Methodist Church Meets for Yearly Assesment

The Rev. R. B. Freeman, pastor of the Methodist church, left on Thursday morning for Lubbock to attend the meeting of the Northwest Texas conference of the Methodist church, which he has been attending for the past several years. He is expected to return on Saturday.

The report shows that $7,350.36 has been collected and disbursed during the year. The amount was divided as follows: Pastor's salary, $2,700; church elder, $405.00; charity, $1,000.00; orphanage $312.57; repairs on church and parsonage, $12.35; printing, $11.00; insurance $200.00; special, $85.00; piano, $290.00; Cross Hospital, $38.25; under-graduate fund, $25.00; revival party, $10.00; piping church and parsonage, $10.00; meter deposit, $114.00; meals—fuel, lights, janitor and janess, $293.37; conference expense, $686.00; general conference $501.00; district work, $31.00; church school, $658.25; Woman's Mission Society, $400.45.

It is a most healthy condition as an indication and the pastor and members of the board of stewards are congratulated upon the excellent report that is revealed in the report.

The assignment of pastors will not be made until late Saturday or Sunday morning, hence it will not be known until that time whether the Freeman is to be returned to Munday or sent to another church.

The Rev. A. G. Hulme, who was pastor of the Munday circuit church for the past year, has resigned from conference and has accepted a position with the Abilene Printing and Engraving Company as traveling salesman, and will have charge of a territory for that concern in extreme western portion of the state, and will likely make his headquarters at Big Spring. He has been assigned his duties and will leave this week making himself familiar with the various lines that he will be contemplating over the territory next week. He will remain in Munday for a few days.

The Rev. Hulme was formerly engaged as traveling salesman, and quit to enter the ministry some two years ago, during which time he has been assigned to churches in Illinois and other counties in that state, and was transferred here last year. In discussing the change, the Rev. Hulme stated that he felt that he could be of some use in the cause of Christianity as a traveling salesman, coming in contact with business men over a wide territory, and at the same time be able to provide in a better way for his family, and his many friends. He will wish him a full measure of success in his new profession.

SCHOOL BOARD TO OFFER PRIZE FOR S. S. ATTENDANCE

This year the school board is offering a prize to the grade or room in the public schools that maintains the highest average Sunday school attendance during the school term. The exact nature of the prize has not been disclosed, but will be something that any group of pupils will be glad to own. This is a very commendable move on the part of the board, and it is to be congratulated on its attempt to promote the moral training of the young people of the community.

A careful check is made in the various rooms each Monday morning, and the standing is based on the percentage of enrollment. This standing will be published from week to week in the Tom-Tom in an effort to stimulate a spirit of rivalry and interest among the pupils. The name of the grade and teacher listed according to rank follows. Only the first three ranking groups are listed.

Grade	Per Cent	Teacher
7B	66	Mrs. Mann
5A	64	Miss Kennedy
6B	61	Mr. Palmer
2A	61	Miss Curry

Old Fiddlers To Hold Contest On Friday Evening

Plans are being made for a large number of entries in the old fiddlers contest scheduled to take place in the city hall auditorium in Munday on Friday evening of this week.

A large number of entries have already been made and others from a distance are expected to be here and enter into the competition for the cash prizes. All the proceeds of the door, less the expense incident to holding the contest, will be awarded to the fiddlers, and some of them are coming with their fiddles tuned to take off the cash money.

Some good specialties are being arranged and in addition to the contest proper there will be plenty of fun on the program, so come prepared to enjoy the occasion. The admission will be only 25 cents to everyone.

Federation Offers Plea For Schools

DENTON, Nov. 16.—After passing resolutions affecting the welfare of state supported educational institutions and calling for changes in the by-laws and standing rules of the organization, the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs adjourned its thirty-first annual convention here today.

One resolution adopted decreed the action of the last legislature in cutting in half appropriations for maintenance of summer schools in state supported institutions and asking the next legislature to restore them to their former figure.

The club women voted to make three important changes in their by-laws. One of these will affect clubs applying for membership in the organization, another affects the reinstatement of clubs after they have been dropped for non-payment of dues, and the third clarified the qualification for officers and defined the duties of the executive board.

THANKSGIVING SERVICES AT BAPTIST CHURCH SUNDAY

We will have a special Thanksgiving service Sunday morning. A special program is planned. Mrs. Joe Davis' voice pupils will render two special numbers. Mrs. Aaron Blanton will give a reading. There will be other special numbers. The pastor will preach a sermon in keeping with the occasion. We invite all who are not worshipping elsewhere to be with us in this service. This service is not planned in anywise to take the place of a general co-operative service on Thanksgiving Day. I hope that one will be planned for Thursday. It has been my custom for a number of years to have a special service in the church where I am preaching the Sunday before Thanksgiving.

Sunday evening we will continue our sermons on Revelation taking up the breaking of the seven seals. I would suggest that you read before coming to the service Rev. chapters 5, 6, 7; Daniel 7:9-14; Zechariah 1:7-11; Zechariah 7 (entire chapter). In this sermon we will, for a part of the time, discuss the age-old conflict between Roman Catholicism and evangelical christianity.

Remember that the Sunday school begins at 9:45. We had more present at the beginning last Sunday than we have ever had. Mr. Palmer and Miss Keel will start the music at 9:40. Come for a welcome.

The church with a welcome.

W. H. ALBERTSON.
Mr. Harwell, of Crowell, was here Tuesday on business and visited in the homes of his cousin, Mrs. Florence Williams and Mrs. E. Duval.

Richard Barthelmess Becomes a Country Boy Again in "Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come"

Richard Barthelmess, who is beloved by millions as the greatest portrayer of typical American youth on the screen, is again away in his teens for First National's "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," which will be at the Roxy Theatre next Monday and Tuesday.

This time Barthelmess plays a boy of the Kentucky mountains in Civil War days. The picture is adapted from John Fox, Jr.'s great novel and provides an ideal vehicle for the popular star.

Barthelmess is seen as a barefoot wanderer in the opening scenes. The picture carries him through vivid experiences, and a beautiful romance.

"The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come" is an Alfred Santell production and Molly O'Day is Barthelmess' leading lady. She will be remembered as the dancer in "The Patent Leather Kid," in which she scored a great dramatic hit.

The present cast is made up of Doris Dawson, David Torrence, Eulalie Penon, Gardien James, Gustav von Seyffertitz, Claude Gillingwater, Nelson McDowell, Martha Mattox, Victor Patel, Mark Hamilton, William Bertram, Walter Lewis, Ralph Yearly, Robert Miasch, Walter Rogers, and many others.

Johnny Payson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Payson, who was reported in a critical condition in the Knox City hospital last week, following an operation for appendicitis, is greatly improved, and barring complications, will be able to be brought home in a few days.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB IS ORGANIZED

The girls of the home economics department met with Mrs. Rhodes on Friday, November 16, 1928, for the organization of a Home Economics Club.

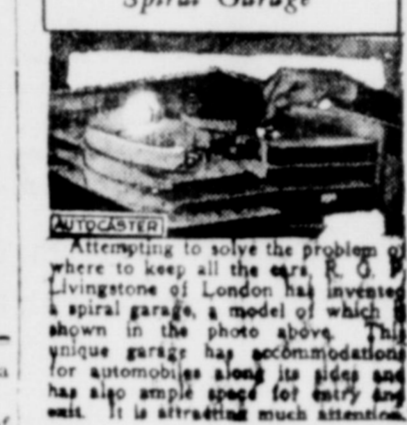

The following officers were elected: Myrl Lows, president; Maurye Smith, vice-president; Margaret Campbell, secretary-treasurer; Arlene Kinball, Reporter.

Mrs. Wm. P. Farrington was elected "Club Mother." It will be her duty to always be on the lookout for lectures, newspaper articles, etc., that will be of any benefit to the club girls and to assist in sponsoring club entertainments.

The club will meet once every two weeks in a study period of forty-five minutes and during this time subject matter which, because of lack of time, the regular course of study cannot take care of.

The purpose of the club will be to develop social relationship, courtesy, personality and citizenship.

Spiral Garage

Attempting to solve the problem of where to keep all the cars, R. O. Livingstone of London has invented a spiral garage, a model of which is shown in the photo above. The unique garage has accommodations for automobiles along its sides and has a simple speed for entry and exit. It is attracting much attention.

C. L. Wilson Will Become County Agent Succeeding Logan

W. O. Logan, formerly county agricultural agent for Knox County, who is now holding that position in Scurry county, was here the first of the week in company with Sterling C. Evans, district agricultural agent with headquarters at the A. & M. College, and C. L. Wilson of Dallas, who has been serving as dairy specialist for the Texas Power & Light Company, and who is taking over the work of agricultural agent for Knox County.

Mr. Wilson had been spending the day driving over the county with Mr. Logan and Mr. Evans looking over the county and getting acquainted with our people, and he expressed himself as being highly pleased with the prospects of a great work here. Mr. Wilson is a young man, but his training has been thorough and with the proper co-operation he will be enabled to render a great service to the people of the county, and we are pleased to welcome him into Knox County.

R. T. Lani returned the latter part of last week from Old Mexico where he and his father spent a few days deer hunting, and, as per his promise before leaving, he brought the Times family a liberal portion of venison, and afforded us the opportunity of enjoying this delicious meat for the first time in life, and we'll have to admit that we liked it. Russell states that the deer are very plentiful across the Rio Grande, despite the fact that there are no closed seasons over there and one may kill either does or bucks to their heart's content. He killed two within a couple of hours he stated. In bringing the game across the border he was called upon to pay four cents per pound duty.

Mrs. F. N. Warren, who underwent an operation in the Knox City hospital some days ago, is getting along nicely and will be home in a few days if she continues to improve as she has during the past few days.

Mrs. E. J. Clark and son, of Leveland, Texas, are visiting in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Hudson, of the Gillespie community.

Battery Needs Care To Give the Best Service

"Motorists often ask," said Grady Beck, the local Exide dealer, "why some batteries last longer than others. The answer is simple—they last longer, because other things being equal, they get better care and attention."

"Now, a storage battery, as a rule, requires very little attention, but in these days of haste and bustle," continued Mr. Beck, "it is easy for a motorist to forget the little black box hidden beneath the driver's seat. As a consequence, most batteries are grossly neglected. Unfortunately, this tendency seems to be growing every day."

"Once it is installed, the average motorist forgets his battery until it begins to give him trouble. Then, and not until then, he takes it to a service station for a 'going over.' Usually when this happens, he is in need of repair work and may be surprised at the size of his repair bill."

"Large battery repair bills are unnecessary. The engineers of the world's largest manufacturers of storage batteries, the Electric Storage Battery Company, claim that a monthly inspection of a battery will go a long way toward insuring maximum life. Furthermore, it will do much to keep down the upkeep costs."

"Ten minutes a month is all the time required for such an inspection. Regular addition of approved water is an absolute necessity. Often a little corrosion removed from the terminals or a tightening of the connections or cables will prevent future troubles. The charging rate of your generator should be properly adjusted to meet the difference between summer and winter driving."

"All of these jobs are small and can be quickly attended to. But if they are neglected, they are apt to necessitate the spending of many dollars for repairs, and sometimes a new battery."

"If you want long, satisfactory battery service and negligible repair bills, don't neglect your battery. Remember your battery, like your teeth, must be given regular attention. In fact, we are willing to look over any motorist's battery, if he wishes to drive in."

Mrs. F. N. Warren, who underwent an operation in the Knox City hospital some days ago, is getting along nicely and will be home in a few days if she continues to improve as she has during the past few days.

Hoover's Climb Up the Ladder of Success

In the clayboard dwelling in West Branch, Ia., shown in the left lower corner of this picture, J. Edgar Hoover, president-elect of the United States, was born. From this humble beginning he has climbed the ladder leading to the White House, which he is to occupy as the Nation's leader.

MORE LITTLE THINGS

Do you giggle during the sermon at church?

Do you read your history lesson when the Bible is being read in chapel?

Much has been said recently about the little things of life, but not too much. Apparently, we are yet sadly lacking in some respects in the reverence which has been instilled into us all our lives by our faithful parents.

BETTER SERVICE From Your Tires

We sell the best tires made—at low prices—and give service besides. Too few people realize that much mileage is lost by poor tire application. If your tire is improperly applied it means a pinched tube and a flat tire. You have to pay the cost of tube repair, and suffer annoyance, delay, and lose mileage. Let us put on your tires and inspect your rims and wheels, to assure you maximum mileage. We have the experience and equipment to do the work right.

Drive in today and see for yourself. We'll satisfy you on both quality and price.

marks about the new girl or the popular boy.

When a boy opens the door for a girl who forgets to smile with a cordial "Thank you", do you suppose he will do it again?

Some one who is wise and more gracious than we may ever be, said, "All things therefore whatever ye would that men should do unto them". Do not forget the little things.

Mr. Thomas Elmore Lucy will be here at the Community Auditorium tonight and the majority of the student body expects to attend.

Thought for Mr. Rhodes

Don't feel bad if your hair is coming out. You are just letting down your top. You will be a sport model!

The entire student body is glad to learn that Pete Stoker, Knox City back, that was hurt in the game with the Moguls on Armistice Day, is recovering nicely. He has abandoned the hospital for his home and is expected to be in school again soon.

Will there's one consolation. If their wayward sons start drinking, mothers don't lay the blame on Al Smith now.

A number of the high school students watched the Crowell-Knox City game Friday from the sidelines. After the game several visited Pete Stoker at the hospital and found him ready to go home. We are certainly glad to know that he is recovering nicely.

Is it possible that the word "woman" is a contraction of "woe, man"?

Misses Briggs and Waggoner were absent two days last week because of illness.

The increase of the number of women smokers has its value, at that. There are more chances to "mooch" a smoke now than there used to be.

Seniors

Maurys is ill today so we are substituting her in reporting our thimbleful of news this week. We are sure she will be in school tomorrow for we do not think it will be as cold as it was this morning.

Joe Aycock, Frank Greer, Ishmael Walling and Elton Busby journeyed to Knox City Friday afternoon and witnessed the ball game played by Knox City and Crowell. After the game they visited Pete Stoker at the hospital and found him ready for another football game.

Frank's arm is healing very fast but he will not be able to play any more football this season. Frank's appetite for apples does not seem to bother him any more. Anyway, he will not take an apple when offered one. Sometimes people are funny creatures, don't you think so, Frank?

Earl was out of school one day last week. He had to go to Wichita, Falls to let the doctor see how his nose was healing. Our one ambition is to get to mash Earl's nose when it has healed.

Our rings are here and we are wearing them. If you want to see some good looking rings, just ask a Senior to let you see one and he will show you one that exceeds all rings. We are very proud of them!

Junior Flashes

Instead of the usual "Flashes" offered by the Junior class we wish to submit the following essay with the hope that someone may receive an inspiration or the members of the Junior class may become more closely drawn together and thus prosper.

"Friendship"

Emerson says, "The only reward of virtue is virtue; the only way to have a friend is to be one." There is a great deal more kindness in the world than is ever spoken. How easily we might cheer one by just speaking to them, someone whom we honor and who honors us, yet there is that feeling of indifference.

Pure, disinterested friendship is a bright flame, emitting notes of the smoke of selfishness and seldom designs to tabernacle among men."

Friendship is a flower that blooms in all seasons; everywhere cheering us by its exquisite and indescribable charms. It enters the abode of sorrow and wretchedness, and causes happiness and peace. It knocks at the lonely heart and speaks words of joy and encouragement. It stamps out every thought of envy and purifies the mind and brings contentment sympathy and joy. No one can be happy without friends and no one knows what friends he has until he is unhappy, and he who in reality has found a true friend, should value it and be thankful.

There is true enjoyment in that friendship which has its source in the innocence and uprightness of a true heart. Such pleasures do greatly sweeten life, easing it from many a bitter burden.

The first law of friendship is sincerity; and he who violates this law, will soon find himself destitute of what he seeks to gain, for the deceitful heart will soon betray itself, and feel the contempt due to insincerity. "A friend is a person with whom I may be sincere, and before him think aloud."

Lastly, friends must study to please and oblige each other in the delicate kind, and liberal manner. You should be considerate of one in poverty and trouble, as of one in riches or prosperity.

Freshmen

My goodness! Did you know that Mr. Rhodes made the rule that no grade in school could have more than two parties or picnics every six weeks? Well, he did. He said that he might have to limit it to one party every six weeks. Um-m-m! Worse instead of better. We had the sophomores were going to have a party last week, but on account of the rule it had to be postponed. Better luck next time, Sophs!

Since the fall game November 11, it seems as if there can be no more excitement until Thanksgiving. We are certainly looking forward to the holidays.

Next week will be the last of this six weeks. My! Can you realize that the freshmen have been going to school for three months and haven't done any mischief or got into serious trouble yet? Well, maybe the freshmen this year are just naturally better than the others who have been ahead of us.

Dorothy Matlock and Maxine Newson journeyed to Snyder, Texas, Saturday. They report a "cold time" going but a "good time" after they got there. They want to make that trip again some time. Wish we could have gone!

The sophomores have challenged us to debate against them on any subject we might choose. We haven't decided yet whether we want to or not. Maybe we will. Do you think we could win?

CHAN'S CHATTER

Most of us football players visited Knox City last Friday afternoon and saw the game between Crowell and Knox City. The game was pretty slow, due to the wet field, but never-the-less it was a good game, and well worth seeing. The victory was in favor of Knox City, 13-0.

We travel to Crowell Friday to return their game they played here some time ago. We should win, as Knox City beat them, and we beat Knox City. Seymour beat them, and we beat Seymour, so there you are. But dope doesn't mean anything in modern football. Too, we will be playing on Crowell's home field, which won't help the Moguls any.

We are very glad Earl Newson, "one of our star guards", is much better. He has the fever, but we know it won't be long now, until he is back with us again.

It seems that Frank and Earl U. are "estran suenos", but neither of them or Earl U. will be able to play any more football this year. This will mean a whole lot, but we will do our best to win.

Stoker, the Knox City boy that was hurt in our game with them, is getting alright, and unless complications arise, he will be well soon.

The following account of the Knox City game was clipped from the Knox City paper last week. The write-up shows a splendid spirit of friendship and unselfishness and we appreciate it accordingly:

KNOX CITY GREYHOUNDS LOSE TO MUNDAY MOGULS

The Munday High School Moguls defeated the Knox City High Greyhounds Monday, score 6-0. The game was well fought and clean played throughout. The Moguls really outplayed our boys most of the time. The Greyhounds had the ball within the Mogul 10-yard line twice, but lacked the punch to put it over. The score came late in the last quarter when Paul Pruitt, Mogul half, intercepted a pass in an open field.

There was only one incident to mar a good game. Pete Stoker, Greyhound halfback, was hurt when he stumbled and fell into a Mogul tackler. It was all purely accidental and as unavoidable on the part of the Munday player and we hope no one will be so inconsiderate as to think it was intentional. The actions of the Munday Superintendent, Mr. Rhodes, and others of the Munday schools show that they regret the incident as much as we. We want to express our appreciation of Dr. Farrington, who attended on Pete on the field and came on over here with him and would accept nothing for his services. We want to thank the Munday players and Pep Squad for the beautiful flowers they sent. After all we are all friends and neighbors.

of the Munday folk and there is occasion to harbor ill feelings.

Munday won the game on a break, but they won it fairly. They have accepted the defeat in a sportsmanlike spirit and they have accepted victory in just as good. So let's get it until next year.—Reporter

Milady's Beauty Secrets
By Helena Rubinstein

"Beauty, clear and fair... Make me live by serving you."
—Fletcher.
One can learn many things about beauty, if one's life be consecrated to the serious study of so great a subject.
There is first the knowledge of the power that beauty gives. A little later the knowledge that, to keep beauty "clear and fair," it must have most intelligent care. And later still, the experience of victory over the foes of beauty which are—wind and weather, neglect, improper diet, lack of exercise—even more than age.
And now I am invited to meet you and talk to you about beauty. We should have many profitable chats together, you—the hundreds and thousands of women in every state served by the press which carries my message—and I, who, for over thirty years have studied, experimented, practiced and taught the subject of beauty in all corners of the globe.
We shall work and talk together, as one woman to another I hope, and you shall share with me the beauty secrets that life has been good enough to divulge to me during those years.
I do assure you that in dedicating these columns to you it is with the sincere hope that I may bring to each reader a new incentive to cultivate a greater measure of beauty—as well as the ways and means for its accomplishment.

Comedian and His Trick Movie Machine Funnier Than Ever in "The Cameraman"
Is News Photographer
Marceline Day Supports Him in Series of Thrilling and Comical Escapades

"Camera nurses" are the latest dignitaries about a movie studio.
Two "trained nurses" followed Buster Keaton throughout his role in "The Cameraman" at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, their sole duty being to keep in repair the ancient, battered camera of the vintage of 1904 which he ground as the "apprentice newsreel man" in the new picture which comes Thanksgiving, Thursday, November 29, to the Roxy Theatre, one day only.
The "trained nurses" were expert camera mechanics. The camera was so old that every time Keaton cranked it something had to be done to restore its failing health, and when he fell off a four-story building with the mechanics had to work two hours to get it together again—a job almost as hard as tending the justly-famed Humpty-Dumpty.
The camera, an ancient "Moy" machine, was Keaton's companion on a hilarious series of adventures, in which the comedian as a "green" cameraman blunders into a tangle war, a boat accident, and dozens of other hilarious troubles. Edgar Sedgwick directed the new picture, a large portion of which was filmed in New York with the City Hall, Yankee Stadium and other points of interest as back-grounds. Marceline Day is the heroine and the cast includes Harold Goodwin, Sydney Bracy, Harry Gibson and others of note.
The production was elaborate. A complete Chinatown street, with five hundred Oriental actors, staging a long war with machine guns, providing one of the big thrills in the play, and Keaton injected comedy by falling off a four-story building into the midst of the battle. The boat race at Newport, a sensational traffic jam on a New York street and other hilarious details embellish a love story between Keaton and Miss Day.

It was a beautiful Thanksgiving morning when Br'er Rabbit started out for a walk before he had the wonderful dinner which his wife was preparing for him and the bunnies.
Bye and bye he came to where Mister Jay Bird was seated on the limb of a hickory tree and he set down for a few moments to talk to the bird.
"Do you know," began Mr. Jay Bird, "I can't see why you haven't a tail like Mrs. Squirrel. With those lovely ears of yours and a large bushy tail, you'd be the handsomest animal in the forest."
"I really think so myself," replied the rabbit.
"I tell you what you can do," said the bird. "You can take some pawpaw bark and tie up your tail real tight. You're going to have Thanksgiving dinner, aren't you?"
"Yes," answered Br'er Rabbit.
"Well, by the time you are ready to eat, your tail will be as large and as bushy as Mrs. Squirrel's."
"It will take longer than that, won't it?" inquired Br'er Rabbit anxiously.

"No, it only takes a short while, that is, if you tie your tail tight enough. But be sure to take the bark off before you get home."
Br'er Rabbit disappeared and soon was winding his tail with a piece of pawpaw bark. He wound it as tight as he could and then took a little nap. Waking up when the sun had started down hill.
"Merry me!" exclaimed Br'er Rabbit, when he awoke. "I'll be late for dinner." He rushed towards his home and arrived just in time for the Thanksgiving meal. He took his place at the head of the table and was surprised to hear all the bunnies snickering. "What's the matter?" he asked, in surprise.
"Look at your tail," shouted Buster Bonnie.
"Gracious," exclaimed Br'er Rabbit. "I wanted to make my tail like Mrs. Squirrel's so I tied it up as Mister Jay Bird told me."
"You know Mister Jay Bird is a joker," laughed Mrs. Rabbit. "Next time be our own sweet self—we like you better. Now ask the blessing."

Use Your Brains. McCarty's Advice

Your business, said Col. Dick McCarty Thursday, is only as big as you make it. Over the doorway of every bank, every mercantile house, every legislative hall, is the sign for all to see if they have the eyes to see—"Brains Wanted."
Colonel McCarty, newly elected mayor of Albany, gave the Abilene Lions Club one of those "Dick McCarty talks" Thursday. He told them all about man—man who ought to have been named lion, because he is the real king of beasts—and why he is different from the lion. "Brains has done it," he said, leaning forward with his left hand cupped over his ear in the familiar attitude of the slightly deaf person. "That gray stuff contained under your hair about which no one has learned anything except that it's the stuff man thinks with; and, thinking has conquered the world and harnessed the forces of nature. Man's thoughts has enabled him to reach down in the earth and bring out the stuff that runs the automobile, that cures cancer and all the other ills of the human race. Go out, you young men, and start digging. Use your brains. Read what's written over every portal toward which your ambition beckons you. The whole world is your field."—Abilene Morning Reporter.

MAYNARD RETURNS WITH NEW FEATS
Cowboy Star Coming to Roxy in "The Devil's Saddle"

Ken Maynard, known as the one-man circus or rodeo, who has made daredevil horseback riding a fine art, will exhibit his new feats at the Roxy Theatre next Friday in his latest thriller, "The Devil's Saddle."
A featured rider of Ringling Brothers circus, and previously the champion horseman of a barn-storming rodeo troupe, Maynard graduated to the movies when he "out-grew" the apparently ultimate in "under the tent" riding.
Maynard is a saddle trickster without any rival, and his sensational riding has contributed as much as anything else in advancing him to movie stardom. With such successive pictures, and "The Devil's Saddle" in his sixth starring vehicle, Maynard unfolds a series of spectacular riding scenes which stand out as the highlight of the production.
Tarzan, the cowboy hero's white-wonder horse, is the second party to the thrilling episodes of the Charles R. Rogers production, and supporting members of the cast include Kathleen Collins, Paul Hurst, Earl Metcalfe, Francis Ford, Will Walling and Tom Bay.

THE LAST OF THE DUANES

by Zane Grey
Illustrated by Verne C. Christy

WHAT HAPPENED BEFORE
Buck Decker, quick on the draw, kills Cal Bland in self-defense, and finds himself an outlaw. Flying from pursuit, he meets Luke Stevens, another outlaw, and the two become pals. Luke narrowly escapes capture, and Duane is shocked to find his brother outlaw severely wounded.

Duane buries Stevens. Then he goes on to Bland's camp, where he gets into a fight with a man called Bossmer and wounds the latter. He makes a friend of an outlaw at Bland's called Euchre, who tells him of Mrs. Bland and the girl called Jennie.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
"Wal, I got it this way. Maybe it's straight, and maybe it ain't. Some years ago Benson made a trip over toriver to buy mesal an' other drinks. He'll sneak over there once in a while. An' as I get it he run across a gang of greasers with some grime prisoners.

"I don't know but I reckon there was some barterin', perhaps murderin'. Anyway Benson fetched the girl back. She was more dead than alive, but it turned out she was only starved, and scared half to death. She hadn't been framed.

"I reckon then she was about fourteen years old. Benson's idee, he said, was to use her in his den, sellin' drinks and the like. But I never went much on Jackrabbit's word. Bland seen the kid right off an' took her—bought her from Benson.

"You can gamble Bland didn't do that for notions of chivalry. I ain't gainsayin', however, but that Jennie was better off with Kate Bland. She's been hard on Jennie, but she's kep' Bland an' the other men from touchin' in the kid shameful. Late Jennie has grown into an all-fired pretty girl, an' Kate is powerful jealous of her. I can see trouble brewin' over there."

"That's why I wish you'd come over with me. Bland's hardly ever home. His wife's invited you. Show if she gets sweet of you, as she has on—what they'd complicate matters. But you'd get to see Jennie, an' maybe you could help her."

"Mind, I ain't hintin' nothin'. I'm just wantin' to put her in your way. You're a man an' can think for yourself. I had a baby girl once, an' if she'd lived she'd be as big as Jennie now, an' by gosh wouldn't want her in Bland's camp."

"I'll go, Euchre. Take me over," replied Duane.

Euchre knocked upon the side of the door.

"Is that you, Euchre?" asked a girl's voice, low, hesitatingly.

"Yes, it's me, Jennie. Where's Mrs. Bland?" answered Euchre.

"She went over to Deger's. There's somebody sick," replied the girl.

Euchre turned and whispered something about luck. The snap of the outlaw's eyes was added significance to Duane.

"Jennie, come out here or let us come in. Here's the young man I was tellin' you about," Euchre said.

"Oh—I can't! I look so—"

"Never mind how you look," interrupted the outlaw in a whisper. "It's ain't no time to care for that. Here's your Duane. Jennie, he's no rustler no thief. He's different. Come out Jennie, an' maybe he'll—"

Euchre did not finish his sentence. He had spoken low, with his glance shifting from side to side.

Euchre went away through the cottonwoods.

"I'm glad to meet you, Miss—Miss Jennie," said Duane. "Euchre didn't mention your last name. He asked me to come over to—"

Duane's attempt at pleasantry halted short when Jennie lifted her lashes to look at him. Some kind of shock went through him.

Her gray eyes were beautiful but it had not been beauty that cut short his speech. He seemed to see a tragic struggle between hope and doubt that shone in her piercing gaze. She kept looking and Duane could not break the silence. It was no ordinary moment.

"What did you come here for?" she asked him.

"To see you," replied Duane, glad to speak.

"Why?"

"Well—Euchre thought—he wanted me to talk to you, cheer you up a bit," replied Duane somewhat lamely.

The earnest eyes embarrassed him.

"Euchre's good. He's the only person in this awful place who's been good to me. But he's afraid of Bland. He said you were different. Who are you?"

Duane told her.

"You're not a robber or rustler or murderer or some bad man come here to hule?"

"No, I'm not," replied Duane, trying to smile.

"Then why are you here?"

"I'm on the dodge. You know what that means. I got in shooting scrape at some and had to run off. When it blows over I hope to go back."

"But you can't be honest here."

"Yes, I can."

"You fought Bossmer the other day?"

"In self-defense I crippled him."

"Oh, I know what those outlaws are. Yes, you're different," she kept the strained gaze upon him, but hope was kindling, and the hard lines of her youthful face were softening.

Something sweet and warm stirred deep in Duane as he realized the unfortunate girl was experiencing a birth of trust in him.

"Maybe you're the man to save me—to take me away before it is too late!"

Duane's spirit leaped.

"Maybe I am," he replied instantly. She seemed to check abind impulse to run into his arm. Her cheeks flamed. Her lips quivered, her bosom swelled under the ragged dress. Then the glow began to fade; no doubt once more assailed her.

"It can't be—you're only—after me, too, like Bland—like all of them."

Duane's long arms went out and his hands clasped her shoulders. He shook her.

"Look at me—straight in the eye. There are decent men. Haven't you a father—a brother?"

"They are dead—killed by rustlers. We lived in Dismal country. I was carried away," Jennie replied hurriedly.

She put up an appealing hand to him.

"Forgive me, I believe you—I know you're good. It was only—I live so much in fear—I'm half crazy—I've almost forgotten what most men are like. Mr. Duane, you'll help me?"

"Yes, Jennie, I will. Tell me how. What must I do? Have you any plan?"

"Oh, no. But take me away."

"I'll try," said Duane simply. "That won't be easy, though. I must have time to think. You must help me. There are many things to consider. Horses—food, trails, and then the best time to make the attempt. Are you watched—kept prisoner?"

"No. I could have run off many times. But I was afraid. I'd only have fallen into worse hands. Euchre has told me that. Mrs. Bland beats me, half starves me, but she has kept me from her husband. She's been as good as that and I am grateful."

"She hasn't done it for love of me, though. She always hated me. And lately she's growing jealous. There was a man came here by the name of Benson—he hauled himself. He tried to be kind to me, but she wouldn't let him. She was in love with him. She's a bad woman."

"Bland finally shot Benson and that ended that. She's been jealous ever since. I hear her fighting with Bland about me. She swears she'll kill me before he gets me. And Bland laughs in her face. Then I've heard Ches Alloway try to persuade Bland to give me to him. But Bland doesn't laugh then."

"Just lately before Bland went away, things almost came to a head. I couldn't sleep. I wished Mrs. Bland would kill me. I'll certainly kill myself if—Duane, you must be quick if you save me."

"I realize that," he replied thoughtfully. "I think my difficulty will be to fool Mrs. Bland. If she suspects me she'd have the whole gang of outlaws on me at once."

"She would that. You've got to be careful—and quick."

"What kind of a woman is she?" inquired Duane.

"She's brazen. I've heard her with her lovers. They get drunk sometimes when Bland's away. She's got a terrible temper. She's vain. She likes flattery. Oh, you could fool her easy enough if you'd lower yourself to—do—"

"To make love to her?" interrupted Duane.

Jennie bravely turned shamed eyes to meet his.

"My girl, I'd do worse than that to get you away from here," he said bluntly.

"But—Duane," she faltered, and again she put out the appealing hand. "Bland will kill you."

Duane made no reply to this. He was trying to still a rising strange tumult in his breast. The old emotion—the rush of an instinct to kill! He turned cold all over.

"Ches Alloway will kill you, if Bland doesn't," went on Jennie, with her tragic eyes on Duane.

"Maybe he will," replied Duane. It was difficult for him to force a smile. But he achieved one.

"O, better take me at once," she said. "Save me without risking so much—without making love to Mrs. Bland!"

"Surely, if I can. There! I see Euchre coming with a woman."

"That's her. Oh, she mustn't see me with you."

"Wait—a moment," whispered Duane, as Jennie slipped indoors. "We've settled it. Don't forget. I'll find some way to get you word, perhaps through Euchre. Meanwhile, keep up your courage. Remember I'll save you somehow. We'll try strategy first. Whatever you say or hear me do don't think any less of me—"

Jennie checked him with a gesture and a wonderful gray flash of eyes.

"I'll bless you with every drop of blood in my heart," she whispered passionately.

It was only as she turned away into the room that Duane saw she was lame, and that she wore Mexican sandals over her bare feet.

He sat down upon a bench on the porch and directed his attention to the approaching couple. The trees of the grove were thick enough for him to make reasonably sure that Mrs. Bland had not seen hintalking to Jennie.

When the outlaw's wife drew near Duane saw that she was a tall, strong full-bodied woman, rather good-looking, with a full-blown, bold attractiveness. Duane was more conversed with her expression than with her good looks; and as she appeared unsuspecting he felt relieved. The situation then took on a singular zest.

Euchre came up on the porch and awkwardly introduced Duane to Mrs. Bland. She was young, probably not over twenty-five, and not quite so prepossessing at close-range. Her eyes were large, rather prominent, and brown in color. Her mouth, too, was large, with the lips full, and she had white teeth.

Duane took her proffered hand and remarked frankly that he was glad to meet her.

Mrs. Bland appeared pleased, and her laugh, which followed, was loud and rather musical.

OLD FOLKS SAY DR. CALDWELL WAS RIGHT

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice.

He treated constipation, indigestion, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a combination ofenna and other mild herbs, with pepsin.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs?

A bottle will last several months, and all can use it. It is pleasant to taste, gentle in action, and free from aoretics. Elderly people find it ideal. All drug stores have the generous bottles, or write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. BB, Mountcello, Illinois, for free trial bottle.

THANKSGIVING JOYS

Many are the joys of Thanksgiving, that Nation-wide day of feasting, but man are the forces in the big cities that are militating against these joys. Time as when from one end of the country to the other every family—with but few exceptions—enjoyed a hearty Thanksgiving Dinner with all the "fixings" at home, and in the excitement attendant to the event arose a deep sense of family affection and solidarity. Thanksgiving day was a day for the family and the home.

In the small towns and the rural districts, it is still a day for the family and the home, but our city neighbors are not so fortunate.

Crowded into tiny apartments, how can they know the real joy of Thanksgiving?

"It is a trifle difficult to wax sentimental about Apartment B, 8th floor, as the old homestead," writes Walter Pritchard Eaton. "Besides, the kitchen isn't big enough to cook an 18-pound turkey in, let alone four mince pies, two pumpkin pies and a pudding. Anyhow, the cook never heard of mince pies."
