groups of Northern the company has secured the services of J. S. Mogford, eminent cotton breeder and plant specialist of A & M College of Texas.

Mr. Mogford has been engaged in cotton breeding, teaching and field seed inspection work for the past 25 years. His services have been secured by Northern Star as a consultant on crop breeding problems during the time of year he is not engaged in teaching at the college.

During the past week, Mr. Mogford, with the help of 21 farm hands, planted a breeding block of cotton on the S. N. Reed farm west of O'Brien, in which over 6000 single boll selections of the Northern Star variety were used.

From 1926 to 1940, Mr. Mogford spent his summers as an approved inspector for the Division of Field Seed Certification, State Department of Agriculture. In this line of work he had an opportunity to analyze the seed breeding program of many concerns, and help them with problems. He has traveled extensively and studied the cotton business from every angle in this country and abroad.

Out of 49 selections used in various tests at A & M this year, Northern Star was the leading breed. Seed and plants of this particular breed are used in most of the experiments at the college.

Orders for the seed have not been restricted to this area alone. Oklahoma has found the breed especially adapted to its soil and climate, and large quantities are going there.

S. N. Reed, sales manager, and manager of the O'Brien facilities, has worked long and steadily to make Northern Star cotton what it is today. Mr. Reed has been experimenting with cotton for a number of years. He has grown it as money crop, noted its reaction to different soils and different climates, and benefited by the experience.

Lt. Clyde Graham In Bombing Attack On Enemy Tanks

A Ninth Air Force Fighter-Bomber Base, Germany—Second Lieutenant Clyde W. Graham, 25, of Knox City, Texas, and his squadron of 12 P-47 Thunderbolts, took part in a series of five-bombing attacks that "set a new high in air-ground cooperation" when the pilots so accurately bombed German tanks that land troops were able to effectively close with the bombed tanks.

A tank battle was raging when the P-47 squadron arrived at a town northeast of Braunschweig, Germany. Lt. Graham's squadron offered assistance which was accepted with the order: "Wait until we can withdraw a short distance. Then go in to bomb and strafe."

The Thunderbolt pilots of the 366th Fighter Group, the "Hun Hunters" of the Ninth Air Force, circled overhead for 30 minutes. Below them the Americans withdrew. Armed with fragmentation bombs and wing guns, the pilots attacked German tanks and supporting the tanks scattered in woods which flanked each side of the roadway where the battle was being fought.

A Cub spotter plane reported excellent bombing. One tank was overturned. Several caught fire, trapping the enemy tankmen.

The Thunderbolt pilots reformed in squadron formation for return to base. They had dropped all their bombs, expended all of their ammunition, and were short of gas.

The Cub pilot, observing their preparations to leave the area, called: "If you wait a minute you will see some of these Germans throw up the white flag. They are running away."

But the pilots could not wait. They set course areas from which other squadrons of the group resumed attack against those Germans hidden in the woods.

Next day a message from the commanding general of the 13th Corps said: "The close cooperative attacks given by the squadron of your group in the zone of the armor of my corps this afternoon established a new high in air-ground cooperation. Your accurate bombing was so close that our ground troops were able to effectively close with the bombed tanks. The rapid response of squadron after squadron, the eagerness of their attack, and their ability to appreciate the tactical situation reflects a degree of training and discipline of which you can be proud. Please extend to all members of your command my commendation for a job well done."

Lieutenant Graham is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Graham, Knox City, Texas. An alumnus of the Texas A & M College, he entered the Army Air Forces January, 1943. He was commissioned May 13, 1943, and began his present tour of duty in the European theater of operations February 28, 1945.

Donald Caussey Is High Point Student In Knox City School

Donald Caussey, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Caussey, won the distinction of having the highest scholastic average in Knox City schools this year with a total of 95.7 for the year.

Georgia Lou Cogburn, valedictorian of the Senior class, was a close second with an average of 95.4.

Golden keys were awarded the two students for their outstanding achievement, by the Parent-Teachers Association at the commencement exercises held last Thursday night.

Other awards made at this occasion were loving cups to Miss Cogburn and Jimmie Craft as "Best All 'Round Girl and Boy." Certificates were awarded to Sam Emory Clonts and Tommie Gene Montandon for "no times tardy nor absent."

The letter "K" was awarded to Joe Clonts and Lee Ward for excellence in athletic activities in the school.

A large crowd observed the issuing of diplomas to the graduating class last Thursday. Georgia Lou Cogburn brought the valedictorian's address and Jimmie Craft served as salutatorian.

Wade Mahan of Munday made a fine talk to the Seniors. The ceremony was impressive and although the class was small, interest was at a high pitch.

Foenbacher Survives Bombing Franklin Bombs

Fritz Egenbacher, SIC, brother of Erwin and Herman Egenbacher survived the epic bombing and narrow escape of the aircraft carrier Franklin in March, news of which was released only recently.

Seaman Egenbacher helped to outfit the ship originally and then sailed with it on the maiden voyage.

In relating his escape, Egenbacher says he was thrown clear of the ship when explosives were fired as the two bombs hit. He was later picked up from the sea and is now in Hawaii.

Others that managed to stay on the carrier in her struggle to stay afloat, came on with the ship to New York, where repairs are being made.

Marion Ryder Safe In Okinawa Assault

Mr. and Mrs. Marion J. Ryder of Gilliland have just received a letter from their son, PFC Marion J. Ryder, Jr., saying he was safe following participation in the invasion of Okinawa.

Marion is aboard an aircraft carrier that figured prominently in the occupation of Iwo Jima, Leyte Gulf, and Okinawa.

His parents have had only three letters from him since the big push started against the Japs in and around the Philippines.

Applications for rooms from out-of-town visitors to the Knox City Alumni Association meeting here next Sunday indicates that many former students and graduates plan to attend the all-day meeting.

Arrangements have been made to accommodate a larger-than-usual crowd, officials of the association said. Plenty of rooms are available and everyone will be taken care of as in the past.

Serving a two-fold purpose, the meeting will get started at 11 a.m. with a general assembly in the school auditorium. Old friends can renew acquaintances, talk over the "good old days," and enjoy a good lunch without leaving the grounds.

Following the morning program a basket lunch will be served at the old school building, beginning at 12:30. All patrons bringing baskets are asked to leave them at the old building where the serving committee can make proper table arrangements before the noon hour.

A good program for the afternoon session has been arranged. During this session, the association will elect officers and plan for the next meeting. Several good speakers have been secured for the day.

"We want everyone in the community to come out and enjoy the day with us," Pete Whitten, president of the Alumni group said. "Bring your basket and join in the fun and eat, whether you are a graduate of the school or not. We believe you will enjoy seeing old friends and making new acquaintances."

The Family Altar

By Rev. Violet Byers
 Co-Pastor Foursquare Church

Looking around us today one can see unrest on every hand. There seems to be a feeling as if the world was waiting for something to happen. It is not only felt on the streets and in the homes but also in the church. And those who know the word of God can realize that the Scripture is being fulfilled rapidly, and that we are drawing toward the end of time.

If Jesus should return today to take away those who were ready, just how many would be ready to go with Him? The most vital question in the world today should be an individual question. "Where will I spend Eternity?" The nations of the world are busy with postwar planning, making ready for the day when peace will again reign on the earth. But we as a Christian nation are neglecting to prepare for the coming of the Lord, because it will only be when Jesus again reigns on earth that we will know perfect peace, and we should be preparing ourselves for His coming.

There are many skeptics who say that they do not believe Jesus will ever come back to earth, that it is only a figment of the fanatics imagination. But when one sees how the Scripture has been fulfilled in the last few years, we know that the time is very short until He comes. The Scripture tells us in 1 Thess. 4:16, "For the Lord himself shall descend from Heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God; and the dead in Christ shall rise first: Then we which are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air, and so shall we ever be with the Lord."

Truly dear ones, I would not want to be left here on earth after Jesus comes and takes the Christians away, because we are told in the Scripture that tribulation will be on the earth such as never has been before. This present war will seem tame in comparison to what will happen during the tribulation. But thanks and praise be to God that He has made a way whereby we might be saved, and today is the day of salvation.

Dear friends, why not decide now to accept Jesus as your personal saviour, that you too might be ready when Jesus comes to spend eternity with Him. Do some postworld planning, and prepare for eternity. God bless and keep you all. Remember, Jesus loves you.

Benjamin HD Club Meets Last Friday

The Benjamin Home Demonstration Club met Friday, May 26, in the assembly room, with Miss Lucille King as hostess.

Roll call was answered with something each member had made that would be useful in the home. There were eight members present.

The finance committee suggested the following way to raise funds for the club. Each member is to bring a feed sack, or as many as they wish, to have designs stenciled on and to be sold as dish towels.

After all business was attended to, the program was turned over to Miss King. She showed each one how to make a stencil pattern and how to use it on the material. Each one present had something to work on and the demonstration was enjoyed by all.

Later Miss King explained the GI Bill of Rights.

Our next meeting is to be June 8, with Mrs. Pyeatt as hostess. Her subject will be about the Bible. Members are urged to be present and bring their feed sacks to be stenciled and sold.
