

Sunset Alumni To Have Picnic On Friday Afternoon

The ex-seniors of the Sunset school will have their annual picnic Friday afternoon, July 26th, at the Haskell park.

All who can are requested to bring cars and meet on the east side of the city hall at Munday at three o'clock. Those who do not have ways to go be at the city hall and you can ride with someone.

Those who wish may go swimming. The class with the largest percentage present will go swimming at the expense of the other classes; so come and help your class to be represented 100 per cent. Bring a picnic lunch.

MRS. LEONARD EARNEST

Miss Eleanor Louise Jungman And Leonard Earnest Marry in Lubbock

The marriage of Miss Eleanor Louise Jungman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Jungman of Munday, and Leonard Earnest of Lubbock was solemnized at 9 o'clock Sunday morning at the First Presbyterian church in Lubbock, with Dr. J. M. Lewis, pastor, officiating.

The altar rail and church were decorated with baskets of white asters and woodwardia fern. Nuptial music and an organ prelude were the offerings of Mrs. R. C. Douglas, Jr.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a navy frock with white pique trim. She wore white accessories and a corsage of sweetheart roses, and carried a handkerchief which her mother had carried in her wedding.

Miss Allene Jungman of Munday attended her sister as maid of honor. F. H. Parker served as best man, and ushers were Dr. Paul Strand and Dr. Abner Roberts.

Mrs. Earnest received her degree in journalism from Texas Technological college and was a member of Las Leales club and of Alpha Chi, national honorary fraternity. She has been president of the alumnae of the Women's Press club, and since her graduation has been employed in the publicity department of Texas Tech.

The groom attended Trinity university and was graduated from Tech college where he was a member of Los Camaradas social club. He is associated with an insurance company in Lubbock.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding included Misses Bonnie Jones of Munday and Ruth Keeter of Claude; Carl Jungman, Munday; and Mr. and Mrs. Si Hilliard of Hobbs, N.M.

The popular couple was complimented at numerous social courtesies during the weeks which preceded the ceremony.

Mrs. J. E. Becknell of route two, Goree, was shopping in the city Saturday.

Mrs. Claude Reed of Knox City was a business visitor here Saturday.

Miss Sarah Reeves of Goree visited friends here a while Saturday.

Verna Mae Loving of Goree was a visitor in town Saturday afternoon.

Mary Ruth Jacobs of route two, Goree, was a visitor here Saturday.

Attention:
Citizens of Knox County

Lewis Williams, a Knox county man, is a candidate for District Judge of the 50th Judicial District.

Mr. Williams has proved himself qualified and capable as a lawyer, as District Attorney, and we are confident of his ability to fill the office of District Judge.

Mr. Lewis Williams, our present District Attorney, has without doubt filled the office of District Attorney for many years previous. He has been in court until recently attending the duties of his office and has been unable on account thereof, of seeing the voters of this District as he would like to. He is a man of middle age, courageous, vigorous, and with plenty of legal ability for the office he seeks, not too young, and not too old. Let us elect a Knox county man to this place, a man, we, his friends of long standing, know can fill the place with fairness and with dignity.

Pete Loran Again President of Farmers Union

J. C. Rice, Sec'y;
A. J. Bunts Named
Board Member

Two-Day Convention
Is Brought to Close
On Wednesday

With delegates present from many local unions over the state, the Texas Farmers Union members opened their two-day convention here last Tuesday morning.

Opening the convention was the Rhineland Lone Star Band, which gave an enjoyable concert at 8:30 Tuesday morning. Many convention delegates had not arrived at this hour, and missed the concert by this colorful band which is one of Knox county's oldest organizations.

One of the most interesting speakers for the convention was Hon. Harvey Solberg, secretary of the Colorado State Farmers Union. Mr. Solberg stressed the value of cooperative work among farmers, the organization's increased facilities for betterment of farmers and their program. His talk on Tuesday was so interesting that the convention placed him on Wednesday's program also.

Other speakers from Colorado were James G. Patton, president of the Colorado union, who spoke Tuesday night after the banquet; and C. E. Huff, former president of the National Grain Corporation.

The Farmers Union Gin and the Munday Chamber of Commerce were hosts to the convention delegates at a banquet Tuesday night. Around 75 delegates were in attendance, and an enjoyable program was given. The convention passed a resolution thanking these two organizations, as well as the Munday school board for the use of the school auditorium.

The C. of C. and Union Gin express their appreciation to local girls who served the banquet. The feed was served by Coates Cafe. Girls who served are: Doris Howell, Katie Bell Sweatt and Wardell Sweatt, Virginia Parkhill, Juracy Jones, Patsy Hannah, Bettie Simpson, Frances Smith and Billie Swain.

During the closing hour of the convention officers were elected for another year. Peter Loran of Rhineland was re-elected as president of the state organization for his third term. Clay F. Grove of Munday was named vice president. A. J. Bunts of Munday and Ralph Crowell of Wichita Falls were elected to the board of directors, with all members of the board being retained for another term. J. C. Rice of Munday will serve the organization as secretary and treasurer, succeeding J. E. Edwards.

King Cotton's Prisoners

Business men and women of Temple, Texas, who failed to obey the order of the mayor to wear cotton clothes during a recent cotton celebration found that the days of western pioneer justice had not ended. Rounded up from their businesses, they were placed in the "city jug" and driven over town for an hour after which they were fined and sentenced to buy cotton clothes before being released from custody.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By Boyce House

Editors (and the public, for that matter) generally picture the publicity man as an individual who tours leisurely over the country, smoking twenty-five cent cigars and eating thick steaks. As a matter of fact, he rises at 6 a.m., because ten towns and 225 miles are ahead of him; he grabs a hamburger and a bottle of soda pop on the fly at noon like the Twentieth Century Express taking on water and fuel without stopping; he evaporates in the dust and heat of a July afternoon, and sits up till midnight tapping out stories, interviews and speeches, while the candidate (they share the same room) is so weary that he snores in time with the clicking keys of the typewriter.

And the next day is the same, and so on through the week. "But there's Sunday," someone remarks, ah, yes, Sunday . . . the day of rest! On Sunday, you dash a couple of hundred miles into headquarters for a conference with the campaign leaders on the next week's strategy.

The white horses eat more than the black horses because there are more white horses—and Texas is the hardest state in which to be a political press agent because there is more of Texas than any other state. Think of trying to make an impact on a commonwealth with 254 counties, extending a thousand miles east and west and eleven hundred miles north and south! The only consolation is that it's just as big for the fellow who's press-agenting the rival candidate.

The average man goes to a convention and makes whoopee for two days, and then returns home and catches up on his sleep—but life is a continual round of conventions for the candidate and the press agent because, at these gatherings, citizens from all parts of the state can be seen—and heard, for happy delegates yelp outside your room till 3:30 a.m., and then the hotel help starts cleaning up at 4:15 a.m.

But you don't dare complain about the food or the noise or even comment on the weather because you might cost your candidate a vote.

You and he are campaigning in El Paso, when you get a phone call that the enemy is spreading insidious propaganda in

Texarkana—and you envy Sheridan who had to ride only 14 miles to get to the battle of Winchester!

Or maybe you hop off from San Antonio at the first streak of day and by nightfall you have campaigned to the southernmost tip of Texas, 330 miles from the starting point. There is no way to return except over the same route you came down and so you feel like a householder who is painting a floor and suddenly discover that he has painted himself into a corner.

The press agent has to find time to read the papers so he can see what the opposition is doing and saying—which is usually plenty; and he has to send a nightly report back to headquarters besides writing a local story for the papers in each town visited and preparing general releases, with maybe a 15-minute radio speech to ghost-write.

Then you have to watch over your candidate—tell him when he needs a hair-cut and remind him again to throw away that polka-dot tie. When your back is turned, your candidate will order a dozen fried oysters in the middle of May at Odessa, which is practically a seaport, being only 400 miles from the Gulf of Mexico. Or your protégée may have the habit of wandering into old book stores and curio shops when he should be out back-slapping.

And you've got to keep him pepped up—which is some job, when there were only eleven persons at the opening speech of the campaign. The candidate's troubles are yours; you react to his difficulties like a well Siamese twin does to the ailment of his brother. You come back over a road where you had tacked up posters a week before, and the opposition has torn them down. You wonder if there'll be enough money for gasoline and stamps till the end of the race. Maybe you have the sound truck all set up in a town and the constable makes you move.

There comes to mind one little city where a Fourth of July celebration wound up with the reopening of a feud and four men were shot to death—which was only one less than the Americans lost in the battle of Bunker Hill—but when the candidate and press agent hit that community, an officer stepped forward and said:

"I see you have sound equipment on the car; we have an ordinance against the use of loud speakers, and we are sticklers for law and order here."

And if you let your gaze stray away for a moment, somebody who is working for the other candidate

Why America Has A Farm Problem

EXCHANGE VALUE OF FARM PRODUCTS IS BELOW PARITY
(RATIO OF PRICES RECEIVED TO PRICES PAID BY FARMERS)

Another reason for the nation's farm problem is that farmers cannot exchange their products for as much as they formerly could.

Even though in 1939 farmers could exchange their products for one-fourth more goods than they could seven years before in 1932, they were still below the parity level of 1910-14.

The exchange value of all products was at parity in 1910-14, down to 61 per cent in 1932, up to 77 per cent in 1939.

The question of parity . . . which considers farm income not in terms of commodity prices but in terms of what that income will buy . . . has been one of the first considerations in the efforts to solve the
