To Decorate Veterans Graves Memorial Day

American Legion To Decorate Graves

The practice of decorating the graves of all war veterans will be carried out again this year, members of Lowry Post No. 44 of American Legion have announced. J. C. Harpham, past commander of the post, announced Tuesday that the graves of all veterans buried in this vicinity will be decorated on Sunday, May 30, which is Memorial Day.

"All those having flowers which they will donate for this purpose are asked to call some member of the American Legion," Harpham said, "and arrangements will be made to secure the flowers and arrange them into wreaths or bouquets for this purpose."

"We also want members of the family of veterans who are buried at Munday, Gillispie, Hefner, Rhineland and Goree to accompany the Legion members to the graveside to decorate the grave. Members of families are asked to assemble at the American Legion hall not later than 1:30 Sunday afternoon. The Legion committee will leave immediately after to decorate the graves."

Benjamin Drivers License Office To Close Two Weeks

Due to shortage of manpower and the loss of examiners and patrolmen to the armed forces of the United States, the Vernon schedule, which includes Vernon, Quanah, Crowell, Benjamin, Seymour and Electra will be closed for one week, May 31 through June 5th, due to the fact that the drivers license examiner who makes this schedule will be on vacation.

However, for the information of those in and around Knox county, the Benjamin office will be reopened on the 15th of June, it was stated.

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENT
Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hulsey are the proud parents of a baby son, who was born Wednesday, May 26, at the Knox county hospital. Mother and little son are reported doing nicely.

Canning Sugar Stamps Valid

Sugar sales boomed last Monday as stamps for canning sugar became valid, and heavy buying is expected to continue for some two weeks.

Beginning last Monday, stamps 15 and 16, each to be exchanged for five pounds of canning sugar, became valid. Then, on Tuesday of next week, stamp No. 13 will be good for five pounds of sugar for normal usage. The validity of Stamp No. 12 expired on May 31.

Stamps 15 and 16 will continue valid through October 31, and stamp 13 will be good through August 15.

The OPA order on canning sugar, issued last Friday, is expected to triple demand for sugar in the immediate future. Wholesale houses say, however, that their supplies are adequate.

Where additional amounts of canning sugar are needed, special permits may be secured from the rationing office as in the past, it was stated.

One of the first wounded men returned from North Africa, Morris is eager to get back into the fight, thanks those who have donated blood to the Red Cross for having saved his life.

Chas. Giddings Is Made Major

RELIEVED FROM COMBAT

Mrs. Chas. H. Giddings, Jr. of Wichita Falls received a recent letter from her husband, Capt. Giddings, stating that he had been relieved of combat duty in the Southwest Pacific. Capt. Giddings is now doing administrative work and stated he was out of the danger zone. This word comes as a great relief to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Giddings.

Word came this week that Capt. Chas. H. Giddings, Jr. had received another promotion along with his being relieved of combat duty in the Southwest Pacific. Along with being assigned to administrative work, Giddings was also promoted to the rank of major.

The fact that Major Giddings was retained in the war zone while most of those under his command as captain were sent home for rest periods, together with Charles' rapid promotions, are indications that his services are of utmost value to our operations in this area.

Red Cross Knitting Material Available

Material for knitting Red Cross material is available at the home of Mrs. Fidella Moylette, and workers are asked to secure this material and complete the garments by July 15.

Mrs. Moylette has on hand material for eight sweaters, four helmets and five pair of wristlets. If at all possible, call Mrs. Moylette before coming after material. She cautioned also that work should be done according to Red Cross standards.

Training School Is Given To Teach County Women To Test Cooker Gauges

A training school was held at Benjamin in the Assembly Room of the Courthouse by Lucile King, county home demonstration agent, Wednesday, May 26, 1943, for the purpose of training leaders in the various communities of Knox county to test-gauges of pressure cookers.

Fourteen attended this training school and 10 pressure cooker gauges were tested. Those attending this meeting were as follows: Miss Anna Mae King, Home Economics teacher, Munday, Texas; Mrs. Geo. Petrus, Rhineland; Mrs. John N. Albus, Rhineland; Mrs. Bob Jones, Union Grove; Mrs. W. L. Paek, Union Grove; Mrs. Ulric Lea, Union Grove; Mrs. E. F. Branton, Union Grove; Mrs. W. H. Freeman, Sunset; Mrs. R. M. Almonrode, Sunset; Mrs. Rider, Gilliland, Cora Ann Rider, Gilliland; Mrs. G. L. Vance, Brock; Mrs. G. W. Montandon, Brock; Mrs. Leroy Melton, Benjamin.

"A cooker should be tested each year says Miss King, because if the maximum thermometer inside the cooker registers a higher temperature than the gauge registers, there is danger of overcooking, losing liquid, breaking glass, when glass jars are used, or bulging seams when cans are used. In extreme cases the cooker may explode. If the temperature is lower inside the cooker than the gauge registers, there is danger of undercooking the food, which may cause spoilage."

Joe Bailey King, owner of the shop, states he is in better position to do all types of tailor work now, and he invites the patronage of people of this trade area.

Applications For Ration Book 3 Go Into Mails

Knox county consumes began receiving application blanks for War Ration Book No. 3 last Monday, as these blanks went out on the rural routes.

Lee Haymes, postmaster, stated that the blanks are also being placed in boxes at the local post office this week. If anyone fails to receive his application blank he should apply at the post office for one.

These blanks can not be accepted in the mails or mailed back before June 1, Haymes said, but they must be mailed to the address printed on the card prior to midnight June 10. After that date no applications will be available at the post offices or handed out by carriers.

When filled out and mailed back, the blanks will require three cents postage.

The public is warned to read the cards carefully, fill in the necessary information and return the cards to Dallas. Only one application blank is necessary for each family, as there is space for writing in the names of all members of the family.

New Synthetic Rubber Tire Now On Display Here

A new synthetic tire, a sample of what America will be riding on in the future, is now on display at the Reeves Motor Co., local dealer of Goodyear tires. Only one tire of the synthetic rubber has been sent to tire dealers by the company.

Recent tests, according to the manufacturers, have proven that the traction on synthetic tires lasts longer than that of the gum rubber. These tests have given approval of the synthetic rubber.

Goodyear, who first introduced synthetic rubber in 1938, believes that the synthetic tire will be in mass production by the time our present stockpile of rubber is exhausted. Jim Reeves invites the public to come by his place and see this new tire.

Dr. Joe J. Taylor Dies At Dallas Home

A man familiarly known as "State Press" to every newspaper man in the state died last Monday at his Dallas home. He was Dr. Joe J. Taylor, editor-in-chief of the Dallas Morning News and author of the paper's editorial page column called State Press, which contained Dr. Taylor's personal comments on articles secured from the state's newspapers.

Editor Taylor, who was 73 years old, was regarded in the Southwest as a master of the English language. He fell ill last year but continued to work until October. He was ordered to bed by his physician and remained there until his death.

Funeral services were held at 3 p. m. last Tuesday in Dallas, with Dr. George W. Truett, pastor of the First Baptist church, and Rev. John Donaho, pastor of the Oak Lawn Methodist church, in charge. Burial was in Restland Memorial Park.

Dr. Taylor born in Wilson, N. C., clerked in a store, worked on a farm, managed a gin and received a high school education before turning to the newspaper field on the Clarksville, Texas, Times.

He attended college just one day, long enough to receive an honorary degree of Doctor of Literature from Baylor University. In his 39 years with the News his chief charm was the fresh, wise style he contributed to the editorial page.

In his column he gave advice on everything from national financial affairs to domestic problems. He once advised a married man who complained that his wife wore the pants to grow a long batch of whiskers and wear long handled underwear. "That will make you feel you are the man of the house even though your wife really runs things," he said.

Time Extended On Red Stamp J

The Office of Price Administration announced Saturday that Red Stamp "J," worth 16 points of rationed meats and fats, will be good throughout June instead of expiring May 31. This action was taken, it was stated, to avoid a rush on retailers on the Saturday preceding Memorial day.

OPA also announced that four new series of red stamps (a total of 64 points) will become valid at weekly intervals beginning May 30 and will be good for meats-fats purchases through June 30.

The extension of the validity of stamp "J" leaves stamps "E," "F," "G," and "H" expiring May 31. Stamp "J" became valid the first of this week.

The schedule for validity dates of the new red stamps, each good for 16 points and all expiring June 30, follows: K, May 30; L, June 6; M, June 13, and N, June 20.

NEW YORK CITY—Cpl. Forman Nix, A. C., of Munday, Texas has been awarded the Air Medal by Brig. Gen. Westside T. Larson, commanding general of the Army Air Forces anti-submarine command, "for extraordinary achievement while participating in more than 200 hours of antisubmarine patrol."

The citation further states that, "as a member of a combat crew he displayed outstanding initiative, resourcefulness, and a high degree of skill under many trying conditions such as restricted visibility, low ceilings and icing conditions encountered on the large number of flights necessary to perform this hazardous patrol of great responsibility. Possibility of encountering enemy ships of fighter type or anti-aircraft fire added to the hazards of these missions. The outstanding service of this individual reflects the highest credit on the military forces of the United States."

In a recent letter to his father, M. G. Nix of the Sunset community, Forman stated he has received promotion to sergeant. He has been in the service since Christmas, 1941. He went into the army air corps training at Dallas, from there to Mineral Wells, then to Sheppard Field, going from there to New Hampshire, Delaware, Virginia and Miami, Fla.

Funeral For E. Frank Meers Held Tuesday

Death came at 2:45 last Monday afternoon to Frank Meers, well known Munday resident, who had been in a Wichita Falls hospital for some two weeks under treatment following a major operation. Mr. Meers apparently was recovering, but he died suddenly of a heart attack.

E. Frank Meers was born July 30, 1883, in Route County, Kentucky, and died at the age of 59 years, 10 months and 26 days. He was a well known farmer and stockman of this county. The family moved to Texas when he was about two years of age, and Mr. Meers had lived in and near Munday for the past 30 years.

He was married to Miss Neely Webb on October 8, 1898, and his wife preceded him in death, passing away December 6, 1930. To this union were born four children: Lilly Pearly, who died in infancy; Floyd Meers, of Seymour; Boyd Meers of Munday, and Sgt. Burt Meers of Orlando, Fla.

Mr. Meers was married on July 9, 1934, to Mrs. Irene Thompson, and she survives together with the above children, five grandchildren and three great grandchildren. Mr. Meers is also survived by two brothers and a sister, who are: Dr. John Meers of Detroit, Texas; Jerome Meers of Seymour, and Mrs. Mary Johnson, who resides in Parker county.

Mr. Meers joined the Baptist church at the age of 14, and had been a member since.

Funeral services were held from the First Baptist church at three o'clock last Tuesday afternoon, conducted by Rev. W. H. Albertson, pastor. Interment was in the Goree cemetery.

Active pallbearers were R. T. Morrow, Oates Golden, H. A. Pendleton, Ben Guinn, Fred Broach, Bill Swain, Leland Hannah and Ed Thompson. Honorary pallbearers were C. R. Elliott, E. H. Mullican, Chester Borden, Edward Goode, Coel Burton, Dee Mullican, Bob Huckabee, Sied Waheed, and Elmer Cude.

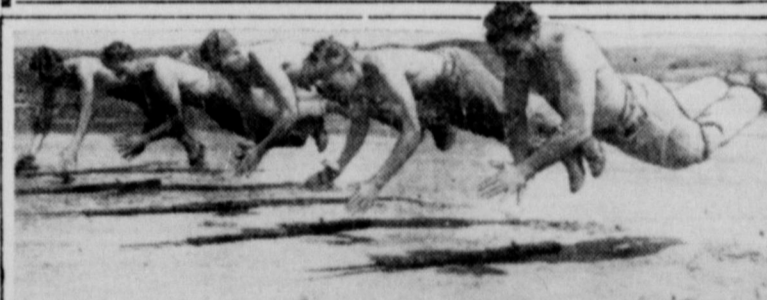

Flower bearers were Mrs. Elmer Cude, Mrs. R. T. Morrow, Mrs. Dee Mullican, Miss Louise Mullican, Miss Marjorie Howeth and Miss Marion Howeth.

THIS MEANS ME

The Office of Defense Transportation advises that non-essential travel for other than vacation purposes must be wholly eliminated, and that vacations should be spent at home or as near home as possible. Director Eastman of the ODT asks the public to "avoid overnight trips, travel on day coaches, and carry box lunches on the trains, so as not to add to the strain on Pullman and dining car facilities—carry as little baggage as possible.... Be prepared to expect delayed arrivals, crowded conditions and lack of the usual travel comforts. The cooperation of employers and of individuals in... minimizing vacation travel... is urgently necessary...."

"There is no pleasure in giving such advice as this, and I know that many will find it difficult to realize that there is need for it. If they will think for a moment of what the induction, training, and final embarkation of many millions of service-men means in the way of a load upon our railroads and buses, combined with the continued travel of these men on furlough and leave, of service women, and of relatives and friends, plus the extraordinary business travel which the tremendous productive activity of the country requires and if they will also bear in mind that the railroads and bus lines have been given practically no new equipment and have lost the help of the private automobile, I think they will understand what we are up against."

"Many will approve the advice as good for the other fellow, but will regard a personal pleasure trip now and then as a harmless exception. The advice will do no good unless everyone will realize that it 'means me' and applies today as well as tomorrow."

THE SUPREME TEST

One of the evils of inflation is the bitter hickering that ensues over who is reaping the benefits of higher prices.

The fact that the retail distribution industry operates under stringent price ceilings that more often than not work a very real hardship on merchants, is not generally appreciated. Retailers, far from making exorbitant profits, are striving to stay in business and better serve the consumer. Not only are their regulatory problems assuming crushing proportions, but each day irreplaceable inventories dwindle.

By improvisation and streamlined operating methods, the distribution system has been held together and carried the burden of rationing and price control. Its stability has been as gratifying as it has been amazing.

Much credit for the strength of the retail distribution industry must go to the chain stores. They initiated the economies of mass merchandising that in the space of a few years revolutionized retailing. The methods of operation which they introduced were rapidly adopted by independents. Giant strides were made toward giving the consumer more for less money. Competition was keen. Stores were made more attractive and sanitary. The advent of war found the retail industry at a high level of service and efficiency.

Retailers are now enduring a supreme test. A cooperative public will help the merchants maintain the best possible customer service in these times.

MORE PRODUCTION RECORDS

According to War Production Chief Donald Nelson, a number of production records were broken during the month of March, among them a new high output of 6,200 planes. Construction of both naval and merchant ships was the greatest on record, and delivery of Liberty ships for the first time exceeded 100 a month.

March munitions gains over February are as follows:

Total munitions up 11 per cent
Aircraft up 11 per cent
Ground ordnance up 7 per cent
Navy and Army vessels up 14 per cent
Merchant vessels up 7 per cent
Miscellaneous munitions up 12 per cent

With the daily war news as encouraging as it is, we are likely to pass over production figures with the smug attitude of having expected them to continue rising. Industry, having jumped the initial hurdle, has done better than merely maintain its original pace. It has increased it, a job that is not only a credit to the men who actually produce the weapons but to industrial management which undertook to see that our fighting forces would get whatever they need—on time.

THE GREATEST POSTWAR THREAT

At a recent meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, Harold V. Coes, president of the society in describing the "miracle of production by American industry to meet the needs of global warfare" said that the United States had produced in about two years what it took Japan thirty years to do, Russia twenty years, and Germany ten years.

This is an amazing record, yet here in America we take such achievements for granted. American industry is expected to produce what we need in peace or war and it can always be counted upon to fulfill its obligations.

In the year and a half since Pearl Harbor industry has not only met the fantastic production schedules called for by the government but in the process has found out how to save war material, war time, and war money. Material saved has been used for other important purposes. Time saved has enabled skilled workers to devote their efforts to other needed tasks. Money saved has been passed back to the government and to the people.

All of these savings made possible through the know-how of management and employees have enabled us to outproduce the Axis powers and to provide the fighting forces of the Allied Nations with the world's finest fighting equipment.

While this American industrial know-how is now devoted entirely to war production problems, plans are under way to convert this "bottomless pit of industrial plenty" to the problems of peace when the war is over. And industry, mindful of its obligation to millions of workers now in the war plants and the returning soldiers and sailors, will be ready to provide them with the jobs they will need and the security for which they have so valiantly labored.

The main question about the future lies not in the ability of industry to fulfill its obligations but in the haze of uncertainty which surrounds the postwar plans of the government. As Frederick C. Crawford, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, has said, the uncertainty of the real attitude of the government toward private enterprise is "the greatest threat to prosperity in the postwar era."

TIME TO QUIT KIDDING

In spite of the apparent success of the last war bond drive, the ominous fact remains that of the billions of dollars worth of bonds sold only a small proportion went to individuals. As usual banks, corporations and other institutional investors with accumulated reserves absorbed most of the obligation.

This means that the prosperous masses are still riding the crest of a luxuriant war boom, with income expanded in March, 1943, 28 per cent over March 1942. Taxes and bond buying will barely scratch the surface of the billions of the "new rich."

This all adds up to one thing: The people at home are still trying to fight the war the easy way. Instead of sacrificing comfort for the sake of victory as our men are sacrificing their lives, they are, so far, using the war as a device to wallow in more comfort.

Will our soldiers return to a luxury-satiated bankrupt homeland with a Congress still arguing over peacetime tax details, or a land where the integrity and solvency of their government has been preserved? The answer is with us.

Perfectly packed, properly stowed, and carefully handled—a million dollars worth of airplane engines are transported efficiently and safely in a single box car.

A self-powered, magnetic scrap-picker, designed and constructed from odds and ends, now does the work of six men in gathering up one company's scrap.

Bogey Men to the Axis

MASSIVE United States Flying Fortress, escorted by Spitfires of the Royal Canadian Air Force, have been making air history during past months with their high level precision bombing attacks on objectives in enemy occupied territory.

Individual fliers from the Dominion who comprise a Canadian fighter wing in Britain have played a large part in the development of fighting techniques at high altitudes where combat has never previously been attempted.

The great heights, ranging from 20,000 to 25,000 feet, from which the Fosters have bombed factories, marshalling yards and other objectives, have been topped half again by the fighter squadrons which protect them on their long hauls.

The problem of escorting these monster bombers has developed the job of the fighter pilot into a task which requires the same skill and rapidity of judgment, in the stratosphere of 32,000 feet, as is needed in a more normal operation carried out at half that height. For at over 30,000 feet the fighter pilot has to watch constantly for conditions which would not affect his actions at lower altitudes.

For one thing, in the thin air his oxygen supply must be properly regulated. If he takes a single breath of the atmosphere which nature provides at that height, "he's had it," in the parlance of the airman. He constantly watches his oxygen control tap, making sure he is getting the right amount.

As he slides along above the cloud in his Spitfire at something more than 300 miles an hour, the pilot remembers that his aircraft is not going to respond quite the same to his touch on the control column and rudder bar as it did nearer the earth. So when he does contact the enemy, either in attack or defense, he allows for this difference in mechanical response.

There is wind up there, too, a tearing, shrieking wind that may whip the aircraft along at an additional 140 miles an hour, or retard its progress by that much if the squadron is flying into the wind. The pilot must allow for this. If he calculates wrongly he may run out of gas long before he can reach home shores again.

It's a new world up there, lonely and cold, where the air is thin and dust is scarce, and the glare of the sun is accentuated by its reflection from the dazzling banks of clouds. Because they stay alert in a realm where the mind is wont to wander, these fighter pilots are called "keen types." Should his mind wander even for a moment, ten or fifty Focke Wulf's may swoop down on the squadron, or on the Fortresses they are there to protect.

The high flying "Spits," with young men from every province of Canada at the controls, have proved their worth in the new battle arenas high above the clouds. Day in and day out they have flown and fought at heights that would have been declared impossible a few short months ago. Their vital job has enabled the mighty bombers to reach their planned objectives safely, drop their deadly loads and return to base.

When Italy Is Invaded

WHEN the troops of the United Nations invade Italy this year they will be received as brothers and liberators by the people, by the army and by the members of the Underground in that Axis nation.

This prediction is made by Count Carlo Sforza, former Italian Minister of Foreign Affairs, Ambassador to France, Ambassador Extraordinary to Japan, Life Member of the Italian Senate and acclaimed as leader of the Free Italians by the Montevideo Pan-American Conference of 1942.

Count Sforza, writing in the June issue of Cosmopolitan Magazine, describes in detail the events he believes will take place when American troops land in Italy.

"If the necessary morale and diplomatic preparations have been made by the Allies, then I, and all others who know the psychology of the Italian people, will not hesitate to forecast this timetable of events in Italy," writes Count Sforza.

- "The Americans will be received as brothers and liberators by the people, by the army and by the daring, anonymous young heroes of the Underground."
- "The Italian Army will be proud to fight once more shoulder to shoulder with the American Army against the Germans, as it did in 1917-18."
- "The people of Italy will welcome the union of American and Italian arms as a symbol of the future progress and prosperity of Italy."
- "The Fascists! Poor Fascist! Each and every one of them will swear to the Americans they became members of the party only as self-protection and sometimes in order to fight it from inside. They will swear that in their secret hearts they were first and last true democrats—and there will be more than a degree of truth in some of their statements."
- "Mussolini will flee, unless he is assassinated or commits suicide. But his end is certain!"
- "The poor King, too, will flee. He will offer no resistance and will be only too glad to get away."
- "The Italian people will adopt a republican form of government, sans King, sans dictators. This is a highly desirable timetable and it CAN be put into effective operation. I base my prognostications on highly confidential information, my knowledge of the Italian people and my constant contact with its soul; morally I have never been an exile; far from it."

WAR BOND QUIZ

Q. May I sell a Bond or give it away?
A. No. War Savings Bonds are not transferable.

Q. May a beneficiary redeem a Bond during the lifetime of the registered owner?
A. No. The Bond will be paid to the beneficiary by the Treasury only when the beneficiary has furnished the Treasury with proof of the owner's death.

Q. How much does a War Bond cost?
A. The price of War Bonds is 75 percent of their maturity value. For a $25 denomination Bond, for example, you pay $18.75 and at maturity in 10 years you receive $25. This is the smallest Bond you can buy.

Q. How do I receive my Bond?
A. If you buy over the counter for cash, it will be delivered at that time. If ordered by mail, it will be mailed to your address or to anyone whom you designate.

Remember—the longer you keep War Bonds, up to 10 years, the more valuable they become.

Every month an average of 702 freight trains, most of them carrying vital war goods, are delayed an average of 460 hours because of carelessness by the men and women who drive automobiles.

The grade crossing accident illustrated here is an example:
At 1:32 a.m. (more than 1,900 grade crossing accidents occurred at night last year) a freight train passed through a city in accordance with the speed limit. The locomotive's headlight gleamed through the darkness and the regulation whistle warnings were sounded.

The engineman saw a gasoline tank truck crossing immediately in front of the engine and, realizing the imminence of the accident, applied the air brakes, but was unable to stop in time. The impact tore the gasoline tank open. Gasoline ignited and exploded, killing the engineman, fireman and a brakeman, as well as the oil truck driver.

The locomotive and 57 freight cars and their contents were damaged by flames. Three homes nearby caught fire and burned, as well as two parked automobiles and one express truck.

The National Safety Council is conducting a special campaign to stop these grade crossing accidents, which every day delay an average of 35 trains a total of 22 hours—a serious drain on the nation's war transportation effort.

Driver carelessness is the cause of almost all grade crossing accidents, according to the Council. To help win the war, to save yourself and others needless suffering, the Council asks you to be sure the track is clear before you start across.

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
AAA NEWS
By MARVIN ALLEN, Administrative Officer
Knox County Agricultural Conservation Association

The Knox County AAA Office desires to be of maximum service to all people of this county at all times and has an efficient, well trained personnel that is both willing and able to help you with your problems. The AAA Office maintains complete records on all farming operations for each individual farm and stands ready at all times to furnish such records to the operator of the farm. We are also in a position to render service to people other than farmers who are indirectly engaged in agriculture, as the AAA personnel does all clerical work for the Knox County USDA War Board, Knox County Farm Transportation Committee, Knox County Farm Machinery Rationing Committee, The Commodity Credit Corporation, clerical work in connection with the Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation, Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, as well as all clerical work in regard to the Agricultural Adjustment Agency.

We try to maintain complete records and all regulations governing the rationing of all articles that affect agriculture. If any one desires information on any item that is rationed which affects agriculture we shall be glad to give you this information or direct you to the person or office that can supply the information.

In this column, starting next week, will appear detailed information on all items rationed which affect agriculture—such questions as these will be answered: What application form is necessary to obtain this or that item? Where should this form be filed? Where can application forms be obtained? Is the item in question under an order from the War Production Board? These and other questions will be answered.

In order for the ration program to be the success that it must be it is necessary that the people know the answers to the questions that are printed above—so watch this column for detailed explanations.

The Black Markets
Some people have the impression that black markets exist only in an atmosphere of alley hide-outs... mobsters... and tommy guns.

Black markets exist wherever a housewife pays a penny more than ceiling price... or a dealer sells without collecting stamps.

One violation may seem petty, and we suppose it is. But multiplied by a million, it can wreck the food management program. Here are some of the points you should keep in mind:

(1)—Never sell rationed food without collecting ration stamps.
(2)—Never buy rationed foods without surrendering your ration stamps.
(3)—Never pay more than ceiling price for any food.
(4)—Never charge more than ceiling price for any food.
(5)—Always register as a seller, obtain proper permits.
(6)—Send collected stamps with the report form to the local War Price and Rationing Board.

Rationing of Butter
A dangerous black market in butter is spreading in some parts of the nation. City consumers learned that some farm folks didn't realize they MUST collect ration stamps for farm butter. DON'T transfer butter to anybody unless you collect points for it.

Collect Ration Stamps
A farmer who transfers butter, lard, or any other rationed food to a retailer under the meats and fats program must collect ration points for the transfer just as he has been collecting points for sales to consumers since March 29.

All farm sales, whether to consumers or to retailers, must be made at current point values, eight points per pound for butter, and five points per pound for lard. Stamps or other ration currency that farmers collect for their sales of butter and lard must be turned in to their local War Price and Rationing Board once each month in which a sale is made, along with a report on OPA Form R-1609. This simple form should be available at all local Boards.

A New Valuation
How much is a pound of fat? Here's the way the Office of War Information defines it, and it's about the best we've seen.
"It's the firing of four 37 millimeter anti-aircraft shells when Nazi planes fly over North Africa. It's 1 3-10 pounds of cordite which sends a shell screaming toward an invasion objective. It's a half pound of dynamite to blow up a bridge to hamper the enemy. It's three cellophane bags to protect the gas masks our soldiers carry. It's 10 rounds from a 50-caliber airplane cannon pointed at a Jap."

SAVE YOUR WASTE FATS FOR VICTORY.
Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Roberts had as their guests Sunday the latter's father, Dr. J. D. Smith and uncle, N. T. Smith, both of Haskell.

CARD OF THANKS
We take this means of thanking each and everyone of you who helped to make our burden of sorrow lighter in the death of our baby. Especially do we thank Mr. Wade Mahan for his many acts of kindness. We pray God's richest blessings on you all.
Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Hackney, Mrs. Callie Hackney, Robert Horan and Family.

Plans Laid For A. A. A. Program For Next Year

COLLEGE STATION—Agricultural production during 1942 averaged six percent above the 10 years preceding 1933, when the AAA first came into existence, C. D. Walker, of Washington, assistant regional AAA director, told agricultural leaders here last week.

Speaking before the group which drafted plans for the 1944 farm program, Walker said production has averaged nearly 13 percent larger since 1937, when the present farm program, which stresses conservation, was created through an act of Congress.

The two-day meeting which attracted Texas farm leaders and their representatives, was called by the state AAA committee, of which Geo. Slaughter, Wharton, is chairman.

Final recommendations of the group emphasized more soil conservation and soil-building practices for the 1944 program, which will be designed to obtain maximum production of food and feed needed in the war program.

Walker pointed out that farmers have not received due recognition for their all-out efforts in the war program, and added that last year not only was one of record production but that the greatest increases were in those commodities which contributed most to the prosecution of the war at home and abroad.

Americans have consumed eight percent more food per person during the past two years than they did during the boom years of 1928 and 1929, the AAA official said.

plies needed to meet war demands." He predicted further shifts from less essential to vitally needed crops during 1944.

Other speakers at the two-day conference included Dean E. J. Kyle, School of Agriculture, Texas A. and M. College; J. B. Daniels, chief, Program Development Section, AAA, Washington; and C. J. Byrd, chief, Program Operations Section, AAA, Jackson, Mississippi.

Preceding the state-wide meeting, community AAA committees of all Texas counties were asked for suggestions to improve the operation of the 1944 program. These ideas were considered in county and district meetings from which the state leaders drafted recommendations. In this manner, the national farm program will convey the wishes of the majority of farmers.

First Rodeo For H.-S. U To Be Early In June

ABILENE, Texas.—Hardin-Simmons University, founded by the cattlemen of the Southwest, will present its first annual rodeo and round-up June 2 to 5 on the Cowboy football field.

Gene Autry's World Championship Rodeo Corporation has been signed to provide the wild livestock and horses for the performance, and entries are being received from leading ropers and riders of several states. Everett Colburn, Autry's partner and director of the Madison Square Garden, New York, and Boston and Chicago rodeos, will be manager-director of the Hardin-Simmons event.

The rodeo is being presented at the request of officials of nearby Camp Berkeley, and is primarily to provide entertainment for the servicemen of that camp and the Abilene air base. Athletic Director Gilbert B. Sandefur, general manager, said. Efforts are being made to secure Gene Autry, radio and motion picture star, for personal appearances and for broadcast of his weekly radio show from Camp Berkeley.

PLANNING ISN'T NEW

THE way a lot of people are talking these days, you'd think planning is something new. But anybody who's ever run a farm or a factory knows that if you don't plan, you can't get the most out of what you have to work with.

To plan properly, the farmer has to know about crops, soils, seasons, tools, and stock; and the man operating a factory has to know about machines, markets, science, and engineering.

Yet for all this specialized knowledge which each of these activities requires, the managers of both farm and factory have much in common in their planning. They have the same problems—to mention a few—of employment and taxes, of costs and a fair profit, of setting aside reserves for a "rainy day."

And they have the same objective in their planning—to do everything they can for their country today, and, tomorrow, to make a fair living through greater service to their fellow Americans. General Electric Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Cotton, one of America's major weapons of war, continues to substitute and do a better job for many war-drafted materials. The plastic furniture pictured here represents one of the newer uses of cotton, the material from which the furniture is made having been derived from cotton linters. Many other developments with cotton plastics are expected to result from intense research now being conducted.

ANOTHER MEAT STRETCHER

"I want ideas to make all kinds of meat go a long way," one young woman answered when asked what sort of cooking information she felt she needed most.

"You see, I used to have two or three standby recipes for making a little bit of meat look like a lot. I thought it was better to be a master hand at a few recipes than to use a lot of them—and never really do justice to any one. But now—with rationing—one just has to know something about fixing all kinds of meat—so that one can make the most of whatever meat one can get."

I'm sure lots of women have felt this same way about it being smart to have a variety of different recipes for different types of meat at hand. So here's a real recipe to add to your meat repertoire. It's called—

STUFFED VEAL ROULETTES

3 slices bread, cubed	Dash of pepper
3 tsp. milk	1/2 tsp. sage
1 small egg, beaten	1 lb. veal steak (have butcher flatten veal into 6 thin pieces about 3x5")
1/2 lb. pork sausage (bulk)
1/2 cup finely chopped onion
1/2 tsp. salt

Mix bread cubes, milk, egg, pork sausage, chopped onion and seasonings. Spread each piece of veal with layer of bread stuffing. Roll up, fasten with wooden picks or skewers. Sauté until golden brown in a little hot fat in heavy skillet. Add enough water to cover bottom of skillet. Cover. Bake about 1 hour in a moderate oven (350°). Add more water during baking, if necessary, to prevent meat from cooking dry.

This will make 6 servings. And here's a menu built around these veal roulettes—

Veal Roulettes with Milk Gravy
Steamed Rice
Fresh or Frozen Peas and Cubed Carrots
Grapefruit and Avocado Salad in Lettuce Cups
Sweet French Dressing
Bread and Butter
Fresh Strawberry Shortcake

One of the most famous eating-places in the world is Sanborn's in Mexico City in the picturesque "house of tiles." Waitresses are garbed in Mexican costume, the surroundings are semi-tropical but the foods, except for a few native dishes, are French and American. Hundreds of tourists dine there and the place is almost always full. P. S.—The meals are superb.

If you have plenty of time, visit Henri's. It's a quite small cafe. The picture of the chef is on the wall. You understand why after you've dined there. There were three in our group and each ordered something different, so we could share dishes. The steak was delicious; the chicken, "hunter-style," was even more so. But, finest of all, was the roast squab. If you can imagine meat as melting in the mouth, you'll have the general idea.

Local Men Enter Advanced Training In U. S. Air Forces

SAN ANTONIO AVIATION CADET CENTER — Praised by Under Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson as "a fine body of men" and said by Congressman R. E. Thomason of Texas to make him "feel good over the future of the nation," another large class of potential combat pilots has departed from the San Antonio Aviation Cadet Center to take advanced training at primary flying fields.

Members of the class were among the thousands of cadets inspected by Patterson; Congressman Thomason, ranking member of the House military affairs committee, and Senator Burnet Maybank of South Carolina, member of the military affairs committee of the Senate.

The cadets have completed two phases of their training—those at the Army Air Forces Classification Center and at the Preflight School (Pilot), the two units which make up this military establishment, largest aviation cadet training center in the nation. They will receive their first actual flying training at the primary fields.

Members of the class included 326 from Texas of whom 2 are from Munday and vicinity. They are: Aviation Cadet Jerome H. Kane, Munday, and Aviation Cadet Junior C. Hawes, Weinert.

Our Merchant Marine

AMONG HISTORIES MOST THRILLING STORIES IS THAT OF OUR MERCHANT MARINE. ITS FIRST CHAPTERS, LIKE MANY LATER ONES, WERE WRITTEN FROM STERN NECESSITY.

IT BEGINS WITH THE TERRIBLE WINTER OF 1607, WHEN THE DISCOURAGED POKHAMP COLONISTS ON THE KENNEBEC RIVER, MAINE, HEWED FROM THE FOREST THE FIRST AMERICAN-BUILT COMMERCIAL VESSEL THE 30 TON PINNACE VIRGINIA, AND SAILED IN HER TO ENGLAND.

THE NEW ENGLAND COLONISTS, LACKING VIRGINIA'S TOBACCO CROP AND FERTILE SOIL TURNED TO THE SEA FOR THEIR LIVELIHOOD.

GREATEST FRIEND OF OUR COLONIAL SHIPPING WAS JOHN WINTHROP FIRST GOVERNOR OF MASSACHUSETTS, WHOSE TINY SLOOP "BLESSING OF THE BAY," 1630, TRADED ALONG THE NEW ENGLAND COAST AND EVEN WITH THE DUTCH ON MANHATTAN ISLAND.

FROM THOSE MODIST BEGINNINGS COASTAL AND INTERCOASTAL TRADE GREW STEADILY BY THE TIME OF OUR ENTRANCE INTO THIS WAR, MORE THAN HALF OUR TOTAL TONNAGE WAS DEVOTED EXCLUSIVELY TO THIS OPERATIONS.

Crawford Asks For Clear Statement On Government's Post War Policy

NAM President Declares That "Churchill-Like" Announcement Is Needed on Enterprise Issue

CHICAGO, Ill. (IPS)—Termining the uncertainty of the government's real attitude toward private enterprise "the greatest threat to prosperity in the postwar era," Frederick C. Crawford, president of the National Association of Manufacturers called upon President Roosevelt to follow the example of England's Prime Minister Churchill and make a statement reassuring the public of "the bedrock on which we intend to build the future."

Mr. Crawford speaking here before the Economic Club of Chicago said that Prime Minister Winston Churchill had inspired British confidence in the postwar outlook by publicly rejecting any thought of a complete peacetime overhauling of English economy, and he declared that "no other thing would contribute so much to sound planning for postwar America" as to have our own President take a similar stand.

Mr. Churchill's statement, as quoted by Mr. Crawford, read: "We must beware of trying to build a society in which nobody counts for anything except the politicians and the officials, a society where enterprise gains no reward and thrift no privilege... of all the races in the world our people would be the last to consent to be governed by a bureaucracy. Freedom is in their blood."

Industry-Government Plan
A seven-point postwar program for government and industry to follow, as offered by Mr. Crawford follows:

1. Policies for the utmost encouragement of a free and steady flow of capital into job-making enterprise.

2. Formation of tax laws which will permit rewards for successful production and distribution, making private investment worth while.

3. Stabilized currency at home, and, as far as possible, a stabilized currency relationship with other countries.

4. A credit system which will provide adequate funds for working capital and expansion, but which will not go so far as to encourage a speculative boom.

5. The formulation of a national labor relations policy which will restore industrial harmony and increase production.

6. Avoidance in management and government policies of rigidity in wages and prices, and of rigidity between them.

7. A reappraisal of the relationship of government and industry to eliminate unnecessary controls and regulations.

Start Postwar Thinking Now

Postwar plenty, Mr. Crawford said, will come not only out of national teamwork "but out of the realization of every group and every citizen that he must not await some superplan to glory, but that every interest and individual must accept responsibility for his own planning, as well as helping our government."

Management must not sit "idly by and dare government or anyone else to prepare the 'primrose path,'" Mr. Crawford added. He pointed out that the NAM, as well as other industrial organizations, is working on definite postwar suggestions and urged that all industrial concerns start now with their postwar thinking.

As management's obligations he listed: to keep enterprise free and competitive by avoiding monopoly; continually trying to make better goods cheaper; planning now for new markets, new products, and new jobs; working closely with government; and exercising business statesmanship to avoid basic disunity in its recommendations to government.

Mr. Crawford warned against the "escape" thinking which envisions a "sacrifice-free" postwar period in which we shall not have to pay for the "wastage" of the war. He asked for a "realistic" attitude to discredit "log-rolling" and "hocking" our way back into prosperity.

"The only way to get prosperity is to go to work and multiply prosperity by more production," he said. "America's postwar dilemma is to face realism after years of seeking the easy detour around orthodox economies... We'd better be sure we were planning the right way to a better postwar world, and not just a comfortable experiment with the facts."

Cecil Cooper Graduates From Carlsbad School

Unique among schools of the Army Air Forces is the navigation school at the Carlsbad Army Air Field, Carlsbad, New Mexico. Included among the graduates was Second Lieutenant Willie C. Cooper, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Cooper of Weinert.

Lt. Cooper recently received his bombardier wings upon graduation from the Victorville, California Advanced Flying School.

All students at the Carlsbad school—the only one of its kind—are commissioned bombardiers who come to Carlsbad to receive a special intensified course in "dead reckoning" navigation. With this additional training they are able to direct a plane to its objective and also drop the bombs on the precise spot most beneficial to the United Nations' war effort.

The rugged course of study includes athletics, military hygiene, first aid, and military drill, besides academic courses in meteorology, vectors, aircraft instruments, map reading, and map projections. Theoretical problems are worked out in the class, followed by practice bombing missions where the theory is put to the test of actual flying conditions.

Diese Kriegswirtschaft Geschlossen weil die Notige Elektrizität nicht mehr Vorhanden ist

You Can't Depend on Isolated Hydro-Electric Power, Eh, Mr. Goebbels?

Allied bombers this last week hit Herr Goebbels in one of his most vulnerable spots. Bombs—and mines—rained upon two of Hitler's biggest dams, knocking out hydro-electric plants which provided power for much of Nazi-land's wartime industry.

"Rail and Highway Bridges and Power Plants Swept Away and Whole Industrial Centers Wrecked" read the newspaper headline.

Of course, crafty Herr Goebbels wouldn't actually post the sign seen above: "This war industry closed for lack of electric power." But that, in fact, had already happened, even before the latest bombing raid on Nazi hydro plants. Power shortages have hampered German factories. With all their other substitutes, the Nazis haven't yet been able to invent an ersatz electricity!

West Texas—and all America—is more fortunate. There's no power shortage here! And we're not dependent on hydro-power... which, as the Germans have learned, is vulnerable to enemy airmen while at the same time constituting a man-made flood menace.

We have more electric power than all the Axis nations combined. And our war industry served by the electric companies under American business management (companies like the West Texas Utilities which are supplying over 90% of this nation's electricity) has been without ample power for all its needs!

Here in West Texas we have an interconnected system of steam power plants, each independent of the other. Neither bombs nor drought nor floods in the vicinity of any single plant can "knock out" this system.

Transmission lines are so linked together that power is automatically switched from one region to another in event of mishap. It's the most dependable system the world has ever known.

While Goebbels posts his "Closed" signs, free American men and women—permitted to plan, invent and create in the democratic way—are building the weapons of war which hasten the day of Victory... posting another sort of sign: Danger, Adolf—Americans at Work!

REDDY KILOWATT: "There's no substitute for War Bonds, either!"

Sgt. Ameen Tells Of Trip To North Africa; Preparation For Invasion

Sgt. Ernest S. Ameen, brother of Mrs. Sied Waheed, gives details of the job he had during the days just before the invasion of North Africa. His account, given in a letter to the editor of the Gilmer Weekly Mirror dated April 11, is as follows:

Somewhere in North Africa. Dear Friend Russell:

I am sure glad you received my last letter and I am taking time today to write you more of my travels. I want to tell you a little more about the time we landed here.

We left England (* * *) Where we were going, no one knew. It was a pretty well kept military secret and only time was to reveal our destination. As far as we men were concerned, it was just another move and we didn't care. But I had a very good idea that our voyage was an important mission. However, we were promised that in a few days we would be informed of our destination and our mission.

A few days passed and our adjutant, Lt. Austin McCracken, informed us that we were destined for North Africa and the job was invasion. He promised to give us a pamphlet telling us about the natives and the people in general, that same afternoon.

This pleased me very much because North Africa is mostly inhabited by the Arabian people and fortunately, I knew the Arabian language. That afternoon we received the pamphlet and read it very carefully.

The Adjutant was also pleased to learn that I spoke the language fluently and said that I would be of great help to them in that theatre of operations. The next day I found myself a busy man, teaching the other soldiers in our squadron how to speak some of the language and how to conduct themselves among the natives. I found it impossible to get around to all of them so I prepared a list of Arabian words and expressions they might need in every-day contact with the natives. Anyone who could use a typewriter was also a busy man, copying and distributing the translated copies. Someone had already started a business of selling the copies for two shillings each, which is equivalent to about forty cents. And I noticed the soldiers were willing to pay even that price for something that might be useful to them. One of our officers came over that afternoon and I had to go over the correct pronunciation of each word, with him.

I was asked by a British officer if I would accept an invitation that afternoon to give his boys a lecture on "How a soldier should act in dealing with the Mohammedan and Islam world." Since I had travelled all over this part of the country and as far as Egypt and in Arabia itself, I felt that with my knowledge and experience I would be a big help to them in giving what facts I knew, so I accepted the invitation.

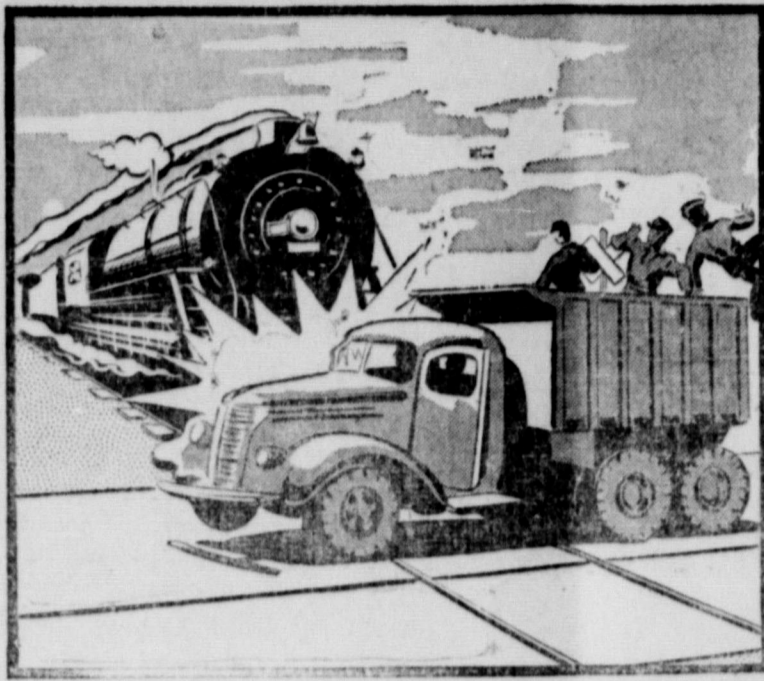

At seven-thirty that evening, a British chap came over and escorted me below deck. I found to my surprise a group of soldiers numbering about 250. I walked to where the officers stood, saluted them and introduced myself. They returned the salute and shook hands with me, I was in turn introduced to the soldiers who were anxiously waiting to hear what I had to say. First I explained to them how the religion of Islam had originated and that "Mohammed" was their prophet and above that is the great God "Allah." That through all the generations until the present time, their ideals and customs is most different from any other religion in the world and has in common the religion and cultured traditions of Islam.

For my notes, I read them the important do's and don'ts given in the pamphlet and explained each one fully to them, especially stressing on their minds the subject, "Attitude toward women." The pamphlet reads: "You must not talk to Moslem women. Never, under any circumstances. The most innocent word addressed to a Moslem woman is considered an insult and is bitterly resented by all Moslem men. If an Arab asks you to his house, the women will be confined to their quarters. If anything is said or done by you which makes Moslem men feel you have shown disrespect for their women, there will be no limit to their righteous indignation." I further explained that as soon as a Moslem girl reaches maturity, she is confined to the women's quarters and never allowed to leave the house unless she is veiled. I further cautioned them to be especially careful in their new venture.

The British officer put this question to me: "In your opinion what do you think the reaction of the Arabian world, and also the French, will be toward us and do you think that we will meet any opposition when we land?" I hesitated a moment, slightly embarrassed, and told him I was not experienced enough in military strategy to form such an opinion, but didn't think it would hurt to quote my personal opinion in this matter, having known the Arabians in time of peace.

So I told them that General Weygand, who before the war was stationed in Syria, was liked by the Arab people. But when the Germans were at the gates of Paris, he was called to France because he was one of the ablest generals in the French army, but he arrived too late to do any good. General Weygand was then rushed to North Africa to take supreme command of their most precious remaining possession. I explained that he had always been pro-British and pro-American, and is a great lover of liberty and freedom. But after the Vichy government was formed, they did not speak

Look! Listen! Live!

For want of good brakes, three lives were lost in the grade crossing accident illustrated here.

A dump truck, occupied by the driver and four other men, disregarded the standard railroad crossing warning sign and drove into the path of a passenger train. Three killed and two injured was the final tally.

The two men who survived said the brakes on the truck were faulty. This prevented the driver from stopping, and the truck rolled onto the crossing. The train that hit the truck, and another train which was following, were delayed a total of two hours while the track was being cleared.

The National Safety Council is conducting a special campaign to stop these accidents which every day delay 38 trains a total of 22 hours—a serious drain on the nation's war transportation facilities.

Driver carelessness is the cause of almost all grade crossing accidents, according to the Council. To help win the war—to save yourself and others needless suffering—the Council asks you to be sure the track is clear before you start across.

the same language as Weygand, so they recalled him and replaced him with another general.

I explained that if General Weygand was still in supreme command in North Africa, my opinion would be, "No opposition," and I believed they would hang out a welcome sign. But since it is still under Vichy regime, I am afraid there will be a little resistance.

The British officer was well-pleased and concluded: "Let's hope for the best and fight hard together in order that years hence, our children will say, 'Our fathers have done a good job of it. They fought hard and gave their blood to preserve eternal peace.'"

Best regards to all. I will tell you more in the next letter.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Dr. Geo. W. Cox, M.D., State Health Officer of Texas

AUSTIN — "If you have not been vaccinated against typhoid fever within the last two or three years, go to your doctor and secure this protection at once," Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer, advises prospective campers, Boy and Girl Scouts, and other summer vacationists as the out-of-door season approaches.

"Typhoid fever," he continued, "is unnecessary and preventable. Every case is due either to community negligence or to the ignorance or carelessness of some individual. There would be no deaths from typhoid if every person were protected by typhoid 'shots.'"

Some of the most serious and far reaching outbreaks of the disease have been caused by drinking milk or eating foods that have been handled by carriers. A typhoid carrier is a person who has had typhoid at some time and who even

4-H Clubs Hold Joint Meetings In County For May

Joint 4-H Club meetings were held throughout the county during the third week of May by R. O. Dunkle, county agent and Lucile King, county home demonstration agent. Eleven schools were visited, but due to the fact that it was near the close of the school term and the students were engaged in taking examinations, demonstrations were given to only six clubs.

The girls had charge of the meeting this time and the boys will have charge of the meetings in June. The demonstrators were called on to give reports of things that they had done and the things they plan to do.

R. O. Dunkle gave a very impressive talk to the boys and girls on the prevention of Screw Worms by using Screw Worm Smear No. 62.

Lucile King, gave a demonstration on culling chickens. She says now is the time to cull chickens, for feed is too scarce and too expensive to feed to chickens that are non producers, then too chickens are a good price now.

THE FIRING LINE

Dear boys, how we miss you so noble and so fine,
Uncle Sam has called for you and you face the firing line.
No use for you to worry, there is much we all can do,
When our Uncle Sammie speaks, his orders must go thru.

It matters not how far from home you are called to go and fight,
There will be guarding angels near to teach you what is right.
I wish we could do something to bring this cruel war to a close,
But when it will end, though, nobody knows.

We are proud of our boys in service, with hearts brave and true,
While you sail the deep oceans our thoughts travel with you.
Us folks on the home front will do our very best
To stay with you boys and help you stand the test.

We cannot be a gunner, or know not how to keep 'em flying,
But we aim to do our part, or kill ourself a trying.
We hope this bitter war will soon come to an end,
So all the precious boys will be home to enjoy life again.

Soon the struggle will be over, and our vietroy complete
With all our dear soldier boys marching down the street.
Our homes will be safe and our hearts full of joy
As we welcome home our dear Army boy!

There will be no battles or bullets to whine
When our boys return from the firing line.
All will be peace, Old Hitler can't roar;
You gave him such a licking he'll rise no more!

Doris Jean Coley.

Chas. Howeth Gets Taste Of Acting In Newsreel Feature

CAMP SANTA ANITA, Calif.— Pvt. Charles J. Howeth of Munday is supplementing his army training with a taste of Hollywood movie acting.

He was chosen to appear this week in a special Pathe newsreel feature that will show the transition of this once-celebrated race-track into the West Coast's Ordnance Training Center. The film will be released to the nation's theatres about May 25th.

Pvt. Howeth's part in the Pathe feature is that of a typical Ordnance soldier in training. As a member of the Cadre unit, a group now taking a special course to become non-commissioned officers, he and other members of his class drilled and performed rifle calis-

This picture will show movie patrons how the Army has taken over this million-dollar racetrack and transformed it within a few months into a huge camp. It will show soldiers double timing on the famous homestretch where horses once galloped; the former stalls, now barracks, with a trainee sleeping perhaps where Seabiscuit himself slept; the mammoth grandstand which has been turned into classrooms and theatres for the showing of training films; the paddock, where the men, not horses, now proudly pass in review.

Mr. and Mrs. Rex Holder and son, Jimmy Rex, of Clarksville came in last Sunday for a week's visit with Mr. Holder's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Holder. They are also visiting with Mrs. Holder's relatives in Haskell.
