Munday Fire Dept. Held Annual Banquet Wednesday Evening

On Wednesday evening of last week the Munday Fire Department held their annual banquet on the lawn of the city hall, where tables and chairs were arranged for the occasion. There were about 50 or 60 present, including members of the department and their families and some of the city officials, including Mayor C. L. Mayes, Alderman H. F. Barnes and City Secretary D. T. Mauldin, all of whom made a brief talk to the members of the department. Good talks were also made by Jack Whitaker, who demonstrated the prone pressure method of restoring life after electrical shock or drowning, and by Chief Tom Rigby. Several of the ladies present also made talks and the boys felt at the close of the evening's program that their efforts were really appreciated by the citizens of Munday.

E. J. Robers Buys Location For Modern Ice Factory Here

E. J. Robers of Fort Worth was here Tuesday looking over the situation with reference to the establishing of an ice factory in Munday, and while here closed a deal for lots on the north side of the square opposite the north end of the Musser Lumber Company property.

Mr. Roberts also contracted for a well to go down on the property and stated that machinery would be ordered shipped within the next few days for the plant.

Mr. Roberts stated that he entertained no fears that good commercial ice could be manufactured from the water here, as he had studied the analysis and was so thoroughly convinced that he did not hesitate to make a deal for lots.

REVIVAL MEETING

The revival meeting will start at Hefner on Friday night, August 17th. Let us work and pray that this will be a great meeting.

We trust that the entire community is interested, as a campaign for the saving of souls is the greatest campaign of any community.

KNOX COUNTIANS LEARN MA'S NOT GOVERNOR NOW

Austin, Texas, August 3.—A Knox county family of automobile tourists, visited the state capitol Thursday, asked to see the electric chair and wanted to know whether Mrs. Miram A. Ferguson was still governor.

The above item appeared in the daily papers of the state recently, and since our attention has been called to it a number of times we have made a close check of the Mundayites who might have been in that section of the state, and after applying the process of elimination, we find that T. G. Bengt was somewhere in that section at the time.

State President of Rebeckah Assembly to Meet With Order Here

Mrs. Annie Savage of Dallas, president of the Rebeckah assembly of Texas, is expected to meet with the local Rebeckah lodge at their hall in a called meeting on Saturday evening, August 11th at eight o'clock.

In addition to local members it is expected that a number of members of the order from Seymour and Vera will be present, and all members of the local lodge are urged to be present.

COPELAND-BOLT

The many friends of Mr. T. A. Bolt were somewhat surprised on last Saturday to learn that he had become a benedict, having taken unto himself a bride in the person of Mrs. W. H. Copeland, the ceremony having been performed by Judge Oliver W. Lee at Benjamin.

The bride has been here for only a few months, having come from Lamar county for an extended visit with her sister, Mrs. J. P. Carnehan of this city.

Mr. Bolt is one of the pioneer citizens of Munday, having located here many years ago, and is known as one of our best citizens, and we join their many friends in wishing for them a long and happy married life.

Miss Frankie Smith of Fort Worth has accepted a position with the Baker-Campbell Company as milliner, and has arrived in the city and taken up her work.

Roger B. Weems Dies In Europe; Former Teacher At Stamford

Mrs. J. R. Smith handed us the following clipping, taken from the Log Cabin Democrat, published at Conway, Arkansas, believing that it might be of interest to a number of local citizens, since the subject of the article was formerly a teacher in the old Stamford College, and was known to a number of our older citizens. He was a childhood friend of Mrs. Smith and she plans to go to Conway to attend the funeral services within the next few days.

Roger Burch Weems, aged 38, succumbed to an attack of spinal meningitis Sunday somewhere in Europe, according to a letter received here today by Howard C. Johnson from Mrs. Weem's sister, Mrs. Eloise Baker of Paris, Ark. She wrote she received the cablegram from an American consul, but did not mention the place from which it was sent. Mr. Weems had been spending the summer in Europe conducting his fifth annual tour of the continent and his itinerary is not known here.

Mr. Weems was born in Conway June 7, 1890, the son of the late Rev. and Mrs. D. J. Weems. He was educated at Hendrix College, from which he graduated in 1909, and at Columbia University, where he received his master of arts degree.

Following his graduation, Mr. Weems began teaching and spent several years in high schools before going to the State Teachers College at Cape Girardeau, Mo., during the war. In 1920 he assumed the chair of modern languages at Woodbury College, Va., where he since has remained with the exception of three years, one spent in Europe studying, one teaching in the Little Rock high school and one teaching at the State Teachers College here.

He started his European travel tours in 1920 and had escorted many college students over European countries. He was an ardent student of French, German and Spanish and was the author of a Spanish reader, which has been adopted by many colleges and universities of the country.

Mrs. Baker wrote Mr. Johnson that she wired that Mr. Weem's body be sent to Conway for burial, and will probably reach here in two or three weeks, it was said.

Mr. Weems was unmarried. Besides his sister, Mr. Weems is survived by a brother, Rev. Clarence B. Weems of Songdo, Korea, a foreign missionary.

Little Dorothy Nell Garrett of Abilene is here spending the week in the home of her aunt, Mrs. W. H. Chapman.

WASH RAYBURN THANKS VOTERS FOR SUPPORT

I am indeed grateful to the voters of Munday and adjoining country for their loyal support in my race for Public Weigher, and take this method of soliciting their good will and support in the second primary.

On account of the short time between now and run-off primary it will likely be impossible to see all the voters and personally solicit their support in the final contest, and I am using the Munday Times to tell them of my appreciation, and at the same time ask for their favorable consideration in the August primary. If you voted for me in the first primary I thank you and trust that your good will may be the means of other voting for me in the second election.

If you voted for any of the other candidates whose names were eliminated in the first primary I earnestly hope you can see your way clear to give me your support in the August primary, it being my contention that the Public Weigher's office should be administered by a farmer.

Again thanking you and assuring you of my sincere appreciation of any favors you may be able to show, I am,

Sincerely,
WASH RAYBURN.

A. J. Bunts Favors Throwing Off Yoke As Did Forefathers

The basic reason why the American Colonies rebelled against England was that she insisted on making the Thirteen Colonies feeders and supporters of the home country and pay her tribute through long profits. The Colonies fought this principle and contended that they should be permitted to manufacture at home all that could be manufactured economically and contended that they should not be forced to pay England a big profit, thereby keeping the Colonies poor and weak and making England rich and strong.

This same principle is involved in the situation that faces the citizens of West Texas today, and the people of this day are far more submissive to the gross injustices imposed upon them by giant corporations than were the citizens of Colonial days.

I refer especially to the gasoline business. We are today being forced to pay a long profit to the big refineries and gigantic corporations have sprung up during recent years, who, through the unscrupulous use of their dirty dollars have brought reproach upon our government, and who by the same token are striving to control all branches of government having regulatory powers over their business.

George Washington and other Colonial heroes told England that they would fight before they would submit to the long profits demanded of them. The people of West Texas have humbly submitted to the long profits that have been demanded of them by the big refiners of oil.

Personally I believe that the time is here when the people should come together and remedy this unjust situation, and we believe that the citizens of Knox and Haskell counties now have before them a solution to this problem that will prove of untold value to the citizens who still have sufficient faith in co-operation and who do not shrink from their obligations in meeting face to face the problems of the day and solving them to the betterment of themselves and their fellowmen. This plan is almost parallel to the plan that has been worked out in bringing from a dream to a reality the Farmers Union Gin situation here, and with the same co-operation can be worked out where it will serve the farmers and others to even a greater degree than has the Farmers Union plan.

The power gained through co-operation is the greatest known force to man, and many of the greatest achievements have been accomplished through its use. When applied to business it makes the weak strong, and becomes the competitive force of the mighty. As others are using it for their benefit and advantage, why not you and I? It is impossible to stand alone against the combined forces of co-operation. That has been proven in every instance from the bundle of sticks to the World War. And, since co-operation is the deadliest foe to selfish interests, those who have selfish interest sto serve never fail to discourage a move in the direction of co-operative helpfulness.

In line with our ideas of the advantages that accrue from co-operation to the citizenship as a whole, I have, after much investigation and thought, heartily approved the plan of building a small refinery at some point in either Knox or Haskell county to enable gasoline users in these counties who believe in the spirit of co-operation to save a substantial sum on their gasoline bill each year. This plan has been presented by Messrs Corah and Lightfoot, and it, in brief, is as follows:

First. Messrs Corah and Lightfoot propose to furnish 40 per cent of the capital stock to build a small refinery in our territory, placing 60 per cent of the $25,000 capital stock among the citizens at $10.00 par.

Second. The management of the corporation shall be in the hands of seven directors. Five are to be elected by the 60 per cent stockholders and two by

Brother L. E. Loveless Dies at Waco; Another Brother Critically Ill

L. E. Loveless and family returned Monday from Christoval, Texas, where they had been at the bedside of his brother, J. C. Loveless for a week, and reports that he is still in a critical condition and little hope is entertained for his recovery. He is suffering from the deadly effects of gas used by the German armies during the World War.

While at the bedside of the stricken brother at Christoval Mr. Loveless received a message advising him of the death of C. J. Loveless, another brother, whose home was at Dawson, Texas, and who died in a Waco hospital following an operation for appendicitis. The deceased brother was engaged in the oil business at Dawson for many years and was one of the most highly respected citizens of that section and his untimely death came as a great shock to Mr. Loveless and other members of the family. Upon receipt of the message announcing the death of the brother at Waco Mr. Loveless left the bedside of his sick brother at Christoval to go to Waco, but upon reaching San Angelo he was informed that the Christoval brother could not live but a few hours and he rushed back to be with him, however he began to show some improvement and is still lingering on the brink of death.

The deceased brother visited Mr. Loveless here some weeks ago while the Druggists Association was in session at Abilene and many of our citizens formed his acquaintance on his brief visit here and were greatly shocked to hear of his death, and all the friends of Mr. Loveless will deeply regret to learn of the great sorrow that has come to him.

by the 40 per cent stockholders.

Third. The 40 per cent stockholders shall never own more than 40 per cent, which will always leave control of the corporation with the citizens.

Fourth. The 40 per cent stockholders shall receive no salary for their services, but only the dividends from their stock, while we are receiving the benefit of their capital and experience.

This is one of the most unusual and fairest propositions that I have ever known to be offered, and believing that it will be of untold benefit to the people, I am giving it my endorsement and support.

Proposed Constitutional Amendment—Authorizing Legislature To Exempt From Taxation Parsonages, And Certain Property of Associations For Religious, Educational and Physical Development.

H. J. R. No. 20.

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION

Proposing an amendment to Section 2, Article 8 of the Constitution of the State, so as to authorize the Legislature to exempt from taxation any property owned by a church or by a strictly religious society for the exclusive use as a dwelling place for the ministry of such church or religious society, and which yields no revenue whatever to such church or religious society, and property used exclusively and reasonably necessary in conducting any association engaged in promoting the religious, educational and physical development of boys, girls, young men or young women operating under a State or National organization of like character; providing for an election upon such proposed Constitutional Amendment, and making an appropriation therefor.

Be it resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. That Section 2, Article 8 of the Constitution be so changed as to read hereafter as follows:

All occupation taxes shall be equal and uniform upon the same class of subjects within the limits of the authority levying the tax; but the legislature may, by general law, exempt from taxation public property used for public purposes; actual places of religious worship, also any property owned by a church or by a strictly religious society for the exclusive use as a dwelling place for the ministry of such church or religious society, and which yields no revenue whatever to such church or religious society; provided that such exemption shall not extend to more property than is reasonably necessary for a dwelling place and in no event more than one acre of land; places of burial not held for private or corporate profit; all buildings used exclusively and owned by persons or associations of persons for school purposes and the necessary furniture of all schools and property used exclusively and reasonably necessary in conducting any association engaged in promoting the religious, educational and physical development of boys, girls, young men or young women operating under a State or National organization of like character; also the endowment funds of such institutions of learning and religion, not used with a view of profit; and when the same are invested in bonds or mortgages, or in land or other property, which has been and shall hereafter be bought in by such institutions under foreclosure sales made to satisfy or protect such bonds or mortgages, that such exemption of such land and property shall continue only for two years after the purchase of the same at such sale by such institutions and no longer, and institutions of purely public charity; and all laws exempting property from taxation other than the property above mentioned shall be null and void.

Section 2. The foregoing Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to the qualified electors of the State at an election to be held throughout the State on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1928, at which election all voters favoring said proposed amendment shall write or have printed on their ballots the words "For the Amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas, exempting from taxes property owned by churches or strictly religious societies for the exclusive use as dwellings for the ministry;" and all those opposed shall write or have printed on their ballots the words "Against the Amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas, exempting from taxes property owned by churches or strictly religious societies for the exclusive use as dwellings for the ministry."

Section 3. The Governor of the State is hereby directed to issue the necessary proclamation for said election and have same published as required by the Constitution and existing laws of the State.

Section 4. The sum of Two Thousand Dollars ($2,000.00) or as much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of any funds in the Treasury of the State not otherwise appropriated to pay the expenses of said publication and election.

HINTS FOR THE HOME

Are you finding it difficult to keep the bed looking as immaculately dressed as though it had "just stepped out of a band box?"

Then have a look at the new tinted damask spreads and their cool smoothness will certainly tempt you to try them as a solution for the problem.

The damask surface is as satiny as one's best table cloth, and—like tinted table linen—stands a great deal of handling before it shows signs of soiling. And the spread may be popped into a bowl of suds and laundered quickly, with no loss of its original beauty or texture. The spreads come in maize, green, mauve, raspberry, amber—all shades that tone in with modern decorative schemes and provide an interesting color note for the room.

That's the way some have described our new bread.

It's just the same as the bread we've been making all the time, but is worked differently on a new machine which we have just installed. Nothing but the highest grade of flour and purest of ingredients go into bread made here, and it is fine for toast and sandwiches. Good for the kiddies.

THE TIGER TRAIL

by Edison Marshall Illustrations by PAUL FREHM

"I'll tell you Ahmad," he cried. "I'll tell you all. I'm Strumburg, just as you said, and a fugitive from justice, too. And I haven't anything against Southley. Even my father couldn't have proved his claim in a test, and he's dead. Let me go, Ahmad! Don't raise your talons against me!"

The wild flow of words died away, and for an instant the form in the shadow halted. Then it moved slowly forward again.

"I'll tell you I'll go away, and never return again. We never had any real proofs, Ahmad! Let me go!"

And at that instant I felt Alexander's breath against my ear.

"You heard, didn't you, Long?" he whispered.

"Yes."

"Then the work's done."

I felt the stir as his arm reached up to an electric switch on the wall. He pressed it. Unknown to me, the wretched lighting plant had been repaired. All the great chandeliers of the library flashed on at once.

The first impression was blindness. But as my eyes became adjusted to the sudden glare, I knew at least part of the truth at last. The form of the tiger had been most real and convincing a the edge of the dim and ineffective candlelight. But it was no more terrible than the counterfeited giraffes that the clowns parade in a circus ring, when the glare from the chandeliers came down.

Before us, stripped of all delusion, Ahmad Das rested on his hands an effect on the floor. He held his body low, his legs almost straight, to give the effect of length. Over him, in a rather ingenious way, was thrown a great, tawny tiger skin. The four legs were fastened with some simple device to his ankles and wrists, and the great head, filled out with some light substance, rested on his.

I leaped and seized Alexander's shoulders.

"Good Heavens!" I yelled in his ear.

"That's only part of it. That insane hoax couldn't have broken Hayward's neck."

But Alexander wriggled out of my grasp.

"Of course it didn't break Hayward's neck," he said. "The real murderer of Hayward slipped one over on us, improvised some business that wasn't written in the play. I've got the real murderer of Hayward, dead, down in the boat."

Alexander Pierce spent most of the rest of the evening answering questions. There were more things to find out than ever I thought I could possibly learn.

First he took us down to the boat beside the water, and lifted the tarpaulin that covered the thing in the bottom. A dead animal lay therein—a creature large as the largest bound, yellow, with spots of black. It was a powerful animal, long-clawed and white-fanged, and my breath stopped at the sight of it.

"A tiger?" I demanded.

"Tiger, nothing!" Alexander answered. "You ought to be enough of a naturalist to know that a tiger has stripes. This beast has spots. He weighs two hundred pounds and a tiger twice as much. Besides, you don't find tigers in Southern Florida. It's plain to me, old Doc Long, that you don't know the history of Florida very well."

"Evidently I don't. I don't remember reading about such a creature as this."

"Please speak respectfully of him. I'd have much preferred to have left him alive, but we'll need him for proof of that wild story we have to tell the coroner's jury tomorrow afternoon. If you remember, there was a time when Southern Florida was still the home of the jaguars—the greatest of American felines."

I remembered that I had heard something about it.

"Most of them were exterminated a good many years ago."

You can still find 'em in a few remote regions in Southern Texas. I supposed myself that they were all gone here—even in such a wild part of the State as this. Long, you see, here what is probably the last of the Florida jaguars—a creature as heavy as a leopard, and one of the strongest, jawed and shouldered felines in the world.

"And since you won't rest till I tell you the rest of it, I might as well say that this big cat was the base on which Ahmad and Southley worked out their plot. They knew about this jaguar."

"When Hayward and his son bore down upon them here—after trading them all the way from England—Southley and Ahmad saw a chance to take advantage of this big, tawny creature in the swamp. I suppose you know by now what the Haywards were."

"Blackmailers, a feource," I answered.

Alexander gritted his teeth.

"You've taken plenty long to guess it, but you're right at last."

"Their real name is Strumburg. They are crooks themselves. The elder Strumburg was a Confederate in crime in Southley's own youth. I use the word guardedly. Long, and I think it is true. I haven't any doubt but that Southley's early life wouldn't bear investigation. But that doesn't matter now. It's a joy, my boy, to come to the aid of one who has come to his own aid. Southley rose above that other life."

"I think that he escaped after a particularly reckless crime. It wasn't a crime that benefited him financially, he says; but yet the hue and cry that was raised scared him from his criminal ways. A man was shot, and though there were extenuating circumstances, he certainly would have gone to prison for twenty years at least, according to the way men were sentenced in those days. First he went to India and Africa, and made his fortune. Then he came to America, as Andrew Lessort. And all the time he lived in deadly fear that the long arm of the British law would reach out for him.

"Then the elder Strumburg found his mou. He adopted the name of Robert's, and sent out inquiries for this Andrew Lessort. He offered a huge reward to be paid, of course, after we found him, and of course Lessort—or Southley as we call him now—was to pay the reward. He came here at last, with his vicious son, and the work of blackmail began. They told old Southley—in the gray twilight of his days—what to expect in case he didn't come through with their demands."

"They said they had proofs that would put him back in prison. The terror of his long years came back as never before, and he didn't buy—the strength and determination to fight it any longer. Old age was upon him. He gave way, again and again. And even today he wouldn't be free if it hadn't been for the real hero of Southley Downs—his servant Ahmad Das."

"Ahmad Das is a mystic, Long, you're a doctor, and you don't believe in prenatal influence. You say it's all bunk, yet it is true that Ahmad Das' mother was attacked by a tiger that the creature died when Ahmad Das was born—and it is true that Ahmad has the most remarkable natural, catlike grace of any man I ever saw. Of course he just pretended the rest—his propensities toward creeping around on his hands and knees. It all lent toward the effect. He's a mystic, I tell you—perhaps a believer in the theory of reincarnation of souls; and that dark, oriental mind of his conceived an idea that I don't think most Anglo-Saxons would have ever thought of. Continued next week)

NOTICE TO MEMBERS OF EASTERN STAR

All members are urged to attend a call meeting tonight (Thursday, August 9), at the Masonic hall, at which time a number of candidates will be initiated.

Harvey Busby, so not Mr. and Mrs. Tom Busby, underwent an operation for appendicitis in the county hospital at Knox City some days ago and reports first of the week were to the effect that he was not getting along well, but later reports stated that he had shown some improvements.

The Rev. Alva E. Miller, superintendent of Missions of the Fort Worth Presbytery, U. S., who resides at Handley, in company with the Rev. E. P. Smith, pastor of the Presbyterian church here, but whose home is in Fort Worth, were here first of the week. The Rev. Miller is at present engaged in a meeting at Haskell, which will continue until August 12th.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Fite and sons, Warren, Carlton and Claude, of Calhoun, Georgia, will arrive the latter part of the week for a visit in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Garland Burns and with relatives at Crowell. Mr. Fite is an uncle to Mrs. Burns.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my sincere thanks and appreciation to the voters of Knox county for the excellent vote given me in the July primaries, which enabled me to get into the August runoff. I shall try to see as many voters as possible between now and August 25th, and I respectfully ask that my candidacy be given consideration in the run-off primary, and assure you that no one will appreciate your support more than will I.

Respectfully,
THOS. R. WEST.
