Bond Election Is Ordered For Aug. 15

Precinct to Vote on Bond Issue of $135,000 To Hard-Surface Highway No. 30

At the regular monthly meeting of the Commissioner's Court of Knox county at Benjamin on Monday of this week, by a unanimous vote of the court, an election was ordered to be held in Commissioners Precinct No. 4, or what has been designated as Independent Road District No. 2—by a special act of the Legislature, to determine whether or not bonds in the sum of $135,000.00 shall be voted for the purpose of constructing, maintaining and operating designated State and Federal highways within said district. The petition praying for the election bore the signatures of E. L. Covey and 103 other tax-paying citizens of this precinct.

At the hearing of the petition on Monday at Benjamin no opposition appeared, and the action of the court was by unanimous vote, and August 15th was designated as the day upon which the election will be held. The calling of this election is the result of an edict that was issued by a member of the State Highway Commission some months ago to the effect that unless some action be taken by Knox County toward the construction of a hard-surfaced road over that portion of Highway No. 30 traversing the county from the Baylor county line to the Haskell county line that they would take under advisement the re-routing of the highway between Wichita Falls and Abilene to traverse Throckmorton county, and already steps have been taken in Throckmorton toward the obtaining of this important highway.

Some months ago a joint committee from the County Chamber of Commerce and the Munday Chamber of Commerce went to Abilene for a conference with Judge R. W. Ely, a member of the Highway Commission, who verified the likelihood of this action by the Highway Commission unless some action be taken, and at which time a promise was exacted from him that the State and Federal governments would each match this precinct dollar for dollar in the building of the highway through Knox county, hence by voting a bond issue of $135,000 the precinct will receive an additional $270,000.00 from the State and Federal governments.

In talking with the committee Judge Ely pointed out that this was one of the most important highways within the state, and stated that the commission was determined that it should be built from Wichita Falls to Abilene without delay, and unless the citizens of Knox county desired to assist in the building of the highway over the small portion which traverses this county that the commission would seek other means of connecting the two points, and feeling that it would prove a great loss to have the highway re-designated through another county, citizens of the community have been busy working on the proposition for some time.

Feeling that the citizens of this section of the county would hesitate to vote bonds upon themselves for a county-wide project, which, according to conservative figures, would entail a tax burden of about $1.00 on the hundred dollars valuation, citizens of Munday and Goree interested in the project decided upon the creation of an independent road district to embrace all of that territory lying within Commissioner's Precinct No. 4, and a special act of the legislature of the last called session created what is known as Independent Road District No. 2-A, and with the valuation of this territory it will be possible to build this project on a tax rate of about 30 cents on the one hundred dollars valuation.

Should this bond issue fail to carry it is almost a certainty that this important highway will be diverted and re-designated, and in such an event it would be impossible at any future time to get either State or Federal aid in its construction and this section would then only be served by the lateral roads, which would have to be

"Bronco Bill" Looks For Comrades of Old Days In West Texas

Among the visitors here to attend the state convention of the Farmers Co-operative and Educational Union this week was J. W. Johnson of Prairie Valley, McCullough county.

Mr. Johnson is one of the very few cowboys of the olden days that remain among us, and while he was here he was eager to meet some of the old-timers who traveled the old Chisholm trail in the early days—during the 70's and 80's—during which time he was known as "Bronco Bill," he having made a business in those days of riding broncos that were unaccounted for and unwilling to be ridden.

Mr. Johnson states that for several years he was connected with the Bar-N-Bar outfit down in Shackelford county, of which Al Narcott was manager, and as a cowboy he made many trips between Albany and Dodge City, Kansas with the "thundering herds," and knew practically all of the old-timers who frequented this familiar trail, and if there are any of these pioneers living today Mr. Johnson would like to hear from them.

This is the first trip Mr. Johnson has made into this section of West Texas since 1884, and it is but natural that he is surprised at the great development that has taken place during the intervening years, and he speaks of the old towns, many of which have passed into oblivion with the onward march of progress, such as old Fort Griffin and other favorite stops along the route of the old trail over which many thousands of cattle were driven each year to the northern market.

Ray Easley has returned from Calixico, California, where he has been for several months.

Knox-Baylor Club Women to Hold Encampment at Seymour City Park

The Home Demonstration Club women of Knox and Baylor counties will hold their annual encampment Friday and Saturday, July 15th and 16th at Seymour City Park.

Every house wife needs a vacation from her routine of house work. So all women of Knox county drop your work and bring your cot and food for dinner and supper Friday to Seymour and get a new inspiration of living. Breakfast and dinner will be furnished by organizations of Seymour.

The program is to be both educational and recreational. Several prominent speakers have been obtained for both days.

Mrs. E. B. Becham of Dallas will have charge of the recreation. Miss Gunter, County Home Demonstration agent from Vernon has just returned from Europe and will tell about her trip and show many things she made while studying over there.

A little play, "Let's Stay Married," will be given Friday night.

Women that are not club women are invited to attend the camp and enjoy all the good things.

4-H CLUB AT HOOD

The 4-H Club girls met Friday afternoon, July 8th, at the home of Mrs. M. H. Stone with six members and three visitors present, the local leader, Miss Mayme Cannon, and the Home Demonstration Agent, Miss Mamie Maxwell.

The club girls cooked at this meeting. We made angel food cake and muffins.

Miss Maxwell gave us a very interesting lesson in social Etiquette.

The members present were: Georgia Bell Roden, vice-pres.; Cleo Polson, secretary; Christine Norman, yell leader; Grace Polson, reporter, and Syble and Belma Swain. —Reporter.

Another Arrest Is Made In Connection Truscott Robbery

Glenn L. Bruner, prominent Kansas City attorney, is in jail at Amarillo, having been arrested by Amarillo officers on a complaint filed by Sheriff J. W. Melton of Knox county charging him with being implicated in the robbery of the First Bank of Truscott some two weeks ago.

George Burgess, alias E. C. Burgman, one of the men arrested by Sheriff Melton in the brakes of the Wichita river twenty miles from Truscott on the day of the robbery, and who was last week transferred to the Dallas county jail, is said to be a prominent geologist of Amarillo, and it was a letter written by Burgess or Burgman to Bruner that led to the arrest of the latter as an accomplice.

Sheriff Melton stated Monday he hadn't gone to Amarillo to bring Bruner to this county for the reason that there is still a vacancy in the office of District Judge, no appointment having been made at that time to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge J. H. Milam, and since an order from the district judge is required to transfer the suspect to this county, he has been unable to make the transfer and will be until a successor is named by Governor Moody.

From news dispatches out of Amarillo it is evident that the work of Sheriff Melton here has led to the arrest of some three or four other suspects there in connection with bank robberies at Vega and the burglarizing of a number of Amarillo homes, and officers have expressed the belief that with the arrest of the two men in this county and the subsequent arrest of Bruner, they have broken up one of the largest crime rings that has ever operated throughout West Texas.

Farmers Union of Texas Meets Here

Farmers From Over Texas Met Here For Discussion of Their Problems.

The annual convention of the Farmers Co-operative and Educational Union of Texas was held here on Monday of this week, and a number of delegates from various sections of the state were present and took part in the meeting.

Among the visitors who came from distant points to attend the meeting were A. L. Baker of Stockdale, Texas, for many years secretary of the state organization, W. E. Lohn of Lohn, McCullough county and J. W. Johnson of Prairie Valley, Texas, and a number of others.

This was the twenty-fifth annual convention of the organization, which for many years was one of the most powerful organizations of the farmers in the state, and many of the faithful members who have clung to the organization are confident that it will in time regain the strong following which it once possessed, and which was lost largely through the participation of its high officials into political campaigns.

Citizens Respond To Call For Cemetery Working On Tuesday

More than one hundred responded to the call of the Munday Cemetery association and gathered at the cemetery on Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock, and we are informed that all the graves were completely cleared of grass and weeds, and the premises very much beautified.

Mr. A. U. Hathaway, who has always taken an active part in the upkeep of the cemetery is delighted with the work that was done, and was greatly pleased with the large number of contributions that were made on that date by those interested in the beautification of the cemetery. Approximately $80.00 was contributed in money to be used in the work.

Mr. Hathaway also is looking to the future and requests that all who are interested in the upkeep of the cemetery meet there again on the second Tuesday in August for another working, which will likely be sufficient to keep down the growth of grass and weeds during the remainder of the year.

In the financial contributions made were $1.00 contributions from the following: J. E. Isbell, Frank Decker, John Ed Jones, F. L. Grider, James Rayburn, Tom Rigby, Wm. Cameron Co., Leland Hannah, Alex Jones, Dr. E. M. Roberts, Harvey Lee, Chas. Haynie, J. D. Kethley, Rid Campbell, H. B. Monroe, R. C. West, C. B. Jones, A. J. Birdsong, C. R. Elliott, S. T. Car Smash Endangers Lives of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Campbell Sunday

On Sunday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Campbell and Mrs. Rid Campbell were quite painfully injured in an automobile smash-up on the road between Rule and Knox City, where they had been to spend the day with relatives.

Driving along the roadway Rid Campbell noticed a Ford car approaching and from the manner in which the car ran from one side of the road to the other he concluded that the driver did not have full control over the car for some reason, so he drove to the right of the roadway as far as possible and slowed down almost to a stop, but the car kept approaching at a rapid rate of speed and continued to go from one side of the road to the other, and when it reached his car it lunged head-on into it. The complete would have thrown Uncle Jesse out through the windshield had it not been for the fact that he was caught by Rid.

Mrs. J. N. Campbell and Mrs. Rid Campbell were occupying the rear seat of the car, and were thrown against the front seat by the impact, Mrs. J. N. Campbell receiving a broken arm and other injuries, while Mrs. Rid Campbell was severely bruised.

Uncle Jesse escaped with only a severe cut in the forehead, which required several stitches to close at the Knox City Hospital, where they were carried for medical attention.

The Campbell car was badly wrecked, one of the front wheels having been torn completely off and the car otherwise badly damaged.

The drivers of the Ford, two young men of that community, stated that they lost control of the car, and expressed deep regret over the occurrence, which could have been avoided by driving at a less speed than that at which their car was going.

Are You Going to the Farmers Short Course at College Station?

Why not join the few that are going to the 18th Annual Farmers Short Course, College Station, July 25th to 36th? The railroad people realize what a great meeting this is and have reduced the rates to a mile making a round trip ticket cost a little over nine dollars.

SENIOR B. Y. P. U.

The Senior B. Y. P. U. is growing every Sunday, for last Sunday there were 5 new members to join our union. We feel these new members will go out and tell their friends about our union and then their friends will come and join in with us too and in that way we will soon have the biggest union in this part of Texas.

Group No. 2 had charge of the program last Sunday evening and they put before us a very interesting program.

When anyone visits our union we make them feel just like they were at home, and we do not want you to feel like a stranger when you visit with us. Watch the Seniors! —Reporter

Rev. R. R. Gilbreath, pastor of the Munday circuit, has been quite busy this week, having received numerous calls to perform ministerial duties for neighboring pastors, most of all of whom have been away from home. Rev. Freeman has been at Lockney in a meeting, and the pastors of the Methodist churches at Goree and Weinert have been away from home and Rev. Gilbreath will likely make an attractive rate to those young couples which wish to enter upon a cruise of matrimonial seas.

Through an oversight we failed to mention the fact that Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Reeves had a number of visitors on the fourth and the Sunday following, included among whom were Mrs. D. E. Little and Miss Dorothy Perry of Fort Worth, Mrs. J. W. Perry of Ropesville, Mrs. J. J. Perry of Knox City, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Atterbury of Benjamin, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Perry of Knox City.

Pendleton Gin Co. Is Issued Charter, and Repair Work Started

A charter was last week granted to the Pendleton Gin Company, of which H. A. Pendleton is president and general manager, and under this charter gins will be operated at Munday, Goree, Bomarton and Weinert, this company having taken over the plants formerly owned by the Munday Cotton Oil Company.

Mr. Pendleton, who was here first of the week from Wichita Falls, stated that work had started on the complete rebuilding and overhauling of all the plants of the company under the supervision of L. M. Bramblett, a gin man of many year's experience. The plant at Bomarton is being torn completely down and will be rebuilt on another location, with practically all new machinery, and all of the plants of the company will be completely rebuilt and new machinery installed where needed in order to give their patrons one hundred per cent ginning service.

Local managers that have been selected by Mr. Pendleton are Cecil Barton, Munday; L. M. Bramblett, Weinert; A. M. Huskinson, Bomarton and a manager is yet to be selected for the Goree plant.

Mr. Pendleton's many years in the gin business has enabled him to choose his men wisely and select men of unquestionable ability in their line of work, and Mr. Pendleton states that the patronage of the farmers will be asked upon the merit of the work and the service they will render.

Cecil Birdsong of Bastrop, La., was here last week visiting Chase Eiland and other friends. Cecil was for some time operator here for the Western Union, and has many friends here who are always glad to welcome him to Munday.

Moore and Wallace Give Melon Feast

Chamber of Commerce Membership to Be Guests of Two Directors on Thurs. Evening

At the regular semi-monthly meeting of the Munday Chamber of Commerce on Thursday evening of last week an invitation was accepted from Messrs. W. R. Moore of the Belle-Moore Chevrolet Company and W. O. Wallace, district manager for the West Texas Utilities Company, to be their guests at a watermelon feast on the lawn of the Utilities company at the next regular meeting, which will be held on Thursday evening of next week, July 21, at which time all members of the Chamber of Commerce are urged to be present.

Arrangements are being made for some special music for the occasion, and some good speakers are being secured and an excellent program will be arranged for the meeting. Among the speakers that have been invited to take part are Mr. Grady Kingsolving of Abilene, Homer D. Wade of Stamford, secretary of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and others.

At the meeting of Thursday evening some important business matters were disposed of and a complete report of the financial standing of the organization was presented by J. A. Kennedy, secretary, and for the benefit of those who were not in attendance at this meeting let us say that we have this report, showing all receipts and expenditures of the organization during the year, and shall be pleased to have any contributing member examine it at our office.

THORP LEAGUE MEETS AT T. J. THOMPSON HOME

The Epworth League of the Thorp Methodist church met on last Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Thompson with about fifteen members present, and a most enjoyable meeting was held.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson are charter members of the Thorp church and during the many years in which they were residents of that community their home was a favorite meeting place with the young people, and this was the first of a series of meetings of the League that will be held at the homes of pioneer members of the church in that community.

W. W. A. MEMBERS ARE AT THE ENCAMPMENT

The W. W. A. girls with Mrs. W. E. Reynolds as their chaperon left Monday for the encampment at Leuders. With these girls at the encampment, Munday will be well represented. We feel sure this trip to Leuders will be of great value to the girls, and bring them home with a greater spirit to carry on their work to a higher standard.

The following girls are at the encampment: Lois and Irene Bowden, Vivian Rogers, Maggie and Leona Keel, Faye Edwards, Oneita Blanton, Nina Collins, Gladys Williams, Madge Smith, Maurice Smith and Gae Reynolds.

The Y. W. A. girls wish to thank Mr. J. B. Bowden, Mr. J. Keel, Mr. J. E. Edwards and Mrs. Reynolds for their kind assistance and for the use of their cars.

The Y. W. A. is an organization the community should be very proud of and at all times be ready to assist them to do the greater things which may be outlined for them.

Mrs. Cassie Lansford and Miss Nettie and Caz Lansford have gone to Dallas for a visit with Mrs. Lansford's sister, whom she has not seen in twenty-three years, and their visit will doubtless be a most enjoyable one.

Mrs. M. E. Jones of Comanche, Texas, is visiting in the home of her son, O. D. Jones, manager of the local Western Union office.

The Western Union has moved their office into the rear room of the First National Bank building, where they will have more room to care for their growing business in Munday.

Will Texas Ever Feed Herself?

Phebe K. Warner

Great is Texas! Great is her climate and her soil! Great are her natural resources! Great are her people! So great that this very week Texas has sent a train load of her biggest men out over the United States to TELL THE WORLD about Texas.

Why, Texas produces more wool than any other State in this Nation. She produces about a fourth of the cotton the whole world uses. She produces more oil than any other state. She produces more agricultural products than any other two States combined. She has more cattle than any other state. And she has a greater variety of food than any other State. In fact, Texas has everything a human needs to eat except coffee, tea and pepper. And she has mighty good substitutes for those luxuries.

And yet, Texas does not and never has fed itself. Last year Texas imported, mostly from Wisconsin, $53,000,000 worth of cheese and condensed milk; 12,000,000 pounds of butter was imported into Texas, mostly from Iowa and Minnesota. Even Little Old Denmark had to send butter to the U. S. A. last year to help make up the shortage, in the whole U. S. A. outside of Texas. Wonder how Denmark found out that Texas did not have enough butter for all her folks? And Petaluma, California, shipped eggs to Texas by the carload last year. Then think of the lard and bacon and beef that Texas imports every year! And the canned goods and potatoes and apples and oranges and grape fruit and lemons and all the dried fruit!

Go into any little corner grocery the next time you are down town and ask your grocer where all the goods on his shelves came from. And you'll find the canned corn is from Iowa and Illinois. The canned fruit is from California and Colorado. Canned milk from Minnesota. Cheese from Wisconsin. Canned meats from all over the U. S. A. It's a sight!

Of course it is good business for the railroad and for Wisconsin, Colorado, California, Illinois, Iowa and all the other food producing states. It shows a wonderful commercial spirit on the part of Texas for all her sister States. No wonder they live and thrive and grow and build fine country homes and schools if everybody patronizes them like Texas.

But Texas does a lot to help feed other States. And she does more to give everybody a job than any other State in the Union. Just look at her cotton and wool and oil! How many people would lose their job before the end of the week if it were not for Texas keeping the mills and factories with raw materials?

Take EGGS. Texas produced in 1925 nearly 75,000,000 dozen eggs. I do not know whether that includes what were consumed at home or not. If it does that means every person in Texas had an average of 15 dozen eggs that year, or 15 eggs per month, or an egg every other day. That means not only what were served on the table as eggs but every egg used in the cooking and baking in every home. At this rate if every person in Texas could have one egg a day it would require 152,000,000 dozen to fill our order, which would not include an egg used in cooking. Of course there would be a few left over that the tiny babies do not use. But they would go to the sick extra.

It's better than that this year for millions of voices have been added to the poultry chorus since 1925. But the queer thing about the egg business is that a lot of those eggs were shipped out of Texas for a few months and then shipped back again. Either that or the eggs from some other State.

During the calendar year 1925 the Panhandle Division of the Santa Fe R. R. forwarded 156 carloads of poultry and 92 carloads of eggs from their Panhandle stations alone. And during the calendar year 1926 the same road forwarded 227 carloads of poultry and 102 carloads of eggs. Wonder where they went?

Then during the calendar year 1926 the Santa Fe R. R. brought back to its Panhandle stations 13 carloads of poultry and 7 carloads of eggs. It looks like somebody got more poultry and eggs from Texas than they sent back. And this was just one railroad in one corner of the State. What do you suppose the other roads shipped out and shipped in?

Now here comes the rub: When were most of those eggs shipped out of the Panhandle?

And when were the outside eggs shipped in? Most of the eggs that left the Panhandle of Texas or any other part of the state were shipped out when eggs were around 10 or 15 cents a dozen, just as they are today. And the eggs were shipped back into Texas when they were around 60 cents a dozen.

Isn't that true? Now can you see why the General Federation of Women's Clubs are putting on a rural life survey to find out how many kitchen sinks and electric light plants and washing machines and bath tubs are in the country homes? Did you know that the farm dollar is worth about 80 cents in town today and the town dollar is worth about $1.25 in the country? Wonder why?

Yes, hens are on a terrible boom this year but eggs have taken a sharp decline to the extent that the city is getting more eggs than ever for less money and the farmer is getting less money for the eggs. Great business for the farm woman! She will soon get rich and have everything she wants in her home selling eggs at 10 cents a dozen to her out-of-State neighbors and buying them back at 60 cents a dozen next Thanksgiving.

Texas does raise enough to feed herself every year. But the trouble is she ships it all out on a low price and buys it all back on a high price. What Texas needs is more storage plants in her own borders. More factories to transform her raw products into ready-to-eat food. More management and more cooperation between her country people and her city people and not so much talk about production only.

Every article of clothing and most of our food must pass through five distinct stages to be of service to mankind. Those stages are first, production; second, collecting and marketing; third, manufacturing; fourth, distribution and marketing; and last, consumption. That's the natural cycle. Texas spends practically all her time, brains, energy and capital directly or indirectly on the one stage of production. And that's why Texas is the biggest producer and one of the poorest. That's why she helps to feed, clothe and educate everybody else better than herself.

A BLESSING TO BE THIRD (By Minerva Hunter)

When Maggie Marshall pushed the carriage out on the front porch so that the baby could get the sunshine and fresh air, she found a row of mud pies lined up along the top step and foot prints all over the porch. This was the last straw! All day Maggie had struggled and worked getting ready for Tom's boss who was coming to dinner, and here at four in the afternoon to find the porch must be cleaned again!

Hastily she set about her work. She must get through in time to take a bath, rest a little and dress herself and the children before the men came from the office.

As the last touch given to the porch she saw Lydia Benson driving down the street. Lydia's new car gleamed in the afternoon sun and Lydia's becoming costume brought Maggie a twinge of envy.

Lydia stopped the car on the drive between the two houses and called to her girlhood friend, "O, Maggie, I hear Mr. Denning is in town and will take dinner with you. Let me keep the children in the nursery for you."

"Maggie's envy changed to gratitude. 'I wish you would. They have worried me nearly to death today. Charles has cried a lot and Lucy has been under my feet or in mischief' the whole day. I could not get help anywhere."

With the children off her mind things went a little better for Maggie, but even then it was no easy task to prepare and serve the meal and be a gracious hostess at the same time.

She welcomed the moment when Tom announced they must be leaving to catch the train. Denning was to take. Wearily Maggie climbed the stairs to see how Lydia was getting along with the children. She found the little ones asleep and Lydia sitting at the window.

"Aren't you worn out?" Maggie asked. "The children tried themselves today."

"I am tired," Lydia agreed, "but not because of the children. I am tired every night, but tonight there is a sweetness and happiness about being tired that I usually do not feel. I have been wondering why and have decided that I have worked with different material. I love my work; there is great satisfaction in fitting up a house with suitable furniture and draperies that harmonize, but when the job is done, it is turned over to the owner and I never stay with the lovely things I have created. Really I do not care to stay. But children, Maggie, what a difference with children! One has to work with them and work for them. It is an unending job, and because it is unending one can enjoy continual development. During the last four years while I have been working to make home lovely you were working to make Lucy and Charles lovely and even though they have naughty days and try your patience and your strength, they will be far more worth while in the years to come than all my houses. I envy you, Maggie."

Maggie recalled with a throb of deep pity that Lydia had lost her husband and tiny son. "Yes," she nodded, "I believe every tired feeling I have is blessed. Lydia, I hope I shall not forget any more."

ADVERTISED IN THE SATURDAY EVENING POST

Have you ever tried a Mouth-Wash in CONCENTRATED form—like Astringosol? It is the final answer to unpleasant breath, because you can use it in as strong a dilution as you wish. Strong enough, in fact, to prevent bad breath from bobbing up again after a little while. Strong enough (by putting a few drops on a moist tooth brush) to banish the active enamel destroying agents between the teeth. Strong enough to stimulate under-nourished gum tissues and do a valuable health department job on the throat—the gateway of most diseases. Dentists use Astringosol full strength to destroy the most tenacious mouth germs known to Dental Science. For Astringosol is far more than a mouth wash.

BASTILLE DAY, JULY 14

In France the 14th of July, the anniversary of the fall of the Bastille, is celebrated in much the same manner as the 4th of July is observed in the United States.

The fortification, afterwards a prison, known as the Bastille was originally the gate of Saint Antoine of the wall surrounding Paris, this gate being flanked by two towers, but the structure was enlarged in 1369 into a massive fortification, surrounded by a ditch 25 feet wide.

From that time until the French Revolution the Bastille was the scene of numerous spirited battles during several civil wars. At an early date it became a prison for political adversaries of the faction in power. It was at times crowded with both men and women prisoners, and many tales of cruelty inflicted upon the unfortunate inmates were current.

The outbreak of the French Revolution was marked by the storming of the Bastille by the Paris mob, which captured and razed it to the ground on July 14, 1789. Strangely enough, there were only seven prisoners found within its walls at the time of its capture.

The site is now called the Place de la Bastille, and is marked by a lofty column of bronze, surmounted by a gilded figure of Mercury spreading his wings as in flight. The historic spot is viewed with interest by visitors to Paris.

Although France was to pass through the Reign of Terror, the regime of Napoleon, and the alternating of republic and empire before the establishment of the Third Republic (the present) in 1871, the fall of the Bastille is considered the real beginning of French liberty and popular government.

Therefore July 17 is celebrated as the great national holiday of France.

CHIEF SCOUT HONORED

It is of interest to all Boy Scouts and their friends that Lieut-General Sir Robert Baden-Powell, founder of the scouting movement, was recently further honored by King George V. by having conferred upon him the knighthood of the Grand Cross of St. Michael and St. George.

Retiring after a distinguished career in the British Army, Gen. Baden-Powell organized the first troops of Boy Scouts in England in 1908 and has headed the organization ever since, being now 70 years old.

Similar organizations were formed in America under various names, resulting in the incorporation of the Boy Scouts of America in 1910. There are now about 840,000 active scouts in the United States.

A recent official report recounts the valiant services rendered by the Boy Scouts in relief work after disasters like the Florida hurricane and the Mississippi flood, besides innumerable beneficial activities such as first aid and life-saving, tree planting, fighting forest fires, cleaning up streets and parks, acting as guides for convention delegates, directing traffic and making themselves generally helpful whenever called upon.

The idea of scouting, as developed by Gen. Baden-Powell and his followers, has spread to every civilized land, and has been a potent force for good. The latest honor to be bestowed upon the founder of this great movement is a fitting recognition of his distinguished labors in behalf of boyhood and good citizenship.

CLUB WOMEN AND GIRLS

Rapid extension of the club movement for farm women and girls is reported from many states, a particularly encouraging result of this activity having been shown recently in North Carolina.

Home demonstration work began in North Carolina in 1910 with the growing of a ten-acre garden and canning the products raised. There are now home demonstration agents in 52 counties. Last year farm women of the state sold $250,000 worth of produce at curb markets alone, while home demonstration workers took part in 120 fairs for white people and 12 for colored.

Club members have a definite program of work, extending over periods varying from two to four years, including instruction in planning and preparing meals, preserving of fruits and vegetables for winter use, household management, clothing, dressmaking, millinery, home furnishing, beautifying the home and premises, gardening, poultry and dairy work.

Better roads, labor-saving machinery and modern conveniences have aided the movement, and all possible means have been employed to promote greater comfort and beauty in rural homes.

The unselfish and often arduous labors of home demonstration agents throughout the country are resulting in greater opportunities and better conditions for farm women and girls, which tend to raise the standards of rural living wherever club activities have been undertaken with enthusiasm and zeal.

USING OUR WINGS

At last the American Eagle is learning to use his wings. In less than two years the United States has come from a position far behind that of Europe in commercial aviation to the possession of what is described as "the most extensive commercial flying unit in the world."

Due largely to the rapid development of the Air Mail Service, American planes are in the air more hours than those of all Europe combined.

We are still behind, however, in air passenger lines, but the stimulus given to aviation by the recent trans-Atlantic flights by Lindbergh, Chamberlain, Maitland and Byrd, promises to encourage the rapid extension of passenger service.

While the record of the air mail flyers for safety has been excellent, our military services have not been so fortunate, and the number of Army and Navy flying casualties has been too great. The most important requirement for giving confidence to air passengers must lie in increasing the element of safety, and with improved types of airplanes this will certainly be accomplished.

As G. M. Bellanca, designer of the Columbia, recently said, "first of all safety must be considered; then comfort, and lastly profit." In view of recent performances, it can not be doubted that American engineers and aviators, backed by ample capital, will solve the problems which still lie before them.

AN ELECTRIC COUNTY

Cleveland county, North Carolina, lays claim to being one of the most effectively electrified counties in the country, according to the Cleveland Star of Shelby.

Within the last two years farmers of the county have organized community groups and have built power lines to practically every rural section. Besides having the benefit of electric lights, they also have a great number and variety of conveniences hitherto unknown to them, including washing machines, churns, vacuum cleaners, feed cutters and other labor-saving equipment operated by electricity.

According to the Star, these facilities are being rapidly extended to the rural districts of other counties in the state, and this evidence of progress is receiving much favorable comment by the state press.

This movement is not confined to any one state or section, however, but is gaining headway throughout the entire country, as a result of cooperation among agricultural colleges, farmers' organizations and the electric companies.

MOVIE SALARIES CUT

Announcement of a cut of 10 per cent in salaries of all persons connected with the moving picture industry, who receive more than $50 a week was recently given out by sixteen leading producing companies. Presidents and other executives will share the reduction with stars and less famous players.

Naturally a strong protest has been voiced by many of the high salaried persons affected by the new salary scale, but the producers declare that it will be put into effect regardless of opposition.

When the enormous salaries received by some of the magnates and stars are considered, it appears to the layman that the cut is justified. In fact, a cut of 50 per cent would still leave the earnings of many of these far above what might be considered reasonable.

Some of the present salaries are reported to be as follows: Adolph Zukor and Jesse L. Lasky, $200,000 a year each; Thomas Meighan, $7,500 a week; Pola Negri and Clara Bow, $6,000; Adolph Menjou and Richard Dix, $5,000; Lon Chaney, $3,500 a week. It is said that Gloria Swanson has received as much as $17,500 a week.

Jesse L. Lasky admits that the moving picture industry "has been making pictures at ridiculous prices for high-priced and unreasonable stars and directors." He might have added "and executives," of whom he is one of the highest paid.

The general public will look upon the announced cut in these salaries with approval, particularly if the savings are passed on to theater patrons.

LETTER "E" COST $500

It cost 13-year-old Ralph Keenan of Waukon, Iowa, $500 when he spelled the word "abrogate" with an "e" instead of an "o" at the annual national spelling bee, held in Washington recently.

Even though his error caused him to lose the first prize of $1,000, he received $500 as second prize in the contest, in which 17 champion spellers from as many states were entered.

The first prize of $1,000 went to Dean Lucas, also 13, an eight grade pupil in a rural school at Congree, Ohio. Minerva Ressler, aged 12, of Lancaster, Pa., received the third prize of $250. Other contestants received smaller amounts, the lowest being $35.

This national spelling bee is held every year in Washington, sponsored by 17 newspapers, each of which enters a champion eighth grade speller from its state.

The idea is an excellent one, and might be extended to all sections of the country with beneficial results. Americans are notoriously poor spellers and any means whereby a greater interest and higher proficiency in spelling might be induced is worthy of encouragement.

BIRTHDAY OF AN IDEA

In a recent letter Thomas A. Edison writes: "I conceived the idea of recording and reproducing human speech and other sounds on July 18, 1877." This month, then, marks the fiftieth anniversary of the birth of that idea.

Mr. Edison goes on to say that he worked on his first model of the phonograph during the following two months and that "this first model was entirely successful." He also declares that this first model comprised all the basic principals which are still used at this day in all phonographs and talking machines.

Many will remember the early phonograph records made on wax cylinders. These were greatly inferior to the later disc records, besides they were very fragile and short-lived. Still, the principles used in recording and reproducing the sounds were, as Mr. Edison states, the same as those employed up to the present.

The world owes much of enjoyment and instruction to the idea born in the inventor's fertile brain fifty years ago. It is gratifying that he has been permitted to enjoy a long life in which to develop and witness the universal employment of this and other epoch-making inventions which he has given to mankind.

Rear Admiral Philip Andrews Makes Appeal To Preserve "Old Ironsides"

Many thousands of visitors come annually to the Boston Navy Yard to see the famous old frigate CONSTITUTION. Her ancient bulwarks, muzzle loading 24 pounders with which she battered into submission the Tripolitan forts in 1804 and four British warships in the War of 1812, and her lofty spars and rigging are of perpetual interest contrasted as they are by the lines and batteries of the modern steel warships which keep her company from time to time at the Navy Yard. These visitors carry away with them a new appreciation of what Americans of an earlier and less secure day did upon the sea. The sight of this beautiful old ship instills a deeper reverence for the dignity and beauty of American ideals and for the Constitution of the United States, for which she was named. A move is on foot to restore her to her original staunch condition, not for active service but as a memorial to the Freedom of the Sea which she gained for the American people forever in 1812. It is planned to sail her into every important sea and inland port of the country after her restoration.

"Old Ironsides" is one of six ships authorized by Congress on March 27, 1794. President Washington lost no time in proceeding with their building, as he had said to Congress in 1786: "It is in our own experience that the most sincere neutrality is not sufficient guard against the depredations of nations at war. To secure respect to a neutral flag requires a naval force organized and ready to protect it from insult and aggression." The ship was launched at Boston in 1779, ten years after the Constitution of the United States had been adopted. Her fighting record has never been equalled by any single ship in the history of any navy in the world. She was almost a navy in herself, and, like her own great name, the names of her Commanders are bound up with our early and glorious national life.

Almost every state in the Union contributed to her building. Live oak and white oak and cedar from the southern and Middle Atlantic states; iron for her guns and anchors from Maryland, Connecticut and Massachusetts; fir and pine from the North woods, while the bolts that fastened her historic timbers were made at the foundry of Paul Revere. Her first flags were made by the daughters of Betsy Ross. There was not a single section of the land in the days of her service that was not represented in her successful crews.

Her services in the War of 1812, in which she defeated crack ships of the acknowledged Mistress of the Seas, old England, whose cruisers had long been accustomed to capturing French, Spanish, and other warships of European nations whenever they met them, can not be overestimated. The story of her duty in the West Indies and as a flagship of the American Mediterranean squadron in the war with Tripoli (1803-1805), her marvelous escape from the British squadron in July, 1812, under the command of Isaac Hull, her fight with the British frigate "Guerriere" under the same gallant officer and her subsequent capture of the British frigate "Java" when she was commanded by Commodore Williams Rainbridge, and later when she took two British men-of-war, the "Cyane" and "Levant" in a moon light battle in 1815, Commodore Charles Stewart commanding, reveal a stirring tale of American Naval history.

In order to aid in the restoration of the vessel, Rear Admiral Andrews, Commandant of the Boston Navy Yard, as Chairman of a National "Old Ironsides" Committee of prominent citizens, has placed on sale beautiful reproductions of an original oil painting made by Gordon Grant, depicting the "Constitution" as she appeared at the height of her brilliant career, when she alone defied the squadrons of a nation. The pictures are done in ten colors, measure seventeen by twenty-one inches, and are suitable for framing. They may be procured by Osborn Studio in Munday, Mr. Osborn having secured a limited number of them for this territory.

Mrs. Williams Hostess to Dorcas Class.

On Wednesday afternoon last week the Dorcas class held their business and social meeting in the home of Mrs. J. W. Williams. The members met at the church at 4 o'clock and went in a group to her home, some three miles west of town, where we found Mrs. Williams and daughter, Miss Gladys, ready to welcome us and refresh us with cold lemonade.

After the business session by our class president, Mrs. Brock, we enjoyed a number of games and contests. We were then served delicious cake and ice cream. On account of a number being out of town and with vacation duties our meetings are not so well attended as we would like. If you are a member of this class we are missing you and you are missing a wonderful fellowship.

Members who enjoyed this meeting were Mmes. Brock, Bowden, Burnett, Collins, Clough, Hathaway, Keel and McKinney; visitors, Mmes. R. L. Myers, Robert Myers and Ellis Nix.
