INDICATIONS POINT TO LARGE NUMBER ENTRIES IN BASKETBALL MEET HERE

Six Entries Already Received and Additional Ones Coming With Each Mail With Closing Date for Entries Set For Saturday

The number of entries that have been received by Supt. J. E. Rhodes at the West Texas A. U. Boys' High School Basketball tournament to be held in Munday on February 23, 24 and 25 is very gratifying, as already there are six entries in the hands of Mr. Rhodes and possibly others in the hands of the A. A. U. officials at Dallas, as entry blanks may be sent to either.

One of the early entries came from the Snyder Eagles, champions of Snyder county, and from reports coming to us from private sources this aggregation is going to give some of the boys a run for the big money. And from Harold comes the entry of the champions of Wilbarger county, while closer home entry has been made by O'Brien, winners of the county championship in Haskell county—and a fast team too. The Gore High squad will enter into the competition, and fans who have watched their work on the local court during the week will agree with us that they are likely to be contenders for the West Texas championship and thereby add to their list of victories during the season. Harold Hill Moguls will not pass up the opportunity to win recognition and we're expecting them to be real contenders.

The six beautiful loving cups as well as the gold and silver basketball balls which are to be awarded in the meet have been received and are now on display at the Kethley Jewelry Store, from whom they were purchased. These trophies represent an expenditure of $250.00, and are beautifully and appropriately engraved.

It is indeed gratifying to have so many local teams enter the meet, as this will have a tendency to increase the attendance at the meet and thereby insure the success of the undertaking.

The various committees that have been named by President E. W. McClothlin of the chamber of commerce will be called together the latter part of this week and every detail will be worked out pertaining to the arrangements for the meet, and we are sure that the demand for rooms and other requests will meet with a ready response from the citizenship of Munday. We want these high school boys and their coaches to return home with something good to say about Munday, and unless we can do this we have wasted our efforts in bringing these teams to Munday.

The high school gym will be completely rearranged for the seating of the crowds and it is believed that seating capacity can be provided for about 1,500 spectators. Officials of the A. A. U. will arrive in Munday early next week to complete the final arrangements for holding the meet, and an effort will be made to have every detail looked after prior to the beginning of the games.

J. W. Melton of Benjamin was here Saturday shaking hands with his many friends. Mr. Melton has just returned from a month's visit to South Texas, where he had planned to spend some two months but was compelled to return home on account of pressing business.

Knox to Have Three Terms of District Court Instead of Two

Knox county will have three terms of District court hereafter instead of two, as has been the custom for many years, and the new arrangement will result in the regular February and October six-week terms with a four week June term added. The change has been made possible by a recent act of the legislature whereby the 50th Judicial District is reduced from six to four counties. Hereafter Knox, Baylor, King and Cottle counties will compose the 50th Judicial District, Dickens and Motley counties having been added to the new district created out of these two counties and Floyd and Crosby counties.

Speaking of the reduction in the size of the district the other day Judge J. S. Kendall stated that when he began practicing law the district extended to and included Lubbock county, and six districts in the size of district has been made necessary by the rapid increase in population during recent years.

WHAT'S GOING ON

Gore is installing a modern sewerage plant, according to the Gore Advocate. The contractors are now at work laying the mains and that city will soon have another modern convenience.

The contract has been let and work begun on the municipal lake at Benjamintown, which will provide that town with its water supply. The contract has also been let for the water tower. Bids for this purpose were voted some months ago.

F. G. Alexander has been a citizen of Haskell 45 years, according to the Haskell Free Press. "Forty-five years ago today (Thursday), February 14) Mr. Alexander arrived in Haskell about noon and at his first meal at the home of W. R. Standifer, a land surveyor, who resides here," says the Free Press. At that time there were only two houses in Haskell, which was then known as Rice Springs, the one occupied by the surveyor and that occupied by Bob Williford.

T. B. Klepper has purchased the interest of Mr. Kimsey in the Four County News at Crowell. For many years the News has been published by Kimsey & Klepper and they have built up one of the best newspaper properties in this section of Texas, and we are sure that Mr. Klepper will maintain the same high standard that has characterized the paper in years gone by. Mr. Klepper is a brother to our fellow townsman John Klepper. The new publisher has associated with him as assistant John Boswell, who for a number of years has been secretary of the chamber of commerce in Crowell, and we are sure that these fellows will continue to give Four County a real newspaper.

My, how time does fly! Only a few years ago—typographically speaking—back in the good old hand-set days, we were associated with W. H. Hawkins, publisher of the Stephenville Empire, and little Jack Hawkins, small son of the publisher came around the office frequently to his dad up for a nickel or something. Now Jack has grown up and is assisting his dad in editing and managing the Empire, and from the tone of his article he's going to follow in his dad's footsteps in making a real newspaper man. We even read Jack's columns before reading the editorials.

Demonstration in Terracing Feb. 25

Will Be Held On S. A. Bowden Farm All Day Monday, Feb. 25

A terracing demonstration will be held next Monday, February 25th, on the S. A. Bowden farm located one mile east of Munday on the Munday-Gore highway in which County Agent C. L. Wilson will be assisted by M. R. Bentley, terracing specialist for the A. and M. college and A. K. (Dad) Short, soil conservation specialist for the Federal Land Bank of Houston. These two men are recognized as the best authorities in the state on terracing and are capable of answering any questions that may be asked in regard to terracing and soil conservation.

Each year, although you may not be aware of the fact, a portion of your farm is being washed down the Brazos river and if something is not done to prevent this menace there is going to be a reckoning day not so far in the future, and one of the best ways to prevent this occurrence is the proper terracing of the land. Terracing in this county will have a two-fold benefit, as has been explained in the above paragraph. The relation of terracing to soil erosion is one phase, and the benefit of terracing from the standpoint of conservation of moisture is another. The benefits of the latter can be best determined by comparing yields on terraced and unterraced farms last year.

County Agent Wilson earnestly urges that farmers and business men attend this demonstration. These men are very competent in their respective lines of work and will give some very valuable pointers on the subject of terracing. Don't forget the date, Monday, February 25, and the S. A. (Bud) Bowden place east of Munday is the place.

Uncle Tom Cowsar Celebrates His 75th Birthday Wednesday

On Wednesday of this week Uncle Tom Cowsar celebrated his 75th birthday with a big birthday dinner in which a twenty-four pound turkey and large juicy home cured ham figured conspicuously, and surrounded by friends and loved ones, the occasion was a most enjoyable and happy one for this good man, and our wish for him is that he may be spared by the grim reaper to enjoy many other such occasions.

During the day Uncle Tom was the recipient of the beautiful bouquet of flowers which were presented by E. H. Bauman and John Ed Jones on behalf of the Presbyterian Sunday school, and it is needless to say that he was greatly pleased at the thought that they had remembered him.

Despite his advanced age Uncle Tom has been a very active man for his years until a few months ago, but during the past few weeks he has been quite ill and has not been able to leave his home very much, and is still under the care of his physician.

Among the guests who were present were all of his children as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Freedland Cowsar of Silverton; Mrs. Bob Mabry and children of Lamesa; Mrs. Betteforn of Tuscola. Others present were: Oliver Mooney of Wichita Falls, E. L. Brady of Ft. Worth; Mr. and Mrs. Will Machen of Munday; Mrs. Mary Cowsar of Gore; E. H. Bauman, D. E. Holder, John Ed Jones and Leonard May of Munday; Mrs. Neely Moore, Gore; Mrs. Boss Fitzgerald, Gore; John Cowsar, Munday; Ike Gresham, Munday; Beryl Templeton, Munday; Mrs. Cora Grantham of Abilene; Jerry Stewart of Lamesa; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Stevens of Silverton, the latter couple being a granddaughter and grand son-in-law of Uncle Tom.

Last July, Ellis Rowell, 15 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Rowell, broke a window pane and sustained a badly lacerated arm which continued to give trouble until some few days ago he came in to Dr. E. J. Burns, who cut into the arm and took a piece of glass about three inches in length from it. The piece of glass was three eighths and one eighth of an inch thick and had been embedded in the muscles of the arm all these months. The lad is now getting along nicely.

A. J. Glasgow has sold his home place here to R. S. Boles, and in the deal Mr. Glasgow acquires some property owned by Mr. Boles at O'Donnell, Texas. Mr. and Mrs. Boles will move into their newly acquired home here and Mr. and Mrs. Glasgow will occupy another residence which they own.

W. W. McCarty tells of a tragic accident which happened Sunday afternoon at Seymour, and which he saw a few minutes after it occurred, in which a car and a runaway horse ridden by a little girl collided. The animal dashed madly into the approaching car and rammed its head into the windshield of the car, breaking it and cutting the throat of the horse. The little girl was thrown entirely over the car and was seemingly uninjured, as were the occupants of the car, which was a new Dodge, and was badly wrecked. The horse was killed almost instantly.

Amey Jackson, of Stamford, has been sent to Munday as manager of the Munday Gas Company, and plans to make this his home. Mrs. Jackson will follow him here as soon as she can locate suitable living quarters. Mr. Jackson states that it will be his policy to give the public the very best of service and users of natural gas are invited to call upon the company when they need adjustments made on any gas appliance, which is purchased from his company or someone else, as it is the desire of the company that all patrons get the very best of service out of the gas.

Creighton Talks Here Prove Interesting and Helpful to Mundayites

Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Creighton of Wichita Falls were here Tuesday evening and spoke to a meeting of the Parent-Teacher association at the Methodist church. Due to the extreme cold weather there were only a few present and it is indeed regrettable that so little interest was shown by the citizenship in this meeting.

Mrs. Creighton talked upon the work of the Parent-Teacher association and the obligation the parent owes to the teacher and to the child, and any parent who missed this wonderful talk did themselves and their child an injustice.

Mr. Creighton, who is Boy Scout Executive of the Wichita Area, talked on boys—stating that boys were his hobby and he felt that he knew boys better than anything else, and he urged that every citizen get behind the Boy Scout movement and assist in the inculcation of ideals in the minds of the boys that will be an asset to them throughout their entire lives.

Prior to the meeting at the church a conference was held with Mr. Creighton by E. W. McClothlin and Victor Edwards, appointed on the Boy Scout work by the Lions Club, and Phil Lowry, local scoutmaster. Mr. Creighton gave the committee much valuable information concerning Boy Scout work and it is believed that something definite can be done within the very near future toward the complete affiliation with Boy Scout work.

On Saturday, February 23, Mr. J. Baskin will celebrate his 87th birthday, and here's our sincere wish that he may live to celebrate many more anniversaries. Mr. Baskin is one of the very few Civil War veterans that are still with us, and it is indeed doubtful if there are any living who saw more active service than he did.

Harvey Lee, who for some years has been associated with the First State Bank here, has gone to Dallas, where he has accepted a position with the Mercantile National Bank of that city, and his many friends here are confident that he will make good in the big city.

The Great Hoover Hat-Holding Contest Is On!

At the left is J. W. Reader, 92, who is the farthest from holding Hoover's hat in the inauguration of the contest. Reader, of Tigon, La., may hold the hat, but someone West Branch, La., Hoover's home town, was preparing to send Newton Bole, at the right, who whipped Hoover in a lay-down fist fight, to the position of honor. Thus it is not yet known who will hold Hoover's hat.

Gore Cagers Are County Champs

Munday High Moguls Eliminated in Three-Game Series

After going into the finals with Gore the Munday High Moguls went down in defeat before the fast Gore aggregation on the local court on Wednesday evening, and the large aggregation of Gore fans who accompanied their team over to Munday returned home in a happy frame of mind over the fact that their lads had carried their high school banner to victory.

The preliminaries were played last Friday and Saturday—on Friday at Knox City and on Saturday at Gore. The Moguls went to Gore Saturday and defeated the fast Knox City team in the morning, and in the afternoon administered a decisive defeat to the heretofore undefeated Gore lads, thereby necessitating a play-off between Munday and Gore.

This arrangement was made necessary by reason of the fact that the Moguls had been trained to play on an indoor court and the rules of the Interscholastic League call for a three-game series, one on an indoor court, one on an outdoor court and the third can be decided on by the coaches involved, where the coaches demand, and had it not been for the fact that this rule was invoked by the Moguls they would have been declared county champions following defeat of the Gore team Saturday afternoon, and by a queer quirk of chance the Moguls won all outdoor games and lost both indoor games.

It is indeed doubtful if there was ever a closer contest than the game played on Monday evening. The final score was 30-31 in favor of Gore in the final count after a five-minute period had been played to determine the winner when the score was tied at the conclusion of the fourth quarter, and all during the game it was nobody's victory—first Gore was ahead a few points then Munday would forge ahead, and it was one of those exhibitions that cause the fans to go wild—which they did. But everybody was in good humor and throughout the series the excellent sportsmanship of the boys on the teams and the fans was evidenced.

As we have often said, alibis have no echo, and we are making this statement only in justice to the boys and the coach. In the final game both Aycock and Greer were out of the lineup due to illness, and while we would not discredit the work of the boys who filled their positions, it must be considered that three members out of the regular line-up would have a tendency to handicap any team, and the boys were under this handicap in the final game. However, the Gore boys have a wonderful team and under the most favorable conditions the Moguls would have not had more than a fifty-fifty chance, and we congratulate Gore as the winner of the county championship in basketball. They won and won clean, while the Moguls went down in defeat with nothing to regret.

Some days ago while rummaging among some old files of The Munday Times we ran across a number of old copies that had heretofore escaped our notice, and we shall from time to time give some brief items from these old copies in the belief that they will be enjoyed by readers of The Times who resided here at the time, and others as well.

The following items were taken from The Munday Times of February 5, 1909:

George Gilbert who recently bought the Naylor residence in West-end is erecting a business house on the site of the first business house that was ever built in Munday. The building is 20x20 feet and will be stocked with a complete line of groceries.

Misses Ruby and Roxie Maples spent Sunday and Monday visiting relatives and friends in Gore.

Under the heading, "Laundry for Munday," we read: The yellow front restaurant on the west side of the square is being remodeled for the purpose of installing a laundry. The particulars in the case have not yet been learned, but it is known that Monday will have a laundry.

Rev. Coale filled his regular appointment at the Methodist church Sunday.

On March 1st, which will be first Monday, we will have our first stock show parade. This move is being agitated by the farmers and stockmen of the Munday country.

Clarence Childress is making some improvements in the Tailor building, the future home of The Munday Times.

P. J. Camp of Gore is here this week studying the cleaning and pressing business under W. E. Phillips, the tailor, with a view of putting in a shop at Gore.

We are glad to note the rapid progress being made on the new $10,000 Methodist church. It is nearing completion and is expected to be completed by the first of March.

From the school news in this issue we note that three students were permitted to wear the honor medal for a month for the excellent work in the music department. They were Misses Ida Mae Campbell, Jennie Huff and Louise Lawson.

The Tom-Tom

MUNDAY, KNOX COUNTY, TEXAS, FEBRUARY 21, 1929.

Vol. 3. No. 24.

 Athletic Editor: Chandler Hughes
 Senior Reporter: Maurice Smith
 Junior Reporter: Vivian Rogers

 Seventh Grade B Reporter: Joma George Keeney

The county tournament has proved to be a success for the Moguls if we did have to play in an outdoor court. We pranced out not dreaming of the fact that we would be as successful as we have been. We sure did kill Knox City's soul when we beat them on an outdoor court. The fans thought that the boys should not have lost that game and so they tried to choke two of our Moguls after the game. However, we beat them and did a good job of it while we were doing it.

The Moguls have to play Goree tonight and if we win we will be county champions while if we lose we will have another chance to win the championship next week. So far the Moguls have not lost a game but that is not sign that we can not be beat for Goree has beat us twice this season.

Mogul fans, we want to tell you that the Moguls are supported by the best fans in this part of the state. You show more sportsmanship than any other place in West Texas. We think that you are the ideal sideline fans and should go other places and see the sportsmanship showed you. I think so too. However, we want you to be that way all the time for we are proud of you.

We are all set for the A. A. U. Meet that is to be held here in just a few days. The trophies are on display now at the Kethley Jewelry shop. They are very good looking trophies and one of them would look good setting in the library of Munday High School.

Here is hoping that we win the ball game tonight.

THE COUNTY TOURNAMENT

Moguls Win From Vera
 Last Friday afternoon the Moguls drew Vera for the first game in the County tournament. Vera was easily defeated, in the last quarter the entire first team was taken out, and the second team was put in. The second team did more scoring than Vera did. The score was 38-7.

Goree drew Truncos and defeated them easily.

Knox City did not get to play on their own court. We hope they don't feel hurt!

Moguls Defeat Knox City
 Saturday morning at Goree the Moguls beat the Knox City bunch by a score of 19-4. This was a grand and glorious victory. Knox City fully expected to win—but "they counted the chickens before they hatched."

Goree beat Benjamin Saturday morning. This left only two teams for the County Championship. Moguls vs. Goree.

Moguls Take First Game From Goree
 Saturday afternoon the Moguls played Goree at Goree. They defeated them in a hard fought game. The honor comes in, in that the game was played on an outdoor court—Goree's own court.

Few people realized that Munday would win on Goree's court. But the Goree players were good losers; great sportsmanship was shown by all.

Munday and Goree are to play a three game series—if necessary. If the Moguls win tonight on their own court they are County Champions; but if not—another game will be played to determine the championship.

MUNDAY INDEPENDENTS DEFEAT SIMMONS U. RESERVES

Last Tuesday night the Simmons basketball team played our local Independents in a fast, snappy game of basketball; but they were not good enough to defeat our team.

Lloyd Bowden, an ex-Mogul player, played on the Simmons team.

TEXAS ELECTRIC TEAM TROUNCES INDEPENDENTS

The Texas Electric Company of Wichita Falls played the Independent team last Friday night in one of the best and most thrilling games ever played in Munday. The Wichita team, composed of former college stars, was the best that has ever played on the local court.

The Independents held them to a fair margin—the final score being 37-22 in Wichita's favor.

SENIORS

Munday will be on the map yet. The seniors are looking forward with anxiety to the A. A. U. meet. A prayer of thanksgiving is going around among the girls that it is to be a boys' meet instead of one of the weaker (?) sex. What a treat! They are all trying to decide how to arrange their hair, what dress to wear, and what boys they will open their homes to. They have one request to make—that the boys be lined up and each girl take her choice. We're all pepped up! Get hot, Moguls, and make a showing!

The seniors are beginning to decide that the teachers expect us to study over the week end. We have also realized another startling fact—that they mean what they say. But we demand justice. Is it logical for students to study and think when they have to attend such fascinating games as were scheduled for this week end? No! As a result of our opinion, we are doomed to stay in detention.

Valentine has many different meanings. It affects no class alike. To the lover it means just another way of expressing his sentiments and of fattening his pocketbook. To the druggist it means an increase in business. To the school boy it means the saving of pennies to buy a large, lacy valentine that tells, in flowery language, the same old story, "I love you." To little brother it means a full "tummy" after partaking of his mother's candy. To Pa it means bills and dues from the dress shop for new frocks for the Valentine dance. To big sister it means a few more pounds, for, even if one is dieting, who can resist the tempting delicacies peeping from under a large, red heart? And to the Senior it means just a few more months and the semester is over. It's the last lap of high school life and we'll have to play it well to make it a winning game.

We are proud of the showing our boys made in the games Friday and Saturday. Do just as well tonight. Stay in there, boys, we're behind you!

Well, Valentine has come and gone, but it has left a lasting impression. That is, the Senior boys are complaining that their pocketbooks are flat. The girls in the class do not suffer from this—we wonder why.

Munday high school may have the honor of claiming some eminent poets as their native sons and daughters a few years from now. If several students keep up what they have started during their career in Munday "Institute of Learning, they will be renowned in the field of literature. The following proves the preceding statement:

Little St. Valentine,
 As he sat in his monastery,
 Reading and teaching the Good Book
 Instead of making merry,
 Got an inklin—
 That lovers' hearts he should be linking.

Several year later,
 As at his window he sat,
 Rubbing his eyes after his afternoon nap,
 He reviewed his work with a satisfied eye,
 And smiled as lovers passed by.
 He knew he was to blame for all this,
 But his conscience didn't hurt him a bit.
 He sighed "Ain't it fine?"
 For he started this immortal Valentine.

Oh! Think of the joy and gladness
 That comes to us on Valentine's Day;
 And we set aside sorrow and sadness,
 'Least it bother us on Valentine's Day.

The lovers join each other by the brook,
 'Cause it is Valentine's Day,
 And then steal away to some lonely nook.
 Who cares? It is Valentine's Day!
 Old meets old and young meets young
 Together on Valentine's Day,
 And all songs of love are sung,
 For true lovers on Valentine's Day.

SOPHOMORE

Sophomore's Spirit of the A. A. U.
 We, the Sophomores, are not very blue,
 We're looking forward to the A. A. U.
 Let the Juniors, Seniors and Freshmen represent,
 But the Sophomores will be there one hundred per cent.

We have the spirit, that with us
 Through the hail, and wind, the sleet and the snow,
 We are not bothered by everybody's blues,
 But we are behind the A. A. U.

We are longing to see our boys in purple and gold
 They are the one that are so brave and bold
 Stay right in there boys, in the A. A. U.
 The Sophs will be there yelling for you.

Our class poet Rex Holder, expressed our sentiments exactly in "The Sophomores' Spirit of the A. A. U."

Blanche Newcome and Lillian McGlothlin spent the week end at Knox City, visiting Daphne Humphries. Don't worry, they stayed right behind the Moguls!

Madeline Spore has been absent from school the past week on account of illness. The school has been so quiet we hardly know how to act. Hurry back Madeline, so we won't be uneasy.

Mary Hope Smith is another victim of the "flu" and we heard she "flu" to, bed, but hurry up, Mary Hope, fly back to school.

FRESHMEN BLAZES

The Freshmen showed an increase in Sunday School attendance this week. Come on Freshmen! That's the idea! Keep it up!!!

The Freshmen had a winner must last Tuesday night in the "Egg" race. Rubbing his eyes after his afternoon nap, he reviewed his work with a satisfied eye,
 And smiled as lovers passed by.
 He knew he was to blame for all this,
 But his conscience didn't hurt him a bit.
 He sighed "Ain't it fine?"
 For he started this immortal Valentine.

Come on Freshmen! Let's get it!

The Modern Flapper

The modern flapper is of high grade
 And for a jelly bean she was made,
 One pound of rouge, ten pounds of flour,
 And she's ready for the midnight hour.

This modern flapper struts around all day,
 Then about two o'clock in the morning she hits the hay.

The next day breakfast comes at two o'clock,
 And she eats her pancakes in a little brown frock.

When at last the evening is dark,
 She is seen with her jelly out in the park.
 They watch the sunset in its glow,
 Then finally leave and go to a show.

As I sit and look at the flappers in the room,
 I wonder what will be their doom.

This poem was made by a school boy napper.
 But only God can make a flapper.

—A Student.

We had a Valentine box in the study hall on Thursday of last week along with a short but very interesting program on Valentine Day which consisted of a dialogue and two very good readings. Mr. Palmer gave an interesting account of the history of Valentine day. So we were not surprised Friday to see several staring out into space hour after hour.

We're out after that Sunday school prize and we're going to get it. Furthermore at the time of this writing we were only one point from the lead and probably have it by the time you read this. One pupil's attendance means about 4 percent in this class. Pupils of T B go to Sunday school! Make 4 percent more for T B!

Edward Burns was brushed up last week. He was giving signals with his scout neckerchief and forgot to take his head out.

The party which was planned for last Saturday night was called off Thursday.

Hazel Webb, Lowry Rixby and Edward Burns were absent Friday.

RESOLUTE EFFORT

It was not as a feat of navigation that we admire the crossing of the Delaware by Washington and his ragged handful of followers. It was for their grit, their resolution, defying the cream of King George's army. In attaining financial independence, too, one needs to be resolute. A steady stream of savings despite all odds and obstacles will mean victory in the end.

 is weatherproof

Conoco Ethyl Gasoline performs at its best twelve months out of every year. It knows no seasons.

It gives the same quick start in February as it does in May—and it follows through by delivering steady, sustained, "knockless" power against the piston heads.

That's important! It's not hard to find a motor fuel that will start easily. Your chief concern should be in what it does after starting.

Being a combination of Conoco, the Triple-Test Gasoline, and Ethyl Brand of Anti-Knock Compound developed by General Motors, Conoco Ethyl is the ideal motor fuel. You'll feel the difference in the operation of your car the very second you switch to Conoco Ethyl.

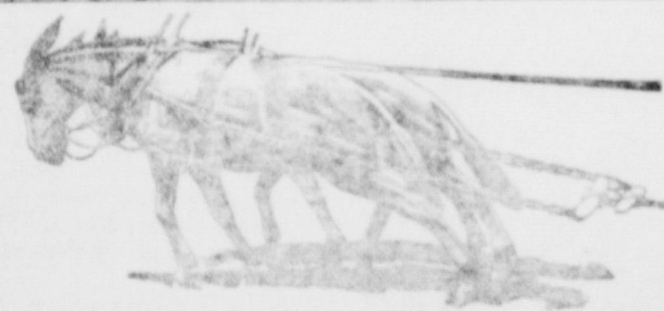

So why not join the thousands of contented Conoco Ethyl users? Why not get out of your car all of the power which its designers put into it?

Start the habit today by driving up to a Conoco Ethyl Pump—at service stations and garages.

BANKERS IN NATIONAL MOVE FOR UNIFORM FINANCIAL PRACTICES

Would Promote Greater Consistency Among All the State Laws in Respect to Banking Conditions—Uniformity of Practice and Understanding Will Make for Greater Convenience, Efficiency and Safety for All Business.

By S. J. HIGH

President State Bank Division, American Bankers Association

RAPID interchange of business and the quick transportation of goods in the United States, coupled with almost instantaneous means of inter-communication by telegraph, telephone and wireless, have welded the country into an economic unit. The nation is not, in a business sense, conducting its affairs in water-tight compartments, as in a measure it did in the days of slow travel and remote places, but styles, methods, commodities and business practices flow freely today in all directions. Therefore it is desirable that finance, trade and industry throughout the country operate along generally uniform or at least consistent lines, so that a contract or an agreement or obligation in connection with business transactions shall mean virtually the same thing in all parts of the country. Particularly necessary in this connection is the establishment of uniform financial and banking practices so as to facilitate the flow of trade along accepted and understood lines.

S. J. HIGH

Banking in the United States is recognized as a semi-public type of business and is therefore subject to laws to define the scope and character of its activities. These laws at present set up a great diversity of conditions under which banking is conducted in various parts of the country, since they come from both state and federal authorities. The national banks are all chartered by the federal government and therefore operate on the same lines in every state of the Union, but there is no such regularity in respect to the conditions under which the state banks chartered by the respective forty-eight states may conduct their business. All state banking codes, while they have similarities, also have many great dissimilarities in respect both to the national bank laws and the banking laws covering state bank operations in other jurisdictions.

Bankers Move for Uniform Laws

The State Bank Division of the American Bankers Association, which includes in its membership banks of all descriptions throughout the country subject to all the variations of state and federal banking laws, is committed to the effort to bring about greater consistency and uniformity among the statutes of all these various jurisdictions. This body is conducting a vigorous nationwide campaign urging that state banks be taken to secure greater coordination in banking legislation, more equitable conditions and more uniformly efficient public supervision of banks in the several states.

The organization is particularly concerned with fostering this movement to bring about more uniform desirable conditions throughout the United States in respect to the public supervision of banking institutions by the state banking departments. It is on record as favoring the policy that the important office of state bank commissioner should be kept as free from entangling partisan politics as the judiciary itself and should be completely detached from all other functions of state government.

It is also on record as favoring the policy that the tenure of office of state bank commissioners should be made more secure and lasting than in the case in many state jurisdictions and that the important public officer be granted sufficient compensation and discretionary power so that the office shall attract and retain the best of men of outstanding executive ability and successful banking experience.

It is also a part of the policy that the bank commissioner's ability to serve will be strengthened by providing him with adequate forces of bank examiners selected on the basis of merit from men having the requisite qualifications of honesty, ability, training and banking knowledge to carry out the duties of usefulness to the public as well as to banking.

The trend of state laws. The Association's State Bank Division has recently concluded a nationwide survey of state banking legislation and conditions and in general has discovered a definite trend along the following lines:

There is a distinct tendency among the states to raise the minimum capital required for banking institutions to $25,000 and also to give the bank commissioners or the banking boards sole power as to the granting of charters for new banks, thus enabling them to use discretion as to the need or desirability of the banking facility or the fitness of the organizers to enter the banking field. In this connection many states are creating banking boards to act in an advisory capacity with the state bank commissions.

There has also been observed a tendency to increase the compensation of the bank commissioners and to lengthen their terms of office and to give them power to appoint necessary deputies and examiners so as to build up an adequate force to carry out their responsibilities and duties. An important augmentation of the powers of

Ideals are to be actualized in order to make them practical. We have now had seven lessons in this quarter which present great truths in the Christian religion. Today we observe how these facts can be wrought into real life. Peter is chosen as the special example. At the beginning he was quite like the average fisherman on Galilee. His business was to fish for his living and he became the more helpful to us.

In addition to the passages of Scripture indicated in our lesson, the following are also to be studied in the present research: Luke 24:52; Ephesians 4:11-13; Philippians 3:10-11; 3:12-15; Colossians 1:9; Hebrews 4:1, 2. These typical lessons have an added value because they require constant reference to the Bible.

Andrew is the man who introduces us to Simon, the brother of Peter. They were followers of John the Baptist until Jesus came. They then turned to the superior Teacher. Andrew is convinced that Jesus is the long looked for Messiah. After spending the day with him, he goes out to find his own brother and tells the startling news. Simon comes and Andrew and walk with the open friendship for the "disciples" who speak prophetically of the work and significance of Jesus as a Book, Day of Pentecost. In the end of his life the course of the work on earth will carry forward in establishing the Kingdom on earth.

Some months later Peter is among the twelve. When cold add 1/4 cup flour, 1 level teaspoon salt, beat well, pour in creamed fat and bake slowly.

Marshmallow Custard
1 pint milk, 2 eggs, beaten separately, 1 cup sugar. Make a custard using milk, yolks of eggs and sugar. Put beaten whites on top and cover with marshmallows. Put under broiler and brown lightly.

For Tea Sandwiches
Mix 1/2 cup chopped English walnuts and 3/4 cup amount of fresh grated coconut. Moisten with cream, add 2 tablespoons "confectioner's" sugar and spread between buttered brown bread.

Substitute for Eggs
When eggs are in place, substitute cornstarch for them in recipe. Instead of using two eggs, for example, use half cup and stir one tablespoon of cornstarch with the flour to take the place of the second egg.

When your Children Cry for It

Castoria is a comfort when Baby is fretful. No matter how hot the little one is at noon. If restless, few drops soon bring contentment. No harm done, for Castoria is a baby remedy, meant for babies. Perfectly safe to give the youngest infant, you have the doctor's word for that! It is a vegetable product and you can use it every day. But it's in an emergency that Castoria saves most. Some night when restlessness must be relieved—or when pain—or some mother keeps an extra bottle, prepared, to make sure there's no danger of Castoria on the premises. It's safe for older children, too, and you'll find that name with it.

All Else Failed; Sargon Brought Back His Health

"Sargon restored my health at a time when I thought nothing would help me," recently stated Frank Bennett, of 905 Macon St., Fort Worth. His full statement follows: "My troubles started two years ago when I commenced to suffer with indigestion. I lost my appetite and what little I ate caused me taste my food for hours. I seldom got a good night's sleep and was so nervous at times that I would shake all over. I felt tired, run down and worn out even before the day was half over. My liver was out of order. I was bilious and my vitality was very low. I took lots of medicine and treatments with no lasting benefit.

"Then I tried Sargon, and I knew almost at once that I had found the right medicine. At last, my appetite returned and my strength and energy began to come back with the first bottle. Now, I sleep fine, eat anything I want and everything agrees with me. I am always hungry and enjoy my meals. My nerves are steady as a die, my headaches are gone and I feel like a man made all over again. I have gained nine pounds and just want to be on the go all the time."

"Sargon has built me back up so that I am stronger, and feel better than I have felt in years. I am a well man now, and the Sargon treatment is responsible for it." Sargon may be obtained in Munday at the Rexall Store.

West Texas A. A. U. High School Boys' Basketball Tournament

Will Be Held At

Munday, Feb. 28, March 1 and 2

About thirty of the fastest High School teams in West Texas are expected to enter into the competition for the A. A. U. Championship of West Texas, and for the beautiful trophies that have been provided for the winners. No Boys' high school team in West Texas is barred from competing, the meet is independent of interscholastic League and all contests will be under the supervision of A. A. U. officials and under A. A. U. rules.

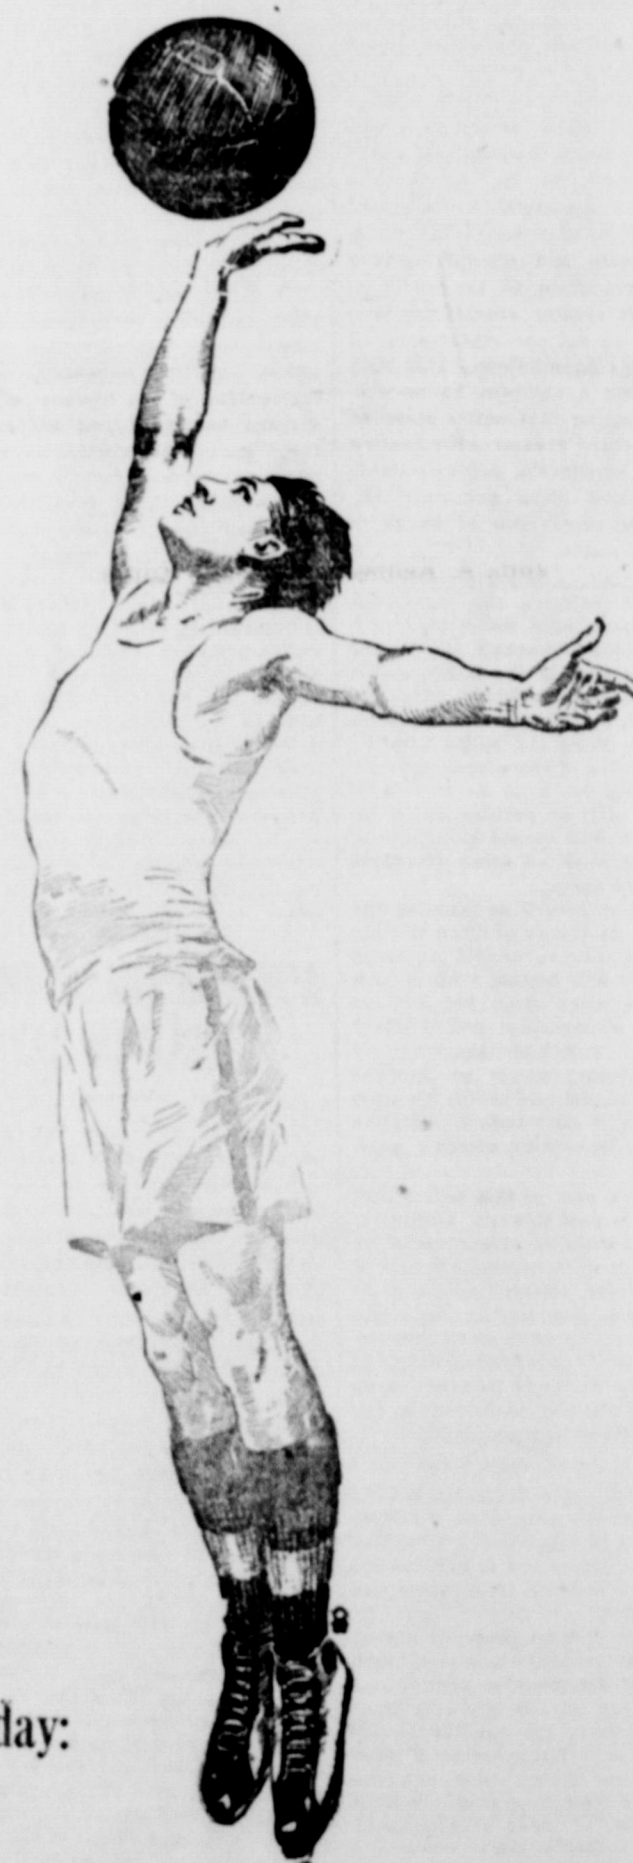

The events will be held in the community auditorium, which after being converted into a gymnasium, has a seating capacity of approximately 1,500, and in which a number of stoves have been placed and those who attend as well as the players may be assured that the building will be kept at a comfortable temperature at all times regardless of the weather.

A number of the outstanding teams of West Texas have already entered and a number have expressed their intention of doing so. Many of the teams that have entered have won the county championship in their respective counties and are coming to the A. A. U. Meet at Munday with a view of adding another victory to their achievement during the season, and never before have the citizens of this community had an opportunity to witness the class of basketball that will be played on the local court during this meet.

Music will be furnished throughout the tournament by the Munday Chamber of Commerce Band.

This is to be the big athletic event in basketball in West Texas this year. It is the greatest event of its kind that has ever been attempted in Munday, and Munday is possibly the smallest city that has ever attempted to entertain such an event in West Texas. The event is being sponsored by the Munday Chamber of Commerce. No profits will be derived from the meet, as all funds derived will be distributed among the visiting teams after the expenses of the meet have been deducted.

A schedule of the games and other details pertaining to the Tournament will be published in this paper next week.

last year, was the American farmer. Now we see how well the tariff forces are opposing those whose beliefs are contrary to their own. Until a few months ago it seemed that any revision of tariff, save in the case of farm products, would be downward.

But by using the Hoover argument that a higher tariff is the foundation of farm relief, the protectionists spread the word that sweeping upward revisions are necessary all along the line to save American industry from foreign competition.

And so manufacturing chemists asked for increases in the chemical schedule ranging from 50 to 100 per cent. Other industries are sure to be heard from.

The pretext of helping the farmer, it seems, is being employed to get a general boost on manufactured products—and the farmer will have to pay his share of the cost, as always.

KITCHEN ART

No, we are not referring to the culinary art. "Kitchen Art" is just what we mean—and there is such a thing.

At least so thinks the Art Alliance of America, which has announced a competition for designs to glorify that ancient and honorable institution, internationally known as the kitchen sink.

This movement deserves the support of everyone.

Now we know the secret behind the domestic unrest of recent years. The ugly sinks are responsible. The cast iron sink has kept more women out of their homes than the movies, jazz music and automobiles all rolled into one, according to some experts.

The white enameled sink of modern days is just as bad. It's too clean to make dirty—and so many housewives have preferred not to use it, just to look at it.

The ideal would be a kitchen sink both artistic and adapted to many uses. Not too ugly to look at, not too pretty to use.

May we suggest a kitchen sink with the faucets fashioned on a sort of fountain-of-youth plan, with little cupids chasing themselves over the exterior?

No doubt young wives and daughters would be attracted to it irresistibly. All hail the future savior of the American home who will design the best kitchen sink!

And this committee should invoke the aid of the city officials in bringing about the removal of rubbish on vacant lots. Worn out automobiles and implements do not add anything to the attractiveness of our town and no citizen should impose upon the citizenship by maintaining such a lot.

Let's make this drive mean something for Munday. Let's wake up to some progressive movements and not slumber along and allow those who desire to build good homes to go to towns that have more civic pride.

CIVIC ATTRACTIVENESS

The Munday Lions Club will foster during the spring a campaign for the beautifying of Munday homes, which is a most worthy undertaking and one that should receive a ready response from every citizen who is interested in making Munday a more desirable place in which to live.

Munday possesses greater possibilities for the building of a beautiful city than is possessed by most any town throughout this section. Our streets are wide, our grounds are smooth and sufficiently fertile to grow most anything that is planted or transplanted, and with the full cooperation of our citizenship we can within a very brief time have a feeling of pride in our town that we have never heretofore had.

And the pride of pointing out to visitors the beauty of our city is indeed the least of remunerations that will come from going diligently into such a campaign. The self satisfaction that will come from such a move will afford much greater pleasure to every citizen.

While the committee appointed to work out the details of the campaign has not yet gone into the matter of making rules for the campaign, it is likely that they will classify the yards and premises of each citizen and award prizes on a basis of improvements that are made rather than those that have already been made. Certainly there are some who regret having made the improvements that have already been made.

Visitors frequently refer to Munday as being a pretty town. This is due largely to the neatness and modern lines upon which our business section is built and to the fact that the city hall yard is covered with beautiful trees which show up to advantage during the summer months. But there are only a few beauty spots in the residence section of Munday, and these are scattered, and since the possession of a nice residence is not altogether essential in the matter of beautifying, there should be no street within the city that we would shun in driving strange-

FOURTH INSTALLMENT

What Happened Before

Palermo is the scene. There an exile, Leonardo di Marioni, has come for love of Adrienne Cartuccio, who spurns him. He meets an Englishman, Lord St. Maurice, who falls in love with Adrienne on sight. Leonardo sees his sister Margharita, who tells him his love for Adrienne is hopeless. But he pleads with her to arrange an accidental meeting to say farewell, between Adrienne and him.

She consents. That night the Englishman is informed of an attempt being made to carry off Signorina Cartuccio and Margharita, who are walking, by brigands employed by a rejected suitor, on a lonely road. He rushes to the scene, and proves able to rescue the ladies.

Inflamed by the failure of his scheme, Leonardo sees Margharita who shows him she knows that he was instigator of the attempted attack. The Englishman now sees Adrienne often. The Englishman, sitting in the hotel, finds a dagger at his feet. Looking up, he sees the Sicilian, and scents trouble. "We sat here a week ago," recalls Leonardo. Lord St. Maurice nods.

Now Go On With The Story
"It is well. It is of the events which have followed that night that I desire to speak, if you, Signor, will grant me a few moments of your time."

"Certainly," the Englishman replied courteously. After all, perhaps the fellow did not mean to quarrel. "I regret exceedingly having to trouble you, Signor, with a little personal history," the Sicilian continued. "I must tell you, at the commencement, that for five years I have been a suitor for the hand of the Signorina Adrienne Cartuccio, my cousin."

"Seemly cousin, I believe," Lord St. Maurice interposed. The Sicilian waved his hand. It was of no consequence.

"Certain political differences with the Imperial party at Rome," he continued, "culminated two years ago in my banishment from Italy and Sicily. You, I believe, Lord St. Maurice, are of ancient family, and it is possible that you may understand to some extent the bitterness of exile from a country and a home which has been the seat of my family for nearly a thousand years. Such a sentence is not banishment as the world understands it; it is a living death! But Signor, it was not all. It was not even the worst. Alas, that I, a Marioni, should live to confess it! But to be parted from the woman I love was even a sorer trial. Yet I endured it. I endured it, hoping against hope for a recall. My sister and I were orphans. She made her home with the Signorina Cartuccio. Thus I had news of her continually. Sometimes my cousin herself wrote to me. It was these letters which preserved my reason, and consciously or unconsciously, they breathed to me ever of hope."

"Not Adrienne's, I'll swear," the Englishman muttered to himself. He was a true Briton, and there was plenty of dormant jealousy not very far from the surface. The Sicilian heard the words, and his eyes flashed.

"The Signorina Cartuccio, if you please, Signor," he remarked coldly. "We are in a public place."

Lord St. Maurice felt that he could afford to accept the rebuke, and he bowed his head.

"My remark was not intended to be audible," he declared.

"For two years I bore with my wretched life," the Sicilian continued, "but at last my endurance came to an end. I determined to risk my liberty, that I might hear my fate from her own lips. I crossed the Alps without molestation, and even entered Rome. There I was watched, but not interfered with. The conclusion I came to was, that as long as I lived the life of an ordinary citizen, and showed no interest in politics, I was safe. I crossed to Palermo unharmed. I have seen the Signorina, and I have made my appeal."

The Englishman dropped his eyes and knocked the ash from his cigar. The fellow was coming to the point at last.

"You, Signor," the Sicilian continued, in a tone which, although it was no louder, seemed to gain in intensity from the smoldering passion underneath, "you, Signor, know what my answer was, for you were the cause. I have not told you much of my story to win your pity; I simply tell it that I may reason with you. I have tried to make you understand something of the strength of my love for the Signorina. Do you think that, after what I have risked, after what I have suffered, that I shall stand aside, and see another man, an alien, take her from me? I come of a race, Signor, who are not used to see the women they love chosen for other men's wives. Have you ever heard of Count Hubert di Marioni, who, with seven hundred men, carried off a princess of Austria from her father's court, and brought her safely through Italy here to be one of the mothers of my race? It was five hundred years ago, and among the ruins of ancient kingdoms, the Marionis have also fallen in estate. But the old spirit lingers. Lord St. Maurice, I am not a blood-thirsty man. I do not wish your life. Go back to your own country, and choose for a bride one of her own daughters. Give up all thought of the Signorina di Cartuccio, or, as surely as the moon yonder looks down upon you and me, I shall kill you."

Lord St. Maurice threw his cigar away and shrugged his shoulders. The affair was going to be serious then.

"You must forgive me, Signor, if I do not quite follow you," he said slowly. "The custom in our countries doubtless differs. In England it is the lady who chooses, and it is considered—pardon me—ill-mannered for a rejected suitor to have anything more to say."

"As you remark, the ideas and customs of our countries differ," the Sicilian rejoined. "Here a nobleman of my descent would consider it an everlasting shame to stand quietly on one side, and see the woman whom he worshipped become the bride of another man, and that man an alien. He would be ashamed, and justly, a coward. Let us waste no more words, Signor. I have sought you tonight to put this matter plainly before you. Unless you leave this island, and give up your pretensions to the hand of the Signorina Cartuccio, you die. You have climbed for the last time to the Villa Fiesole. Swear to go there no more; swear to leave this island before day breaks to-morrow, or your blood shall stain its shores. By the unbroken and sacred oath of a Marioni, I swear it!"

To Lord St. Maurice, the Sicilian's words and gestures seemed only grotesque. He looked at him a little contemptuously—a thin, shrunken-up figure, ghastly pale, and seeming all the thinner on account of his somber black attire. What a husband for Adrienne! How had he dared to love so magnificent a creature. The very idea of such a man threatening him seemed absurd to Lord St. Maurice. An athlete of public school and college renown, with muscles like iron, and the stature of a guardsman. He was not angry, and he had not a particle of fear, but his stock of patience was getting exhausted.

"How are you going to do the killing?" he asked. "Pardon my ignorance, but it is evidently one of the customs of the country which has not been explained to me. How do you manage it?"

Suddenly with the swiftness of a tiger-cat, the Sicilian leaped forward and struck the Englishman on the cheek.

"I should kill you in a duel!" the Sicilian answered. "It would be easily done."

The Englishman burst out laughing. It was too grotesque, almost like a huge joke.

"Damn you and your duels!" he said, rising to his feet, and towering over his companion. "Look here, Mr. di Marioni, I've listened to you seriously because I felt heartily sorry for you; but I've had enough of it. I don't know whether you understand the slang of my country. If you do, you'll understand what I mean when I tell you that you've been talking 'bally rot.' We may be a rough lot, we Englishmen, but we're not cowards, and no one but a coward would dream of giving a girl up for such a issue of whimpering. Be a man, sir, and get over it, and look here—none of this sort of business!"

He drew the dagger from his breast pocket, and patted it. The Sicilian was speechless and livid with rage. "You are a coward!" he hissed. "You shall fight with me!"

"That I won't," Lord St. Maurice answered good-humoredly. "Just take my advice. Make up your mind that we both can't have her, and she's chosen me, and come and give me your hand like a man. Think it over, now, before the morning. Good-night!"

The Sicilian sprang up, and looked rapidly around. At an adjoining table he recognized two men, and touched one on the shoulder.

"Signors!" he cried, "and you, Signor le Capitaine, pardon me if I ask you for your hearing for an instant. This gentleman—here has insulted me, and declines to give me an arm, and a rascal, and I repeat it! His name is Lord St. Maurice. If he forfeits his right to be considered a gentleman, I demand that his name be struck off the visitors' club."

The three men had risen to their feet. Two of them were gentlemen of the neighborhood, with whom Lord St. Maurice had a bowing acquaintance. The third was a French officer. They looked inquiringly at Lord St. Maurice.

"It's quite true, gentlemen," he said with easy self-possession. "He's been calling me all the bad names under the sun, and I have declined to give him what he calls satisfaction. I haven't the least objection to your knowing it."

The two Palermitans looked at one another doubtfully. The officer, giving his mousethroat a twist, stepped forward and bowed.

"Might we inquire your reasons for declining the duel?" he asked. The Englishman shrugged his shoulders.

The Sicilian struggled, but he was like a child in the Englishman's arms. He had caught him up in a vice-like grasp, and held him high over the heads of the astonished on-lookers. For a moment he seemed as though he were going to throw him right out of the restaurant to the Marina, but at the last moment he changed his mind, and with a contemptuous gesture set him down in the midst of them, breathless and choking.

"You can send your seconds as soon as you like, he said shortly."

"Good-evening gentlemen." They fell back before him like sheep, leaving a broad way right into the hotel, through which he passed, stern and self-possessed. The Sicilian watched him curiously, with twitching lips.

"There goes a brave man," whispered one of the Palermitans to the French officer. "But his days are numbered."

The Frenchman gazed at the Sicilian and nodded. There was death in his face.

Two men stood facing one another on a narrow belt of sand, stripped to the shirt, and with rapiers in their hands. One was the Sicilian, Leonardo di Marioni, the other the Englishman, Lord St. Maurice. Their attitude spoke for itself. They were about to fight for each other's life. (Continued next week)

WHAT DR. CALDWELL LEARNED IN 47 YEARS PRACTICE

A physician watched the results of abstention for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the system and is not habit forming. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant tasting and congenial to the stomach.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic purges and purges. He did not believe they were good for anybody's system. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly.

Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to the nearest druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Write "Syrup Pepsin" Dept. B. H. Medicines, 1100 Ave. of the Stars, New York.

That Has Fourteen LIVES!

WHAT a giant of power is the steam locomotive as it thunders up the grade. Yet the roar of its exhaust tells the tale of tons of living steam that go to waste.

... In the generating stations of the West Texas Utilities Company are power giants of another kind—softly humming turbines with the strength of a thousand locomotives on their shafts.

... Not so much as a wisp of steam escapes. Rather, each jet of steam is made to multiply its power fourteen times. Not until the last ounce of its energy is exhausted is it released, and even then its heat is used to warm the water for the boilers.

... Every detail in the operation of this company is planned to yield the utmost in efficiency and economy. That is why the modern electric motor can pull the load of other engines many times its size at but a fraction of their operating cost.

TEXAS SENATORS IN U. S. CONGRESS

1845-1930
John Hemphill—1859-1861

(Copyright 1928 by Alva O. Hearne)

John Hemphill was born in the Chester district, South Carolina on December 19, 1803. He graduated from Jefferson College in Pennsylvania in 1825; located in Sumpter, S. C., where he edited a nullification paper during the years of 1832-1834 and thereafter emigrated to Texas.

Hemphill was an astute lawyer and attained such eminence that upon the resignation of Judge Thomas J. Rusk in 1846, he was appointed Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the republic. He resigned that judgeship in 1842 to become adjutant general, and accompanied General Somerville in the unfortunate Mier expedition to capture reprisals for Texas held as prisoners in Mexico.

He was a member of the convention of 1845, which adopted the ordinance of annexation, and of the convention which framed the State constitution. After the annexation of Texas to the United States, he was, in 1846, appointed chief justice of the State Supreme Court and held that position until elected to the United States Senate.

As General Sam Houston's term in the United States Senate would expire before the meeting of the State legislature in 1859, the legislature of 1857 elected his successor. The candidates before the legislature were John Hemphill and William S. Oldham, both of whom were known to be States Rights men, with very strong Southern sentiments. Both resided in Austin.

Judge Hemphill was then chief justice of the Supreme Court of Texas. Judge Oldham was a distinguished lawyer and a good political speaker. He had been on the supreme court bench in Arkansas before coming to Texas. Judge Hemphill had been chief justice of the republic and of the State of Texas for fifteen years continuously. Having held courts since 1851 in Austin, Galveston and Tyler, Judge Hemphill had a more extensive personal acquaintance in the State which gave him a decided advantage over Judge Oldham. Though scarcely known in Eastern Texas, Judge Oldham received a considerable vote in the legislature. Judge Hemphill was elected and took his seat in the United States Senate at the expiration of General Houston's term, March 4, 1859.

Judge Hemphill was one of the fourteen Senators who, on January 6, 1861, met in caucus and adopted States immediate secession. In the following February he was made a deputy to the Confederate provisional congress in Montgomery, Alabama. He and his colleague from Texas, Senator Louis T. Wigfall, were expelled from the United States Senate by resolution adopted by that body on July 11, 1861.

During his extended career on the Supreme Court bench Judge Hemphill established many important precedents, and settled many questions which had been long in conflict in the old States. He was one of the most learned of his time and one of his outstanding judicial achievements was his success in harmonizing the common and civil law elements of Texas jurisprudence.

Judge Hemphill was never married, though he was ever a champion of the widow and the orphan, a staunch advocate and protector of the legal rights of married women, and invariably gave to laws regarding them a liberal construction. One of the decisions of an eminent judge styled him the great champion of the homestead rights in Texas. His name is indelibly inscribed upon the jurisprudence of the State.

He was not an orator, but his speeches were logical and always presented a stern array of facts in pure, terse and incisive language. These qualities are exhibited in his speech on the right of a State to withdraw from the Union, delivered in the Senate in January, 1861. In that speech he showed that Texas, having been an independent Republic of good standing among the nations at the time of its annexation, would, in withdrawing from the Union, only resume that sovereignty and independence which she had laid aside when she entered it, in answer to charge of ingratitude then made upon Texas in view of her threatened secession, he showed that the State was not in any way responsible for the Mexican war, and that it was not wared by the United States even for the benefit of Texas.

Quick Results Follow The Completion of Tennessee Milk Plant

By M. B. Oates

At Fayetteville, Tennessee, which is in Lincoln County, located on the Southern boundary of middle Tennessee, we found another Borden Milk plant which began operation in May, 1927. The first day this plant got 11,000 pounds of milk. Within thirty days the average was 20,000 pounds, and the first summer the average was 50,000 pounds daily. The plant was getting 63,000 pounds daily when we were there (August, 1928). The volume of business the first year was $720,000. This plant has 30 collecting stations and one feeder plant with 262 patrons. In all, the Borden plant has 532 patrons. The cost of the plant was $40,000.

This plant produces butter and powdered skim milk. The powdered milk plant is the Gray-Jensen powdered process which is exactly like the plant built at Marshall, Texas, last spring. These plants produce a high grade powdered skim milk which is used by bakers, ice cream plants, etc. The Borden Company at Fayetteville, Tenn., owns and operates its own cooperative plant in conjunction with the milk plant, using the barrels for shipping powdered skim milk.

In addition to the Borden plant at Fayetteville there is a creamery at Petersburg which has been in operation for ten or twelve years and this creamery is now doing more business than before the condensery was built. There are also several cream stations in the county. So this county has a pretty large dairy industry.

The farmers are well satisfied. They are getting about 200 pounds of butter fat per cow and most of them are producing their own feed. Again we found a large part of the dairying being done by tenants on the 50-50 basis. This has proven both satisfactory and profitable to landlords and tenants alike.

When the Borden plant was established, May 1927, there were only 4000 cows in the county. Within fifteen months the number of cows had been increased to 12,000. That took a lot of work and cooperation on the part of the bankers and business men.

Fayetteville surprised us by giving us a luncheon on our arrival and immediately following the luncheon we went into conference with a few of the business men. T. D. Sugg, President of the First National Bank, waxed warm in describing conditions here in Lincoln County. He said that he had no doubt about dairy farming being a boom to that town and county. Before the dairy business started the principal business of the town was done on credit. Now all business is cash and business is better than before dairying was started. The Secretary of the Retail Credit Association, W. G. McCowan said that conditions were better than ever before in the history of the town. J. M. Eakin, Merchant, said that before the Borden plant was established only 20 percent of his business was cash, now all his business is cash, not a dollar has been lost. Said he used to have $40,000 on his books, but these accounts have been reduced to $2,000. W. M. Smith, another merchant and landlord said he changed from a credit basis to cash on July 1, 1927, which was just two months after the milk plant opened and he has a better business now than before and it's all cash. Four-fifths of his business used to be on a credit basis.

The changes taking place so quickly after the large milk plant was built indicate that farmers were helped almost at once and that business responded immediately to the improved financial conditions of the trade territory.

From 6000 cows to 12,000 in a little over a year; from a credit business to an all cash business without loss of volume, and a better business condition than ever before in the history of the town, is a whole lot to accomplish within a year and a half or less but it shows how dependable the dairy business is when generally established and consistently followed.

Worth More Than A World of Money

Since Taking Orgatone Wichita Woman Is Now Able To Do Her House Work With Ease

"I would rather be well and happy like I am since taking Orgatone than have all the money in the world," declared Mrs. Rosie Coe, of 2115 Ave. C, Wichita Falls, Texas.

"Before I took Orgatone," continued Mrs. Coe, "I had stomach trouble and headaches so bad that it just simply racked my whole nerve center. My stomach was in such bad condition that I could hardly digest anything. The gas on my stomach would cause intense pains in my side and often times such palpitation of the heart that I could hardly stand it. I was extremely nervous, my breath was short and I felt miserable all the time."

"My son advised me to take Orgatone and at the time I started it I really did not feel like doing my housework. But it's different now I am getting as healthy as I ever was in my life. The headaches and stomach pains have all left me and I can do all my work and look after my family without the least trouble. I can eat a good hearty meal and never have a sign of indigestion. I am not the least nervous anymore, sleep like a child every night and as well as I ever was. I can't find words to express my thankfulness for what Orgatone has done, it is nothing short of wonderful."

Orgatone is not a so-called patent remedy, but a new scientific treatment containing no false stimulating drugs and may be obtained in Monday, Texas, at Eiland's Drug Store. Advertisement.

Fuel system of the new Ford has been designed for reliability and long service

THE practical value of Ford simplicity of design is especially apparent in the fuel system.

The gasoline tank is built integral with the cowl and is unusually sturdy because it is made of heavy sheet steel,terne plated to prevent rust or corrosion. An additional factor of strength is the fact that it is composed of only two pieces, instead of three or four, and is electrically welded—not soldered.

Because of the location of the tank, the entire flow of gasoline is an even, natural flow—following the natural law of gravity. This is the simplest and most direct way of supplying gasoline to the carburetor without variations in pressure. The gasoline feed pipe of the new Ford is only 18 inches long and is easily accessible all the way.

The gasoline passes from the tank to the carburetor through a filter or sediment bulb mounted on the steel dash which separates the gasoline tank from the engine.

The carburetor is specially designed and has been built to deliver many thousands of miles of good service.

Since all adjustments are fixed except the needle valve and idler, there is practically nothing to get out of order.

The choke rod on the dash acts as a primer and also as a regulator of your gasoline mixture. The new hot spot manifold insures complete vaporization of the gasoline before it enters the combustion chamber of the engine.

As a matter of fact, the fuel system of the new Ford is so simple in design and so carefully made that it requires very little service attention.

The filter or sediment bulb should be cleaned at regular intervals and the carburetor screen removed and washed in gasoline. Occasionally the drain plug at the bottom of the carburetor should be removed and the carburetor drained for a few seconds.

Have your Ford dealer look after these important little details for you when you have the car oiled and greased. A thorough, periodic check-up costs little, but it has a great deal to do with long life and continuously good performance.

The A. D. Class

The A. D. Class of the Baptist church met in a business and social meeting Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Leland Hannah, with Mrs. Albertson and Mrs. Elbert
Hughes assisting hostesses.

We first went into a brief business meeting, Mrs. Albertson then conducted the study of our Bible questions and answers. After this delicious refreshments were served, consisting of hot tea and cherry pie topped with whipped cream.

Boomerang Class Entertained At Stodghill Home

The Boomerang class was entertained at the home of Janelle Stodghill
Tuesday evening at 7:30. Tally cards were passed as the guests arrived and "84" was enjoyed until a late hour. Refreshments consisting of hot punch and Martha Washington pie were served to the following members and guests: Bonnie Milan, Ray Worthington, Faye Edwards, Leonard May, Ted Carter, Lorene Parker,
Chandler Hughes, Marvin Warren,
Irene Bowden, Orelia Brock, Maggie
Keel, Lena Maye Turner, Dessie
Hammock, Leona Keel, Virginia Curry, Welton Parker, Burnice Bowden, Christine Burton, James Rayborn, and Dr. and Mrs. E. M. Ammons.

According to information received by Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Bengt, Miss Frances Dashner, who has been ill for some time with pneumonia in a hospital at Ada, Oklahoma, has recovered sufficiently to be carried to her home, which will be good news to her many friends in this city.
Miss Dashner was formerly a member of the faculty of the Munday schools, and endeared herself to many of our citizens while here.

son-in-law and daughter. Mr. and
Mrs. Anderson of Sipe Springs, Texas, were here last week visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. O.
Bowden. Mrs. Bowden is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan.

R. A. Allen of Fort Worth is here installing the machinery in the new ice plant being erected by E. J.
Roberts of Fort Worth. Mr. Allen states that he had been informed that Munday was a very small and undesirable place to stay prior to coming here and expressed amazement at our modern city, and especially was he impressed with the cordial and friendly attitude of our citizens toward strangers, all of which we are very proud.
