Look To The East
By Aaron Edgar

Sometimes it is well to look in retrospect - travel down "memory lane" for a spell.

It takes you out of today's humdrum, rejuvenates the mind; and, possibly adds strength to the body to begin anew to deal with the realities of life.

Take this column of last week, dealing with Munday's floods and drainage efforts, etc., which caused at least one person to rekindle the flames of past thoughts and efforts.

He was W. R. Moore Sr., who recalls that he was mayor of Munday when the first drainage ditch was constructed in Munday. J. M. Terry was mayor when the flood of 1942 caused Munday's water well that supplied the town with water to cave in.

Bill Moore remembered that his tenure as mayor was one that was not to be ashamed of. Among the things undertaken and accomplished were three in particular: construction of the drainage ditch, paving of many of the city's streets, and remodeling of the city hall.

As these memories returned to former mayor Moore, we had occasion to dwell in the past by an event that took place during the weekend.

It was the death of Coke Stevenson.

We recalled living in Eldorado - a part of the Hill Country - when it was the "kingdom" of Coke R. Stevenson while he was serving in the legislature. If people wanted anything done, they sought the aid of Stevenson.

Another incident we recall was that of making a trip to Austin with a delegation that appeared before the Texas Highway Commission in an effort to get a paved road into Eldorado - from Menard into Eldorado, and thence from Eldorado to Ozona. Along with the delegation was Coke Stevenson, who joined us in Austin.

"These are my people," Stevenson told the commission in his slow, soft ranch-type drawl. "I haven't done anything for them lately, and I want to help them." We didn't get commitment for the road then. It was not until after we had become a citizen of Munday.

Coke Stevenson's death on Saturday refreshed our memory on the Jim Wells County Election Box 13 incident.

Coke was serving in the legislature when L. B. J. was director of the Civilian Conservation Corps, which was organized in depression days to furnish jobs for the unemployed, and among its accomplishments was development of the Big Bend National Park.

His political career began with County Judge of Kimble County in 1918, the State Legislature in 1929 and the first speaker ever to preside over the House of Representatives 2 straight terms, 1933 and 1935. He went on to become lieutenant governor in 1938, and governor in August, 1941, when "Pappy" O'Daniel went to the U. S. Senate.

Meeting Called To Organize Schools In State Tax Fight

A meeting has been called for Friday, July 25, at Munday for the purpose of organizing schools of the 101st Representative District of Texas for the purpose of finding ways to replace ad-valorem property tax burdens on the local schools.

This meeting is a result of the passing of House Bill 1126, a public school financing bill, by the 64th session of the Texas Legislature, which places on state schools the burden of raising additional tax money for operation of the schools.

The meeting will be at the Munday High School building, which will be opened at 5 p.m. for picking up name tags and visiting. A barbecued dinner will be served at 6 p.m., with a general session to follow.

Hosts for the meeting are: State Rep. W. S. Heatly, who is furnishing the beef; Knox County Commissioners Court, Benjamin School Board, Goree School Board, Knox City School Board and the Munday School Board.

It is hoped this organization, when formed, will spread state-wide so the small schools will have a voice in the halls of the Texas Legislature concerning taxation of the rural schools.

Principal concern with the school financing bill are as follows:

1. The property taxpayers of Texas will be required to raise an additional $400-plus million to finance their local school's share of the foundation program during the next two years. This places a greater percentage of the burden on local property tax payers, because, since 1949, the state has paid 80% and the local district 20%. The ratio, under the new bill, is 60% state and 40% local.

2. The professional unit allocations, under the bill, are not sufficient to staff most rural schools at the level necessary to meet current accreditation standards.

3. Several "save harmless" amendments were added to the bill in an effort to afford some protection during the next two years; however, these "save harmless" provisions will expire.

4. The bill requires full market values to be used in determining a school district's ability to pay. This will require state-wide equalization of property values.

All school superintendents, school board members, Commissioners Courts and county judges of the 15-county 101st District have been invited to the meeting. Between 300 and 400 people are expected.

Telephone Rate Increase Is Asked For Munday Area

Representatives of the General Telephone Company of the Southwest met with the City Council in regular session on Tuesday night, June 10, to initiate requests for a substantial rate increase for local patrons.

Due to a limited time, Ben Steele and W. R. Cornelius, representing the telephone company, asked to meet with the City Council again on Tuesday, July 8, at 7 p.m. They have tentatively applied for an approximate 30% rate increase, citing "inadequate return on their investment and inflation" as the primary cause for this increase.

Under the proposal, monthly rates would be increased as follows:

Business phones, 1 party, from $15.10 to $21.10; residence, one party, from $6.15 to $8.50; residence, two party, from $5.10 to $6.75; semi-public, from $15.10 to $21.20.

Benjamin Social Center Building Site Prepared

The Benjamin Ex-Students Association is pleased to announce that work has begun on preparing the lots south of the courthouse for construction of the Benjamin Social Center. The city manager, Mr. Buddy Tolson, graded and leveled the lots last week. This week County Commissioner (Prec. No. 2) Mr. Bobby Roberson, had his men hauling sand to the site and leveling it. The League Estate donated the sand for the project. The city is watering down the sand to facilitate its setting.

The work done is another step forward in achieving the goal for an area social center, but most commendable is the cooperation and contributions of the local city, and county governments and of individual citizens working together for the common good. As soon as cash contributions are sufficient, construction of the concrete slab will begin.

New Dentist To Open Munday Office August 1

A "hearty welcome" was extended to Dr. and Mrs. A. Dale Selzer of Dallas when they visited in Munday on Thursday of last week.

The Selzers were here concerning their upcoming move in the near future when Dr. Selzer opens his dentistry practice.

The exact opening date for Dr. Selzer's office is not definite at this time, but the probable date is August 1. This will be Dr. Selzer's first practice since he is a recent graduate of Baylor College of Dentistry.

Selzer's hometown is Ennis, Texas. After graduation from Ennis High School, he attended Texas A&M University where he received his degree. Mrs. Selzer (Martha) is from Robert Lee and graduated from East Texas State University at Commerce. She will be employed as an elementary teacher in the Munday Public Schools.

We're small town people at heart since we were both reared in small towns, and we're really looking forward to living in Munday. Everyone is so nice and friendly," commented Dr. Selzer.

The dentist office will be located in the building next door to Charles Baker Ins.

"Our plans are to move to Munday around the middle of July and open the office August 1," said Dr. Selzer. The Selzers are members of the Baptist church.

Water Study For Area Is Started Last Week

Rollin W. Harden, an Austin consultant, made his first visits to Knox and Haskell Counties last week to begin a 40-month study of the water supply in the Seymour Aquifer, according to the Texas Water Quality Board, sponsor of the study.

M. L. Wiggins, chairman of a citizens advisory board in Knox and Haskell counties, which requested the study, announced that Mr. Harden will be working out of Munday.

The project has been undertaken, after several months of preparation, at the request of residents of the two counties who are concerned with the quality of the water in the aquifer.

Harden said the study, which will cost $237,000, is aimed at locating the sources of chlorides, nitrates and sulphates in the water and at finding ways to halt the pollution. Of the total cost of the project, the Texas State Department of Health will receive $22,000 for performing laboratory analyses.

Part of the work also will be done by the Texas Water Development Board at no charge, because of that agency's interest in developing some of the information produced by the study. That work will include installation of water level recorders and computer analysis.

Harden, a geologist and hydrologist, once served with the Board of Water Engineers as a consultant, and with William Guyton and Associates of Austin, a ground water consulting firm.

Mr. Harden arrived in Munday last week, about midweek, and begin initial plans for conducting the water study.

The study of the Seymour Aquifer will embrace a portion of Baylor County, as well as the wide area of Knox and Haskell County.

Meeting with directors of the Munday Chamber of Commerce at a breakfast meeting last Thursday, Mr.

Harden gave a detailed report of the study. He said the quantity and quality of water will be determined by means of some 1,200 test wells embracing an area of some 200,000 acres.

"We will measure water levels in wells at the beginning, then at the end of pumping stages, locate oil and irrigation wells and test some of them, and prepare a water table map showing the discharge and movement of water," he said. "I believe the study will show a lot more recharge than anyone thought."

"The program is set up for 40 months, and the bulk of the field work is expected to be completed in two years," Harden continued. "We will be sampling wells now in operation, as well as new ones when they are drilled, making a test-range of permeability of the soil.

We will test for pollution, a source of this survey. Shallow formations are more susceptible to pollution from surface sources. We will determine the source and rate of recharge and its effect on the future quality of water.

"We don't have an extreme nitrate problem, in my opinion. We have more nitrate than is ideal, and we will try to determine the sources of nitrate."

"Water is not inexhaustible," he concluded, "and there is always a limit to the amount."

Knox County Is Working On Family Land Heritage

County Judge Sam E. Clonts is working with the Texas Department of Agriculture in registering area farmers and ranchers who qualify for honors in the Family Land Heritage Program for 1975.

The program gives recognition to those who have kept land in the family for 100 years or more, maintaining continuous agricultural operations, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White explained.

Last year over 560 families qualified for certificates and inclusion in the Family Land Heritage Registry, which contains brief histories of all the farms and ranches, the names of current owners, and pictures of early settlers.

"The Texas Department of Agriculture has received many requests for the Registry - from universities, historians, and government agencies. It provides an interesting record of agriculture in the early days of Texas, as well as anecdotes about members of the families.

"We also included notations on the 100-year-old structures on the property, no matter what condition. This information can be invaluable to researchers," White stated.

"For this reason, we are trying to register all those who qualify - not only to give these people some recognition, but also to have a permanent record of pioneer agricultural producers in Texas."

Application forms are available from the county judge's office. Once completed, the forms must be certified by the county judge or his designate. They are then mailed to the Texas Department of Agriculture with any pictures of early settlers which can be copied and returned. Deadline is August 15, 1975.

Born March 4, 1890, in Arkansas, Mr. Mills moved to Knox City in 1923. He married Ella Booe of Munday on July 8, 1969, and had lived in Munday since that time. He was a retired farmer and oil salesman.

election when Stevenson lost the U. S. Senate bid to Lyndon B. Johnson by the controversial 87-vote margin that followed tabulation of Box 13 in Jim Wells County.

Stevenson took the fight to the courts, and finally to the U. S. Senate itself. A Senate Committee refused to overturn Johnson's narrow victory. We recall citing Stevenson as a poor loser at the time, and later have wondered what course history would have taken had he won the contest.

In his tribute to Stevenson, Gov. Briscoe said in part:

"As elected representative from the Hill Country, he exemplified those virtues of the people of the area: integrity, hard work and a devotion to economy and efficiency in government. He leaves a record of distinguished public service that will serve as an example for future generations."

But we'll dismiss memory for now. There's a future ahead of us!

SHE'S RETIRED: Mrs. Leona Keel Blankenship completed a 38-year career in the offices of Dr. R. L. Newsom last Monday when she entered a period of retirement.

38 Year Career As Secretary Closes For Leona Blankenship

Miss Leona Keel (excuse, please, she's Mrs. Porter Blankenship, now) straightened her desk for the last time last Tuesday at 5 p.m., closing out a 38-year career as secretary in the offices of Dr. R. L. Newsom, Munday physician.

She has entered retirement, and said she believed she would be perfectly happy doing just home work and helping Porter with "piddlin' duties" in the garden and flower beds. No longer will she have to report for work on time or let her actions be governed principally by working hours and times of rest and leisure.
Not that her working hours ever became oppressive, because she says she's enjoyed every minute of it. Dr. Newsom has been a wonderful and understanding employer.

Leona started her work with Dr. Newsom in February of 1937, about a year after the "young physician" had opened medical practice in Munday. She was the third secretary to be employed by Dr. Newsom, the other two remaining but a short time.

At this time, the doctor's office was located upstairs over the First National Bank. It was in 1950 that Dr. Newsom built his spacious, attractive and convenient office and clinic where he presently continues his practice.

Leona, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Keel, attended the Munday schools and graduated from high school in 1926. She recalled that Dr. J. Horace Bass, "a most wonderful man" was one of her teachers during her senior year.

Then followed employment in the office of Dr. E. M. Ammons, local dentist, who also had offices in the First National Bank building. After eight years with Dr. Ammons, she resigned to "seek more learning" and completed a course in business administration in Abilene. She was then employed by H. A. Pendleton at Pendleton Gin Co. during one ginning season, where she first became acquainted with Social Security, setting up her first records on the Social Security tax.

Knowing that Leona desired retirement, Dr. Newsom employed Donna Cotton of Goree, whose husband, George, is principal of the Goree Schools. Mrs. Cotton has been in training since April 15, and last Tuesday became secretary to Dr. Newsom.

On Monday, her last day of employment, Leona was looking forward to retirement with pleasurable anticipation. "I'm one who stays busy," she said, "and I expect to continue to be busy with my home, and work in the garden and yard."

Here she will have a companion in Husband Porter, who also enjoys those things. Porter retired some seven years ago, when he sold his farms to his two sons. He continues to do some farm or ranch work, helping his boys when in a tight or some friend who needs occasional relief.

When asked about a vacation or trip, Leona said nothing like that is in the near future, but "we want to be free to take a trip" if their desires turn in that direction.

Employees in the office presented Leona with gifts Monday morning, so at quitting time that afternoon she had nothing to do but to step out into a new world of her own - that of retirement.

Weekend guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Ponder were Mr. and Mrs. Levi Clark and Mrs. Lillie Clark of Odessa.

Heatly Voices Opposition To State School Financing

The following remarks on school financing were made by Rep. W. S. (Bill) Heatly, as reduced for printing in the House Journal:

Well, being a Freshman, maybe you don't want to pay any attention to me, but Mr. Speaker and Members of the House: this school financing has caused me more sleepless nights than you might think. I have raised my children, but I have eight grandchildren and probably will have some more so naturally I am concerned about our schools.

I live in and represent the largest area of Texas in this House. It is much larger than several states in the United States. It has 35 school districts in it and I guess some of the smallest ones that there are in Texas are in my District.

There has been kind of an undertow to consolidate and this we don't want to do. We don't want to destroy our communities. When they have their schools, they have their churches, they have their farm-to-market roads, and they have their homes. We want to maintain all of these things.

Now much has been said about market value and there is considerable amount of controversy in regards to the term "Market Value".

Some years you can sell land for twice as much as you can the next year when it doesn't rain any - so how are we going to find a market value? Certainly, you can't use the actual cash value because no one in the finance business, the insurance companies, the banks, the Federal Land banks, or any of those in financing farm and ranch property will loan you in excess of 60% of the cash value of it at that time. Of course, they don't want to foreclose on you. They don't want the land. They just want the interest.

Well, we don't have a great deal of objection to taxes even though no one likes taxes. The word itself is harsh. But we do want to survive. Now we are going into a direction in this Bill that I trust we will turn around two years from now. And that is, the new money that we have in this Bill - instead of the 80-20 we go to a 60-40 instead of going back to a 90-10. Now this is more important in the school financing than one might think at this time, but let me tell you that when this "save harmless" clause leaves in two years from now, and if we don't get some help and relief in the proper direction, God help the school districts in West Texas. They will be gone. There is no way on earth that they can survive.

A large number of Counties out there have less than 5,000 population, and you are going to find that it would take four or five counties under the recommendation of the Committee of Eighteen to even make one public school. You don't want to force children under the tender age of seven to drive in the morning before daylight in snow and ice, a distance of 30 to 45 miles in order to attain or begin their first grade education.

In my opinion, this Bill is going to pass and we are getting down to a point where we have got to really do some thinking and let's do it in this behalf. Let's do it on behalf of the school children. Let's disregard the other phases that has to do with the operations of a school system but do that which is necessary to maintain and keep a stable form of public school education in the State of Texas.

I plead with you that you give this school financing thought - many hours of thought between now and the time we reconvene here in January, 1977. Let's find some other way other than going backwards to 60-40 financing. We have done a great deal since 1949. I heard two men stand at this very microphone in 1949 and they said that within two decades the Gilmer-Aiken Act would bankrupt Texas. Well, they are missing it by about five or seven years unless we turn it around.

Now that was the late Doug Bergman and Sam Hanna and I cherished their friendship all of their lives. So this thing is not just are we going to get by now, but we have got to come up with some type of a program that is not going to destroy a school nor will it destroy a farmer or rancher nor will it destroy the buildings on Main Street in Houston.

In our dry land area, we certainly can not afford to be levied with taxes that will have such an effect that we would have to go delinquent. This year we passed a Bill that you can foreclose within five years and take the land. This thing is getting serious where the food and fiber comes from and I only hope that my combine is running today to bring in a little of that food.

Now this matter of market value, when you look at Houston Independent School District setting on a $12 billion valuation that is tremendous, but I doubt if there are two blocks on Main Street that you could buy for $12 billion dollars. So you see, we are all in the same situation. We have got to work this thing out together whether we live in Cottle County or whether we live in Harris County. We are all in it together. We are not going to divide up the State into five states, Mr. Agnich. We have got to keep it together and keep it strong.

And I would beg of you to keep in mind that school financing is of the utmost importance. I have not taken an active part in school financing since I have been in this House for the last two decades. I have just voted for all the school salary raises and voted for all the taxes that have ever gone on the books to pay for them. That is not anything that I take pride in but I felt it was my responsibility if I was going to vote to spend the money then I was going to have to vote to raise the money. But we are getting back now to where the man and the woman who till and work the soil and earn their living by the sweat of their brow, if we come in and do away with this "save harmless" clause and don't protect them, we have annihilated many, many families and taken away from them that which I think they are justly entitled to and that is - their property and their homes and their method of helping their local schools and sending their children and their grandchildren to school.

One last remark: in this Bill, going by the figures given to me, the only taxes that my 35 school districts would have to raise, are those which are already on the books in the ten-year statute that we passed and that I voted for. But I don't understand how it is going to do that when the State is going to put out $653 million and we have to bring up $400 million. That has got to come but from only one place and only one source and that is a tax increase on the local school districts.

That is why I have insisted that those who are preparing this, those who say that this is the way that it is figured and that it is right, I would like for them to sign this set of figures because I can hardly conceive that this situation can exist without us having to raise $400 million other than at the state level. Now if we get by with that, there is a miracle that I just don't know about nor can I locate it. Neither can a man who lives in my district that has helped us with this Bill and who knows school financing as well as anyone in the State of Texas. We have looked over thing thing time and time again and I have almost learned how to figure a formula myself and I didn't think that I would ever get to that point.

But this is something that is critical. It is serious and I trust that we do that which is best for the school student two years from now disregarding further matters with reference to the school situation and we already owe on the local level over and in excess of $3 billion bonded indebtedness in this State.

Johnathan Smith Celebrates Third Birthday Tuesday

My name is Jonathon Mark Smith and I thought Tuesday, June 24 would never arrive. Why? Because this was the day I was to celebrate my third birthday. I was very disappointed because the weather prevented us from having the party in the City Park. But the rain didn't spoil my day completely, because my little friends came to my house to celebrate.

We had Raggedy Ann and Andy cake, ice cream and punch. The theme of Raggedy Ann and Andy was carried out in the kitchen and den with lots of decorations and one big "doll" hanging from the ceiling. I enjoyed all the gifts everyone brought me, and I want to thank all my little friends and their mothers for making my day a happy one.

My mother, Mrs. Shirley Smith, hosted the party along with some help from Granny Smith and Aunt Esther from Goree. Friends attending were Bryan and Kent Latham, Cheryl and Michael Bunton, Cindy Berryhill, Rhondi Bruce, Russell Reddell, Robbie Whitford, Robt Kingston, Jeffery and Brett Bruce, James Gass, Angie and April Offutt, Kipp Cotton and Dwayne Birkenfeld of Goree, Kevin and Christy White of Knox City.

Mothers attending were Laresha Phillips, Linda Reddell, Diana Bruce, Linda Bunton, Gayle White, Linda Latham, Becky Offutt, Sammie Kingston, Martha Whitford, Shirley Gass, Ann Birkenfeld, and Cheryl Berryhill.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Nickels of San Antonio came in last Friday to visit her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bausch, and help take care of the new Bausch twins, Michael Todd and Carrie Lynn.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Williams of San Angelo spent the weekend with her mother, Mrs. Betty Melton, and Greg and other relatives and friends.

LOOK WHO'S HERE!

We're the Bausch twins and our parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bausch are about as proud as proud can be of us. We made our arrival on Wednesday, June 25, 1975 at the General Hospital in Wichita Falls. Here is the information of our births. A son, Michael Todd, was born at 5:18 a.m., weighed 5 pounds, 13 1/2 ounces and was 19 inches long. A daughter, Carrie Lynn, made her arrival at 5:24 a.m., weighed 5 pounds, 14 1/2 ounces and was 19 inches long. Our grandparents, and believe us, they are beaming with pride, are Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Bausch of Bandera and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Nickels of San Antonio. We have two great-grandmothers on our mother's side of the family, Mrs. Ida Nickels of San Antonio and Mrs. Cleatus Anderson of Dallas, who are also very proud of their "little twins."

TRACTOR SAFETY
Millions of tractors are in operation throughout the country during this time of the year, and tractor accidents are taking their toll. Accident victims include both the young and old, the inexperienced as well as the experienced operators.

Tractor safety should be practiced by young and old alike, and a few safety tips are offered:
1. Keep children off and away from farm machinery.
2. Thoroughly train young operators and supervise them until you are satisfied that they are competent and will operate safely.

3. Discourage young operators from horseplay, showing off and "hot rodding" the equipment. Don't let them take buddies along for the ride.

4. Driving a farm vehicle on public roads requires not only the skill to safely handle the equipment but also the ability to safely cope with traffic. Only a person with a valid operator's license should be permitted to drive farm equipment on public roads.

5. Older persons should operate with extra care to compensate for slowed reaction time, poorer vision and hearing, and less energy.

6. Do not operate tractors or other farm equipment when ill, fatigued or taking strong medication that alters alertness.

7. Don't overdo it -- take occasional work and refreshment breaks to fight fatigue.

8. Consider equipping the tractor with a comfortable protective cab that will not only provide good overturn protection but will also reduce personal stress and discomfort caused by environmental conditions. In lieu of a protective cab, a basic protective frame should be installed that will help prevent serious injury in case of a side or backward tip.

insurance program keep pace with the rapid increase in farm production expenses.

The collateral value provided by the insurance also has been responsible for an increased demand for FCIC protection in this area in the past two years, Coffman said.

In times of rising farm costs it is often difficult for producers to borrow enough money each year for operating expenses.

"In addition, weather hazards, insects and diseases which reduce yields and fluctuating market prices make it even more difficult to obtain adequate farm financing."

"A Federal Crop Insurance policy provides the additional collateral in many cases to permit adequate crop financing," Coffman said.

He will be in the county for the next few days advising wheat producers of the FCIC program benefits and taking applications from those interested in participating in the government-sponsored program. He may be contacted through the FCIC District Office or the local ASCS County Office.

WHEAT PRODUCERS STILL ELIGIBLE

Wheat producers in Knox County will continue to be eligible for improved "All Risk" insurance benefits under the Federal Crop Insurance program for the 1976 crop year.

Dude M. Coffman, field representative from the District Office at Vernon, Texas 76384, said today the $2.50 per bushel guaranteed production value for 1975 wheat insurance will be continued for another year.

Federal Crop Insurance introduced the improved benefit during the 1975 crop year in order to help the Sorghum planted in a field of plastic? That's one of the possibilities being studied by research groups now taking a hard look at a variety of water conservation programs. Experiments have actually been done in the Oklahoma Panhandle whereby plots were covered by large plastic sheets... holes cut in the plastic for the plants and irrigation water supplied under the plastic. Results... less than half the normal water required. Costs... terrible. So the research goes on with new attention focused on special breeding for water retention and improved plant utilization. Tests at Oklahoma State University reportedly indicated that as much as 2 inches of water a year can be saved by planting sorghum in rows running north and south rather than east to west. Direction of rows, spacing of furrows and development of new breeds are all subjects the sorghum producer will be hearing a lot more about... especially if the weather forecasters are right.

Little League Teams Tighten Things Up Near Season's End

Little League teams began to "tighten things up" last week as the 1975 season is drawing to a close. Only three games remain on schedule.

The Cardinals and Red Sox are high in league standings after the last two play nights. Team standings are as follows: Red Sox, 10 wins to 4 losses; Cardinals, 10 to 5; Yankees, 6 to 7, and Braves, 3 to 11.

In Thursday night's action, the Cardinals out-scored the Red Sox with 7 runs on 6 hits to 3 runs on 1 hit. The Yankees gained 9 runs on 7 hits to oust the Braves, who had 1 run on 1 hit.

Monday night, the Cards warmed the bases with 11 runs on 7 hits to down the Braves, who racked up 6 runs on 4 hits. The Yankees were again winners with 7 runs on 4 hits over the Red Sox, with 3 runs on 3 hits.

As the standings tighten, action during the next week is expected to attract even greater crowds.
