

Kracker Krumb's Odd Bits Salvaged At Random

Blue Cross is returning to Knox County, and along with it, Blue Shield. Enrollment dates are July 7 to 16.

Time was we weren't at all favorable toward any type of hospital insurance. It was prejudice, perhaps, but just the same, the name of hospital insurance just rubbed a raw spot with salt.

It all came about back yonder after the depression and during the recession. A fellow came to us and wanted us to run a $25 worth of hospital insurance advertising free, for nothing, gratis.

And at that time, such a request was just about like asking us to give our innerspring mattress to a stranger, and sleeping on a pile of shucks.

The idea was that we should run the ads free, thereby rendering a service to our fellowman. The insurance firm was a non-profit outfit, and, therefore, had no funds for advertising.

And that left a sore spot with us for years. Even when Blue Cross came last year, we weren't too enthusiastic about it. But we took out the insurance and still have it in force.

We hope to keep it from here on out, because we believe it is just as important as life insurance, if not more so, to a person of moderate means.

We've known of people going to a hospital for care, and coming out with their hospital bills paid. The hospital bill would have ruined them financially, had it not been for a policy in Blue Cross.

We attended a meeting in Knox City recently at which time a group of people representing the four corners of the county invited Blue Cross to come back to Knox County.

On this second visit, Knox County people will be given an opportunity to enroll as a county group, as was the case last year, except that places employed five or more persons should come in as an employee group.

Concerning Blue Cross, Mr. West of the Dallas office said: "It is the typical American solution to a problem. You can use the hospital, go out with your bills paid, and not have a debt hanging over you."

310 families enrolled last year in Knox county; 140 had already been carrying Blue Cross, making a total of 450 families in all.

In 1946, Blue Cross paid out $1,566.03 in hospital bills for Knox county people; in 1947, $1,715.40; in 1948, $6,709.20, and a total of $3,261.15 for the first three months of this year.

"Blue Cross is priced so a fellow who is working can afford it," Mr. West explained. And paying a little bit each month, quarter, or each year is a lot better than having to dig up a hospital bill.

It is designated to help out with surgical and doctor bills, whereas Blue Cross is for the hospital bills.

Blue Shield pays up to $150 for surgical operations, and, brother, that ain't hay either!

It also provides $3.00 per day, after the seventh day, for doctor's bills on medical cases where surgery is not involved.

People go to hospitals for treatment more readily and more often than they did in years past. That's because they can get better care, and because the doctor can take care of more patients.

We used to think a fellow was mighty sick to go to a hospital. But now we consider it the best (Continued on Page Two)

Knox County Over Half Way In Sales Of Bonds

Knox County has achieved 57 percent of its quota in the Opportunity Drive for the sale of Series E Savings Bonds, W. E. Braly, county chairman, announced recently.

The drive officially opened on May 16 and sales for this county through the first week totaled $21,767, according to a sales report received from state savings bonds headquarters in Dallas. The county quota is $38,000. The report carries sales through Saturday, May 21.

The report also showed that sales for Texas were $19,460,304, or 52 percent of the state quota of $36,950,000.

Several counties reached and exceeded their quotas during the first week of the drive and numerous others showed sales of 50 percent or more of their quotas, causing Nathan Adams of Dallas, state savings bonds chairman to predict that Texas will far exceed its quota "in the most successful savings bonds campaign since the war". The drive will continue through June 30.

Counties already having reached or exceeded their quotas are Andrews, Bailey, Blanco, Cass, Coke, Dawson, Ector, Goliad, Hall, Irion, Kimble, Lampasas, Mills, Montgomery, Newton, Scurry and Stephens.

Sketch Of New Baptist Church

Above is the architect's conception of the proposed $100,000 building which will be the First Baptist Church of Munday when completed.

Workers have been tearing down the old building and making plans for the new for some two or three weeks. The new structure will be located on the same grounds.

Members of the church are holding their regular services in the Munday school auditorium while the new building is being completed.

Spray Machine Being Operated

Munday's fogging machine has been in operation for most of this week, doing a good job of fogging the town. This is being done to keep down flies and mosquitos and as an added precaution against the dread disease, polio, which has already hit some sections of Texas.

A new solution is being used this year, according to the boys who operate the machine, which gives a quick "knock down" of flies and mosquitos. This solution is said to be more readily effective than DDT in that it gives an instant kill.

By beginning this early and continuing through the summer, Munday's menace from flies and mosquitos should be kept at a minimum.

Tiner Drug Is Sold To Gurleys Of Sweetwater

Announcement was made that the Tiner Drug, which has been operated by Mrs. W. V. Tiner and Mr. and Mrs. James Dyke, has been sold to Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Gurley of Sweetwater. Mr. and Mrs. Gurley are moving to Munday, and will occupy the Tiner residence.

In announcing the change of ownership, Mrs. Tiner expressed her deep appreciation for the loyal patronage and friendships of the people of this area. She is not severing her relationships with her many friends here, she said, but plans to keep her home here. She plans a vacation before deciding on her future plans.

Mr. and Mrs. Dyke and Glenna Margaret, will probably move to Illinois, where Mr. Dyke will continue his education. He will continue to be associated with Mr. Gurley in the store, however, until some time in July.

Mr. and Mrs. Gurley are experienced in the drug business, having operated the drug store in the Bluebonnet Hotel in Sweetwater for some time. They solicit the continued patronage of the people of this area.

"Do not treat us as strangers," they said, "but continue to feel at home in our store. Help us to know you and serve you to the best of our ability."

Bible School Is Now In Progress

Good attendance is reported at the Vacation Bible School which is now in progress at the First Methodist church. Average daily attendance of teachers and students is reported around 85. Mrs. J. C. Harpham is director.

The school will close Friday, and commencement will be at the regular church hour Sunday evening. At this time students will display their handicraft and show the progress made in the school.

Blue Cross and Blue Shield enrollment dates are July 7-16.

Street Sweeper Due To Arrive On Thursday

It's been bought, folks. It's due to arrive this week—today (Thursday) in fact. It is expected to be put into operation immediately, if not sooner.

It's the street sweeper we've been fussing about. It's been bought, it's coming, it'll be used to help keep our streets cleaner. It's a small job, but we have a small town, so likely it will do the job, or they wouldn't have bought it.

It's the pick-up type, too, so that's a particular advantage. A used job it is, too, but a bargain at the price, they say. City officials closed the deal this week, and the thing is supposed to be set down in Munday on Thursday, so they said Wednesday.

Be on hand to see it. It's Munday's first mechanical street sweeper!

Mobile X-Ray Unit Coming To Knox County

The state and county health authorities are soliciting the help and cooperation of every individual 15 years of age and over in a health program for Benjamin and surrounding territory. The program is designed to fight tuberculosis. A mobile unit set up by the State Department of Health will be in the county in late July and early in August for the purpose of making chest x-rays. Every individual within the specified age group has the opportunity to have an X-ray.

State authorities emphasize that tuberculosis could be completely eradicated in ten years with proper cooperation. Every possible means of encouraging citizens of Benjamin and surrounding communities to avail themselves of this service is being offered. School buses and automobiles are asked to be on hand to transport people to and from the medical center. Pictures are made through the clothing so only a few moments of your time will be needed in the process of X-ray.

These services are rendered free of charge and every person in the county; resident and visitor is eligible. We are not, however, offering charity, but cooperating with a state and national program.

On Friday afternoon, June 3, at 2:00 p. m. a meeting was held in the Munday High School building for persons interested in the Mobile T. B. Unit. Mr. Phillip Gauss, Field Representative, explained the set-up and how it would operate. Mrs. M. D. McGaughey represented the Benjamin Home Demonstration Club at this meeting. This program has worked with much success in other counties of Texas, so we know it is a successfully established health service.

Clerks, people for a number of committees, drivers and many persons will be needed during these days to put over this program. The interest and cooperation of every individual is vital to the success of the program. kiffellar B-BMunxndn dwnf f f w

of Texas
Issued by Dr. Geo. W. Cox
M. D., State Health Officer

AUSTIN—The disabling and often fatal disease of children, rheumatic heart disease, is one of the leading causes of death among children and young adults in the age group of 10 to 25 years.

Unfortunately, there has been developed for this disease no vaccine such as have for small-pox, diphtheria and whooping cough, but by recognizing the early symptoms and obtaining a competent physician's diagnosis and treatment, some of the damaging results of rheumatic heart disease can be prevented or moderated.

The State Health Officer, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, says that "in general the early symptoms of rheumatic fever are pain and swelling in the points of the knees, ankles, elbows or wrists. The pain is felt usually in one of these joints and spreads frequently to the others. Often a doctor's examination of a child who becomes irritable and cross without apparent cause, cries easily, and develops nervous habits, will disclose the presence of rheumatic disease.

Predisposing causes to this serious illness include frequent chilling, living in damp, steamy quarters, poor diet, frequent colds, and sometimes scarlet fever or other infections caused by certain streptococcus germs. All such conditions should be avoided if at all possible.

Protection for children against rheumatic heart disease, should include a thorough physical examination by a physician at least once a year; a well balanced and nourishing diet; sufficient rest and sleep, and dressing at all times in accordance with the temperature of the room or playground. Consult a physician at once if any symptom suggests that this disease may

Blue Cross makes it possible for a lot more people to have hospital care. You may not can afford a hospital bill, but Blue Cross will take care of it for you for as little as a dollar and a dime a month.

"People are going to have hospital care," we heard a good friend say recently, "even if it takes socialized medicine to do it."

Blue Cross, he pointed out, is the answer to socialized medicine.

Under Blue Cross and Blue Shield, you choose your own doctor and your own membership hospital. Your bills are paid to the full extent of your policy coverage.

Under socialized medicine, you get sick and the government takes over. Your physician is a government man who may, or may not, have a personal interest in you. Your freedom of choice just wouldn't be allowed to function.

Personally, we'll take Blue Cross in preference to socialized medicine. We imagine a lot of be present or in the process of developing.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Not Only In Favor Of Prolonging Prosperity, He Wants To Make It Everlasting

Editor's Note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek is misinterpreting the newspapers again, his letter this week reveals.

Dear editor: I was out here the other afternoon restin in the shade and watching the grass grow figurin a man ought to give some time to his farm, has not got any business runnin off to town every day in the week and neglectin his own work, and a copy of the Abilene paper drifted down to where I was sittin and since you can burn out concentratin on the same job too long and since I already knew anyway he grass was gonna keep growin whether I looked at it or not I picked up the paper and the first thing that caught my eye was an article about a group of U. S. Senators draftin a bill to prolong prosperity.

Now, it ain't my job to criticize a United States Senator, but if them birds has a bill that'll prolong prosperity, why don't they go back and think a little harder and bring out one that'll not only prolong prosperity but make it everlasting? Thunder, I never did care for half-way measures.

While I don't know what sort of bill it would take to prolong prosperity, as up to now most experts haven't been able to see it coming or guess when it was leavin, although nearly anybody has been able to tell when it was gone, but if we got any Senators smart enough to propong prosperity by passing a bill, I'm in favor of passing four or five bills in he same direction and making it permanent.

According to these Senators, what they're workin on is a bill to "provide advance safeguards against any sudden country-wide slump" and if they can do it they're entitled to a monument but it has been my observation that most depressions don't seem to be aware we even got a United States Senator, and I've seen em come on us in the face of Senatorial advice, don't make no different how long winded it was. You just can't fillbuster against a depression. The thing just doesn't have any Senatorial courtesy, ain't familiar with House rules, and a senator today standing out in the front fighting a depression head on may be swingin to its tail the next day, hoping he won't lose his job and go broke himself.

Understand, I don't think we are headed for a depression, but I would appreciate them Senators gain the whole hog and not just be fiddlin around with prolonging prosperity. Can't think of no more popular issue than making it permanent.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Speeded Up Cultivation With Rotary Hoe

The rotary hoe is doing a speed-up job of cotton cultivation, especially in West Texas and the Plains area.

Fred C. Elliott, extension cotton specialist of Texas A. & M. College, says it works best on the young cotton seedlings in getting rid of the grass and weeds early, the cheapest time to do it.

The main advantage to the rotary hoe is that it speeds up cultivation of early growing cotton. Later on, as the cotton gets taller, this weeding machine doesn't work so well because the plants outgrow it. So the cotton farmer turns to other methods of hoeing.

With all the Spring rains farmers got the past months, they're growing a pretty good crop of weeds right along with their cotton. Hand hoeing costs quite a bit, but the rotary hoe cuts hoeing costs down, Elliott says. A common mistake with rotary hoe owners is not operating fast enough. Most of the time a farmer figures he's tearing the seedlings up if he goes too fast. Not so with the rotary hoe.

There are a couple of things to remember when using the rotary hoe, Elliott reminds. First don't set it any deeper than enough to break the crust of the soil. The shallow picking action of the picks pulls up the tender grass and weeds, leaving them to dry out in the wind and sun. The best time to do the job is about a week after a rain.

And second, the best operating speed for the rotary hoe is between six and eight miles per hour at least four and a half mph., running in third gear.

By keeping the bed flat, you will avoid throwing seed and grass around the cotton seedlings. It's a good idea to delay "dirting" the cotton until it gets a good start, Elliott concludes.

Liquid Garlic Extract Bottled By Cold Process; Business Is Growing

Mineral Wells can boast of the only plant in the country that makes a liquid garlic extract for medicinal purposes, by a cold process, and which retains all the elements, contained in the original garlic bulb. This is the Texas Liquid Garlic Company, located at Camp Walters, adjacent to Mineral Wells, and operated by Owain Roberts.

Mr. Roberts father, W. S. Roberts, bottled garlic in the East and sold it throughout trade channels prior to coming to Mineral Wells—and has had some ten years experience in the garlic business.

In speaking of the garlic odor, he stated that this, no doubt, has discouraged its use or prejudiced it as a food, despite the fact that many entire nations, especially the Adriatic countries, are very popular national food with them. The Bulgarians are noted as an energetic, vigorous and long-lived people.

Speaking of the odor, Mr. Roberts stated that when garlic extract is taken just before meals or when retiring, in tomato juice or in any other vegetable or fruit juice, it is pleasant to take and the odor is scarcely noticeable. He says after eating there is very little, if any, breath odor at all.

Rich in vitamins B and C and with some traces of A, it is also high in Alkaline minerals, especially potassium and calcium and some iodine, which makes it valuable food for goitre trouble.

He stated that besides being used as a flavoring for various foods, including salads, it is also valuable as an internal antiseptic, blood cleanser, natural catarrh remedy, as well as used for asthma, high blood pressure, arthritis, rheumatism, colds, nervousness, worms, indigestion, arteriosclerosis, (hardening of the arteries), and other ailments due to mineral deficiencies.

In commenting on the raw garlic manufactured here, which is being marketed through the regular drug channels throughout the country, Mr. Roberts stated:

To get its full benefit, either as a food or a medicine, in the treatment of high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries, arthritis and asthma, it should be eaten raw, or taken in liquid extract form, as heating or cooking destroys most of its value as a medicine. If eaten raw the fibrous part of the garlic bulb is hard to digest and leaves a strong odor on the breath, hence the Liquid Garlic Extract, made from the whole garlic bulb by a cold process, which retains all of the healthful properties of the raw garlic bulb and eliminates the fibrous part and thus reduces and minimizes the breath odor and still retains all of the valuable elements contained in the garlic bulb.

Garlic strongly stimulates the appetite and acid secretion of the gastric juices and so prevents flatulency of gas formation. This vegetable also promotes peristaltic action or the movement of the bowels and so tends to relieve inflammatory conditions of the intestines and also cramps. Garlic is frequently recommended for the eradication of intestinal parasites and recently has been prescribed by some doctors for cholera.

Besides this, garlic has a beneficial effect upon mucus membranes, especially in the upper air passages of the lungs, nose and throat and is, therefore, prescribed for singers and speakers. Many physicians are said to have used it with good results in cases of pulmonary consumption. Garlic has a diuretic action.

When garlic is to be used for medicinal purposes, remember this, garlic pills, garlic tablets and garlic powder have little medicinal value for the reason that they have been previously dehydrated by heating, which has destroyed the medicinal properties of the raw garlic bulb in the preparation of them and they only retain an odor of garlic, which comes from the dehydrated fibrous part which is ground into a powder to produce the pill, the tablet or the powder. Garlic capsules contain a blend oil, such as cottonseed or olive oil, to which is added a very small quantity of garlic oil, a volatile substance which quickly evaporates and leaves only the odor of the garlic oil in the bland oil. Therefore, it is necessary to eat the raw garlic or take the odor-modified liquid garlic ex-

Moffet Gives Explanation Of Recent Bills

AUSTIN—Some observers say that the most important bills of this session of the State Legislature are the Gilmer-Aikin bills to revamp the state's public school system and the $30 million appropriation for farm-to-market roads.

There are three Gilmer-Aikin bills, each with a separate phase of the public school educational problem. The first one abolishes the office of State Superintendent of Public Instruction and substitutes the office of Commissioner of Education, which is to be filled by appointment by the State Board of Education.

For more than sixty years the people have elected the State Superintendent. That will now be changed to the appointment method just mentioned. I did not vote for this bill, as I seriously question the wisdom of this particular change in our educational system.

The second Gilmer-Aikin bill establishes the requirements for various schools and sets forth the teacher-pupil load and the salary scale for teachers. The Legislature thought best to establish a salary scale that would attract well-qualified people who are charged with the responsibility of teaching our children. This probably is a sound step.

My belief is that our country was able to swing into action quickly during World War II because millions of Americans had received suitable basic educational training before the war broke out, and therefore they were able to acquire specialized training that made them very useful in war plants, essential war occupations, and the armed services. A person who received good basic training in our public schools is usually fitted to become either a useful citizen or soldier in later life. Therefore the money spent to attract good teacher talent ought to be a good investment. However, I strenuously objected to the transportation section of the second Gilmer-Aikin bill, because I sincerely believe it to be unfair to the sparsely populated areas of Western Texas. It is very hard to convince members from the cities and thickly populated counties of Central and East Texas that transportation is a major item in West Texas counties and that the state should take note of this fact if it desires to equal educational opportunities for all the children, including those in West Texas. The third Gilmer-Aikin bill provides the state's part of the money to get the new system underway. It will take at least $30 million annually more than the state has heretofore provided to put this new program to work. The second important item of this session is the appropriation for $30 million with which to build farm-to-market roads in Texas for the next two years. This is by far the largest appropriation ever made by the state for such a purpose. However, this rate is so large that even $30 million, when spread over the 254 counties in Texas, will build only about twelve to fifteen miles per county, including the necessary bridges, culverts, etc. This bill, however, provides for a continuing appropriation each two years and if carried out as intended will ultimately mean a considerable amount of farm-to-market road mileage. The construction of roads is perhaps the best way to spend money in order to get the greatest good for the greatest number.

Yours sincerely,
George Moffett.

FARM NEWS

from the County Agricultural Conservation Committee

Trigg Outlines Price Support Proposals

Recognition that "stability" of farm income is in the national interest is the basis of the whole price support program which Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan has recommended to Congress, Ralph H. Trigg, administrator of the production and marketing administration, recently told a state conference of county farmer-committeemen at Richmond, Va.

The basic principles and authorities, Mr. Trigg said, are contained in present legislation, including the Agricultural Act of 1948. He listed the following as the basic elements of the Secretary's proposal:

1. Establish a farm income or purchasing power base below which it is not in the national interest to permit farm buying power to fall. Then use this as a more realistic starting point for figuring individual price supports than the old parity formula which goes back 40 years for its base.

2. Provide for extension of definite price supports to commodities not previously covered well enough—milk, meat, and other perishables which make up 75 per cent of farm income, and which are most important on the consumer's table.

3. In supporting these perishable commodities, use production payments instead of buying up surpluses to support the market. This would permit market prices to go down to the point where consumers can buy more; yet, through the production payments, farmers would get fair returns.

4. There would be more definite recognition of the relationship between price support, conservation, and orderly marketing programs. Farmers who get the benefits of price supports would also accept the responsibilities which tie all parts of a farm program together. Producers of storable commodities would notice very little change under the secretary's proposal, the administrator said. Loan and other price support operations would continue as now in effect.

Chairman Vance Explains Allotments and Quotas
News stories about "acreage allotments" and "marketing quotas" in connection with rapidly increasing stocks of farm commodities have prompted Mr. Vance, chairman of the State Production and Marketing Committee, to try to clear up some apparent confusion in the use of the terms.

"In view of the possibility that these farm program provisions may once more be called on to prevent disrupted market conditions," Mr. Vance said, "farmers and others ought to be sure that they understand what is meant by allotments and quotas."

"During the war, these parts of the national farm program were not used, so this confusion in the use of the two terms is not surprising. There is a very definite difference in meaning, however. The two words are not interchangeable."

An "acreage allotment," Mr. Vance explains, means that the acreage which is required to grow a crop of the size needed. A national allotment is set by the Secretary of Agriculture and then broken down by states, counties and farms. A farmer may comply or not with his farm allotment, but if he does not he is not entitled to receive government price supports on his crop.

A "marketing quota" for a basic crop, on the other hand, represents that supply necessary to meet all market demands for that crop and insure a safe carryover. The national quota is divided among states, counties and farms by means of acreage allotments. A farm's quota—usually the entire production from that farm's acreage allotment—represents that farm's share of the national market for the particular crop. Marketings in excess of the farm quota are subject to penalty.

When supplies of a commodity reach a certain level, fixed by law, marketing quotas must be proclaimed by the secretary of agriculture, but they must be approved by two-thirds of the farmers voting in a referendum before they may be put into operation. Once quotas are approved, however, they apply to all growers of that crop.

In other words, here are the main differences between "allotments" and "quotas":

Acreage allotments for basic crops may be used each year as a means of producing a crop of the size needed. In years when supplies of a crop are excessive, quotas may be called into operation, when approved by growers, as a means of marketing that crop in an orderly manner.

Acreage allotments can be used without quotas. Marketing quotas require the use of acreage allotments, for the allotments are a means of deciding the market among growers.

Farmers vote on whether or not they want to use quotas in marketing their crop, and two-thirds of the farmers voting must approve quotas before they may be put into operation. No vote is held on whether to use acreage allotments.

If a farmer does not comply with his acreage allotment, he becomes ineligible to receive price supports on his crop, but this is his only loss. If marketing quotas are in effect and a farmer markets more than his quota, he must pay a penalty on his excess marketings.

Back in the days of ancient Athens, there was a brilliant teacher of law and, in his class, was a brilliant pupil. But the young man said, "I am no longer able to pay you and will have to drop out."

Washington News Letter

By Congressman Ed Gossett

WASHINGTON—The recent Supreme Court decision in the Terminello case and the recent untimely death of James Forrestal have brought into sharp focus the whole controversial question of freedom of speech. Terminello was convicted under a Chicago ordinance for creating a disturbance by an allegedly vicious and rabble-rousing speech. The Supreme Court reversed the Illinois Courts and acquitted Mr. Terminello and held that he had a right to say what he wished, even though his speech provoked anger, invited public dispute, and created unrest. A number of Justices dissented from this view. It is generally conceded in Washington that Mr. Forrestal's death was largely caused by vicious and unfair attacks upon him, principally by radio commentators. Mr. Eary Goodwin, an old and reputable newspaper man of Washington and a radio commentator, said "One reason why James Forrestal ended his life was the pounding of vast cruelty inflicted on him by editors and commentators who had an axe to grind or a prout . . . Also a flood of abusive letters reached him because of his stand on Middle East Oil . . ."

Incidentally, Mr. Forrestal was the only member of the President's cabinet who sought to keep the Administration from rushing to the defense of Israel and from precipitately recognizing the sovereignty of Israel.

A number of bills have been introduced in Congress to limit writers, commentators, newspapers and radios, in their supported attacks upon individuals and organizations. This whole question of censorship, of freedom of speech and expression, is coming in for serious and controversial debate. Public officials, in particular, have been considered open targets for abuse. Often great injury is done to the public service through unfair and libelous attacks on such officials. However, democracy itself must rest upon freedom of thought and expression. Censorship itself often abuses the rights of individuals in restraining freedom of expression. More than 200 years ago, the famous French philosopher, Voltaire, said to another famous Frenchman, Rousseau, "I wholly disagree with what you have to say, but will defend to the death your right to say it." Granting the evils of a free press and a free radio, such evils and abuses are not as great as would be those of irresponsible censorship, or of severe restraints upon freedom of expression. Indignant as we may become because of unfair attacks upon people and issues, most of us will still agree with Mr. Voltaire.

The President on yesterday approved a bill passed by the House and Senate which seeks through the Commodity Credit Corporation, to supply additional grain storage. A number of us have been frantically seeking in conference with CCC officials have been frantically seeking more storage for grain now being harvested in our section of Texas. Plans are under way to use government warehouses on abandoned army posts—also to use hundreds of ships idle and anchored in the harbors of the country. There are several hundred such ships in Texas ports that it is hoped may be used. Unless adequate storage is found Texas farmers will lose millions of dollars in the price obtained for wheat now being harvested. This year's wheat crop is expected to break all records. One of Congressman friends from Kansas reports that his State alone will produce more than 200 million bushels.

A few days ago, I participated in an NBC television debate in New York City. Senator Estes Kefauver, of Tennessee, and myself were on the affirmative, while Professor Wechsler of Columbia University Law School and Mr. Basil Brewer, Editor of the Standard Times of New Bedford, Massachusetts, were on the negative. The question was "Should the Gossett-Lodge Amendment Abolishing the Electoral College Be Adopted?" The debate was presided over by a Judge of the New York Supreme Court. Our opponents admitted the evils of the present system but expressed fears that is the Electoral College was abolished the South would have too much voice in national politics.

A good deal of comment is heard around Washington concerning Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., and his recent election to Congress. Mr. Roosevelt was elected on the Liberal-Progressive ticket, defeating candidates who ran on the Democratic ticket and the Republican ticket. A good many members of Congress have been amused by the fact that Mr. Roosevelt took off for a visit to Palestine immediately after his election and has not yet reported in Washington to be sworn in as a Congressman. Some gossip has been occasioned by the report that his mother said he would some day be President of the United States. That, of course, is a possibility pleasing or otherwise, depending on one's point of view.

49 PONTIAC

A Product of General Motors

Two of America's Most Popular Motor Cars

Pictured above are typical examples of the two smart and separate lines of cars which bear the current imprint of Pontiac goodness—the Streamliner and the Chieftain DeLuxe Sedan Coupes.

Each is in such demand that, on its own, it ranks among America's most popular cars today. That two cars of such decidedly different appearance should each enjoy such wide acceptance is easy to explain.

THEY'RE BOTH PONTIACS!

While each has its own individualized smartness, both offer all the great basic Pontiac virtues. Both are conspicuously beautiful. Both carry the well-known promise of Pontiac quality—long life, dependability, and fine performance. Both afford the smooth, enjoyable performance of Pontiac's two great engines—the power-packed straight eight or its equally famous six-cylinder companion.

Finally, both represent unusual values—a very fine product at a very low price. Either one you choose will make you mighty happy.

T. B. Survey Service Coming To Knox County

On June 3rd Mr. Gauss of the Texas State Health Department was in Munday in the interest of the tuberculosis survey for Knox county. The State Health Department has been invited by the County Medical Society to make such a survey, and it is to be sponsored by the Knox County Home Demonstration Club with Mrs. Almanrodeas as County Chairman.

Mr. Gauss states that the primary purpose of the survey in this county, and all of the nation, is to try to stamp out tuberculosis in America within the next ten years. He states that if all adults over age 15 were to have an X-ray of their chest every year, and all those found to have tuberculosis would take proper treatment, that in ten years tuberculosis would become an unknown disease in this country. Before this goal could be reached, however, it is necessary for all adults to be X-rayed at frequent intervals not to exceed one year. It is the plan of the County Medical Society and the Home Demonstration Club to perpetuate the making of X-rays every year in their community.

Mr. Gauss says that their mobile X-ray units are capable of taking fifteen hundred chests a day. The unit will be operated in Munday for four days and in Knox City for three days, the last week in July. The films will be made free, and the results of the examination will be forwarded to the family doctor of all patients showing any type of disease in the chest. Those whose chest show no disease will be notified directly by post card. It usually requires three to four
