Weldon E. Floyd Purchases Farm Through F.S.A.

Weldon E. Floyd who lives in the Sunset community, is the first tenant farmer in Knox county to become a farm owner by a loan from the Farm Security Administration, it was announced today by Howard M. Williamson, FSA supervisor.

Mr. Floyd has bought a 160 acre farm located 7 miles west of Munday. He was one of the six tenant farmers in the county selected for an ownership loan repayable over a 40-year period at three per cent.

The six enabled to become farm owners this year by the FSA is only a drop in the bucket, the supervisor said. "We could have successfully made many times this number of loans."

Mr. Floyd and the other framers whose applications are being acted upon were chosen for the loans by a committee of local farmers composed of P. C. Phillips, Munday; E. A. Beck, Vera, and C. J. Bohannon, Knox City.

The supervisor stated that the basis of any sound agricultural system is farm ownership and that he hoped the FSA work in promoting this could be expanded. However, he stated that he had read that Congress had not as yet appropriated any money for this activity.

"Glimpses of Holland" to be Shown At School Auditorium on February 29

"Glimpses of Holland" will be presented by Roeland Van Cavel in the Munday School auditorium, on Thursday, February 29, at 7:30 p. m., according to an announcement today by President Lee Haymes of the Lions Club.

An intimate insight into the history, life, customs, costumes, traditions, peculiarities and future of Holland will be presented by Roeland Van Cavel.

Van Cavel came to America alone from Rotterdam, at the age of 19. All his relations still live in Holland. With only seven years of grade school education when he arrived in the United States, he is well on the way to his doctor's degree at the University of California at Los Angeles, specializing in sociology.

Van Cavel states that the average American's impression of Holland is that of a land of windmills, wooden shoes, with all the little Dutch boys busy sticking their fingers in dykes. He then tells of similarly fantastic ideas he had of the United States before coming here.

With the aid of a series of beautiful oil paintings 42 x 60 inches in size, Mr. Van Cavel describes the unique system of dams and dykes used in reclaiming land, the way the land is laid out and how agriculture is controlled; the world-famous tulips; the Queen, the democratic government, and the colonial empire; the social stratification, much more evident than in the United States; the Dutch system of education; courtships and marriage; how Hollywood styles and movies are changing the customs, costumes, dances, songs, and social life in Holland, with the older ones fast disappearing. He will also discuss the delicate position of Holland in the world situation.

Mr. Van Cavel is recognized as a brilliant entertainer and his delightful wit has led many to call him the Dutch Humorist. With penetrating insight into the real life of his people and with kindly humor he presents a story which is both educational and entertaining. Dressed in baggy trousers, wooden shoes, bright coat, and Dutch cap, he sings Dutch songs and dances.

WOMAN OF THE YEAR

In its February issue the Progressive Farmer announces its selection of Miss Martha Berry of Georgia as the South's "woman of the year" for her historic pioneer service in providing educational opportunities for country boys and girls of limited means.

This is only one of many honors which have been bestowed on Miss Berry, who was in 1931 selected in a nation-wide poll as one of the 12 greatest American women. She has also received the Theodore Roosevelt medal for leadership of youth, and honorary degrees from six colleges and universities.

In 1902 she founded the Berry schools for mountain boys and girls with a modest beginning in a log cabin near her home at Mount Berry, Ga. The schools now have more than 1,300 students, who attend classes four days and work two days each week. The boys learn useful trades or farming, while the girls are taught home economics and other subjects in which they are interested.

Miss Berry is still active in the direction of the schools at the age of 73, and is also the only woman member of the board of regents of the Georgia university system, to which she was appointed in 1934.

Her distinguished service in the cause of education will be ranked with that of those great woman pioneers of the last century—Mary Lyon, founder of Mount Holyoke, and Maria Mitchell, astronomer and professor at Vassar.

AVERAGE AMERICAN

Did the depression of the Thirties harm the American spirit? Did it cause some to lose faith in what we call the American dream? Did it lessen the self-reliance and stimulate class hatreds?

A lot of people have feared that it did. Read, then, what the American people think of themselves today, as mirrored in a new Fortune poll: Eighty per cent of Americans, from farm hands and factory workers to prosperous executives, regard themselves as members of the middle class.

Most Americans—including three out of five married men with families to support, and more than half of the unemployed—would rather have a good job, with an even chance of getting promoted or fired, than a secure job at just enough wages to get by.

A majority think they are better prepared to succeed than their parents were, that their chances of success or better, and that their sons' chances will be still better.

Seventy per cent feel that they have an obligation to pass on to the next generation: better living and social conditions, a higher standard of citizenship, more education, better health. Only ten per cent feel that bequeathing material wealth to their sons is important.

Self-confident, proud, believers in opportunity, builders of a better world—that's us: average Americans! Those qualities and ideals have made America's middle class the highest common denominator of citizenship in the world, a class in which the all-American headline still is: Local Boy Makes Good.

THE HELPLESS MATCH

Fire menaces the preservation of society's most cherished things: property, jobs and family. When you hold a match in your fingers and the clear flame points toward the ceiling in silent beauty, it is hard to believe that with a little help from its allies around the room—cigarettes, waste paper, curtains—it could consume the house in which you are sitting.

All these allies seem far from dangerous; but every day a match or cigarette is dropped into waste paper, or a bed, and loss, and perhaps death results. Every day a stove with a faulty flue is setting fire to a dwelling. Every day an unscrubbed fire in the fireplace shoots a spark out into some inflammable object in the room and sets fire to it—maybe in the daytime, maybe at night when everyone has retired. Every day brings new evidence of how that peaceful little flame on the match works with its allies to wreak havoc on the whole community.

So the next time you watch the tiny flame of a match and tip it down and give it another lease on life, remember that it is helpless only while you hold it in your fingers or when its charred remains are cold.

Respect fire for the utility it has to offer, and respect fire also for the power it has to destroy.

Last year, payments by life insurance companies to beneficiaries and policyholders totalled $2,600,000, or nearly the total amount in force 50 years ago.

The Roman Emperor Diocletian priced wool dyed with Tyrian purple at $350 a pound. Modern chemical manufacturers produce a far better job for only a few cents.

To enable its readers to form a better idea of a billion dollars, an exchange says that if that amount in one dollar bills were laid end to end they would reach around the earth at the equator nearly four times. Uncle Sam now owes more than 41 billion dollars.

LIQUID GARDENS

When agricultural scientists first announced they had developed soilless tank gardens—in which plant roots are nourished with chemicals—most people thought that was very nice but they weren't sure they wanted to plant corn in the bathtub. They didn't really see how chemical solutions in tanks as substitutes for natural soil were ever going to be of much use to anybody.

Then trans-Pacific clipper planes began taking passengers to China and other points east, and the airline discovered that sandy, U.S.-owned Wake Island was just the right distance between terminals to make an ideal stop-over spot. The chief difficulty was that the soil on the island couldn't even support a blade of grass—and station crews and overnight passengers had to have vegetables and greens.

The airline called in a University of California scientist who set up tank gardens. Now there are enough beans and carrots to go around for a second helping.

You can never tell when even Uncle Horace's most fantastic inventions will be useful to a world that keeps hopping ahead.

MAN'S INHUMANITY TO MAN

"Man's inhumanity to man makes countless millions mourn."
So wrote the philosopher of old.

And today man's conduct in society proves the point.

The good book declares that "Whatever a man sows that he shall also reap."

That is as it should be. That is simple justice in action.

It portrays a harvest of regrets should man sow his wild oats: it offers the comfort and consolation of heavenly benedictions should he plan a life of good deeds.

Yet, there are in this age and every age through which man has passed, a tendency on the part of the erring to reap the good which others have sown.

Rank injustice! Such a course.

It bespeaks ingratitude of the basest sort.

In every community in Texas today may be found evidence of how and where and by whom, others have sought to reap where they have not sown. In a large number of instances, men and women who are benefactors to their communities are recognized and rewarded, but all too often outstanding accomplishments have been the work of individuals who have remained in the background, who have never been known for what they did, for others who did not sow saw the chance to reap the harvest and did so.

The hero of the American Revolution who financed the war with the mother country is seldom mentioned and little known.

Look about you and see if you cannot do something to "Know the Truth" about the builders of your home community, county and State and Nation.

—The Texas Voice.

BETTER STREET LIGHTING SAVES 11 LIVES

Analysis of two full years of accident experience on a number of streets effected by the new safety lighting modernization program in Hartford, Conn., shows 11 lives saved and a net saving of $60,000 in property damage and personal injury.

In his report to Mayor Spellacy of Hartford, R. E. Simpson, consulting engineer for the city, said that in the first year of the program there was a decrease of 46.3 per cent in night accidents on the re-lighted streets, and in the second year there was a decrease of 61.7 per cent. Contrasting with this experience, in those sections where modernized safety lighting was not installed, night accidents increased during the same period.

Mr. Simpson also pointed out that in the two years prior to the safety lighting program, there were 12 night pedestrian fatalities contrasting with only one night pedestrian fatality in the two-year period following the inauguration of the new program.

For an expenditure of $70 per month per mile, Hartford succeeded in saving the lives of 11 of its citizens on only ten miles of its streets.

THEY SAY!

"Our public debt—national, state and local—now averages $430 for every man, woman and child in the country. The present generation has placed a mortgage on all the people and on the property of all the people in order to prime the pump for the present generation."

"This is a nice present to hand to unborn generations. What will they think of the intelligence of their forefathers?"—Harry Flood Byrd, U.S. Senator from Virginia.

"Democracy is waging a battle within itself against the forces of centralization, which, in the name of efficiency or benevolence, are cutting the ground of government from under the citizens and placing it in the national capital."—George D. Aiken, Governor of Vermont.

AAA SHORTS

Through their participation in the 1939 AAA program, nearly 550,000 Texas farmers have put soil improvement work into effect.

Despite progress made in conservation work in the last four years, America's farm land still is wearing out faster than we are able to restore it, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace reports.

Progress has been made but there are still millions of farms where conservation practices used are inadequate to keep the soil in place.

With the income available to them for living, farmers in 1939 could buy about as much goods for their families as they could in the favorable period of the 20's—but they were still about one billion dollars short of parity income as defined in the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938.

In the last 100 years food and fiber produced by the average worker engaged in agriculture increased threefold.

Rural retail sales were about 82 per cent higher in 1938 than at the bottom of the depression.

10,241 Frame Gardens Built

Texas farm families planted 10,241 frame gardens in 1939, an increase of 7,119 over the 1938 total. The little gardens, usually around four feet wide and 20 feet long, yielded 2,125,000 pounds of vegetables valued at $112,000. Many produced three to five crops in 1939.

The frame gardens, protected against wind and extremes of heat and cold, usually subirrigated, were especially valuable in a year when drought cut vegetable yields over a large portion of the state.

The idea of the frame garden for out-of-season vegetables production goes back a number of years to Castro County, where Mr. and Mrs. Charley Heck decided that their family needed fresh vegetables and turned to cold frames as a means of growing them in spite of limited rainfall, winds, and blowing sand on their wheat farm.

Later, according to Jennie Camp, specialist in home production planning with the Texas A and M Extension Service, a home demonstration agent was employed by Castro County. This agent, Izora Clark, passed on word of the Heck's success to other farm women and to neighboring home demonstration agents.

By 1935 the idea had spread to a number of counties in the South Plains area, and Grace I. Neely, extension specialist in food preservation, investigated the plan. By 1936 the Extension Service had adopted the system as a standard recommendation.

The secret of the success of the frame garden lies in the protection afforded by the sides and cover, usually canvas. Since the area is so small, usually around 100 square feet—farm families can afford to improve the soil for intensive cultivation. Subirrigation is almost a standard practice, but the gardens can be successfully irrigated from the surface.

Frame gardens often yield 10 times the volume of vegetables that can be produced on a similar area in open gardens.

The vegetables, because they grow rapidly and are protected from sudden changes of temperature, are of surpassing flavor and tenderness.

The main value of the frame gardens from the standpoint of nutritional experts, however, is that they produce vegetables early in the spring and late in the summer at a time when the ordinary garden is bare. In some sections of the state, the frame garden is the only source of fresh vegetables.

The miniature gardens are also ideally adapted for use in towns and cities, Miss Camp pointed out.

"Very remarkable," replied the other, thoughtfully, "I've heard soup gargled and syphoned, but, upon my word, that's the first time I've ever known it to be yodelled."

There are only two rules of good manners; one is, always think of others; the other is never think of yourself.—B. Jowett.

We Judge ourselves by what we feel capable of doing, while others judge us by what we have already done.—Longfellow.

Two elderly men at a club were discussing the table manners of a new club member.

"Well what do you think of him?" asked one.

"Very remarkable," replied the other, thoughtfully, "I've heard soup gargled and syphoned, but, upon my word, that's the first time I've ever known it to be yodelled."

The principal of a high school didn't scold the two students he caught with smuggled ice cream cones in their pockets. He simply made them leave the cones where they were.

Preservation of Public Roads

As one rides along the public roads today, or perhaps I should say in the late summer and spring, he experiences the horrors of modern roads. In this instance the blame cannot be placed upon the commissioners, but upon the farmers.

Some farmers in this section of our good earth persist in using the roadways as turning rows. If some of the "high-brows" do not understand what I mean, I will explain it this way: many of the poor little farmers do not have sufficient space to turn on their farms with their farm implements, so they casually take out their fences, fill up the ditches with soil, and when they drive out to the end of the rows with their teams or tractors, they just keep the plows plowing until they get out in the middle of the road; then they lift the plows out of the ground and turn around on their neighbors' and the public's territory.

This is not guesswork, if anyone should be so foolish as to deny it. It is a fact, and if you want to see it practiced, just drive out into the country in this section during the springtime, and I assure you you will see it practiced everywhere.

There is no end to the adjectives with which I could describe a man who does this. And, incidentally, if you take notice, it is not usually the poorest farmers who do this; it is the greedy non-public-minded landowners who own just enough land to live decently and claim to be above the average farmer.

A man who turns in the road instead of on his own ground is just as much a public enemy as a man who swindles. If a person had the welfare of the general public in mind, he would not turn on the public roads; if a swindler had the welfare of his victims in mind he would not swindle them out of their hard-earned money. It is just the same case both ways.

What should be done is this: there should be legislation enacted heavy fines and imprisonment of the breakers of the law.

Friends, if you ever rode in an automobile down a road where a farmer deliberately plowed out into it, and then turned around on it, you doubtless would have the same opinion. It is against the public welfare for roads to be practically ruined by such actions; it is the taxpayer who pays the expenditures spent in constructing these roads, therefore the really public-minded citizens should demand by legislation that such selfish, avid men stop their hateful and criminal habit, or else be imprisoned like any other felon.

Grammar School News

In the first grade during the past week, there were 21 students who made 100 in Reading every day. The class is very sorry that Don Johnson, Joan Williams, and Paul Walker are absent. They hope that they will soon be back in school.

The third grade has been studying a unit on Texas. They have made salt maps of the state. They are very sorry that Carlyne Jones, Carrie Bell Smith, and Elizabeth Harlan are ill. They hope them a speedy recovery.

In the fifth grade, the good citizens for this week are Barbara Jane Almanode, Margie Lowray, Evelyn Harris, F. A. Johnson, Betty Nell Walker, Weldon Walling, J. B. Walling, Earleen Brewer, Martha Louise Walker, and Willie Marie Cogburn. The policeman and policeman for this week are Richard Henderson and Willie Marie Cogburn, respectively.

The grammar school chorale club has added some new members—J. B. Walling, Evelyn Hardin, Willie Marie Cogburn, Wanda Sue Nelson, O. C. Prather, Eva Dean Henderson, Barbara Jane Almanode, and Betty Sue Sanders.

Following are the nicknames of the sixth grade girls:

Wanda Sue Nelson—Pat.
 Leita Lane Gentry—Peg.
 Mildred Yost—Penny.
 Katherine White—Kat.
 Elma Jean—Punk.
 Grace Moore—Grace.
 Eva Dean Henderson—Dean.
 Evelyn Moore—Ebba.
 Ruth Walker—Ruthie.

Following is a poem written by the fifth grade:

The Covered Wagon
 As we travel along the dusty road
 In our covered wagon we go.
 Happy as a little toad
 Singing a song of woe.

At night when we camp
 My wife cooks by the light of the lamp.
 Then we sing around the flicker-

ing flames
 While the cattle are prowling on the plains.

When we go to sleep on the ground
 And look up into the heavens round,
 We see the stars shining so bright
 We hardly think it is night.

In the morning when we wake
 We get our wagon started at daybreak.

When we shout for joy and glee
 When we see our home in Santa Fe.

Sunset Trio Audition

Friday night the Sunset Girls' Trio, consisting of Katie Bell Sweett, Virginia Parkhill and Cleta Jones, with Mrs. N. T. Underwood as accompanist and Mr. John Jones as the chauffeur, made a trip to Sweetwater. The girls gave an audition over state KXOX and as it was favorable they were invited to come and broadcast March 9th at 3 p.m.

There is a children's program originating in a local theatre from 1 to 2 o'clock and the girls were asked to give a couple of numbers on that program also. Don't forget the time and date, March 9th, at 3 p.m., over station KXOX.

Freshman Report

As most of the Freshmen class have recovered from the flu, and are back in school; they are studying hard for six weeks exam, which are this week. They are still a little dumb in algebra, but they think with time they can master even that.

The Freshmen girls' sport is playing softball; the boys, well, they haven't any certain one.

We've been wondering why... Edna Fay likes tall, dark, and handsome boys. (Say, Fay, what's the difference?)
 Gaynell likes to watch us play baseball.

Joe seems downhearted lately.
 Harold isn't bashful any more. (Say, Watson, who have you been around lately?)
 Glyndalin doesn't like the boys. (Whoopee, there's a girl!)
 Victor seems kind of confused.
 Juanita likes to play softball. (Especially when a certain boy plays.)
 Gena Beth likes to go on picnics.
 ... Adios.

Stop! Look! Read! and Come
 If you don't believe that the Junior class play is going to be a knockout just read in Life magazine for March 14, 1938, or better still, come to Sunset auditorium March 14, 1940.

Quoted from Life magazine: "Abie Irish Rose, with 2,500-odd performances, rolled up Broadway's all-time endurance record, but it is a piker compared to Aaron Slick From Punkin Creek. For Aaron Slick, greatest of all rural comedies, has been staged over 25,000 times. It has been seen by more people than have seen all Broadway productions put together for the last five years. It's script has sold over three-quarters of a million copies."

The Characters Are

Senior Report

We had a meeting Monday morning and decided we would all have to keep busy or we wouldn't get around to all the things necessary for a Senior to do before graduating. First of all we must have a class ring. We all have those, except Bill. Since we know he bought one, but somehow lost it, we've all agreed to let him graduate with us.

Then comes the Senior play and all the other little programs that the Seniors will put on. While we are talking about these programs, we want to remind you all to come to our "Radio Program" on Friday night.

Next in importance comes picking out the diplomas, and invitations. We've already selected these and they are very pretty.

What's next? Lessons? Well, maybe they should come next, but right now we are thinking about the general round of parties and picnics which the Seniors will have. What fun!!!

After discussing these things and promising ourselves we would study between these good times we got down to the last few weeks of school. Then the Valedictorian and Salutatorian will be determined. They must have been going to Sunset at least two years and if longer all four years' grades will be averaged.

Then we all began talking about the Commencement Exercises. We wondered why they were called Commencement exercises instead of "Ending" exercises; after all you know that is the last of our high school career. But we learned that they are called Commencement exercise because it is really the beginning of things. Just the end of the first step in life—not the end. Right now it is hard to think about leaving Sunset, but we'll still have a lot of memories that we can keep.

 Now that we have thought it over we are ready for school to turn out and are ready to start out in something new.

The Seniors are fortunate in having Ann as a member of their class for she is always happy. She is undecided as to what she will do after finishing school.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By Boyce House

It won't be long now till the welkin will be ringing with campaign oratory and earnest candidates will express gratitude at being greeted by "such a large and intelligent audience composed of brave men and beautiful women"; Rome and Greece will rise and fall; the flag will wave and the American Eagle will soar and soar until he's out of sight.

Tribute will be paid by the spellbinders to "the horny-handed tillers of the soil" and the speakers will refer in touching tones to the days when they themselves "pulled a bell-cord on old Dobbin down the long rows." One such orator in a previous campaign assured an audience:

"I was born on a farm; I was raised on a farm; I've plowed; I've picked cotton; I've milked—in fact, there's nothing done on a farm that I can't do."

A listener (who probably was for the other candidate) yelled: "I'll bet you can't lay an egg."

The stump speakers will praise

REFUGE ON A BAHAMIAN CAY

A carefree group of winter vacationists loll on the coral sands of a palm-studded cay, off Nassau, the Bahamas, a favorite spot for an afternoon picnic. Well within neutral waters the Bahamas are only fifty miles off the Florida coast. The routes of the American flag liner Kent, of the Merchants and Miners Transportation Company, from Miami to Nassau, and of the S. S. Munargo, direct from New York to Nassau, are within the neutral zone established at the Conference of Panama. At Nassau, or on one of the nearby cays, travelers to the Bahamas this winter can enjoy unmolested the gay life of this Caribbean resort.

Get Carl White of the Peoples Press in Port Arthur to tell you about an "extra" which he got out; it consisted of only one copy and when it was presented to a group of editors who had been out of touch with the world for nine days on a fishing trip on the Gulf, the wild statements and happenings (all imaginary) in the paper really created consternation till they learned it was a hoax. . . . Some humorist once said: If a judge makes a mistake, it becomes the law of the land; if a doctor makes a mistake it is buried; if a preacher makes a mistake about the hereafter, nobody will know it until the next world; but if a newspaperman makes a mistake, there it is in cold type and everybody knows about it.

In the "old joke" contest, Hick Halcomb nominates the one about the lawyer who was made at a ruling made by a judge and was rattling the books and papers so noisily that the judge asked, "Are you trying to show your contempt for this court?" and the attorney replied, "No, I'm doing my best to conceal it."

Ross Hardin, one of the famous Hardin Twins in the state legislature, this week actively began his race for state railroad commissioner, opposing Chairman Lon A. Smith.

Trinity University, Waxahachie. Rapidly coming into prominence that threatens to rival that of the spectacular Russo-Finnish war, is the situation developing in the Near East, with Turkey at its strategic center. Having entered into the well-known agreements with Britain and France not so long ago, Turkey now comes forth and captures the spotlight anew by its significant seizure of German-owned shipyards in Turkey and expulsion of German naval and technical engineers. Still more recently have come reports that Turkish news-as State Senator, made the first talk Wednesday in the series of weekly radio broadcasts he will make during the campaign. The outspoken young legislator speaks at 1 p. m., each Wednesday over the Texas Quality Network, just following the Crazy Crystals program.

During his six years in the House, Ross Hardin has championed the old-age pension. He voted for the joint resolution designed to finance the pensions.

Importance of Turkey as War Factor Aired

by Dr. E. M. Caldwell Professor of History,

Turkey retained the truly Turkish parts of the former Ottoman Empire, thus becoming a compact and homogeneous state. The treaty imposed no reparations, no restrictions upon Turkish military, naval, or air forces. Later on, Turkey even obtained by international agreement, permission to rearm the Straits, which figure so prominently today, of course, in British-French calculations concerning pos-papers are pointing out the likelihood that the European war may soon spread to the Near East involving the clash of combined British-French-Turkish armies against Russian divisions defending the Caucasus oil-bearing regions.

The importance of the adherence of Turkey to the Allies, in any such event, can hardly be over-estimated. Turkey today is a progressive, thoroughly modern, and strong state, in marked contrast to the decaying and weak Ottoman Empire of pre-World War days—the "sick man of Europe"—existing only by sufferance of the Powers, presided over by cruel, inept, harem-plagued sultans, and a notoriously corrupt officialdom. In 1918, the government of the weak sultan at Constantinople accepted, like the other defeated Central Powers, the very severe and humiliating treaty dictated by the victorious Allies.

Then there took place one of the most spectacular events of the post-war years. There now came prominently into the picture the able and experienced Turkish military commander, Mustafa Kemal, who had long been a leader of a patriotic party in Turkey that believed in a Turkish nationalistic regeneration along progressive lines. Mustafa Kemal and his Nationalistic Party determined that they would never submit to the severe peace terms imposed by the Allies. They set up a nationalistic government at Ankara (the present capital of Turkey) with Mustafa Kemal as President, and then launched a vigorous campaign to clear their land of the Italian, French and Greek forces. The Italians and French, after some reverses, soon came to terms with the Nationalists, and actually began to help them in their war against the British-backed Greeks! Taking advantage of this division in Allied councils, and as a result of brilliant and inspired fighting, the Turkish Nationalists cleared their land of foreigners. Then they deposed the Sultan. Confronted with these irrefutable facts, the war-weary Powers finally proposed a new peace conference at Lausanne to revise the terms of the earlier objectionable treaty.

The resulting treaty of Lausanne (1923) was the only one of the post-war treaties to be arrived at as a result of negotiation between the two sides. All the other treaties had been dictated by the Allies and imposed by them upon the unwilling Central Powers. After long negotiations in which Turkey held out firmly for what she wanted, the Powers finally gave in on almost every point.

Turkey retained the truly Turkish parts of the former Ottoman Empire, thus becoming a compact and homogeneous state. The treaty imposed no reparations, no restrictions upon Turkish military, naval, or air forces. Later on, Turkey even obtained by international agreement, permission to rearm the Straits, which figure so prominently today, of course, in British-French calculations concerning posible hostilities with Russia. The years since the conclusion of this famous peace of Lausanne have seen a remarkable transformation of Turkey, under the guiding hand of her idolized "Ghazi" (Conqueror), President Mustafa Kemal (who died a little over a year ago, without affecting, however, the stability of the regime he had established). In Turkey today Great Britain and France have a strong, progressive, modern national state for an ally. As a result of Turkey's satisfaction, moreover, with the terms of the Lausanne peace, they do not encounter in their relationships with Turkey, the same bitterness that has been so characteristic of the attitude of the other Central Powers, in their insistence upon "revision" of the post-war treaties imposed upon them.

"HE'S A GOOD SCOUT"

Did you ever, sort of unconsciously find yourself thinking back on days that are gone, and upon old friends and acquaintances? I know that I do, and most always I visualize some particular person who stands out in my mind for having contributed much happiness to those good old, bygone days.

I often think of my old high school professor, who was the kind of a guy who was the pal of everyone. To him the worst thing a fellow could do was to speak ill of another person. He would always remark—"Oh, I wouldn't say that. He's a Pretty Good Scout."

And in four years of close association I never knew the "Prof" to speak ill of a single soul—not even of his worst enemies. The "Prof" when he didn't know anything good to say about a guy—would simply say—"He's a Good Scout."

Now wouldn't it be well if you and I, could always say of every guy—Not scoundrel, chiseler, liar, nor lout, But say instead—"Why He's A Good Scout."

Louisa May Alcott

Louisa May Alcott was born in Germantown, Penn., in 1832. Her father, a man of great intelligence and high ideals, had educational theories that were too lofty to be workable, and failures and financial struggles were the result.

Louisa, the second of four sisters, learned from him to love reading and the writing of books. From an early age she was the inspired scribbler of thrilling melodramas and stories that her sisters loved to dramatize as they went about their daily work.

She had a strong sense of responsibility and she soon began to seek ways of earning money for the family. She sold her first story when she was 16 years old, and after that the "thrillers" were regularly accepted by a Boston paper, but they paid very little. But as time went on her stories brought more money, and during the War Between the States, when she was a nurse, she wrote her first successful book, "Hospital Sketches."

When her publishers asked for a book for boys and girls she wrote "Little Women," "Jo's Boys," "Little Men," "Aunt Jo's Scrap Bag," and others. They were cheerful, wholesome, humorous and tender.

Miss Alcott played a leading role in her own stories, for she based many of them upon the joys and sorrows of her family life. But her health broke down through overwork, and her last years were filled with physical suffering. She died in 1888, shortly after her father.

George Washington would have more than one birthday.

We all enjoyed the Passion Play in the Munday school auditorium last Monday.

Last Friday we had a debate on whether or not the poll tax should be abolished in Texas. We did not finish it, however, we will continue it on Tuesday.

We also enjoyed the puppet show which was given here last week. We hope that the children will profit by this show. Everyone seemed to be interested in "Jackie."

We wonder why Richard had such a blue eye Monday morning.

Here is a little poem:
 Let's praise each other now and then,
 Give credit where it's due;
 Let's help the downcast heart again
 To tackle life anew.
 Let's pay the debts of love we owe,
 Forget the debts of hate,
 Let's say the kindest words we know
 Before it is too late.

Junior Report

We wish to thank the trustees and everyone that made it possible for us to have a holiday last Friday. If it weren't for George Washington, the first president of the United States, we most probably wouldn't have much of a chance of having a day off during February.

Although his birthday wasn't Friday, we took that day off instead of Thursday.

The puppet show which was presented here in the auditorium was liked by everyone that saw it.

Approximately 88 per cent of our class enjoyed the show "Golgotha," last Monday afternoon in the Munday auditorium.

Ethel's new nickname is Kassy.

Sophomore Report

The Sophs are now studying about King Arthur. The boys find the form of writing hard to understand. Boys, don't you believe in chivalry?

In biology the girls' tumbler gardens are growing over the tops, but they boys' experiments dried up.

In reference to our geography, we are studying the process of obtaining gum from the zapote tree. In spite of the fact that one article states that an average American chews 100 "wads" a year, your reporter feels that from what he's learned about the gathering process, he will refrain from chewing gum. (At least, until the next time.)

Freshman Report

The regular reporter is writing the report this week after a two week's vacation from reporting.

We are reading "The Lady of the Lake," which is interesting but a bit difficult to understand.

The freshmen saw the Passion Play and most of them thought they profited a great deal by it.

NEW FORD TRACTORS FOR TEXAS

LOCAL DEALERS ATTEND FORD TRACTOR MEETING

H. A. Pendleton and J. L. Stodghill, local Ford tractor dealers, are home after attending a meeting in Dallas conducted by Bull-Stewart Equipment Company, distributors in this territory for the new Ford tractor with Ferguson system.

With them came a carload of the new tractors and Ferguson implements which they predicted would be the forerunner of hundreds more for distribution to farmers in this district.

More than 300 dealers, salesmen and service representatives from cities and towns throughout Texas attended the meeting at which sales and service policies for 1940 were outlined. The meeting was made particularly interesting by addresses delivered to the dealers by Mr. E. C. Sherman, president of the Ferguson-Sherman corporation, national distributors for the Ford tractor, and by Mr. C. E. Sorensen, widely-known executive of the Ford Motor Company.

Mr. Sherman, Mr. Sorensen, Mr. H. S. Jenkins, manager and Mr. John L. Keller, assistant manager sales for Ferguson-Sherman were joined by Colonel Harry E. Stewart, president, Mr. Carl H. Graham, vice-president and general manager and Mr. James R. Stratton, manager of the Tractor Division of the Bull-Stewart Equipment Company, in ceremonies held at noon the day of the meeting to welcome the arrival of two special trainloads of the new tractors. Comprising what is believed to be the largest single shipment of agricultural tractors ever made in the United States, the special trains brought tractors for Texas farmers directly from the Rouge plant of the Ford Motor Company at Dearborn, Michigan, to the Bull-Stewart headquarters at Dallas. The trains were broken up at this point and the cars dispatched to dealers throughout the Lone Star State.

"The highlight of our plans for spring is an 'on-the-farm' demonstration program," they said. "The Ford tractor and Ferguson equipment are able to do so many things previously considered difficult or impossible that we prefer to show the farmer what they will do on his own farm."

TEXAS OUT-O'-DOORS

Austin, Tex.—As a result of the one-deer-at-a-time traps being tested in the Hill Country by the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission proving highly successful it will be possible for the Game Department to stock more lands with bucks and does in the future.

The traps, similar to those used in the Pisgah National Forest of North Carolina, differ greatly from the old-style trap used by the Commission and proved so successful in operation that 21 deer were caught the first night the 22 devices were used. Federal game experts who were following the experiment with considerable interest were highly elated at the success of the project, they reported to the executive secretary of the Texas Game Department.

It is hoped to catch more than 300 deer during the present trapping season. Those added to 200 other deer the Department has been able to obtain will restock a good many areas which formerly had deer on them, but from which the supply was depleted due to over-shooting. The next year the Department plans to have 200 of the new traps in operation.

Has Unusual Trophies

A four-beaked turkey and a four-point buck with the horns only one and three-fourths inches long are the unusual trophies owned by C. C. Roeder, superintendent of the Boerne (Texas) public schools. Wonder if anyone has any more unusual trophies of this kind.

The turkey has beards placed like buttons on a shirt. One is 5 1/2 inches long, another 6 1/2, a third 7 1/2 and the other is a big bushy one 6 inches long. The buck's horns are perfect although diminutive and Mr. Roeder was certain the buck was over two years old when killed. Each side of the horn has two perfect points and none of them is longer than one and 3/4 inches.

Texas Fishermen Score

Four Texas bass fishermen and one tarpon angler won prizes in a nationally-circulated magazine's annual fishing contest. Cliff Burgess of Gladewater was a prize winner with a 7 3/4 pound bass caught at Burns Lake near Center, Texas. James M. Young of San Angelo and Ben F. Brooks of Bag-well each scored with a 7 1/4 pound bass. Young's came from Lake Nasworthy near San Angelo and Brooks' fish was caught in Lake Brooks near Bagwell. Wade E. Fitzgerald of Fort Bliss was the fourth Texas bass fisherman to win, his 6 pound, 13 ounce bass being caught in New Mexico.

Deer Didn't Stray Far

Here's one deer which liked his "home" so well that he was killed within 400 yards of the place where he was released three years previously. Ex-Mayor Fonville of Houston killed the six-point buck on the Foote ranch in Colorado County during the closing days of the hunting season. It had been marked in June 1936.

Want Squirrel Season Closed

A general closed season on squirrels is being advocated widely since members of this species are rapidly declining in numbers. Advocates of the general closed season would, however, make the law read that the owner of a pecan orchard would be free to kill squirrels at any time on his property. Squirrels are in acute danger, especially in East Texas, where they are the principal game animal, and are rapidly being shot out, reports of biologists and game managers to the State Game Department reveal. One big reason for the decline in the squirrel population in East Texas is the fact that many counties allow open seasons during both the summer and winter breeding seasons.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Nelson of Pampa spent last Sunday here in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Nelson.

Earl Sams, tax assessor and collector, was here from Benjamin last Monday, attending to official matters.

Senior News

Last Monday night the Seniors met again for a rip-snorting good time. We are taking advantage of the fact that this is our last year together, and can always find some silly way to amuse ourselves (although we don't intend to be silly always.) We have always heard that as Seniors grow older, they grow sillier. We certainly played our part last Monday night at our kid party that wasn't planned. There certainly were some cute "kids" there, including Miss Couch and Mr. Hardegree. There were kids of every type, sort and fashion.

Bud Phillips came dressed as a Mama's boy with a cocky little hat hanging on a corner of his head. Miss Couch had a big yellow ribbon in her hair and the "cutest" little short dress on. She looked at least ten years younger. Jiggs came with very short little pants on that made him look as if he actually could have been a kid once. Jane was there wearing a little red dress with a pleated skirt that opened every little boy's eye in the room. Dan came in short pants with a shirtdial just a-dragging; he made every little girl's eye pop. Zell and Beth came dressed as twins, with ribbons and everything. (Zell was even lacking a front tooth.) Mr. Hardegree made the Seniors hold their sides laughing when he came in with a big red bow at his throat and knee pants on.

We played all kinds of kid games, even Ring-Around-the-Rosy, and London Bridge. We were beginning actually to feel like kids.

We found use of candles that we dug out of strange places, caused by pranks of some lowerclassmen. When the lights went out several "children" cried for their mothers.

On With the Seniors

This week it's a girl again—one that believes in this modern generation and one whose blood starts boiling when this generation is criticized by mamas and papas. After all they did get us here. It's none other than—Beth Haynie.

Alta Elizabeth was born in Munday on the 25th of January, 1923. She, like a few other Seniors, has not been in favor of moving around so she has spent all her life in Munday. She says that she can do all the criticizing of her home town she cares to, but others had better lay off.

Beth began her school days in Munday Elementary school at the age of 7. Although members of the class have dropped out through the years, Beth has been faithful and has been with it every year.

Although her grade school days have been greatly enjoyed, high school ranks first. During these high school days, she has entered all of the Home Economics activities.

Beth has a liking for all present things in life, but she has a great fancy for dancing, football and football heroes. At the present her favorite song is "Faithful Forever." She likes all of her teachers and subjects, but abhors studying.

Beth tells me that her future is undecided, but she would like to attend a finishing school. Whatever occurs, Beth, the seniors wish you success.

Silly Talkin'

"I hope a hog may hook me if these are not absolutely correct."
 Bud Phillips—"Like to Ticked Me to Death."

Dan—"How Gall."
 Beth—"Ochay Sluggar."
 Zell—"He Gerty."

Dorise—"Well Hello Joe."
 Jerry—"Whatcha doin'?"
 Jack—"Do you want it on regulation theme paper? In ink? To be handed in?"

Alfred—"Likewise."
 Jane—"R. E. came over last night."

Joyce—"What do you care?"
 Sula Bell—"Listen . . ."
 Jiggs—"Ma'am?"

Doris—"Gotta B.K.?"
 Lamaine—"Door to door."
 Marion—"Last period."

Miss Couch—"I wish you would get some new expressions."
 Emogene—"You dope."
 Billie—"You horse."

Mr. Hardegree—"What's this old world comin' to?"
 Gladys—"Hee hee."
 Colleen—"Goody-goody."

Dr. Bass: "She said that she wanted to learn every foreign language so that she could always think of something to say."

Confucius Say—

That students who no study, no make good gradee."
 If girl no see, and stumble in dark, have her eye teeth cleaned.
 Canary who the train hit was just a shredded tweet.

Or concerning Herr Hitler: Confucius say "Der fuehrer der better."
 The only thing that Confucius didn't say was how to cure a headache growing out of his aged sayings.

Don't you think a bicycle built for two would be much more cheaper, comfortable, and accomodating than two single ones, Bud?"

Junior Report

The juniors do not have much to report this week. We did not get to have the class party as we had planned. Maybe we will have it this week. If we do, we will tell you about the "rip-snortin" good time we had.

My, oh my! We got our report cards today. Some of the students were pleased, and some were not pleased. This was detected from the expressions on their faces. Since we have only twelve more weeks of school, we are going to study hard and make good grades next six-weeks.

I guess we can tell you a true conversation that took place in our History III class the other day. Well, anyway, here goes . . .
 Dr. Bass: "The other day Flora

At The Churches

MUNDAY METHODIST CHURCH

To the general public: there will be a very interesting and unique service at the Methodist Church this Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. It is very unusual to have a Bishop visit the smaller towns in his area but Bishop Holt is very unusual in several ways. Before becoming Bishop he held a record in long pastorate for Methodists. He was President of the Federation of Churches in American, and as you know, this is an organization of all Protestant churches cooperating. He is a very interesting and attractive speaker. Come Friday and hear him, won't you?

The Young People will have special part in the morning service next Sunday. It is "Young Peoples' Day" and to them it is the same as Children's Day or Laymen's Day to those two sections of our church. They will represent their work in the church and take an offering for the "Hughes Caperton Memorial Fund," a loan fund for students taking their college work. Our message will be to young people principally. "The Ideal Youth" will be the basis for thought.

Next Sunday afternoon the J-O-Y Union will begin an Epworth Training Conference at Seymour. Organization of the work will begin at 2:30 p.m. The class work will start at 3:00. The "League Family Bus" will leave from the church at 1:45 p.m. Hang on if you want to go. Credit work will be restricted to the age limit of those 15 to 23 years of age, and Adult Workers with Y.P.

Get in the church going habit now and as Easter, so long off, you won't feel embarrassed to go to church. We will be looking for you at church Sunday.
 "Nothing is easier than fault-finding; no talent, no self-denial, no brains, no character are required to set up in the grumbling business."

Bell told me her ambition in life."
 Audrey Nell: "Oh, what was it?"

Freshman News

Bonnie Jean Milstead is the little blonde back in the freshman section.

Bonnie Jean was born in Wichita Falls, July 2, 1926. She lived in Wichita Falls 4 years and moved to Fort Worth. She stayed there until she was in the fourth grade, then moved to Abilene and stayed there two years. (Say, she is sort of a city gal!)

In 1938 she moved back to Fort Worth. On February 19, 1939, she moved to Munday. Bonnie Jean has been in Munday since.

Bonnie's favorites are:
 Subject: Home Ec.
 Teachers: All.
 Flower: Orchid.
 Song: "Blue Orchids."
 Hobby: Collecting photos.
 Sport: Swimming and skating.
 Music: Jazz and swing.
 Radio Program: Lux theatre.
 Saying: "Well, all right."
 Nickname: "Little Princess."
 Movie Star: Richard Green.

Leapyear Gossip

What would some girls do if it were not for leap year, or maybe we should say what would some boys do? Perhaps this will help you understand what I mean:

The other evening while passing the Palace Cafe I happened to observe a very familiar car parked near the corner of the cafe. Having my curiosity aroused, I decided to look further into the matter. Probably I was a bit late, but I got there in time to see a "happy finale." As he was devouring the last big bite, she was paying for the check. As I ducked behind the post, I saw her lead him to the car, help him in, close the door, walk around the car and seat herself and drive off. This only goes to show what these leap years can do.

On walking down the street I happened to stroll by the theatre. This time I was not late but just in time to see a very familiar football hero standing aside while a very short blonde bought his tick-the street, so after approaching him we walked to the theatre and after buying his ticket, I opened the door for him and we walked in.

Sophomore Report

Spring is in the air, and we are just as lazy as ever. Maybe we have spring fever, but I think that the main deficiencies are due to:

Raymond's desire to beat Billy McDavid, and nothing else.
 Jimmie's changing moods, imitating Texas weather.

Dixie's sudden change of colleges, from T.C.U. to S.M.U.
 Mary Lou's turn to the right—no more hooky playing.

David's doctor tactics, and his debates for them.
 Cora Jean's dreams of mysterious brown eyes.

Ben's new title of "Critic."
 Janice's debating tactics of Florida and California.

Mary's trips to Goree.
 And Juracy's newfound crush.
