KEEP MUNDAY MONEY IN MUNDAY

Majority 4 to 1 For Road Bonds

Bond Issue Gets Large Majority

$135,000 Bond Issue Carries In Precinct by Majority More Than 4 to 1

In Monday's election held for the purpose of determining whether bonds in the sum of $135,000 should be issued in Independent Road District No. 2-A, Knox County, comprising all of commissioner's precinct No. 4, the bonds carried by a majority of more than four to one, there being 671 votes in favor of the issuance of the bonds with only 158 against the issuance of the bonds.

Munday gave the project a majority of almost 30 to 1, there being 445 votes in favor of the bonds in this box, with only 15 against, and every voting box in the precinct gave the bonds a majority with the exception of Rhineland, which box went almost solidly against the issuance of the bonds.

The vote in the four voting precincts, according to official returns, was as follows:

	For	Against
Munday	445	15
Goree	189	14
Rhineland	8	106
Hefner	29	23

TOTAL 671 158

The carrying of this bond issue will connect Highway No. 20 with the good road system of Baylor and Haskell counties, and will practically insure the retention of the designation of this highway and a State and Federal thoroughfare through this section of the state, and will give the people of this section of the state a direct connection with the good road system in other sections of the state.

Both the State and Federal government will cooperate in the building of this highway, each matching the price dollar for dollar, which means $405,000 will be available for the hard surfacing of this highway for the distance of thirteen miles through Knox county.

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE OFFERS PART-TIME COURSES

The N. T. Agricultural College at Arlington is offering half-time courses wherein the students will spend half time in school and half time on an approved farm within easy access from the college.

The students will work in pairs, while one works six weeks on the farm the other spends six weeks in college and so throughout the year and for two years. The change being made every six weeks. This plan will enable a boy that cannot go to college for four years to get a real practical education and pay his way as he goes.

This course should appeal to boys of limited means that expect to become managers or owners of general farms, dairies, poultry, plants, fruit farms, sheep ranch and any other line of specialized farming. The demand for this type of young men is growing rapidly.

The N. T. A. College being a junior A. & M. College has sent out more detailed information to the county agent and asked that they notify all boys in their counties. Especially will ex-club boys be considered for this training, but all boys are eligible that are about eighteen years old and up, that can read well, or have been through or up to the ninth grade.

While the course will not be open for more than forty or fifty boys this year. If you are interested or know of a deserving boy that is interested please get in touch with W. O. Logan, county agent at Benjamin, immediately.

INFANT DIES

Rosabelle, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayman Linn, residing six miles southwest of Munday, died on Wednesday last week and the remains were laid to rest in the Gillespie cemetery on Thursday morning. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. R. R. Gilbreath.

Many Improvements Made in Gin Plants Pendleton Gin Co.

H. A. Pendleton has been here this week looking after the final details in the overhauling of the gin plants of the Pendleton Gin Company, which owns gin plants at Munday, Goree, Bomarton and Weinert.

Mr. Pendleton states that he has just installed cleaning machinery in each of the plants at a cost of $5,000 in each plant, and with the opening of the ginning season the plants will be in better condition to handle the ginning business than they have ever been before. The plant at Bomarton is being completely rebuilt and will be ready for operation within the next two weeks, while the plants at Munday, Goree and Weinert are now in readiness to start, the Weinert plant having ginned the first bale on Tuesday of this week.

The plant here is that formerly known as the Massey & Frost gin, and will be in charge of Mr. Cecil Barton, while the plants at other points will be in charge of other capable ginmen. The Goree plant will be operated under the management of Mr. M. L. Raines, the Weinert plant under the management of L. M. Bramlett while the plant at Bomarton will continue under the able management of Mr. Chick Huskinson.

In launching into the gin business exclusively Mr. Pendleton states that he expects to give his time to the operation of the plants and see to it that his patrons receive the very best in ginning service, and upon the merits of the service rendered at these various plants he expects to receive a liberal patronage from the farmers adjacent to the towns mentioned.

Uncle Hilory Bedford Pioneer Cattleman Buried at Benjamin

Another pioneer of Texas and one of the three remaining organizers of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association passed away on Wednesday night of last week at Fort Worth and the remains were shipped to Benjamin for interment, and funeral services were held there on Friday morning and was attended by a large concourse of friends.

An organizer, as well as a pioneer, Indian fighter, writer and cattleman, Mr. Bedford founded the town of Benjamin, giving a section of land to the first twelve families who settled there. He remained in Benjamin until fifteen years ago when he retired from activity as a cowman and moved to Midland. His wife preceded him in death some three years ago.

Mr. Bedford came to Texas with his family as a boy of ten. He was born in Bourbon county, Kentucky, and the family first settled in Dallas county, later moving to Ellis county.

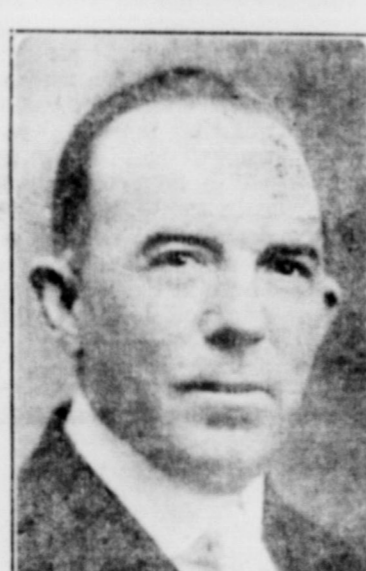

When a young man Mr. Bedford entered the cattle business, going to Wise county. Later he moved to this section of West Texas and operated ranches in Knox and Baylor counties. He was owner of the Moon ranch in Cottle county and the L-Bar ranch in Knox and Baylor counties—both famous ranches in the early days of West Texas.

Mr. Bedford saw much Indian warfare on the Texas frontier and took part in several battles. Fifteen years ago he began writing a series of Indian tales—"Texas Indian Troubles"—which he completed several years later. He also wrote a history of Knox county.

Mr. Bedford is survived by the following children: Mrs. Charles Coombs of Abilene; Mrs. M. S. Hinton of Lubbock; C. I. Bedford of Plains; Mrs. J. O. Jones, Lubbock; Rufus Bedford, Corsicana; Annie Ratliff, Midland; Lettie Bedford, Waurika, Calif.; W. A. Bedford, Mexico and H. G. Bedford, Jr., Midland.

Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Scroggins of Knox City were guests of last week from Abilene. Rev. and Mrs. R. R. Gilbreath on Monday night.

"Who to Believe?"

Evangelist Louis P. Kopp—who will conduct a revival campaign under the auspices of the Christian church, beginning Monday, August 22nd.

Meeting Will Begin August 22 Auspices the Christian Church

Evangelist Louis P. Kopp, working under the auspices of the Texas Christian Missionary Society, with headquarters at Fort Worth, will be the holding of a revival meeting here under the auspices of the Christian Church, and announced that arrangements had been made whereby the house of worship of the Presbyterian people here would be used.

Evangelist Kopp was accompanied on his visit here by Mr. Earl Sparks, who will also return with Evangelist Kopp and will lead in the song services. He is a song leader and soloist of ability and the co-operation of the entire community is coveted in the meeting.

FIRE DESTROYS BARN AND FORD AUTOMOBILE

On Wednesday morning at about 1:00 o'clock the fire alarm sounded and it was discovered that the barn of Ben Guinn was on fire. The fire department made a prompt response to the alarm, but the blaze had made such headway that it was impossible to save the structure, and it and a Ford coupe belonging to Mr. Guinn were destroyed.

The cause of the fire is unknown, but is believed to have originated in the car, as it was almost completely destroyed and indications were that the car had burned before the building became ignited.

Mrs. H. A. Olived returned last week from Abilene last week where she visited relatives.

AGRICULTURAL NOTES

(W. O. Logan, Co. Agent)

Knox County present some facts that needs attention when we look into our status as it really is.

Mr. Van Pelt with the Dairy Department of the United States Dept. of Agriculture gave out the following facts at A. & M. College at the recent short course: "It is recorded that the fertility of the New England States, which is and was the richest part of the United States would last and did last 250 to 300 years under average cropping. The eastern states fertility lasted only about 120 years. While the middle western and Red River Valley of the north is practically worn out with 90 years of cultivation. The south and southwest will do well to stand up under 90 years without heavy decreases in production." We had just as well face the issue squarely for we know our soil is subject to droughts and heavy winds, which makes the problem of restoring fertility all the more hazardous.

We have here in Texas and Knox county natural climatic conditions that makes live stock production much easier and cheaper than the northern states where they have long winters, mud and snow, and have to house large barns of feed securely to keep it.

Knox county sowed 4956 acres in grain—sorghums for 1924 and hardly that much in corn, against 110,515 acres in cotton. Can you imagine any thing more detrimental to the welfare of rural or city life than those figures.

We have 1542 farms in the county and only 138 brood sows in the last census. Only 2368 cows milked, and half of them were beef cows rather than dairy cows. Yes, they made the low average of 2,464 pounds of milk (308 gallons) while the Texas average is 3,000 of milk and that is about 1/2 or maybe three fifths of the northern states.

We produced less than a pint of milk per day for our own people, and many farms were without milk many days through the year. Some were without all the year except when they could buy or beg a little from their neighbors for the babies.

Swisher county with 770 farms produced more than twice the dairy products we did. They made their cows average 3,568 lbs. (446 gallons) or 138 gallons more per cow. Will we be satisfied to let them produce more than two dollars to our one, when we have twice as many farms, with dairy cows. Will we starve and under feed

Ben I. Guinn—pioneer hardware merchant of Munday, who heads newly organized Guinn-Fritz Hardware Company.

Lytle Family Has Family Reunion At Parents Home, Hefner

On last Monday Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Lytle of the Hefner community had with them all of their children, which was the first time that they had all been together in seventeen years, and it is needless to say that the meeting was a very joyous one both for the children and the venerable couple.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Hunter and children, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Ford and children, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Beatty and children, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lytle and children, Mr. and Mrs. Borbet Lytle and children, all of Munday, Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Hall and children of Albuquerque, N. M., and Luther Lytle of Peaster, Texas.

Our boys and girls of the necessary milk and butter, and keep them working over time in the cotton patch to produce cheap cotton that we will buy back for clothes at high prices.

We know it would not be profitable to start a dairy on every farm but we do know that five to eight good milk cows will feed the children better, put the curl in the pig's tail, and enable the dogs and cats to withstand the attack of fleas better, while the old hens will convert the milk into eggs giving us another dish for the table.

Purebred bulls, bread an average cows producing under 4000 pounds of milk per year will produce daughters that will give 25 per cent up to 60 per cent more milk than their dams. Bull circles enables farmers to have the best bull at the minimum price.

County Judges and Commissioners Will Meet Here Aug. 27th

August 27th has been set as the date for the convention of County Judges and Commissioners of this section of the state, which will meet here, according to information from Judge W. F. Parsley of Graham, president of the association.

At the last meeting of the association, which was held at Seymour, an invitation was extended and accepted by the association to hold their next meeting in Munday, and Judge Parsley states that the meeting will convene here at 10:00 o'clock on the above-named date.

This association is composed of Cook, Wise, Montague, Jack, Clay, Wichita, Archer, Young, Stephens, Throckmorton, Baylor, Knox, Haskell, Cottle, Hardeman, Wilbarger, Foard, Parker, Palo Pinto, Stonewall, and Emy counties, hence it will be observed that a large delegation of visitors will be in attendance at this meeting, and we are sure that Munday will do its full duty toward entertaining the visitors within our gates, and they will go home from this meeting praising the hospitality accorded them here.

Supt. J. E. Rhodes Will Bring Bride On Return to Munday

The following account of the marriage of Superintendent J. E. Rhodes, superintendent of the Munday Public schools, is taken from the last week's issue of the Grand Saline Sun and is of interest to our readers:

Miss Jewel Booe and Jesse Rhodes were quietly married in a wedding made beautiful by its simplicity at the home of the bride's parents in Grand Saline, Wednesday afternoon.

The wedding ceremony, which was performed by Rev. W. R. White, Greenville, former pastor of the main Street Baptist church here, opened with a sweet rendition of the song "I Love You Truly," sung by Miss Myra Germany. To the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, played by Miss Germany, the bride and groom marched into the living room in which an altar bordered with pink radiance roses had been provided. It was here that the ring ceremony was used, little Miss Elrina King from Dallas holding the bride's bouquet.

The bride wore a moire dress of Paris blue, a combined traveling and dinner costume. Black slippers trimmed in silver, and gray hose completed the ensemble. A small corsage of pink tea roses was carried. The groom dressed in the conventional blue.

Only the immediate relatives and intimate friends of the contracting parties were present for the ceremony. Miss Lucille Baker, Jacksonville, was an out-of-town guest.

The bride is the talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Booe, a graduate of C. I. A., who taught school in Grand Saline during the past year. Mr. Rhodes is the son of Mrs. Lucy Rhodes, well known in Grand Saline, where he was wonderfully successful as a teacher. For the past year he taught in the Munday schools, and so well pleased was the school board there that he was elected to the position of superintendent.

Immediately following the wedding ceremony, the newly married couple left for a wedding trip to Galveston, after which they will make their home in Munday.

Mr. Bruce Oates, agricultural agent for the Fort Worth and Denver Railway, was here on Wednesday visiting among his many friends. Mr. Oates has just returned from California with a large party of Wichita Falls people, where they went to study the poultry industry, and he states that they came home firmly convinced that Texas has many advantages over California and will ultimately become the greatest poultry producing state in the union.

Guinn-Fritz Hdw. Co. Is Name New Firm

Ben I. Guinn and D. C. Fritz Head Hdw. Firm Succeeding Adams-Leverett Co.

A business change of unusual interest locally has been consummated by the sale of the stock of hardware and implements of the Adams-Leverett Company located in this city to the Guinn-Fritz Hardware Co., a newly formed partnership composed of Ben I. Guinn, D. C. Fritz, C. A. Eiland, Fred Broach and John Ed Jones, and the business is now in charge of the new owners, and will be operated under the management of Messrs Ben I. Guinn and D. C. Fritz.

That the new firm will receive a hearty welcome on the part of the citizenship of this section is evidenced by the many expressions we have heard since the change has been made, for all of the parties interested in the new concern have for years been identified with the up-building of this community and thoroughly understand the requirements of the people in this line. Mr. Guinn, who for many years has been engaged in the hardware business here, is acknowledged as one of the best hardware men in this section of the state, and it is gratifying to his many friends to know that he has again embarked in the business in Munday. Since his retirement from business almost a year ago he has received many attractive offers to engage in business elsewhere, but he has chosen to remain in Munday, and we predict for this new firm a successful business career.

Mr. John Adams, who has been in active charge of the business here for the Adams-Leverett Company, will remain in Munday during the fall season we are informed and will buy cotton here.

None of the proprietors of the new firm need any introduction to the citizenship of the Munday country, for indeed they have been too closely identified with the progress of this community to need any, and the numerous words of congratulation heard on every hand and those so readily spoken by the business concerns of this city, who know the facilities of the new firm to render a real worth-while service to this community indicate the cordial reception that is being accorded the new concern.

Chevrolet Caravan Will Visit Munday On Tuesday, Aug. 23

Displaying seventeen models of truck beds, the eight passenger types, the Chevrolet sales motorcade in conjunction with Bell-Moore Chevrolet, local Chevrolet dealers, will stage one of the most extensive exhibits of automotive power ever seen in Munday on Tuesday morning, August 23.

The caravan will arrive in Munday Tuesday morning. The tour is in charge of H. C. Howard of Dallas, assistant district sales manager; he is assisted by Fred Grundy.

Included in the display of trucks will be bodies manufactured by six Texas factories and one from Louisiana; the bodies included everything from special built delivery body mounted on a regular chassis, to a fire truck. School busses of various types, tank wagons, freight bodies, advertising specialties, trailers and service cars with wrecker apparatus.

Dr. Jas. F. Cadenhead of Weinert was here attending Masonic lodge Monday night. Dr. Cadenhead stated that prospects were excellent for getting the bond issue over for good roads on September 15th, as he states that many of those who opposed the bond issue in the election some days ago have expressed a desire to vote for the issuance of the bonds, and he feels that this time the good roads enthusiasts will win by a substantial majority.

THE LIVING ROOM CONTEST

By Phebe K. Warner

Everybody loves a contest. A horse race used to be one of the most exciting contests. But that's nothing now to a prize fight where two big, strong, sane men try to see which one can kill the other and do it first.

"I see by the papers" that the next prize fight is expected to cash in three million dollars. Doesn't that verify my statement that everybody loves a contest? And that makes me wonder how many of the men who are planning to blow in a part of the three million dollars for the next prize fight have homes of their own. What kind of kitchens their wives live in and if they have ever spent as much on improving their kitchen for their wife's sake as it will cost them to go to the prize fight?

No doubt many of the men who will go to that prize fight live in beautiful homes and their wives do not need to count the miles they walk to do a day's work. As a rule real sports are good livers. I just mentioned the prize fight to show how much interest men take in a contest, even when they are not in it. Just on-lookers. If the people pay three millions to see that fight, how much more do you suppose will be spent on the side lines? What makes folks go crazy over a prize fight anyway?

They say it's because of the human element in it. Wonder how much the nation would pay and how far it would travel to see a woman prize fighter? Women have not had much experience in the contest business. It seems that the world has always thought of contests being fit for male members of the various species only until the Dallas Semi-Weekly Farm News conceived the idea a few years ago of a Better Kitchen Contest.

The real sport of the Better

Kitchen race may not mean much. But to the women of Texas the Better Kitchen Contest has meant more joy and peace and rest and satisfaction and real pride and pleasure than any horse race or any prize fight ever pulled off in the U. S. A. And it has not cost nearly so much, and no one had to go away from home to put one on. The only time these contesting women left home was when they went once a year to the A. & M. College to tell the rest of the State how they made their kitchen over and to receive their prizes from the Semi-Weekly Farm News.

But the Better Kitchen contest has changed the attitude of the Texas woman toward her kitchen. It has taught her to respect her kitchen. It has taught her to love that part of her home. More than that the Better Kitchen contest has touched the artistic and the inventive genius of the average woman and set it to work to beautify her home. It has revealed to the home makers of Texas the possibilities for better things within their own reach for their own home. And there is no way to measure the influence of this awakening in the homes of the present and the future of our state.

And that's not all the Better Kitchen contest has done for Texas. It has interested men in the conveniences and the time and labor savers for their wives. It has taught them that a few hours and a few dollars spent to make the kitchen more convenient is a far better investment than doctor bills; and brings more happiness to the whole family than a tired, worn-out discouraged, cross mother.

This year more than six hundred women attended the Short Course last week and those women who had at some time made over their kitchens. One of the most inspirational meetings of the whole week is to listen to the club women tell how they made over their kitchens. And now, that the Kitchen Contest has become so well established in Texas that it is able to go on and perpetuate itself, the Semi-Weekly Farm News decided to START something else.

And next year for the first time the farm women of Texas will have a Living Room Contest. Doesn't that sound good? Here an entirely new set of ideas will come into use. Great and good as was the kitchen contest, it interested mother more than the other members of the family because it was for mother's comfort and convenience especially. No one else expected to spend much time there. What the other members of the family did, they did for her sake, which was dear of them to be sure.

But the living room! It belongs to the whole family. It is the room where the whole family sing, and play and talk and read together. It's the council chamber of the home. It's the room where most of the guests are received. It's the community room of the home. What memories will cluster round the old home living room as long as memory lasts! There's nothing too good for that living room.

Every member of the family should be interested in making over the living room. Everyone should lend their ideas of art and comfort and beauty. Everyone should lend their help on the work to be done. And there is another chance for every member of the family to be useful, and that is to help make the money that will be necessary to carry out your ideas of an ideal living room.

Won't it be interesting next year at the Short Course to hear mother tell what John did to help pay for the radio and what Mary did to re-paper the room and what father did to fix the floor and the windows and what she did to get the new rug and what the children away from home sent back to add to the comfort and interest of the Old Home Living Room? How the son in manual training class worked over the furniture and daughter in the girls 4-H club made the curtains and hung the pictures.

Here's a family contest that will mean more to the State of Texas than all the horse races, or all the prize fights for 1928. When the announcement was made that next year's contest would be on the living room, one woman whispered to me, "Oh, I'm so glad and I hope the next contest will be the Better Yard Contest."

The Dallas Semi-Weekly Farm News has sure started something.

ENTHUSIASM

By Harry Collins Spillman

How refreshing it is to meet men that don't belong in the category of the unburied dead! We meet a lot of men who do belong to that category. It is a wonderful thing to belong to an organization that causes a man to believe you are alive when you meet him. Your courage, your manner of speech, something about you radiates out of your personality and establishes this very necessary contact which we call enthusiasm. You must have it before you are able to do the thing in life worth while.

There is often a mistake about the date a man dies. A man dies twice in this life—once in the spirit and once in the body. These two departures are not always made concurrently. The date on the tombstone is not the date a man dies; that is the date that society takes formal notice of his departure. You cannot tell when a man dies by reading his death notice in the newspaper. No! A man dies when hope flees from his breast and his mind ceases to adventure.

Nothing great in this life has ever been accomplished without this quality of enthusiasm. Mighty few things have ever failed that have had it.

I said to an old man, "How beautiful is the summer! He said, "Autumn comes and paints the foliage of the trees an orchestration of coloring. Nothing has ever been so beautiful to me as the autumn of life. And then winter comes and the hail and the sleet and the snow beats the leaves from the trees and I look through the barren branches and see, as I never saw before, the beauty of the sky. Why? In my life there has been no such thing as bad weather. I have had different kinds of good weather."

That was his enthusiasm! I often wonder why people talk about the weather so much when they can do so little about it.

I am asking you if you wear the symbol of your business? Is it merely an outward symbol of enthusiasm you do not feel and a loyalty you do not possess, or does it flutter underneath your jacket on the left-hand side?

We get out of life exactly what we put into life; and the same is true in business. We have no right to anticipate a dividend that can only be declared on a heart investment if we only have our pocketbook invested.

The final edition of "Who's Who" never goes to press, and it offers a standing invitation to the man who will learn to see beyond his nose, to reason from effect back to cause, to distinguish live wires from dead ones without coming into actual contact with the wire. Every great invention breaks the heart of a hundred men who had dreamed about it years in advance of the inventor's patent. They had made a dreamer's model but flagging imagination or reluctant concentration had omitted the spring or screw that would have tightened the mental patent into a practical machine. The same thing may be said of lost sales—the failure to be enthusiastic spells the difference between the mere order-taker and the fellow who delivers the blue vase.

The following illustrations which occurred under my own observation can be matched by similar stories of contrast by every reader who has had large experience with men.

After I had spent a summer at Harvard University, I returned to New York on a steamer from Providence. On board the vessel that night I met the most wonderful man of all my acquaintances. I cannot tell you his name for indeed I never knew him, and yet I call him the most interesting man I have ever met. He was a steerage passenger and had come up from the bowels of the ship after midnight to get a few breaths of fresh air. I found that he was a bill-poster for one of our great American circuses. He was not an educated man from the viewpoint of books but he was a post-graduate in the university of observation. He told me all about the wonderful institution—the circus.

I thought I knew all about the circus. Years ago I used to get up at four o'clock in the morning and watch the circus until it left the next morning at four. I thought I knew all about it. I knew all the animals by their first names and was on intimate terms with the gentlemen who issued the complimentary tickets for services rendered.

But I found out on this night that I really knew nothing about the circus. When this bill-poster told me the clock-like precision with which this great institution moves from one city to another; when he told me how many beeves and potatoes were required to feed all the people; the difference in pay between the men who drove the tent stakes and those who did the acting; how I wished that every boy and girl in this country might learn what I learned about a circus that night from this steerage passenger. He had been all over Europe putting up his circus bills, and everywhere he had been he had appropriated the treasures of the old world. At two o'clock that morning, when I allowed this bill-poster to go back to the steerage, I declared that that night had been far more entertaining and profitable to me than any I had spent at Harvard University.

In bold contrast I recall the experience of a man who recently came into my office in New York. He was applying for a stenographic position. In reply to my query as to his education and experience, he said that he had graduated from one of our largest western universities, was a stenographer of three years' experience, was thirty years of age and desired fifteen dollars a week. You can make your own calculations.

I then asked him what he had been doing for the last year. He replied, "Well, I have not been doing anything that would bear upon my ability to earn money. I have just finished my third voyage around the world."

"Do you really mean to tell me that you have been three times around?" He replied, "Yes, I returned only last week on the Mauretania."

By this time he had arisen and started to leave, but I insisted that he be seated and tell me something of the many interesting things he had seen in these three voyages around the world. "Well," he said, "there really isn't anything of interest that I can tell you." "If not," I replied, "let me ask you a few questions. For instance, tell me something about the Mauretania. I have occasionally seen her steam up the bay but I never have been on board?"

"Well," he replied, "the Mauretania is a great vessel; it is some ship." He had gone over on this floating palace of the sea, had enjoyed her luxuries and her conveniences, but had associated in no way this floating hotel with the first rude craft that Robert Fulton had set adrift in the Hudson river many years before. He had no enthusiasm.

He had gone over to London, the first city of the world, and had walked down the streets blindly. He had looked upon Westminster Abbey as you would look upon your City Hall. He had crossed the Channel and gone down the Rhine, but he could not tell me on which side lived the Belgians—this college man. After a short stay in Paris he had passed through the Strait of Gibraltar, but he did not see that mighty rock whose strength had been immortalized in advertising. He had gone to the city of the Caesars but he did not tell me whether her hills were one or seven. There in the land of the Renaissance and the world's early civilization and literature this man had grown weary in a few days and had gone down into the domain of Solon and Alexander, but those great warriors and statesmen had left no interesting footprints for him. He lacked enthusiasm.

The chief purpose of life is to see something. That calls for enthusiasm.

Robert Wyzzechozwinski of Jersey City, N. J., wants his name changed since no one can pronounce it, not even himself.

After a wait of 12 years, Miss Corinne E. Baker Warren, of San Francisco, has won her legal name through court proceedings.

An improved variety of flax, which it is believed will reduce the cost of linen, is being tested in Ireland.

BEWARE OF THE DEADLY DOTTED LINE

By W. R. MOREHOUSE

Public Relations Commission, American Bankers Association

WITHDRAWING the family's savings account at the bank where it is safe, and losing it through speculation is a serious matter. It may bring great hardship, especially to the mistress of the home. It may force great economies in household management or amount to actual privation. It may mean that the children will have to go to work before they complete their education. The loss of the family's accumulations may even result in physical breakdown on the part of the wife through worry over the loss of savings which she helped to accumulate at the sacrifice of home comforts, but was not consulted when it came to investing them. The making of investments by men who are heads of families and inexperienced in finance should not be undertaken without consulting her. But even if both agree the venture should be talked over with the local banker or information about it obtained from the National Better Business Bureau in New York, which serves without cost and purely in the public interest. If this is done a lot of trouble and quite likely many regrets and heartaches will be avoided.

There is one point in the activities of the inexperienced investor where he should have above all a red-light stop signal to cause him to pause and investigate and that is just before he reaches the decision to "sign on the dotted line." Before you part with your savings in the bank by signing a contract placed before you by a sharp promoter, stop, examine and investigate! It will pay to read the contract several times, even reading it aloud, all the while weighing every term. It will pay to be on guard against the deadly fine print usually incorporated in most contracts,—so small that it strains your eyes and causes you to skim over it superficially. Do not sign blindfolded. It will pay well to take plenty of time to study the contract by yourself where all is quiet and you are free from the personal influence of the persuasive promoter, for to sign without the calmest consideration may spell your Waterloo financially. Unless dealing with a responsible firm or individual, never sign on the dotted line. If in the least doubt, don't sign. Never sign on verbal assurances that you are fully protected. Terms stated orally but not incorporated in a contract are not binding. Glowing promises, wild exaggerations and gross misstatements of facts are seldom reduced to writing or made in the presence of your witnesses. Your failure to read and to understand a contract before signing is not a legal excuse. When you sign a contract you proclaim that you agree with its terms and will abide by and endeavor to carry them out.

Don't sign just because some high-pressure salesman tells you that you are a wonder, or that you show good judgment, or that you have a lot of sense. Sign only when you are fully convinced that your interests are fully protected.

The Livestock Situation

Los Angeles, July 26—Many drastic changes have come about in the preparation and distribution of meat food supplies in the past few years. Changes along these lines have been progressive, being aimed to keep apace with the constant raising of standards on the part of consumers commensurate with the more extensive buying power represented by the purchasers of food stuffs generally.

A recent step in this direction which has attracted a great deal of attention has been the stamping of meat carcasses to designate the grade of animal producing the carcasses and acting as an assurance to the consumer that the standard of quality conforms to regulations laid down which must be met by the various grades.

In raising the standard of the product handled through the packing channels and delivered to the consumer, of course, the reaction is felt clear back along the line through the marketing and feeding channels to the source of supply represented by the livestock breeders.

The tendency throughout the Western states at this time is toward better breeding and a great deal has been accomplished, particularly among the larger producers, but the securing of proper blood lines by the smaller producers presents a more difficult problem. In many cases the volume of business doesn't justify the acquisition of the proper character of sires and for this reason the scrub sire has hung on longer than the situation from an economic standpoint would warrant.

A good deal of progress has been made in England and Scotland in meeting this problem by building up of a system of community sires. In some cases this is accomplished through the Government or by the owners of large estates who furnish community sires to their tenants upon the well founded theory that through the medium of better breeding of livestock the estates would produce more abundantly and bring a better return to the owners.

In the United States there have been scattered efforts along this line; in some cases railroads having furnished high bred sires to encourage better breeding and in some communities, particularly in dairy sections, the work has been carried on as a county program.

However, there has been a lack of concerted movement along these lines and immense possibilities of economic gains are possible if community high bred sires could be furnished either through county organizations, bureaus working along educational lines, civic organizations, banks and other institutions located in livestock producing sections who are directly interested in the welfare of the industry.

LINDBERGH'S FLIGHT

In his New York to Paris flight He made it with a few hours over in a day and night.

In Le Bourget field Lindbergh lit. For thirty-three hours in his plane he had to sit.

The mob was more than Lindy could stand.

At Le Bourget field in Paris that far away land.

Lindy was taken to Ambassador Heriek to rest.

And to wait until he started back to the west.

The spirit of St Louis was scared up by those who Souvenirs seek.

Lindy was angry although he tried to be meek.

They had to around the place build a fence.

To keep the souvenir seekers hence.

Lindbergh was greatly honored by all.

All the people from great to small.

Lindy made his visit short, to journey home.

He boarded the "Memphis" that traveled the foam.

When Lindy arrived on the American shore.

It remained his friends of the Vikings in the days of yore.

Lindy was honored by American people.

The canons roared and bells pealed from the steeple.

To reach Paris was Lindy's only care.

Made him the conqueror of the Atlantic by air.

THE VALUE OF A SMILE

It costs nothing, but creates much.

It enriches those who receive without impoverishing those who give.

It happens in a flash and the memory of it sometimes lasts forever.

None are so rich they can get along without it, and none so poor but are richer for its benefits.

It creates happiness in the home, fosters good will in a business, and is the countersign of friends.

It is rest to the weary, daylight to the discouraged, sunshine to the sad, and Nature's best antidote for trouble.

Yet it can't be bought, begged, borrowed, or stolen, for it is something that is no earthly good to anybody till it is given away!

For nobody needs a smile so much as those who have none left to give!

CHURCHES

AT METHODIST CHURCH SUNDAY, AUGUST 21ST

Don't forget the Sunday school is calling you for next Sunday at 9:45. We had a big increase last Sunday. Let's make it larger next Sunday. Come and bring someone with you.

Preaching by the pastor, 11 a. m. Subject, "The Bible Plan of Salvation." In this message the pastor will seek to show what the bible says about how to be saved. We take the bible for our guide.

The Methodist church extends to one and all a hearty welcome.

R. B. Freeman, Pastor.

EVANGELISTIC MEETING

An undenominational meeting is being held in a tent in the north part of town, about three blocks north of the Musser Lumber yard, and we are informed that it will be continued for some days with preaching each evening at 8:00 o'clock.

The gentlemen holding this meeting give as their identity in the work the following passages of scripture: Who we are—John 1:23; Our message—2nd Cor. 4:5; Our object—Acts 26:18; Our prayer 2nd Cor. 5:20.

The meeting is being conducted by W. G. Williams, B. F. Cox and I. J. Phelps, and they extend a hearty invitation to the public to attend their services.

AT THE BAPTIST CHURCH (P. D. O'Brien)

We have kept in constant touch with the work at home as we have been busy in two revivals which have engaged us for the past three weeks. We are delighted to know that the work is moving right along in our absence. If we could have our own selfish way we would choose to spend all of our time at home, but there is so much to do and such a short time in which to do it that we feel that we must be unselfishly busy at the task assigned us.

We have had some of the most wonderful services it has ever been our lot to experience. The revival spirit seems to be on the people everywhere. I am very anxious to be at home, and my plans are to be at home for one or both services next Sunday. The meeting here at Lorraine is progressing splendidly and a great victory is in prospect.

REVIVAL CONTINUES TO DRAW LARGE CROWDS

The revival meeting which has been in progress at the community tabernacle for some ten days under the auspices of the Church of Christ continues to draw large crowds and much interest is being manifested, and all who have heard Evangelist J. R. F. ... present his messages in a very able manner.

The meeting will continue throughout the remainder of the week, and if you have not been attending these services you should go and hear the presentation of the gospel messages that are being delivered.

The Busy Bee Club Organized August 8th.

The club was organized August 8th. Our first meeting was at Ruth Weeks'.

The officers were elected as follows: Vera Tate, president; Pauline Gray, vice-president; Opal Russell, secretary; Billie True Hill, treasurer and Ruth Weeks, reporter.

We spent an enjoyable evening embroidering and playing games. Delicious lemonade and cakes were served as refreshments.

We chose red and yellow as as our colors. Our next meeting will be at Billie True Hill's.

Mrs. R. P. Munday is getting along in years, and during her long and useful life she has always refrained from voting in any election, but on Monday she came to town and cast her vote for the good roads bond issue, and we're quite sure that she will derive some pleasure out of the knowledge that she has cast her vote in favor of such a progressive move.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Franklin left on Saturday of last week for Tahoka, Texas, where they went to attend a family reunion for Mr. Franklin's family at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Marziah. Those present at the reunion were Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Priest and children of Mountain Air, Ne. Mexico; Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Franklin of Mountain Air, N. Mexico; Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Franklin and children of Hagerman, N. Mexico; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Franklin and children, of Holliday, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Gustie Johnson and children of Flora Vista, N. Mexico; Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Franklin and children of Munday; Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Goforth and baby of Munday; Grandpa and Grandma Franklin of Mountain Air, New Mexico; and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Stovall of Lubbock.

$15 PER PUPIL FOR SCHOOLS THIS YEAR

Austin, Texas, August 10.—The state next year will pay the long sought $15 to Texas public schools for every child enrolled, thus making the highest rate in history, the state board of education voted unanimously today in a meeting in which it deferred until Thursday acceptance or rejection of bids for proposed rebinding of state free text books.

The board boosted the per capita apportionment to $15 on the belief that increased gasoline tax and other higher levies will make sufficient revenue available. S. M. N. Marrs, state superintendent of public instruction, Governor Dan Moody, Comptroller S. H. Terrell and Mrs. Jane Y. McCallum, board members, all were strongly for the raise.

Comptroller Terrell's estimate of revenue indicated that a per capita of only $14.53 would be available, but all members, including Terrell, agreed that the estimate probably would be too "conservative." L. W. Rogers, assistant instruction superintendent, acted for Marrs, who was out of town. Marrs, through Rogers, gave the scholastic estimate at 1-370,000.

ABOUT WOMEN

A burglar broke into a clothing store at Racine, Wis., exchanged his old suit for a new one and left without taking anything else.

Miss Lois Welbourn has been chosen city manager of High Point, N. C., after eight years as secretary to the former holder of the office.

Miss Evelyn Estes of Memphis is spending the summer covering old western trails, with only her horse and dog as companions.

Queer circumstances often determine the rise of real estate values. Oxford street, London, now one of the world's greatest shopping centers, was once the road leading to the Tyburn gallows, and the many thousands of people who passed along it to see men and women hanged afforded opportunities for tradesmen.

Town Talk

R. H. Jones of Weinert attended Masonic lodge here on Monday night of this week.

Mrs. E. Y. Cornelius of Dallas is here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Whittemore, and other relatives and friends.

Mrs. Lizzie Martin of Haskell was the latter part of last week visiting friends.

Luther Lytle of Peaster, Texas, is here this week visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Lytle, of Hefner community.

Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Hall of Albuquerque, New Mexico, are here visiting in the home of Mrs. Hall's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Lytle of the Hefner community.

Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Rowan of Paris, Texas, came in on Saturday of last week for a visit with Mrs. Rowan's sister, Mrs. T. G. Bengé.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Alexander returned on Monday from Dallas, Fort Worth and Wichita Falls, where they visited friends and Mrs. Alexander made purchases for her millinery establishment.

R. B. Davy of the Rexall Store and J. W. Bullock of the Loveless Drug Company are attending the West Texas Druggist meeting at Sweetwater this week.

E. B. Bowden and son, Ira returned on Monday from Mineral Wells, where they spent some two weeks enjoying a vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl McGlothlin of Benjamin were guests Sunday in the home of his father, E. W. McGlothlin.

I. L. West and family left on Friday of last week for Weatherford, where they will visit relatives and friends.

Stanley McCarty returned last week from a two weeks visit with friends at Hamlin, Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Bengé and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Rowan, made an automobile trip to the plains country on Sunday, having visited Lubbock and other points of interest.

G. M. Bryan of the Knox City country was here on Tuesday and stated that his watermelon crop this year was not as good as in years gone by. Mr. Bryan has produced some mighty fine melons and usually makes them if they are made in this country, but says that the crop this year has been cut short by the hot, dry weather of the past few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. O. V. Brown and daughter have been visiting in the home of her father, A. J. Manuel and family.

Frank Folwell, District Deputy Grand Master of the Masonic fraternity, of Haskell, attended Masonic lodge here on Monday night and assisted the local lodge in the conferring of degrees. Mr. Folwell, acting under directions from the Grand Lodge of Texas, is assisting in raising funds to care for tubercular Masons and their families, and much good work is being done by Texas Masonry along this line.

Houston McCarty of New Mexico was here first of the week looking after business interests.

A letter from "Dad" Rawlins, who, with Mrs. Rawlins, is up in Oklahoma working at the cottonseed business, and states that he is boosting Texas cottonseed to Oklahoma farmers, but will be home in ample time to look after the requirements of his patrons in the Munday country.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Johnson of near Seymour are moving to Munday this week in order that they may place their little daughter in school here at the opening of the term. Mr. Johnson will engage in farming.

F. A. Ruff of De Leon, Texas, was here the latter part of last week visiting in the home of Tom and Press Phillips and other relatives and friends, and while here he spent some time on a fishing trip to the Clear Fork with J. H. McAfee and others. Mr. Ruff is a brother to J. P. Ruff, for many years a resident of this city.

Mr. A. J. Manuel and daughters left Sunday for Arkansas. They will visit relatives at New Port, Salada, Batesville and other points.

We have received a request to change the address of Mr. and Mrs. Lavoy Burton from Baird to Abilene, where he has accepted a position with the Dodge dealers.

Mr. and Mrs. Gustie Johnson and children of Flora Vista, New Mexico, who have been here visiting relatives for some days, left on Saturday of last week for Tahoka, where they will attend a family reunion of Mrs. Johnson's family before returning to their home.

U. R. Houser, local distributor for Magnolia Oil Company products, claims the distinction of having sold the first solid carload of lubricating oil ever shipped to Munday. Mr. Houser states that the car contained approximately 80 barrels of oil and was distributed principally among the farmers of the Munday country.

Dr. A. A. Smith and family left on Wednesday morning for Colorado, where they will spend some days enjoying the scenery and cool breezes of the mountain country.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Bowden and children have returned from Sipe Springs, where they visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Morgan, and other relatives. Mrs. Bowden and the children had been down there for some two weeks and Mr. Bowden went down the latter part of last week and returned with them on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Mayo of O'Donnell, Texas, are here this week visiting their daughter, Mrs. "Jack" Frost. Mr. Mayo states that crops are very "spotted" in that section of the state—some good, some bad, but states that conditions promise to be good on the plains this fall.

O. F. Greer, an old Mundayite, who some years ago strayed from the fold, has returned to Munday and has accepted a position with Alkison's "M" System store, and states that he will move his family here from Grapevine, Texas, as soon as he can make arrangements for a residence. We join the entire community in extending a hearty welcome to this excellent family back to the old home town.

Dr. E. J. Burns and family have returned from San Antonio, where they have been for some two weeks and where Dr. Burns attended the Citizens Military Training Camp.

C. L. Mayes returned on Tuesday from Dallas, where he went to bring back two new Buick cars, which are now on display.

A. J. Glasgow left on Wednesday morning for Houston, Mo., where he will visit his daughter, Mrs. James Rutherford. He expects to be gone some ten days.

Mrs. C. L. Mayes has returned from an extended visit with relatives in Tennessee.

Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Mauldin and children have gone to the Davis mountain for a few days vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. George Isbell left Monday morning for Springdale, Arkansas, where they will visit relatives, and while away they will also visit other points.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Isbell and children have returned from O'Donnell, where they visited her father, Mr. Yarbrough.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gaither and children and her mother, Grandma McNeill, have gone for a visit with relatives in Arkansas. They are making the trip by auto and plan to visit at Arkadelphia, Hot Springs and other points.

Clyde Hendrix has returned from Fort Worth, where he went to accompany Mrs. Hendrix home, she having been in a sanitarium there for some time after having undergone an operation, and their many friends will be pleased to know that she has recovered sufficiently to return home.

The many friends of Mrs. F. L. Decker, who has been quite ill for some weeks, will be pleased to know that she has been improving in the Wichita General Hospital, where she was carried some two weeks ago, and it is believed that she has passed the crisis and is on the road to recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Johnson and children and Mrs. T. B. Edwards and children have just returned from a visit with relatives in eastern Oklahoma, and Mr. Johnson states that crops are very poor after crossing Red River and that boll weevil are doing much damage to cotton, however, he states that feed crops are all pretty good.

Mr. and Mrs. John McGlothlin and children of Rhome, Texas, came in Sunday for a visit with his brother, W. McGlothlin, and family. Mr. McGlothlin is station agent for the Fort Worth & Denver Railroad at Rhome, and formerly was a resident of Baylor county. He expressed himself as greatly surprised at the rapid growth of Munday during the past few years.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Elliott have gone to South Texas for a visit with relatives.

Congratulations and Best Wishes From An Old Friend

We would suppress our sentiments if we failed to speak a word of congratulations and best wishes to the Guinn-Fritz Hardware Company upon the organization of this firm and their acquisition of the stock of hardware and implements of the Adams-Leverett Co.

The men comprising this firm have long been actively associated with the various movements that have made Munday the excellent little city that it is today, and to say that we're glad to know that they have banded themselves together in this merchandising establishment is putting it mildly, and we know that they will be accorded a most liberal patronage from the citizenship of this community.

P. V. WILLIAMS

CONGRATULATIONS AND BEST WISHES FROM THE MUNDAY MILL & ELEVATOR COMPANY

This concern wishes to join in with other business concerns and individuals of Munday in extending congratulations and best wishes to the Guinn-Fritz Hardware Company.

The personnel of this concern is sufficient guarantee that the business will be conducted upon the very highest plane, and we believe the people will give this establishment the patronage which it will merit, and we're glad to extend to this new firm our sincere best wishes.

MUNDAY MILL & ELEVATOR CO.

We Extend Congratulations to the Guinn-Fritz Hdw. Co.

We know that the creation of this new business concern will meet with the hearty accord of the citizenship of this country, for we know the personnel sufficiently well to know that this new concern will prove itself to be a real asset to this community.

Succeeding the Adams-Leverett Company, this concern has a stock of hardware and implements that is equal to any carried in West Texas, and the vast quantity of parts for various implements carried by this concern is a great asset to the farmers of the Munday country, and such a firm as this certainly merits the patronage of the people and we are sure that they will do everything within their power to render a real service to the people of this section.

Munday Chamber of Commerce

ANNOUNCEMENT

It is with no small degree of pleasure that we announce the formation of a firm to be known as the Guinn-Fritz Hardware Company, and the purchase by us of the stock of hardware and implements of the Adams-Leverett Company.

The business will be continued in the same location, and will be under the active management of Mr. Ben I. Guinn and Mr. D. C. Fritz, whose every aim shall be to serve the people of this section in this line, and we believe that no concern is better fitted to meet every requirement in rendering a merchandising service in this line than will this new firm.

Every member of this firm is a resident of this community. The interests of the community are our interests, and it shall be the aim of this firm to participate in all of the movements for the betterment of the community in which we live and in which our interests lie.

It shall be our policy at all times to have in stock the things that are needed by our patrons, and should we fail at any time to have any item in our line that may be needed we shall exert every energy to procure it at the earliest possible date.

Hot weather is still with us, and in taking over the big stock we find that we have a number of refrigerators, ice cream freezers and oil stoves, and in order to reduce our stock on these items we are offering them at a substantial discount.

The Spirit of Texas

Phebe K. Warner

While the folks at home are reading this, 3,000 Texas boys and girls with a goodly number of their fathers and mothers will be having the time of their young lives sweltering and fanning and laughing and playing under A. & M. skies.

There is not a doubt about it, folks. The Farmers' Short Course has become one of the greatest educational and social factors in this State. Educational because it attracts those bent on gaining new knowledge along the most practical and essential lines of life. The betterment of all our homes and the improvement of not only crops but rural life at large. And when you build up the farm life of a State you have built up every industry and every line of business in the State. Some day things will be in Texas as they ought to be, when Rural Life is made FIRST instead of LAST in our State program.

It has taken eighteen years to build up the spirit of the Farmers' Short Course to the high point it holds today. But that's not long. That's not even a generation of time. And you seldom ever mold a State-wide or nation-wide new thought or enterprise in less than a generation.

As a rule when a State wants to mold an entirely new thought or system of education or anything else except "fashions" it has to wait until a new generation can be born and reared in the new belief. My! How we would all grow if people would only accept and adopt new ideas as quickly and as universally as they do "fashions." Wonder why this is? What would it mean to America if women and men, too, were as quick to change the style of their thoughts on the inside of their heads as they are the style of their hats on the outside of their heads. But that's too deep for me. That's a problem for the psychologist or the evolutionist.

But great and good as the educational side of the Short Course is, do you not believe its social influence is even greater as a new State power? Is there any way to estimate the value of two thousand Texas boys and girls coming from every section of the State once every year to compete in every kind of a productive, industrial and educational contest? What is it going to mean in a political way to this State twenty years from now? What will it mean in an industrial way?

If this good work keeps on for twenty more years and it will, for it is just getting a good start, the people of Texas will actually KNOW one another personally from the Red to the Rio Grande and from Texline to Brownsville and from Texarkana to El Paso. Do you think any of those old boys will ever forget the boy from some other part of the State who beat them in a judging contest? Never! Do you think the girls who are at the A. & M. Short Course this year will ever forget who won the clothing contest and canning contest? Never! Do you think the women will forget who won the Kitchen Contest? No! And whenever one of these prize winning boys or girls is nominated twenty years from now for some responsible office in Texas, the new generation of voters will know just who he is and what he or she is good for. And don't you doubt it, Mr. Voter of today. Texas is training a generation of real LEADERS for the future. Boys and girls who have been brought up to do their own thinking and judging. It may be only pigs and chickens and canned tomatoes they are judging now. But they are being trained to look for and SEE the good points in their products, and WHY they are good points. Twenty years from now these twelve, fifteen and eighteen year old boys and girls will be just as keen judges of men and women and their fitness for certain positions as they are today of pigs and chickens.

One of the best features of the Farmers' Short Course is the coming together of the farm women of Texas. Lord bless them! It's the only State-wide meeting they have ever had a good excuse to attend. There is no way to measure the sunshine and inspiration those women will take back to their entire community. Did you notice last week's home paper? Every county where there was a home demonstration for the girls and women were busy holding food sales and giving entertainments to help pay the expenses of some member to the Short Course. Hundreds of farm women will actually have a week's vacation for the first time in their busy lives. Think of it! Get in their car or get a two-cent fare (both ways) ticket, thanks to the railroads for their part in the big plan and get a thousand mile ride across the State to their own State school and go to a real college for five whole days and PAY their BOARD instead of doing the cooking themselves. And eat 15 meals in one of the biggest dining rooms in the State with two or three thousand of the happiest, noisest youngsters you ever saw or heard! And eat at the first table and have somebody else first and taking what was left. And best of all GET UP AND WALK OUT WITHOUT WASHING THE DISHES. Just walk out and go to a show or lecture or something instead of washing the dishes, feeding the chickens, milking the cows, shutting up the calves, locking the hen house door, running the milk through the separator, washing all the milking equipment, getting things ready for breakfast, putting the children to bed, winding the clock, putting out the cats and blowing out the lights. No sir! Those women are marching to their meals this week to music and drifting over the A. & M. campus to the call of the bugle, with nothing to do at night but press a button when some boy sounds "taps."

But best of all is the Spirit of Texas. It's worth the whole trip and the week's time it takes to go to the Short Course, to just catch the Spirit of Texas that is in the very air. Every boy and girl, every man and woman will go back home loving their State more and prouder of themselves because they too, are a part of the Spirit of Texas.

actually needs terracing to prevent erosion, terraces have been found to be the greatest known factor in the conservation of soil water in the sections of the State where moisture is the limiting factor in production. Reports from the Western sections show conclusively that terracing, and running contour lines, have increased the yield very materially on land that is practically level. On all land where water runs off, except the drainage districts, terraces will be a benefit to the land. On all land where the water flow is sufficient to wash the land, terraces are a necessity.

It has been found that there is twenty times as much plant food leached from the soil on rolling land than is used by crops. As the slope of land increases, the velocity of the water increases. When the velocity of water is doubled, it increases its soil erosion capacity thirty-two times. Terraces will prevent the rolling land from washing into gullies, will prevent the top soil from washing away. They will prevent the washing away of vegetable matter, and fertilizer. They will prevent the leaching out of plant food. They will prevent the hillside sand from covering the bottom land, and filling ditches and streams. Terraces will insure crop stand. They will insure a greater absorption of rainfall in the Western section of the State.

Whether they are used for the prevention of soil washing, the washing away of organic matter, leaching out of plant food or for the retention of rainfall on the land, terraces are the foundation upon which may be built a more profitable system of agriculture.

VALUE OF TERRACES
(A. K. Short, Federal Land Bank of Houston.)
Terracing returns a greater amount for the labor and money expended than any other farm operation. Based upon estimates compiled from the statements of many farmers over the State, it has been found that the average cost of terracing is between two and two dollars and fifty cents per acre. From the same source it is found that the average annual increase revenue per acre amounts to more than three dollars, while in many instances, it amounts to as much as ten dollars per acre. Few, if any, farm operations will bring so great annual returns. It is estimated that Texas has some 15,000,000 acres of farm land that needs terracing. Using the low estimate furnished by the farmers, this land properly terraced would bring $45,000,000 increased wealth annually to the farmers of the State; this in turn would increase trade a like amount.

A FLATTERING VOTE

Somehow we've always felt that there existed a feeling of cooperation in this community that is not prevalent in all communities, and Monday's bond election clearly revealed that our people will stand almost in a solid body when a movement is undertaken that will prove beneficial to the entire community—the resident of the town and the farmer.

Out of the 460 votes polled here on Monday only one vote out of every thirty was cast against the issuance of the bonds, and while we have not a word of criticism to make toward those who saw fit to oppose the issuance of the bonds, we cannot deny that we feel a certain amount of pride in the progressiveness of a community that casts such an overwhelming majority in favor of a worthy cause and a step forward in the march of progress.

And, in this connection, too much credit cannot be accorded some of our citizens who so unselfishly gave freely of their time and efforts toward the furtherance of this program. Those who interested themselves in the movement at the outset realized that much work was to be done. They realized that a majority of the citizens would oppose a road bond issue at first thought, but they had faith in the citizenship's sense of fairness and their capabilities of viewing it from the standpoint of sound business—and their faith was not misplaced.

Road bond issues as a rule are objectionable for several reasons. In the past much graft has crept into funds provided for road-building programs. In many instances the roads have worn out long before the indebtedness had been liquidated. In many instances extravagant methods had exhausted available funds before the aims had been accomplished. All of these objections had to be met and overcome in this election, and the returns indicate how successfully they were overcome.

And we are glad to say that no misrepresentations were made to gain votes in favor of the bonds. We believe that anyone who is interested can substantiate every statement made by advocates of the bond issue. We know personally that there was a grave danger of having the highway diverted, for we received this information directly from a member of the Highway Commission. We know that there existed a strong probability of a county-wide bond issue being voted, and we believe that it would have received the required majority, and as we look backward over the past few weeks of this campaign we derive no little pleasure out of the fact that the victory has been won by laying the cards on the table with faces up, and all of the advantages that have been represented as accruing from good roads will accrue to this community as a result of the forward step it has taken.

SACCO AND VANZETTI

When we read of the protest meetings staged in the large cities of the land in protest of the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti we wonder if America will continue to be America. When we read of the great sums of money that have been contributed toward their defense we wonder if America will continue to be America. When we read protests from the heads of organized labor over the execution of these two self-confessed anarchists we again wonder if this is still America.

And when we read of the various moves that have been made by that element that would delight in the destruction of our government to the end that these two anarchists might not be made to pay the penalty for their crime we cannot refrain from doing some more wondering. We wonder if these same elements would hold their protest meetings if the two accused had been Americans. Would they contribute as liberally had these two men have been ex-service men and had committed their crime as a result of shell-shock while carrying the stars and stripes over no-man's land in France. We wonder just what kind of government we would have if it were left entirely to that element that has so stubbornly protested the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti.

And again we wonder if the courts of our land will withstand the fight, and what would be the result should the radical element emerge victor. Would they have as much respect for our courts and our laws as they have today?

A SMILE-MAKER'S GRIEF

The whole English-speaking world will share the grief of a former Scotch miner, who has just lost his sweetheart, a former Salvation Army lassie.

Reports from Dunoon, Scotland, state that Sir Henry Lauder is prostrated over the death of Lady Lauder, which occurred after a surgical operation a few days ago.

The rise of this sterling Scotch couple is a romantic episode in British history. Henry Lauder was born to a miner's family. Annie Vallance was one of 17 children of a miner. As a child she worked in a flax mill for a pittance, later joining the Salvation Army. They were married in 1890.

Lauder had a comical vein which made him popular in local miner's entertainments, and once when a strike threw his out of work his wife encouraged him to try his luck as a professional comedian. She proved a constant inspiration, and he eventually reached the pinnacle of success. He was knighted by King George in 1919.

Both, in spite of their humble birth, were unspoiled by later success and wealth. Harry Lauder has remained the most genial and unassuming of men. Lady Lauder's bright vivacious temperament and natural manner won her friends everywhere.

Their first great grief was occasioned by the loss of their son, Capt. John Lauder, who was killed in the Battle of the Somme in 1916. Now Sir Henry has lost his companion of 37 years.

The countless thousands who have been made to smile by his consummate artistry will sympathize with him in his great sorrow.

AUTHOR OF "DIXIE"

Whenever the stirring tune "Dixie" is played, particularly in the South, it is met with hearty applause. Thus do Southerners pay tribute, unconsciously as a rule, to an Ohio Yankee.

For "Dixie" was composed by Daniel Decatur Emmett, born in Mount Vernon, Ohio, in 1818, and who, like that other sweet singer of Southern songs, Stephen Foster, never lived in the South.

Emmett was one of the organizers of the first negro minstrel company to tour the country, formed in 1842, when it opened in Chatham Square Theatre, New York. He was afterward associated with Dan Bryant, and in 1865 he formed his own company. He retired in 1878 and died in 1904 at the age of 89.

The song "Dixie" was written in 1859 and instantly became popular. The South adopted it and now after 68 years it stirs its hearers with undiminished enthusiasm.

Recently a tablet to Emmett's memory was unveiled in the churchyard of Calvary Episcopal Church at Fletcher, N. C., the first memorial to be erected to him in the South, marking another link in the chain which binds a reunited country.

UNCLE SAM IN BUSINESS

It seems likely that the next session of Congress will witness strong attempts to embark the government on the sea of business on a large scale, in spite of the failures which have invariably followed previous government operations in that line.

Government operation of the railroads during and following the war, the enormous losses of the United States Shipping Board and the miserable failure to handle the Muscle Shoals project are striking examples of Uncle Sam's ineptitude for large business undertakings.

The case was stated concisely by Congressman Wright of Georgia during the last hearings of Muscle Shoals before the House Military Committee. He said:

"The existence of the project at Muscle Shoals was brought about by the exigencies of war. It seems to have resulted in leaving in the hands of Congress a piece of property in which it has invested $160,000,000.

Your Savings BUY GOLD BONDS!

Many a holder of Bonds today started from a simple beginning. By setting aside a certain amount weekly, it was possible to accumulate the first $100 with which to purchase a small bond here. "Does it not accentuate and emphasize the impropriety, if not the folly, of the government trying to engage in private business?"

"Is it not one of the many illustrations where the government always gets into trouble when it undertakes to set itself up in business in competition with citizens?"

He might have added that after six years of wrangling in Congress the Muscle Shoals question is no nearer settlement than it was in 1921.

YOUR OWN NAME

Write your name on a piece of paper and look at it for five minutes.

It is the most precious thing you have. It is connected with all you are and hope to be. Your name carries the life history of hundreds of men and women.

Your father gave it to you. He had in his youth many temptations to soil his name, but wore it ever like a white plume over his heart.

One day your father went and offered his name to a beautiful young woman. She blushed and hesitated. Then her father and mother inquired if the name he offered was a good name.

Finally your mother accepted your name, and she did not wear her engagement ring with half the pleasure that she did your name.

Then, they gave that name to you. Your name was sung into your baby ears on the music of your mother's cradle song. It was taken to the throne of God on the white prayers and hopes of your sweet mother. It is forever sacred.

Your father looked into your pudgy little face and breathed a sigh of pride as he thought, "Now I have given my name to a human soul."

More than all earthly possessions is an untarnished name. Yet how easily is a good name lost. It is harder to regain than it is to find again the lost gold in sunken ships.

How do you treat your name? Is the local merchant glad when he sees your name on his account book?

How does the banker feel when you induce him to lend you some money? Will he have to discount your paper, because your name is not worth 100 per cent?

If the pastor of your little church ever wrote a line after the names on the church roll, what would be put after yours? The Bible says: "A great name is rather to be chosen than great riches."

If you and I in our poorest moments were given the choice of riches to anything else, we might take the riches. But every man who has gotten riches at the sacrifice of his good name has lived to regret for what soils one will blast the other.

It is a great and pleasant thing to live and breathe a name that will be a blessing in our communities when we are gone.

I love to look over a book of great names—names that men have handed down, without a smear of devilry on them.

The Livestock Situation.

Los Angeles, August 2.—The hearing conducted in Los Angeles by representatives of the Interstate Commerce Commission for the purpose of collecting data in the readjustment of livestock rates has closed.

Many interesting features were brought out. All of those connected with the program evinced a sincere desire to gather and present data that would be of benefit in arriving at conclusions based upon economic facts; tending to give the greatest relief and most practical readjustment to the transportation situation as it relates to Western agriculture and the livestock industry.

The movement of livestock and other products from the producing areas to the metropolitan centers on the Pacific Coast, as well as the Eastern markets, is a question which occupies a most important place in the economic structure of the West.

California has a different cattle situation than prevails in other territories. At this time production is more or less seasonal, with oversupplies appearing during the winter months, and the importation of cattle from surrounding states being necessary during other months of the year.

With the advent of better balanced production and distribution this seasonal supply will be leveled so that it will move realization of the importance of stocker and feeder rates to and from central markets located in the West. It has been pointed out that the bulk of this movement is from the producing sections directly to the feed lots. This, no doubt, is the case, but the fact should not be lost sight of that the small producer is not situated so as to go directly to the range states and make stocker and plished through giving the largest number of producers access to the largest number of markets.

There appears to be a lack of throughout the year, this being accomplished by the Western trend toward feed lot operations.

Until that time comes, however, it is evident that the West should work toward a rate readjustment which will be practical and equitable to every state and bear in mind that the feeder purchases. He is in the position of either purchasing through a central market or remaining out of the business. For this reason, for the sake of the small producer who is becoming a factor through the cutting up of large land areas, it would seem that a careful consideration should be given the stocker and feeder rate question as applied to central livestock markets.

CAMP FIRE BUILDERS

The first meeting of the local Camp Fire Girls organization was held on Tuesday evening, August 16, 1927, at 6:00 p. m. on the lawn of the First Methodist church.

This meeting was to explain to the girls and their parents just what Camp Fire is and what it means to be one of its active group. An exhibition of Camp Fire equipment and accessories was displayed in an effort to make the girls realize a small part of what they can achieve with hard work and faithfulness.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday evening, August 23, at 6:00 p. m. on the lawn at the home of Mrs. W. H. Chapman. At this meeting we will learn a Camp Fire song and begin active operations in the earning of dues and equipment. A hike for the latter part of the week will also be planned at that time.

All mothers are cordially invited to attend this meeting and I wish to thank those giving their time and attention to our first meeting.

We have a wonderful group of girls for this organization and we feel confident that we will be turning out some wonderful work in the near future. All girls attending the first meeting are urged to continue this attendance and to bring all girls interested in the work.

Those mothers attending our meeting were: Mrs. W. H. Chapman, Mrs. D. C. Fritz, Mrs. Ralph Weeks, Mrs. W. C. Bevers, Mrs. F. H. Russell, Mrs. R. B. Freeman and Mrs. Ora Collins.

Girls present wishing to be active members were: Misses Opal Russell, Vera Tate, Mary Hope Smith, Henrietta Isbell, Bonnie Gene Milam, Vivian Rogers, Christine Chapman, Naomi Freeman, Barbara El-land, Emma Lucille Seifert, Katherine Milam, Aline Bevers, Ruth Weeks, Mary Fritz, Maxine Burnison, Mattie Mae Collins, Lucile Lowrance, Mary Alice Lowrance, and Geraldine Burnison. Also the active guardian, Miss Barbara Swanson and assistant guardian, Miss Bessie Isbell.

leaf, president of C. G. Conn. Ltd., before a national convention of music men here. He gave the results of a statistical comparison on the cost of band instruments with other commodities which showed that instruments are selling today at lower prices, as compared with the 1913 cost, than practically any other commodity.

"A study of the cost of musical instruments as compared with other articles shows that while band instruments are now selling at 133, in comparison with 1913, food is up to 157, house furnishings at 169, building materials at 175 and clothing at 190," said Mr. Greenleaf. "This means that when a consumer pays a dollar for musical instruments, he is paying 24 points less than when he spends the same amount for food, 36 points less than for house furnishings, 42 points less than for building materials and 57 points less than for clothing."

"The reason people are not spending more for music is not because of the price. That is clear. The income of the American people is estimated at $85,000,000,000 which they are spending for the things they have been led to think they want most. Just think of the hundreds of millions of dollars absorbed by radio, automatic refrigeration and other things scarcely heard of a few years ago. Everyone in the United States attends a movie on the average of at least once a week, figures show, and if the people of the United States were to increase their expenditure for band instruments by the amount of the price of one movie admission a year, the band instrument industry would become five times the size it is today."

Speaking of the great advancement of music in the schools, Mr. Greenleaf predicted that within the next decade, music will be as much a part of the educational equipment of the high school boy and girl as reading, writing and arithmetic. They will be able to elect courses in instruction on their chosen instrument just as they elect to study Latin or Spanish or choose between a liberal arts, a business or a technical course, he said. And they will get the same credit they do for any other subject. As a step in this direction, Mr. Greenleaf cited the recent action of the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association, recommending that music be made part of the regular curriculum of the high schools of the country.
