

W. LEE O'DANIEL WINS U. S. SENATE RACE

They Quit Today!

Legislature Will End Longest Session At 6:00 p.m.

The 47th Texas Legislature has gotten together on a quitting time. Legislators voted to end its general session today, and stamped approval on the state's biggest biennial spending program in history, as well as ending the longest session in history.

Agreement to terminate the general session Thursday at 6 p.m. pitched both houses into feverish drives to clear calendars of as much legislation as possible before the final gavel sounded.

The senate also authorized a standing committee to investigate any "elections which might be in violation" of state laws as a result of the special U.S. senatorial election of last Saturday.

In spite of the fuss that this session of the legislature "has done nothing," it has authorized expenditure of more than $146,000,000 in the two-year period beginning September 1 for budgetary operating expenses, social security benefits and new governmental services.

The 47th legislature had a stormy session in which it turned down the governor's proposal for financing old age pensions and other social security measures and passed a measure of their own. The legislative body has also overridden the governor's veto on a number of measures, possibly more than at any other session.

O'Daniel Leads In Knox County

Official Returns Of Election Announced

Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel, who received a plurality vote in the U.S. Senate race last Saturday, also leads his opponents in Knox county, according to official returns of the election announced Wednesday. O'Daniel received a total of 470 by J. C. Patterson, county judge.

After trailing for two days as returns were tabulated, O'Daniel snatched the lead from Congressman Lyndon Johnson early Tuesday and from that time continued to splurge ahead as the "votes from the forks of the creek" were being counted.

The dramatic finish of a hard-fought campaign showed O'Daniel leading Johnson by 1,095 votes in the final official tabulation. Bob Johnson, election bureau manager, said all returns had been checked and double-checked, but cautioned there was always chance of error.

Johnson was generally conceded the victory for two days as he rolled along with a lead of from 4,000 to 5,000 votes. The election bureau said Sunday, when 15,000 ballots were still out, that only a miracle could pull O'Daniel through.

Johnson carried the major cities of the state, but the "miracle" happened when the vote started coming in from the rural areas—from the "forks of the creeks."

The bureau tabulated 571,095 votes, and the final count stood as follows: O'Daniel, 175,368; Johnson, 174,273; Mann, 140,853; Dies, 80,601. Tabulation was stopped on the numerous minor candidates when it was determined they had no chance of being elected.

As he began his return trip to Washington, Johnson indicated on Tuesday afternoon that he would not protest the returns but would abide by the official count.

The result of the election will not be official until a canvass is made by the state election board. The board is composed of the governor, attorney general and secretary of state.

Johnson Says He Won't Protest

O'Daniel Lead Gains As Results Arrive On Late Reports

According to final tabulation of Texas votes by the Texas Election Bureau, which yet remain unofficial, Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel will be Texas' junior senator in the U.S. Congress.

After trailing for two days as returns were tabulated, O'Daniel snatched the lead from Congressman Lyndon Johnson early Tuesday and from that time continued to splurge ahead as the "votes from the forks of the creek" were being counted.

"What a Man Does For Himself Dies With Him—
What He Does For His Community Lives On and On"—

MEETING THE TEST AGAIN

The American automobile industry, during the greater part of the present century, proved itself a real leader in applying the idea of mass production to the widening distribution of jobs, payrolls and useful goods among the people of this country. Now, the record demonstrates, it is again showing leadership in facing the new situation created by our present defense leadership.

A few years ago the manufacture of a passenger car depended almost exclusively upon materials which have today become because of armament needs, "critical" or "strategic." But even then, with typical foresight, automobile companies were seeking out acceptable substitutes for the materials then in use.

Since defense assumed the center of the stage, this process has been accelerated. As a result the motor car companies can now show remarkable savings in items like steel, nickel, zinc, and aluminum, which they formerly considered indispensable.

Typical of the savings achieved is the following program of one large company: A reduction in the magnesium for each car from one-half pound to .006 pound; in nickel, from over two pounds to .32 pound; in zinc from 35 to 23.1 pounds per car, with further savings indicated. In the case of aluminum, 4.31 pounds, including more than a pound of the primary grade, were formerly needed in each car—now all the aluminum used is of secondary grade, far less important to defense.

These changes are being effected with only slightly increased costs and without any sacrifice of quality. They demonstrate American research and engineering ingenuity at their very highest pitch. And best of all, they are an example of the voluntary effort that is the democratic form of patriotism, and that can "out-think" and out-perform the method of force and oppression in any kind of test!

ONE CUP OF WATER

It has been said that one cup of water will put out any fire if it is applied at the right time. This year's wave of defense strikes, culminating in the use of armed forces to put a struck aviation plant back to work, inevitably recalls the old proverb.

The origins of the present trouble, which threatens the national security, are all too painfully apparent when the record of the past few years is reviewed.

A cup of water? Responsible authorities might have put out the fire back in 1937, when the "sit-down" strikes first made their appearance. There was a clear-cut violation of property rights, allowed to run its damaging and illegal course until public condemnation brought about the abandonment of the technique.

A cup of water? It could have been applied in the case of the one-sided Wagner Labor Relations Act, which was based on the theory that management was wrong in all industrial disputes. As far back as 1938, survey figures show, 70 per cent of the public wanted this one-legged legislation revised. But right up to the present time all suggested remedial amendments to the Act have been sidetracked by administration adherents.

Through these and many other cases of neglect, the conflagration has been allowed to spread. Now Walter D. Fuller, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, suggests three remedies:

1. A revamping of our national labor policy, including the Wagner Act, to end mass picketing and other forms of intimidation so as to guarantee both management and labor the right to work.

2. Backing up this policy with local and state law enforcement instead of "dramatizing everything into a national issue."

3. Assuring employees the right to vote by secret ballot on strike issues. (A recent poll showed 78 per cent of union members themselves in favor of secret ballots.)

Such a constructive program could go far towards reducing the present difficulties to a minimum. The cup of water applied at an earlier time might have prevented today's fires; and the fact remains that now, when defense needs make a solution imperative, the same type of treatment is still best!

SENATOR HOUSTON

At the advanced age attained by Andrew J. Houston, death is an incident that any man could expect. It is improbable that the excitement attendant on his removal to Washington to fill the vacant seat of the late Morris Sheppard can have materially hastened his end. It was possibly gratifying to the only surviving son of Sam Houston that he could die in the post once held by his great father. It is a dramatic coincidence that death strikes on the eve of the election to fill the post for the remainder of the Sheppard term.

No criticism has ever been implied in these columns of Andrew Houston himself, a colorful figure carrying a portraiture of the past courageously into the present. It was, nevertheless, a mistake for Governor O'Daniel to select him for the vacancy, this because his extreme age made it impossible for him to function in an unfamiliar position at a time when Texas and the nation alike needed active representation. To Senator Houston's credit, he tried. He died trying.—Dallas Morning News.

CONGRESS MUST NOT FAIL

Congress is now working on a measure which will have much to do with determining the future welfare of every citizen of this country—and of the country itself. That measure is the new tax bill.

This bill, as the New York Times points out in a fine editorial, "must not merely raise a large amount of revenue. It must raise the revenue in such a way as to safeguard our economy from the price dislocations inherent in a rearmament program . . ."

"In the case of individual income taxes, the desired objectives call for higher rates and a broadening of the tax base so as to include a large number of those citizens, now exempt, who will receive a major portion of the government increased contribution to purchasing power through higher wages and increased employment. . . . On the score of excess profits taxes the main question is to devise a basis for taxation that will really hit excess profits and not those normal profits, already subject to large taxes, which are essential to the proper maintenance of industry. The Treasury's suggestion of a single formula for calculating excess profits, based on average rate of return on invested capital, would not accomplish this."

In any time, the power to tax is the power to destroy. In these disordered times, that power, if misused, can be infinitely more destructive. If we tax the profit out of business, it will mean, in the long run, that we tax business out of business. It will mean that industry will no longer have the financial nourishment which is essential to keeping it alive. It will mean, therefore, a collapse of our productive capacity.

Congress' job is to raise the revenue we need without endangering the very life of productive industry. Congress must not fail.

DANGER AT HOME

As a people, we Americans do things in a mysterious way. We will do all in our power to help release foreign nations from the hands of dictators. Then we will accept a labor policy here at home which, if not corrected, will nullify all the help we seek to extend to others.

The list of defense industries that have been or are struck is too long to enumerate. Take but one as an example, the Southern coal mines. Without coal, our defense efforts would be paralyzed. It is estimated that there is only a 15 days supply of coal above ground. The mines were closed through April with one strike. Yet labor leaders threaten another coal strike to enforce demands, instead of accepting arbitration.

The President's declaration of a national emergency may prevent it. But all the people have suffered and stand to suffer more from such methods.

There are different types of national undermining. Our nation's safety is endangered by the domestic as well as the foreign brand.—The Haskell Press.

The amount of money that the United States has already spent on defense is estimated at twice the value of all the farmlands in the original 13 states.

Fourth of Costs Of Education Paid By Oil Industry

Dallas, Texas—If your boy or girl went to public school in Texas last year, one-fourth of the cost of his or her education came from the Texas petroleum industry.

In terms of school children, that is what a report just compiled by the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association shows. Or, to put it another way, if a family has four children, the entire expense of schooling one of them last year was paid by Texas oilmen. On a statewide basis that means that one-fourth, or nearly 390,000 Texas school children out of the state's 1,536,910, were educated last year entirely by taxes paid by the petroleum industry.

The association's report, compiled from official records of the state Comptroller and assessor-collectors of Texas independent school districts, shows that last year petroleum paid $22,652,912 in taxes used for school purposes. That's 25.36 per cent, or slightly over one-fourth, of Texas public school taxes, amounting to $89,320,415.

Petroleum's percentage was even higher in the matter of the state's special contribution to the public schools. Thirty-two percent, or virtually one-third of the entire state apportionment for each child was borne by the petroleum industry, the report shows. Petroleum paid the same percentage of rural aid funds and about one-fifth of rural high school funds.

"Every school child in Texas is able to get a better education today because of Texas petroleum," the association report points out. Although the figures show that the average cost of educating a Texas boy or girl last year was $58.12, many independent school districts in or near oil fields spent several times this amount. Some of these expended as much as $185, or $246, or even $271 for each pupil.

depot. Business houses along both sides of the street were flooded. In some instances dikes were erected which kept the water out.

Texas Colleges Offering Courses In Special Training for Defense Work

Austin—Special training for national defense industries is being given to 12,644 Texans in an educational program designed to provide skilled workers in rapid order, according to James R. D. Eddy, State Director of National Defense Training.

With Texas defense work constantly increasing, it is estimated that 17,500 additional skilled workmen will be needed in vital defense industries before another year has passed. The demand for shipbuilders is particularly strong in Texas. A total of 103 vessels, costing an aggregate of $181,142,425, are now under construction or on order in Texas shipyards at Beaumont, Orange and Houston.

Eighty-five per cent of trainees who have completed national defense courses in Texas have found employment," Eddy stated. The placement of men in state industries is handled by the Texas State Employment Service.

The National Defense Training Program is coordinated in Washington through the United States Office of education. It is sponsored in Texas by the State Board for Vocational Training and conducted locally through the public schools. Cooperative training programs are also conducted with the National Youth Administration for their enrollees.

The type of training to be given in each locality is determined by a local advisory committee, which strives to plan a course of instruction most likely to lead to immediate employment.

Of the 8,696 in training, the work in Texas is divided into these units: 2,567 persons in adult pre-employment training in 124 classes; 4,446 in adult supplementary classes for people now employed in 206 classes; 1,740 out-of-school youths in 99 specific training classes; and 3,898 NYA youths enrolled in 178 industrial classes.

The courses in welding, with 1,575 enrolled, and in machine shop, with 1,448 enrolled, are most popular. Other courses include aviation sheet metal, sheet metal, aircraft mechanics, automobile mechanics, radio, aviation engines, wood boat-building, electricity, marine pipe-fitting, ship layout, ship-fitting, mold lofting, blueprint reading, drafting, armature, blacksmith, related mathematics, cooking and baking.

In cooperation with NYA, the Homemaking division has 4,100 girl members enrolled in homemaking courses.

Defense courses are also offered at Texas University, Southern Methodist University, Texas Technological College, Texas A. and M. College, and the College of the Mines. In the nation, 75,000 young men are registered in college defense courses.

Defense training courses are also offered in army camps located at San Antonio, San Angelo, El Paso and Galveston.

Trainees do not receive a salary, but their tuition is free. Men are certified for training by the Texas State Employment Service and the Work Projects Administration. Persons interested in enrolling in a defense course should apply at the local employment office.

"There has been splendid cooperation of all Agencies," Eddy said. "The NYA, the employers, organized labor, the public schools, the CCC, and the Employment Service have contributed their time and energy in making the programs successful."

County Supt. Merick McGaughey of Benjamin was a business visitor here the first of this week.

Fire Prevention Week is Every Day

President Bernard M. Culver of the American Fire Insurance and Indemnity Group, in an address to the top executives assembled at a dinner in the Union Club, New York, recently, pointed out that although it has been the custom of the insurance industry to stress fire prevention during the week of October 9th each year, in this time of national emergency, it is imperative that fire prevention be stressed every day and every minute of the day.

"This is vitally necessary from a patriotic viewpoint and the need for conserving our national resources," said Mr. Culver. "It is also of great importance to every manufacturer, merchant and property owner, that they take the utmost care and be constantly on the alert to prevent fires in their plants, stores and homes, because even if their insurance might give them dollars with which to buy, they still may be unable to replace that which is destroyed. The inability of a business not engaged in the production of essential war materials to get replacement of machinery or stock, could well result in the destruction of that business. Even though insurance might cover their present property, a destructive fire could still ruin them. The home owner will find that he will not be able to replace many things destroyed and as well, find it difficult and more expensive to rebuild."

"I urge you," said Mr. Culver, "as insurance men charged with the responsibility of guarding the public against financial loss from fire and other catastrophes to consider it your duty to impress this point upon every property owner, so that their increased vigilance will not only cut down our annual fire waste and conserve our resources for important defense production, but also conceivably save them from serious financial loss."

Mrs. Lula Hammock of O'Donnell, Texas, is here for a visit in the home of Mrs. W. E. Hammock.

Flea Hoppers Damaging Cotton Crops Of County

Flea hoppers are damaging cotton crops, according to reports reaching the county agents' office during the past week.

R. N. Smith of Vera reported that his cotton was not putting on squares, which is a very good indication that flea hoppers are at work.

E. B. Shaver, who is working 484 acres of cotton west of Benjamin, has made plans to dust his cotton with sulphur when the ground dries up enough to do this work.

The Department of Agriculture has made the following recommendations regarding the control of the cotton flea hoppers:

1. Examine weekly the terminal buds beginning when cotton plants have from 6 to 8 leaves.
2. If flea hoppers are present in damaging numbers, small blackened, dead squares less than one-fourth inch in size will be observed, also young hoppers in the terminal buds will be seen.
3. Dusting should be started when flea damage is observed on one plant out of ten consecutive plants examined, or when 20 flea hoppers are present on the terminal buds of 100 consecutive plants.
4. Use 10 pounds of dusting sulphur per acre, applied in the morning before the wind rises, regardless of dew. This rate is sufficient for small, young cotton. Large cotton requires 12 to 15 pounds per acre.
5. Sulphur should be applied at weekly intervals until squares one-quarter inch in size are numerous. Sulphur will continue to be effective for a week if not washed off by rain.
6. Two or three dustings should set a crop of squares. More dustings may be required if showery weather prevails.
7. Sulphur dust will kill young flea hoppers within 24 hours after applying if not washed off by rain.
8. Flea hopper usually attack young, rapid-growing, tender cotton and are not so likely to be destructive on slow growth or heavily-fruiting cotton.
9. In many cases a mixture of 1 part of calcium arsenate and 2 parts of sulphur will control the flea hopper and the cotton leaf worm.

10. Leaf worms are best controlled by a spray, using 4 ponds of water or 3 ponds of calcium arsenate to 50 gallons of water.

"I believe that Knox county farmers can use this information to an advantage," County Agent Walter Rice said. "It seems that cotton crops will be greatly damaged if all kinds of insects are not controlled."

"Sulphur is available at the Munday Cotton Oil Co., and sells for 2½ cents per pound. Estimating 10 pounds per acre, it will cost about 25 cents per acre for sulphur alone and the cotton will require at least two treatments. Without treating the cotton, the yield is reduced by half."

"According to experiment station figures, last year Knox county had an average yield of better than one third of a bale per acre. It seems that sulphur costs should be money well spent if the yield can be doubled."

P.C.A. Directors To Attend Meet Held in Abilene

Directors of the Stamford Production Credit Association and J. L. Hill, Jr., Secretary-Treasurer, plan to attend a conference on July 10 and 11 at Abilene, according to J. B. Pumphrey, Old Glory, Texas, farmer-stockman, who is president of the Association. Other directors are as follows: J. F. McCulloch, Stamford; Clark Forbis, Afton; C. G. Burson, Haskell; Lasater Hensley, Guthrie.

Mr. Pumphrey said that Credit would be the subject and that the discussions would be led by John H. Seale, Jr., vice-president of the Production Credit Corporation of Houston, and his assistant, Sam N. Hardy.

Directors and secretary-treasurers of the Stephenville, Sweetwater and Wichita Falls Production Credit Associations will also attend this conference.

Cotton Stamp Plan Asked For By 12 Stores

Twelve Knox county stores have made application to handle cotton stamps for Knox county farmers. The following are those making applications:

Carl Dry Goods Co., Goree; Campbell Variety Store, Munday; H. N. Claus, Rhineland; Cure Grocery, Gilliland; The Fair Store, and The Economy Store, Munday; Knox City Hardware, Knox City; Malouf Dry Goods, Knox City; Perry Bros., Inc., Munday; J. T. May, Knox City; Truscott Merc. Co., Truscott, and White Mercantile, Knox City.

A meeting was held in the county agent's office Monday afternoon, June 30, at which time applications were taken.

D. G. Guthrie, with the Surplus Marketing Administration, gave some important information pertaining to the operation of the program.

The county AAA office recently received $10,000 worth of cotton stamps which will be issued to cotton growers that have made voluntary reduction from their cotton acreage allotments as soon as their farms have been measured and it has been determined that the farms qualify for cotton stamps. The stamps will begin to be delivered to producers about July 25.

Overplanting Of Cotton Crop To Bring Penalty

Cotton farmers of Knox county who are issued red marketing cards because they have overplanted their 1941 cotton acreage allotment will be required to pay a penalty on the excess cotton they market equivalent to one-half the basic loan rate for cotton, Marvin Allen, secretary of the Knox county A.C.A. has announced.

The penalty on cotton for the 1941-42 marketing year had been set at 3 cents per pound but a recent amendment to the Agricultural Adjustment Act has increased this penalty.

The exact amount of the penalty cannot be determined at this time, Mr. Allen continued, since the basic loan rate for cotton has not been set for Texas, but it probably will be about 7 cents per pound.

"The state AAA office at College Station has notified us of this new AAA amendment and also will advise us as to the exact amount of penalty per pound when the basic loan rate is received," the ACA official announced.

Texas Leads In Farmers Co-ops

College Station.—More cooperatives have been established in Texas since 1930 than in any other state, a recent survey by the Houston Bank for Co-operatives and the Farm Credit Administration shows. In the opinion of C. E. Bowles, extension specialist in organization and co-operative marketing, one-third of the Texas farm and ranch families now are members of one or more of the state's 840 co-operatives.

"Co-operatives give individual farmers the benefit of volume in their selling, buying and processing operations," Bowles says. "The prospects are that producers will find it desirable to make a still wider use of joint action to bolster their shrunken incomes and to protect themselves in a highly organized business world."

The earliest concentration of co-operatives came in the Panhandle-Plains country where there are many co-operative gins, grain elevators and purchasing associations. The area in which there is the most rapid development at present is in the north black-land belt. There are more than 80 farmers co-operatives with 60 miles of Greenville, mostly cotton gins. Almost every section of the state where there are many farmers now has some co-operatives.

Much of this expansion occurred in the past five years, but there are a few farmers' co-operatives dating back 50 years. Some 30 of these farmers' business organizations have operated successfully for a quarter of a century.

Logically, Bowles says, the co-operatives established to gin cotton, crush cottonseed, and to market and warehouse the staple lead in number and membership. Other important groups are the rural

TEXAS SHIPMENTS OF LIVESTOCK INCREASE

Austin, Texas.—Shipments of livestock from Texas ranches to interstate points and the Fort Worth stockyards during May lagged 5.1 per cent behind those of May, 1940, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reports.

Shipments totaled 8,425 cars made up of 4,863 cars of cattle, 893 cars of calves, 1,045 cars of hogs and 1,624 cars of sheep.

Only hogs showed a gain over the corresponding month a year ago—34.7 per cent. Cattle declined only a fraction of 1 per cent, calves 25.2 per cent and sheep 29.4 per cent.

Total shipments for the first five months of 1941 were only 3.6 per cent under those of the similar period of 1940.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By Boyce House

Writing a "column" is no picnic. If you print jokes, people say you are silly; if you don't, they say you are too serious.

The recent reunion of Texas veterans of the Spanish War brings to mind a speech made at such a gathering by eloquent Ralph Yarborough of Austin:

"I am proud to be privileged to meet here today with Americans who searched over Fitzhugh Lee and Fighting Joe Wheeler in Cuba; who conquered Puerto Rico under General Nelson Miles; who captured Manila with General Merritt; who charged with Colonel Leonard Wood and Colonel Theodore Roosevelt and their Rough Riders at San Juan Hill; who sailed with Dewey at Manila and with Schley and Sampson at Santiago, and with Captain Philip on the battleship Texas, when he humanely said, 'Don't cheer boys, the poor devils are dying.'"

No mere summer patriots or sun shine soldiers could have endured the hardships. You fought with the black powder, impure food, antiquated guns and poor equipment. The heaviest death rate an American army has ever had in any war was your sacrifice.

You marched through the streets of cholera-ridden Philippine towns and struggled through yellow-fever-infested Cuban swamps more steadily than bullets from Spanish guns, but the abolition of yellow fever and the control of cholera are parts of your contribution to American civilization.

You took the oppressor's hands from the "Children of the Sea" and gave them the beneficent protection of the only great nation in the world that lives under a written constitution. When you placed the flag on an island's fortress, you aided the Bill of Rights in that island's courthouse.

By the Oregon's 17,000-mile voyage from San Francisco to Key West through the storm-tossed Strait of Magellan, you dramatized a dream and made the Panama Canal a reality.

Your devotion and bravery gave to this nation Porto Rico, Guam and the Philippines, Hawaii, and many smaller islands in many seas. The property value of these islands has been placed at eight billion dollars. But the worth of the property you won is incalculable in today's world. You gave the American navy resting places in two great oceans. Your islands are America's life belt. They protect the Panama Canal; they guard the crossroads of the Pacific. Without these fruits of your victories, Japan would be at our doorstep. With your victories, we have Japan on a leash.

You had the vision to secure islands suitable for air bases before the airplane was invented. Had these islands remained Spanish property, they would today be under the control of the Axis powers and would be a Damoclean sword over our national destiny.

You volunteered not alone for the struggle but for all time. You never retreated in battle; you will naturally oppose any retreat by the American flag today. Where your valor planted the flag, it must remain. There will be no Munich of the Monroe Doctrine. International freebooters who attempt to plow the Spanish Main with ships of terror and hate will find the spirit of Dewey and Schley and Sampson on guard.

This-and-that: Existence is filled with ironic enterprises. A Dallas newspaperman studied the life of Pancho Villa and was in the midst of writing a book when one day he saw a biography of the famous Mexican leader on sale—another writer had beaten him to the punch. Later the movies bought the film rights to the book for a fortune and my friend had to pay 50 cents to see a picture that could have meant thousands of dollars to him. A Texas admirer of thoroughbreds writes that Gen. Phil Sheridan was the first president of the American Jockey Club; Gen. U. S. Grant once served as presiding steward at a race meet; George Washington Andrew Jackson and Woodrow Wilson liked to see races. "Racing is a great sport, thousands of good citizens would like to see it come back to Texas," the letter concludes. . . Tom Watson of Georgia had a watermelon named for him. What a delicious form of fame—as my grandpa used to say.

Don Ferris and Dorse Rogers were visitors in San Angelo over the week end. While there, they visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Porter Bryap, former residents of Munday.

Mrs. E. N. Felty and son returned to their home in Celeste, Texas, last Sunday, after a visit here with Mrs. Felty's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Davy.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Harpham returned home last week after a visit in Brownwood. Mrs. Harpham visited her mother there for several weeks, and Mr. Harpham returned some ten days before they returned home.

Cedric Harrison of Seymour, business manager of the Baylor County Banner, was a brief visitor here Saturday. He was enroute to Big Spring to attend an executive board meeting of the West Texas Press Association.

Poultry A Billion-Dollar Industry

Poultry production, largely a by-product on more than 5,000,000 farms, is one of America's great billion-dollar industries, according to the results of the 1940 census.

Results of the 1940 survey show that of the 6,096,799 farms, 5,150,055 farms had 337,949,145 chickens on hand April 1, 1940, compared to 378,878,281 ten years earlier. Chicken production the year previous totaled 660,656,663, a reduction from the 673,093,052 raised in years before, despite a population increase of nearly nine million.

Eggs produced in 1939 totaled 2,391,091,510 dozens compared with 2,689,719,158 in 1929. The 1939 egg production was at the rate of over 18 dozen per capita of population. At 25 cents per dozen, the value of the annual egg crop alone would be nearly 600 million dollars, in addition to the cash value of the more than 660 million chickens raised.

Turkey production showed a substantial increase in the ten-year period. While only 389,352 farms raised turkeys in 1939, compared with 637,843 ten years earlier, the number of turkeys grown increased in the same period from 16,794,485 to 23,933,756. More than 12 million ducks were raised in 1939; 1,152,299 geese, and 948,755 guineas.

The great increase in turkey production occurred in the Northern and Pacific Coast states, where the number of birds produced was two and one-half times that of 1929. New England gained roughly 50 per cent in chicken production; the South Atlantic states increased over 40 per cent, and the Middle Atlantic States, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, gained about 10 per cent.

Declines in other sections were sufficient to reduce the national total below that of ten years ago.

Iowa raised the greatest number of chickens—43,405,028—and had the greatest number on farms on April 1, 1940—26,558,884. Texas was second in production with 36,103,068. Other leading poultry states ranked as follows: Illinois, 31,643,609; Missouri, 31,226,609; Ohio, 29,439,980; Minnesota, 28,301,790; Pennsylvania, 28,018,758; Indiana, 26, 946,663; and Califor-

BLUEBERRIES OR HUCKLEBERRIES?

What is the difference between big blueberries and huckleberries? It's a question I'm asked every year when blueberry season rolls around. Yes, there is a difference. But it's not a matter of size. The difference is in the seeds. Here's the way a botanist explains it.

If you cut a huckleberry crosswise through the middle you'll see ten large seeds set in a clearly defined ring. Each seed has a hard shell like a peach pit only smaller. These seeds crackle when you eat your huckleberries. On the other hand, while the blueberry has as many as twenty to forty seeds, they have no bony outer shell and they are so very tiny that many people think of blueberries as having no seeds at all.

Now Do You Like Them Best?

With this difference settled . . . we'll not argue which berry is the better eating because that's a matter of personal preference. Both make delicious pies with the rich purple juice oozing up over the tender flaky pastry from the fruity interior. You make them just as you make any berry pie . . . raspberry, blackberry, loganberry, etc.

Blueberry Muffins for Any Occasion

Next to the pies in popularity come the blueberry muffins. So tender and fluffy and fruity! They add a lot to any meal whether it be breakfast, supper or lunch, dinner . . . or afternoon tea. Here is an especially fine recipe:

BLUEBERRY MUFFINS

1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup fresh blueberries

Present-day Low Rates, Good Service, Tax Payments Earn Miss Ledbetter's Praise in Winning Letter

(The following letter accompanied Miss Ledbetter's "Old Bill" entry)

"Many wonderful improvements have been made since 1904. Then we had lights only costing five dollars monthly in advance. We used about ten kilowatt-hours, a rate about ten times as high as today.

"The West Texas Utilities since has become one of the finest institutions any town can have. They give the best of service. They've lowered the rate until today electricity is a small item compared to other living costs.

"They're worthwhile, essential citizens and taxpayers—taxes helpful in operating our city government, schools, and in maintaining streets and highways and for their individual support of churches and every worthwhile civic undertaking."

To learn the value of modern-day, improved Electric Service, ask those who remember when electric lights first came into usage. Miss Ledbetter's home was the second in Quanah to be wired. She recalls that: "The plant was very small and when we had a thunder storm, the lights went out and we used our coal-oil lamp which was always kept handy for these occasions." Electric bulbs were of 16 candle-power size. The Ledbetter home had ceiling drops with two of these tiny bulbs to the room. The cost of $5 monthly for lights alone compares to today's average cost of less than 10c a day in a majority of homes which also have irons, sweepers, radios, refrigerators, and other time- and labor-saving appliances.

TEXAS OUT-OF-DOORS

Don't Rock the Boat

Austin, Texas—The fishing and boating season is well under way. Texas has been fortunate in having a dearth of fatal accidents on lakes and streams, but the executive secretary of the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission is issuing his annual don't for fishermen and boaters. Observance of these simple rules by operators of all crafts, whether they be rowboats, canoes or larger boats, will do much in holding down the list of drownings:

Never overload a boat, nor allow occupants of a boat to stand up in it.

Do not use a motor of too large horsepower for the size of the boat. It is also unsafe to use a small horsepower motor on a large boat because in case of a storm the boat will be unmanageable.

Every boat should be equipped with one life preserver for each person in it, a fire extinguisher, lights, and good oars and paddles.

Every outboard motor should be equipped with a chain or good rope because motors will frequently come loose and be lost at the bottom of the lake or stream.

Never leave a motor unattended while it is running. The motor may give a quick turn and throw you into the water.

And most important of all: leave your bottle at home; alcohol and water do not mix.

Deer Not Very Chummy

Deer liberated on the Wardlaw restoration area of the Texas Game Department in Tom Green and Irion counties can hardly be called sociable, according to reports to the Austin office by game managers. The new deer seem to prefer their own company to that of the deer upon the area previous to their arrival, there being no evidence of the two groups associating in any way.

Alligator in West Texas

Alligators are common enough in Eastern Texas near the Louisiana line, and there are some in a few lakes on the coastal plains, but for one to be reported several consecutive years in Western Texas is unusual. The alligator, six or seven feet in length, inhabits Pecan Bayou near Brownwood. The latest group of persons reporting having seen it is composed of R. H. Adams, H. H. Crook, George H. Broughton and Dowling Adams, according to the Brownwood Bulletin.

Boost for No Length Limit

Texans who have long been advocating the lifting of the length limit on all species of fish can find encouragement in the recent report of the Virginia Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries. After a three season's trial the Commission has found its ruling abolishing a length limit on trout and providing a daily bag limit regardless of the length of the fish has met with the universal approval of anglers in that state.

When a length limit was in vogue, it was a common occurrence to observe dead undersized trout floating down the streams, these having been killed when caught and returned to the streams. It is believed by the Commission that a saving of at least 50 per cent has been accomplished.

The Commission met considerable opposition when it inaugurated the rule. However it was given a fair trial and today no opposition is being urged. The Commission is letting a non-length limit apply to all species of fish. They believe as do biologists of the Texas Game Department, that there is greater waste of fish than is generally thought in returning under-sized fish to the water.

Several states have recently adopted the no-length rule.

Nursed Doe Back to Health

Because Mr. Haul Johnson of Uvalde took the trouble to bring home and treat a yearling doe he found in the woods near the close of the last hunting season there is one more deer in Texas today.

The doe was down, sick and blind in both eyes when Mr. Johnson found it. He took the deer to town and upon closer examination he found that the doe's ears were packed with ticks. Mr. Johnson removed them. For six weeks the deer could not get too its feet. However, after two months it began to show improvement. Now the deer has completely recovered its health and its sight as well.

Marine Corps Has 50,000 Men

Today the U. S. Marine Corps is fast becoming an individual combined Army and Navy. Since September 1939, it has grown from 18,000 to over 50,000 men.

The marines of today are unequalled in military and naval training. It bases its superiority on the keen competition of its men; competition, the Marine Corps believes, makes men strive harder to be a little better than his fellow man. Promotions are gained by competitive examinations, giving each man equal opportunity. Meritorious non-commissioned officers of the Marine Corps, whose hard work close attention to duty and who prove themselves leaders of men do not go unnoticed, but are given the opportunity of becoming commissioned officers.

Education in the Marine Corps is an essential element. For this the Corps is well equipped to meet the needs and desires of every man. Seventeen service schools, a sea school, and the Marine Corps Institute are maintained. The seventeen service schools are classified as follows: Clerical school, motor transport school, armorers school, quartermaster's school of administration, radio operators school, telephone electricians school, field telephone school, radio material school, optical school, fire control school, aerographer school, aviation school, and school of photography. The sea school equips men for service aboard our ships. The Marine Corps Institute is a correspondence school, where more than 170 different courses are offered free to every marine. Many marines have learned worthwhile trades and are graduates of various art and science courses taught

Loyalty Wins WTU Lineman National Valor Award

Lineman J. B. Handley of Childress shows how ordinary fence wire was used for climbing hooks in emergency that won national honors.

Loyalty to his job today is worth $150 in unexpected cash to J. B. Handley, lineman for the West Texas Utilities at Childress, who thus capitalized on the "big blizzard" of February 16-17, 1940.

Handley was selected for the Claud L. Matthews Valor Award of 1940 at the annual convention of the Edison Electric Institute in Buffalo—an award made each year for the outstanding performance of valor in the United States electric industry. A check for $150 and a handsome scroll, commemorating his restoration of lights and power on the Quitaque-Turkey electric line during a severe wind and snow storm, were presented to him at the quarterly safety meeting in Childress.

Nominated for the honor by WTU officers and fellow workmen, Handley, according to the citation, "on his own initiative and at great personal risk patrolled 10 miles of transmission lines, improvised means for climbing ice-coated poles, made necessary poletop repairs and restored electric service to the towns of Quitaque and Turkey."

Handley and two other linemen, Bob Adams and Jay Hunter, were doing routine repair work on the Quitaque-Turkey line, February 16, 1940, when the blizzard struck. They were instructed to return to Childress where they were headed when the line went out. They then tackled the job of making repairs. Taking turns walking a mile across farm and pasture to patrol the line, while the other two followed the road in a pickup truck. Handley, during his turn, was isolated when the truck was stuck in a snow drift and unable to meet in these schools. As a result of training, they have secured excellent positions in the business world. Show the right spirit, and you will find the Marine Corps ready to help you in every way.

Young men between 17 and 30 years of age who are interested in the U. S. Marine Corps are urged to apply at the nearest recruiting station; these are located in Dallas, Abilene, Fort Worth, Tyler and Waco, Texas. Enlistments are for two classes, the regular four-year enlistment and the Marine Corps Reserve, for the actual duration of the national emergency.

Range Field Day is Held On League Ranch

The range field day held Tuesday, June 24, on the League Ranch, was well attended by ranchers of every county in this section of the state.

Ninety-seven visitors made the tour over the range to various types of range improvements. Contouring of range land seemed to have produced the most favorable results over large areas. The group also saw very favorable demonstrations of pasture terracing and spreader dams where surplus water had been held back and spread out over areas of grass.

Mesquite poisoning was seen in operation. A crew of three laborers was applying the poison to the stumps of freshly-cut mesquites. Eight pounds of white arsenic, 3 pounds of caustic soda and two quarts of water were required to make a gallon of poison mixture. A noon lunch was served to 165 visitors.

The League Ranch plans to continue pasture improvement work and intends to have an annual field inspection day.

Many Counties In U.S.O. Drive

Dallas.—More than 200 of the 254 Texas counties have entered the financial drive to raise the State's United Service Organizations quota of $400,000, E. B. Germany, regional chairman, announced today. Many of the counties have oversubscribed their quotas and all congressional districts, with the possible exception of one, have accepted their quota and launched a militant campaign.

Freeport in Brazoria county, given a quota of $500 has oversubscribed this amount by $1,300, reporting a total of $1,800. Brazoria county was given a quota of $1,680 and the county chairman, Ben D. Cannan, reports that $2,500 or more will be the total to be subscribed by Brazoria. E. O. Taulbee, Bay City, is chairman for the 9th congressional district of which Brazoria county is a unit.

Edwin Locke, chairman, reports Anderson county as having gone over the top with its quota. Graham in Young county, with a quota of $500, reports raising a total of $819.03, and Wilbarger county has shovied its quota of $500 well past the goal. Silsbee and Kountze down in the big poll patch in Hardin county oversubscribed their quotas.

Germany said that he is bending every effort possible to bring about an oversubscription of the State quota by the night of July 4 at which time he hopes to report to Thomas E. Dewey, national chairman in New York, that Texas places the U.S.O. 100 per cent back of the U.S.A.

Congress Increases Penalty on Cotton

Congress recently enacted an amendment to the present farm program act whereby the penalty for overplanting cotton has been raised from 3 cents per pound to one-half the basic loan on the cotton, or approximately 7 cents per pound.

This applies only to operators that plant cotton in excess of their allotment for harvest. Farmers are to be permitted to plow up cotton in order to comply with the AAA program, stated County Agent W. W. Rice. The top of 7 cents per pound applies only to those farmers that have their entire farm planted in cotton.

Last year Knox county had only two cotton farmers that paid the penalty for overplanting their cotton acreage allotment.

STAMP PLAN EXTENDED

College Station—Approximately 2,780 public-assistance families in Hillsboro and Hill County are expected to benefit from the cotton stamp plan which will be in operation there by mid-July. These families represent about 10,000 persons.

The Department of Agriculture announced the selection of the Hill County area after conference between representatives of the State plus Marketing Administration, local public officials, welfare workers, dry goods merchants and bankers who will be concerned with administration of the program.

Mrs. J. W. Fowler of Gorman and sister, Mrs. Killingsworth of Quanah, were business visitors in the city Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Moore Jr., spent the week end fishing at Lake Kemp.

"Here's What I Expect An Advertisement To Tell Me"

"Where Can I Buy It? Naturally, one of the first things I want to know about something I see in an ad is—where can I buy it? It isn't simply a matter of convenience and of saving time in planning my shopping, either! No, the name of the merchant, itself, often decides whether I buy or not. Invariably, you see, I give preference to stores whose ads I see regularly and often—I know these stores must have good value or they couldn't go on advertising year after year!

"What Will It Do For Me? I find it so much easier to make up my mind when the ad tells me facts about the merchandise! What is it? What will it do? How will it help me? Why do I need it? I want to know about color, weight, texture, material, style—I enjoy reading those things and I usually buy from the merchant who tells them to me.

"How Much Is The Price? Of course nearly every ad mentions the price, but if an item has been marked down I want to know from how much. So many sale ads say 'Was Higher'... how much higher? I want to know how much I am saving and I want the chance of deciding for myself if the item is a real value or not. I have more confidence in the store that is consistently truthful and buy from such a store regularly—and my husband says an old customer is worth three new ones because new ones cost money to get!"

READ THE ADS IN THE MUNDAY TIMES—ALL OF THEM HELP YOU TO WISE SPENDING—MOST OF THEM HELP YOU TO MAKE WISE SAVINGS, TOO!

Awards for Old Electric Bills Are Announced

Quanah Lady Winner Of First Prize On Bill for 1904

Miss Mary Ledbetter, of Quanah, submitted the winning entry in the "Old Bill" contest conducted by the West Texas Utilities, according to Arthur Mitchell, WTU local manager, who said the $50 first prize was won on an entry dated in December 1904.

Prizes of $5 each go to the following for the ten next oldest bills entered in the regional contest:

E. I. Jackson, San Angelo, for bill dated October 1906; Mrs. Wiley James, Baird, September 1908; Mrs. B. F. Denny, Memphis, January 1909; Mrs. W. C. Dickey, Memphis, March 1909; Mrs. Dallas Scarborough, Abilene, September 1909; Mrs. Frank Easley, Quanah, January 1910; Mrs. A. V. Smith, Abilene, February 1911; Mrs. L. E. McCurdy, Vernon, April 1911; Mrs. Fred Williams, San Angelo, June 1912; and D. M. West, Miles, February 1913.

Miss Ledbetter's entry, rendered in her father a pioneer of Quanah, whose house was second to be wired for lighting in the town, shows that he paid a flat rate of $5 monthly—"payable in advance." It covered lights only and she remarks that they were on only a few hours each evening. Miss Ledbetter also remembers that:

"The plant was a very small affair and when we had a thunder storm the lights went out and we used a coal-oil lamp which was kept ready for these occasions."

Nearly 300 old bills were entered in the contest, 69 of which were dated in 1920 or earlier. Just outside the winning margin were H. L. Adams, Dalhart, with a May 1913 bill; and L. L. Welch, Abilene, with one dated September 1913.

Six entries were dated in 1914—27 years old. Five were dated in 1915; 10 in 1916; 9 in 1917; 6 in 1918; 8 in 1919; and 11 in 1920.

"We want to thank every one of you who sent in old bills," Mitchell said. "The information they con-

An Irish soldier in France during the world war received a letter from his wife saying that there wasn't an able-bodied man left and she was going to dig the garden herself.

Pat wrote at the beginning of his next letter: "Bridget, please don't dig the garden; that's where the guns are hidden."

The letter was duly censored and in short time a lorry-load of men in khaki arrived at Pat's house and proceeded to dig the garden from end to end.

Bridget wrote to Pat in desperation, saying that she didn't know what to do, as the soldiers had the garden dug up, every bit of it. Pat's reply was short and to the point: "Put in the spuds."

The young married couple had been quarreling, and the wife had retreated to her room, slamming the door behind her and maintaining an audible snuffle. After a quarter of an hour she summoned the maid and inquired: "Is my husband still in his room?"

Maids: "Yes, ma'am." Wife: "Then sit here and cry for a few minutes. I'm so tired I must take a little rest."

A New York Commercial journal recently attributed gains in cotton futures to expectancy of high looms in Washington and to acceptance of bids for 80,000 bales of cotton and 5,270,000 yards of ticking by the Surplus Marketing Administration. The cotton and the ticking will be used in the federal cotton mattress demonstration program.

The Agricultural Marketing Service, USDA, reports the number of turkeys on hand February 1 for breeding in the United States was 14 per cent lower than on the corresponding date a year ago.

'Second Sight' Saves Explorer From Death in Mexican Ruins

Lawrence K. Griswold

Exploring the ruins of a little-known Maya city in southern Mexico, Lawrence Griswold, American archeologist, narrowly escaped a swift and painful death.

The ruins, almost buried in the jungle, included several hollow pyramids, and Griswold let himself down through a hole in the top of one of these. He landed on a stone platform, at the edge of which was a steep flight of stone steps. The steps led down to a lower platform and there Griswold could see some small sculptured objects.

"Bats were thick in the chamber and clusters of them hung from creeping vines that ran up in the dark corners," Griswold said. "The steps were rounded with their deposits. Rather than risk a fall I decided to jump down on to the lower platform.

"The light from above was good but it didn't quite disclose all the objects on the platform. So remembering the old adage 'look before you leap,' I pulled out my flashlight and switched it on. Artificial illumination always works better in pitch darkness than in competition with sunlight, and that was the case here. If I had not had a flashlight loaded with fresh batteries, making possible a strong, clear beam, I could not have seen what I did.

"It was just as I was about to jump that the flashlight beam disclosed something clustered near several jars and platters of the platform. I looked again—and almost lost my balance. For these 'somethings' were nests of baby fer de lance snakes. A baby fer de lance is just as deadly as a full grown one, and had I jumped I surely would have been bitten by several of them for they were already on the alert. The bites would have been fatal because I could not have got back to my expedition base where I could get medical help."

Griswold retreated from the pyramid and returned the next day with members of his expedition. After dispatching the snake the party found several valuable archeological treasures, including wall paintings in a fine state of preservation.

DRIVE YOUR AUTO IN YOUR BARE FEET!

Austin.—Take off your shoes and drive in your stocking feet.

That, said State Police Director Homer Garrison, Jr., today, will relieve the monotony of night driving. Cool air and the jar of pedal vibration on the feet will prevent dozing, which frequently results in serious crashes.

"It pays to have cold feet," Garrison said, "when you're bravely trying to stay awake. An open cowl will prevent one's getting too warm and comfortable."

Coffee will not help as much as a shockingly cold soft drink, he said, adding this final suggestion: "If there's no one else along to suffer from it, you can break the monotonous purr of the motor and at the same time get in a little practice for operatic or oratorical ambitions by singing or talking loud."

Marvin Allen Is New AAA Officer

Marvin Allen has recently been appointed administrative officer for the AAA in Knox county. Mr. Allen comes from Clay county, where he worked in this capacity for three years. He comes highly recommended by Clay county citizens. He and Mrs. Allen are now making their home in Benjamin.

Mr. Allen succeeds Joe Harper to this position. Mr. Harper was recently transferred to Haskell county, which transfer came as a promotion to him.

Save Time Save Labor Save Money With the Cost-Reducing John Deere POWER-LIFT DISC Tiller Plow

Overhead frame construction Provides Greater Clearance...

Probably the most important feature of a disk tiller is the provision made for trash clearance. In heavy stubble or weedy growth, clogging is a serious problem unless the tiller is built to clear itself of trash as it moves along.

Great frame clearance is secured in the John Deere by setting the frame bars and standards above the disk gangs—there is no construction in front of the disks to cause clogging in trashy or loose conditions. In addition, this overhead construction places a great part of the frame weight above the disks, thereby aiding penetration.

There are many other new features to this Disk Tiller. Come in and see it today!

A carload of these tiller plows, moldboard plows and John Deere hammer mills has just arrived at our store.
