Ranch Day Slated Saturday In Benjamin

Several important events in Knox County have been centered in the county seat of Benjamin during past months, and another one will take place Saturday, July 18, as Benjamin citizens invite everyone in the county to help them celebrate their ranching heritage.

The Knox County Historical Commission, in planning to form a historical museum, has asked each community in the county to stage a fund-raising event to help finance the museum. Benjamin is kicking off the round of activities, choosing Ranch Day as their theme.

In the past weeks, we have printed a great deal of information about Ranch Day. Officials are stressing that it is not just for ranchers, but for everyone to enjoy. There will be some sort of activity to suit just about anyone's taste, beginning with riding and roping events at the Benjamin riding arena that morning, and winding up with a musical jamboree that evening.

In between are a cake decorating contest, an ugly hat contest, branding of boards for a permanent museum display, a tour of historical homes, a craft show and games of every description. Concession stands will be open at the arena and at the Benjamin Memorial Building, where the indoor events will be held.

A Texas quilt made by three Truscott ladies will be given during the jamboree. Donations for the quilt will be accepted during the day. Samples of items needed for the museum will be displayed, and a ranchers' reunion is planned in the afternoon.

A barbecue meal will be served that evening, and following that will be a three-hour musical show featuring talent from every corner of the county. Included in the lineup are Stefani and Suzanne Stephens of O'Brien, Son Propps and band of Truscott, the Munday community choir, barbershop quartet and a country trio, a routine by the Benjamin cheerleaders, the Snailum twins of Plano, Stacy Thompson, Gwen Decker and Clay Hewitt (formerly the Angle Sisters), a Knox City Baptist gospel choir, square dancers, Donnie Roberts of O'Brien, Brownie Tackitt and his band from Knox City and Paul Bullion of Truscott.

The jamboree begins at 7:30 p.m. and will wind up a long day of happenings. It's for ranchers - and everyone else - and promises to be an exciting, fun-filled day.

General chairman of Ranch Day is Nancy McGreger, and she can be contacted by anyone needing more information or wanting to help with any of the events.

Area Airports To Be Discussed At Stamford Meeting

A regional Texas aeronautical facilities plan meeting will be held at 10 a.m., July 23, in the Community Room of the Stamford Electric Co-op at 225 W. McHarg in Stamford. Development of airports in Haskell, Jones, Knox, Shackelford and Throckmorton counties will be discussed. The meeting will be conducted by the Texas Aeronautics Commission.

All area citizens with an interest in air transportation and airport development are invited to attend. Participating in the meeting will be elected city and county officials, airport board members, airport managers, representatives of the West Central Texas Council of Governments and other citizens.

During the meeting, the airport development needs currently identified in the Texas Aeronautical Facilities Plan (TAFP) for area airports will be reviewed. Preservation and development of airport facilities in the area will be covered and the availability of state and federal funds for airport development will be discussed. Information on area economic development, community goals and objectives and other factors that may influence the need for, or timing of, airport development will be requested.

The TAFP has been developed for Texas and the Federal Aviation Administration by the Texas Aeronautics Commission. The plan was first published in 1974. The latest plan revision was published in August, 1984. Completion of this TAFP revision is scheduled for mid-1988.

FOR FUND-RAISING EFFORTS

County Recognized At Heart Convention

The Knox County division of the American Heart Association was the recipient of one of two Heart and Torch awards at the state AHA convention held last weekend in Dallas. Knox and Baylor counties were recognized for raising the highest income per capita for each $1,000 in an economy based index for counties with 40,000 and under population.

Knox County division president Wendell Partridge and his wife, Leona, were in Dallas to receive the award and to attend the conference workshops and training sessions. All facets of AHA's job were discussed, and it was stressed that although a great deal of the funds raised in the individual counties is used for heart research, education of all Americans is one of the key factors in curbing the incidence of heart disease in the country. Therefore, a sizeable portion of the association budget is set aside for learning tools and projects that will enable the AHA to better educate the public on nutrition, exercise, early warning signs and general health care as related to the heart.

Awards for media, professional associates and volunteers were presented during the convention, and the new AHA president and his staff took office.

Knox County residents have given $8,833 in 1987 to the heart association. Much of this total comes from special events, such as the Jump Rope for Heart project in elementary school, and the remainder is from the annual fund drive, memorials and individual gifts. The many people on the county heart board are to be commended for the volunteer time they spend on these projects, and those who donate are certainly due much thanks from all of us.

It is easy to look around Munday and spot several persons who have benefited from the heart research that has developed recent techniques in surgery and other care for the heart, and when we donate to this organization it takes one more step toward curing heart disease.

Shoplifters Arrested Here

Three Haskell County women were arrested here Monday afternoon on shoplifting charges. Maria Torres, 58, Rosa Perez, 22, and Nora Torres, 20, were arraigned and transported to the Haskell County Jail on several counts of theft.

An employee of the Grace Gift Center called the police department at 4:45 p.m. Monday and reported three women who had left the store without paying for the items they took. Munday patrolman Coyt Smith got a description of the subjects from the employee and arrested them.

Dallas Model Claims Munday Connections

Not many local residents will ever see themselves in a catalogue or on a city billboard, much less in a TV commercial. But these very occurrences are soon to happen to Joe Campos, son of Juanita and Jose Campos of Munday, and he thinks it's about time!

Campos, 25, is a model and aspiring actor with the Kim Dawson Agency in Dallas, and he recently completed his first major modeling job, posing for a Gatorade billboard. Before the year is over, Campos will also be featured in a television commercial for the popular drink and in a motion picture.

The Campos family moved to Munday in 1980, just after the eldest of the 14 children had graduated from high school in Washington. He began working in the fields here, always harboring a dream to be a model and actor. In 1982 Campos met Mark McCoy of Haskell, who was already working with the Kim Dawson Agency, and he encouraged Campos to come to Dallas and try to make his dream a reality.

The next step for the young man was putting together a portfolio - a collection of pictures showing what talent he might have for modeling.

A friend in Munday, Martha Sosa, suggested that he approach local amateur photographer Jimmy Carden, and she introduced the two men and posed with Campos in the first photo session. Campos said Carden's work is still making him look good in Dallas advertising circles, and they are planning another portfolio before the year is out.

So, with his pictures in hand and a head full of dreams, Campos set out for Dallas to begin the frustrating round of knocking on doors and coping with rejections. He persevered, and finally engineered a meeting with Kim Dawson, who liked his enthusiasm and flair, and he eventually became one of the large group of fashion and print models she represents. His first modeling has been at the Dallas Apparel Mart in fashion shows.

With the billboard shoot, the commercial soon to be in the works and a small part in a movie, it would seem that Campos has made his dreams come true. But he is already moving, mentally, to other things. "The excitement over the billboard is already fading," he said.

He is taking acting classes and has auditioned for parts in an afternoon

WTU Boasts Low Rates Shown In Statewide Poll

Customers of West Texas Utilities Co. are paying less than the state average price for electricity during July, according to a monthly survey of the Public Utility Commission of Texas.

WTU's standard residential rate for 1,000 kilowatt-hours is $67.92, compared to an average of $73.11 for all investor-owned utilities in the state and an average of $68.88 for all 17 companies in the survey. The list includes a number of rural electric cooperatives, two municipally owned systems and the Lower Colorado River Authority.

The survey shows that since July 1986, WTU's rate for 1,000 KWh has decreased by 15.1 percent as a result of lower costs for power plant fuel. El Paso Electric Co. still has the highest rates in the state, charging its customers $87.42 for 1,000 KWh. TU Electric Co., the reorganized utility which combined Texas Electric Service Co., Texas Power and Light and Dallas Power and Light, is charging $70.82 per 1,000 KWh.

Several of the companies, including WTU and El Paso, are in the process of seeking rate increases. WTU has filed for a 23.9 percent increase, and a hearing before the PUC in Austin has been scheduled to begin August 24.

This is the first increase in base rates sought by WTU in three years, while several decreases in fuel cost charges have occurred.

The change would place WTU's portion of the new Oklahoma Power Plant in the company's rate base and add about $50 million in annual revenue. The company cannot recover expenses of building and operating the plant until the rate base is changed to reflect the $275 million investment. The plant, which burns coal, has been in commercial operation since last December.

Signup Announced For Conservation Reserve Program

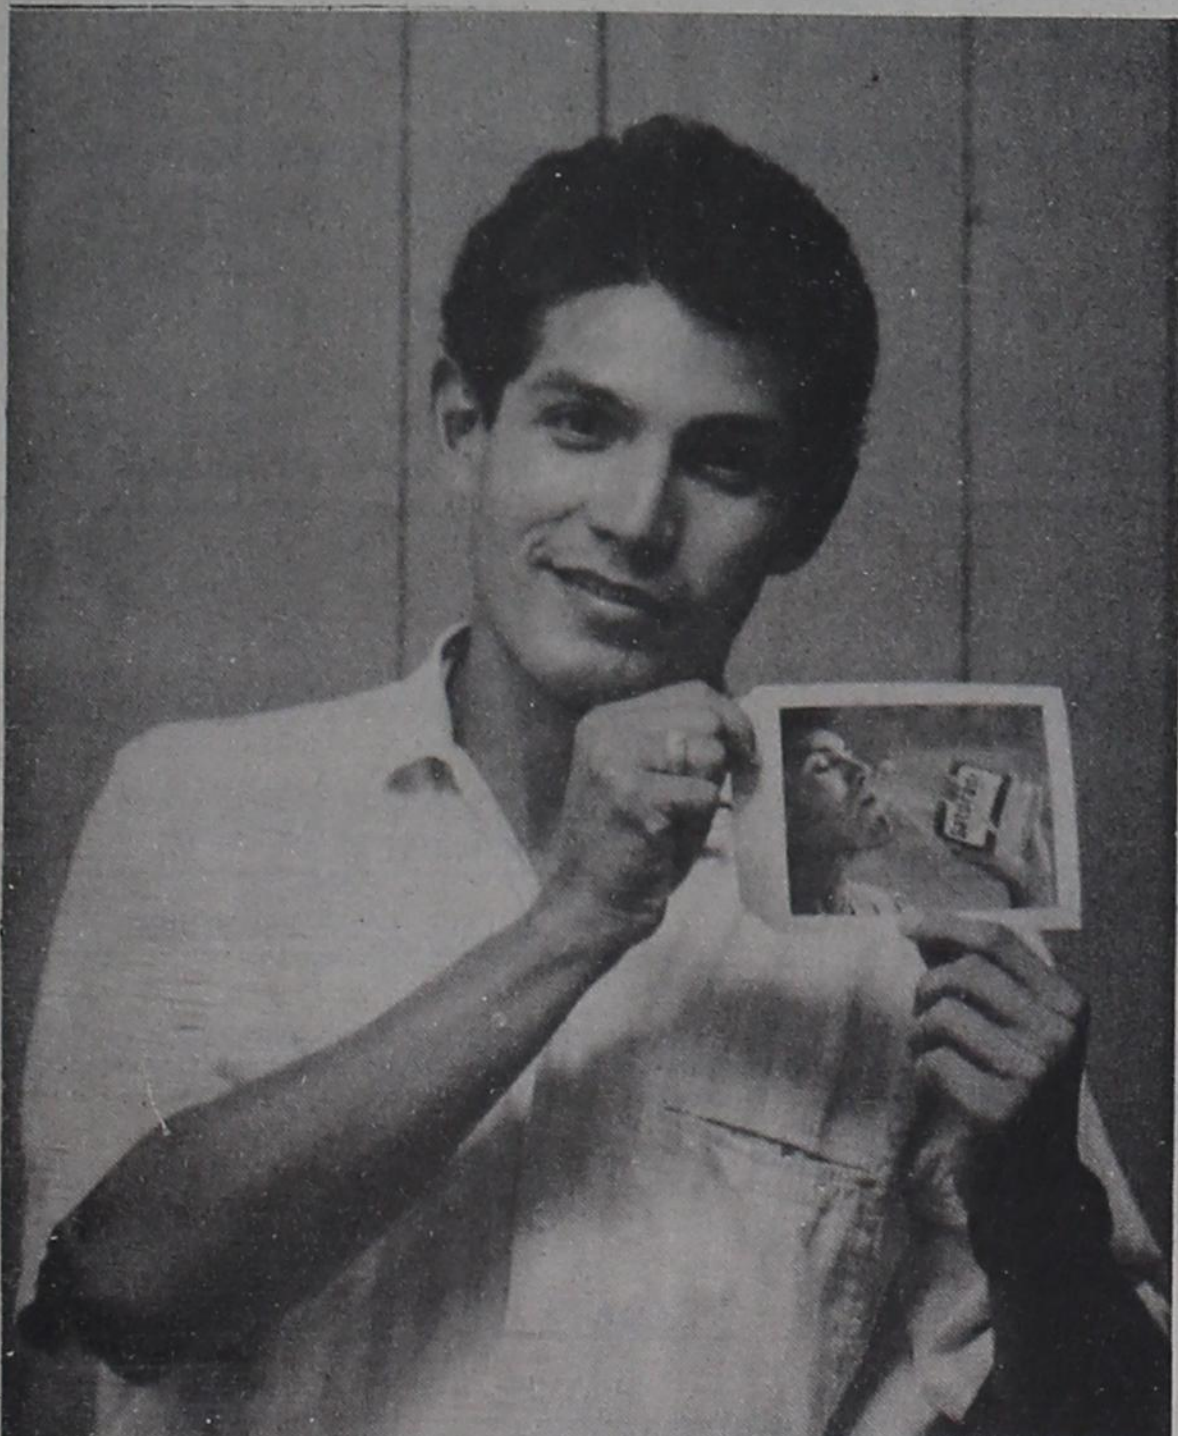

Local agriculture officials announced today that another sign-up will be held for the Conservation Reserve Program from July 20 through 31. Producers in Knox County will be allowed to bid land into the ten year program on a competitive basis.

To be eligible, the land must be owned for at least three years prior to enrollment. A determination will be made prior to bidding as to other eligibility factors, including soil type and amount of erosion occurring. Producers who are successful in bidding their land into the program are paid approximately 50% of the cost for establishing permanent cover on the land plus an annual payment equal to the amount of their accepted bid.

The highest bid accepted in Knox County has been $40 per acre. At this time, 13 farms have been accepted at the county level and are in the process of establishing permanent cover. Any individuals interested in bidding their land into the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) may do so by visiting the ASCS office in Knox City between July 20-31. For more information, call the local Extension Service, ASCS or SCS office.

from other people, persons who have gone on to big careers and give credit to their first agent."

And finding the agency means developing a tough skin. "I had so many rejections at first, people slamming doors in my face. But you have to keep going, you have to convince people that you have something they could like and use. Sometimes you don't get a chance, but you have to keep looking."

But after he got started, he found that his seemingly glamorous career was much like any other job in lots of ways. "You have to be dependable and reliable. And you have to enjoy what you are doing. I think a person who focuses only on the money they are making will forget to enjoy the job. And I do enjoy it."

The shooting session for the Gatorade billboard was a tremendously exciting experience, he said, but he admitted it will be a long time before he wants to taste the drink again. "I had to drink so much that day I was almost sick of it."

Dallas is one of the three leading fashion markets in the U.S., but Campos said the Texas city is not competing with Los Angeles any more.

Peters-Kuehler Wedding Vows Are Pledged In Rhineland Mass

Diedra Ann Kuehler and Glenn Robert Peters exchanged wedding vows in a ceremony held at five o'clock in the afternoon on Saturday, June 20, at St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Rhineland. Rev. Robert Strittmatter, church pastor, officiated at the nuptial mass.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Kuehler of Rhineland and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Arvin Peters of Seymour.

The altar setting featured twin candelabras holding tapers and decorated with white and deep pink Better Times roses, white lotus blossoms, Better Times gypsophila and plumosa and springerli fern accented with bows of Better Times pink and white ribbon. The unity candle was appointed with matching roses, fern and bows, and pews were marked with white satin bows.

Connie Quintero of Wichita Falls and Jon Hrcirik of Seymour, cousins of the groom, were candlelighters. Miss Quintero wore a red dress complemented with a white corsage.

Lynn Robertson of Seymour provided vocal selections, To Me and Nobody Loves Me Like You Do before the wedding. Mrs. Leo Fetsch of Rhineland furnished traditional wedding music and accompanied a choir consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Michalik, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Zeissel, Mrs. Clarence Brown, Miss Betty Ann Wilde, Mrs. Richie Smith, Mrs. Joe Birkenfeld and Mrs. Gerard Kuehler as they sang Here I Am, Be Not Afraid, Only a Shadow and Hail Mary, Gentle Woman.

Lance and Jason Brown of Rhineland, cousins of the bride, were servers, and David Kuehler, brother of the bride, was lector for the mass.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal designer gown of white organza trimmed with Venise and Schiffli lace. Matching lace sprinkled with seed pearls and sequins outlined the Queen Anne neckline, and the bodice was embellished with additional seed pearls and sequins. The full organza bishop sleeves were scattered with lace appliques and extended to the wrists, where wide cuffs were edged with Venise lace. The waistline was encircled with a band of lace, and a large medallion of Schiffli lace adorned the full skirt, which was finished with a wide ruffle of lace and flowed into a cathedral train lavished with identical lace.

The bride's double-tiered veil of white tulle, made by her mother, fell from a band of white roses and extended to a walking length train.

She carried a cascade bouquet of white and Better Times roses, stephanotis orchids, freesia and gypsophila entwined with a red rosary given to the bride by her mother.

For something old, the bride wore her great-great-grandmother's wedding ring. Something new was her veil, her dress and pearl necklace were borrowed from her sisters, Bernadette and Kathy, and she wore the traditional blue garter.

Bernadette Moore of Rhineland served as matron of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids, all sisters of the bride, were Kathy Kuehler of Wichita Falls, Susan Gully of Munday and Jeannette Kuehler, Mary Jane Kuehler, Ann Marie Kuehler and Denise Kuehler, all of Rhineland.

The attendants wore identical gowns of flame red taffeta featuring loose-fitting tucked front-wrap bodices and ruffles at the shoulders. The flared skirts fell from fitted waistlines circled with wrap-around fabric sashes. Each attendant wore a sprig of gypsophila in the Better Times shade in her hair and carried a single rose wrapped with a ribbon bow in the bride's chosen color.

Mandi Myers of Munday, cousin of the bride, and Chris Peters of Seymour, brother of the groom, were flower girl and ring bearer. The flower girl was dressed in a long white gown enhanced by a red sash and wrist corsage and carried a white basket of silk rose petals which she scattered down the aisle. The ring bearer wore a grey tuxedo with tails and a red cummerbund and bow tie with a rose boutonniere.

Danny Blackard of Seymour was best man, and groomsmen were Mark Peters and Craig Peters, brothers of the groom, Todd Hrcirik and Rodney Hrcirik, the groom's cousins, all of Seymour, Frank A. Quintero of Wichita Falls, also the groom's cousin, and Mickey Allen of Seymour. Ushering guests were the bride's brothers, Joey Kuehler of Satanta, Kansas and David Kuehler of Rhineland, Dave Ress of Iowa Park and Keith Jones of Denton.

The men in the wedding party wore grey tuxedos complemented with red cummerbunds and bow ties and rose boutonnieres in their lapels. The groom chose a grey tux with tails and a matching tie and cummerbund.

Kathy Pennartz of Rhineland registered guests.

The bride's parents were hosts for a reception at the Knights of Columbus Hall. A white cloth overlaid in lace covered the bride's table, which was centered with a pedestal arrangement of white and Better Times pink roses, morning glories and baby's breath flanked by a pair of single-stem crystal candleholders with white candles. A white lattice backdrop was festooned with the bridesmaids' bouquets.

The wedding cake was iced in white with white rose decorations and topped with the traditional bride and groom. Table appointments were crystal. Serving guests were Corrine Kuehler, cousin of the bride, Lori Kimmel and Michelle Bufkin.

The groom's table was covered with a grey cloth and centered with the bride's bouquet and a silver candleholder holding a white candle. Coffee was poured from a silver service, and German chocolate cake was served by Laurie Peters, sister of the groom, Cathy Quintero, the groom's cousin, and Carolyn Blackard.

A dance hosted by the groom's parents at the Knights of Columbus Hall followed the reception. The groom's family also hosted the rehearsal dinner the preceding evening.

The bride is a graduate of Munday High School and Midwestern State University in Wichita Falls, where she has been employed by the Wichita Falls Independent School District. The groom, a graduate of Seymour High School and Vernon Regional Technical Center, is employed by Seymour Machine Shop. The couple is making their home in Seymour.

Senior Citizens Reflect On Holiday

Patriotism was one of the topics at the Munday Senior Citizens meeting held July 2. Grace Hutchinson, president, was in charge of the session. Opening prayer was offered by Arie Tidwell, followed by the Pledge of Allegiance recited in unison. Minutes were read and approved, and the treasurer's report was accepted as given.

With the July 4 holiday approaching, discussion centered around the meaning of the holiday. Euris Reid spoke on the subject, and several members talked about what being an American meant to them.

Refreshment assignments for the August 12 birthday party at the Munday Nursing Center were made and include Grace Hutchinson, Helen Phillips, Maggie Gaines, Jo Strickland, Ella Gresham and Virginia Cary, cakes; Eunice Raynes, Virginia Williams, Lala Morgan, Euris Reid, Ruth Horton and Ruby Roden, punch.

Mrs. Hutchinson voiced the grace for the noon meal, a covered dish luncheon.

The next meeting of the Senior Citizens will be at 10:30 a.m. Thursday, August 6, at the Munday Community Center. Game night will be at 6:00 p.m. Thursday, July 16, and singing will begin at 7 p.m. Thursday, July 23.

LEADERSHIP PROGRAM OFFERS FARMERS 'TALL' CHALLENGE

A new program which will link modern agriculture with society and other industries through leadership will begin early this fall, said the coordinator for the Texas Agricultural Lifetime Leadership program.

The TALL program selects approximately 25 young producers and exposes them to seminars, visits with key leaders in industry and trips to trade and financial centers to increase their leadership skills and broaden their understanding of the role and needs of modern agriculture, said Dr. L.S. Pope, coordinator of the TALL program. It will be conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, an arm of the Texas A&M University System.

Agriculture in Texas is changing, said Pope, formerly associate dean of the College of Agriculture at A&M and more recently dean of agriculture at New Mexico State University.

To be effective in the community, or at state and national levels, the leaders of tomorrow must be aware of issues ranging from the environment to international trade, from marketing to a better understanding of the consumer, Pope said. They must sharpen their communication skills and have a keen knowledge of politics and the impact of the non-farm sector, he stressed. Such programs in other states have been very helpful in this, he said. More than 20 states have developed leadership programs to strengthen the communication and leadership skills of the agriculture leaders. The program enables the leaders of tomorrow to communicate on an equal basis with their counterparts in industry, government and urban communities, Pope said.

"The focus of the two year program is not to update the leaders on mixing the right feed rations or choosing the right combine," explained Bill McKinley, director of Missouri's Agricultural Leadership of Tomorrow program. "We want to broaden their perspective on world issues and show how they affect each leader's business and community."

The time commitment is approximately 70 days over a two year period. This averages out to be one day every six weeks plus a two week trip each year.

This learning experience is offered to the producer for $500 while the total cost for each participant is $3,500, said Pope. The difference is provided from gifts and grants.

Those in the TALL program must fill out an application by July 31, 1987 and go through a screening process. The class size is limited, so preference is given to candidates who have demonstrated leadership potential, said Pope. Candidates must be actively engaged in production agriculture or in a related agribusiness occupation in Texas, explained Pope.

The program educates and builds confidence, said participants of similar programs. "The program opened doors where I could gain skills and I learned that my opinion is important," said Heather Walker, manager of the Western Cotton Services Company in Phoenix, Arizona. "I learned to strategize and plan, and I'm much more realistic and practical in decision making," said Pine du Bois of Kingston, Mass., a graduate of the New England Leadership program.

Applications may be obtained from the Knox County Extension office. The application deadline is July 31, 1987.

Locals' Grandson Is On ACU Honor Roll

The grandson of two local couples was among 689 Abilene Christian University students listed on the Dean's Honor Roll for the spring, 1987 semester.

Brad Quentin Offutt, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Offutt of Clarksville, was one of the students who maintained at least a 3.45 grade point average while enrolling in 12 or more semester hours. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Wilkie Guinn and Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Offutt, all of Munday.

ACU is the fourth largest private university in the Southwest, offering degrees in more than 80 fields through its five undergraduate colleges, graduate school and college of nursing. It is the largest university associated with the Churches of Christ, enrolling some 4,500 students.

Cancer Society To Host Talent Show

The Vera community will host a Knox County American Cancer Society talent show and bake sale August 1 at the new Vera Community Center. Sam Albright of KWFT Radio in Wichita Falls will serve as master of ceremonies, and talent will be from the Knox County area. The bake sale is set for 6 p.m., with the talent show to follow at 7.

In Knox County, the American Cancer Society has helped eight patients, representing a total of $3,230 in services. According to society statistics, only a small amount of the funds raised go for administrative costs, with the bulk used for research and education or remaining in the individual counties to assist local patients.

Former Gilliland Teacher Is Honored

Dr. Joe Cardwell of Starkville, Mississippi, recently received the Outstanding Teacher Award at Mississippi State University. The Board of Trustees of State Institutions of Higher Learning presented Cardwell its special achievement award, a tribute to excellence among university faculty. At the school's spring commencement, Dr. Cardwell led the academic procession carrying the ceremonial mace.

DR. JOE CARDWELL

A native of Vernon, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H.T. Cardwell Sr. His early interest in raising and showing dairy cattle as a 4-H member led to his profession. He received his bachelor's and master's degrees in dairy science from Texas Tech University and a doctorate in dairy science from North Carolina State University with minors in statistics and chemistry.

Dr. Cardwell taught Veterans Vocational School at Gilliland in 1947, was a dairy science teacher at Texas Tech until 1950 and has been at Mississippi State, where he holds the rank of professor, for the past 35 years. He has published 80 research articles in scientific journals, and his technique for detecting non-fat dry milk in fluid milk is used extensively in the United States by regulatory officials.

He received the honors award from the southern division of the American Dairy Science Association and the Kraftco teaching award from the ADSA. He is listed in Who's Who in the South and Southwest, American Men of Science and Leaders in American Science. He holds membership in Sigma Xi, Gamma Sigma Delta and Phi Tau Sigma honor societies.

Dr. Cardwell, who is also active in community and civic affairs, is married to the former Leota Patterson of Vera, who teaches in the Starkville public schools. She is the daughter of Mrs. H.A. Patterson of Vera.

VACCINATION SCHEDULE FOR CHILDREN CHANGED

Children now need one less trip to the doctor for vaccinations, which should bring smiles to them and their parents alike. This recommendation, recently released by the U.S. Centers for Disease Control, combines two vaccinations previously given three months apart. This should not only save money, but also make it more likely that more children will be immunized, or at least partly immunized, if fewer trips to the doctor are required.

The following is the CDC's new recommended vaccination schedule.

2 months - first diphtheria-tetanus-pertussis (DTP) and polio (OPV)

4 months - second DTP and OPV

6 months - third DTP

15 months - measles-mumps-rubella, fourth DTP and third OPV

24 months - Hemophilus b polysaccharide vaccine for Hemophilus influenza type b

4-6 years - fifth DTP and fourth OPV vaccines.

SUMMER REFRIGERATION

As summer temperatures soar, it's even more important that your refrigerator keep its cool. Proper installation and maintenance can make that possible. To keep the refrigerator and freezer at proper temperatures during warm, humid weather, try to open them as few times as possible. Don't leave the doors standing open for a long time while searching for something, and try to take out everything needed at once instead of opening and closing the doors a few times.

An overloaded refrigerator is inefficient. It doesn't allow the air to circulate and cool all the food. Cleaning out near-empty jars and leftovers that haven't been used within a few days will help. The ideal temperature for a refrigerator ranges from 33-39 degrees, and freezers should be set anywhere between 0 and -8 degrees.
