

Egg Price Situation Is Explained By Agent; Preserving Advocated

Some of the factors leading to the perplexing egg price situation are summarized by County Agent R. O. Dunkle, as follows:

- 1. Production is at an all-time high peak. It is 79 per cent above the 10 year average.
2. Egg drying establishments are unable to use fresh eggs now because they have stored eggs on hand.
3. Much of cold storage space normally available to use for eggs has been requisitioned by the Army for other purposes.
4. There is a shortage of egg cases and dealers are reluctant to release cases to be used for storage because they can't get them replaced.
5. Bad weather, high prices of feed, low prices for eggs, are having a depressing effect on poultry growers. The movement of baby chicks is slow.
6. The fall season will find us with fewer pullets than normally grown.
7. A fall egg shortage of fresh eggs, and of commercially stored eggs, is in prospect.
What can be done about the surplus egg situation? The poultry specialists and the food and nutrition experts have two things to suggest:
1. Increase use of eggs by consumers.
2. Home storage of eggs by producers and consumers.
If every person in Texas used a half dozen more eggs in April, about 3 million additional eggs would be taken off the market.
If one-quarter of the farm and ranch families of the state each reserved 10 dozen eggs, 1 million dozen low priced eggs would be taken off the market and be saved for consumption in the fall when eggs will be scarce and prices will be higher.
Preserving eggs in the Spring for use in the Fall and early winter is recommended only for families who cannot have a sufficient year-around production and for families who have a surplus that cannot be disposed of except at a loss. It may also be recommended for families who do not have poultry and who want to buy eggs while they are plentiful and cheap to use when few are available.
As a rule, the State Extension Service would recommend a well-planned program to have year-around production of eggs rather than preserving them. If eggs are to be preserved, emphasis should be given on proper selection and care.
In selection of eggs to preserve, use only fresh, sound, infertile eggs that are not soiled or cracked. Eggs should first be cooled and candled. Then, within 24 hours after they are laid, preserved according to the method given below. Those laid during March, April and May usually keep better than eggs laid later in the season.
Preserving Eggs in Water-Glass
1 quart water-glass or sodium silicate (available at drug stores.)
9 quarts water that has been boiled and cooled.
12 to 15 dozen eggs.
Measure the water into a five-gallon crock or galvanized can which has been thoroughly cleaned and scalded. Add water-glass and stir thoroughly. Place eggs in the water-glass mixture. Have one inch or more of the solution covering the eggs at all times. If there are not enough eggs on hand when the solution is made, more eggs may be added from time to time.
Care of Eggs Until Ready for Use
Keep in a cool, dry place, preferably less than 70 degrees F. The container should be tightly covered to prevent evaporation. If necessary, more solution of the original strength may be added. The water-glass seals the pores of the eggs so that no spoilage organisms can enter.
Use of Eggs Preserved by Water-Glass
Eggs keep in this manner six to nine months. When ready to use, wash the eggs to remove the coating which covers the shell. They should be cooked immediately after being removed from the solution. They may be cooked in any way as fresh eggs. When they are to be boiled, prick a small hole in the large end of the shell to allow air to escape.
FEED PROCESSORS NOT REQUIRED TO FURNISH STATEMENTS ON PROTEIN MEAL
According to an order effective on April 1, processors no longer will be required to obtain a statement from buyers approved by the county AAA Committee in order to deliver more than 500 pounds per month of protein meal to an individual.

TAKE GOOD CARE OF THAT TRUCK, WARNS STATE ODT

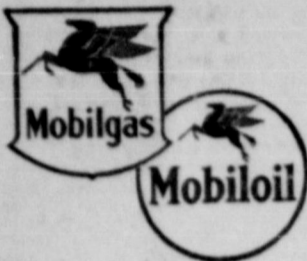

All truck and bus owners are being reminded by the ODT that their primary objective during the current year must be to maintain a good rehabilitation of the vehicles they now own if there is to be no bogging down of the nation's transportation system.
Manufacturing plants, equipped to make trucks, buses and cars, are engaged in manufacturing military vehicles and munitions of war.
However, there is a brighter side. In spite of the great demands on the truck manufacturers, the replacement parts situation is better. With a more adequate supply of parts which should be available this year, the nation's trucks can be kept in operation by minimum overhauling and by regular preventive maintenance.

Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Knox City, Texas, under the act of March 3, 1879.

WHEN our soldiers go into battle they carry with them little packages of food—each one a square meal. Those packages contain very special foods—dehydrated and concentrated—calories and vitamins carefully counted, but complete from soup to coffee. who manage America's Electric Power Companies, such as the West Texas Utilities Company. The reserves are more than enough to meet every essential need. Because of carefully planned inter-connected systems large quantities of electric power are available almost anywhere.

Electric power is able to do its job promptly, efficiently, and economically. Electric power is the reserve power that keeps our fighting power going.

Reserve power is just as vital in war production as it is in military operations. Tank factories, plane plants, and ordnance works are eating up more and more electricity every day, and the "reserve rations" to keep them going have been ready. Why? Because those reserves were built up in advance by the trained men

Spring Time is Vaccinating Time!

Now is the time to immunize against diseases that are prevalent among livestock and poultry.

We carry a complete line of

Cutter's Veterinary Biologicals

 - PELMENAL, to immunize against Hemorrhagic Septicemia.
 - ENCEPHALOMYELITIS VACCINE, to immunize against Encephalomyelitis (sleeping sickness) among horses.
 - FOWL POX VACCINE, for immunizing poultry against fowl pox. The immunization costs less than 1c per fowl and is simple to use.
- WE WILL be glad to explain these various vaccines and serums to interested customers.

The Record:

Lone Star Gas Rates were reduced in a period of advancing prices. Now, this dependable service is one of the few items of household expense which costs you less today than at beginning of the war.

Largely responsible for this record is the teamwork which the Lone Star Organization, working together over a period of years, has developed.

And you, the customers, by using approved appliances and taking good care of them, work hand-in-hand with this team to keep the service functioning smoothly and economically. This is important in these days when our full energies and abilities are dedicated to the job of providing dependable fuel service to war plants as well as to business and the home.

Right now is the time to clean, check, cover and store for summer all heating appliances. Storing them clean and ready for another winter of satisfactory service is one means of making sure the gas you use is used wisely. Remember, just because the cost of Lone Star Gas Service is less today than at beginning of the war is no reason why it should be wasted.
