

"WHISPERING SMITH"
BY FAMOUS AUTHOR
COMING AS MOVIE

"Whispering Smith Rides" the ten episode chapterplay released by Universal, as based on the novel "Whispering Smith," written by Frank H. Spearman, one of the best known American authors.

"Whispering Smith" is a story of the early day operation of railroads in the sparsely settled west and while in novel form was read by thousands of readers and printed in seven different languages.

J. P. McGowan, a veteran actor, director and writer, who created the screen role of "Whispering Smith" in the first picture ever made of the Spearman stories, appears in the same role in the new production and shares honors with Wallace MacDonald, who plays the leading role of Jim Macklin.

The direction is by Ray Taylor, who recently completed the production of the chapterplay "The Great West That Was" in which Wallace MacDonald was also starred.

Others who appear in the cast are Rose Blossom, Henry Herbert, W. M. McCormick, Nelson MacDowell. The first episode of "Whispering Smith Rides" will be shown at the Peoples Theatre Friday.

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to express our sincere and heartfelt thanks to all who administered to us during the recent illness and upon the death of our darling baby, and assure each and everyone that we shall ever carry the kindest feeling to all who in any way extended a helping hand or spoke a word of consolation to us during the dark hours through which we have just passed.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Tomlinson, Mrs. Annie Markham, Miss Ruby Muse.

VERA H. D. CLUB
The Vera Home Demonstration Club met on September 6th with Mrs. Thompson, with Miss Maxwell with us and, at which time there were only seven present. We answered roll call by stating a way in which to remove stains.

The subject for the afternoon was "Renovating and Remodeling Clothing."

Our county fair was discussed at a council meeting at Gilliland and it was decided to have individual booths, and make reports of garments made and fruits and vegetables canned.

We are very sorry indeed to give up Miss Maxwell as our Home Demonstration Agent, but we wish her well in school.

We hope for a good representation at the fair next Tuesday at Munday. Our next meeting will be with Mrs. Hurd in October.

Mrs. W. B. Ford, Reporter.

From British Honduras come strange animals that crawl like alligators, have thick armor like turtles and can jump more than six feet. If a pedestrian were like that, he might cross the street with reasonable safety.

Wearing of massive steel armor was advocated by King James I of England. On the theory that it not only protected the knights from injury, but also prevented them from injuring anyone else. If disarmament fails, we might try armor.

We hear a good deal nowadays about the young ideal of some of our older men, but it appears that this is nothing new. An old newspaper published forty years ago records the stunts of a farmer near Swingsville, Ky., which isn't slow. A neighbor girl was in love with his two sons and couldn't make a choice so the old fellow sent them both away and then, being a widower, married the girl himself.

People must have holidays. The Chinese, having few great victories or other notable achievements to celebrate also observe certain days of "national humiliation," one of which is September 7, the anniversary of the signing of the Boxer protocol in 1901. Let us hope our country may never have such an occasion to commemorate.

William M. Small of St. Louis believes that the sun revolves around the earth and offers $100 for proof to the contrary. The difficulty in earning that hundred would not be in furnishing the proof, but in getting the same through William's understanding.

Under a new Turkish law all officials and other persons employed by the government must wear clothing made in Turkey. This is a very practical as well as drastic application of the trade at home idea.

The emergency landing of airplanes at night, a parachute carrying a 400.00-cand power flare has been devised, to be released by the aviator as an aid in selecting the best available place to land.

WHAT'S NEW?
Dr. Charles Rusj of England claims to be making progress toward proving his theory that certain rays of emanations are emitted from the human eye, which may account for the power the gaze of some persons has upon others.

Composition wall board only one-half inch thick, but capable of resisting fire and sudden temperature changes, has been patented.

A new stabilizer for airplanes, which automatically adjusts the machine's rudders by an electrical device, has been invented in France.

It is claimed that a stone-cutting machine recently invented will do anything in stone that a circular saw will do in cutting lumber.

Wire so fine that it can not be seen with the naked eye, yet having considerable strength, has been made by George Taylor, a government physicist. This wire will be useful in surgery and in certain phases of electrical work.

Can you afford to spend 25¢ a week — to save 50¢?

It is reliably estimated that it costs on the average $20 per year for removing carbon from a six-cylinder motor. This does not include the cost of necessary repairs due to the wear and tear which carbon causes.

That's why you save money when you use Conoco Ethyl Gasoline even though it costs 3c more per gallon than ordinary gasoline. It costs you about 25c more a week—$13 a year—but it saves you double this amount by reducing carbon removal and wear and tear bills. Isn't that wise economy?

CHOOSING A COLLEGE COURSE

By Phebe K. Warner

Yes! Times have surely changed. Forty years ago if a girl were fortunate enough to go to college she did not need to worry much over the course of study she would take. In practically every catalogue in the whole nation there were three things she could study or go back home. Literature, music or art.

In making her choice between the three she usually consulted her pocket book rather than her talent. Board and room and clothes cost the same no matter which you chose. Art and music cost more than the literary course and in those days it was harder to find a job in either of those lines.

Therefore the most natural thing for a girl to do when she entered any kind of a college or university was to simply enroll for a straight literary course. Of course they varied slightly in the amount of Latin, science, mathematics and history. Then there was another advantage. If you enrolled in the literary course you naturally became a unit of the whole student body. Otherwise you were looked upon as something aside from the regular students. The "special" students fitted into all the college activities. It was all right to take a few music lessons or a few lessons in art on the side if you could afford it. But that didn't count much with the student body in those days. You couldn't get into the sororities on just music or art. "We are IT" was the universal spirit of the literary student body. And if you want to be a part of "IT" then you must become a part of "US."

In that day most of the college girls expected to go to school a few years, then teach a few years and then marry somebody if they had a chance, and they usually did. There were not so many alluring business and professional temptations for girls in those days and men were not quite so afraid of an independent girl.

"But then days are gone forever." And today practically every industrial business and professional as well as domestic door in the world stands wide open to women. Some folks don't like it. But most college women do. But this "New Freedom" to choose any course of study you want to is not without its perplexities. And the most difficult problem of all for the thousands and thousands of American girls who are entering our colleges and universities this week is to decide what course of study to select.

There's C. I. A. alone with THIRTY-TWO different courses of study for women. There's Baylor Belton with her score or more. And all our universities all up and down the continent. "What shall I study?" "I don't know." "What am I good for?" "I don't know." "What am I going to do after school days are over?" "I don't know." "What is my talent?" "I don't know." "How can I find out?" "I don't know." And your decision this week may probably fix your fate for life. First upon your decision this week will depend to a very great extent your degree of success or failure. And on your success or failure will depend your happiness or disappointment in life. Somewhere out there in the distance is a PLACE waiting for you. It may be a home. It may be a business career. It may be a professional position. It may be some form of social service. It may be the combination of a home and some other work. Marriage and a home is no sure sign of protection. Look at the women around you that have had to take up all kinds of work to hold their homes together in the face of tragedy. The only safe and sure life insurance for any woman in this day is a thorough training to face not only domestic problems but economic problems as well.

A university course should be just like a bank account placed on deposit to draw from on demand. Your college course may cost you anywhere from two to four or six thousand dollars, and a few years of time. But there may come a day in your life when it will be worth a thousand dollars to tide you over a crisis and hold your home together. Who knows. You don't. But it pays to be prepared. Women as well as men. And now the time has come for you to invest a few hundred dollars and a few years of time in your own self to meet that day. In the meantime you will be the better prepared to enjoy life as the years go by.

But how shall I invest my time and money in myself? That is the question thousands and thousands of thoughtful girls are asking themselves this week. There has been millions and millions of dollars wasted on educations because neither girls nor boys knew how to settle this problem. And not only millions of dollars but thousands of years of time in the lives of our young people have been literally thrown away trying to learn the wrong thing. Trying to force youth to master something for which their nature was never intended. Thus wrecking what might have been a beautiful success by forcing young men and women to be miserable failures. All because they got started off on the wrong track in their college course.

Will parents, college leaders, university directors and curriculum creators ever learn that it does not make a particle of difference what studies boys and girls take when they go to college just so those studies are unfolded that boy's and girl's best self and leading him or her toward their highest and most useful life?

But all this and not a word about how to tell what to choose. That no one knows except yourself. And you don't either if you have never studied yourself, watched yourself, had faith in yourself, invoiced yourself, and found out what your own inclinations are. Perhaps you have some idea what you DON'T want to be. That will help a little. Too often youth looks at somebody else and decides to be like them, instead of being yourself. That's one of the greatest temptations and stumbling blocks in the early development of college students. Look what has happened since Lindbergh flew the Atlantic! Don't copy anybody. Be yourself. Study your self and then educate your best self. No one knows your innermost life but YOU. You must make your own decision and then head toward your goal.

ANNUAL FIELD DAY AT SPUR EXPERIMENT STATION SEPT. 19-20TH

The following program has been arranged from Superintendent of the Spur Experiment Station, Mr. R. F. Dickson, by County Agent W. O. Logan. This being Annual Field Day over there at which time visitors can see and hear of new experiments, results, yield of crops, etc., as well as feeding and breeding cattle and sheep results.

1:00 to 3:30 p. m. inspection of station.

4:00 p. m. ball game—Ft. Worth Cats vs. a picked team.

6:00 p. m. "County Attorney" served to visitors (plenty cats).

8:00 p. m. Lawn party—public speaking contest.

10:00 p. m. Slumber party (for those that bring their bedding).

Tuesday 9:00 a. m. Visit a few of the three hundred alfalfa farms in Duck and Dockum Valleys.

Mr. Dickson says in closing, "I wish I had time to write each of you a personal letter, but I am so busy getting lambs ready for the "County Attorney" that time will not permit.

Knox county farmers, and land owners, as well as ranchmen can well afford to visit SPUR next Monday, 19th and Tuesday, 20th for those days are the days new results and new ideas are released. You go this one time and you will wonder why you ever missed the others. Let County Agent W. O. Logan know you are going, and don't go by yourself, take along three or four of your friends or neighbors. Take your cots and you will not be out any expense except travel.

Spur is the home of Spur

Feterita, and other grain sorghums, plan to go and see it thru. This is the last field day at Your Close Experiment Stations this fall. Plan to go NOW!

Clean heat

No black kettles to scour!

How much pleasanter cooking is, when there are no black pots and pans to scour afterward! Every woman who cooks with a Perfection Oil Stove is spared that horrid nuisance.

There is never a speck of soot. For in the long chimneys, every drop of oil is completely burned before the heat reaches the cooking.

Perfection flames stay at the height you set them, so you need never fear they will "creep up" and make the kitchen sooty.

Soot, as you know, is half-burned kerosene—just wasted heat. With Perfections you have real fuel economy, as all the oil is changed into cooking heat. They burn only kerosene, the safe household fuel.

GEORGE ISBELL, Munday, Texas

DODGE BROTHERS, INC.

Never before has the business outlook for Munday been brighter than it is today. A fairly good yield of cotton together with a fairly good price for the staple should bring about a healthy financial condition over this section, and Munday's trade territory should be extended far beyond this immediate community.

With the immense stock of high grade merchandise, with the facilities to render a service in practically every line, Munday offers many inducements as a trading point that are exceptional, and it is merely up to the business concerns of this city to point out their individual capabilities to serve.

Our trade territory, for the first time in history, has been extended—or should be extended—north of the Brazos river. Never before have the citizens of that section of the county had access to Munday as a trading point, and we believe it is up to the business concerns of this city to extend an invitation to our new neighbors to come here for their requirements.

And our issue next week will be directed largely toward increasing our trade territory. It can be done. But certainly it will not be done unless some effort is made in that direction, and the time is at hand when Munday should at least signify its ambition for new and additional business.

Several hundred extra copies of next week's issue will be printed and distributed throughout that territory that has recently been placed several miles closer to Munday by the building of the new bridge, and other sections as well, and we are expecting the full co-operation of our business concerns in placing Munday's message and invitation in their hands.

These cars stand up!

EVERY General Motors car is built to represent General Motors quality and value throughout its life. Whether its potential mileage is to be used up by one owner or several owners makes no difference.

That is the reason for the high resale value of the current series of the General Motors cars. It is also the reason why USED General Motors cars offer real opportunities.

General Motors dealers are dependable merchants and will give you, if you wish to buy out of income, the advantage of the low rates of the GMAC Plan of time payment.

A PATRIOTIC CREED

"The American's Creed," adopted by Congress in 1919, is not well known to the citizens of the country as it should be. This creed was selected through a contest, open to all Americans, for the purpose of securing "the best summary of the political faith of America." The author of the successful manuscript was Wm. Tyler Page, a descendant of President Tyler.

The phrases composing it are taken from the Preamble and the Constitution of the United States, the Declaration of Independence, the Oath of Allegiance and from utterances of distinguished patriots, all woven together into a complete and lofty sentiment, as follows:

"I believe in the United States of America as a Government of the people, by the people, for the people; whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in a republic; a sovereign Nation of many sovereign States; a perfect union, one and inseparable; established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes.

"I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it; to support its Constitution; to obey its laws; to respect its flag, and to defend it against all enemies."

TEN HEALTH RULES

While not particularly original, the ten commandments of health suggested by Miss Maria Leonard, dean of women at the University of Illinois, are worthy of consideration. She says:

"Eat less; chew more. Ride less; walk more. Clothe less; bathe more. Worry less; work more. Idle less; play more. Talk less; think more. Go less; sleep more. Waste less; give more. Scold less; laugh more. Preach less; practice more."

There is a pretty good lot of advice in the above forty words, which are worth going over several times, giving thought to each suggestion. Better observance of these rules would tend to promote health and consequently a longer and more useful life.

VICTIMS OF DELUSION

From India comes news of further human life sacrificed to superstition. The young son of a native official fell sick and was thought to be possessed of the devil, whereupon it was sought to appease a local goddess and exercise the devil by offering up the lad's sister as a sacrifice, which was done.

The boy failed to respond to this vicarious treatment, so he was bound naked near a holy place and allowed to die of starvation and exposure.

The boy's father and two brothers were sentenced to death for the crime and his sister-in-law was given life imprisonment.

While such proceedings appear heathenish to us today, and they certainly are heathenish, we may reflect that equally atrocious crimes were committed at Salem, Massachusetts, at the instigation of a president of Harvard University, Rev. Increase Mather, and his son, Rev. Cotton Mather, in 1692.

With the horrible Salem witchcraft delusion in mind, we should not condemn the benighted natives of India too severely.

SUCCESS STANDARDS

Everyone leaves behind some impression on the world, whether for good or evil. Often what the world calls success during a person's lifetime turns to dross in the final accounting. Mere accumulation of wealth is a poor standard by which to judge the usefulness of one's life.

When the late Franklin D. Lane, former Secretary of the Interior, died in 1921, it was said that he left no estate whatever. Yet he was one of the finest public servants who ever graced a President's cabinet.

The estate of the late Samuel Gompers amounted to only about $30,000, an insignificant sum in this age of multi-millionaires, but the influence of his work will be felt for generations yet to come.

Hundreds of instances may be recalled in which men who have made a powerful impression on the world have died comparatively poor in material possessions.

After all, the most priceless legacy one may leave to his family and to his country is a record of duty well performed. While material success is not to be despised, it should never be sought through the sacrifice of ideals.

Service to humanity is of more consequence than the accumulation of wealth, and true success depends upon what we contribute to the betterment of our fellow men.

NO CAUSE FOR ALARM

There exists in this country today two widely differing classes of publicists, who speak and write of war and peace. Fortunately, both classes agree that war is a bad thing and peace a good thing, but their views as to how peace may be best preserved are far apart.

One class urges preparedness in the form of surpassing armaments as the only safeguard, while the other advocates refusal to engage in war under any circumstances.

The common sense view is somewhere between these two extremes. We must have protection against possible aggression, yet we should diligently impress on our statesmen the fact that our people, especially the common people who bear the brunt, are thoroughly tired of war.

Much injury is being done to our reputation as a peace-loving nation by undue agitation for extensive military preparedness. Our army and navy experts are keeping abreast of the times in their technical studies and experiments, as they should do, but the country is in no mood to stand for excessive expenditures for armaments which may be obsolete in a few years. There is nothing to get excited about just now.

CALAMITY CRY IS OLD

In a recent sermon, a New Jersey pastor made a statement that sounds quite familiar, as follows:

"There is lawlessness everywhere. Children no longer obey their parents. It is evident that the end of the age is at hand."

Then the pastor told his congregation that the words were not original with him, not even an utterance of the present day. They were translated from an inscription on a brick found in the ruins of ancient Assyria, dating centuries before the time of the patriarch Abraham.

Records which have been preserved during all periods of recorded history give evidence of similar conditions existing in the world. Sometimes an improvement is noted; again lawlessness and violence become more prevalent than ever.

While present day conditions are bad enough, it seems that on the whole they are better than in the past. There is more thought given to the relief of suffering, to the betterment of industrial conditions, to mutual helpfulness and like matters of benefit to humanity than in former times.

Although the world war gave civilization a severe setback in some respects, we must remember that war has marked the history of every generation of mankind. The same is true of lawlessness, oppression and every other manifestation of immorality.

These will always exist in greater or less degree, so long as good and evil struggle for mastery in the hearts and minds of men.

KNOW YOUR RABBITS

In life the rabbit is looked upon as a most ordinary species of the animal kingdom, but after death he may rise to a high dignity, according to the government biological survey, which has issued a warning to purchasers of fur garments with fancy names.

The poor little cotton-tail is the source of many wonderful furs, according to the survey's report, and his modest covering is now sold under the following names: American seal, Arctic seal, cape seal, clipped seal, ermine fox, French seal, Northern seal, Polar seal, mouse seal, new seal and a few others.

Purchasers of furs are urged to become acquainted with the texture and other characteristics of the rabbit's pelt, so that they may not be fooled by the high-sounding names under which it is now sold to the unsuspecting public.

To avoid deception, you must not only "know your onions," but must also know your rabbits.

SNAPPY STUFF

Mrs. Carmen Dandano of Jersey City, recently divorced, said bad luck had followed her since a black cat ate her wedding breakfast in 1912 and her husband thrashed her in the presence of their wedding guests.

Frightened by rats when she went to the cellar to kill herself, Miss Eleanor Sogley, of Cleveland screamed and fled, also gave up her suicide plans.

Twenty women nurses at a hospital in Enfield, England, were given permission to smoke, after threatening to strike if the privilege were not granted. Police were called by a woman in Reading, Pa., who wanted them to make a 14-year-old son take his cough medicine.

John Harrington, of London, worked four days after his neck was dislocated by a falling stone and is now recovering in a hospital.

Four policemen searching for liquor in the home of William Jacobs in Toledo were forced to flee when attacked by a pet bear.

Mike Flood and Mike Grapp, cellmates at Pittsburg jail, engaged in a fist fight over the solution of a cross-word puzzle.

A white whale which had traveled 300 miles from its habitat in the Arctic ocean was seen in the Mackenzie river near Ft. Good Hope, Canada.

After an aeroplane flight to a height of 3,500 feet, Miss Gwendolin Caswell, of Chicago, a deaf mute since three years of age, was able to hear and talk.

"Snoozer Boy", a former alley cat won first prize at a New York cat show recently.

A Texas man, who has, for two years, run a hotel in which guests leave lodging money in a box on the counter, says he has only been beaten out of $2 in that time.

Mrs. Catherine Wellers, an English woman, has started a campaign against ministers who "wiggle around in their pulpits" while preaching.

When a Cleveland doctor answered a call to see a sick boy, he found the "boy" to be 76 years old. The father, 95, had telephoned.

Though living apart, Mrs. M. L. Emerick, of Lancaster, Pa. was a clerk for her husband until he fired her recently, when she sued and was awarded alimony.

Mrs. Martha Wallace of London, keeps a 9-foot pet snake as a guard for her household valuables.

Half an hour after he resigned from the Philadelphia police force, Vincent Kee robbed two men. He received an 8-year sentence.

Although he got away with only 60 cents, W. C. Thunder-buck got ten years in the penitentiary for robbing a bank in Texas.

Robbers used their teeth in removing rings worn by Mrs. W. J. Fox, of New York, badly lacerating two of her fingers.

A typewriter of white enamel and gold, with ivory keys, is owned by the Queen of Spain.

Homer Vorles, of Auburn, Cal., got in bad when he placed letters to two of his wives in the wrong envelopes; now he is said to have married 28 women.

The Livestock Situation

Los Angeles, Sept. 12.—The population of the city of Los Angeles has increased from a half million in 1917 to one and one-quarter million in 1927 and the population of the county from eight hundred thousand in 1917 to two and one-quarter million. Value of manufactured products has increased from two hundred million to one and one-quarter billion and the number of factories from twenty-five hundred to fifty-eight hundred; more than double in ten years. This all means consumer demand which is so essential to agricultural producers, particularly livestock, in the whole territory lying West of the Rocky Mountains and even beyond. For instance, last month nearly one half of the hogs required to meet the Los Angeles demand came from as far east as Kansas and Nebraska.

Amount of wool shorn in the United States in 1927 is eleven million pounds greater than in 1926. Production will total 272 million pounds and represents the largest clip since 1911. This increase is due to the larger number of sheep shorn which is general throughout the country. All of the important sheep states except Montana show an increase over last year.

Since 1912 the number of horses on the farms has declined from twenty million to twelve million head. During that period the number of automobiles has increased from one million to eighteen million. This situation has brought about an important readjustment as, of course, the crops required to feed eight million head of horses may be turned to other uses and, no doubt, the land released in this way has largely been diverted toward producing more meat food animals to take care of the constantly increasing consumer demand.

With the beginning of the movement of cattle from the Intermountain and northwestern states to the Pacific Coast markets indications are that the industry is facing at least several months of stable prices. This movement which continues until the California feed lot cattle commence to move as a rule is orderly and a better balanced distribution is had than during the months when the Western grass cattle move. In passing through the marketing period of feed lot cattle it is possible to better gauge the supply to the demand than during the grass season when cattle must be moved when they are ready regardless of conditions. This, of course, is another reason in favor of spreading the grass cattle supply throughout the year by the utilization of supplemental feeds.

Los Angeles, Calif.—A great many interesting replies have been received by J. A. McNaughton, Vice-President and General Manager of the Los Angeles Union Stock Yards, to letters sent out to bankers, editors, chambers of commerce, etc., along the lines of encouraging more California hog production to meet the constantly growing consumer demand which is being filled largely from distant points.

One of the questionnaires, returned by A. M. Price, President of the City National Bank of Huntington Park, California, states as follows:

"I have 480 acres of land planted to corn and small grain with 200 hogs and 100 cattle but it's in Iowa. D— it!"

McNaughton states that at present less than 10 per cent of the pork requirements of California are supplied from within the state and that the bulk of the demand is supplied by shipments from as far east as the Missouri River and that only a small percentage of hogs required are furnished by states west of the Rocky Mountains.

It seems to have been proven conclusively that the marketing opportunities on the Pacific Coast for porkers more than justify an increase in production on the part of the Western producers both in the interest of adding a profitable diversification to agricultural operations and the economical maintenance of soil fertility.

ABOUT WOMEN

Mrs. Anna Newman, of Boston, Nev., is one of the four women trappers employed by the United States Government to exterminate animal pests.

In six years she has caught more than 400, including mountain lions, bob cats, lynxes and coyotes, in her steel traps.

Mrs. Meischke Smith, of Boldre, England, has developed a profitable industry by raising white angora rabbits for their wool, which is used in trimming women's garments.

Miss Sarah Frodgant, 24, of New York City, is organizer for the garment workers in a district in which 20,000 girls are employed.

Miss S. E. McPhee, formerly art instructor at the old New York University, is still active as a painter at the age of 78.

Miss Julia Stimson was the first woman to hold the actual rank of major in the United States army, as head of the army nurse corps. She received a medal for valor during the war.

Miss Mina Van Winkle is a lieutenant in charge of the women's division of the Washington police force and is past president of the International Association of Police women.

Miss Gora Ruvim hold one of the most confidential positions under the government, as secretary of the foreign relations committee of the United States Senate.

"RETURN OF PETER GRIMM" AT PEOPLES THEATRE SEPT. 21-22ND

Of the great interest to local theatre patrons is the announcement that Fox Films version of David Belasco's outstanding stage triumph, "Return of Peter Grimm," will come to the Peoples Theatre for a two day engagement beginning Wednesday 21st.

"Can the dead return and commune with the living. This is the question with which the intense drama deals. The picture is bound to cause considerable controversy, to say the least. In addition, there is as tender a love story as has ever been unfolded on the silver sheet.

Alec B. Francis, who knows no peers in the realm of character actors, plays the title role. The selection of Mr. Francis by the Fox officials was indeed a happy one. Critics who have previewed the production declare that the veteran character actor rises to great heights as Peter Grimm. An interesting sidelight is that Francis has always cherished the opportunity of bringing to the screen the role made famous on the speaking stage by David Warfield.

Janet Gaynor, fascinating little ingenue who has appeared with much success in "The Johnstown Flood," "The Midnight Kiss" and other Fox films productions, and Richard Walling, handsome young juvenile who won fame in "The Midnight Kiss" and "Marriage License" plays opposite Janet.

Victor Schertzinger, who directed "The Lily" in such masterly fashion, wielded the megaphone during the picturization of "The Return of Peter Grimm."

Bradley King wrote the screen play.

You Should Buy Your Chevrolet Car From Us

BECAUSE

We Serve After We Sell

After all, an automobile is a piece of Machinery.

What happens to it during the first three or four months of its life is of vital importance.

We never forget that. We impress it on the minds of all who buy Chevrolet cars from us, because of the interest we feel in the pleasure and satisfaction they will derive from their purchase.

Thru our service department we keep a close eye on every new car that passes into the hands of owners. We make it our business to see that these cars are prepared and tuned for a long journey of uninterupted service.

It's the start that your car gets that very largely determines the end. That is why it is a rock ribbed policy of this company to SERVE AFTER WE SELL.

Drop in to see us sometimes thru our back door, and see how well equipped we are to live up to this policy.

Then ask yourself if it is not wise to buy at home where the interest of the dealer and customer are mutual.

Many a man has been hurt by going and buying a bargain.

We buy, sell and trade all over Knox County.

THE BIGGEST MAN IN TOWN

Who is the biggest man in our town? Is he our leading capitalist or banker; is he the sheriff or is he the star pitcher on our team? If not, maybe the biggest man in our town is the new minister or then it might be the mayor.

The biggest man in our town may be any one of these but not BECAUSE he is a banker or the sheriff or the mayor. In fact, he may not hold any office at all and it is possible that lots of people couldn't even guess who he is because he may not be very noisy about it.

The biggest man in our town is the man who is thinking the most about and doing the most to help the town grow larger, cleaner, better and happier. He is thinking and working for the town as a whole and not entirely for his own little business or career.

The biggest man in town is not afraid to see more shops here for fear of competition. The biggest man in town knows that if our town is better paved, better lighted and more sanitary, the taxes spent on such improvements are not a loss but an investment which will attract more business of the right sort just as his advertisement is an investment that attracts.

The biggest man in our town believes in the Golden Rule and practices it in his business and in his community life. He believes that as an American and as a Christian he has a ministry to perform toward his city as a whole.

YOU may be the biggest man in our town!

Music Lures High School Students

One in Three of Denver Pupils Trained by Private Instructors

Elkhart, Ind.—More boys and girls of high school age are seriously studying music today than ever before. Information reaching the Conn Music Center here indicates an unusually high degree of interest in music by secondary school pupils.

An example of conditions said to be representative of the country is to be found in Denver, according to the Music Center, where the ratio of students studying music is one in three. A report on 1,740 high school pupils by J. C. Kendall, director of music in the Denver schools, showed that 623 were studying music under private instructors.

Loveless Drug Co. "A Good Place To Trade"

There's Nothing Sensational About our business. We're selling lots of groceries to lots of people, and making a little money all along on the goods we sell—not much—but a little, and the big part of our success lies in the fact that we sell lots of groceries, for folks who once trade with us find that we're mighty hard to beat in prices and in quality, always selling everything at a reasonable price.
