FIFTY-FOUR STATE CANDIDATES CERTIFIED

Forty Club People Go On Annual Educational Tour

San Antonio Is First Stop, Austin And Waco Visited

Many points of interest were visited by the 4-H club girls and their sponsors on the educational tour made last week at San Antonio and Austin. The group was gone four days, and returned home Thursday night of last week after having visited San Antonio, Austin, Waco and Fort Worth.

Leaving Benjamin on Monday morning, the group went to San Antonio. There they visited Joske's Department Store, one of the largest stores of its type in San Antonio. A visit to the Alamo, the historic spot where pioneer Texans fought for valiantly for Texas liberty, was an inspiration to all the group. An enjoyable trip was made through Brackenridge park, where they saw the many beauties and interesting things of this well known park. They also visited Fort Sam Houston, Randolph Field and several of the historical missions of San Antonio.

The trip to Austin was made Wednesday. There they visited the state capitol, had lunch at a cafeteria on the University of Texas campus and visited several places about the university.

On a visit to the governor's mansion, the group was received by Mrs. W. Lee O'Daniel, who showed them about the mansion and posed with the group for a picture.

The bus next stopped at Waco, where Knox county girls and their sponsors visited an orphanage and the Baylor University campus.

On Thursday, they were in Fort Worth where a visit was made to the radio broadcasting station. The girls heard the noon broadcast of the Lighterest Doughboys. They also visited Forest Park and the botanical gardens of Fort Worth, returning home Thursday morning.

About 40 club girls and sponsors made the trip, which was declared the most interesting of any annual trip for the club girls.

Home Ec Girls Begin Projects

The Homemaking girls who are working on special projects this summer met on Wednesday of last week. Instead of meeting at the cottage, they attended the cooking school which was sponsored by the West Texas Utilities Company. Zell Spann was awarded the cake at the cooking school.

On Thursday morning they met and set out some flowers at the cottage. They straightened the clothes closet and filed magazines. On Wednesday afternoon of this week, the girls got the sewing room floor ready to be waxed and varnished.

The girls have been working on their scrap books and have made a lot of progress on this work. A large percentage of the members have been attending these meetings.

Mattress Center Is Opened Here

Munday's mattress center, where farm families will make mattresses under the Department of Agriculture's program, was opened in the old school building on Wednesday, June 12.

Three families will make their mattresses each day, and three other families will come to the center to assist and receive instruction.

Guy P. Pool of Tyler, Texas, is here this week for a visit with his mother, Mrs. Ethie P. Pool, and other relatives.

Arthur Mitchell, local manager, stated that the line will be completed to the city park some time next week. It is expected that the park will have lights installed by the latter part of June.

A number of farm houses which are located within a short distance of this line will also be served with electricity, it was stated.

Moss explained that young men from 18 to 25 years of age who can pass the physical examinations may enlist in any branch of the U. S. service.

Visit Made To Soil Conservation Projects On League Ranch Tuesday

A number of interested ranchmen and citizens, together with County Agent W. W. Rice, agents of neighboring counties and Extension Service officials visited the League Ranch last Tuesday, where Jack Idol, manager, showed them experimental work which has been done toward soil conservation.

Various stops were made on the tour of the ranch, where the visitors saw terracing, contour farming, spreader dams, etc., which have been put up in an effort to hold the moisture and cause a better growth of grass. Different types of terraces, the nature of the soil and other things were studied on the tour.

At noon, the group was taken to a grove on the river, where they enjoyed a fish and steak dinner. After dinner, Mr. Scofield of the Extension Service conducted a round-table discussion of the tour, and the group discussed other experimental work and problems confronting West Texas ranchmen.

The principal problem of the group is the eradication of mesquite trees, and it was pointed out at this meeting that no successful method of eradication has been found. It was announced that A. and M. College has purchased a tract of mesquite land for further experimentation on finding a successful method of eradicating this growth.

Mr. Idol offered his full cooperation with Extension Service officials in the soil conservation program.

Young People Attend Camp At Lueders, Texas

Rev. H. A. Longino, Methodist pastor, left last Monday for Lueders where he is attending the Christian Adventure Camp for young people.

The group plans to be in Lueders during a greater part of this week.

Munday is being represented at the annual convention of Texas firemen and fire marshals this week by four members of the local fire department.

The convention opened in Houston on Tuesday of this week, to be held through three days. An interesting and instructive program is being carried out.

Munday will receive credit on her fire rating by having these representatives at the convention. The Munday delegation left early Monday morning and went by car to Dallas, where they took the special train for the convention city.

Attending are Marshall M. J. Franklin, Grady Thornton, Fire Chief Clint Hawes and Ardelle Speice.

AMERICAN RED CROSS APPEALS FOR AID

In order to help alleviate the tremendous suffering of innocent people of Europe, the American Red Cross has made several appeals to American people for help.

Mrs. D. J. Brookerson, Knox county chairman, said Tuesday that Knox county has not yet reached her quota of relief funds set by the national chapter.

Donations of any size will be cheerfully received, Mrs. Brookerson said, and citizens are urged to send them in to the county chairman as it will be impossible for her to canvass the county soliciting funds for the European relief.

Seven Mattress Centers To Be In Operation Here

Knox County People To Receive 360 Mattresses

Announcement was made this week that seven mattress centers will be located in Knox county. Mrs. Neva VanZandt, home demonstration agent, and county agent Walter Rice announced that enough cotton and mattress ticking have already been ordered for the 360 Knox county families that have been approved, and the seven centers in the county will be in operation by the last of next week.

Texas had, on June 3, ordered 5,900 bales of cotton to make mattresses for approximately 89,000 families.

Those who have not applied for mattress making material, and who wish to do so, should make application as soon as possible, since June 20 is the deadline in Knox county.

"What a Man Does For Himself Dies With Him—
What He Does For His Community Lives On and On"—

THE ENEMIES WITHIN THE GATES

Events in Europe have underlined and emphasized the urgent need for improving and expanding our national defenses, and making sure that the United States, its shores and its traditional ways of life, are rendered secure.

To do this most effectively, our military experts are of course studying very closely the methods of the total war that has overrun so many helpless countries abroad—the modern form of war, that as one observer has commented, is fought "with the morals of the cave and the weapons of an exquisite civilization."

You need to know the danger that faces your country before you can guard against it successfully.

But there is one further step. The manner in which Norway and Poland and Belgium have been brought to their knees was not exclusively based upon military power. Before a blow was struck, security was undermined from within. The advice of Goethe—"divide and command"—was heeded with telling and destructive effect. The "fifth column" of traitors and imported agents did their destructive work before war began.

The danger that these tactics will be repeated here also faces our own land. It is not enough to have military preparedness; we must also establish internal unity, internal security.

To achieve this aim, certain principles need be kept in mind:

(1) We must guard—not in a mood of hysteria, but through sound common sense—against the misguided groups and individuals in our own country who do not believe in private enterprise, and would sacrifice it for some other way of life. It is they who, by word or deed, would fill the role of "fifth columnists" in America is the opportunity ever offers.

(2) We must not let the erroneous thinking of a group to muddle our thoughts on preparedness. This group does not recognize the inseparability of our various freedoms—freedom of speech, a government of representative democracy, and a business system of private enterprise—and its failure to appreciate this important truth is likely to be actually as dangerous as the attitude of the deliberate enemies of our way of life.

(3) We need at a time when industrial efficiency is so vital to national defense, to guard against attempts to cripple and hobble our manufacturing enterprises. The LaFollete bill recently introduced in Congress, a piece of legislation that would prevent manufacturers from guarding effectively against sabotage and subversive activities within America's plants, is a dangerous example of this type.

With these principles in mind, and with the courageous maintenance of national unity and individual patriotism, America can guard against the "enemies the other hand, ridiculous examples are forever composites disaster!"

FEDERATION FARM ORGANIZATIONS

Work is progressing rapidly in forming a federation of farm organizations in Texas under the name and banner of "The Dirt Farmers' Congress." The work is being actively promoted by Bailey B. Ragdale, chairman of the Agricultural Committee of the Texas House of Representatives. Mr. Ragdale is not a candidate for re-election, and it is understood that he will devote a great deal of time in developing the program of the Congress, interesting farmer organizations in becoming active in it.

For several years the Texas Co-operative Union co-ordinated the work of the various co-operative associations in the state. That organization passed out the first of the year, which leaves 700 co-operative associations without a central body. In addition there are approximately 1,500 other farmer organizations, counting locals and state-wide associations, and it is the purpose of the promoters to interest every one of them in a central body, that body to be known as the Dirt Farmers' Congress.

This movement should be given hearty support, because, with the exception of the largest associations, there is no other way for farmers to make themselves felt as an influence in securing needed legislation, or in developing programs of interest to the industry. Acting through the Dirt Farmers' Congress, every association, no matter how small or limited in area, can make itself heard.

The Dirt Farmers' Congress is not a political organization, therefore it will be useless for any candidate for office to seek its favor. The Congress will, however, come to the aid of any member of the legislature on any proposed legislation which it believes will be of interest to the agricultural industry. —Farm and Ranch.

Women suspected of being German spies have been writing mash notes to Allied soldiers, especially the Canadians. Authorities have forbidden office and men to enter into correspondence with these former strangers for fear military secrets might be inadvertently disclosed.

A Kentucky distiller has been refused registration of "F.D.R." as a trademark for a brand of whisky, for the very good reason "that the public might assume that the President was connected with the manufacture or had endorsed this brand of whisky."

A cat and three kittens were found in a car of furniture shipped from Grand Rapids to New York.

COTTON COMES INTO ITS OWN

Cotton comes into its own this summer. It has received the coveted nod of those who dictate the styles and will be the most popular fabric on the market.

Seersucker has gone 'high hat and, with chambray and ginghams, will get most of the fashionable play, but voiles, batiste, chintz and organdy will also be favorites.

Plaids and checks are vying with solid colors for first place in popularity.

The increasingly large part cotton is playing in the women's shops of America is due largely to new processes which prevent undue fading and to special finishes which make the materials keep that "new" look indefinitely.

Cotton will not only be stylish but, points out Mrs. Dora Barnes, clothing specialist of the Texas A. and M. Extension Service, it is the most practical and durable of all summer materials, and there are weaves to fit every pocketbook.

The sheer voiles, organdies, and batistes are seen in the dressiest styles, says a fashion note, with many "tiny buttons, yards of lace, and skirts that fairly blow away in the breeze."

Mrs. Barnes more or less seconds that with the remark that cotton is a very flattering material. "Such little touches give the feeling of luxuriousness and youthfulness to the wearer which is oftentimes impossible to achieve in the heavier and most costly fabrics," she said.

SPAGHETTI CONSCIOUS

Many of the men and women who work for the Federal government are engaged in the well-known work that is commonly called "publicity." No one could possibly quarrel with the necessity of disseminating useful information concerning the activities of government, and a lot of that is included. But, on the other hand, ridiculous examples are forever coming to light, examples in which the taxpayers' money is heedlessly wasted.

One such example bobbed up recently in a report by the Federal Trade Commission. The gist of its pronouncement is as follows: "The Federal Trade Commission has ruled that the length of macaroni or spaghetti is in no way indicative of its quality. . . . The Commission finds that . . . genuine macaroni and spaghetti products of the finest quality are made in both long and short lengths, and that macaroni and spaghetti of the finest quality are in some instances first made in long lengths and thereafter cut into short lengths. . . ."

This, as one Congressman comments, is "epical as well as epical." How comforting—how very comforting—it is to all of us to know that our government is always on its toes, watching out for those perfidious individuals who would discriminate against spaghetti on the basis of its length!

BE CAREFUL WITH GASOLINE

Home fires could be reduced to a minimum if Texas housewives would refrain from the use of gasoline, especially for cleaning purposes, Marvin Hall, state fire insurance commissioner, warned today.

The commissioner reported that the explosive power of gasoline has been ascertained at 83 times that of dynamite, and that the flash point of gasoline may be as low as zero.

"Static and friction should be avoided in handling gasoline," he said "and people whose jobs involve its use should be thoroughly conversant with its dangers. Of course, its use is a commonplace as well as a necessity, but there's no need to ignore its power."

The story is told of a British officer who wrote from the western front: "If only the Nazis would come over here we would chase the whole outfit to hell." The censor struck out the last word with the notation: "References to future movements of enemy troops are strictly forbidden."

A firm in Lima, Peru, ordered an electric refrigerator part costing $19 from a company in the United States. To comply with the request for speed the U.S. firm paid out $365 in air mail stamps to rush it on.

THEY SAY!

"We read of wheat surpluses, but if every child in America had a wholesome sandwich for lunch every day, there would be no wheat surplus."—Mayor LaGuardia of New York.

"We must have not only a change in the technic of government, but a change in its spirit. We must have a government which regards itself as the servant of the people, not its master; a government without prejudice, a government under which we can move forward again as a united nation—men of confidence, men of hope, men of good-will."—Wendell L. Willkie.

BIG CROWD EXPECTED

Although the annual Farmers' Short Course on the campus of A. and M. College is still a month distant, indications are that previous attendance records will be broken this summer. Dates for the 4-H Club Short Course are July 8 and 9, while the adult Short Course is scheduled for July 11 and 12.

Expected to be especially outstanding this year is the attendance of an unusually large number of men. This was assured when B. F. Vance, assistant administrative officer in charge of the state AAA office, announced that approximately 750 AAA secretaries and county agricultural conservation committeemen would be present for the Short Course as well as to attend group meetings of their own.

In addition, county land use planning committees are being asked to send two men and one woman from their number, according to Director H. H. Williamson of the A. and M. Extension Service.

Apparently there is no question about the presence of women, for in recent years heavy attendance of home demonstration club women has necessitated assignments of quotas for counties and districts. Attendance figures this year have been placed at 1,002 girls, 187 sponsors and 1,478 women.

Annual meeting of the Texas Home Demonstration Association during the Short Course is expected to draw 740 delegates and officers who will represent the body's membership of 40,000 rural women. Mrs. A. J. Brown, of Nederland, president of the Association, estimates that approximately a thousand women will attend the sessions of the meeting.

Aggregates for both sections of the Short Course are expected to reach nearly 3,000 boys and girls and 2,600 men and women, predicts Roy W. Snyder, extension supervisor of specialists' work, who is general chairman in charge of Short Course arrangements.

Two little buddies were comparing notes. "What does your father do when you ask his questions?" one asked. "He generally says: 'I'm busy now. Don't bother me,' replied the other. "Then I go out of the room and he looks in the encyclopedia."

Urges Texans To Remain Calm

Fort Worth—All Europe is not worth the blood of another American boy," Walton D. Hood, candidate for Railroad Commissioner of Texas declared in a statement here. He urged Texas citizens to remain cool and calm in their thinking and actions at this time.

"We must rid ourselves of the undermining elements within our country, and at the same time become well prepared for any possible outside invasion," he said. "Yet, in doing these two things, I am pleading with my fellow Texans not to become alarmed or overly excited to the extent that regrettable incidents will occur. All actions toward checking "fifth column" activities and un-American movements, should come in a firm, calm and orderly manner. Hasty and ill-advised actions may result in more harm than good. It is no time for our citizens to become panicky. Present conditions demand the best in thought and effort of our leaders who are striving to preserve the peace and security of our country and the principles upon which it was founded and has existed."

"If the citizens of our country will stop to think for only a minute they will realize that our resources, such as oil, carbon, sulphur, cotton, steel, and others, coupled with our ability for mass production and capable manpower, will exceed the other nations of the world. Our nation needs a united and cooperative spirit, and a determination that we still have the best in the world. This spirit alone will save us much worry and grief. "While grave problems of State do concern Texans at this time, and a careful consideration should be given to the election of men to public office, the world conditions are of more concern. A man's sincere desire to serve his country at all times should be considered."

He said he favored deportation of all "fifth columnists" and other un-American propagandists.

Judge: "Now, gentlemen, you have been arguing for an hour on this point; I overrule the objection, and the witness may answer the question. You called Mrs. Murphy on the 11th of June. What did she say?"

Witness: "Nothing, your honor—she was out."

McMurry to Hold Tryouts For Scholarships In Band

Invitation to graduating high school band musicians of the West Texas area to participate in tryouts for the McMurry college Indian band here June 14 was extended Saturday by Dean R. G. Boger.

At the same time, Boger announced plans for a materially enlarged program of band work to be inaugurated at the Methodist school with opening of the 1940 long session in September.

Thirty scholarships, each with a value of $65, have been apportioned to the band for 1940-41, most of which will be awarded at the June 14 tryouts. They will be held in Radford Memorial auditorium, on the McMurry campus.

"The college will be host to these contestants for the day," Boger explained. "Lunch and dinner will be served complimentary in the college dining hall. The hour for each student's appearance will be assigned, and the student will be notified as his application is received."

Each person will play one selection of his own choice, and will be given one selection to play by sight. Accompanists may be brought along, or may be provided if requested.

Boger urged that all interested high school graduates immediately make application to Prof. Clarence James, band director, for a place in the tryouts. Applicants should state what instruments they play, describe their experience, give two references as to character and musical ability, and give names and addresses.

Youths can participate in the tryouts without having made application, though the college prefers to have advance notice, to the dean said.

For the first time in McMurry's history, a full course of band instruction leading to a major in that field will be offered in 1940-41.

The band staff has been enlarged to include three men. They are Director James Ray Olivadoti, who during the past year has been band director at Eldorado, Ark., high school; and Harold L. Thomas, who has been on the McMurry faculty since 1935.

James will complete work on his master's degree this summer at the gree from Colorado State College, Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N.Y. He holds a bachelor degree from Colorado State college, and has done graduate work at the University of Nebraska.

Olivadoti has had several seasons experience as a soloist on the oboe, clarinet and saxophone, and as an arranger and composer. He has been director of bands at Gunnison, Colo., Eldorado, and Austin high school, at Chicago. At present he is on leave of absence from McMurry while teaching at the Vandercook School of Music in Chicago.

Thomas has the bachelor of music and master of music degrees from Northwestern university and has had wide experience in playing under nationally known directors.

Olivadoti will assist James as director. Thomas will be band consultant and professor of theory of music.

Recent research has shown that the summer decrease in egg size is due largely to the high temperatures encountered during the season. Protection against the excessive summer heat, especially in the form of floor line ventilation, will pay dividends in the form of larger eggs. County agricultural and home demonstration agents have information on floor line ventilation.

ONE MILLION Texans

One million Texans would have to find other means of livelihood if the Texas petroleum industry were to shut down tomorrow.

Steady employment, good working conditions, reasonable working hours and fair wages are the industry's responsibilities to its workers and their families—a million Texans in all.

It must maintain production, find and develop new fields, meet competitive markets for its products and pay its total expense bill of 750 million dollars a year, which includes its payrolls.

The Texas petroleum industry now has to pay 97 million dollars a year in taxes to Federal, State and local governments before it can consider wages and employment.

When expenses must be cut to satisfy increasing tax demands, employment suffers, and with it, the buying power that employment creates in our State.

Betty Crocker KITCHEN CLING

Prepared by Your Newspaper—Betty Crocker Home Service Department

BUTTERCUP CAKE

Doesn't the mere name—Buttercup Cake—take hold of your fancy and make you long for a taste? Of course, it must be a sunny, light yellow cake with a fluffy white, delicately flavored icing! The cake itself has a wonderful flavorfulness and tenderness, too. You'll understand why when you read the recipe and see that it is in reality that delicious old-time favorite—a buttermilk cake.

BUTTERCUP CAKE

1/2 cup shortening (part butter for flavor)
1 1/2 cups sugar
2 eggs
2 1/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour or 2 1/2 cups sifted cake flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. soda
1/2 tsp. salt
1 cup buttermilk
1 tsp. vanilla
1/4 tsp. almond extract
1/4 tsp. lemon extract
1/4 tsp. orange extract

Cream shortening, add sugar gradually, and cream until fluffy. Blend in well beaten eggs. Sift flour, baking powder, soda and salt together . . . and stir into creamed mixture alternately with the buttermilk. Blend in the flavorings. Pour into 2 well greased and floured 8-inch round layer cake pans. Bake 30 to 35 minutes in a moderate oven (350° F.).

When cake is cool, spread Buttercup Icing between layers and over top and sides. Keep in cool place.

BUTTERCUP ICING

2 egg whites
1 cup sugar
2 tsp. water
1/2 tsp. vanilla
1/2 tsp. other flavoring (a combination of almond, lemon and orange extracts)
3 tbsps. very soft butter

Combine in top of double boiler, the egg whites, sugar and water, and beat together just enough to completely blend ingredients. Place over rapidly boiling water, and beat with rotary beater until mixture is white and very light. (Icing is done when it holds its shape as beater is pulled out.) This takes 4 to 5 minutes, depending on size of boiler and vigor of beating. Remove from over boiling water, beat in flavorings . . . then beat occasionally until cool. When icing is thoroughly cool, carefully fold in butter. (Butter should be very soft . . . but not melted.)

Amount: Sufficient icing for a 2-layer 8-inch cake.

Note: Decorate edge of cake by sprinkling with finely grated lemon- or orange rind to resemble a border of flowers.

LEFT-OVER EGG YOLKS

The egg yolks left when making white icing can be used in yeast rolls, plain cookie recipes, etc. Just use 2 egg yolks plus 1 tsp. milk in place of 1 egg. Or they can be added to whole eggs when fixing scrambled eggs, French omelette, etc. Or use them in custards, salad dressing, cream sauces, etc. . . . using 2 egg yolks for 1 whole egg.

It's Railroad Gone, Payroll Gone, Perrin May Become a "Ghost Town"

Perrin, Texas.—The people of this once thriving West Texas community are in mourning.

The occasion for their mourning is not the demise of some leading citizen or other beloved person, but the loss of some months ago of their railroad. Now that it is gone many in Perrin are frank to admit its loss can be largely attributed to their own lack of appreciation of its value to their town.

Along with the railroad went school district, municipal and other taxes and a payroll highly important to a town of this size, even though it might not have been considered much of a factor to a larger town. Throughout Perrin's time this payroll has meant much to local business firms, professional men and others.

All of this losses combine to transform Perrin from a bustling, bustling plains country business center, which it was while the Gulf, Texas and Western Railroad was operating, into a slowly dwindling community, now threatened with being added to the growing list of Texas "ghost cities," a fate against which local citizens are striving valiantly. What has happened to Perrin was not contemplated when the Texas Railroad Commission authorized discontinuance of service by the C.T. & W. railroad. However, when officials of the line presented indisputable proof that the business actually taken in by the railroad failed by a wide margin to pay its operating expenses there was nothing left to do.

Perrin need not have been in its present dilemma. Time was when the railroad operated two freight and two passenger trains between Mineral Wells and Jacksboro and Perrin. There were a local railroad agent, two section foremen and ten section laborers whose wages boosted Perrin's payroll by $12,000 annually.

But with the fine paved highway came the buses and the trucks and some Perrin citizens began to refer to the G. T. & W. as "two streaks of rust." Others more thoughtful called the attention of their neighbors to the fact that more than a dozen families earned their livelihood by working for the railroad and that the taxes it paid were a factor in local business. The latter, who felt pride that Perrin had a railroad connection with the outside world, urged their friends to ship more of their products and receive more of their goods by rail.

The taxes paid by the railroad were not large, but of the amount $382 went toward the schools. This was an important item in meeting the expense of education in Independent District No. 2 comprising Jack, Palo Pinto and Parker counties.

"The loss to Perrin of its railroad meant more than the loss of taxes," asserted John Sharp, local superintendent of schools. When the railroad stopped, business stopped. Our experience should be a lesson to more fortunate communities that still have time to save their railroads."

Lacking a railroad to serve their community Perrin merchants have thus far managed to stay in business through the operation of an improvised truck service, a setup which has proved rather bothersome, local shippers and receivers of freight freely assert. Highway transport fills the gap on the lighter goods, but when the heavier shipments are to move it can't take the place of the G.T. & W., nor is the service so dependable, local citizens say.

Now that there isn't any railroad service Perrin citizens must pay 45 cents to go to Mineral Wells, whereas formerly they made the trip for 27 cents.

"I tried to get my business friends to patronize the railroad more freely, but they wouldn't listen to me and now the inevitable has happened," J. S. Boydston, for 14 years a section foreman on the G.T. & W. declared. "Something in the way of a miracle will now have to happen to keep our little community from becoming a 'ghost town.'"

Where 48 Families Will Spend Vacations

FHA's No. 1 Inspector Checks World's Fair Homes

New York, N. Y.—This Summer 48 typical American families in homes of their own for a week will live among the wonders of the New York World's Fair.

Stewart McDonald, Federal Housing Administrator, recently inspected the two homes now being built on the Fair Grounds which will house the lucky families from every State in the Union. Joining him was Harvey D. Gibson, chairman of the board of the World's Fair.

The homes are typical of thousands in the $2,500 to $3,500 range being built this year under the FHA's 1940 program. They comply with FHA minimum construction requirements and would be eligible for FHA-insured mortgage financing.

Families who will live in them during their stay at the Fair will receive all expenses from the time they leave home until they return. The families are now being chosen through local contests.

Many People To Visit America During 1940

Austin, Tex.—Plans of the U.S. Travel Bureau to make 1940 "Travel America Year" were outlined Tuesday in a statewide radio broadcast by B. Frank White, Acting State Director for the Office of Government Records.

Pointing to President Roosevelt's proclamation calling on the American people and "friends from other lands" to join in a great travel movement to and within the United States to further international friendship, Mr. White predicted that this year would see all records broken for the number of people visiting this country.

"With travel abroad restricted this year because of war," he said, "thousands of people who have never before visited our National Parks, Forests and other scenic spots will do so. It is safe to predict that more than twenty million persons will visit the National Parks and Forests alone."

Mr. White, whose reports made up this week's U.S. Government Reports broadcast, invited anyone who desires complete and impartial information on where to go for their vacation this year to communicate in writing to either of the U.S. Travel Bureau's field offices in New York and San Francisco, or to headquarters in Washington.

Awarded annually to the senior or seniors making the greatest contribution to the college in some artistic field, the Leman trophy went to Helen Solberg of Clifton, who designed and constructed altar vases, porch lights, and the vestibule stone floor of the chapel; Margaret Glenn Green of Minnott, who designed a photographic record of chapel art projects; and to Nora Mae Pierce of LaGrange, Betty Winston of Vernon, and Lucile Cudd of Wichita Falls, each of whom has made a stained glass window for the sanctuary.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By Boyce House

Abraham Lincoln said that when he was a boy, nobody liked gingerbread better than he did, or got less of it.

Nobody bestows more publicity than newspapermen, or get less of it themselves. So—what-a-ya-say!—being's as how the State Press convention over at Mineral Wells is on my mind, let's devote this go-round to the members of the Four Estate. Here goes:

Stanley Babb, courthouse reporter for the historic Galveston-News, is press agent for a pirate. Well, maybe not exactly that, but he has written poems about old Jean LaFitte, and good ones, too.

Speaking of writing, W. E. Kugler, before he became the professed head editorial writer for the Dallas News, used to be sports editor, and, in those days he wrote Grantland Rice-esque poems.

And Asa Patrick, city editor of the Weatherford Herald, used to write notable fiction—in fact, one of his short stories appeared in the same issue of a magazine with a story by O. Henry.

A few years ago this observer was handling publicity work in a state race and visited Lufkin where C. S. Boyles, Jr., editor of the News, reversed the usual procedure—he bought my lunch. And that is an even bigger piece of news than a man biting a dog.

Of course, the oldest newspaper joke is the one about the cub reporter who was assigned to write up a big society wedding at a city church. He came back to the office and the city editor said, "Well, write the story." Dejectedly, the young news-gatherer said, "There ain't no story—the bridegroom didn't show up."

Dodging the brick-bats and angled eggs for tell the tone, let us continue our stroll down newspaper row:

Word is gradually getting around that newspapermen will make expiable public officials—J. W. Clements is Stephenville's mayor and Wendell Mayes is mayor of Broxtonwood; other towns, "please copy."

Of course several presidents of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce were newspapermen: S. H. Hilburn, Plainview; Houston Harte, San Angelo; R. H. Nichols, Vernon, and the late Wilbur Hawk, Amarillo. And—probably a little late to be news—N. H. Pierce, Menard publisher, was strongly urged to run for Congress.

"Lo, the Poor Editor," from the pen of some unknown writer:

Consider the editor! A child is born unto the wife of a merchant in the town. The physician getteth 10 plunks. The editor writeth a stock and a half and telleth the multitude that the child tipped the beam at nine pounds. Yea, he lieth even as a centurion. And the proud father giveth him a five-cent cigar.

Behold, the young one groweth up and gradugeth. And the editor putteth into his paper a swell notice. Yea, a peach of a notice. He telleth of the wisdom of the young woman and of her exceeding comeliness. Like unto the roses of Sharon is she and her gown is played up to beat the band. And the dressmaker getteth two score and four iron men. And the editor gets a note of thanks from the sweet girl graduate.

And the daughter goeth on a journey. And the editor throweth himself on the story of the far-well party. It runneth a column solid. And the fair one remembereth him afar with a picture postal card that costeth six for a jiney.

Behold, she returneth, and the youth of the town fall down and worship. She picketh one, and lo, she picketh a lemon. But the editor calleth him one of our most promising young men and getteth away with it. And they send unto the editor a bid to the wedding, and behold the bids were printed in a far city.

Flowery and long is the wedding notice which the editor publisheth. The minister getteth 10 bones. The groom standeth the editor off for a 12-month subscription.

All flesh is grass and in time the wife is gathered unto the soil. The minister getteth his bit. The editor printeth a death notice, two columns of obituary, three lodgnotices, a cubit of poetry and a card of thanks. And he forgetteth to read proof on the head and the darned thing cometh out, "Gone to Her Last Roasting Place."

And all that are akin to the deceased jumpeth on the editor with exceeding great jumps. And they pulleth out their ads and cancelleth their subscriptions, and they swing the hammer even unto the third and fourth generations.

Canst thou beat it?

Weekly Health

Issued by Dr. Geo. W. Cox, M.D., State Health Officer of Texas

Austin, Texas.—"A marked saving in human lives and improved health conditions may be obtained in large measure through a positive program for the control of malaria," Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer, states.

"Malaria is transmitted to humans," he said, "by the bite of the Anopheles mosquito. This mosquito acquires the malaria parasites by biting a person who has these parasites in his blood. She (it is the female mosquito which transmits the disease) then bites a well person. The parasites enter the blood, grow and multiply there. Poisons are formed and carried in the blood stream to all parts of the body. The person bitten by the carrier mosquito begins to shiver with chills, burn with fever, and to have a headache.

"Prevention of malaria should start with the protection of humans from the bite of the infected mosquito and continue through the elimination of the mosquito.

"The protection of humans may be accomplished by screening all houses to prevent the entrance of mosquitoes. A 16-mesh wire screen should be placed over all openings, be sure that all chimneys, cracks, and other openings, are covered.

"The malaria mosquito breeds in still water and the pools and grassy edges of running water, as well as in many places where water is allowed to collect and stand. The female mosquito then lays her eggs on the surface of the water, where they float and in a few days hatch into 'wiggly-tails.' These live in the water and in time turn into mosquitoes. These changes must take place in the water and require from 12 to 14 days in summer to complete the cycle.

"In order to prevent the malaria mosquito from breeding, destroy their shelters by removing all brush and weeds; and drain or otherwise control their breeding places in water by spraying the surface with oil or putting top-feeding minnows in waters where oil or drainage cannot be used," Dr. Cox advised.

"Consult your local health officer or sanitarian about methods of control in your community. The State Department of Health has available free literature on malaria control measures, also."

You will enjoy this service. We are urging the men to come. Wouldn't it be a great thing if all business would stop from ten to twelve on Sunday and give everyone an opportunity to go to church? The church stands for everything that is good. Let's cast our influence with, and for, the things that make for the best.

Our Sunday school attendance is holding up well, but we could make it better. What do you say to our trying it?

Clubs Backing Commission

Austin, Texas.—Texas sportsmen are taking a bigger interest in their State Game Department and its attempts to preserve and increase game and fish than ever before. Almost weekly of late word has been received by the executive secretary of the commission from sportsmen's clubs over the state which have proposed universal hunting and fishing license laws, regulatory power for the Department and a longer closed season on fish in order to allow them more time to spawn undisturbed.

Included in this group are the San Antonio Anglers Club, Fort Worth Anglers Club, Dallas Anglers and Hunters Association, Dallas Oak Cliff Chapter of the Game and Fish Protective Association, West Texas Game and Fish Association with headquarters in San Angelo and the Taylor County Angling and Fishing Association with headquarters in Abilene.

Officers of clubs indicate in letters to the executive secretary that sportsmen are recognizing the efforts of the Department to conserve and propagate game on its limited funds and votes taken at club meetings indicate an almost 100 per cent favorable reception of the club program of boosting for universal licenses, longer closed season in fishing and regulatory power for the Commission under proper supervision.

It is interesting to note that sports editors throughout the state are apparently also in accord. A questionnaire sent out by the Dallas Anglers and Hunters Association recently produced some interesting results. On the first 20 received, 18 sports editors believed Texas should have a universal hunting and fishing license. Twenty-eight voted for regulatory power while only one dissented. Eighteen thought there should be a longer closed season, but 11 voted no. In answer to the question: "Do the sportsmen in your vicinity have the same opinions on these questions?" 21 voted yes and 2 no.

He Saves The Rain

In 1928, when moisture conditions were ideal, W. R. McQueen produced 2 bales of cotton to the acre on 40 acres of his 1,215-acre farm about five miles southeast of Memphis, Texas.

"Last year, when dry weather resulted in probably the worst crops since 1896 in this area, I produced only 53 1-2 bales on 386 acres," McQueen said. "I am now convinced that farmers of this semi-arid area must conserve every drop of the available moisture and put it to use if they expect to make a living."

"I thought this was the most beautiful country in the world when I moved here from Ellis county, Texas, thirty-three years ago," McQueen recalled. "The country all range land then, and a heavy blanket of grass covered the rolling hills as far as the eye could see."

"I saw the plow turn up the virgin sod on many thousands of acres, a lot of which never should have been put into cultivation, but I plowed up my share, too, for I now have 967 acres of crop land."

This pioneer farmer recalled that he harvested many bumper crops during years of plentiful rainfall, but crops were short in dry years. Back in 1931, he became convinced that terraces might aid in keeping more water on his land and constructed a few structures. However, he continued plowing rows straight up and down the slopes, while cotton, which does not resist erosion, was planted solid in fields.

When the Soil Conservation CCC camp was established at Memphis in 1935 to demonstrate a complete program of erosion control methods, he admitted he did not think much of the idea.

"I didn't like the crooked row method of farming with the point-rows," he said. "Neither did I care for strip cropping methods because after frost comes, leaves from the sorghum strips blow into the cotton and lower the quality. Another objection was that I did not have all the machinery and equipment needed in carrying out the complete program."

McQueen continued to use the same farming practices during the extended drought period, when erosion by wind and water became a serious problem on many farms in the Memphis area as well as in a large portion of the Southern Great Plains.

REA Contract To Extend Rural Power Lines

Power Line Will Serve Four Counties

Seymour, Texas.—Walco Engineering and Construction company of Tulsa, Okla., was recently tentatively awarded the contract for construction of some 310 miles of rural electric lines in Baylor, Knox, Haskell and King counties. Walco's bid on the job was $126,994.12; Broome Electric Construction company of Amarillo was second with $130,425.16; and J. E. Morgan & Sons, Waco, third with $132,148.76.

The successful bid was said to be one of the lowest ever made on this type of work. The bid was accepted by the Baylor Electric company, a corporation formed to borrow funds from the Rural Electrification administration. The latter is expected to confirm the acceptance in the next few days.

Electric current for the lines will be furnished by a generating unit, bids for which will be opened probably between June 15 and 18. This bid will include also a building to house the generator. The sum of $40,000 has been allotted by REA for the unit and building.

The line will cover a wide area in this section. Going east from Seymour, one part will serve the Westover community and surrounding territory. Another will tie on to rural electric lines of the city of Seymour, of which there are now 115 miles in Baylor and Knox counties, to serve Gilliland and surrounding territory. Another branch will reach the territory around Bomarton in Baylor county; Goree, Munday and Knox City in Knox county; O'Brien and possibly Rochester in Haskell county; and on into the edge of King county. The line, construction of which is expected to start in the next 30 days, will serve some 600 customers at the start, with a potential list of 1,154.

"Fruit Day" activities have been planned at Georgetown on June 14 for rural families in Extension Service District 8. A second is scheduled at Grand Prairie for Dallas County people the following day. On June 12 a similar event was held at the Nacogdoches Experiment Station for interested people in Extension District 9.

Why America Has A Farm Problem

One reason why America has a farm surplus is that too much land that should never have been farmed has been put into cultivation and too much land has been farmed under practices that mine the soil of its fertility. As a result, about 50 million acres of American farm land are now worthless, and another 50 million acres border on abandonment. Conservation of the Nation's soil resources is one of the first steps in solving the farm problem. In Texas, more than half of the cropland has been protected by soil and water conserving practices and the work is spreading to include pastures and range lands. The state soil and water conservation district law gives farmers and ranchers a tool whereby they can cooperate to speed up their conservation work. Assistance from many sources, including county agricultural agents, teachers of vocational agriculture, the SCS, CCC, FSA, and NYA is available, and the first purpose of the AAA program is to encourage use of practices which build fertility and prevent erosion.

In five years the Rural Electrification Administration has financed the building of a quarter of a million lines of new rural power lines. This was brought about mainly through loans to rural electric cooperatives.

In the Southeastern states the farm population has doubled since the Civil War, although there is less land under cultivation in those states now than there was in 1860, according to Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture.

Pioneer Texans See Deer Herds On Increase

By J. G. BURR, statistician for the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission

The killing of does in the early days, before a closed season was enacted for their protection, was the big factor in the disappearance of the antlered herd in Texas, declared the ranchmen who were witnesses of the break down. Conversely, the enactment of a law in 1903 against the killing of a female deer has been the big factor of restoration.

The resuscitation of deer abundance, after the passage of the law, was not by a sudden jump as is some magical wand had been waved in the conservation sky. Things went along pretty much the same as they had been going for ten or fifteen years longer. Alfred Toepferwein, the last justice of the peace of San Antonio, claimed to be the first man to assess a fine for killing a doe, which was in 1906. Eight years later, Toepferwein went hunting on the Pete Classin ranch, but there was little evidence that the law had been fruitful. He got no buck. In more than a dozen hunts that season, he managed to get one buck on the last trip. Once during these discouraging hunts he had threatened to sell his guns and quit. In 1935 on the same ranch of 7,000 acres, 100 legal bucks were killed. This paralleled conditions in many parts of the State.

S. H. Martin of Mason County states that in 1907 one could hunt all day in his 14,000 acre pasture without seeing more than 3 or 4 deer. Now a hunter can count a couple of hundred in a day. Similar statements could be multiplied.

Law enforcement in Mason County got a start in 1911 when ranchmen organized a game and livestock protective association and secured the appointment of Hermann Zesch as free service game warden. He was probably the first field enforcement officer to be appointed for game protection. It was in that year that Colonel Bill Sterrett became commissioner. Although of purely sartorial significance, Sterrett was the first beardless commissioner, his predecessors, in keeping with the time, having worn whiskers. In other ways, Sterrett pioneered in dynamic fashion, fearlessly assailed those who crossed his path. When Governor Colquitt sent a man over to the game department in search of a job, Sterrett bounded down to the Governor's office with an ultimatum: "If you are going to run this department, take the job. If I'm to run it, don't send any men to me. I have the responsibility and I'm going to pick my men." In later year Sterrett chuckled to the writer, "thereafter when applicants appealed to the governor, he told them he was sorry but that he had no influence with his commissioner."

In 1913 Sterrett gave Alf Gardner of LaSalle County a free service commission. Gardner relates that in the early 90's J. J. Paronelle of Granger had hunted in LaSalle County and the big bucks he had been taking home had aroused the interest of Williamson and Bell County hunters who then began hunting along the Nueces River.

Headlight hunting was pretty general over the State but especially so in Webb County. Not so much interested in game, the ranchmen did object to having their stock killed by the ruthless night hunter who could not tell a deer from any other animal. Headlighters were so numerous in the winter of 1918-19, says Gardner, that Tom Coleman, big cattle man, appealed to the department and got Bob Rumsey, who was a customs officer, appointed a free service warden. Also a man from the Austin office was sent to Laredo to hold a court of inquiry and get a few of the headlighters to tell on each other. Four or five pleas of guilty resulted.

Gardner became a paid warden in 1920 and remains to this day, the oldest employee of the department in years of service.

Warden enforcement of the law began in Kerr County in the fall of 1916 with the appointment of Seth Houston Terrell and J. J. Dent, the latter as free service. Whether Terrell was the first paid game warden there is no record. (There had been coastal deputies interested in marine patrol since 1895.)

Protection of game then began in earnest and as a result Kerr County was soon to become one of the best places to hunt. Ranchmen there and elsewhere who rode their fences in the interest of livestock enforced the trespass law to protect game. In Real County, Will Auld had a 13,000 acre pasture with enough deer to justify leasing the hunting rights. He did it. It was probably the first hunting lease in Texas. Joe Martin of Austin secured that lease in 1909. Since this ante-dated all other protective measures the abundance of deer on the Auld ranch is explained as being due to the landowner's own initiative and to the fact that natural protection highly favored a good deer population. It is said THAT ranch was never shot out. But it was a shining exception and the lease by Martin emphasized the dismal fact that most other places WERE shot out.

The next lease on record was in 1913 when Real Brothers of Kerr County leased shooting rights to

A toll fee ranging from $1.25 per trip for passenger autos, to $10.00 for heavy trucks, is expected to produce a revenue of $2,670,000 from 1,300,000 vehicles during the first year.

PENNSYLVANIA TURNPIKE WILL BE OPENED JULY 4TH

Fleet of huge tractor drawn, hydraulic scrapers hurry to meet July 4th opening date of the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

HARRISBURG, Pa.—Contractors are putting the finishing touches on America's first high-speed, super-highway.

When the Pennsylvania Turnpike is opened to the public, July 4th, 26,000,000 cubic yards of earth and rock will have been moved in 20 months, to make way for the 4,300,000 square yards of reinforced concrete pavement stretching 160 miles, almost as a crow flies, from Harrisburg to Pittsburgh.

A toll fee ranging from $1.25 per trip for passenger autos, to $10.00 for heavy trucks, is expected to produce a revenue of $2,670,000 from 1,300,000 vehicles during the first year.

Direct cross-flow traffic is avoided on the Turnpike by means of looping ramps; speed is to be unrestricted and grades are reduced to a maximum of three per cent, permitting every type of vehicle to travel the entire distance in high gear.

$25,000,000 worth of heavy and high-speed Timken-bearing equipped drilling, earth moving and paving equipment was required to bore seven tunnels, make numerous deep cuts and grade the right-of-way of this, the greatest road of all time.

Of the $70,050,000 cost of the Pennsylvania Turnpike, $29,250,000 was an outright grant from P.W.A.

J. S. Pampell for the sum of $25. Needless to say, the lease value began to increase from year to year with the increased hunting values.

In Mason county, so far as can be learned leasing began in 1927 when Charles Brandenberger leased the game rights in his 1,000-acre pasture. But the practice of killing does and fawns still prevailed in many pastures and the restoration program was slow. At this time, the writer entered the service of the department when it had only six wardens for the entire State.

The vast majority of people had never seen a game warden or even heard of one and many sections were hostile when a warden made his appearance. Naturally, a warden had little hope of winning his case in communities unfriendly to law enforcement.

In Gillespie County ranchmen were slow to accept the idea of charging a hunter. "Who would want to charge for hunting with game so scarce and who would want to pay when there is so little to shoot at?" were the questions asked. But in 1925 the legislature enacted a law requiring those who sold hunting rights to have a 50 license. Though ranchmen had always had the right to sell game rights, this license by the state seemed to carry approval and encouragement to the landowner to go after the business. Gillespie County is now among the leaders in the number of leased acres, which totals 40 per cent to the county, and runs second in the number of deer killed annually in the shooting preserves. Beginning in the west, the practice of leasing spread southward, and in recent years to parts of southeastern Texas reaching a total of 78 counties embracing 6,000,000 acres.

Last season the income to landowners from the sale of shooting rights amounted to more than a quarter of a million dollars or an average of 4 1-2 cents an acre.

Will this play out like an oil field or wear out like a farm, is a reasonable inquiry? The shooting preserve record kept by the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission since 1930 shows a steadily increased kill. A nine-year record kept by Homer Hughes on the James River ranch in Mason County showed a 300 per cent increase in the number of bucks killed. In 1938, 492 bucks were killed on his 43,000 acre tract. However, Mr. Hughes points out that size of the deer killed are smaller each year, indicating too close a harvest of the bucks. He contemplates having a limited open season of only two weeks. The White brothers ranch which adjoins has limited the open season to two weeks since 1931 with excellent results. Mr. White declares that bucks are larger now than in 1931.

With proper law enforcement and intelligent game management, marvelous results are in store.

A Modern Linerider

on the Range

"Hangin' a pot's like bulldoggin' a steer"

THE modern linerider has a language all his own, much the same as the West Texas cowboy uses a "range" tongue "foreign" to most of us.

These lineriders are hanging a pot on a 50-foot Black Diamond. They are using a gut on the hot wires for protection against high voltage juice.

A "pot" is a transformer, fixed high up on a creosote pole. It reduces voltage to 110 or 220 volts so that electric current can be safely used in your home. A "gut" is the rubber line hose placed around the wires to prevent shock.

Until a worker is experienced enough to perch atop the pole without fear and without holding on with one hand, he is known as a "clumb-some." The man working on the ground, sending up tools and handling paraphernalia is called a "Grunt." "Coon that pole" is the signal to climb a pole when not equipped with climbing hooks or spurs. "Suck on it" means to take up the slack in a new wire being strung. A "johnnie ball" is an insulator. A "nigger-head" is a porcelain fuse cutout around which wires are tied on cross-arms for insulation purposes. "The Bear" is the sobriquet sometimes given "the boss."

Although the lineman's life is fraught with danger, he is a normal citizen... maybe your neighbor. He is one of hundreds of men and women working behind the scenes to help make Electric Service efficient, dependable, and economical here... On him we bestow a title of honor—A Modern Linerider.

This is the fourth of a series of "THUMBNAILED SKETCHES" featuring the work performed by our Linemen in bringing ELECTRIC SERVICE to your home

He Saves The Rain

After the cotton harvest last fall, McQueen learned that other land no more fertile than his, but where complete soil and water-conservation programs were being carried out, had produced as much as a third of a bale to the acre. He also observed that gullies were filling in on the land where terraces had been constructed. It was then that he decided to seek assistance of the Soil Conservation Service technicians at the CCC camp in establishing a complete soil and water-conservation program on his entire farm.

During the winter, construction of 50 miles of terraces was started and now is well under way. A plan of regulated grazing on the pasture land has been worked out and contour furrows will be constructed later. On severely eroded spots 2,500 shrubs and trees are being planted to check soil losses and to aid in the propagation of wildlife. This year, cotton and grain sorghums will be planted in strip-crop pattern with the crops being rotated annually. Terraces will be planted to Sudan grass or other sorghums and border strips will be used to protect the fields.

Several world war veterans of Knox county were called to a Dallas hospital by the Veteran's Bureau for medical examination this week. Among those leaving are Lloyd Sweatt and Frank Hendrix of Munday, J. T. Weber and G. B. Jones of Goree.

Shorty Horan returned home this week from an Amarillo hospital, where he has been undergoing medical treatment for the past six weeks. Horan was sent to the hospital by the Vetreaan's Bureau. Fred Broach, Jr., of Knox City was here Tuesday afternoon on business.

Rhineland Cops First Half Of Ball League

Downs Munday 10 to 4 Last Sunday

The first half honors in the Knox county softball league went to the smallest town in the league last Sunday, as Rhineland easily trimmed Munday 10-4, behind effective hurling by George "Lefty" Decker and three mighty home run wallopers by Montgomery, L. Wilde and R. Kuehler.

As all clubs in the American League unite in special efforts to beat the Yankees, so did the opposition of Rhineland extend themselves to the utmost in their endeavor to beat the Raiders; but to no avail, as the Raiders clicked smoothly behind inspirational aggressive leadership of Shorty Kuehler and were closely pressed in only one game. This little band of Red Raiders made it all the more remarkable because of the fact that they are all home born and reared. Not a single player has been employed from the outside.

It is only natural for a team to ease up after achieving its goal, but this is not the case with the courageous lads from Rhineland, as a keen desire to win prevails among them, and they will be out to avenge the only loss suffered thus far this season when they tangled with Knox City at Rhineland next Sunday. The Knox City team is known throughout the league for their highly sportmanlike activities on the field.

Herbert Stodghill Injured by Horse

Herbert Stodghill, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Stodghill, was injured last Tuesday afternoon when he was dragged by a horse which he was riding.

According to reports of the accident, both Herbert and the horse became entangled in a clothes line, Herbert being knocked off the horse by the line. The horse became frightened and ran, dragging Herbert some distance. He was freed when the horse fell on the pavement near the Stodghill home.

He was rushed to a local physician's office and given immediate medical treatment, and is reported to be resting nicely at his home here. Although badly bruised and burned from being dragged, Herbert's injuries are not believed of a serious nature.

Local Band Plays In Olney Concert

Members of the Munday school band went to Olney last Friday, where they played in a band concert and festival. A school bus took the group to Olney, some 30 members of the band attending. This festival was similar to the one held in Munday several months ago, when some five or six bands from this section participated in the parade and concert.

Philip and Hubert Homer and Joe Herring were visitors in Wichita Falls last Sunday.

Cemetery Work Is Slow Due To Lack of Funds

Because of the lack of funds, the cemetery work must now depend upon those who can and will help keep the grounds in some order.

The recent showers have caused the weeds to grow fast, and if everyone, when working their own lots, will keep two or three nearby, the need for money will be much less.

And dues, or donations are to be paid to Mrs. W. V. Tiner, Secy., of the Association.

The Association, itself is composed of all who have any interest in the cemetery—the organization can't be successfully managed by the very few workers as we have now.

The fence can and will be built, if we get an NYA project combining the building of a Boy Scout hut and the fence.

If this doesn't materialize, we hope to build pillars, or arches for each gate. Our commissioner, Mr. Ed Jones, is 100 per cent with us in any way he can help. The two committees have been untiring in efforts to move the work forward, and when a call for the association to meet is advertised, please respond, for it is your job as well as theirs.

Please help keep the gates closed—stock have done some damage lately. The committee on finances pay a man to do any work for those who pay for their lots to be kept extra, when the funds are sent to the secretary.

The dues designated are $3.00 a year, but any amount given helps.

MAUD ISBELL
Pres., Cemetery Ass'n.

County Receives School Money

Knox county school received an additional payment of $2 per capita in scholastic money this week, according to an announcement Tuesday by Merick McGaughey, county superintendent. This makes a total of $18 paid thus far, with only $4 remaining to be paid by the state.

The county also received the last payment of salary aid due in the county, which amounted to $501 to the Union Grove school. Other salary aid payments in the county had been made but the Union Grove payment was delayed due to an audit being made of the school attendance records.

Two Injured In Car Accident

Miss Sue Stodghill received cuts from flying glass on Thursday night of last week when the car in which she was riding featured in a collision with another car.

The accident occurred at the stop light in Munday. Sue's injuries were not of a serious nature. John Broach received minor injuries about the head.

Henry Clay Dingus went to the Haskell hospital last Friday for a tonsillectomy. He is reported to be rapidly recovering from the operation.

RIGHT OUT OF THE AIR

By EARLE FERRIS

EACH of the five girls in the Music Mads quintet heard on the Bing Crosby show, can qualify as an all-around musician. Not only do they

Ed Prentiss, star of "Painted Dreams," has been made an honorary life guard at a private beach near his Chicago home. He has several rescues to his credit.

In an informal survey which tabulated the votes of 1,000 university students in New York City to determine their favorite radio commentator, Raymond Gram Swing, pictured here, received more than three times as many votes as his nearest competitor. The distinguished war analyst is heard Mondays and Fridays at 10:00 p.m., e.d.s.t., over Mutual stations.

Bess Johnson, star of "Hilltop House," was one of the first visitors to Washington, D. C., to see the cherry blossoms. Each year she takes her young daughter to the capital for that occasion.

Evidently Frankie Masters' music charms movie stars, for since his band has been appearing at the Hotel Roosevelt in New York, no less than 43 Hollywood celebs have dropped in to dance to his rhythms.

When Fred Allen celebrated his 30th anniversary in the show business, scores of his associates of the old days were in the studio audience. Among them were Major Bowes, Jack Benny, Block and Sully, Ben Bernie, Doc Rockwell, Kate Smith, Mark Sandrich and many others.

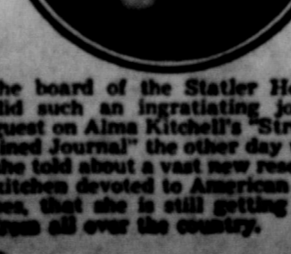

Before he achieved fame in radio, Kingsley Colton, pictured here, young star of "My Son and I" was the most photographed child in America. He still works occasionally as a model for commercial photographers.

William Hargrave, baritone featured on "Johnny Presents," and now doubling with the Hippodrome Opera Company in New York, may also appear in a musical comedy this fall.

Perhaps it doesn't take a long course in dramatics to become a radio star after all. Mrs. E. M. Statler, pictured here, chairman of the board of the Statler Hotel, did such an ingratiating job as guest on Alma Kitchell's "Streamlined Journal" the other day when she told about a vast new research kitchen devoted to American recipes, that she is still getting mail from all over the country.
