Munday Girl Is Now Training In Radio Mechanics

MADISON, Wis.—“The first schematic I ever saw,” says WAC Pvt. Paralee Cloudis, of Munday, Texas, now a radio mechanic student at Trux Field, AAF Training Command radio mechanics school, Madison, Wis., was inside my own radio at home. A schematic is a technical diagram—in this case a diagram of a circuit.

Pvt. Cloudis came on the schematic one time her radio went dead. She suspected the tubes so she took them out of the radio and exchanged them at a shop.

Back home with new radio tubes, she wondered just where each tube should be put. Then she discovered the schematic and it was an open road from there in.

As a matter of fact the radio was not Pvt. Cloudis' first experience with mechanics. She was employed as a seamstress by a garment manufacturer in Wichita Falls. In line of duty she often made repairs to her machine.

When she joined the WAC, she was sent to Williams Field, Ariz., and worked in technical supplies there. Eventually she decided to take some AAF training that might help her in a post-war career.

Remembering her success with her own radio and feeling, rightly, that her civilian experience with sewing machine repair had educated her fingers to a certain extent, she applied for radio mechanics school and arrived at Trux in May.

Her experience with supplies at Williams Field has been a definite help, she says. Even at the start of her training here she was familiar with the names for most of the equipment and apparatus she used.

Brothers In Reunion In English Camp

Cpl. Loys F. Usery of the U. S. Army and Elva D. Usery of the U. S. Coast Guard met somewhere in England last month for their first meeting in over three years. Sons of Mrs. J. L. Smith of Munday, these local boys have two other brothers in the service who are overseas. Cpl. Clarence R. Usery is somewhere in Italy, and Pfc. Arthur L. Usery is in the Hawaiian Islands.

Methodists To Begin Meeting On Next Sunday

Revival To Continue Through July 23

The annual summer revival meeting will open next Sunday at the First Methodist church, continuing through Sunday, July 23.

Rev. H. H. Hollowell of Spur will do the preaching for this revival. This well known pastor-evangelist was in a meeting here two years ago, and he needs no introduction to local people. So enthusiastic were church members over his clear-cut, straight-forward preaching that he was invited to return for the revival this year.

Hollowell was pastor at O'Donnell when he conducted the meeting here before, but he was assigned the Spur charge at the last meeting of the Northwest Texas Conference. Many who heard him before will want to attend the revival and hear his soul-stirring messages.

Rev. J. Albie Cockrell, pastor of the Methodist church at Weinert, will lead the singing. Rev. Cockrell is no stranger to Munday people, having visited here and preached at the local church on several occasions. A good song service is expected at each service under his able leadership.

Both morning and evening services will be held. Rev. Luther Kirk, pastor, said Wednesday, and announcements will be made Sunday regarding the hours of service. A cordial invitation is extended to everyone to attend the revival and help make it a great occasion in Munday.

Absentee Vote Begun Saturday

Preliminary to the first Democratic primary on July 22, Knox county voters who are outside the county started voting by absentee last Saturday.

Election ballots were completed by printers at the Munday Times last Friday, and were ready for the absentee vote. The ticket contains two less names than two years ago. The most contested race being that of governor, in which there are nine candidates.

County Clerk M. T. Chamberlain reported around 50 requests from boys in the service for absentee ballots. These were the first mailed out, going into all corners of the war theater.

Rural Aid Money Is Received Here

Knox county schools received a payment in rural aid funds from the state this week in the amount of $3,792.00, Merick McGaughey, county superintendent, announced. This constitutes a second payment to the common schools.

McGaughey said the money has been apportioned to the funds of all common schools of the county.

Knox Council To Confer Degrees

A called meeting of Knox Council No. 195, R. and S. M., will be held on Friday night for the purpose of conferring both the council degrees.

Members of the Knox City council will also be present, and degrees will be conferred upon two candidates from Knox City, as well as three local candidates. All council members are urged to attend this meeting, which will begin at 8:30 o'clock.

Bond Rallies Being Held Over County

County Short Of Bond Quota

Much work and much buying remains to be done if Knox county is to meet her quota in war bonds during the Fifth War Loan Drive.

An official check was not made, but it was estimated Wednesday at noon that only about 55 percent of the county's overall quota had been reached at this time.

The drive ends Saturday—will you help to reach this quota? Various committees over the county are urging everyone to make their bond purchases now. Don't wait until the last minute, they urge, but make your purchase as soon as you can and for as much as you can.

Knox county must not let our boys down at this critical stage. Knox county boys who are fighting in Italy, in the South Pacific, in India, in France and on every battlefield of the world—those who are flying over enemy territory—want to end this war and come home. Your bond dollars will help them, and will tell them you are doing your part on the home front.

Buy a bond now! Buy more than before!

War Prisoner's Wife Enlists In Marine Corps

ABILENE—Because the Germans are holding her husband as a prisoner of war, pretty Mrs. Kethley wants to do all she can to get this war over. So, as Pvt. Billie Allen Kethley of the Marine Corps Women's Reserve, she is now undergoing "boot" training at Camp Lejeune, N. C.

Her husband is First Lieutenant Jerold D. Kethley of Abilene, a former Munday boy, who as a Flying Fortress pilot was shot down over German territory during the raid on Gelsenkirchen last August 12. Mrs. Kethley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Allen of Crane, received his Air Medal and two clusters at Fort Worth Army Air Field in February.

At the time of her enlistment, Pvt. Kethley was an inspector at the Consolidated Aircraft Company in Fort Worth. Before the war, she and her husband owned a jewelry store at Big Spring.

Knox Pioneer Buried Sunday At Knox City

Mrs. B. W. Pope, 80, resident of Knox county for more than 65 years, died in the Knox county hospital on Wednesday afternoon, June 28, at one o'clock, following a heart attack.

Funeral services were held at the First Christian church on Sunday afternoon at five o'clock. Burial was in the Benjamin cemetery, the Warren Funeral Home being in charge.

Mrs. Pope, wife of an early-day Knox county minister, is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Dan Ezell, Phoenix, Ariz.; a brother, Henry Williams of New Castle, and four nieces, who are Mrs. S. G. West, Lubbock; Mrs. H. Hawkins, Fort Worth; Mrs. Bob Jarvis, Munday, who was with her when death came, and Mrs. V. A. Watson, New Castle.

Knox county has lost one of its most colorful and active citizens. She will be missed by all who knew her, as was evidenced by the large crowd which attended her funeral.

J. B. Ford Takes Part In Invasion

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Ford of Munday received a letter this week from their son, J. B., which led them to believe that he had taken part in the invasion of Western Europe. Pvt. Ford is now back in England. A portion of his letter follows:

"I am O. K., except I have my right foot hurt a little but not bad. I don't have any bones broken. I got hit by a piece of shrapnel, so they sent me back to England. I will be all right in a few days, so don't worry. Anyway, I am having a good rest."

NOW A SHARPSHOOTER

Ephrata Army Air Base, Wash.—Pfc. Gerald C. Stengel, Munday, Texas, recently qualified as sharpshooter with the Carbine rifle, it was announced by Col. Henry G. Thorne, Jr., commanding officer of the Ephrata Army Air Base, Fourth Air Force fighter pilot training base. Pfc. Stengel now wears the Sharpshooters badge.

Success of 5th War Loan Will Meet Acclaim of Men in Field and Prove Nation Is Backing Our Armed Forces

by Gen. Ike Eisenhower

"In moments of crisis involving the safety of our native land, the American people have invariably rallied against the danger with courage, faith and resolution.

"For the past two years we have been in one of these crises, perhaps the greatest in our history. On the battlefield and on the home front men and women are daily making great sacrifices so the freedom in our way of life may be preserved.

"There is now in progress the 5th War Loan Drive to raise money so as to insure that this conflict will be brought to the speediest possible conclusion and with the least loss in lives.

Certified Farm Is Beauty Spot Of The County

The Knox County Certified Seed farm owned and operated by Frank Cerveny of Rhineland is one of the beauty spots of Knox county, says R. O. Dunkle, county agent.

The field seeds that are being increased under the State Certified law are Early Hegari, Plainsman and Sweet Sudan. The other field seeds that are being increased under isolation and roguing method are Chinch Bug Resistant Milo, Cap Rock Milo, Bonita, and Perennial Sudan. The total acres involved in the production of these new and improved varieties is approximately eight acres, according to Mr. Cerveny.

The method in maintaining purity of the Pedigreed seed will necessitate the tying of paper sacks over the stock just as the head reaches the booting stages, by this practice Mr. Cerveny will be able to maintain the purity of the Pedigreed seed that was originally established by the Chillicothe and Lubbock Experiment stations.

Many farmers of Knox county will be interested in driving out to the Cerveny farm and getting first hand information on the many practices that are required under the seed certification law. Visiting farmers will also have opportunity to see the different varieties in actual field tests.

YOU MUST HELP

Previous to World War II, the average shipper's only spur to perfection in packaging goods was to have fewer loss claims, said Colonel E. C. R. Lasher, deputy chief, Traffic Control Division, Army Transportation Corps, to the Transportation Club of the Rochester, New York, Chamber of Commerce. This hasn't changed a bit, but proper packing is now a thousand times more important in the interest of saving lives through preventing loss of valuable material.

"Perfect packing, legible marking and careful stowage will never produce any piece of equipment, but careless packaging, illegible marking and improper stowage will result in the loss or damage of equipment which has occupied invaluable shipping space and consumed hundreds of irreplaceable man-hours of work," said Colonel Lasher.

Shipments from our country wind up in the frigid ports of Russia, the steaming jungles of New Guinea, or the oven-like temperature at the head of the Persian Gulf where the thermometer hits 180 degrees in the sun—and no shade.

Supplies have to be landed under gunfire. They get rough handling. If they go to pieces, irreplaceable goods are lost and the men on the front may pay with their lives.

"Canned food packed in corrugated cardboard boxes soon ceases to be cases of corn or of beans," says the Colonel. "The boxes disintegrate.... Labels come off cans.... The balanced ration ceases to exist, the cook becomes hysterical...."

"The answer to most of these problems is proper preparation for shipment—in other words, 'perfect shipping.' The Army is conducting research and development. We have powdered our eggs against smashing. We have barricaded our trucks against pilferage. We have teams of 'shipment surveyors.' Experience data from factory shipping floor to combat area are made the basis of continuous improvement and revision of specifications.

"With the exception of a few isolated incidents, packing is now the best it has ever been.... It is part of your part in helping to win this war."

CONFUSION AGAIN

According to the New York Times, government officials again predict a coal shortage and rationing this winter which may call for a general cutback affecting all industry, or a curtailment of supply to non-essential industries. Government officials are considering a program for a "government stockpile" of coal, but at the same time they urge the public to lay in their own individual supplies early, and not depend on the government stockpile.

The shortage scare has been kept before the public since the labor question became a political issue in the coal industry. The people know that there is a great demand for coal, and they also know that our coal mines have met that demand in the face of strikes for which politics was largely responsible.

Inasmuch as government for many months has virtually controlled coal mining operations, it would seem that it is about time for the wartime administrators of our solid fuels industry to evolve measures which will assure the nation unlimited supplies from one of our most abundant natural resources, or else step out of the picture and let somebody take a hand who can get production, instead of shortages.

PRESERVE LOCAL INDEPENDENCE

The retail stores of the country have been seeking changes in hastily drawn wartime legislation, such as provisions in the Price Control Act, which permit needless oppression. An example is the provision that a merchant can be arbitrarily fined (and is fined) $50 for an obviously unintentional infringement of OPA rulings. And then there is the growing demand for access to regular district courts in appealing from OPA orders, instead of being restricted to an Emergency Court set up under the Price Control Act.

The fact that bureaus resist so stubbornly the slightest limitation of their powers, is one of the most compelling reasons why the people should ask Congress to be more critical in its passage of measures that deny court appeals from bureau decrees.

Either we are going whole-hog for centralized government, or we will have to show more interest in preserving local political and court jurisdiction, and in keeping the legislative, judicial and executive functions of our government separate and independent, as was intended by the founders of our nation.

THE LOAVES AND THE FISHES

The American people have become so used to "official" predictions of oil "shortages," that it does them good to hear a constructive statement about oil production from an expert in the oil industry.

"Since 1918, the cumulative production of oil has totaled 23.5 billion barrels," says Robert E. Wilson, president, Pan-American Petroleum & Transport Company. "And yet we had at the end of this 25-year period, really proven reserves in excess of 20 billion barrels of crude oil. The miracle of feeding the multitude with five loaves and two fishes, with 12 baskets left over; seems to have a modern counterpart. Small wonder that geologists have ceased trying to estimate any limit on the amount of oil which may yet be discovered. During the same period our proven reserves of natural gas increased approximately seven fold. In 1943, this country produced more than four times as much crude oil, more than seven times as much gasoline, 13 times as much natural gasoline, and five times as much natural gas as in 1918...."

"With such a record of achievement, why should we today revert to pessimism similar to that of 25 years ago? Let us rather analyze what has happened since 1918 to bring about these results, and offset the fact that the total physical quantity underlying our country has necessarily been decreasing.

"The dynamic factor which made these achievements possible was improved technology resulting from research and its application to every branch of our industry. This technology has.... in effect, multiplied many fold our available petroleum resources."

WE LIKE OUR DOCTOR

Sixty-six per cent of the American people consider their physicians tops, both professionally and personally, according to a nation-wide sampling of public opinion conducted for the magazine Medical Economics. The remaining 34 per cent either had no opinion in the matter or cited characteristics of their doctors which they found objectionable. Six per cent objected to the physician's personality, 4 per cent said he rushed patients too much, 3 per cent challenged his personal competence, 3 per cent called him indifferent. Other faults mentioned were too varied for classification. The main thing is that 66 per cent found nothing to dislike about their physician. Another point of outstanding importance is that only 3 per cent challenged their doctor's competence.

The good things said about the doctors summed up to what one might expect in an independent system of medicine where the success of a doctor depends upon his ability and character. They included pleasant manner, professional competence, thoroughness, promptness, friendliness, politeness, easy to talk to, sympathetic, helpful, cheerful, not pompous, etc.

Contrast such a personalized medical service with socialized medical systems where the patient becomes a cog in an impersonal machine. The human relationship between the American doctor and his patient is one of the greatest assets of medicine. It should never be debauched by political tinkering.

SUBSIDIES BUT POOR EXCUSES

"Because of their uncertainties as to amount and duration," says Ernest C. Strobeck, secretary of the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, "subsidies are no substitute for price for bringing about increased production. A farmer has to plan. The grass seed he sows this spring is not turned into milk until a year from next winter. He has to finance his production program for months and years before cashing in. His experience with subsidies thus far teaches him that they are unreliable and slow in payment."

In The WEEK'S NEWS

SUPER BOMBER IN EXCLUSIVE CONSTRUCTION PICTURES

Five years of planning, testing and building—work that began even before the United States entered this war—went into the production of America's great Super Bomber, the B-29.

The B-29 carries a greater bomb load, farther, faster, and higher than any plane in existence. Its armament is the most powerful ever put on a fighting plane: its size, speed, power, and ceiling greatest of any plane.

Here the editors of In the Week's News give you a glimpse of the enormity of the task of building these huge planes. An example of the size of the project is indicated by the fact that the Fisher Body Division of General Motors alone is utilizing eight of its huge plants for the construction of major parts and assemblies.

Top right, the mighty Superfortress is shown in flight; upper left, woman worker in Fisher's Fleetwood plant. Detroit welds a section of exhaust manifold; left center, a vertical fin dramatizes the size of the Superfortress. These fins are made in the Company's No. 1 plant in Cleveland. Right center, a huge 2500-ton hydro-press stamps out parts for the Boeing designed B-29 in the No. 2 plant in Cleveland.

Gems Of Thought

Friends should not be chosen to flatter. The quality we should prize is that rectitude which will shrink from no truth.—Channing.

A friend should be one in whose understanding and virtue we can equally confide, and whose opinion we can value at once for its justice and its sincerity.—Robert Hall.

There are three friendships which are advantageous: friendship with the upright, with the sincere, and with the man of much observation.—Confucius.

Let friendship creep gently to a height; if it rushes to it, it may soon run itself out of breath.—Fuller.

Never contract the horizon of worthy outlook by the selfish action of all another's time thoughts.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Every man will have something to do for his friend, and something to bear with him. Only the sober man can do the first; and for the latter, patience is requisite.—Felt-ham.

To the People of this Community

There will be a feeling of shame in this community if we find ourselves short of the mark when the Fifth War Loan comes to an end July 8.

We will not permit that to happen here, especially if we look around in our homes and our places of employment and see the shadows of relatives and friends who today are in the midst of bloody battle for us.

We cannot emphasize too strongly that regardless of the size of the oversubscription of our community quota, the Fifth War Loan will be a flat failure for you if you do not exceed anything you have done in the past in War Bond buying.

In this invasion hour our fighting men have a right to demand that you make your record contribution to the success of a war loan.

The slogan Back the Attack—Buy More Than Before, is not merely a catch phrase. It expresses the cold facts about invasion. Unless we make the supreme effort to do everything humanly possible either at our work benches or in our homes with our sweat, our blood and our dollars we hand over our share of the burden to our fighting men.

According to geologists it is probable that the Ice Age may return, and much of the surface of North America will again, at some future date, be covered with great glacial ice sheets.

VACCINE CONTROLS FOWL POX SAYS AGENT

Fowl pox which causes considerable loss yearly to chickens and turkeys in Knox county, can be prevented by using a vaccine. The disease is caused by a virus which is carried by mosquitoes and flies. The disease obtains footholds on the combs or wattles through scratches and cuts according to R. O. Dunkle, county agent.

An outbreak in the laying flock should be guarded against. The hens usually cease production and it may be two or three months before they resume production. Some will die and others be blinded. The mouth or canker type often causes death by starvation or strangulation.

The vaccine may be secured at most drug stores and comes in two types—fowl pox and pigeon pox. The fowl pox vaccine should be used on all young chickens between six and twelve weeks old not in production. If vaccination is delayed until the birds begin to lay the pigeon pox vaccine should be used, and the treatment repeated when the birds molt. The fowl pox vaccine, however, usually gives life time protection.

Mr. Dunkle explains that because the chickens or turkeys didn't have the disease last year is no indication they will escape it this year.

Mr. and Mrs. John Michalik, C. J. Smajstrel and Mrs. Frank Cerveny visited with relatives in Amarillo over the week end.

County Agent R. O. Dunkle of Benjamin was a business visitor here last Monday.

At the Sign of the Maple Leaf

RIGHT in the heart of Manhattan, on famed Fifth Avenue, is the Canadian (Maple Leaf) Division of the British War Relief Society, which serves the dual end of making clothing and other necessities for stricken war areas within the United Nations and providing food and relaxation for servicemen of all United Nations.

Above, American and Canadian boys are shown enjoying the hospitality of the club during the brief periods of relaxation from "doing" the big city while on furlough.

Below, a little visitor to the club inspects a rag doll made by members of the society for less fortunate children.

Better Grades Of Meat Cuts To Become Scarce

The best estimate about the supply of meat available to civilians for the next several months may be summed up in the general statement that some of the choice cuts of the better grades of meats will probably be more difficult to obtain, with the supply of most currently point-free meats remaining reasonably plentiful. This conclusion comes from an up-to-date survey of civilian meat supply for the next several months—a survey that also reveals these highlights:

1. Civilian supplies of the less popular cuts of meats such as fat pork cuts and stewing beef, which are now at zero-point value, will probably remain point-free for the next several months. However, a major factor that might cause the War Food Administration to request a restoration of point values on currently point-free meats such as ham, pork loins, veal, lamb chops, and roasts is the possibility that the available supply may not be distributed evenly.

2. While the less popular cuts of pork, veal, lamb and mutton will more than likely remain point-free, barring maldistribution, it will probably be more difficult to get choicer cuts of these items later in the year.

3. The civilian supply of the better grades of beef will be smaller later in the year than in the first six months. Military purchases of beef will probably increase. The civilian supply of the secondary cuts and lower grades of beef should remain plentiful, although the supply of steaks and roasts is not expected to be sufficient to meet an unrationed consumer demand.

One of the benefits of the rationing system has been the part it has played in assuring a more equal distribution of the food supply in all parts of the country, so that too much of any one item was not consumed too near the point of production or processing.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Dr. Geo. W. Cox
M. D., State Health Officer of Texas

AUSTIN—Millions of flies help to cause the illness and death of thousands of children and adults each year in the United States. Hundreds of these casualties may be in the State of Texas this year if residents fail in their responsibility for developing the best possible sanitation measures in the area where they reside. Typhoid fever, summer complaint, and other intestinal diseases can be traced to the common housefly as the carrier of infection.

Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer, speaking in this connection recently said, "Be sure that your windows and doors are tightly screened so that stray flies from a careless neighbor will not endanger your family. Be sure that flies are kept away from food, drink, and utensils used in the preparation of food. Make sure, if you live in rural districts, that outside privy vaults are tightly covered so as not to permit the entrance of flies. Infections from this source can be picked up and spread to human beings through contact with food, drink, and utensils. Keep all garbage covered until collected or buried. Eliminate all breeding places for flies and you will be helping your community in its work of controlling communicable diseases and preventing unnecessary illness."

Dr. Cox said that the State Health Department would furnish upon request a pamphlet outlining safe and practical methods recommended for use in fly control.

HIGH STUDENT

Miss Martha Hannig, who is attending Draughon's Business College in Abilene, is among the high ranking students whose names appear on the honor roll this term.

Watch Your Roofs

IT HAS been estimated that from 25 to 30 per cent of the nation's food supply is lost each year because of inadequate storage facilities. An important factor in preventing this loss of precious food is proper roofing. In winter or summer, the roof must bear the brunt of protecting crops from the elements. To do its job well, it must be in good repair.

Farmers who have suffered crop damage because of leaky roofs should make repairs immediately. Defective roofs are likely to become progressively worse. Many minor flaws are liable to develop into serious trouble. Small areas of damage, of course, can be repaired more easily than large ones.

Sometimes an inspection of the roof will indicate that complete re-shingling is advisable. In such cases, care should be taken to see that the new roof is of fireproof or fire-resistant material. One of the most practical of the fireproof materials, and one now available, is asbestos cement.

Asbestos shingles are made of two durable minerals. They do not deteriorate with age, but instead become harder and tougher. No preservative treatment is ever needed, and there is no possibility of rusting or burning.

EMBLEM OF THE GRANDMOTHERS LEAGUE

WASHINGTON, D. C.: "Grandmother's Bond with the Future—War Bonds" is the slogan of the Treasury's new campaign urging grandparents to buy Bonds and stamps for their grandchildren. The official emblem is the old-fashioned sampler reproduced above.

The Grandmothers League was founded by Mrs. George C. Marshall, wife of the Army Chief-of-Staff, who bought Bonds from Secretary Morgenthau for her three grandchildren. Mrs. Marshall suggests that grandparents insure their grandchildren's future by buying Bonds or starting stamp albums for them.

Hints For Home Canning Given

Quantity of home-canned food sometimes may depend on the type of utensil in which it was prepared. For instance, iron is not harmful, but it causes discoloration, explains Lucile King, county home demonstration agent.

In answer to questions received from home canners, Miss King says there is some danger in cooking acid fruit like plums in a galvanized or zinc water bucket. She quotes the Bureau of Home Economics warning that cooking acid foods in zinc utensils may cause the food to "take up" enough zinc to be poisonous.

The danger of eating vegetables pre-cooked in a galvanized utensil are not so great because they do not contain as much acid, Miss King says. However, she warns that people should heat these vegetables thoroughly and eat only a small amount at a time.

Questioned about zinc tops for food containers, the specialist explains that these lids have glass disc linings inside, so the food does not touch the zinc. Sometimes, however, pickles or other food high in acid content cause corrosion of zinc lids used on jars. In this instance she believes there might be some danger of zinc poisoning.

For the benefit of persons living in danger climates of the state, Miss King reports some people wrap their canned goods in newspapers to absorb excess moisture and keep the cans from rusting. It is also possible to rub the cans with oil or vaseline, but this is a big task. Some home-canners, Beaumont tried rolling cans in melted paraffin before they were stored.

Sealing food before it is hot enough or leaving too much head-space may cause a can to rust on the inside. This happens more frequently to plain than to enamel cans.

Keep Your Home in Repair
OFTEN when making repairs around the farm home, the question isn't how to do it. The big stumbling block in the past frequently has been, "How can we pay for it?"
Fortunately, today that problem has been made far easier through the help of such agencies as the Federal Housing Administration. The FHA is celebrating its tenth anniversary this summer — ten years in which more than four and a half million owners of homes and farms have built or repaired their properties through FHA-insured loans amounting to more than one and a half billion dollars.

Of course, it isn't possible to do much new building now, but necessary home repairs can be made and financed under FHA plans. In fact, the government is encouraging farmers and other home owners to keep their homes in good shape. If your home needs fixing up, and you haven't the money immediately available to do it, see your local bank or other lending agency and you'll probably find that an FHA-insured loan can be arranged with little trouble.

Treatment Of Dairy Cows For Better Calves

We have known for a long time that a vitamin A deficiency in the pregnant cow will result in calves that lack vigor and that are more susceptible to calftlood diseases, particularly scours.

Recent work at the Wisconsin Experiment Station has shown that vitamins play a more important role in the control of calftlood diseases than was formerly realized. It was found from this experimental work that not only vitamin A but vitamin C (Ascorbic Acid) and Nicotin or Nicotinic Acid (one of the Vitamin B complex) are essential in the diet of the young calf and are very important in the prevention and control of early calftlood diseases. It was demonstrated in these experiments that adequate vitamin A and Nicotinic Acid are the essential factors in the control of calf scours and that the administration of these vitamins controlled all types of scours thus far encountered except that which accompanies septicaemia in the newborn calf. Ascorbic acid was found to almost completely control naval infection in the newborn calf.

Vitamin A and Nicotin in controlling scours can be administered in size 00 gelatin capsules. Fill the capsules 1-4 full of Nicotin and then finish filling the remaining 3-4 with vitamin A oil containing at least 9000 units of vitamin A per gram. Give one capsule every other day for 2 to 3 weeks to prevent scours. If the calf is scouring badly, give 2 capsules per day until scouring stops. To feed the capsules, place them on the back of the calf's tongue with the fingers. He should take them readily. Vitamin A oil and Nicotin can be secured through druggists or veterinary supply houses.

Although Ascorbic Acid is no longer available for this purpose until the war is over, the dosage for the control of naval infection is given here. Give one 00 capsule full of Ascorbic Acid every other day for the first week or 10 days of the calf's life. In the case of enlarged navels give one capsule a day until improvement is noted. If Ascorbic Acid is used after the calf is 10 days old, it must be injected to be of any benefit.

Cows should receive green grass or some source of vitamin A while they are dry, particularly for the last month before calving. If green pasture is not available, 4 or 5 pounds of green, leafy alfalfa hay or 5 pounds of a yellow variety of sweet potatoes per day for a month prior to calving will provide sufficient vitamin A.

However, the work referred to above at the Wisconsin Experiment Station showed that the blood concentration of vitamin A and carotene are sufficiently low in the newborn calf as to cause it to be deficient in vitamin A at birth and

First Aid For Victory Gardens

Now that summer's here with a vengeance, your garden may need some first aid.

What can you do to keep your peppers, egg plants, okra... and the like... in production? Here's an answer from Lucile King, county home demonstration agent. Keep the soil stirred by shallow cultivation. That way you'll get the most good from rain... or from irrigation. Water doesn't penetrate the soil well if it's crusted over.

Next it's important to keep weeds down and grass out. That's a good garden commandment for any time of year or kind of weather.

Now if your tomato plants don't "grow off" in a hurry, they may need a little stimulant! Your tomato plants will enjoy a fertilizer pick-up just as you enjoy a cold drink in the middle of a long hot afternoon. Give it in liquid form. Dissolve one-fourth of a pound of your commercial garden fertilizer in five gallons of water... Get that again now... a fourth of a pound in five gallons of water... Then give each plant a drink of half-a-gallon. Incidentally, you'd better throw up a little dam of soil around each plant so none of this half gallon will be lost.

One more word of wisdom from Miss King... Make certain your tomato plants aren't too close together. There should be from three to four feet between each plant. That will promote good roots, easy irrigation, and thorough cultivation.

ALL-YEAR GAS AIR CONDITIONING

Summer Cooling . . . Winter Heating with one simple unit

Sounds like a dream—but it's true! In the new world of tomorrow, you'll be able to have the kind of climate you want indoors—year around.

Changing seasons will have no effect on your comfort. Sultry summers and blustery winters won't mean a thing to you and your family. All-year gas air conditioning will keep your home at just the temperature you want—and at the right humidity, too—through every season.

This new and different air conditioning system was developed, before war came, by the makers of the Servel Gas Refrigerators. Systems are now operating in hundreds of homes throughout America—some of them on Lone Star lines . . . and are working fine.

You'll be able to get All-year Gas Air Conditioning for your home at war's end. So start planning now—and start saving. Buy war bonds.

IN WINTER, the gas air conditioner assures you dependable warmth and correct humidity throughout your home on coldest days.

IN SUMMER, the gas air conditioner brings scientific relief from hot, sticky weather . . . providing refreshing, invigorating cold air.

IN EVERY SEASON of the year, the gas air conditioner gives you live, clean air without drafts . . . filtering out dust, dirt and pollen.

A man with newspaper experience is a candidate for the State Supreme Court—Col. Gordon Simpson of Tyler, veteran of World Wars I and II. His grandparents came to Texas by ox wagon before the Civil War. Born 50 years ago in Gilmer, Simpson attended Baylor and the University of Texas, receiving his law degree after he had entered the Army in 1917, attending Leon Springs' first officers' training camp.

After the Armistice, the young lieutenant engaged briefly in the cotton business in Dallas and El Paso; then began the practice of law in Tyler, at that time a serene little city in the cotton country, so the attorney supplemented his income by serving as correspondent for the city papers, writing up fires, killings and other local events.

Simpson served two years in the legislature, then was district judge, a position his father once had held. When oil was struck in East Texas, Simpson's law practice grew rapidly and he had a large appellate practice, including the Supreme Court of the United States.

Recognized for ability and character by his fellow lawyers, Simpson was elected director of the State Bar Association, chairman of the board and, in 1942, president. He found time to serve as Smith County Fair president and as teacher of a Men's Bible class.

With the entry of the United States into World War II, Colonel Simpson bade farewell to his wife and daughters to re-enter the Army and has been overseas months. The Smith County man's name was filed as a candidate for the Supreme Court by friends.

Buys $50 Bond Each Month

When the War Finance Division of the Treasury sent Fay McDougal, Fairmont, W. Va., farmer, a letter urging him to buy Fifth War Loan Bonds, Mr. McDougal wrote back—"Leg to reply I do not have to be asked to buy more war bonds. I have a son in service in Italy, who is buying a $100 bond each month. I bought $615 worth of bonds last year on a salary of $1,400.65. I have averaged a $50 bond per month so far this year. I do not see where I can do better than the above average." The last day of the fifth War Loan Drive is July 8.

Procedure For Selling Used Cars

Newly established ceiling prices for used passenger cars and certificates of transfer required on all completed sales may be obtained from local War Price and Rationing Boards or car dealers, the Office of Price Administration announces. Prices vary by three geographical zones. After July 10 any seller and the buyer of a used car must jointly fill out a transfer certificate giving the applicable maximum price, the actual selling price and other details of the sale. The purchaser then files the completed certificate with his local War Price and Rationing Board.

How To Be Warm Next Winter

You can make scarce fuel go further next winter by preparing your home for winter now, be you owner or merely a leaseholder, the Federal Housing Administration says; an FHA title loan will enable you to borrow enough to pay for both materials and workmanship needed to insulate your home, to repair your heating plant, to install storm windows—up to as much as $2,500. You can borrow enough for any or all of these things without down payment, without security and with three years in which to pay, FHA says. Get best prices on jobs you want done, then get your local dealer or contractor to tell you where you can get an FHA title loan to cover the entire bill.

Some Foods Again Rationed

The OPA has restored rationing to best cuts of lamb in order to get better distribution among customers, and it has restored point values to certain types of cheese and canned asparagus, peas and tomatoes, which were unrationed for two weeks because of large stocks on hand.

OPA Names New Ceiling Prices

Ceiling prices have been established by OPA on watermelons, alfalfa hay, sweet peppers and hot-house cucumbers, none of which had been under nationwide retail price control. Retail watermelon prices should decline substantially from last summer's figures. Alfalfa producers per ton ceiling prices range from $19 to $26.50. Ceilings on sweet peppers and hot-house cucumbers represent reductions at retail. OPA also has set maximum prices for the 1944 crop of red and black raspberries, dewberries and blackberries.

Jeeps For Farm Use

The army jeep promises greater usefulness as an auxiliary work implement on a large farm than for general work on the average farm, according to indications reported by Domestic Commerce, official publication of the Department of Commerce. Tests have been made on jeeps at the Tillage Machinery Laboratory, Auburn, Ala., and in connection with Pennsylvania State College. Perhaps half a million jeeps have been manufactured and more will continue to be made until the war ends.

National Restaurant Regulation

For the first time, public eating and drinking places will be covered by a national restaurant regulation July 31, when they must post their April 1-10, 1943, base period ceiling prices for 40 basic menu items served, OPA announces. However, a cup of coffee with sugar and cream may sell for no more than a nickel at any establishment that did not charge more than a nickel for it October 4-10, 1942.

Housewives Help Save Eggs

The extra egg-buying of American housewives has made it possible to save the 25 million dozens of eggs that were in danger of spoilage a few weeks ago for lack of storage space, War Food Administrator Marvin Jones said. Retail stores, newspapers and radio were of great help in calling attention to the problem, he said.

Round-Up

OPA announces that retail ceiling prices recently established on certain farm tractor tires include—$52.85 for 9-24 10 ply rear; $35 for 7.50-10 8-ply front; and $9.55 for 4.00-12 4-ply front. The stock of 30,000 new cars yet remaining in the U. S. July 1 was the equivalent of a three day's normal supply, and 7,000 have been allocated for July rationing. "T" gasoline coupons marked "2nd Qtr.", issued as special rations and which do not expire until after June 30, may be exchanged for third quarter "T" coupons.

WFB says—two-tone shoes with other than leather soles may be made beginning September 1. Shortage of workers, and not material or machines, is holding up production of farm radio batteries, but production is expected to be improved by fall. Full responsibility for rationing and distributing new trucks, truck tractors, trailers and other commercial vehicles to essential users has been transferred to the Office of Defense Transportation. sheeting situations continue to grow tighter. Dry cleaners report urgent need of wire garment hangers because paperboard hangers have proved costly and impracticable.

WFA says—farmers and dairies may now purchase new milk cans for handling milk and milk products without purchase certificates. Government reserves of canned fish from the 1944 pack have been increased because of increased war requirements.

Before DDT, the new insecticide, may be recommended for general use for agricultural purposes many more tests must be completed as to its effects on insects, plants and higher animals, the Department of Agriculture says. Despite shoe-rationing, the American people have bought an average of 3.2 pairs of rationed and unrationed shoes annually, more than consumers in any other country, the Department of Commerce reports.

Control Of Processed Food Remains Same

OPA regulations regarding the sale of some processed foods on the ration list are similar to the 1943 provisions, but many Texas producers and consumers still are unacquainted with their responsibilities.

A home processor may sell home-canned foods, but he must observe some limitations, explains Miss King, home demonstration agent. The processor must collect ration points in accordance with OPA's official table of point value, except that the point value of home-processed foods never exceeds eight points per quart or four points per pound. Any farm woman who fails to collect points for home processed foods sold is participating in Black Market operations.

Frozen foods in private or rented lockers are governed by the same regulations, Miss King says. She urges home processors to keep accurate records of dates and quantities sold. Points collected must be turned in to the local ration board by the tenth of each month.

It is permissible, the OPA has ruled, for a consumer to buy fresh produce from a farm woman and then to pay the producer by the day for canning the food. But this transaction must be carried out in good faith.

Miss King adds that farm families can give away or sell fresh foods for canning, but there is a limitation of 50 quarts to the amount of home-processed foods which can be given to any person or group in any one year without the exchange of point coupons. The food that is given away, however, must come from the supply intended for the household.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"The men overseas don't mince any words about the way they want to find this country when they come marching home... do they, Judge?"

"They certainly don't, Herb...and they shouldn't. They're doing a masterful job fighting over there to protect our rights and they have good license to expect us to protect theirs back here at home. One thing they're mighty clear on is their stand on prohibition."

"Their position on that subject was stated very emphatically in a poll taken recently among American service men in England by the British Institute of Public Opinion. When hundreds of men were asked point blank how they would vote on prohibition, 85% of them stated, in unmistakable terms, that they would vote against it. There's no doubt about it, Herb... the men overseas don't want any action taken on that subject while they're away."

"And they're 100% right, Judge, because I know how I felt when I came home after the last war—only to learn that we had been over there fighting for so impractical a thing as Prohibition."

Canned Chicken For Winter Food Urged By W. F. A.

Increased home canning and freezing of chicken for the next six months is urged by the War Food Administration as one means of assuring families of a good supply of chicken meat next winter. The total quantity of chicken available for civilians this year is less than last year—23.8 pounds per person as compared with 28.1 pounds in 1943. Many remember periods even at last year's higher level when no chicken could be bought in city stores.

July, August, and September are the months for going over poultry flocks to get rid of low-producers and looper hens. This year, farmers will be culling extra closely and marketing heavily in the third quarter of the year, because of short feed supplies and egg marketing difficulties. Poultrymen cannot afford to keep birds that don't lay. Storage space and labor are scarce. Crates and other containers and shipping facilities are limited.

So W. F. A. suggests that farmers, and also city and town families in poultry raising areas or any location where supplies of poultry are plentiful this summer, will find it economical to preserve chicken against the days when it will be scarce. Most families prefer to use their freezer space to store young birds for fryers, broilers, or roasting chickens, as these do not can as well as older chickens. The meat has to be processed just as long as the meat from older birds and this cooks the young chickens to pieces. On the other hand, "looper" hens 1 or 2 years old, and roosters removed from the laying flock, make excellent canned chicken. Chicken must always be canned under steam pressure. Those without pressure canners can often find a nearby community cannery with good facilities.

Egg Production Is Increased By Diligent Care

Probably the most important recent change in the poultry industry, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture, is the phenomenal increase in the rate of lay per bird through improved feeding and breeding methods, and disease control. The cost of eggs in terms of feed decreases as egg production increases. Poultry specialists of the Department have found that a laying hen uses about the same quantity of feed, regardless of the number of eggs she lays. Thus a Leghorn producing 80 eggs in a year needs about 10 pounds of concentrates for each dozen eggs, but a hen that lays 160 eggs, eats the same quantity of feed and therefore uses only 5.5 pounds to produce a dozen eggs.

Higher egg production in terms of feed concentrates has resulted in relatively less chicken meat from laying flocks in proportion to the supply of eggs. This is partly because many poultrymen have been buying second day-old pullets instead of straight-run chicks, so they have fewer young roosters to sell as meat. More of the poultry meat now comes from commercial broilers and turkeys.

Livestock Barrier

DO YOU want to stop wrestling every time you have to go through with a wagon or tractor? Just eliminate the roadway gate and use a livestock barrier. A barrier can be built easily by scooping out a space four inches deep, six feet wide, and long enough to span the driveway. Next, make a framework of 2x4's to fit flat in the shallow pit as shown in the illustration. Place the 2x4's on edge, two and a half inches apart. All wood used should be saturated with creosote or a similar preservative.

Split-hooved animals cannot cross the barrier, but horses and vehicles can do so easily. A gate for use by the livestock can be provided at the side of the barrier or anywhere else that might be convenient.

Many Women Take Vacations To Work Farms

"Vacation with a hoe" may be one way for a girl to get a healthful change and at the same time help on the urgent wartime problem of food production. The call has gone out for 800,000 women and girls to volunteer for farm work this summer in the Women's Land Army, directed by the Extension Service of the War Food Administration. These volunteers can fit into the farm needs of their regions in several different ways, and they will be paid the going wage for the kind of work they do. So a "Farm" vacation of this kind means money in instead of money out.

The main idea is not vacationing, but farming—good hard manual labor in the fresh air. Some helpers enlist for the season, living in work camps. Others may be able to stay in such a camp for only a short vacation from some other job. But life in these camps is not all work. There is time for fun after working hours.

Other workers live on farms and replace farm men who have gone to war. For this type of help many states offer training courses and then place workers on farms. Still another way to take part in farm work is to live at home and go every day to a nearby farm. Those who do it this way are usually emergency workers who are greatly needed to help with peak-season harvests near home. In some places business women have spent evenings and week-ends picking fruit, or helping with haying, or bringing in vegetable crops that would otherwise spoil for lack of hands to harvest them.

Information about emergency needs on local farms will be in the newspapers and on the radio. For other information, telephone the county agricultural agent or local farm employment office; or write to the Women's Land Army supervisor at the State agricultural college.
