

Pioneer Days Depicted In Murals, As Roxy Theatre Completes Decoration

The Roxy Theatre has received a complete face lifting from front to rear. The facade has been embellished in a modern treatment of glazed tile of wine and black. New and modern display frames have been installed, as well as entrance doors. The entire front has been repainted in attractive colors.

Indirect lighting effects of neon tube lighting has been installed in the foyer and auditorium. All visible lighting fixtures, with the exception of exit fixtures, have been eliminated. Second lobby and foyer walls and ceiling have been painted in soothing tones of rose tan and blue gray.

A tile wainscot and floor has been installed in the ladies' rest room.

The main auditorium has been decorated in a scheme of the last word in modern theatre decorations. The theme of murals on sidewalls, one on each wall running the full length of the auditorium, depict on one wall pioneer days of the West, supposedly West Texas, showing the wagon trains of the home seekers, as well as the Indians in ambush; while on the other wall, still of the west a great number of years later, shows the cowboys by campfire in the moonlight, as well as a streamlined train. The main ceiling is done in sky blue with the twinkling stars.

The murals are done in such a manner as to produce two entirely different effects. They might be termed dual murals. This is brought about by the use of combinations of fluorescent paint and black light. This combination is virtually new. A great number of the finer theatres, constructed two years before the outbreak of the recent World War, applied the above combination in the manner of the interior decorations of the Roxy auditorium. The effect desired is so mystifying that it is hard to describe it in type. You must see it to feel it, and you must study it to understand it.

On entering the theatre, don't overlook the fact that the wagon train is headed away from you, regardless of your location in the theatre.

Walker B. King of the King Scenic Co., of Dallas, has pioneered the application of the combination of fluorescent paint and black light since its conception about nine years ago. The Roxy Theatre is the seventh theatre in Texas to receive this type of decoration. The war slowed down this type of decoration for theatres, for the reason the government required the entire output of mercury lamps and fluorescent paints and dyes. There is no doubt that the combination of fluorescent paint and black light will revolutionize theatre decorations just as soon as the present tie-up on transformers due to strikes is over.

The Roxy murals were painted by Walter B. King and Lupe Romero. Mr. Romero is a well known theatre decorator at Dallas, and worked in conjunction with Mr. King on the Roxy project.

A New Year!

Munday Times Begins 42nd Year With Next Issue

This issue of the Munday Times marks the last issue of "Volume 41," and with next week's paper we begin our forty-second year of service to our readers of Knox County and other places.

In many respects, the year just closing has been a trying one; yet, many happy incidences have been chronicled within the pages of these 52 issues. One of the most eventful was the closing of the great conflict which we called World War II.

Trying times for our paper were caused by this war and the various shortages connected with it. There has been a shortage of help, shortage of newsprint and other shortages of things necessary for carrying on a successful newspaper business.

Times have been no more trying with us than with others of you. We've all had trying times, and we've all worked together for the betterment of our community.

Patronage of the Munday Times has been wonderful, and we are sincerely thankful to all our readers and advertisers. As we enter into another year of publication, we renew our pledge to give you the very best county newspaper possible each succeeding week.

Ag Council Holds Meeting Here June 27

Twelve members of the Knox-Baylor County Agricultural Council held its regular monthly meeting at Munday, June 27, in the Vocational Agricultural Department.

Mr. Mack Woodrum, of Abilene, Regional Agricultural Training Supervisor of the Veterans Administration, who is agricultural training office for this area, met with the council and explained to the members the vocational opportunities that were open to returned veterans. Schools, teaching this vocational training, will be established in Knox County, according to Mr. Mack Woodrum, which will include business administration, trades and industry and agriculture, with all of its different phases, which will be made applicable to the conditions prevailing in Knox County. Veterans interested in this vocational training should get in touch with the Administration Committee who are G. S. Dowell, of Munday, August Schumacher, of Rhineland; Jake Cure, Gilliland; Jack Idol, Benjamin; H. D. Arnold, Goree; Luther Graham, Knox City; and W. M. McConnell, of Vera.

The Agricultural Council members also discussed other agricultural problems in the county, such as wage stabilization, agricultural deferments and other interesting subjects, after which time Mr. Emmett Fartridge, chairman, adjourned the meeting, and informed the group that the next meeting would be held in Seymour, July 18th, at 9:30 a. m. in the basement of the post office.

Horn Fly Control Proves Effective In 84-Day Period

The horn fly control demonstration that is being conducted on the League Ranch has proven very successful for a period of 84 days. Fifty eight calves and sixty eight cows were treated for the fourth time, Friday, June 28th. It was demonstrated by Mr. Idol, Mr. Snow Crenshaw and the County Agent, that the fly population was on a slight increase since more favorable weather conditions and rain for fly population occurred during the last two weeks, since approximately 12 to 15 horn flies were found on each cow. It is very important that the interval between treatments should not be longer than twenty one days as fly population increases very rapidly when adult flies are allowed to increase over a period of seven days.

The method of treatment the last three times has been by dusting DDT and Sulphur on the backs of the animals as they pass through the chute. This dust treatment is a mixture of 1 pound 50% water dispersible DDT and 9 pounds water dispersible Sulphur sprinkled on backs of the animals through a perforated lid that is attached to a quart fruit jar, which is easy to apply and very rapid, as one hundred and twenty six head were treated in forty five minutes.

It is estimated that these cattle, over the 84 day period on horn fly control, have gained from 30 to 45 pounds more in weight than other cattle that have not received the horn fly treatment.

Mr. Idol also says that one great advantage of the DDT spray is to control the stable fly in the barns. The stable fly cannot be controlled on the animal due to its habit of feeding; so Mr. Idol sprayed the floors, walls and ceilings of all sheds and barns, and has practically eliminated stable flies in the barns as well as the horn fly on the cattle.

Houston McMurry Announces For Congressman

Houston McMurry of Clay County has authorized the Munday Times to announce his candidacy for the office of U. S. Congressman from the 13th Congressional District of Texas, subject to the action of the voters in the Democratic primary.

Mr. McMurry, who is 39 years of age, has spent all of his present life in the 13th district. He is married and owns his own home in Henrietta, Texas.

He was admitted to the bar of the State of Texas in 1933, and has practiced law in Henrietta since that time, with the exception of the time he has spent in Austin as a member of the Texas House of Representatives. He was elected representative of the 110th district in 1938, and has served continuously since that time, being reelected for his third and fourth terms without opposition.

Houston McMurry advocates and will vote for in Congress:

1. Aid and support to the retiring veterans to help him secure a job, to get started in business for himself, and to build a home for himself and family.
2. Retaining price control until the country has returned to normal conditions. He will not vote to abolish or cripple OPA until the present crisis is over.
3. Aid to the public schools, particularly giving the grossly underpaid school teachers a long overdue raise in salary. He has fought for this constantly in the Texas Legislature.
4. All legislation sponsored by the Democratic party leadership in Congress which has as its purpose the greater good for the greater number and which is for the benefit of the farmer, small business man, the men and women who work with their hands for a living, and the average man generally.

Mr. McMurry urges your careful consideration of these principles, and asks your vote and influence in the coming election.

Softball Team Loses Close Games Here Last Week

The Munday softball team, sponsored by the local Jaycee organization, dropped two interesting games to visiting teams here last week.

On Thursday night the Onyx Oilers of Abilene downed the locals by a score of 3 to 0. The visitors' scores came in the third, fourth and seventh innings.

Lockhart, visiting pitcher, gleaned nine strike outs to five by Don L. Ratliff of the locals. Hits were even, 3 to 3, with Taylor, Hobert and Jones getting hits for the locals, and Paherson, Brown and Fate for the visitors. Munday's three errors were costly.

Electra, playing here on Friday night, beat the locals by a score of 3 to 1. The visitors' scores came in the first inning, and after that Don Ratliff shut the boys out, getting a total of 11 strike outs. The locals lone score came in the sixth. Rodowalt, visiting pitcher, struck out eight of the locals.

Interest in the games is growing, as the local boys get further in the season, and support of the Jaycees team is growing stronger.

Miss Joan Rummel of Chillicothe visited with friends here over the week end.

Crops of Knox County, said to have been looking better at this time of year than ever before, suffered a severe beating from high winds and shifting sands last Sunday night.

Virtually every community in the county has reported severe damage from the storm. Much cotton was burned to a crisp by the sand, while others reported a portion of their crops covered up by the drifting sand.

Wind which reached a velocity of 50 miles per hour blowed in strong gusts for almost two hours. Acre after acre of tender cotton appeared ruined the next morning.

The high wind was followed by light showers. Munday reported .36 of an inch.

Some farmers are preparing to replant much of their cotton land in maize and other grains, while others contend that the cotton that the cotton which was not too severely damaged will come out and make a crop.

This came as quite a blow to Knox county farmers, who were elated over prospects for one of the best crops Knox County has produced in many years.

Oil Field Brings Added Activity To Knox County Seat

The newly developed oil field 13 miles west of Benjamin is developing at a rapid rate, and there is now approximately 31 wells in production or in process of being drilled. This activity has greatly stimulated business within the town of Benjamin, and it is estimated that 55 or 60 well drilling employees and their families are now making their homes either in Benjamin, Knox City or Seymour.

The oil companies most active in this newly discovered oil field area are the Ohio, Humble and the Anderson-Prichard.

The City Service Oil Company also has a well in production seven miles north of Benjamin on the Dr. G. H. Beavers ranch, which opens up an entirely new oil field.

KEEP THE WHEELS TURNING

A shortage has developed of which the public has little knowledge, although it can have a far-reaching effect. That shortage is lead—the lead that goes into gasoline. Unless the oil industry can secure enough lead to maintain the octane rating of gasoline, the private and commercial motor transportation system will be seriously impaired. Old cars and poor gasoline could bring about a widespread breakdown.

Spokesmen for the oil industry, in discussing the problem, "recognize that there is a severe shortage of metallic lead in this country and we agree that a curtailment in the use of tetraethyl lead is necessary. We likewise feel that the petroleum industry will cooperate to the fullest extent possible consistent with reasonable performance of trucks, buses, and passenger cars in this country today." During the month of April, the government allocated 3,500 tons of metallic lead for use in the manufacture of tetraethyl lead. This is approximately two-thirds of the unrestricted consumption rate. In the opinion of petroleum authorities, it is essential that the metallic lead allocations for May and subsequent months be at least 4,000 tons if serious consequences are not to be encountered in the petroleum and transportation industries.

There are things that this country cannot do without—one of them is good gasoline. A nation on wheels, without gasoline, is like a dairy farmer with a barn full of dry cows.

AN EXPENSIVE WAY

With the introduction of the Wagner-Murray-Dingell compulsory health insurance bill, the old struggle of socialism versus private enterprise is back again. It doesn't matter whether it is fish and ships, electricity, pills, or cigars, the socialist wants a government label instead of the trade-mark of private enterprise.

Dr. R. L. Sensenich, testifying before the Senate Education and Labor Committee, said the bill which is designed to benefit those too poor to pay for medical service, is by no means cheap. In commenting on the estimate of Arthur J. Altmeyer, Chairman of the Social Security Board, that the cost would be about $27 a person a year, Dr. Sensenich figured that in a family of three, three times $27 would be no small contribution. He also made the point that even a system of compulsory health insurance will not bring medical service to those who are neglectful of their health, and claimed that many of those who are not treated for ills today are among that group.

The American Medical Association advocates a national program to improve the general health of the nation. Dr. Sensenich contends this could be accomplished by a voluntary plan or plans which would provide a facilities for the care of the sick, with local government contributing necessary funds or facilities in especially poor areas. "The entire public should not be regimented into a plan to care for a relatively much smaller group," he said.

INCUBATORS, SHOES, AND DEAD MONKEYS

The Wright Brothers, at the time of their historic first flight, would have been astounded if they could have looked ahead to the manner in which the airplane would soon be utilized by imaginative man. They would have been amused too at some of the cargoes carried. Recent shipments have included incubators, broken-in shoes and dead monkeys.

Not long ago the birth of triplets in a Kansas City Hospital created a sudden emergency that would have ended tragically in "the good old days." However, an incubator was delivered by air express in a few hours. In another instance, a number of dead monkeys were air-expressed to the Museum of Natural History in New York, all the way from Colombia, South America. Speedy transportation was necessary to prevent deterioration of the carcasses before they could be treated by taxidermists. The oddity of the shoes was occasioned by the vacationist who wanted his favorite pair of broken-in shoes delivered quickly to him in Mexico City—and they were, by air express, the morning after a telephone call to his wife.

These incidents may sound like a job, but they are really part of the day's work of the Railway Express Agency—which like every other private enterprise depends for its existence upon rendering a service that the public wants, and rendering it efficiently when it wants it.

We talked to a man the other day who was 97 years of age. He said he hadn't an enemy in the world. We thought that was a wonderful thing, until he added—that he had outlived them all.

But, the fact that they still perform marriages in this country is proof positive that this is the land of the brave.

"How," writes a distracted parent to this office, "can I convince my daughter that the young man she goes with is worthless?" Have her marry him.—Atchison Globe.

Some of the candidates who maintain they will win their races or eat their hats had better be shopping for soft-felt headgear.

Gulf Oil Launches Training Program On Sales, Service; Army Method Used

Culminating more than two years of study and research, Gulf launched today, in Houston, Texas, one of the most ambitious and comprehensive programs for the training of its sales and service personnel ever undertaken by a major oil company.

Within a very short time, company officials say, the program will be in effect throughout the entire Gulf Marketing area, which extends from Maine to New Mexico. It is estimated that between 45,000 and 50,000 individuals will fall within the scope of this training activity.

Gulf's aim is twofold: first, to bring to the motoring public a type of service which far exceeds anything envisioned in pre-war days; second, to make it possible for Gulf service station operators and personnel to equip themselves with the basic information necessary to the enjoyment of greater and more profitable sales, and advancement commensurate with their abilities.

Toward the quick accomplishments of this end, Gulf has incorporated into the program many of the speed-up training principles which were used so successfully by the U. S. Armed Forces in World War II. Particularly is this true of visual training methods. Moving pictures, sound slide films and the like, according to training experts art of immeasurable value when properly coordinated with actual demonstration and practice. The two go hand in hand for greatest effectiveness. Accordingly Gulf merchandising men have built into their program this fundamental concept. Additional cognizance was taken of past training activities within the company itself, and due consideration accorded those training methods used by competitive companies.

More than a thousand trainers, thoroughly versed in basic training method, are prepared to conduct the program. These men are not mere theorists, but are experienced sales and merchandising people.

Training stations have been established at convenient locations throughout Gulf's marketing territory. The trainers can impart the information and carry out demonstrations for groups of service salesmen at the training stations or can carry the program, in its entirety, to the individual service stations themselves. Thus the program is flexible enough to allow every service station operator and salesman the opportunity to benefit from the activity.

Jester Makes Tour of State In His Campaign

Folks in many sections of Texas had a chance to see and talk to Beauford Jester of Corsicana, candidate for governor, during his tour of the state in the past two weeks.

In large cities and in small towns they have listened to him discuss the principles of his "People's Path" Platform. Jester has stated that he will stick to the principles in his "People's Path" and will make no rash promises or far fetched predictions in his campaign for the governorship.

In his tour of the state Jester urged:

A long range, planned campaign to rebuild depleted farm lands;

An expanded public health educational program to reduce disease and to raise public health standards in Texas;

A traffic and highway safety campaign to reduce the steadily mounting toll of accident victims throughout the state; Pledged support for an adequate state police highway patrol;

Higher salaries and better working condition for teachers in all public schools and colleges;

The establishing of a first class medical school and other educational facilities for negroes at Prairie View University;

The building of more farm-to-market roads in all sections of Texas where roads are needed;

Condemned attempts of OPA Director Chester Bowles to make a deal with labor whereby agriculture would be hamstrung by stabilized farm prices in return for which labor would agree to a one year strike truce.

Jerry Sadler Speaks Here On Last Saturday

Jerry Sadler, colorful candidate for governor, was in Munday on the last day of an eight day tour of West Texas and the Panhandle. He was accompanied here by Lou Childre and his Alabama Boys of the Grand Ole Opry.

Sadler stated that the reception that had been given him all over West Texas had been splendid. In his speech here the candidate pledged "immediate attention to redistricting the state for legislative purposes." He also pledged representation for West Texas on the State Highway Commission.

"The old folks need $40, or nothing," said Sadler, in lashing out against the amendment to the constitution which limited pension appropriations to thirty-five million per year. He pledged to resubmit this question to the people, "as it is impossible to pay $40, to all needy old people as long as this ceiling remains in the constitution."

Sadler explained the GI Memorial Plan that would allow war veterans and all Texans of worthy character to purchase homes, farms, and ranches without a down payment. The state would insure the loan with the bank or lending agency and would charge one-half of one percent to defray the expense of the state for this service. "It will not cost the state one cent," claims Sadler.

The candidate proposes 1c additional tax on gasoline for four

Dear Sue,

It's great to hear that you've started to build at last! Sorry, I'm an amateur about floor plans and such -- but I can give you experienced advice about one thing...your new refrigerator.

Get a Servel Gas Refrigerator. And if you can't get one right now, make your old refrigerator do until you can. Because when you do get a Servel, you'll forget refrigerator worries -- for good!

You see, we had a lot of trouble with refrigerators, till we switched to a Servel Gas Refrigerator. And I can tell you now -- I'd never have any other kind!

All during the war our Servel stayed perfectly silent...giving us the finest food protection...really dependable refrigeration service. Jim explained to me that that's because it hasn't a single moving part in its freezing system -- nothing to wear or get noisy -- and always on the job!

That's the one piece of advice I'd like to pass along, Sue. Make sure you get a Servel. Meanwhile -- have fun with your house!

Kate

Cotton Insect Control Puts Dollars In Your Pocket!

READ THIS ARTICLE, AND THEN ASK YOURSELF IF YOU CAN AFFORD NOT TO PRACTICE INSECT CONTROL ON YOUR—OR YOUR CUSTOMERS'—1946 COTTON CROP

In a recent interview with K. P. Ewing, in charge of the Waco, Texas, laboratory of the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine, U. S. Department of Agriculture, conducting research on improved methods of controlling cotton insects, detail concerning some of the experimental results during the 1945 season were obtained—as well as information concerning results secured on insect control by some of the farmers in the Waco area. Particularly interesting was one largescale experiment on the Jess Radle farm located in the fertile Brazos River bottom, four miles south of Waco. Mr. Radle furnished the calcium arsenate and the U. S. Department of Agriculture, under the direction of Mr. Ewing, furnished the DDT-sulphur mixture and advised when to apply the dust in an effort to demonstrate the practical use of position for controlling heavy infestations of the boll weevil and the bollworm. The field contained 38 acres, 36 acres were poisoned and an adjoining two acres left an untreated check. During the early part of the season the 36 acre block was subdivided into several plots, strictly for experimental purposes, to determine the value of several spray materials, including DDT, as compared to dusts for boll worm control. However, by August 1, it became evident that the bollworm and bollweevil infestations were rapidly increasing in some of the plots and that it would be necessary to change the design of the experiment in order to prevent severe losses from these insects. Two applications of calcium arsenate dust had already been applied to some of the plots, July 20 and 27. Between August 3 and August 25 the 36 treated acres received five applications of calcium arsenate and two applications of five percent DDT-sulphur. Ordinarily it does not require this many applications of dust to control the boll weevil and bollworm. In most instances half this number or less gives satisfactory control. The cotton was on extra rich land and was making a luxuriant growth which was very attractive to both bollworms and boll weevils, therefore, an unusually heavy infestation of these insects had to be fought in this particular field. The combination control, DDT-sulphur for bollworms, and calcium arsenate for boll weevils and partly for bollworms, proved to be entirely satisfactory as will be noted from the yield records.

The 36 treated acres produced 47 bales of cotton or an average of 1963 pounds of seed cotton per acre this farm are given in the attached table. The accompanying picture shows a comparison of the amount of opens bolls present in the dusted and undusted areas of the same field.

It was also interesting to learn that in order to make the harvesting of this rank cotton more attractive to cotton pickers and to prevent boll rot due to rainy weather, this 38 acres field was defoliated with Aero Defoliant (cyanamid especially prepared for dusting purposes) by airplane, on September 14.

Mr. Radle is a firm believer in insect control and practiced it during 1945 on his entire 300 acre cotton farm with the exception of a few acres left untreated for experimental purposes. He stated that in the past he has watched insects take such heavy tolls from his cotton and bank account that now he was increased at least 200 bales on account of this control.

According to Ewing there were other farmers on nearby Brazos River farms who did not practice insect control and who lost at least one-third bale per acre to insect ravages. It should be stated, however, that not all cotton fields in the Waco area needed insect control even during 1945. Most of those where insect control would not have paid were rundown farm which were not capable of producing more than approximately one-third bale per acre. It is regrettable that such a large portion of Central Texas is composed of land such as this which continues to be planted to cotton year after year.

Cotton Insect Survey Project

Mr. Ewing made comments on the wartime cotton insect survey project that has been under his supervision in Texas and Oklahoma during the past three years. This has been a war-time measure conducted with special federal funds set aside to collect information on the status of cotton insects throughout the Cotton Belt in order to determine in advance when and where insecticides would be needed in order that there would not be a concentration in some areas and a scarcity in others. The Waco, Texas, office of the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine has been the clearing house for information on insects and insecticide conditions furnished by several cooperating agencies, such as the Extension Service, Experiment Station, 4-H Club boys, F. F. A. boys, Vocational Agriculture teachers, Bureau of Agriculture Economics, and special scouts and inspectors scattered over the two states paid directly by the Bureau. Resident pink bollworm inspectors, strategically located in various sections of Texas, have given considerable aid on this project. Through the cooperating agencies several thousand records each week of the cotton growing season have been summarized in the Waco office and transmitted to Washington for the benefit of the War Production Board which channeled the information to the 40 or more insecticide manufacturing companies so that they might feed the insect poisons into area where they were most needed.

This project has been of tremendous educational and practical benefit to the young club boys making the records and to farmers who have benefited by such insect population records being made on their individual farms. These records show that an alarming low percentage of farmers in the eastern section of Texas used boll weevil control measures during 1945 when there was an exceedingly high boll weevil infestation on most farms inspected in that area. However, because of the insect records made on individual farms through this cooperative effort many have been led to practice insect control work who would not otherwise have done so.

For Governor

Dr. Homer Price Rainey, candidate for Governor, will broadcast an important campaign speech over the Texas Quality Network on Friday night, July 5th, from 8:00 p. m. to 8:30 p. m. You may hear this broadcast on any of the following stations: WFAA, Dallas, 820 kilocycles; WOAI, San Antonio, 1200; KPRC, Houston, 950.

Dr. Rainey's chief objective when elected Governor is to give Texas the finest school system in America. Today, we rank about 38th among the states of the nation. Texas, with more than one-third of the world's petroleum reserves, is the wealthiest state. Why should we rank with the poorest in education?

This important matter has been neglected in the past, and Texas needs Dr. Rainey, one of the most outstanding University Presidents in America, to build up our schools.

As Christian and citizens, we owe a responsibility toward our negro population. Dr. Rainey favors building of a first-class negro university, managed and controlled by an all-negro Board of Trustees — a university which can help guide our negro population toward a decent standard of living for their people. He favors building them adequate schools and colleges of their own, all of which are to be maintained separate from white children.

This is a Southern solution to a Southern problem.

Cost and Value of Insect Control

On Jess Radle 38-acre Experimental Field in the Brazos River Bottom, Waco, Texas, 1945

Value of Extra Gain:
Production of seed cotton on 36 dusted acres
average per acre	1,963 lbs.
Production of seed cotton on 2 adjoining undusted acres, per acre	844 lbs.
Gain due to insect control, per acre	1,119 lbs.
Value of 391.6 lbs. lint (35%) at 21c (approximately an average price)	$82.24
Value of 675 lbs. seed at $55.00 per ton	18.59
Total value of 1,119 lbs. of increased cotton production	$100.83
Cost of Producing Gain:
(1) Insect Control (dusting operations):
5 to 7 applications of calcium arsenate, average total 80 pounds per acre @ 7 1-2c per lb.	6.00
2 applications of 5% DDT-sulphur, each at 20 pounds per acre, approximate cost (actual cost of DDT not yet established)	2.00
Total cost of insecticides, approximately	8.00
Plus cost of applying dust, 25c per acre-application	2.25
Total cost of dusting operations, per acre	$10.25
(2) Picking and Ginning:
Picking 1,119 lbs. at $2.25 per 100 lbs.	$25.18

as compared to an average of 844 pounds produced on two untreated acres. This was a gain of 1119 pounds of seed cotton per acre, total value of $100.83. Deducting cost of picking, which was $25.18; the cost of ginning and bagging, $5.62; and cost of dusting operations, $10.25; then the net profit per acre due to insect control was $59.78 or on the 36 acres the net profit as a result of practicing consistent, intelligent insect control was $2,152.08. Guarantee On Vets Insurance Still Effective

Most of the $220,000,000 in private life insurance guaranteed by the government for GIs during World War II is still under guarantee, the Veterans Administration revealed today through Paul G. Miller, insurance officer of the Dallas Regional VA office.

Under the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act, the government offered to guarantee eventual payment of premiums on policies up to $10,000 for persons entering military service.

The government guarantee offer was for the period of military service and two years after discharge.

The 85,000 veterans who took advantage of the act during the war held policies in 514 commercial life insurance companies and associations, Mr. Miller said.

Up to May 1, beneficiaries of 1,630 policyholders received death benefits of $3,845,000, although the insured veterans might not have been making regular premium payments during their service.

VA explained that arrangements must be made within two years from the date of a veteran's separation from service to pay any indebtedness created while the government guarantee was in force.

If he veteran does not pay the premiums and interest guaranteed by the Government before the expiration of the two-year period following his discharge, the insurance company will treat the amount due as a policy loan, Mr. Miller explained.

VA added that if the cash value of the policy is less than the a-

In 1914, we started The Peoples Theatre. Then the seats were benches. Later we changed to folding chairs, and about 1917 we bought used opera chairs.

In 1928, we built The Roxy. Now we have repainted and redecorated from front to back. We have installed indirect lighting. USE MORE POTATOES

Abundant supplies of new potatoes head the list of fresh vegetables in local markets, according to B. F. Vance, state director, Production and Marketing Administration, who urges meal planners to take advantage of the ample crop and include them often in family menus.

Pentiful supplies of early crop potatoes can replace bread in well-balanced meals, he said. And generous use of this wholesome food, while it is abundant, will lessen demand for the more scarce foods needed for foreign shipment. New potatoes do not store for a long period of

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Next Sunday morning at the beginning of the preaching service hour the Intermediate girls will put on a playlet, 'The Spirit of Missions,' directed by Mrs. Carroll Blacklock. There are quite a number of girls in the playlet, they put it on well, and you will enjoy it. Don't miss it.

Then, too, Sunday morning we will take an offering for Foreign relief and rehabilitation. The churches of the Southern Baptist Convention have set themselves to the task of raising between the time the Convention met in May and the first of September three and one-half million dollars for this cause. If the offering goes like it has in some of the churches, who have already presented the cause, it will go far beyond the goal set at the convention.

Fifty percent of this money goes to feed the hungry, and the other half goes to rehabilitate our Foreign Mission Fields which were ravaged by the war—all is to be administered by the Foreign Mission Board.

Here Comes the Bride!

JULY has swung around again, and this month the June brides by the thousands will start housekeeping—if they can find a house to keep.

In days soon to come, light housekeeping will be even lighter with electrical servants ready to wash and iron, clean and cook at the flip of a switch. And some day there will be many new electric aids—air conditioners, food freezers, electric blankets, television sets, and all the wonders of the era of electric living which lies ahead.

The electric service which powers these time-saving and labor-saving appliances will continue to be inexpensive, friendly, dependable—ready around the clock and calendar—just as it has been in the past.

Highway Maps Of Texas Ready For Tourists

AUSTIN.—Another bid for out-of-state tourists is in the making as the Texas Highway Department announces limited quantities of its first postwar color travel map are now rolling off the presses.

The expected bumper crop of summer tourists in the Lone Star State will be guided over Texas Highways with the aid of a map that will give visitors a brief introduction to a few of the State's points of interest. In addition it will afford a complete, accurate, easy-to-read travel map for use of all.

The de luxe map is expected to be the most popular feature at the Department's Information Bureau which have been reopened at strategic points to supply post-war tourists with reliable, up-to-date facts on highway and tourist attractions which support one of the state's largest and fastest growing "cash crops."

The postwar edition carries a small scale map of the United States, the usual large scale inset of the State's metropolitan areas, strip maps of the main Texas travel routes and the Pan American Highway into Mexico. It gives mileages between towns and carries a supplementary mileage chart. The highway marking system is explained with illustrations and there is a column of miscellaneous facts about the nation's largest State.

Shown also are the State national parks, some of the old Missions, and other points of historical interest. Twenty-six color pictures, which will be changed in each subsequent edition, depict typical Texas scenes.

The outside of the map, when folded for mailing, bears a picture of the State Capitol and another of Governor Coke Stevenson. Below the Governor's picture is his official greeting "To Motorists Everywhere." In his message Governor Stevenson extends to the people of other States and Nations a cordial invitation to visit Texas and enjoy the hospitality of its people. "The highways of Texas are yours," he says. "Use them freely for your business and pleasure."

The present projects allotted to the Adjutant General's School require the training of ten different programs to a highly selected student body of approximately 300 officers and 1250 enlisted personnel. Resident courses range in length from two to eight weeks.

The Adjutant General's School, which during the war provided trained administrative personnel for our huge armies, now is meeting current problems by providing the army with a limited number of highly trained technicians and executives. The Commandant of the School is Colonel Lathrop B. Clapham, AGD.

Safety Practices Urged To Prevent Heat Exhaustion

Prevention of heat exhaustion and sunstroke for farm workers is more important than ever before, with the critical need for food supplies. The National Safety Council states that the application of simple safety practices may bring a reduction of workers lost as it has done in industry during recent years.

According to the Council, heat exhaustion and sunstroke are two entirely different things, although both may seem to result one from the other. With heat exhaustion the patient's skin is cold and clammy; while with sunstroke, the skin is hot and dry.

A simple rule may serve as a guide and avoid confusion regarding the treatment. Briefly it is this: If the patient is cold, make him warm, if he is hot, make him cool.

The following measures will help prevent heat exhaustion among farm workers: Drink cool water and lemon or other citrus fruit juices, avoiding alcohol and ice water. Eat vegetables and light, easily digested foods. Wear light, loose clothing; avoid over fatigue, bathe daily, get plenty of sleep. Replace body salt lost through perspiration by salting foods, drinking salt in water, or by taking salt tablets—about eight 10-grain tablets daily.

Sunstroke results from prolonged exposure to the rays of sun. Consequently, it is advisable to keep the head covered with a broad brimmed hat and the body, including arms and legs covered with light loose-fitting, comfortable clothing.

In sunstroke cases move the patient to a cool, shady spot, remove the clothing and then place him on his back with head and shoulders raised. Apply ice cold cloths to the head and cool the body gradually with a cool bath. Call a doctor as soon as possible and administer cool drinks (not cold) if the patient is conscious.

Of equal importance as a control measure is the elimination of all food supplies. This consists of storing all foods in ratproof buildings or in ratproof containers, the proper storage and disposal of garbage, and careful feeding of stock to prevent waste feed from being picked up by the rats.

By observing these control measures, the community will benefit not only in the eradication of a nuisance and economic menace, but in improved health conditions and the prevention of rat-borne diseases.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Dr. Geo. W. Cox
M. D., State Health Officer of Texas

Austin.—Because of the economic losses they cause to industry and commerce and the annoyance they create in homes, rats have been considered a serious menace to mankind since long before their role as vectors of disease was understood. Today at least six diseases which are transmitted to man from the rat are known to medical science, according to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. These diseases include the dread plague, typhus, trichinosis, a form of jaundice, tapeworm, and food poisoning. The whole history of the role rats play in the transmission of disease remains as yet unknown.

"It is necessary to public health" Dr. Cox said, "that a continuous rat control program be maintained in every urban and rural area throughout Texas. This is of especial importance on farms where rats may flourish by feeding on grain and other farm products."

The doctor pointed out that rats, like other living things, require food and shelter if they are to propagate and increase in number. Destroying their shelter and breeding places includes the employing of ratproof design in buildings, the use of ratproof materials in construction, employing ratproof methods of construction and installation, and providing for periodic inspection of buildings to insure permanent safety. This program will force the rat out into the open where its destruction may
