KEEP MUNDAY MONEY IN MUNDAY

Copeland Brothers Show Pleasing Big Crowds Each Night

Copeland Brothers big tent show is showing this week to large and appreciative audiences in their big tent theatre which is located on the north side of the square, where they are playing under the auspices of the Munday Fire department. The bill on Monday evening was indeed pleasing, every member of the cast displaying outstanding ability, and especially unique was Baby Barbara, five years of age, who played the part of "The Little Mother," and her part probably carried more lines than any other member of the cast, and her ability as a little artist endeared her to the large audience, and this feature alone was well worth the price of admittance. The Copelands are too well known over the Munday county to need an introduction to the people, as they have been here a number of times before and always make friends when they come, and while they carry no band or "balloos" of any kind, they depend on the high character of their plays for their patronage, and they point with pride to the fact that they are the oldest repertoire show organization operating in Texas, having been in the business since 1907—twenty years. And they are still going good.

METHODIST CHURCH SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 11

Sunday School 9:30. Don't all be in your place. If you have not started, do so Sunday. Classes for all ages. Preaching by the pastor both morning and evening. This is the last Sunday before our Conference. It may be the last Sunday your present pastor will be with you. Everyone is urged to be with us in this last Sunday. Following the morning message the Lois Supper will be observed. 7:30 p. m. will be our farewell service, for no Methodist pastor knows for sure whether he will return to his church or not. So because of this, the pastor will have some things to say to his people and others in his farewell message. We cordially invite everyone to worship with us.

SIMMONS-MORRIS

On last Sunday morning Mr. Mike Morris of this city and Miss Kyrene Simmons were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. K. D. Simmons, in Haskell, the Rev. Whatley, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiating. The bride is one of Haskell's most popular young ladies and has resided in that city practically all her life. The groom is a popular young business man of this city, being associated with the West Texas Utilities Company in a responsible capacity. They have temporary living quarters in the F. L. Decker home and will make Munday their home, and we join their many friends in wishing for them a long and happy married life.

Third Goodrich Head

In the sixty years of its existence the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co. of Akron has had but three presidents, the third, Harry Hough, (above) succeeding the late Burton G. Work, and elected last week. For ten years Mr. Hough was Vice-President and Comptroller of the company.

JESSE JAMES HERO OF FRED THOMPSON PICTURE

From 1862 to 1882 Jesse James let his guns get out of reach twice. During his waking hours at least two revolvers were always strapped to his waist and at night they were on a chair beside his bed. No person ever attempted to enter his bedroom at night. He slept so lightly instant death would have been certain. Jesse was fifteen when he first strapped on his revolvers. He was ploughing on his mother's farm at Kearney, Mo. The Civil War had been underway one year. Soldiers invaded the farm, beat him with whips and near his stepfather to a tree. He joined the Confederate army a short time afterwards as a member of Quantrell's Partisan Rangers, a unit declared outlaw by the general in command at Kansas City. Five years later he was in swimming in a Kentucky River with Samuel Ralston. A country constable happened along, covered the men with a shotgun and told them to come out. He thought they might be horse thieves. Jesse came out first. Ralston followed slowly and suddenly the constable turned his head Jesse leaped upon him and threw his shotgun into the river. That was the first time the famous outlaw laid aside his guns. The second time was in his own home on April 3, 1882. As he turned to dust a picture Robert Ford shot and killed him. These facts were related recently by his son, Jesse E. James, Jr., as he watched Fred Thomson, well known Western star, making a swimming scene for his first Paramount picture "Jesse James" which reaches the Peoples Theatre next Monday and Tuesday. Two of the revolvers carried for a number of years by Jesse James were lying on the river bank beside the son while he told the story.

MUNDAY ARTISTS ENTERTAIN HASKELL SCHOOL WEDNESDAY

The program for the general assembly of Haskell High School for Wednesday of this week consisted of a number of dramatic artists from Munday. Upon invitation some time ago, Miss Lillian Aycock, teacher of Expression and public speaking at Munday volunteered to furnish the entertainment. Miss Aycock, accompanied by Hubert Isbell, Rosaline Houser, Louise Aycock and Mildred Burnett, gave a very splendid and versatile number of readings. Each number was highly enjoyed by the entire school and the courtesy of the Munday artists is highly appreciated—Haskell Free Press.

PSALM OF TRADE

At the rising of the sun he goeth forth to his place of business and none interferes with his slumber. He sitteth all day like a bottle of castor oil, but people of shekles come not near him. He advertises not his wares and his place is forgotten on the face of the earth. Who hath dried apples? Who hath baking powder without end? Whose groceries are old and stale? He that sitteth like a bump on a log! He that knoweth not the ways of printers. Verily, his days on earth shall be as a sore thumb; his business shall be the math actor in a sheriff's sale. For even as a man shall cease acting indifferently toward his fellows shall his days be long in the land. And he who advertises long and ceaselessly to advertise, to him shall be added all the joys of gleaming kopek and plucking eagles. Be ye therefore wholly observant, abiding in the wake of those who blaze forth to the world that they have something to sell, and are selling it. For verily, it is good stuff.

MOGULS TO PLAY THROCKMORTON

After a very refreshing victory over Stamford last week the High School Moguls have taken on new life and are anxious to build for themselves an undefeated record during the remainder of the season. Throckmorton, who plays here Friday of this week. The Moguls, with two or three new men in their lineup and the confidence of last week's victory to spur them on, should be hard to beat. Can they average their recent defeat at the hands of Throckmorton? Come out next Friday at 3:30 and see.

Kids Have Glorious Time Hallow'en In Celebrating Event

Munday young folks enjoyed Hallow'en in a great way and their pranks were in evidence everywhere on Tuesday morning. Farm wagons, plows, implements of all kinds were found lined up along the sidewalks in the business section of the city. Some cars that were in the path of the merry-makers were found with uninflated tires, and all indications pointed to the good time that the youngsters had the night before.

Business Racing

Here typifies America's chief interest during the crisp fall days of October and November. America's great school sport—Football. Thousands of games are played every week-end on thousands of grids. Tens of thousands of thousands of rooters all over the land.

With Our Subscribers

Here lately we've had little to say about our subscribers, but that is no indication that our subscribers list isn't growing. For it is growing by leaps and bounds, and since subscribers are coming in without solicitation, they must just naturally like to read The Times. Here are a few of the new ones we've added to our list within the past two weeks: Mr. A. H. Smith sends his subscription from Ukiah, California, where he has gone to spend the winter months, and here's hoping he has a most enjoyable stay in that land of sunshine and flowers.

EXPECTS FLOOD OF MOTOR CAR ORDERS

Detroit, Nov. 1.—E. G. Wilmer, President of Dodge Brothers, Inc., returned on the Aquitana last week from Europe convinced that the American automobile industry will continue to dominate the world for many years to come. "Through the use of electric power, automatic machinery and mass sales methods," said Mr. Wilmer, "American motor car manufacturers have placed their products far ahead of the Europeans both in quality and price. As a result, American workmen receive high wages, while the American manufacturers give the greatest dollar value to their customers. Our company's export business is steadily increasing and Dodge Brothers' export business this fall has run 30 per cent ahead of last autumn. "Dodge Brothers securities selling far below their value, which has materially increased in the past two years. The company has an earning surplus of about $29,000,000 and a strong current asset position. Interest and preferred dividends for the last year were earned by a wide margin in the first nine months and there is no foundation for the current rumors of the passing of the dividends." Mr. Wilmer believes that 1928 will be a big year for the automotive industry and for general business.

Mr. R. L. Reed of Gorse, Rt. 1 is another new one on our list.

Mr. R. L. Reed of Gorse, Rt. 1 is another new one on our list. He is now that he's on our list. The Times in years gone by, prior to moving away, Chas. came back to Munday from Montague county early in the fall and says he is convinced that there is no place like the Munday country, and we're glad to have him back on our list.

Mr. E. D. Dolbs on route 2 has managed to get along without the Times for all these years.

Mr. E. D. Dolbs on route 2 has managed to get along without the Times for all these years. But now that he's on our list we're hoping he stays there. Mr. Dolbs stated that he has thought a number of times that he would subscribe for The Times, but just never did think about it when in town, until last Saturday. Thanks, R. E.

Mr. R. L. Reed of Gorse, Rt. 1 is another new one on our list.

Mr. R. L. Reed of Gorse, Rt. 1 is another new one on our list, and we are sure that she will derive much pleasure out of reading the next fifty-two issues and will remain on our list.

Another new one is Miss Grace Nelson, our County Home Demonstration Agent.

Miss Grace Nelson, our County Home Demonstration Agent. Miss Nelson is making things hum in her work over the county, and at the recent Haskell County Fair she won all the first prizes in her department, which is indeed a compliment to her and her club girls.

Land Motor Company is also a new one with us and a new business concern in Munday, and it is needless to say that we are glad to have this excellent family—R. T. Land and Mrs. Land and the little Lands.

Bond Election Is Ordered For $280,000 In Precinct No. 2

A hearing on the petition of citizens of Precinct No. 2, Knox County, praying that an election be called to determine whether bonds in the amount of $280,000 be voted for good roads, was held at Benjamin on Monday of this week, and there being no opposition, the election was ordered held by the Commissioner's Court. The precinct involved is that in the immediate vicinity of Benjamin and the roads that are to be improved in the event that the bond issue carries is that from Red Springs to the King county line on the west and Highway No. 54 from the Brazos river to the north line of Precinct No. 2, which is in the vicinity of the Wichita river north of Benjamin. Both highways lead through Benjamin.

Grandmother Burton 80 Years of Age, Is Called By Death

Following a stroke of paralysis which she suffered on Friday morning of last week Mrs. J. H. Burton passed away on Thursday morning, and funeral services will be held on Friday morning at the family home, with the Rev. R. R. Gilbreath conducting the service, after which interment will be made in the Gillespie cemetery. Mrs. Burton had passed her eightieth birthday but despite her advanced age she had been in excellent health for a person of her advanced age until she was stricken last week. She had for many years been a faithful member of the Methodist church and her going has occasioned much regret in the community where she has resided for so many years. She is survived by seven sons, as follows: W. H. and A. T. Burton of Cleburne, Texas; C. M. Burton of Lamesa; Clifford, W. L. and J. E. Burton of Fort Worth and R. V. Burton of Munday. To the bereaved members of the family we join the entire community in extending our most sincere sympathy in their great sorrow.

ORGANIZATION OF KNOX COUNTY INTER-SCHOLASTIC LEAGUE

During the institute meeting at Haskell, the officers of The University Interscholastic League were elected for 1928. They are as follows: Director General, M. E. Noble; Director of Debate, H. V. Standley; Director of Essay Writing, Miss Bertha Amerson; Director of Declaration, Miss Ethlyn Taylor; Director of Rural Schools, Chas. R. Lull; Director of Athletics, C. E. Brown; Director of Spelling, Miss Hortel Campbell. The county contests in declamation, debate, spelling and essay writing will be held in Benjamin; the track events in Truscott; and the basket ball tournament in Munday. The time of these meets will be announced later. Our county has in the past sent representatives from the independent schools to the annual meet at Austin. We are not expecting our independent schools to do less in 1928 but we are preparing to have our rural schools represented at Austin in the State meet next May. For the benefit of school patrons who may desire to know the object of The Interscholastic League, we quote the following: "The object of this league is to foster among the schools of Texas inter-school competitions as an aid in the preparation for citizenship; to assist in organizing, standardizing and controlling athletics in the schools of the state; and to promote county, district and state interscholastic contests in debate, writing, reading, extemporaneous speech, athletics and music memory."

The "Average" Man

Roy L. Gray, Ft. Madison Ia., has been termed America's "average" citizen. The American Magazine, after careful survey, gives the title to Gray because he earns an average income; conducts a one-man tailor shop and clothing store in the average small sized town; belongs to church—but doesn't attend regularly; has an average education; and his principal interests are in his family of wife and two children.

Getting Your Name in the Newspaper

By Prof John H. Casey, of the University of Oklahoma

Extracts From a Radio Talk

Newspaper editors from the day of Horace Greeley, the great exponent of personal journalism, down to your local editor of the year A. D. 1927, have recognized and do recognize the importance of names in their newspapers. But what, if anything, are you doing as a newspaper reader and a good citizen of the community, to cooperate with your local editor, I wonder? He is glad to have you stop him on the street when you have a news item about yourself or some member of your family. Try him out. Next time the stork leaves a baby at your house call the newspaper office. Next time an out-of-town relative or friend arrives to spend a few days visiting your family, get that visitor's name in the paper along with your own. The local editor will be glad to have the item.

Week After Week

It is probable that the general public little realizes the tireless efforts made by editors week after week to get into their columns the names of local people in connection with legitimate news stories—local events. Yet it is astonishing how many names we do find that are familiar to us in the local or personal column. Well written neighborhood correspondence from the rural districts contains dozens more of familiar names which supplement the purely local news of the town. If you live in a rural community, you should know your newspaper's neighborhood correspondent there. She is the authorized representative of the town newspaper in your locality. In all probability she will be glad to have every bit of news you care to submit.

Chagrined

A young man burst into the office of a newspaper published in a state bordering on Oklahoma one day. "I was intensely shocked to read a notice in your paper of my engagement," he all but shouted across the counter. "I cannot tell you how shocked I was. I was positively chagrined. My fiancée was chagrined. We were all chagrined. How much for fifty copies of the paper?"

The story serves to illustrate how personalities are quite the most appreciated news any paper can print. "I used to think," said a small-town newspaper publisher from a state of Washington on one occasion, "that my paper was my own. It isn't, only partially. Mostly it's the community's. It's mine to pay the bills for, and to work of nights and to sweat for. But what it prints belongs to my readers. I am just selecting it for them."

Modesty

Modesty keeps many of us from reporting to the editor news of local interest—news of our own little social gathering at which we were host or hostess, or at least a guest. But it is false modesty that keeps us, in most instances, from telling the editor about it. Remember that the community is interested, that everyone concerned will be pleased to see his or her name in print, and that the editor really wants you to call up or to drop around to the office about it. He simply can't keep up with all those affairs that interest you and your set, but he will appreciate your cooperation every time, and he'll reciprocate by treating you right.

Favorites

Some folks get the idea that the local editor plays his favorite names in the paper week after week. Naturally, he knows about the people he knows, the ones who are frank enough with him to step up in the post-office lobby or to call up on the phone and say: "Don't know whether you've heard about it or not, but Old Aunt Lisa Jenkins out on Rt. Five died last night. Guess you can get the details from Jim Bowers here in town. He's a nephew, you know."

Or maybe it's a wedding in prospect. Just a tip, if nothing more, will be greatly appreciated by your local editor. He knows how and where to find out the rest. He remembers, too, that you're his friend when you tip him off to a bit of local news, and he'll keep a confidence, too. And then, if it's to your advantage sometime later to get your name in the newspaper—maybe when your little girl has won first prize in the local declamatory contest—why the editor will perhaps remember to say in passing that she's the daughter of J. D. Meiers, the home town's genial insurance salesman who himself was recently a prize winner when he wrote for his company more automobile insurance than any other agent in his territory, being awarded a gold watch in appreciation therefor.

Get Acquainted

Yes, it pays to stand in with the local editor, and if you don't know him personally, you ought to get acquainted. You'll find him pretty human and probably a likable sort after you get to know him. Next best thing if your modesty simply won't permit of such advances, then give your news items to a printer in the shop, the linotype operator, or to the society editor, if there is one—anyone connected with the newspaper. Your contributions of news and of news tips will be taken care of by any member of the force, and with thanks.

Of course, there are other ways, other methods, of getting one's name in the papers. Some of them are effective.

Other Ways

For example, if a man rob a bank, beat up his wife, desert his family, invade the privacy of another man's home, allow his car to run wild, endeavor to sell liquor openly, take another man's life, or wife, fly across the ocean, swim the English Channel or get himself elected mayor of his village—these things will surely get his name into the newspapers.

A cheaper and still another way of getting one's name in print is worth considering, however, before resorting to the extremes just mentioned. Advertising space can be arranged for at so much per column inch or per page, depending on the space required for immediate needs.

Seriously, though, we all should try to realize that every good citizen is more or less responsible for the appearance, character and success of the local newspaper. If it is poorly supported, it is not going to be a paper of excellence, but rather a poor piece of publicity for the town.

Should Never Overshadow

The publisher may be brainy, enthusiastic and hard-working, but a paper above all things thrives or dies according to the support and encouragement given it by its own people. The big city daily should never be allowed to overshadow the local newspaper.

No home in the town of its publication or immediate trade territory should be without the home paper, even though it is printed but once a week. It serves various purposes that the city paper can never think of serving. One of its functions is to advertise the home town, and there is an advantage to every home town, at times, and more or less all the time, to be in the limelight.

It is, therefore, up to the home town merchants to see to it that their advertising is attractive and effective. It is well to remember that the country publisher cannot live on fresh air alone, be it ever so wholesome. I fear this point is seldom considered by the people of a community, though it be true as gospel.

Reading one's home town paper, one should come to the conclusion that his town is a hustling, pushing, ambitious and prosperous town. No blue rain in Ponca City, Altus or Timbuctou. And that is the idea one gathers by reading the local newspaper in communities where local folks cooperate.

MUNDAY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Always Boosting For

"ROWANIS"

In Gainsville, Texas, that fine spirit of harmony and good sportsmanship which should prevail in all community work is graphically expressed in the name of the delightful new country club of the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs—Rowanis. The members of these two clubs with the aid of the Chamber of Commerce and staff, has brought about this very commendable community asset. How happily does this name illustrate the joining of hands without rivalry or petty bickering for the advancement of the community.

The luncheon clubs and their proper function in the modern community have aroused a good deal of comment. In many towns where there is a Rotary Club, a Kiwanis Club and perhaps a Lions Club, there is not always enough work to go around and we see the different clubs wasting time and effort, all trying to do the same things or in attempting to invade the field of Chamber of Commerce work. This working at cross purposes has caused embarrassment in some Texas cities—without anyone intending to bring about such a situation. In fact, we assume that all these organizations spring from that same worthy impulse in men's hearts, to do something for others—for their home town.

A Rotary Club cannot do Chamber of Commerce work and it was never intended by the leaders of that great order that it should. Sometimes luncheon clubs will attempt to do things that require the services of a full time manager and office staff. The luncheon clubs have not this organization. Too often the club meets, eats and endorses, and the thing is forgotten. The true function of the luncheon clubs is to provide a delightful group-spirit for the entertainment and instruction of busy men, to help mould the forwardlooking thought of the community and by gearing themselves into the central organization, the Chamber of Commerce, to make up a complete efficient set of machinery to carry resolutions into realities. Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions organizations try to see that every one of their members belong to his local Chamber of Commerce, realizing the importance of the central organization.

Let us promote the social spirit of comradeship in our noon-day clubs, but let us not forget that these fine ideals and resolutions must be followed through. The Chamber of Commerce with its employed staff, information and equipment is best fitted to translate those community thoughts into RESULTS.

LINDY'S LONG FLIGHT

Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh last week ended his long air tour in the interest of aviation, returning to New York after having flown more than 25,000 miles since July.

During the tour he visited more than 80 cities and made speeches in behalf of airways, airports and other matters pertaining to the advancement of aviation. The schedule laid out at the beginning of the tour was closely followed and no mishap marred the progress of his triumphal flight.

In spite of the exactions of the tour, Lindbergh declared, "I never felt better in my life," but added, "I feel that I have earned the right to drop out of the public view for a while."

He told reporters that he had made no definite plans for the future, but in answer to questions stated positively some things he will not do. He will not run for Congress, nor take a government position. It is well known that he will not go into the movies or otherwise exploit his fame as the world's most popular hero of the day.

And no popular hero of any day has ever kept his head quite so well as Lindbergh.

CAVALRY ON WHEELS

Cavalry of the future may be speeded toward the battle front on wheels if methods employed in a recent experiment secure general adoption.

Horses, men and field equipment of Troop F, 5th Cavalry, were transported in motor trucks from Marfa to Fort Clark, Texas, a distance of 300 miles, in 36 hours. The troop was completely horsed and equipped for instant service at all times during the trip.

Inasmuch as cavalrymen usually fight on foot in modern warfare, it seems that where passable roads are available for trucks the horses would be so much useless baggage, although there might occasionally arise a condition which would make their transportation by truck desirable.

Doubtless it would make an oldtime cavalryman smile, however, to see a bunch of horses bundled into motor trucks when "boots and saddles" sounds.

BANKER CONVINCED

The experience of a small city banker in an Eastern state, related by M. E. McCleish at a recent business men's convention in Chicago, should be of interest, not only to bankers, but to all who have goods or service to sell.

Two years ago the banker in question was discouraged because of a falling off of business. One of his associates suggested an advertising campaign for the purpose of stimulating thrift in the community, which he believed would be reflected in increased deposits.

The banker was skeptical and declared that even if he did advertise he would only take business from the other bank of the town, so that the community as a whole would gain nothing. Persuaded to advertise, however, he was surprised by the results.

Within a year his own business was increased by $375,000, while his neighbor banker had a gain of $147,000 during the same period.

Advertising had aroused the community to a realization of the importance of thrift, and savings were brought out of hiding places to be added to the capital of the town, with consequent benefits all around, even to the banker's non-advertising competitor.

NOTED WOMAN VETERAN

In the selection of Mrs. Irene McIntyre Walbridge of New Hampshire as the new national president of the American Legion Auxiliary a deserved honor has been paid to one of the outstanding women workers of the world war.

She was born in Kingston, Ontario, in 1891, and spent her early years in Labrador, where her father was a Salvation Army welfare worker. She is a graduate of Mount Holyoke College and a patriotic lecturer of note.

As a member of the Salvation Army she served on four fronts during the war, dispensing cheer and comfort to soldiers of the allied armies, often under the most trying conditions. Since the war she has been particularly active in Auxiliary circles and became president of the New Hampshire department giving generously of her time in the interest of ex-service men.

In Mrs. Walbridge the Legion Auxiliary has a most worthy and capable head, under whose administration this important adjunct of the American Legion will doubtless render an increased measure of useful service.

THE BALLOT OF DEATH

Four ballots in an urn, three white and one black. Four men to draw them out, the three drawing white ballots to go free, the one drawing the black ballot to die. Strangely enough, the first three to draw secured the white ballots, leaving the fourth to draw the fatal black slip.

This was the dramatic scene enacted at La Paz, Bolivia, a few days ago, and came about in this way. Four men were convicted of the murder of former President Pando. Under Bolivian law, only one person can be executed for a single murder, no matter how many may be implicated. So, to determine which of the four should pay the penalty, the drawing was held at the Palace of Justice.

Alfredo Jauregui, 28 who had already spent 10 years in prison, was the unfortunate player in the lottery of death. He laughed when his fate was known and declared his innocence, but refused to ask for mercy. Guilty, or not, some admiration is due a man who can play such a grim game and lose with a smile.

A PREACHER'S GOOD-BYE

Probably it is an old story, but anyway it's full of logic. It is a popular story among Florida editors just now and possibly our readers will enjoy it.

The preacher had been greatly discouraged and had sought a new field of labor. He happened to have a friend in the governor, to whom he appealed, and not in vain. He got a political job. In taking leave of his flock he said:

"Brothers and sisters, I must say good-bye.

"I don't think God loves you, because none of you ever die.

"I don't think you love each other, because none of you ever get married.

"I don't think you love me, because you have not paid my salary.

"Your donations are moldy fruit and wormy apples—and by their fruits ye shall know them.

"I am going to a better place. I am going to be chaplain of the penitentiary.

"Where I go ye can not yet come, but I go to prepare a place for you, and may the good Lord have mercy upon you. Good-bye."

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Sweatt of Dumas, Texas, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Houston Sweatt, who have apartments in the A. J. Bunts residence.

Mrs. P. O. Brown of Wichita Falls and Mrs. W. W. Horner and son of Rotan, were guests in the home of A. J. Manuel last week.

OUR AGRICULTURAL MORALE

By Phebe K. Warner

A few nights ago it was my happy privilege to attend a meeting of farmers and their families of the Grand View Consolidated Rural School in Gray County. Some of you may not know there is a Gray County, Texas, but most everybody has heard of Pampa since the latest Panhandle oil boom.

The Grand View consolidated rural school is twenty miles from Pampa and about ten miles from Groom, which is over in Carson County, which means that this school is located twenty miles from the Santa Fe R. R. and about ten miles from the Rock Island R. R. and so far, it is not in the oil belt of either county although there is no telling when or where oil will go to spouting in either of those counties.

It was a fine night, the roads were rough, but muddy, and the school yard was filled with parked cars and trucks. And when that meeting was called to order by the school superintendent there must have been two hundred people in that big double-room which is used for the auditorium. The whole family had come to that meeting. Father, mother and big boys and girls, the little boys and girls and the babies were all there. The teachers were all there and the trustees were all there. The first part of the evening was devoted to a meeting of the trustees and the patrons of the school while the young folks and visitors had a good visit.

Next came an educational program and then a short social hour for everybody and then everybody went home in time to get a good night's rest.

But it was not the meeting or the program that interested me. It was the PEOPLE. First they were very friendly and easy to meet. They were not afraid of themselves, or one another or anybody else. They mixed and mingled together in a most cordial and natural manner. And everyone of them had something good to say about their community, their school and their teachers. And the teachers had only words of praise for the people and their school.

Those people were not only friendly, but they were one of the best dressed farm groups you will find in many a county in Texas or any other State. Every man in that whole district evidently has a sure-enough Sunday suit and he wasn't too tired or too lazy or too indifferent to go to the school house to get into it just to a little meeting. And the women were well dressed and the big, old boys didn't look like they had just come out of the cow lot and forgot to change their old work clothes. Of course, the girls were all tugged up. Girls always look nice if there is half a chance. It is a part of their soul to look pretty if possible. And one of the best behaved and most attractive audiences anybody ever tried to talk to.

But what else would you expect to an audience like that in a nice, big new school house with good lights and a nice piano, plenty of stage fixtures and comfortable seats.

Those folks did not wear their agricultural badges on their feet, their head or their face that night. They looked more like a bunch of sure-enough business men. Their farm symbols might have been visible on their hands but their handclasp was so cordial no one ever noticed the scars and callouses of toil.

I've been wondering ever since what ailed that community. Why did they point such a unique picture of community life in my memory that night? And I have decided it was their Agricultural Morale.

What's that? Webster says "morale is the mental state of a body of men." If this is true then the agricultural morale of a community must be the mental state of that community.

Now let's analyze that community and see if we can discover what its mental state is. First of all you could see community pride reflected in every face and every word. Even the little children were proud of their school. The trustees were proud of it; the teachers were proud of it, and all the people were proud of their school. It had cost them something but they had something to show for their money. In creating a consolidated school, the district had increased. Their responsibilities had increased. Their expenses had increased. Their opportunities for their children's education had increased, and their manhood and womanhood had increased to meet the new demands. There was a subconscious feeling in every heart in that school district that they had done something worth while. They had won a victory over the educational traditions of the past. They had GONE UP a big step in life. They had a new vision for their children. And they were LIVING in the day in which they were living. Consequently they were justly proud of what they had done for their community. And that's just why they were all dressed up and happy that night. They were proud of what they had done and that fact had instilled personal pride in themselves. They were dwelling in higher mental state. Their agricultural morale registered high.

I know the Good Book says "Pride goeth before destruction." But that is when it is accompanied by a haughty spirit. Pride, engendered by an unselfish service for humanity, is constructive rather than destructive. But where there is no personal pride no home pride, no community pride, decay and destruction are bound to follow.

What is the agricultural morale of your community?

Why is our agricultural morale so low as compared with that of other industries. What will be the final results if our agricultural morale keeps on going lower? What is the remedy?

School Carnival

On Tuesday night, November 8th we are going to have a school carnival. The plans have all been worked out and we are expecting this to be the greatest exposition of its kind held in this section of the state in recent years. No expense will be spared in securing the best entertainment and side shows available. Wrestling matches, the Fun House, wild animal exhibits and fortune tellers are only a few of the features on program. In addition there will be plenty to eat and drink. The only requirement for you to have the time of your life is that you bring along a little extra change so that you can see the whole show. This carnival is being given for the benefit of the School Library and any money spent there will be for a very worthy cause. Remember the date and be on hand early to have your part of the fun. It will probably be held in the ckin hall.

We enjoyed our first holiday last Friday while the teachers were attending Institute at Haskell. All of them report a very profitable and enjoyable time.

Moguls Trounce Stamford 19-0

Hurray! We are on the winning side of the percentage column now. Last Thursday the Moguls buckled on their armor and proceeded to take the measure of Stamford High School in a very convincing manner. Starting off with a bang by scoring on the very first play of the game, the valiant Moguls were never headed and when the smoke of battle had cleared away two more touchdowns had been added. The game was clean and hard fought throughout.

The game started with Stamford kicking off. Ledbetter ran the ball back to the Mogul's 40 yard line. Pruitt faced 60 yards for a touchdown on the fake play. The Moguls failed to kick goal. Athletic Notes

The game Thursday was a real thriller and all who missed it have nobody to blame but themselves. Of course a team always looks good in victory but it is no idle talk to say that it was a different team that played Stamford from the one that took defeat at the hands of Throckmorton. This victory will no doubt, put new life in the Moguls and we don't expect to have to do any more explaining for defeats.

Arch Vassar enrolled in school Monday and is coming out for football. With his weight, speed and aggressiveness we are expecting him to be one of our gridiron stars before the season ends.

The Moguls will be out to avenge their recent defeat at the hands of Throckmorton next Friday. Buy your ticket early and be on hand for this mighty battle.

Then just one more week till November 11 and Knox City again.

Seniors

Thedo Brewer accompanied the Juniors on their picnic Saturday. Theda reported a very enjoyable time.

Arva Harris and Ruby Mandel visited friends in Aspermont this week end.

The seniors were glad surprised Monday when they received a letter from their old friend, Earnest Ameen. Earnest told us some very interesting things, and gave us some good advice.

We received our report cards last week and most of the seniors made fairly good grades. We have all planned to do better this six weeks, so watch out for an honor roll.

The seniors are going to be highly entertained Monday night, so be sure and look for the social page next week.

Juniors

"Less Quantity but More Quality."

The Juniors took Friday off and had one of the best times reported this year. The boys were there, although the girls failed to show up. We didn't let that hinder us though for we got the girls even though they were not Junior girls.

We give Leona Ford the honor of being the peppiest girl in the class. She was the only Junior girl to accompany the Junior boys on the picnic. Next time the Junior boys will invite Leona and some girls from other classes unless the other girls show up better.

We are very sorry to lose Ramon Richardson. It seems that we are doomed to be the smallest class in school, but we will keep our "More Quality" motto with us.

The Juniors were more than pleased with the game Thursday. We are still pulling for the Moguls to win, although the season is almost over.

Sophomores

On Tuesday morning, October 25, 1927, at 8:45 o'clock, Supt. Rhodes gave the Sophomores a reprimand, which will remain in our minds throughout our high school days. He said, generally speaking, the teachers have come to the conclusion that we were the worst class in high school in our behavior. It seems that we require more attention from the teachers in solving the discipline problems, but we hope to outgrow this in the years to come. We are considered "good sportsmen," but at the same time we must not carry sportsmanship too far.

Miss Vela Phillips spent the week-end visiting in the home of her sister, Mrs. Marrison of Taxon, Okla.

Miss Arlene Kendal visited her brother, Gaynor in Wichita Falls this week-end.

Freshmen

Say! people, do you believe we had a good time Saturday night? If you do not, then change your minds. We had a Halloween party at the gymnasium and had a grand and glorious time. Upon arriving we turned off all the lights and made each person follow a string. Seats, boards, steps, stoves and muddy place were encountered by all who followed this string. Then the lights were turned on and several games were played. After the games, we were led into a very dark room where the remains of a beloved freshmen were found. The hair was felt by all. Peeled grapes served as eyes, post toastes as dried skin. Dough for brains, and ice water for blood. Upon feeling each of these a shrill blood-curdling scream went up from each of our girls.

We were then marched back into light and played more games. Each person was then blind folded and put on an ironing board. Two boys raised it up and the captive put both hands on two other boys heads. It made one feel as if he were high up and they were then told to jump. Of course each one prepared to jump about 3 feet and only jumped about 3 inches. They would of course fall to the floor and get a hard bump.

Other games were played and then refreshments were served. After which, each went home shaking. Miss Rhodes and Mr. Palmer were chaperones.

Francis McCord of the seventh grade was present also.

The Sophs. liked our decorations so well that they asked us to let them stay up in order that they could use them at their party. Of course we consented willingly.

'N We Laughed

Captain: "Go on Prichard, carry this message to the bandits; if they cut off your head, I will cut off a dozen of theirs." Prichard: "But Captain, there might not be any to fit me."

Mrs. Rhodes: "Is your apartment small?" Mrs. Standley: "Is it? Why we have to use condensed milk."

Cleo: "Are the mosquitoes bad around here?" J. C.: "Bad! Say, did you ever hear of a mosquito being converted?"

Theda Mae: "Why do you call those collegiate beads?" Mildred: "Because they're graduated."

Truman: "Loan me five dollars, will you?" Otis: "Sorry old top, but I only have four dollars and seventy-five cents." Truman: "Well, gimme that. I'll trust you for the other quarter."

Miss Lane: "Why are you crying Wanda?" Wanda: "Mom whipped me. I didn't mind the licking but I thought it was cowardly to do it behind my back."

Leona: "Look there, the sign says, 'washing and ironing done.'" Lucille: "Sure, and that's better than me. Mine is done too, but I didn't put up a sign and brag about it."

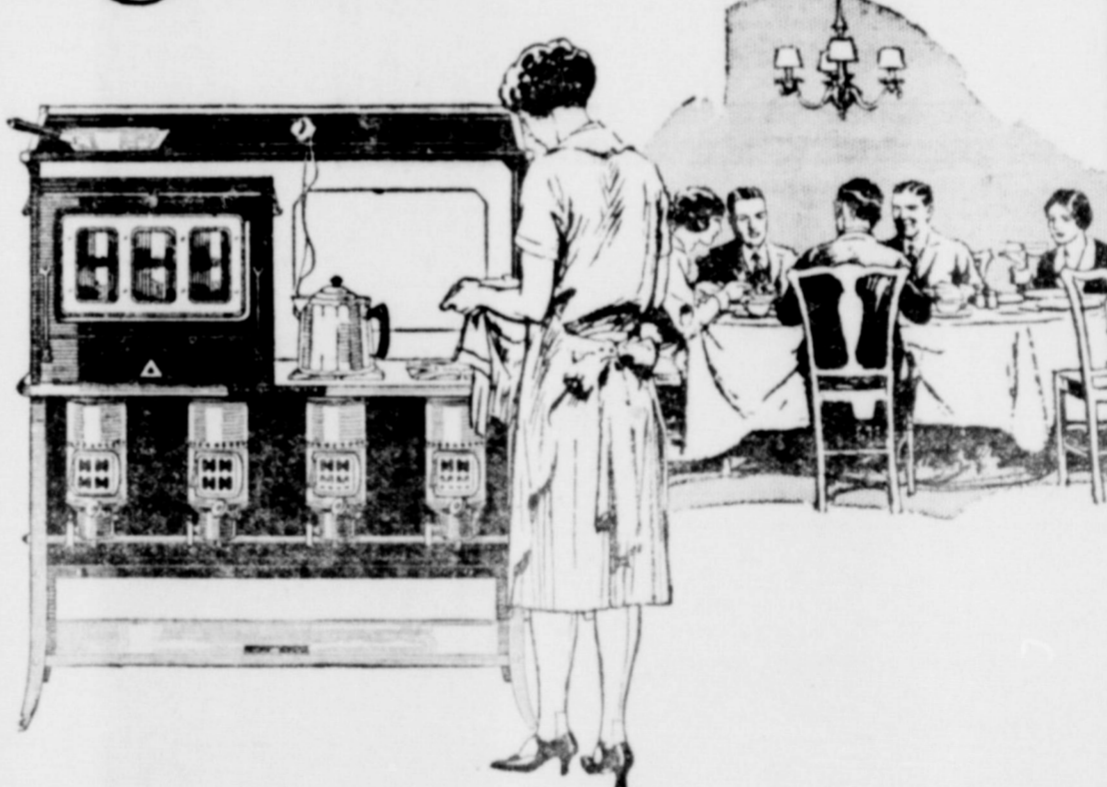

Miss Kennedy: "And many of the stars above us are bigger than the earth." J. R.: "Well then, why don't they keep off the rain?"

Mrs. Mann: "Why Bridget—I can write my name in the dust on this writing-desk!" Maid: "Sure, mum. What a fine thing it must be to have an education."

Mother: "But Madeline, I'm sure Mr. Palmer didn't mean for you to read the newspaper scandal stories." Madeline: "Oh, yes, he said to read the current events."

HUNDREDS OF YOUNG SINGERS FOUND IN HUNT FOR TALENT

MRS. EDGAR STILLMAN KELLEY

MADAM LOUISE HOMER

A. ATWATER KENT

THEN young American singers—presumably the best in the country—will face the microphones at Station WEAF in New York City early in December to sing for fame and fortune. They will be the finalists in the National Radio Audition of the Atwater Kent Foundation of Philadelphia.

This nationwide quest for radio voices has already revealed hundreds of young singers of promise, who have entered the contests eagerly because the auditions offer them recognition at home and a chance to compete for prizes amounting to $17,500. Distinctive prizes are sponsoring the undertaking as a National Audition Committee. They are Madam Louise Homer, the Metropolitan Opera star, Mrs. Edgar Stillman Kelley, president of the National Federation of Music Clubs, Edward W. Kent, former editor of the Ladies Home Journal, and Mrs. Otto H. Kahn, wife of the world-famous New York banker and music patron.

Winners of six auditions—one boy and one girl—receive silver medals and are taken to their district auditions at the expense of the Foundation to compete with young singers from their neighboring states. Winners of each of the five district auditions—one young man and one young woman in each—receive gold medals and are taken to New York by the Atwater Kent Foundation for the finals, which will be broadcast over a national network of stations. The awards for these will be as follows:

Winners of first place—one young man and one young woman—will each receive $5,000 cash and two years' tuition in a musical conservatory.

Winners of second place will each receive $2,500 cash and one year's tuition.

Winners of third place will each receive $1,000 and one year's tuition.

Winners of fourth place will each receive $500.

Now Read What 11,105* Doctors say About Lucky Strike Cigarettes Because "It's toasted"

WHAT is the quality that Giacomo Puccini, Margaret D'Alveron, Cosme Ferrini, Armand Tchaikoff, Emma Trentini, William Foyersheim, Florence Reed, Paul Whitman, and other famous singers, actors, broadcasters and public speakers have found that makes LUCKY STRIKES delightful and of no possible injury to their voices?

For the answer we turned to medical men and asked them this question:

Do you think from your experience with LUCKY STRIKE cigarettes that they are less irritating to sensitive or tender throats than other cigarettes, whatever the reason?

11,105* doctors answered this question "YES."

These figures represent the opinion and experience of doctors, those whose business it is to know.
