This year's Drill Team will probably be composed mostly of O'Brien students as it requires a great deal of training, but it is hoped that more students will have the opportunity to train and enlarge the size of the Drill Team for future years.

Mrs. Johnny Reid will be instructor for the Drill Team, Mr. Holcomb said.

This year's Pep Club, with Mrs. Renella Watson as sponsor, will have six cheerleaders, two from O'Brien and four from Knox City.

The Carney and Knox City school boards completed arrangements for the Knox City Independent School District to assume responsibility of providing joint operations of the school districts for the coming year following the referendum held July 10. The two school districts are merging for the 1976-77 school year and the merger will become permanent subject to the approval of voters in the August 14 election.

Mr. Holcomb said that the bus Transportation is being worked out satisfactorily.

STREAMS IN DESERT PLACES by Ozelle Stephens

"That Christ may dwell in your hearts by faith; that you being rooted and grounded in love, may be able to comprehend with all saints what is the breadth, and the length, and the depth, and height; and to know the love of Christ, which passeth knowledge, that you might be filled with all the fullness of God." Ephesians 3:17-19.

We live in perilous times, the path we must walk may be rough and steep but God did not leave us without a map to go by. We find in the third chapter of Ephesians how prayer can lead us into the great love of God and his mysteries and success. This should be our prayer every day of the year: for God does hear and answer prayer and He will grant you, according to the riches of his glory, to be strengthened with the might by his Spirit in the inner man, that Christ may dwell in your hearts by faith; that you being rooted and grounded in love. When you pray that God grant this to you, then you will find that He will make you like the tree that has roots going down deep into the soil to get the moisture needed to make it firmly grounded and will not fall when the winds of trials blow. To pray with this faith you will know the love of Christ, which passeth knowledge. You will be like the scientists, who look farther into space than ever before only to find they know less and much more is beyond. That is the way it is with the love of God, the more we know, the more we find there is to know. He loves you more than you can ever know.

DRYWALL DAYS

FEATURING FIRE-RESISTANT DRYWALL CONSTRUCTION

There's a major difference that makes this home stand far above others you may have seen. Our innovative home engineers and stylists have incorporated the use of Class-A flame-spread rated gypsum drywall for its interior sidewalls, room partition walls and the furnace and water-heater areas. It's the same type of construction used in today's conventional homes.

But non-combustibility is not the only feature of our drywall. It looks great, too, because we've been able to maintain the appearance of rich woodgrain paneling through a special printing process.

In addition, our research shows that our drywall is more than twice as heavy per sheet as a comparable sized sheet of plywood paneling. This means more weight and greater ground-hugging site stability for your home.

And, finally, our drywall affords you greater privacy. Tests have shown it affords up to 50% more soundproofing than plywood paneling.

BLEACHED UNBLEACHED

Flour is the common denominator of home baking, providing the base of almost every baked food.

And with the interest in "natural" foods, many consumers are wondering if unbleached flour is any better than bleached flour.

Mrs. Sally Coble offers some insight into the differences between the two.

She's a foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Nutritionally, bleached and unbleached white flour are almost identical. Both are suitable for baking. Unbleached flour is ideal for breads, though it does not make as good a cake as regular bleached flour.

She explained that freshly milled flour has a creamy color because it contains carotenoids, the same pigments that make fruits and vegetables yellow. When such flour is stored for several months, it becomes whiter and the baking qualities improve.

This natural process of aging can be accelerated by the addition of certain oxidizing agents that are permitted for use in flour. Flour treated in this way must be labeled "bleached", she explained.

Aged flour is more golden in color and more expensive than chemically bleached flour, she said.

SUMMER CARE GIVES OUTDOOR FURNITURE LONGER LIFE.

Mid-summer care of outdoor furniture provides longer, better looking, life for each piece.

A modest amount of effort makes metal, wood, wicker and plastic furniture look its best through hot summer days.

Consumers can try some economical tips for cleaning and making minor repairs on furniture used on the veranda, in the backyard and at lake or pool side.

Lightweight aluminum chairs and tables have new luster when rubbed with a dry pad of fine steel wool. Follow with a light coat of auto past wax. Allow wax to dry 20 minutes before buffing. This process protects aluminum from the elements and helps prevent pitting.

Pieces with vinyl cord or strip webbing need occasional washing with sudsy water. Rinse thoroughly.

Tighten any screws that anchor webbing or allow movement. Loose rivets sometimes can be tightened by crimping the head with a pair of pliers. If screws or rivets must be replaced, use larger zinc-coated sheetmetal screws.

Wrought iron or all-weather furniture need frequent care. Hose or wash with a mild detergent. Rinse well and dry.

Preserve finishes with an annual coat of automobile paste wax. If wrought iron furniture or railings are scratched or pitted, rusting will occur. Rub these areas with steel wool or silicone carbide sandpaper. Wash out and allow places to dry. Rugged redwood and hardwood furniture needs to be washed down and waxed with past wax. A coat of penetrating wood sealer gives added protection.

Unfinished redwood should not be varnished or shellacked. Chips and imperfections should be filled with a commercial filler and sanded.

Dents can be removed by laying small pieces of wet cotton in each dent. Then apply an iron hot enough to create steam. This will usually cause wood fibers to swell and dents disappear.

Wicker furniture usually is not considered outdoor furniture. However, it may be used on sheltered patios or porches.

Direct sunlight, rain and dew are damaging to the four major types of wicker furniture—rattan, reed, willow and bamboo.

Wicker is easily dusted with a long, soft-bristled brush or vacuumed with the dusting attachment. Mid-summer is the time to wipe pieces with a damp cloth or sponge, since wicker likes humidity. Salt added to the water will prevent unfinished wicker pieces from yellowing.

Spills should be taken care of promptly before materials harden or stain by wiping with a sponge wrung from sudsy water.

Preserve the sheen on lacquered, varnished and paint-finished wicker by applying paste wax. Be sure surfaces are dry before waxing.

Molded plastic furniture is often used outdoors. For general care, wash it with light-duty detergent or a mild solution of household cleaner using a clean cotton flannel cloth.

Inevitable surface scratches or abrasions occasionally can be removed by rubbing with a little toothpaste on a damp cloth.

Paste wax or mild liquid wax gives added protection to plastic furniture and will remove water spots.

Stubborn stains can be removed with powdered detergents. Do not use any abrasive scouring powders, gasoline or strong solvents.

Window cleaning fluids should never be used on acrylic sheet plastic pieces.

Repairs can be made with epoxy glue, being sure to wipe away all excess before the glue is dry.

Farm And Ranch News

By Herman Collier

NATIONAL FARM SAFETY WEEK SET FOR JULY 25-31

Although farmers make up only about four per cent of the work force in the U.S., 28 per cent of all accidents resulting in injuries in 1975 were caused by farm work related accidents.

This emphasizes the need for attention to farm and ranch safety, and National Farm Safety Week July 25-31 is designed to do just that.

Theme of this year's observance is "Educate for Safety," with the interest being that more extensive education will help cut down on the number of deaths and injuries caused by carelessness on farms and ranches.

Some 1,375 people were killed in farm related accidents last year and more than 140,000 were injured. The cost of farm accidents in the U.S. is estimated at $3 billion a year.

A recent survey by the National Safety Council showed some 204,000 injuries to farm workers, residents and visitors in 15 predominantly agricultural states over a one-year period. Almost half of the injuries occurred in farm buildings, fields and lanes, while a fourth took place in house and yard areas.

Almost two-thirds of all the accidents resulting in injuries were work-related. Twenty-two per cent of the injuries involved farm machinery, 13 per cent involved animals, eight per cent involved hand tools and five per cent involved power tools.

"If more people become educated to the dangers involved in working with farm machinery and the precautions that should be taken, the farm and ranch can be a safer workplace."

Your baby's diet should be prescribed by a doctor or clinic. But you, as parents, have the day in, day out responsibility of carrying out these directions. Introduce plain strained foods one at a time and use each for three or four days in a row to see how baby accepts the food.

After your baby is accustomed to a variety of plain cereals, strained vegetables, fruits and meats, you can offer High Meat Dinners which are 30 percent meat, or the vegetable and meat combinations.
