

Benjamin Man Is Killed When Hit By Auto

Funeral For Newt Kyle Is Held On Friday

Newt Kyle, well known Knox County resident and employee of the Texas Highway Department in this County, was killed instantly on Wednesday of last week when struck by an automobile on the highway, about two miles east of Benjamin.

According to reports of the accident, Mr. Kyle had placed his tools in a car, and started across the highway to another vehicle. He stepped in front of the oncoming automobile without seeing it. Driver of the accident car stopped and rendered all aid possible.

Mr. Kyle, who was 64 years of age, was well known in Knox County, having been employed on ranches of this county for many years.

He is survived by his wife and one son, David Kyle, who is serving with the armed forces in China.

Funeral services were held from the Christian Church in Benjamin at five o'clock last Friday afternoon.

DDT Experiments Made In Control of Flies, Mosquitoes

The County Agent, R. O. Dunkle, is conducting a few experimental tests with the new chemical compound known as D.D.T. in the control of horn flies and mosquitoes.

Results of the one week test indicate that this new insecticide will practically eliminate the horn flies on cattle for a period of some two weeks. Five 4-H Club calves have been sprayed with a five per cent solution of D.D.T. on September 11th, and to date no horn flies or barn flies have annoyed the calves. Observation of these calves is apparent contentment, without switching and stamping in an effort to rid themselves of the fly.

The effectiveness of the spray within the house or in the barn seems to indicate that a weaker solution of the D.D.T. might be employed. The spraying of screens, window facings, door facings and ceilings of each room seems to give better results than by spraying the floors, since the fly must come in direct contact with the D. D. T. crystals that remain on sprayed surfaces.

It is hard to tell just what becomes of the fly, except that they are just not in the room anymore. A person who expects to sweep up heaps of flies, mosquitoes and roaches will be disappointed.

D. D. T. was developed by a Swiss Chemist and is manufactured in the United States, but most of the production has been absorbed almost exclusively by our military forces. Accordingly, no great supply is yet available for civilian use.

Prolonged contact with D. D. T. solutions with the skin may be harmful. Frequent washing of the hands with soap and warm water is advisable.

Raise Is Made In Ceiling For Boll Pulling

Members of the Knox County U.S.D.A. Wage Board attended a meeting Friday, September 14th, with Mr. Evans, who is representative of the Texas U. S. D. A. Wage Board, with regard to the ceiling price on the pulling of cotton.

Mr. Evans informed the local committee that the Washington U. S.O.A. Wage Board would not approve the ceiling at $1.25 per hundred, and that the wage board in Washington recommended that the pulling price of cotton be increased ten cents per hundred pounds, making a $1.35 ceiling price for pulling, instead of the $1.25 as recommended previously in the thirty-nine county representatives.

The local wage board were very reluctant in granting this increase price, but most other counties within the thirty-nine county area approved this advance of ten cents in price, and recommended that the loan value of cotton be increased to take care of this additional cost of harvesting.

The ceiling order is effective as of September 14th. Hauling and service ceiling remains as per original recommendations of twenty five cents for hauling up to fifteen miles and thirty cents above fifteen miles.

Violations which exceed the $1.35 will be investigated by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

In hardship cases, such as poor stand, dead cotton, and badly infested with weeds, producers may secure permits from the County Committee to advance the ceiling price.

Moguls Down Rule, 28-0, To Open Season

The Munday Moguls showed good form and much promise of a winning team last Friday night when they defeated the Rule team by a score of 28-0. The game was played on the Rule field.

The locals made the game a thriller from the opening play, scoring two touchdowns and a safety in the first few minutes of play.

John Spann, Jr., furnished the thrilling play of the game when he dashed around the left end, behind the superior blocking of his brother, Joe, for a 45-yard sprint into pay dirt.

The Moguls played a good defensive, as well as offensive game. Rule never threatened to score, and only crossed the 50-yard line once, this time on a pass.

Billy Boulding did an outstanding job of calling offensive signals.

After having a substantial lead the Mogul regulars gave their positions to the second string team, and every eligible man on the team saw action in the game.

Sied Waheed, local grocer, complimented the Moguls with a delicious steak dinner after the game.

Rochester To Play Moguls On Local Field

Coach Latham's Munday Moguls will entertain the Rochester team here Friday night, playing their first home game.

This is a non-conference game, but it promises to be one of the outstanding games of the season. Rochester has a good team, one that has shown up well in practice games, having defeated the Haskell Indians 26-6 in a practice game recently.

Coach Clyde Latham took charge of the Moguls last Monday and directed the practice period. He hopes to continue with them from now on.

"We have prospects for a winning team," Latham said. "We have material that looks good, but it will take the cooperation of all the community to make it the winning team it should be."

STAY AT HOME—SEE HIM SOONER

The quickest way to see your son or husband being returned from overseas, to be discharged from the Navy, is to remain at home.

That was the sage advice today by the Navy Department to relatives who are anxious to welcome their "boys" coming back to the States for release.

In the first place, if relatives travel to debarkation ports it is highly improbable that they will even see their sailors because the Navy demobilization plan calls for returning men to separation centers in their own Naval Districts. In consequence, men will not be free to visit their families at coastal ports, but will move without delay to their own districts.

Secondly, travel by dependents will only crowd the already over-loaded transportation system and hamper the orderly operation of discharge.

And last, living accommodations in coastal ports are not and will not be available.

ANOTHER ENEMY TO CONQUER

"Another enemy to conquer" is the slogan for this year's forest fire prevention campaign slated to get underway October 1 in the state. W. E. White, director, Texas Forest Service, A. & M. College, has announced.

The campaign is part of a nationwide effort to reduce man-caused forest fires and is now in its fourth year as a wartime project, Mr. White said. It is a joint program of the U. S. Forest Service in cooperation with other conservation agencies and groups.

Newest cooperator on the program is the American Red Cross, the director stated. Plans are being worked out with F. Leo Durkee, regional Red Cross director at St. Louis, to enlist the aid of 44 East Texas Red Cross chapters. Long-range plans call for the Red Cross to make it a permanent part of their disaster prevention program, Mr. White has been advised.

Almost a million pieces of literature and posters, mostly printed with federal funds, will be available for distribution in Texas about the first of the month to schools, industries, conservation agencies, civic organizations and others. The September issue of Texas Forest News, official publication of the Texas Forest Service will give full details of the program and of the materials available.

"What we hope to achieve by this campaign is to make Texans conscious of the constant need for keeping fire out of our forests and woodlands. Wood which played so important a part in the war is going to be in big demand for peace-time rebuilding. The fire threat is another enemy to conquer in our timberlands," Whites concluded.

AN ENLIGHTENED POSTWAR POLICY

American business knows that its success after the war will depend more than ever on its ability to well serve and please the public. Many industries are spending a great deal of time and money in providing facilities to teach their employees how to meet a great customer. Courtesy and interest in the "buyers' problems" are essential to the success of business, and they are equally important to the future of every employe. Without successful business, there can be no permanent jobs, and the attitude of workers toward the public can make or break any business.

Examination of a program outlined for employes by the Railway Express Agency is enlightening. It reads almost like a college catalogue.

Training 67,000 company workers would be a big task for our largest colleges. In the express plan it becomes part of the day's work. It is a never-ending process. Mr. A. F. Hall, Superintendent of Training, says: "An organized program is successful to the extent to which top management and all concerned make it successful. We seek to accomplish the following objectives from which both the worker and the company benefit: Reduce loss and damage claims; reduce personnel injuries and vehicle accidents; correct procedure errors; develop leadership and help employes fit themselves for advancement; make service more acceptable to the public."

If all business would follow a comprehensive service program, a large part of the laws and regulations now passed to protect the public, would be unnecessary. Voluntary action always produces better results than compulsion.

GOOD ADVICE TO RETAILERS

There is probably no better posted man in the United States on the art of retailing, than Dr. Paul Nystrom, president of Limited Price Variety Stores Association, and professor of marketing at Columbia University. He says that the small store owner's role in postwar distribution is "doing a better job of storekeeping than he ever did before."

From this standpoint, the small store is in exactly the same position as the largest store, and both will succeed or fail by the same techniques. And both must win public patronage by the service they render in their respective localities.

Specifically, Dr. Nystrom points out that the little retailer can improve his display, improve his selling technique, and improve his choice of merchandise to meet the requirements of his particular customers. The largest chain can do more than this. The field is open to the smallest store for there is no monopoly on intelligence.

Small retailers who heed such advice have few worries about competitors.

DOCTORS DECLARE MEDICAL CARE GOALS

Physicians of the United States are interested in extending to all people of all communities the best possible medical care. They stress the necessity for extending to all corners of this great country the availability of aids for diagnosis and treatment, so that dependency will be minimized and independence will be stimulated.

American enterprise has won the greatest war in the world's history. Private enterprise and initiative manifested through research may conquer cancer, arthritis and other as yet unconquered scourges of humankind. Science, as history well demonstrates, prospers best when free and unshackled. Instead of socialized medicine, American doctors advocate a constructive voluntary program for the extension of improved health and medical care to all the people, as follows:

1. Sustained production leading to better living conditions.
2. An extended program of disease prevention in every part of our country.
3. Increased hospitalization insurance on a voluntary basis.
4. Extension to all localities of voluntary sickness insurance plans with provision for the needy under principles already established by the American Medical Association.
5. Medical care to the indigent by local authorities under voluntary insurance plans.
6. A survey of each state by qualified agencies to establish need for medical care.
7. Federal aid to states where needed, to be administered by local agencies.
8. Information that voluntary programs need not involve increased taxation.
9. Continuous survey of voluntary plans for hospitalization to determine adequacy.
10. Discharge of physicians from armed services as rapidly as possible.
11. Increased availability of medical education to young men and women.
12. Postponement of revolutionary changes while 60,000 medical men are in uniform to help preserve American democracy.
13. Adjustments in draft regulations which will permit students to study medicine.
14. Study of postwar medical personnel requirements of veterans' hospitals, army, navy, and U. S. Public Health Service.

Post War Traffic Is Child Menace

Parents, teachers and school administrators were asked by the National Safety Council today to cooperate in a nationwide endeavor to protect children in the immediate postwar traffic era.

Ned H. Dearborn, president of the Council, voiced the opinion of traffic authorities throughout the country in asking that special precautions be put into immediate effect to keep the child traffic toll down.

"This a serious problem for mothers, fathers, and all others concerned in the welfare of American children," Mr. Dearborn said.

He pointed out that all children fall into one of the following classifications:

1. Those who have come of school age since the war began and have never seen such thick traffic as is now released by the lifting of wartime restrictions.
2. Those who have forgotten how to protect themselves in heavy traffic.
3. Rural children who are accustomed to cars traveling at low wartime speed levels.

"Since 1922, the motor vehicle death rate for school children has decreased 33 per cent—a record established by constant public attention and sympathy. That figure must continue to fall, and it will if the American people get behind this endeavor.

"Parents and teachers can teach children safe walking and riding habits. School and public authorities can provide to some extent safety in school areas, and each driver must remember to drive as if he knew his own child might dart suddenly into the street," Mr. Dearborn said.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

JACK SUGGS WRITES FROM PHILIPPINES

Dear Friends: I am at Guian. With the lifting of censorship it becomes our duty to compress into English a little of facts and figures about this world, just to keep the record straight as men details of life here.

This is the U. S. Naval Station, Samar—the island of Semar in the Philippines. The station and associated activities cover most of the area of the long, narrow peninsula on southeastern Samar that extends into the Pacific, separating northern Leyte Gulf from the Pacific Ocean, as well as several of the tiny islands that lie near the peninsula. A little less than half-way up the peninsula, on Leyte Gulf, is the principal town, called Guian. It is a little town nestling along the reef-studded waters of Leyte Gulf, from whose jetty one can look across the shallow waters and see the nearby islands of Tubabos and Manican, and the farther island of Homonhon, where Magellan first landed in the Philippines, and, later, the first American invasion forces also first landed as they entered Leyte Gulf. It is between 35 and 40 miles across the water to the coast of Leyte, where the Americans first went ashore in the Philippines in force, after having put small forces ashore on Sulan, Homonhon and Dinagat.

Anyone in the States looking at a map of Samar will see that our peninsula has a long, thin island, acting as a continuation of the peninsula, at its tip. This is the island of Calococan, where many more of our activities are located. Calococan is no longer a separate island, for the Seabees have constructed a causeway to it, making it part of Samar.

The town we call Guian (Gee-wan-with a hard G) had a peace-time population of 4,067 Filipinos, mostly associated with fishing, coconut industry, and shopkeeping. Its outstanding landmark is the sturdy old church of the Immaculate Conception, built by the Spaniards in the middle of the 16th century. The Church and its massive bell-tower are made of heavy stone, blocks that have withstood typhoons for hundreds of years, and have served as a landmark for ships to use as a bearing for as long. It will come of as much of a surprise, we believe, to our local Navy readers as to anyone that the town they call Guian is actually not Guian at all. Guian is what the Filipinos call a municipality, comparable to a county back home. The municipality of Guian includes the entire peninsula and many of the nearby islands. Filipino municipalities are divided into barrios (equivalent to townships). And our little town, though it is the governmental center of the larger municipality of Guian, lies astride the boundary of the two barrios of Butak and Sawang, the boundary line running across the town from just about in front of the church doors—and our town is actually half Butak and half Sawang. Nevertheless, everyone calls it Guian.

Our peninsula is long and narrow. It is only a few minutes jeep-ride across it from Leyte Gulf to the Pacific Ocean, on our winding clay-coral roads, the network of

Newly Treated Cotton Prevents Mildew And Rot

COLLEGE STATION.—A new cotton fabric that will not mildew or rot has been developed by scientists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The new fabric was buried in the ground for six months with no significant loss of strength.

This new material has the strength and appearance of ordinary cotton, in addition to its ability to resist rot. And the process by which it is made causes no discoloration of the fabric. The treatment is somewhat similar to the acetate process for rayon, but the new cotton fabric has no odor and it does not become sticky. And fortunately the treatment will not cause any harmful effects on foods, so it will make excellent sacks for shipping fruits, vegetables and other food and feed products.

Specialists of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service hail the new development as a boon in two general fields which consume large amounts of cotton. First this modified cotton cloth, yarn and sewing thread will make clothing which will not mildew. It can be used for awnings, lawn furniture, and tents which will not rot in damp climates. Fish and tennis nets will profit, too. The new fabric also is expected to be used in making rot-resistant bags.

Seismograph Crew To Test Goree Area

The Western Seismograph Company moved its crew into Goree last week end to make a series of tests over a large territory surrounding the town of Goree. The tests will include portions of Knox and Baylor Counties.

This is a return engagement for this company, which did considerable work in this section a few months ago.

ARNOLD A. WILDE TO RECEIVE DISCHARGE

U. S. NAVY STAGING CENTER, PEARL HARBOR, T. H.—Arnold A. Wilde, machinist's mate second class, USNR of Rt. 2, Munday, Texas, has arrived at this Staging Center, set up under the Navy's Demobilization Plan, and will soon be bound for the United States to be discharged honorably from the naval service. He has been in the Navy since March, 1942, and has spent 23 months overseas.

which was constructed by the Seabees. The peninsula is cut off from the world except by water, and is a sociological island of its own. This is because there are no roads that connect it with the rest of Samar. Roads leading north peter out into little more than buffalo tracks only a few miles north. This is because Samar, though the third largest of the Philippines, is also one of the poorest. Practically all human habitations are along the coast, and the interior is a monotonous, hilly jungle that offers little temptation for human settlement. It is a hodge-podge of hills and small streams and tangled overgrowth, with no regular river systems, no fertile plains, and nothing to support life except a few mines and a few tropical-hardwood lumbering camps. The main industry of the entire island is coconuts. But we lie in the October typhoon tracks, and catch more typhoons than any other province of the Philippines, though not the severest. These frequent storms add to the poverty of the island by periodically taking the tops off the coconut trees.

Yours Truly,
Jack Suggs, M. M.I/c.

Early Incidents In Texas History

Pioneers of Texas did their own fighting, their own legislating, and they had a strength and honesty of purpose necessary to build a commonwealth.

As to their ability to do their own fighting, Captain George Erath, one of San Jacinto's heroes, condensed the Texan's whole code of military tactics into one word when, asked what military training he had, he replied, "None." He said he knew but one word of command, and that was "Charge, boys, charge!"

One of the salty characters, Henry Smith, Provisional Governor of Texas 1835, flatly refused to surrender his chair when the Executive Council tried to depose him. The political opposition described him as being too illiterate, poorly informed, and not of big enough calibre for the office. But stay he did.

Illustrative of the character of men and events in Texas at that time is the story about Thomas Jefferson Rusk, Secretary of War, who was energetic in thought and action for Texas during the dark days of the Revolution. On the night of the organization of the Government ad interim, President Burnett had called a council, asking each member in turn for an opinion. As is usual in Texas politics no two opinions concurred. Secretary Rusk, weary from working night and day with no rest for three days while helping to frame the Constitution of the new Republic, had dropped his head in hands and, leaning his elbows on his knees as if meditating, was actually sound asleep. When his name was called and no answer, he was punched in the ribs by the man who sat next to him. Rusk sat upright out of a fog of sleep and said, "Gentlemen, my opinion is that we are in a hell of a fix. We're all worked down. Let's go to the saloon; get a drink; then get on our horses and fight like the devil to get out of this mess." Needless to say, they went.

Sam Houston's name and Texas history are inseparable. No story of Texas politics is complete without him. As a public figure he appealed to the popular imagination. Representative of erring humanity every facet of his nature had the spark that makes the whole world kin. His sympathy for men gave him power over them. His friends were loyal; his enemies were bitter; but nobody neglected to talk about him.

The disorganization and discontent of the Texan army is a well established fact in Texas history. A man with less sympathy than Houston might have failed in command of such an army. But when that army was retreating in haste before Santa Anna's rapid advance toward what was to be the battle ground of San Jacinto and the artillery and baggage wagons mired down continually, no man was more willing to put his shoulder to the wheel than Sam Houston himself. And his "Come on, boys, let's help the poor critters", became a byword among the men.

Once when the soldiers over whom his authority was not disputed objected because they had not received a cent of pay for months, had no shoes, and no soap to wash their clothes, Sam Houston gave them each $5.00 of his own money and refused to take a voucher for the amount.

No man ever loved the American Union more than Sam Houston. In the Civil War era, when feeling and vituperation were most intense against him for his opposition to the secession of Texas, he was invited to assist in the military review of a regiment of over one thousand young Texans being

Sgt. Moorhouse, Miss Farmer Wed In El Paso Rites

Miss Bonnie Lucille Farmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Cotner, Sunrise Acres, became the bride of Sgt. Jerry B. Moorhouse of Biggs Field in a ceremony Saturday at noon in the study of Asbury Methodist Church with the Rev. J. V. Berglund as officiant.

The couple was attended by the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Blevins, Anthony, N. M.

Mrs. Blevins, who is 84 years old, wore a formal gown of pink crepe which was her own wedding dress.

The bride was attired in formal frost white marquisette posed over taffeta, designed with wide skirt, sweetheart neckline and short puffed sleeves.

Her veil of tulle was fingertip length. Mrs. Moorhouse is the third bride to wear the veil. Other brides were Mrs. W. C. Berry, wife of Staff Sergeant Berry, who has been in the Philippines Islands for two and a half years, and her cousin, Mrs. George W. Kendrick, wife of Major Kendrick, who is overseas.

For "something blue" for luck the bride wore a blue pin, gift of her brother, Pfc. Dean Farmer of the Marines, now in the South Pacific. "Something borrowed" was a strand of pearls loaned by Mrs. Kendrick.

The bride's mother wore a black crepe gown with pink accessories and corsage of pink rosebuds. Mrs. Cotner chose a white pique gown with lace inserts.

A reception for relatives and friends was held immediately after the ceremony in the Kendrick home, 1005 East Nevada Street.

The three tiered wedding cake, surmounted by a miniature bride and bridegroom, was served with champagne, with which happiness of the couple was pledged.

The newlyweds left later for a honeymoon trip, destination of which is unrevealed, following which they will return to make their home at 3819 Trowbridge Street. For going away the bride wore a suit of azure blue gabardine with black accessories.

The bride, member of pioneer family of the Upper Valley was reared in Anthony and she was graduated from El Paso High School. Since graduation she has been employed at Biggs Field.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moorhouse of Benjamin, Texas, was graduated from High School in Benjamin, and he attended Texas Technological College. He was in government employ before entering the Air Forces two years ago.—El Paso Paper.

Training Meeting For Club Officers Held At Benjamin

A training meeting was held by Miss Laura Lane, Extension Editor, from A. and M. College for the Home Demonstration Club reporters and Home Demonstration Club presidents in the assembly room of the Benjamin Courthouse, Wednesday, September 12, 1945.

The meeting was called to order by Lucille King, county home demonstration agent. She then introduced the guest speaker, Miss Laura Lane, Extension Editor from A. and M. College. Miss Lane, first gave the reasons for having reporters. She stressed that, if one can see and hear, read and write, and tell the truth, they can become a good reporter. She said a club reporter has four big duties. They are as follows:

First, to announce all meetings, tours, achievement days, social events, and other future activities of your club.

Second, to give to all interested newspapers reports of these meetings and events as soon as they have happened.

Third, to know your editor, or the person who handles your news stories.

Fourth, to train an assistant reporter to take your place when you are absent or to follow you when your term of service is over.

The group went with Miss Lane and Miss Lucille King, County Home Demonstration Agent to the library. While here, Miss Lane took pictures of the Knox County Home Demonstration Memorial Free Library. She made one picture of the head librarian Mrs. Carl Patterson and their club presidents and another of the Home Demonstration agent and the club reporters. A third picture was made of the librarian at the entrance of the library.

The women gave Miss Lane the history of the library, how it was started, how it got its name, how it is financed, who gave the first books, the books purchased, the most popular books, etc.

You watch the Extensioner for the write up and picture in November.

Those present for the meeting were as follows: Mrs. Earl Sams, Mrs. J. C. Patterson, Mrs. Leona Darwin, Mrs. W. W. Smith, all of Benjamin; Mrs. Hewitt Simmons and Mrs. W. L. Capps of Gilliland; Mrs. R. M. Almanrode of Sunset; Mrs. H. R. Hicks, Mrs. Ralph Weeks and Mrs. Frank Bowley all of Munday; Mrs. S. O. Turner and Mrs. W. R. Owens of Truscott.

POST-WAR FLYING IN YOUR HOME TOWN

By C. C. CAMPBELL, Member, Aviation Writers Association, Washington, D. C.

Locating an Airpark

Is our town large enough to support an airpark? What site facility should we consider? How do we go about selecting a site . . . financing the proposition?

These are some of the urgent questions pouring into the offices of aviation authorities. Each must be answered separately in accordance with the peculiar needs of the individual community.

But some generalizations can be made to serve as a basis for preliminary consideration by a community landing facility committee. Size of the community may not be as important as it seems. It must be convenient to the business or residential section it is to serve. Folks will object to making long surface trips to and from the airpark. Situation close to a major highway will eliminate the expense of developing long access roads. On the other hand, it must not be too close to heavy surface traffic, high buildings, radio masts, or chimneys which might offer safety hazards.

Adequate size is determined by the length of the runways. It can be as little as 80 acres if properly laid out in the shape of an L, T or X. This would serve the personal portant as the class of people who live in it. If they are progressive, they will want an airpark whether the community be small or large.

Aviation leaders such as members of the Personal Aircraft Council, Aircraft Industries Association of America, believe that every community (there are 16,752 in the U. S.) should have at least one landing facility. Present and immediate future needs will determine the size of the facility, with ample room for expansion through additional airparks as the need grows in later years.

Selecting the site for the airpark may cause some trouble. Realty companies or land owners might be inclined to sacrifice public interest to a desire to unload unprofitable land. With the cooperation of the community, however, this can be avoided. It is usually a good policy, authorities believe, for several sites to be chosen at first. Then the advantages and disadvantages of each can be weighed and compared.

flyer and also be suitable for charter, taxi-plane or feeder airline operations, using planes up to 8,000 to 10,000 pounds. There must be adequate areas for parking aircraft, as well as for sites for various service buildings as the need arises.

Before making a final decision, the landing facility group in charge should seek the advice of competent authorities on such matters as airport design, approaches, amount of grading needed, types of soils, and accessibility to the usual facilities such as water, electricity, sewers and telephones.

Many sites lend themselves to some kind of park or recreational development such as picnic areas, lakes, tennis courts, swimming pools, and other facilities which increase the usefulness of the airpark to all residents of the community and help provide additional income.

This is the sixth of a series of articles on post-war flying and its effect on community life. The next article "Citizen's Model Airpark" will appear in an early issue.

Munday Boy Is Member Of Union To Get Citation

A Ninth Air Defense Command Unit, the 863rd AAA AW BN, commanded by Lt. Col. William H. Warrick, has been awarded the President Unit Citation for extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy during the Battle of the Ardennes. From 16 December to 23 December 1944, the battalion bore the brunt of Von Rundstedt's offensive in the Monchau sector. The citation for this action reads in part: ". . . Despite heavy enemy artillery, mortar, and small arms fire, the members of this organization remained gallantly at their posts and repelled the determined attacks by air, infantry, and armored infantry of the resurgent enemy and held its ground against great odds without a break . . ."

Cpl. Loys Ussery of Munday, Knox County, Texas, is a driver with the 863rd. He has been with this unit since activation, and has served overseas in France, England, Belgium and Germany. At critical times during the war in Europe, he has been called upon to drive food and gasoline to forward battle positions. Cpl. Ussery has the Good Conduct Medal and wears five battle stars on his ETO ribbon.

Sue Partridge Enrolls In H.S. U.

Sue Partridge of Munday was among those who registered for work in Hardin-Simmons University of Abilene Wednesday, September 19, it is disclosed from the list of room reservations being made by returning students.

Requests for rooms from both new and old students are increasing daily as the time for opening the Fall semester draws near and university heads are brought face to face with the necessity of speeding up plans for new buildings and facilities. Sudden ending of the war has business manager E. W. Ledbetter securing the city of Abilene for rooms suitable for men students being released from service or from the likelihood of being drafted.

This condition is resulting in an acceleration of the greater Hardin-Simmons University development program which calls for the early completion of a million dollar building and rehabilitation campaign. The money is to be used to erect badly needed buildings on the forty-acre campus, the first of which is to be the Sandefur Memorial. It is to house administrative offices, a library, and class rooms, and is being designed as a fitting memorial to Dr. J. D. Sandefur, for 32 year president of Hardin-Simmons.

Smut Treatment Is Recommended For Small Grain

COLLEGE STATION.—Chemical treatment of small grain seed before fall planting is a cheap and safe insurance against losses from disease, says E. A. Miller, agronomist for the A. and M. College Extension Service.

Wheat, oats and barley are subject to fungus diseases called smut. Under favorable conditions the diseases often cause reduced yields and further loss from dockage when infected grain is marketed. Accordingly, Miller urges farmers to thoroughly clean and treat their planting seed unless they are certain that it is free from infection. Wheat is affected by two types of smut disease. Stinking smut can be controlled readily by fanning the seed wheat or cleaning it by other methods to remove the smut balls, and then treating it with either two ounces per bushel of 50 per cent copper carbonate, or one-half ounce per bushel of ethyl mercury phosphate called "improved ceresan."

The grain may be treated in a commercial seed-treating machine or in a homemade container with a tight fitting lid. An oil drum with a pipe soldered diagonally across it and extending about one foot from each end to permit it to revolve easily will do the job. For small amounts any type of container will do. The important thing is to get the powder well distributed over each kernel.

The other type, called loose smut, cannot be controlled by chemical treatment. The best safeguard is to use seed known to be uninfected. Barley and oat smut can be controlled by treating the seed with one-half ounce per bushel of improved ceresan. Another approved method is to mix one pint of commercial formaldehyde with 10 gallons of water at 60 to 70 degrees temperature. Sprinkle the solution uniformly over 40 to 50 bushels of seed while it is being shoveled from one pile to another on a clean floor, or in a tight wagon box. Then pile the seed and cover it with a wagon sheet for at least four hours or over night. It then should be sown or spread out to dry, Miller says.

A three-year study of elementary school children in Denton, Texas, proves that a high or low I. Q. tells "exactly nothing" about an individual's personality, according to Dr. M. E. Bonney, chairman of the research committee of the Texas Society for Mental Hygiene. Pamphlets on Dr. Bonney's studies have been distributed throughout the state by the University of Texas Hogg Foundation.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Dr. Geo. W. Cox
M. D., State Health Officer of Texas

Austin, Texas.—For many years the ultimate in safety has been conversed in the old expression, "He is as safe as if he were in his own home." Statistics have disproved the truth of this assumption and tend to show that home, far from being the safest place, is often quite the opposite.

Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, commenting on the annual casualty totals from accidents in the home throughout the United States, said today that such accidents are the cause of more deaths than diphtheria, scarlet fever, whooping cough, and measles combined; of over two-thirds as many as automobile accidents; and of over a third as many deaths as tuberculosis.

"Slippery floor surfaces, lack of handrails on cellar steps, absence of protective gates at the top of stairs in homes where there are small children, toys left on stairs, unanchored small rugs on polished floors, poisons in medicine cabinets accessible to children, and the careless storage of sharp tools and firearms are some of the more prominent hazards resulting in home accidents," Dr. Cox said.

"However," he added, "in the last analysis, the problem boils down to one of reasonable individual caution. We cannot view complacently the more than 30,000 deaths in the United States annually due to home accidents. These deaths, chargeable to remediable carelessness, can and should be reduced."

GIANT INDUSTRY SPEEDED VICTORY

YOU SAY YOU'RE PROVIDING OVER 7 BILLION MORE QUARTS OF MILK A YEAR THAN BEFORE THE WAR?

YES SIR! AND IT WOULD TAKE ALL THE MEN IN NEW HAMPSHIRE OR MINNEAPOLIS TO MILK AND TEND THE COWS GIVING ALL THAT EXTRA MILK

America's gigantic dairy industry is producing 15,300,000,000 pounds or 7,116,000,000 quarts more milk annually than in the pre-war period. Just to milk and care for the cows needed to produce this extra milk requires 167,100 men working full time—or as many men as there are in the city of Minneapolis or the whole state of New Hampshire. That extra milk has gone into making better fighters on the battle front and more efficient workers on the home front, states the National Dairy Council. The largest item of increase is that which is being used as fluid milk and cream. Next in importance is approximately one and a half billion quarts of milk being made into cheese over and above the average pre-war cheese production. Approximately an equal amount of extra milk is being used to manufacture additional quantities of evaporated milk for lend-lease and for American troops overseas. Besides this, large quantities of milk are being made into dry whole milk and ice cream mix for G. I. Joes on foreign soil.

Free Practice Of Medicine In Danger By Federal Bill

Every doctor in the United States, as well as the dentists, nurses, pharmacists, chemists, technicians and hospital organizations will be regimented and put under Federal control and dictatorship should the Wagner-Murray-Dingell bill now before Congress be adopted, so Dr. Holman Taylor of Fort Worth, Secretary of the State Medical Association of Texas declares.

"The regimentation of doctors would forever destroy the free practice of medicine in the United States, and Americanized medicine is the best for the protection of public health," Dr. Holman Taylor.

The Wagner-Murray-Dingell bill imposes a vast tax burden on every wage earner in the United States with 8 per cent deducts on salaries. Three billions go towards establishing compulsory health insurance. Doctors would be listed regimented and put on call. You may no longer get the services of your family doctor under this arrangement. You will get a doctor assigned to you by calling some Federal medical bureau. If your baby is sick you may have to telephone some Federal office like the O.P.A. and accept anyone who may come to the rescue. Your state of health, symptoms and diseases may be card indexed and put in the Federal bureau files as a matter of public record. There will be no more privacy in the relationship between patient and physician. The doctor who sees the most patients will earn the most money. There will be no leisure for careful diagnosis or painstaking treatment. Everything will be done in a hurry.

This is the wild socialistic experiment, modded on what Hitler required of German doctors, which is proposed for the United States. For the sake of public health and welfare, every thoughtful American should oppose these socialistic bills to the very limit.

Tire Situation Is Most Acute

The "hottest" program in the OPA right now is tire rationing. Almost every Rationing Board has a huge backlog of unfilled applications for tires. Furthermore, it is estimated that throughout the nation around a million people have tire certificates in their pockets ready to buy a tire as soon as they can find one. This situation has come about because of inaccurate national release from unauthorized sources painting a glowing picture about the tire situation for one thing. It is probably due, in part, also to wishful thinking on the part of a lot of us—we want and need tires so badly that we just believe they are available.

The people of your county should be given the facts about the tire situation for three very good reasons. First, in order that they will continue to take the best possible care of the tires they have and, therefore, conserve our vital transportation; second, in order that they may be saved some bitter disappointment when they do not get tires they have made applications for; and third, to lighten the workload of Boards which are already losing clerical help as a result of Opa's move to economize. Apparently, there is a general misunderstanding about tires being released from the military. From all the information we can get no tires have actually been released yet by the Army. As a matter of fact, we don't even know definitely the quantities by types of the tires that will be released. After we get this information it will still take time for the tires to reach retail outlets.

Production of passenger tires has fallen below what was planned. Quotas to Boards have been made on the basis of a scheduled production of 2 1/2 million tires per month. Last month actual production fell almost 400 thousand short of this 2 1/2 million goal.

Community Service Panels should use every media at their command to get the true picture about tires before the people of their county. Use the information given above in news stories, and in talks before business groups and men's and women's clubs.

Bob Isham is sending additional information to the Tire Rationing Clerks, Community Service Clerks and Tire Rationing Clerks should work together on a campaign of information for the whole county.

Fight Against Disease Job of Each Locality

Austin.—Tremendous advances will have been made in improving public health when each Texas community learns to recognize reservoirs of disease, methods of infection, and how to control disease, Jack Lenhart, University of Texas sanitary engineer, said here.

"Man himself, animals and arachnida (chiefly ticks) are the reservoirs of disease," Professor Lenhart, special instructor in civil engineering, said. "Paths of infection include contaminated food, polluted water, and fomites (objects such as pencils, doorknobs, toys). Typhoid and dysentery are the main diseases carried, and eternal vigilance is necessary to prevent their outbreak in fatal epidemics."

"Universal applications of artificial immunity would wipe out diseases such as smallpox and diphtheria, and many others comparatively harmless," Mr. Lenhart said. "Widespread education in elementary sanitation would prevent most of the ill health and deaths due to disease organisms."

AMERICAN HEROES

by WOODY COWAN

SEEING his two squads of infantry pinned down by enemy machine-gun fire, Lt. Baryl R. Newman, Fargo, N. D., boldly advanced, wounding two with his Tommy gun and chasing two others into a house. When the latter two attempted to retake a gun, he killed them. Then he kicked in the door of the house and forced eleven armed enemy gunners to surrender. He was awarded the Medal of Honor. Victory Bond investments can support men in all services who made this drive for final victory.

Food of Nation Has New Job To "Write Peace"

NEW YORK.—Claude R. Wickard, Administrator of the Rural Electrification Administration, has pledged the support of REA-financed electric cooperatives in the nationwide campaign to obtain community-canned food for overseas relief.

In a statement issued today at national headquarters of the Community Canning Program for War Relief, Mr. Wickard said: "I endorse heartily the drive for community canning for the relief of peoples in the liberated areas of Europe. REA-financed cooperatives will, I am sure, add their support as leading community groups and will make their electric resources available wherever projects."

As former Secretary of the Department of Agriculture, and first War Food Administrator, Mr. Wickard predicted, "Food will win the war and write the peace." Don A. West, Executive Director of the Community Canning Program for War Relief, said, "Now we know that food can help keep the peace won."

Mr. West pointed out that the possible to give the citizens of canning program would be completed in twelve states this month, but will continue throughout October in 27 states, throughout November in six states, and will be extended much later in New Mexico, Arizona, and Florida. Crops in Florida will be harvested and canned from October till April.

Vegetables, juices and unsugared fruit are being canned in tin for the program at supervised school and community custom canneries, and in church social rooms and home economics kitchens. UNRRA will ship the donations over seas for free distribution without any discrimination.

Texan Would Reveal Secret of Atomic Bomb

Austin.—Should the United Nations be permitted to know the secret of the atomic bomb?

Yes, says Dr. George W. Watt, University of Texas associate professor of chemistry who has spent two years in work related to the bomb.

"If the United Nations organization is going to be one capable of preserving peace, complete trust must be shown by all Allied Nations," Dr. Watt stated, "and it would certainly be a gesture in the right direction if we make this information available."

"It will be only a few years until the scientists of the other nations develop the bomb for themselves anyway," he continued, "therefore the refusal to disclose its composition now is only a short range gain."

The fact that the discovery has been made means that it will be made again, Dr. Watt pointed out. And scientists will reach the same results in other nations in the future even if we do not give them the secret now.

WHEN YOU GET HOME

By Cpl. Ed Foley, Ord.
When the buglers sound their final call and bombs explode no more

And we return to what we did before we went to war,
The sudden shift of status on the ladder success

Will place some worthy gentlemen in a hell of a mese.

Just to think of some poor captain minus all his bars,
Standing behind some counter, selling peanuts and cigars;

And think of all the majors, with their gold leaves left behind,
And the uniform they're wearing is the Western Union kind.

Shed a tear for some poor colonel, if he doesn't kill himself;
Jerkling sodas isn't easy when your eagles are on the shelf.

'Tis a bitter pill to swallow, 'tis a matter of despair,
Being messenger and clerks again, a mighty cross to bear.

So be kind to working people that you meet where'er you wander
For the guy who's washing dishes may have been your old commander.—From the Stars and Stripes.

AMERICAN BEAUTIES line up at Atlantic City, N. J., to vie for the honor of becoming Miss America of 1945, which incidentally, was won by Bess Myerson, Miss New York City (see arrow).

Light Given On Sugar Situation

COLLEGE STATION.—The U. S. Department of Agriculture holds up the mirror to the world sugar situation and predicts that production for 1946 probably will be somewhat larger than this year. Notwithstanding, this will be insufficient to meet unrationed demands at current prices for sugar.

In a statement received by the A. and M. College Extension Service, the U. S. Department of Agriculture forecasts that Cuban production may be slightly larger next year since the drought which reduced the 1944-45 yields appears to be broken. The outlook in Europe suggests a gradual increase in sugar beet production in the years ahead, and a similar increase normally would be expected in the Philippines. Recovery in that area, however, may be slower because of the length of time necessary to reestablish cane fields and harvest a crop. World sugar supplies in 1945 are the smallest since the war commenced.

Accordingly, supplies available to the United States this year will be about 20 percent smaller than the quantity used in 1944, the statement says.

Present household rations to individual consumers in the U. S., not including sugar for home canning, are 62.5 per cent of the level permitted in 1944. Householders will receive only about one-third as much as in prewar years, or one-half if sugar for home canning is included. Allowances of sugar for home canning in 1945 averages about 60 per cent of those in 1944. The cuts went right down the line because rations for institutional users range from 70 to 75 per cent of those for 1944.

Except for reserves for local consumption and the needs of other Latin-American countries, the United States has bought the 1945 Cuban sugar crop, the statement says. But by previous agreement, substantial part of the total will go to Canada, Great Britain and the liberated areas which imported sugar from Cuba in prewar years.

Odessa Lawyer Author of Novel

Paul Moss, Odessa, Texas lawyer and ranchman, is author of a new novel, "The Rock Was Free," just off the press of Dorrance and Co. of Philadelphia, Penn.

"The Rock Was Free" is the warm, human story of Peter Pickens, a sturdy, honest Potrock mountain lad, who knew nothing about a world different from his, and only wanted to cultivate his land and be left alone.

The old Pickens place was far back up under the rim, in the Pot-rock mountain. Peter's grandfather had been one of the pioneers who had traveled to the southwestern part of the United States to settle on a government grant of land. Peter was the last of his family.

PAUL MOSS, AUTHOR

But Sewell, the timber grabber with the odd shoulders, invades the mountain retreat to build a dam across the Hiawsee, and gets a state grant for Peter's land. Then the trouble starts.

Peter's efforts to till the soil, save the family homestead from the timber grabber, acquire an education and win the love of the missionary's daughter is related by the author in a rapid-fire interesting pace that never fails to hold the reader's attention.

Reminiscent of Jesse Stuart' tales of the mountain folks, but with a distinct individuality, Moss, in "The Rock Was Free," gives an authentic flavor of the dialect and customs of the hills.

From the music of "skip-to-me-Lou" and the "Twist-ti-fi-cation," a modified form of the square dance, to Peter's final showdown with Sewell, "The Rock Was Free" is an epic of American folk life.

Bound in vivid blue covers with an attractively designed dust cover, the volume should be welcomed to any collection.

This is Moss' second effort in the book publishing field, having written "Shadow of the Potrock" some years earlier.

Leland Hannah was a business visitor in Dallas on Thursday and Friday of last week.
