From A Carpenter's Son

Don Whetsell - Pastor
First Methodist Church, Munday - Goree

As I write this column, it is raining in Munday; one of those slow, gentle spring rains that is more like the spray from a water-fall than a thundershower. It's the kind of rain that makes you want to grab an umbrella and go for a walk around town.

I remember when I was younger, rain like this was almost magical. Suddenly, there were all these rivers and streams that moments before had been dry lawns and empty streets. I remember how fresh and clean the air smelled when it rained, and how the sound of the drops as they fell was very soothing and relaxing. I would splash in the puddles and send little leaf boats on a one way trip down the storm drain. I also remember that when it rained, everyone would slow down a little. They didn't rush around as much and they took some time to enjoy things like conversation and a cup of something hot to drink.

The scripture says that God sends the rain on the righteous and the unrighteous. Many people have interpreted the word rain to mean sorrow and misfortune, but that is not the way the original writer intended it. The Middle-East is a dry and barren place for the most part and the Palestine of Jesus' time was frequently hit with drought. In those days, if they didn't have a well, rain was the only source of drinkable water for most of the people. It watered grapevines and olive groves, gardens and cisterns. Shepherds and their flocks depended on the streams fed by fresh rain. They depended as much on the rain as we do today.

I heard some one say once, that the rain was God's tears for his world. It's not very scientific, I know, but it is a good analogy. God sends his tears of love and forgiveness on both the righteous and the unrighteous, the sinner and the saint. Though it is only vaguely hinted at in scripture, rain has come to be a symbol of God's matchless Grace in some Christian writings and songs. A particularly memorable song for me is titled Merciful Eyes. In this song the writer remembers how Jesus wept and sweated drops of blood while praying in the Garden of Gethsemane (Luke 22:44). He talks symbolically about God 'weeping' tears of blood on the world, and how he, the writer, needs more than a trickle, he needs a flood of God's tears to rain down from Heaven and wash him clean from his greed and conceit.

"When I fall on my face, grant me mercy and grace... Red blood rain from the sky, God, have merciful eyes, merciful eyes."

We can be thankful today that God sends his rain and his mercy and love on the righteous and the unrighteous, because I suspect that if God sent rain only to the righteous, not a drop of rain would fall anywhere on the earth. I know it wouldn't fall on me.

Next time it rains, if it's not too cold, get out of the house and go for a walk in it. You can marvel at God's creation and his love for all of us, and don't forget to praise God for the rain.

Why some towns grow while others do not

A former Kansas State University professor, Dr. Cornelia Flora, has done extensive research on small towns. Her work has focused on why some small towns grow while others fail. When we examine her work, it becomes obvious that her findings can be applied to every community.

1. The research revealed that in growing communities, controversy was considered normal. It was expected, and regarded as necessary for participatory government.

Just the opposite was revealed in dying towns. People avoided controversy and refused to address issues, regulations and the people who made them.

2. People in growing towns held an objective view of politics. They did not take sides on an issue because of friendship alone, nor did they oppose someone simply because that person was an educator, a business person or a farmer.

On the other hand, dying communities had a "my side of the street versus your side" mentality. People personalized their politics - they did not separate the person from the job. They gave loyalty to people rather than issues, an attitude that prevailed right up to the end.

3. In prosperous small towns, the emphasis in schools was on academics, rather than sports.

In dying towns, schools tried to hold people's interest by promoting loyalty to sports. However, when academic programs deteriorated, people moved their children to better schools.

4. In growing towns there was a willingness to risk for the good of the town. We ought to be able to see the importance of this stance for schools. After all, if we don't risk, we will stagnate. There is also a side feature to this characteristic: growing towns had enough success to want to risk - and they had success because they did risk. Dying towns had neither.

5. In the same vein as risk, growing towns had a willingness to tax themselves. They moved beyond want and action. Dying towns accurately identified needs, but that's where everyone stopped.

They thought someone else should pay the bill for their gain and weren't willing to tax themselves.

6. Growing towns had the ability to expand. They made a place for more people - including those who were new to the community.

This was not true to dying towns. The townspeople would not share their power and authority with newcomers. Small groups held all the leadership.

7. Growing towns also had the ability to network horizontally as well as vertically. Therefore, they could learn from anyone.

8. Growing towns were flexible. They disbursed community leadership. Many people were involved in the work and mission of the community in leadership roles. Therefore, if someone dropped out, another took his or her place.

In dying towns, leadership was often in the hands of one person. When that person died, the community stopped and died with him or her.

The future of Munday is in our hands.

A POEM FOR THE LIVING

When I am dead, cry for me a little, think of me sometimes, but not too much; It is not good for you or your wife or your husband or your children to allow your thoughts to dwell too long on the dead. Think of me now and again as I was in life, at some moment which is pleasant to recall, but not for long. Leave me in peace as I shall leave you too in peace. While you live, let your thoughts be with the living.

Larry Fitzgerald, candidate for Mayor, issues statement

Saturday, May 7 is election time. This article is to announce that I would be happy to serve you as mayor.

It's difficult to win over an incumbent who has held office eleven consecutive years... even a last minute write-in.

When I submitted my name to the citizens of this city for the office of mayor there was a chance that there wouldn't be any others filing. I mention this to let you know that I'm not running against anyone. My motivation is service to the citizens of this city and their children.

Regardless of whom is elected mayor, these are a few things I would like to see the next mayor do:

1. Establish a 24-hour telephone hotline for citizens to call with questions and comments concerning city government. A mayor should be friendly and accessible to all citizens.
2. Establish a regular newspaper column to answer the questions of the town's citizens.
3. Work hard to bring in more jobs for our youth and to make sure that Munday grows and not becomes a "ghost town".
4. Explore more alternative financing to support the city (instead of new taxes and fees such as the proposed garbage collection increase).

Thank you,

Larry (Lawrence) Fitzgerald
LARRY FITZGERALD'S

- (2) Before going into the ministry, served as an officer with two major national corporations and a state organization primarily in economic development (bringing business and industry into West Texas).
- (3) Completed courses leading to certification as a professional economic developer.
- (4) Completed courses in governmental affairs -- working with state and national lawmakers.
- (5) Received a Governor's Commendation for work with a Texas state agency.

"On A Wizer Note"

By Paul Weiser,
Knox County Extension Agent - Agriculture

With spring come many questions - What kind of bug is this in my flowers?; What can I do to get rid of these weeds in my lawn?; What is wrong with my garden?; and many others. Those questions usually arise suddenly and can sometimes cause much damage in just a few days.

For questions like these, do not hesitate in giving me a call in Benjamin. I will also be spending some time at the Texas A&M Vegetable Research Station in Munday every week beginning in May. Plans are to spend Wednesday afternoons at the Vegetable Station. However, due to my schedule there may be some days where I will be there all day and others only an hour or two.

One big question that will be of big concern this year will be that of lawn and household insect pests. Ticks will be extremely popular pests due to the mild winter. For some good suggestions on controlling ticks in and around the house please let us know and we will mail you an Extension Service publication explaining how to do this.

For those who have rosebushes, begin watching for spider mites.

These pests are usually found on the underside of leaves, spider mites can also be spotted by the "webs" they leave on the foliage. Spider mites can often be eliminated by strong blasts of water from a garden hose. A second effective remedy is insecticidal soap.

Be sure to remember to water your lawn if it does not rain. With hot temperatures on the way, grasses need all the help they can get. Lush growing lawns are less susceptible to disease and insect pests. It is best to water early in the day. Nighttime watering can cause fungal disease problems.

If weeds in the garden are your pet peeves, here are some suggestions to eliminate or at least suppress the problem. The most obvious control method - mechanical - is usually the most practical. This includes physical destruction by using a hoe, tiller, disk, etc., or by simply pulling the weeds. The secret to this type of method is to stay ahead of the weeds. If the weeds are allowed to get too big - or sometimes just mature - the root system becomes too complex and the plant grows back in just a few days.

Mowing works well for taller weeds. However, weeds such as Bermuda grass will not be affected due to their ability to grow close to the soil surface. Mulching is an excellent way to control weeds while adding other benefits. Organic mulches aid in moisture conservation, cooler soil temperature, softer soil, and will gradually add organic matter to the soil.

A layer 2 to 4 inches thick of good organic mulch will stop many weeds. However, problem grasses like Bermuda will only be suppressed for a short time before they will become a problem again.

Some materials that work well as mulch includes: sawdust, wood bark, wood chips, leaves, pine needles, hay and grass clippings. Also, available are pecan shells and shredded paper. Some work better than others, but they all have their benefits. If manure is used, be careful. Manure thick enough to impede weeds can be harmful to your garden or flower bed.

Be sure to remember that these mulch can also bring in new weeds. Hay from a weedy field may bring more problems than it eradicates.

Herbicides may also be used. Be sure to read all label directions before applying. Some chemicals will do more damage to the garden plants than the weeds.

For more information on any of these topics please give Paul Weiser a call at the Knox County Extension office in Benjamin at (817) 454-2651.

Human wisdom only goes so far. Unfortunately, that is sometimes not far enough. There are circumstances in everyone's life where our wisdom seems far too inadequate to address the situation.

What do you do when a relationship is breaking apart? What do you do when someone is suffering? What do you do when injustice is taking place? What do you do when there are no good choices?

All of these are questions we must face from time to time. What do you do? You pray! The apostle James tells us "... if any of you lacks wisdom, let him ask of God, who gives to all men generously and without reproach, and it will be given to him" (James 1:5).

What a tremendous promise! When our wisdom comes to the end of its ability, we can ask of God, who has promised to bless us liberally with His wisdom.

What situation do you face today for which you need wisdom? Get on your knees and spend a good bit of time praying for wisdom. God will provide!

"Lord, give me the wisdom to go in the Godly way. Help me in my inadequate understanding. Amen."

At Your Service

by Dr. Larry Fitzgerald
Minister, Munday Church of Christ

Q: Is it all right for Christians to cuss?

A: It's unfortunate that cussing has become the "in thing" to do. My grandfather often said that small people use curse words because they aren't intelligent enough to use other words.

The worse type of curse words are the ones that use God's name in vain. Culturally, we've made such terms as "Oh God!" and "My dear Lord" more acceptable than "crude" terms. However, God considers such sin on the same level as murder (Leviticus 24:15; 19:12; Exodus 20:7; Colossians 3:8).

Sometimes people use terms which they do not realize are profane. Euphemisms are in this category. I was quite old before I realized that "Gosh" was a term for "God". Preachers, teachers and parents need to gently correct the use of these terms, as well.

The principle of Christians' speech is found in Ephesians 4:29: "Let no evil talk come from out of your mouths, but only such as is good for uplifting, as fits the occasion, for it imparts grace to those who hear" (Ephesians 4:29).

If you have a question for this column, write Larry c/o Box 211, Munday, TX 76371.

Do not look directly at the sun, doctor warns

Solar eclipse to occur May 10 across central and west Texas

Beginning at about 9:49 a.m. on Tuesday, May 10, the moon will slowly glide across the sun to create an annular eclipse. During an annular eclipse, the moon will cover all but a bright ring around the circumference of the sun. The moon is too far away from the earth to completely cover the sun's surface. Peak dark time will be a five-minute period beginning at about 11:22 a.m., with the moon finishing its celestial course at about 1:12 p.m.

This phenomenon is expected to shade most of Texas, with El Paso, parts of southern New Mexico and Northern Mexico getting a total eclipse. About 85 to 88 percent of the sunlight will be blocked in an area stretching from Austin to Amarillo, but the sun's ultraviolet rays will not be suppressed, which means they will be as strong as they usually are at any Texas midday. Texans won't experience an solar eclipse of this magnitude until well into the 21st century.

"What makes this eclipse more dangerous is because the outer atmosphere will not be covered. People have a tendency to think that when the sun is covered, they can look at it," said Glen O. Brindley, M.D., director of the Division of Ophthalmology at Scott & White Memorial Hospital and Clinic in Temple, and professor in the Texas A&M Health Science Center College of Medicine. "There is no safe way to look at the sun," he said. "There are no special lenses you can use to make it safe."

How to view the eclipse safely

Aside from viewing the eclipse on television news, no other method will let you look directly at the moon's course over the sun, Dr. Brindley added.

A safe way to monitor the progress of the eclipse is to take two sheets of paper, one dark and one white. Lay the dark sheet on the ground. Punch a hole in the middle of the second, white sheet. With your back to the sun, hold the white sheet away from the ground to focus a pinpoint of light on the dark sheet. As the moon glides over the sun, the sun's crescent shape will appear on the dark sheet of paper.

Those who want to get a first-hand view of the eclipse should view it indirectly with a pinhole camera. To build your own pinhole camera, you will need the following: large cardboard box (12 inches square or larger); aluminum foil; a white sheet of paper; tape; scissors; a straight pin.

- To construct the camera:
1. Cut a 1-inch hole in the top center of one side of the box.
  2. Cut out a 2-by-5-inch viewing port at the bottom center of the same side.
  3. Tape a piece of aluminum foil over the 1-inch hole.

4. Take a pin and poke a hole in the foil.

5. Tape a sheet of white paper on the inside of the box, on the side opposite the pin hole.

To use your pinhole camera, stand with your back to the sun and hold the box over your head with the pin hole facing the sun. Watch the eclipse through the viewing port. It will be reflected on the white paper.

School Board candidate Lowe issues statement

As a candidate for the School Board, I am taking this opportunity to inform the public of my interest in serving as a trustee on the Munday School Board.

As a mother of three boys, I feel that I am in touch with what's going on in the school system and am concerned with issues dealing with our children. I feel that it is time our parents become actively involved with our children's education.

I feel that I am qualified for this position as I have volunteered my time for many years as a Scout leader and a 4-H leader. I am serving on the Knox County Child Welfare Board, Knox County Home Economics advisory committee, City Park committee, Knox County 4-H and Youth committee and the Knox County Extension Program council. I am also involved with the First Baptist Church of which I am a member.

For these reasons, I feel that I am very qualified for the Munday School Board and would appreciate you giving me the opportunity to serve by voting for me Saturday, May 7.

Thank you,
Judy Lowe
