I GIVE YOU TEXAS By Joyce House

Ran into Webb Ruff recently in Austin. The aviator and former theatre manager—red-headed, breezy and likeable—regaled a group of us with reminiscences of a tour he made with Will Wood and Old Rip, soon after the horned frog awoke from his 31-year nap in Eastland.

In Dallas, as the sheriff was leaving with Old Rip after having served a writ of attachment in a lawsuit, Ruff called out: "That frog is worth $30,000 and if anything happens to him you can count on having a lawsuit yourself."

The sheriff halted in his tracks and inquired anxiously: "What do you feed him?" Ruff grinned and shook his head.

"Won't you come along and help me take care of him?" the officer pleaded. The perspiring sheriff quickly approved a bond, handed the frog back and mopped his brow in relief.

When a self-styled scientist in St. Louis proclaimed that the frog was a fraud, another St. Louisan offered to bet ten thousand dollars that Old Rip was on the level. Ruff and Wood consulted a lawyer with the idea of bringing a libel suit against the scoffer. The attorney told them he doubted that the law covered the reputation of a frog but the threat of litigation silenced the detractor, anyway.

Ruff told also about their visit to the White House. President Coolidge and the frog stared unblinkingly at each other for a full minute. "Silent Cal" had met his match and he murmured admiringly, "Most remarkable."

More entries in the "oldest joke" contest: George Nathan, the famous New York dramatic critic, once remarked that the most ancient stage jest was the one about the man who invented a dill pickle compass—to show which the pickle would squirt.

And there was the visitor who asked, "Little girl, what might your name be?" And the child wonder replied, "It might be Mary Pickford but it ain't."

If you can stand one more, there's the story about the two men who were lost in the woods and had been without food for hours. One of them, a

...optimist, spoke up, "If we had some ham, we'd have ham and eggs, if we had some eggs."

If you've been around Likker Park in the late afternoon recently, you may have observed a stocky fellow in a West Texas bear grass rancher-style hat, blue denim rodeo pants, cowboy boots with shiny spurs, riding a prancing Palomino stallion. The horseman was none other than Jerry Sadler, State Railroad Commissioner, and his mount was Don Topaz, a registered Palomino which he acquired recently in West Texas.

Vagrant memories from the south of the Rio Grande: Into a single day were packed a visit to Guadalupe, most sacred shrine in Mexico, the interior of its cathedral awe-inspiring; the first view of the two volcanoes, beautiful "Sleeping Lady" and magnificent Popo, a wisp of smoke rising from the latter; the Acloman monastery, with its ancient books and decaying colonnades; then the Pyramids of the Sun and the Moon, the former having a larger base than the biggest Egyptian pyramid; and then a visit to the temple with its images hinting at the mysterious story of a "white god" who visited Mexico many centuries ago.

As one stood where thousands of Aztecs once watched weird dances and fantastic rites that were climaxed with human sacrifice, one had only to close his eyes and he could imagine the beat of drums, the plumaged dancers, the gorgeously robed priests, the prostrate body of the victim, the unlifted knife of obsidian, the plunge of the blade, and then the heart—still beating—lifted up in tribute to the sun.

Intriguing was the story narrated by Julien C. Hver of Fort Worth, head of our party and past Lions International president. Several years before, he witnessed a pageant in which the ancient rites were re-enacted. It was an overcast day but at the instant when the Aztec priests enacted the sacrifice (of course, the man's life was not taken), the sun broke through a rift in the clouds and the body of the "victim" was bathed in a shaft of sunlight, with all else still in shadow.

SUDDEN DEATH

A curly haired innocent little girl of 8 years was crossing a street in a Texas metropolis. She was skipping along with a bottle of milk for her breakfast and came to a dangerous intersection. The city's traffic police had placed a warning sign there. Autoists were supposed to look each way before coming into this street.

But a young motorist, intent upon reaching an unimportant objective further down the street, thoughtlessly entered this intersection—at the wrong moment—and without looking.

His automobile felled the innocent little girl. A tragic death ensued, a family was thrown into mourning—and all because a young motorist was not safety conscious.

In public school he had not received an auxiliary course in safe driving—and the golden rule of conduct had not been properly impressed upon him. His own life was blighted by the dreadful memory of his thoughtless accident.

"Driver's license laws must be strengthened," P. P. Brooks of Dallas, president of the Texas Safety Council, said in discussing this tragedy. "Responsibility of drivers must be impressed upon the young man and woman of high school age. The great responsibility that is theirs when they are behind the wheel of a modern powerful automobile must be impressed vividly upon them. This year 2,000 Texans will die from automobile accidents. All these could be averted. A huge proportion of them will be innocent children."

Driver's license laws should be uniform in all States and their revocation should be for thoughtless driving, speeding, drinking, or operating cars without adequate brakes, tires and lights.

'Come Into the Kitchen', Invites Modern Woman

The kitchen today can be the loveliest room in the average home! "This is possible because time and labor saving electric servants keep it clean, cool and cozy," says Miss Eudora Hawkins (inset), home economist for the West Texas Utilities, who frequently visits in the numerous homes here which now are equipped with the electric range. "Come into the kitchen' is a standing invitation in thousands of homes where women are proud to show the beauty of cooking equipment and the ease with which they cook," Miss Hawkins declares. She insists that the electric range is the foundation for an all-electric kitchen, supplemented by electric refrigerator, dishwasher, hot-water heater and the many smaller appliances designed to "take drudgery out of the home."

My Dear Sirs:

In reply to your request to send a check, I wish to inform you that the present condition of my bank account makes it almost impossible. My shattered financial condition is due to Federal laws, State laws, City laws, County laws, Corporation laws, Liquor laws, Mother-in-laws, Brother-in-laws, Sister-in-laws and Outlaws.

Through these laws I am compelled to pay a business tax, gasoline tax, an amusement tax, head tax, school tax, gas tax, light tax, sales tax, liquor tax, carpet tax, income tax, food tax, furniture tax and excise tax. Even my brains are taxed. I am required to get a business license, car license, hunting and fishing license, several truck licenses, not to mention a marriage license and a dog license.

I am also required to contribute to every society and organization which the genius of man is capable of bringing to life; to woman's relief, unemployed relief and gold diggers' relief. Also to every hospital and charitable institution in the city, including the Red Cross, the Black Cross, the Purple Cross and the Double Cross.

For my own safety I am required to carry life insurance, property insurance, liability insurance, burglar insurance, accident insurance, business insurance, earthquake insurance, employment insurance, old age and fire insurance.

My business is so governed that it is no easy matter for me to find out who owns it. I am inspected, expected, suspected, disrespected, rejected, dejected, examined, re-examined, informed, required, summoned, fined, commanded and compelled until I provide an inexhaustible supply of money for every known need of the human race.

Simply because I refuse to donate to something or other I am boycotted, talked about, lied about, held up, held down and robbed until I am almost ruined.

I can tell you honestly that except for the miracle that happened, I could not enclose this check. The wolf that comes to my door nowadays just had pups in my kitchen; I sold them and here is the money.

HOT CHECK LAW

The Herald is printing this week a new "Hot Check Law" recently passed by the Legislature. It really has teeth in it and will no doubt be the cause of less hot checks being written. Turn to it and read it now. This law is now in effect and the officers are urged to see that it is enforced. Texas has been trying for ten years to get a check law like this enacted but have been unsuccessful before.
