Miss Karen Einbrott, Berlin Exchange Student, Speaks At Lions Club Wed.

Rev. Floyd Bailey was program chairman for the Lions Club Wednesday noon meeting and told club members: "I believe we will have the most important program of the year for you today."

Rev. Bailey introduced Miss Karen Einbrott of West Berlin, Germany, who is an exchange student and a senior in Munday High School.

Miss Einbrott said she appreciated the opportunity to talk to the club about her country. "Maybe you can better understand us," she said.

Miss Einbrott started her conversation with a lecture on Communism and the way it had affected her and her country.

To travel from East to West Berlin one must have a passport, and sometimes it is very difficult to secure, she said.

There are still a few churches left in east Berlin, but they are not attended in large numbers nor regularly. "The Russians will come into the church during the services and break it up," Miss Einbrott said, and "sometimes the people are put in jail."

The Russians also take charge of the youth—they are picked up each morning before breakfast and carried to school. They are then fed and marched to their classrooms where large American airplanes are painted on the ceiling. The children are given toy guns and are instructed to shoot them down. "Those people in the airplanes are our enemies and must die," they are told.

Miss Einbrott said the older Germans naturally were against this, but the young ones are started out at the age of 2, 3, 4, and 5 in the schools, and will think what the Russians want them to think.

Miss Einbrott said the Russians were just waiting for the oldsters to die.

One East Berlin friend of Miss Einbrott's wasn't allowed to go to college because she belonged to a church.

Commodities in West Berlin such as clothes and fruits, can be purchased, she said but they are very expensive. "In the East you can't get anything," she said.

Miss Einbrott said school was much easier here than in Germany. English and French are required subjects in Germany, in addition to German, 10 to 12 subjects are required of seniors, she said, and "practically every kind of subject you can think of is available if you want to take it," she explained.

A question and answer session was then called by Miss Einbrott.

When asked what her impression of America was, she said: "Very friendly people . . . you are a rich country here. The middleclass here would be considered rich in Germany."

In Germany only a chosen few can finish school, she was asked, and "do you think this is right?"

Miss Einbrott said there were three systems of schools there and that all must go to school until they reach the age of 18.

The academic high school is only for those who have the highest abilities and are picked when the child is 12 years of age. The student, family, and teachers are instrumental in one getting in this school.

Everyone can obtain a high school education, though.

When asked how she had had to revamp her picture of America after seeing it, from the one she had had painted in Germany, she replied:

"I didn't paint a picture, because I knew it would be different when I came here, so I wasn't disappointed. When I arrived in California the consul told me to watch out in Texas for people would try to tell me big stories about little things. "It is true!" she concluded.

New Law In SS Affects Benefits To Persons Over 65

There is a new law concerning the amount of work a person past age 65 may do and receive some social security payments. Erton Tate, district manager of the Wichita Falls social security office announced recently. In order for a person to receive social security benefits, he has to be retired.

The definition for retirement was changed by the Congress in the 1950 Amendments to the Social Security Law.

A person may earn up to $1200 in a calendar year and still receive all of his social security benefits for that year. If he earns over $1200, there will be one dollar of social security benefits deducted for each two dollars that earns up to $1500, and for all that he earns above $1500, one dollar will be deducted for each dollar earned up to the total amount of benefits that he could be entitled to for the year.

This means that many persons may earn a substantial amount and still be entitled to some social security benefits. All persons past the age of 65 who are still earning some wages or are engaged in substantial services in self-employment should get in touch with the Social Security Office in order that it may be determined whether they are entitled to some social security benefits.

A person over age 72 may receive his social security benefits regardless of the amount of earnings that he may have. Social Security benefits are paid on an earned and retired basis, Tate said. They are not paid because of need or as a welfare payment.

Therefore, all persons who have earned social security credits and are past the age of 65 should investigate their status and the possibility of benefit payments to them after they reach age 65, Tate concluded.

Trustee Election Set For April 1

Superintendent of Schools E. A. Youngblood said the school trustee election would be held Saturday, April 1, at the American Legion Hall.

Trustee elections are held the first Saturday in April, and this year the first Saturday is also the first day of the month.

Abe Watson will be election judge and Carl Chafin and J. T. Cypert will be election clerks.

Two places are open on the ticket; John Crownover and Clyde Voss' terms expire.

Youngblood said anyone interested in announcing for the vacancies may file their names at his office from now until 5 p.m. March 1.

So far, no one has announced.

PRAYER OF THE WEEK

The Herald would like to have a prayer published each week, written by one of its readers. Only stipulation is that the message contain not over 60 words.

Anyone and everyone is invited to send in their favorite prayer.

If a large number is received the Herald will select the one it considers best, or hold it and run it at a later date.

Rev. Floyd Bailey will start the new series with the following message:

O Lord, teach us that the fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom. We read in thy word that nothing is hid which shall not be manifested. "He that covereth his sins shall not prosper; but whosoever confesseth and forsaketh them shall have mercy." Help us to confess our faults fully and freely. Teach us the path of righteousness. For Thy name's sake. AMEN.

City Council Has Monthly Meeting

Knox City's City Council held their regular monthly meeting Monday night at Roddy's Cafe.

Those present at the meeting were: Aldermen Dr. Charles G. Markward, A. T. Holcomb, Monty Penman, and Vaughn Gruben, Mayor Guy Glenn and City Secretary Wesley Garrison.

The City's business Monday was mostly a discussion and resumption of past business the City has accomplished.

The City will finish patching streets when weather permits. Wesley Garrison told the Council finances were in the black and in good shape, and gave a report on expenditures for the past year.

The City has purchased a new pickup, truck, bought the airport, installed new sewer lines, paid approximately $5500, for a well, as well as kept up the regular run of expenses during the past year, and kept their finances in the black.

The City has also purchased a new water well, but exact cost and details were not complete at press time.

The well in question is the one Sonnie Hughes drilled near the city limits Jan. 24.

So far Knox City has had ample water supply, but the city in trying to plan for the future needs of the community, decided to buy the new well.

Also under discussion was the need to clean up the cemetery. The City will clean it up and haul off trash as soon as weather permits, they said.

Munday Delegation Here On Water Authority Problem

City Secretary Wesley Garrison announced at Lions Club Wednesday that a delegation of businessmen and interested persons from Munday would be in Knox City at 9 a.m. today for a discussion on the Water Authority proposition.

They planned to hold the meeting at Roddy's Cafe.

Munday is one of several area towns who had a bond election to help finance the proposed lake. Knox City did not vote for the proposition.

Knox City's Aldermen and interested citizens were asked to meet with the Munday men.

Editorial . . .

Too often a newspaper condemns a lot more than it condones, and occasionally it is a good practice for both a newspaper and reader to take inventory on themselves in what they believe in and not against.

The Herald believes in the continued growth and prosperity of both Knox City and Knox County. We are FOR anything that will be of benefit to either one, for we will be affected by the outcome.

We DO believe in Knox City and the people of Knox City. We also believe we have one of the best towns and most prosperous communities anywhere.

We also believe we can do better. Knox City has more than its quota of energetic businessmen and public spirited citizens. It is this determination and planning by these men and women who have kept Knox City from joining the long list of towns who have depreciated into obscurity.

We believe Knox City will continue to grow, for a town never stands still—if it doesn't grow it dies. We believe everyone should keep this in mind when planning a home, a business, or even paving of streets.

Without this insight and planning, there is only one road we can travel.

Knox City IS a small town, but it is ALSO a live wire, and can be made into a much better and prosperous community.

We have to think bigger, act bigger, and promote our metropolis a little more.

We also believe we can accomplish anything we decide to do about it, too!

Streams in Desert Places

Ozelle Stephens

Sometimes as we think of world affairs, the outlook seems dark. We see only the working of evil forces. But we should remember God, who created this world and called it good is still in charge. When we obey His command to read and believe His Word, to watch and pray and trust in Him, we find the light of His truth brings love, peace and understanding. A light that shineth in a dark place revealing all mysteries. When the light of His truth dawns upon us, it warms us, and love is quickened within us.

Science tells us that energy of the planet is acted upon by light. And that any planet, to produce life must have light. The light of Christ means to man what the light of the sun means to the earth. Through prayer the light of man's spiritual nature can turn darkness into light. It can change a barren life into a productive life. . . . Before the birth of Jesus, the prophet Isaiah said: "The people who walk in darkness have seen a great light. . . . and his Name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, Mighty God, Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace." Jesus said, "I am the light of the world; he who follows me will not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life." (John 8:12).

Being snow-bound earlier this week, I had an opportunity to read a Christmas gift.

Richard Armour's The Classics Reclassified is a fiendish satire of seven great works dedicated to the Required Reading List ("better even than artificial respiration for keeping dead authors alive.") The book is Mad-ness personified—if the reader learns anything, it is his own fault.

Of Homer and his Iliad, Armour writes: Almost nothing is known of Homer, which explains why so much has been written about him. Nevertheless, Homer was born in Greece—a lucky break for Greek literature. The Iliad is not a poem about the ill. It is about Ilium, which is another name for Troy and not the new chemical added to toothpaste. After the story? Armour questions: Try sleeping on oxihide with a shield for a pillow. Now do you see why

VISITORS IN PROPPS HOME

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Krause of Fort Dodge, Iowa, and Mrs. A. H. Clark of Oklahoma City, visited their sister, Mrs. A. E. Propps and husband this week.

Greek warriors always got up in the morning in a fighting mood?

Shakespeare spent part of his boyhood as a butcher's apprentice. Armour explains that "all the hacking and blood make an impression on his young mind and was later reproduced faithfully in the fifth act of each of his tragedies." After murdering Ivanhoe and Sir Walter Scott (Scott was a Scot. As a boy, he was a boy Scot.), Armour asks: Did you ever hear about the king of beasts that was called Lion the Richard-hearted?

The Scarlet Letter is set in Boston, in colonial times when sin was really sinful. By the time the reader reaches the second paragraph, where Hawthorne dwells lovingly on jails and cemeteries, he knows this is no place to be looking for laughs. After Silas Marner Armour asks: Imagine working sixteen hours a day at a loom. Just imagine. At the end of the day, would Silas be warped, woofed, or pooped? What would you do if you had a brother like Dunstan? Would you do it with a gun, arsenic, or a knife? David Copperfield seems to have impressed Armour as a very tear-jerky novel. He questions: Mr. Micawber, the blow-hard serving so much time in debtor's prison, is said to have been modeled on Dicken's father. Do you want your son to be a writer? On which page did you shed your first tear? Did you know to read Dicken's volume Ab-

MAKE
WORK FOR

ELECTRICITY, probably more than any other source of energy, has been responsible for the high standards of living enjoyed by millions of Americans. The nation is more productive, healthier, wealthier, and more secure. A large part to the number of tasks electricity performs.

Today's people live longer because electricity accomplishes what formerly drained their strength and impaired their health. Many tasks that were impossible without electricity. At the touch of a button or the flip of a switch, it goes to work in factories, homes, on farms, on the land, in the air, and at sea—doing the work of millions of people and enabling millions to live with more ease and convenience than ever before. In medicine and in science, it enables man to study areas as yet unexplored. Today's children can look to a future in which electricity will make even greater contributions to their comfort and security.

Electricity stands ready to do even more in the way of improvement in which we live, whether it is the world of business, science, medicine, entertainment. Electricity is ready to create more jobs and whole new ones. It is ready to take on increased tasks on the job, in homes, on the farm, in factories. Electricity and its abilities are boundless—they need only be put upon to serve. This is the electrical industry's message during National Electrical Week, a message to its own employees and to the public: MAKE ELECTRICITY WORK FOR YOU.

Uncle Ben from Benjamin says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

We got a new feller in our neighborhood and I think he's going to be right good. Me and Ed Doolittle went over to see him the other night and he was telling us he's got a sure fire trick to fetch rain. All he had to do to get rain, he said, was to ferret and leave some sacks of corned outdoors. Claimed he got about a half inch to the sack. We're mighty glad to get this feller out here. Now if we can get somebody to furnish the cement, we got the crops practically laid by.

A whole bunch of wimmen folks was calling on this feller's wife when we was out there. Coming home, Ed allowed as how he was the only dirt farmer to ever break the sound barrier, claims he got two words in edgewise while talking to the wimmen.

Me and Ed could've give this feller a heap of good advice on how to get along out here, but he talked like he'd been around some himself. As in most communities, the people out here with the narrowest minds has got the widest mouths. I try to keep away from neighborhood fusses. I've found out that it's a heap easier to stay out than get out. Of course, secretly they've got a few scattered around out here that, if they'd break a leg, I'd rather it was their neck. But I just keep th'v'e tender sentiments to myself.

I was noting in the papers this week a couple of important scientific items. A history professor from the University of North Carolina named Dr. Crittenden says the typical mountaineer has disappeared from the mountains in this country. I ain't surprised none to hear this scientific fact. Them mountaineers has been migrating for years to radio stations to sing hillbilly songs. I reckon radio finally got 'em all. If professor Crittenden will start a movement to get 'em back to the hills, I'd do all I can to help.

The second item come from a feller named Dr. Gans of London who claims the 2,400-year-old habit of doctors examining the patient's tongue is a complete waste of time. For most of my life the standard examination for all doctors was to take your temperature, count your pulse, thump your stomach, and look at your tongue. When he got through he could tell whether you was well, bilious, or dead. And I ain't surprised none at this new discovery by Dr. Gans. As a matter of fact, Mister Editor, I ain't surprised at nothing no more. As far as I'm concerned, they can take the exclamation point out of the English language.

Yours truly,

Uncle Ben

Dear Editor:

I note in your column last week "Just Talk" your comment about some of the things said to you about sending out notices of expiration.

Your efforts along this line may be due to inexperience or soft heartedness. I suggest the following: Put the expiration date on each copy sent out, this will work with some people, and with some it won't.

Those that need extra attention to pay, I suggest that you go to the hospital, have your surgeon cut out your heart, and upon recovery return to your office and begin writing your delinquents.

I cannot guarantee that this will get all your money, or decrease the harsh words, but it will eliminate most of the things said to you, you just want give a lesson.
