FARM NOTES

By C. L. Wilson, County Agent
TURKEY POOL GOES OVER HIGH AT GOREE

Turkey raising in Knox county has been coming to the front for a number of years now, and the turkey pool put over at Goree last week is one of the things that will help the turkey raisers more than any other one thing. The pooling system has been used in Baylor county for the past four years and the farmers of that county have become thoroughly sold on this plan of marketing their turkeys. They have been successful so far in getting the top price on every car they have ever pooled.

To give some idea of what pooling really means to the farmers, some figures from the car pooled at Goree will best serve the purpose. About 15,000 pounds were included in the car shipped from Goree and on this amount of turkeys the price obtained by the pool over the average Texas market price meant approximately $200.00 more money to the farmers. This should prove to every turkey raiser that the proper way of marketing their turkeys is through the pool. For pooling to be successful, it requires the undivided support of the farmers as they must stick after they have agreed to deliver a certain number of turkeys, otherwise, our market with the northern buyers will be hurt by us sending out a light car and we will be unable to obtain bids for our pools.

The pool at Goree was put over by the untiring effort of Miss Newcome and others of Goree, assisted by C. L. Wilson, county agent of Knox county.

By all means we must not forget to mention the undivided support given us by Mr. S. A. Palmer, county agent of Baylor county, as it was through him we obtained our bids on the car for Goree.

Next year let's all raise a big crop of turkeys and ship not only one car but several. As turkey raising is more profitable than so much cotton, I hope that we will be able to place some better breeding stock in the county at present. I hope that the next car we ship we will be able to cut the number of crooked breast birds (which go as No. 2's) to a minimum.

FOR FASHIONABLE GIFTS
When making out your Christmas list, do not forget that many of the smart new costume accessories make the most acceptable gifts. I am thinking particularly of a choker, earrings and bracelet fashioned in gilt laurel leaves that I've just seen; 'twas not expensive, but very new. Then there was a modernistic bag in triangle forms of contrasting leather, an envelope purse in gay Rodier fabric; set of modernistic kerchiefs. Such charming details must please any fashion-following woman!

Munday Boy Finds $19 In Old Bookcase In Library After Being Hid Seven Years

The famous horned frog of Eastland county lived a peaceful life for thirty years and no one dreamed that such an interesting thing was happening. Students of Simmons who daily visited the library during the past seven years little suspected that locked away in a bookcase lay nineteen dollars and many intensely interesting relics, almost at arm's reach. The frog was brought back to civilization when the old courthouse was torn down to make room for a new one, and the nineteen dollars with the relics were disclosed when two students, in quest of ink, unlocked the bookcase. James Musick needed some writing ink Wednesday night. Lloyd Bowden came to his assistance by attempting to unlock a compartment to one of the bookcases which stand at the east end of the reading room of the library. When a trunk key finally did the trick, no ink was found, but many things far more interesting were discovered. In the pigeon holes were pledge cards signed by Simmons students, dated as far back as 1916; letters addressed to Miss Rosabel Breedlove, librarian of Simmons college; and other similar material. Below the pigeon holes and drawers were several books, a roll of thirteen flags of many different nations, a stack of booklets, an envelope containing pictures made during the World War, and a purse. This compartment of the bookcase was evidently the personal desk of Miss Rosabel Breedlove, librarian for several years, who died February 6, 1922. It had never been opened since she locked it last at the close of a day nearly seven years ago. The purse contained nineteen dollars, ten of it in quarters, four one dollar bills, and one five. The five and three ones were in an envelope addressed to Miss Breedlove, dated January 20, 1922, and was made returnable to Miss Julia Kelley of the McCarty Furniture company, Abilene. The purse was turned over to Dean Wiggins Thursday morning. In the purse were also a chart of the old auditorium in Abilene Hall, a hair net and pins, and two cards with a list of names on each. The chart of the auditorium, which had some notations of seats reserved on it, led Dean Wiggins to believe that the money might have been taken in at a program. The two cards also suggested another possible explanation. Opposite each name is listed an amount of money, from twenty-five cents up to two dollars and fifty cents. Some of the students had been refunded the amount named on the cards, according to the notations. Miss Breedlove might have had money which was being refunded to the students. Probably twenty names were listed

THE TOM-TOM

Santa is good to you—but do not forget to hurry back to school!

Santa Claus said: "A lot of mail! Beats all how much the children think of 'ole Santa just before Christmas. My wife said that I do not worry enough to get thin, but if I had to answer all the letters I got, I'd not only grow thin, but get nervous prostrations as well. Well, I'll have to see what these little fellows want:

Dear Santa Claus:
Will you please bring me a football for Christmas, and a gun and a hat and ball and a set of tools and four or five games and some toys that go when you wind them up and same skates. I've been awfully good and hope you'll bring them all to—
Yours truly,
CHAN HUGHES.

Dear, darling Santa:
(Whim, this must be from a girl, it is so loving.)
I am going to make the very loveliest cake and put it beside my stocking on Christmas eve, and you take it, for I am sure you must get hungry. (A woman! No doubt. For she's trying to reach a man's heart through his stomach.) Do please bring me a pretty new dress for Christmas—a blue one—for Chester, the boy who sits behind me in school says I look fine in blue. (My, my, it beats all how these girls get such grown-up ideas.) And Santa, please bring me a toilet set and a diamond bracelet, and of course, some candies, fruits and nuts, then I shall love you forever and ever.
Your loving,
FERN HOGAN.

So folks, until next year—Station J-U-N-I-O-R-S are signing off with "A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year."

SOPHOMORES

We are very glad to see the victim of a car wreck back with us today. She is bandaged up lots and looks like a real hero. The person of whom we speak is Mildred Allison.

We are sorry to learn that Clarice Morgan is leaving dear old M. H. S. and the Sophs of 1928-29. As she departs to Princeton, Texas, the Sophs dedicate his toast to her: "May you find joy and kindness in your new home as we hope you have found it here."

The Christmas spirit is evident among the students, and certainly so among the Sophs, since they know "When Santa Claus was born."

The fictionists of early times, Wrote often over much
In epic prose and shrubby rhymes
Of ogres, gnomes and such,
With writhing snakes for curls
Who trampled houses down and dined
On little boys and girls.

Pull many a child in times gone by,
Must long have lived in fear,
Least some great ogre's evil eye
Was leering somewhere near,
And many a timid look was cast
Beyond the garden gate,
Where some grim giant, fierce and vast,
Might happily lie in wait.

And then somebody came along,
Though who, I can not tell,
To tell a tale in prose or song
That broke the evil spell
And little children everywhere
Were far, far less forlorn,
For sounds of sleighbells filled the air,
And Santa Claus was born.

And so, far yonder in the past
There waved a friendly hand
And throngs of children found at last
A friend in story-land.
The heavy clouds were turned to gold,
And rainbow hues, because,
A man whose heart could not grow old,
Was Santa Claus.

FRESHMEN NEWS

The Fish called a class meeting Friday afternoon and decided to have a real old party at the Community hall at 7:30. After games were played we went to the Hamburger stand and bought refreshments. A good time was had by all.

Some of the science students composed this little poem—(sounds like a bunch of babies.)

A Very Bad Little Boy
"Wunst they was a little boy,
At wouldn't brush his teeth;
An he had ragged finger nails
All dirty underneath.
He wouldn't go to bed 'til awful late at nite
An if he felt a breath of air he'd Shut the windows tight.
An every time he had a cold, he'd sneeze and sneeze and sneeze,

An said he didn't care a rap,
How much he spread disease,
And so he kept on sneezing an Scatterin' germs about,
And those pesky germ 'll git you,
Ef you
Don't
Watch
Out!

Grammatical Pants

Miss Paxton: "Now I want you to tell me which of those words are singular and which are plural. Jack, you take the first, 'Trousers'."
Jack: (After deliberation) Singular at the top and plural lower down, mam."

Monday morning Marie Speice asked Thelma Lansford this question: "Thelma did you have a good time at the party last night?"
Thelma replied: "How could I, I had to promise mamma to behave." (Impossible, don't you think?)

Christmas is drawing near!
This little boy in the following paragraph understood it, too.

Boy Saw Limit Reached
Buddy was saying his prayers. On his knees at the bedside with folded hands in his mother's lap, he earnestly asked for an Indian suit and a bicycle (if it wasn't too much trouble) and a baseball bat. Then becoming very serious, he prayed God to make him a good boy after which request he continued: "And God bless mamma and daddy and sister and Uncle John and Aunt Alice and the dog." Here he paused for just a minute and then finished: "And that's about all one fellow can do. Amen."

CLASS 7-A

On December 14th, the 7-A class had a party at the home of Ila Wyche. We played games and at ten o'clock we had refreshments. All reported a nice time.

Mr. Palmer says he thinks we (7-A) are still ahead in the Sunday school contest.

We don't have much to say this time, but you just watch us fly next time.

PAUL'S LAST MESSAGE

II. Timothy 4:1-8, 16-18
THE BIRTH OF JESUS
Luke 2:8-20.
Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.

If the entire time is given to the Christmas Lesson the closing subject in the Life of Paul should be considered in connection with the Review next Sunday.

After about two years Paul was released from the first Roman imprisonment. It may have been because the accusers in Jerusalem, knowing what a poor case they would have in the Emperor's court, decided not to appear against the man they had already heckled for two years during his confinement in Caesarea. From I. Timothy and Titus, which were written during the free time, and from traditions that are well established it appears that Paul did considerable journeying, going as far east as Spain and westward to Asia Minor again. Then came the second arrest, probably in the region of Macedonia. On reaching Rome the prisoner was placed in the Mamertine prison. The traveler is shown a reputed cell close to the Forum. It is underground, dark and cold. Tradition says that Paul went Home as the sword of the executioner severed the head somewhere on the Ostian Bay, about three miles outside of Rome.

Heaven and earth are closely related. It was while shepherds were caring for their flocks just outside Bethlehem that the most glorious song of all time had its first rendition for their benefit. The recitative was given by an angel who bade them "Fear not" and supported the command by announcing that the night of waiting for the promised Messiah was over, for their Saviour had been born in Bethlehem. Instead of a Deliverer who would come forth in fullness of strength they would find a Babe, who was the Christ Child. Meanwhile the fields were all radiant with a Shekinah glory.

Then the heavenly choir burst forth into the "Gloria in Excelsis." They began by praising "God in the highest," which is always the right way of approaching the Throne. The Proclamation was a declaration of "peace on earth, good will to men." Though He was King of Kings He came to establish peace, first between man and the Father, and then between all mankind.

Wisely the shepherds, as by common agreement, said "Let us go to Bethlehem and see this thing that has come to pass." There they found Him, cradled in a manger Who, though Very God, had in the incarnation been born of the Virgin. The shepherds became the first evangelists and went forth to tell this good news. We too must listen to learn, come and see, and then tell the world of the Gift of God and the love of Jesus. May Christmas be merry indeed for you in Christ!

WELCOME SANTA CLAUS

Do you remember, in those days "way back when—" how you used to pencil your little notes to Santa Claus, asking him for this, that and the other thing and assuring him that you were a "real good boy" and loved your father and mother?

Santa Claus is fast approaching now. And just as you welcomed him as a kid, you should welcome him now. Remember that Santa Claus is a symbol of generosity, loving-kindness and virtue. At this time, with his advent so near, check up on yourself. Have all your actions been worthy? Kind? Intelligent? Have you progressed or fallen behind in your work and in your spiritual growth?

Correct your faults, resolve to live to the highest in you, and when Santa Claus comes you will be able to welcome him properly, knowing that you have lived in such a manner as to merit the benefits that he showers upon you.

In this way you will receive, in addition to the love and respect of your friends and neighbors, a feeling of self-respect that, once acquired, will dignify and ennoble your entire life, putting it on a higher plane and bringing it nearer to the Divine.

Welcome Santa Claus!

ASTRONOMY AND THEOLOGY

Astronomical studies and conclusions will be found to have had much to do with our theological theories.

Think of the different views of the universe and its regulation taken by people now and those that lived before Copernicus and Galileo.

When David wrote, "When I consider thy heavens, the sun, moon and stars that thou hast made, what is man that thou art mindful of him?" how much smaller a conception of both the universe and man he had from what we have now!

It must have been a humbling effect upon every thinker to reflect upon the vastness of the universe and the smallness of the speck upon which we live. All of these discoveries may but increase our awe and reverence for Him who made the universe, but they alter our notions as to how He did this.

Victor Hugo, in his "Intellectual Autobiography," wrote:

"The locomotive travels fifteen leagues an hour. The hurricane travels sixty leagues an hour. The cannon ball travels seven hundred leagues an hour. The locomotive drags, the hurricane limps, the cannon ball is a tortoise."

"Let us bestride a ray of light. This is to mount 4,000 times faster than the cannon ball, 4,200,000 times swifter than the hurricane, and 17,000,000 times swifter than the locomotive. It makes as you know, 70,000 leagues a second."

Start. Light launches you from the Earth to the Sun in eight minutes, from the Sun to Oceanus in four hours from Oceanus to Centraus in three years and eight months, from Centraus to the pole star in twenty-eight years, and from the pole star to the Milky Way in 168,000 years, and from the Milky Way to the nebula of Canes Venatici in 5,000,000 years. You have not taken a step. The apparitions of the universe will continue to loom. Beyond the visible the invisible, beyond the invisible, the unknown."

Oh, well, they may drop a plate or

"Isn't it just lovely to be seated here by the fireside listening to the radio while our children wash the dishes?" asked Mrs. Rabbit of her husband.

"Yes, indeed it is," replied Br'er Rabbit.

"The young ones are so careful—they rarely break a dish and—"

CRASH!

"That sounds as though they never broke anything," laughed Br'er Rabbit.

"Oh, well, they may drop a plate or two—what does that matter? You may give me some more for Christmas." Mrs. Rabbit looked at her husband over her glasses.

"You think that will make them more careful?" asked Br'er Rabbit, looking over "The Evening Turnip Leaf," the family paper.

"They are very careful, my dear, and I wish you would not talk so about our darlings. You know—"

CRASH!

"I hope there will be enough plates left for our breakfast," sighed the old fellow, as he got up and started for the kitchen. When he arrived there he asked: "What are you doing?"

Having a breaking-up party?" "Daddy, we are glad to see you. Come and wipe the dishes for us," said Billie Bunny.

Br'er Rabbit adjusted his glasses and took the towel off the rack. Then he said: "I think it would be a good idea to buy some plates that fit my paws. These plates are too—"

CRASH!!!

"I do wish you children would not break those dishes!" shouted Mrs. Rabbit.

"That was Daddy," Billie Bunny shouted back.

Mrs. Rabbit rushed into the kitchen and told her husband to "get out."

Br'er Rabbit went back to his paper and when he started to read there was another—

CRASH!!!

"I do wish those children wouldn't break those dishes!" shouted the old fellow.

"Ha, ha, ha! That was mother," said Billie with a laugh.

HAROLD LLOYD REVERSES ADAGE ON YOUTH AND AGE

Old age conquers youth! The public has been reminded frequently of late, when an athletic contest was staged where the parties represented youth and "old" age, that youth would win out. However, Harold Lloyd has reversed this popular opinion in his forthcoming Paramount release "Speedy," which comes to the Roxy theatre next Tuesday. One of the highlights of his new comedy is the pitched battle between a gang of New York toughs and a company of old men, in which the old battlers put the younger and tougher opponents to rout.

"When I injected this bit of action in my new comedy, it was not because I wished to ridicule our elders whom I respect, but rather, I was of the opinion that the contrast of old men, and hardy tough characters being defeated by them would give cause for good wholesome fun, and I have been told by those who have seen the preview of this scene, that it is highly amusing," said Mr. Lloyd.

"Speedy" is said to eclipse all former works by the great comedy artist Harold Lloyd. The public has long taken it for granted that with each new picture, Harold will give them something wholly new and with refreshing comedy never before seen on the screen. Although it is becoming exceedingly difficult as time goes along to dig up new funny situations not used before, yet with "Speedy" the Lloyd fans will see an entirely different and new story chuck full of comical situations never before shown.

Mr. Lloyd introduces a new screen personality with "Speedy." The young artist, who was recently chosen a Baby Wampus Star for 1928, is Ann Christy. She had little film experience previous to her working opposite the screen comedian, and a bright future is predicted by all for her. She hails from Logansport, Indiana, and was chosen for the coveted role, because Mr. Lloyd thought she best typified the modern young girl of New York.

HINTS FOR THE HOME

Why not a re-decorated room for the children's major Christmas gift—a room full of life and color and interest that they will remember as long as they live?

If there is dark, grown-up furniture now in the room, treat it to a coat of paint or lacquer in some fresh color, use inexpensive chintz draperies in nursery patterns or a map design with interesting old-world scenes. Bring in pictures that tell a story—not cast of scenes from other rooms—for pictures do so much to form character. Such subjects as "The Holiday" or "Children of the Sea," "Sir Galahad," "Fairy Tales," "With Grandma" are all favorites with the youngsters and possess true artistic worth, even in inexpensive color reproductions, which you can find at almost any art store—and you can frame them simply with passe-partout.

SALMON CROQUETTES

Scald 1 cup milk, add 8 tablespoons quick cooking tapioca, salt and cayenne to taste and cook 15 minutes. Add 1 1/2 cups mashed canned salmon, mix and cool. Shape into croquettes, roll in crumbs, eggs and crumbs and fry in deep hot fat. Garnish with sliced lemon and parsley.

QUICK NUT BREAD

One egg 1-2 cup sugar, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup chopped nuts, 2 1-2 cups prepared cake flour, 4 teaspoonfuls baking powder, 1 cup milk. Combine and sift dry ingredients and add nuts, then milk and well-beaten egg. Allow batter to stand for 20 minutes, then bake for one hour.

RIDS HAIR OF PESTS

I have a request for a remedy for this worst affliction that can come to school children and know the following to be a certain cure:

Ask any druggist to prepare a solution of fish berries and whiskey or its equivalent in diluted alcohol spirits (not wood alcohol, remember). Thoroughly saturate child's hair and head. One application will kill both insects and eggs, but repeat several times to be sure all infested spots are reached. Comb with a fine-tooth comb to remove all trace of pest. Sterilize hats and caps by immersing in gasoline.

New Remedy for Ink Stains

To remove ink spots from linen or cotton cloth, rub the spots with a cut tomato and rinse well.

Remove Adhesive Tape Painless Way
If softened with benzine adhesive tape may be easily and painlessly removed from the skin.

For Grease Spots on Leather

Grease stains on leather may be removed by applying benzine or turpentine. Wash spots afterward with a leather finish or with the well-beaten white of an egg.

Keeping Left-Over Paint
Cover the top of your paint with melted paraffin and it will keep soft indefinitely.

When Frying in Deep Fat
Add a teaspoonful of vinegar to fat when deep-frying to keep food from absorbing too much grease while cooking.

About Winter Flannels
If flannels are pressed with a slightly warm iron on the wrong side when quite dry they will not irritate the most sensitive skin.

Makes Quick Fire
When a fire is slow in coming up, sprinkle a little sugar on it and it will help to hurry the hot flames.

By Farmer Smith

"Mommer, how do you spell 'fulfill'?" asked Billie Bunnie of his mother one night.

"I do wish you would not call me 'mommer,'" replied Mrs. Rabbit.
"Sweetest Mother of mine, how do you spell 'fulfill'?"
"That's better. You spell it f-u-l-l-l."

"Thank you, mother dear."
Then there was a scratching and everything was still. Br'er Rabbit was seated before the fire dozing. Every little while his head would go down and Billie Bunnie, or Bobbie Bunnie would sneeze and wake him up again.

"Mother dear, if I had two apples and gave Daddy one, how many—"
"You are too stingy to give Daddy any," broke in Bobbie Bunnie.
"Never mind, children, you go on with your work. If I do your work, you'll never learn anything," said Mrs. Rabbit soothingly.

Down, down, down went Br'er Rabbit's head until it was against the paper.

"Cher-CHOO!" went Billie Bunnie.
"Mercy me!" exclaimed Br'er Rabbit. "What was that terrible noise?"

"It was Billie—I think she must be taking cold. I'll have to give her some aloe and castor oil if she doesn't stop sneezing," answered Mrs. Rabbit, as her husband settled himself in his chair.

All was quiet for a long time—Billie stopped sneezing, but both of the children were watching their father and waiting to wake him up. A'l was very still and the two children went over and kissed their mother good night. Then they stole softly up stairs.

By and by there was a BUMP!
"My goodness!" exclaimed Br'er Rabbit. "Is the house falling down?"
"I guess one of the children dropped a book," said Mrs. Rabbit.
Br'er Rabbit settled himself once more and was soon fast asleep.
"Mother, I want Daddy to kiss me good night," came a voice from up stairs.
"I'll come up there with a paddle if you don't let me sleep," laughed

Br'er Rabbit, as he took off his coat and started up stairs.

THE LAST OF THE DUANES

WHAT HAPPENED BEFORE

Buck Duane, quick on the draw, kills Cal Baine in self-defense and finds himself an outlaw. Flying from pursuit, he meets Luke Stevens, another outlaw, and the two become pals. Luke narrowly escapes capture and Duane is shocked to find his brother outlaw severely wounded.

Duane buries Stevens. Then he goes on to Bland's camp, where he gets into a fight with a man called Bosomer and wounds the latter. He makes a friend of an outlaw at Bland's called Euchre, who tells him of Mrs. Bland and the girl, Jennie.

Duane meets Jennie and promises to try his utmost to get her away from Bland's camp. To avert suspicion, it is planned that he pretend to care for Mrs. Bland. Euchre introduces him to the latter and he engages in conversation with her.

Buck plays the game, making Mrs. Bland think he loves her. To avert Bland's suspicion, Mrs. Bland pretends to her husband that Buck has come to visit Jennie. Bland urges Buck to become a regular member of his outlaw gang.

A quarrel later develops in which Duane kills Bland and rushes off with Jennie after a terrific struggle with Mrs. Bland. He then plans to leave Jennie in good hands until a relative or friend is located, and then go on alone on the trail. He keeps careful guard over her.

Despite his care Jennie is lost. Then for three years Buck is on the trail and legends about him spread, and finally he takes the risk of calling on Captain MacNelly of the Rangers, who he has heard wants to see him. MacNelly greets him rather warmly.

Now Go On With The Story
He took a long, earnest gaze at Duane, and his nervous spontaneity, the manner which had been bright, promising volubility, changed to one of grave thoughtfulness.

"I've lots to say—but where to begin? he mused. "Duane, you've had a hard life since you went on the dodge. I never met you before, don't know what you looked like as a boy, but I can see what—Well, even ranger life

Herol led his cigar between his lips and puffed out clouds of smoke. "Ever hear from home since you left Wellston?" he asked abruptly.

"No."

"Never a word?"

"Not one," replied Duane sadly.

"That's tough. I'm glad to be able to tell you that up to just lately your mother, sister, uncle, all your folks, I believe, were well. I've kept posted. But haven't heard lately."

Duane averted his face a moment, hesitated till the swelling left his throat, and then said:

"It's worth what I went through today to hear that."

"I can imagine how you feel about it. When I was in the war—But, let's get down to the business of this meeting."

He pulled his chair closer to Duane's. "You've had word more than once in the last two years that I wanted to see you?"

"Three times, I remember," replied Duane.

"Why didn't you hunt me up?"

"I supposed you imagined me one of those gun-fighters who couldn't take a dare and expected me to ride up to your camp and be arrested."

"That was natural, I suppose," went on MacNelly. "You didn't know me, otherwise you would have come. I've been a long time getting to you. But the nature of my job, as far as you're concerned, made me cautious. Duane, you're aware of the hard name you bear all over the Southwest?"

Once in a while I'm jarred into realizing," replied Duane.

It's the hardest, barring Murrell and Cheseldine, on the Texas border. But there's this difference. Murrell in his day was known to deserve his infamous name. Cheseldine in his day also.

"But I've found hundreds of men in Southwest Texas who're your friends, who swear they never committed a crime. The farther south I get the clearer this becomes. What I want to know is the truth.

"Have you ever done anything criminal? Tell me the truth, Duane. It won't make any difference in my plan. And when I say crime I mean what I would call crime on any reasonable Texas."

"That way my hands are clean," replied Duane.

"You never held up a man, robbed a store for grub, stole a horse when you needed him bad—never anything like that?"

Somehow I always kept out of that just when pressed the hardest."

"Duane, I'm glad!" MacNelly exclaimed, gripping Duane's hand. "Glad for your mother's sake! Glad for the into the hands of the law, you'd probably hand—at least go to jail for a long term."

"That's what kept me on the dodge all these years," replied Duane.

"Certainly," MacNelly removed his cigar.

His eyes narrowed and glittered. The muscles along his brown cheeks set hard and tense. He leaned closer to Duane, laid sinewy, pressing finger-

It was in olden times called a holy day. It is no less holy now than it was at that time. The memories that cluster about it are a sacred part of our lives. While the warmth of fellowship and goodwill which pulsates in good hearts is nothing less than divine.

Christmas is a good day and we hope that it will be to you in every way a happy and auspicious occasion.

LETTERMEN

What would you think of a policeman who cared no more for his badge than to lend it to a friend. That is a symbol of faith and authority vested by the citizens of our country, in its wearer. If an officer let it get into the hands of persons who have no right to wear it, all authority and respect behind that badge is cheapened.

Munday high school has showed her faith in you by bestowing upon you a letter, and, if you permit that medal or sweater to be worn or used by an outsider, you thereby show ingratitude and disrespect for one of your school's highest honors.

The person to whom you lend your sweater may not care for Munday high school as you do, and his actions while wearing the same may bring reproach upon your school.

Be true to your fellow students and to Munday high school, lettermen.

The football squad was awarded their sweaters last Wednesday, and they surely do have real good looking sweaters. Mr. Rhodes presented the sweaters and made two or three complimentary remarks about each boy who received a sweater. Mr. Palmer also made some nice remarks about the boys.

On Thursday of last week the football squad was entertained at luncheon by the Lion's club. This was a real treat and the feast was enjoyed by every one. The football squad is certainly proud of the "backers" that they had during the past season.

WARNING!

We, the lettermen and students of the Munday high school, in order to uphold the standards and honors of our Purple and Gold, do ordain and establish this rule: "That no person can wear an 'M' sweater unless he has earned his letter and has been awarded same by the Munday high school."

Only last week a Purple and Gold sweater was taken from a colored man of this vicinity.

Folks, we are doing this to uphold the school standards that others have set before us. Let us cooperate with the lettermen of Munday high school for it is not an honor to wear a lettered sweater when every old man, boy, or bully is wearing one.

Boys, we want to keep those sweaters and wear them ourselves. Uphold the honors of our school!

It is kinder hard to have the tables turned on you—especially when you think you have a laugh coming. Is it not especially true, Vivian?

MOGULS 18—ROCHESTER 14

Last Saturday night the Munday Moguls defeated Rochester high in a thrilling tilt. The Moguls kept the big end of the score from the start to the finish. Busby did most of the scoring while P. Pruitt ranked second to five points. Every one on the team fought all through the game and no loafing on the job was to be noticed at any time. Miller injured a knee in the third quarter, and was forced to retire from the game. Myers went in for Miller. Parker went in for E. Pruitt in the fourth quarter.

Hicks and Wadswick were high point men for Rochester. Smith went in for Bagwell who was forced out of the game on fouls.

Good sportsmanship was shown throughout the entire game, by both teams.

"CHAN'S CHATTER"

A real good time and a real feast was enjoyed last Thursday afternoon at the Lion's club luncheon by the football squad of '28. We surely thank the Lion's club for such a splendid manifestation of interest in our football squad. Someday we hope to belong to the Lion's club.

The football squad thanks the Pep Squad, Lion's Club and all others that have helped us in any way in the past "never to be forgotten season."

Several of the football and basketball men saw the football game at Abilene Friday with Mr. Rhodes and Palmer and other Mundayites.

The Munday Independents downed the Rochester Independents Saturday night by a 32-18 score. Blacklock and Rayburn were high point men for Munday while Bagwell carried off the honors for Rochester.

After the two main games Saturday night Goree and O'Brien tangled in a real interesting game. Moore and L. A. Stratton were stars for Goree, while Rex carried off the honors for O'Brien.

SENIORS

Winter came in like a Christmas present this morning. We are enjoying it immensely.

The Seniors would like to make a few requests of the faculty. Myrl requests that the stripes on her prison uniform be vertical as she can't wear horizontal lines. (She learned this in Home Economics. Ickie requests that his ball and chain not cost over $3.00. (He's Scotch) Agnes requests that you not shave her head, for the Bible says that a woman's hair is her crowning glory. She also wishes that you be lenient to her cell-mate, Vivian, next year.

Allene wants the stripes of her prison garb to be blue.

Frank requests that you not feed him beans and cornbread, as they contain 146 calories. (He's dieting.)

Joe requests that he not be kept inside all the time, because the doctor advises him to stay out in the fresh air as much as possible. He's so delicate and frail, anyway, he'd hate to ruin that "schoolgirl complexion."

Earl requests that his suit fit him. He wears a no. 36.

The Seniors expect their terms to expire this year (by good behavior) and extend this heartfelt sympathy (and cells) to their successors. May luck be with you!

Santa Claus will soon be here! A few of the seniors have written their letters to him already. The following came to us:

Dear Santa Claus:
 I have been a good little boy and I expect you to come to see me. I would like to have a train, a little monkey on a string, a car that will run, and lots of fruit, nuts and candy. Also remember my little friends, Earl and Vergil.

Yours truly,
 ICKIE PRUITT.

Frank says a married man is one who has two hands with which to steer his car.

When a person calls you a regular til you analyze the proposition. Re-Santa Claus, don't get puffed up by un-member old Santa is the fellow who takes all the credit for the work someone else does.

At first he acted quite correct. He crooned soft words that were meant for no one else's ears. Gradually she seemed to warm up to his advances. Why couldn't she be like others? Why was she so backward. Finally he lost all control of himself. He spun her around several times. He kicked her none too gently. He grew red in the face and let out several violent oaths. It certainly is hard to start a Ford on a cold, cloudy morning.

Ye Senior editor's vocabulary (and brain) is rather feeble this morning, and she just can't express what this time of year means to "school children." Anyhow, someone else expressed our sentiments in more flowery language:

Along about this time of year,
 The human heart begins to glow,
 With a tender pensive feeling,
 At other times it doesn't know.

I think I know the reason why:
 Most of our women and our men,
 Along about this time of year,
 Are only children once again.

That's the reason why they're joyous—
 That's the reason they're not bad,

That's the reason why they're cheerful,
 And want others to be glad.

When mother now addresses daddy,
 She always says "My dear."
 We all know the reason why—
 She knows that Santa Claus is near.

An' daddy not in such a hurry,
 To get back to his place in town;
 He knows that Santa Claus is comin'
 And he kinder hangs around.

An' the children of the family
 Are good humored and polite,
 And they're apt to stay that way
 Until after Christmas night.
 Gee, but it's a glorious feelin'!

Along about this time of year;
 When all the family's tender hearted
 And want to call each other 'dear'

Of course, twould be a blessin'
 To have this spirit all year 'round.
 But if we can't it's good to know,
 And to make happiness where'er
 we go.

Them is our sentiments. (Pardon,
 Miss English Teacher.

Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!

JUNIOR FLASHES!

Notice! Notice! Notice!
 Just a little misunderstanding concerning the joke, (about Frank and myself, Vivian) in last week's issue, which was all due to the fault of our Editor-in-Chief, Mr. Joe Aycock. Somehow, he decided that he would change the name's of the ones that the joke was really on to ours. Right here, I might tell the Editor-in-Chief that he has no authority what-so-ever to change the report of a lower class-man, and I would truly appreciate it if he would leave the report as it has been O. K'd. Just a little explanation floks—do not ever "misconstrue" me!

Judge K. M. Landis

The King of Baseball! The Ruler of the Diamond! Such is Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, who was born in Millville, O., in 1866.

This small town boy went to the Union College of Law in Chicago, and practiced law in Chicago from 1901 to 1905, except 2 years when he was private secretary to Secretary of State Gresham. He was a United States District Judge in the Northern District of Illinois from 1905 to 1922, when he resigned.

Since 1920 he has been Commissioner for the American and National Associations of Professional Baseball Clubs, and the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues.

As the learned arbiter of all baseball disputes, Judge Landis is known from one end of the country to the other. In him is vested the power of judgment in all questions arising relative to the greatest of all American games—baseball.

He is distinguished as a lawyer, as a judge, and as a fair, honest Baseball Monarch. The career of this small town boy, who has become a leading figure in the sport which year after year holds the attention of all America, should be of inspiration to every rural youngster who is fascinated by the Royal Game of Swat—and who isn't?

Dryden. Cleansing, as you have probably suspected by my last few talks, isn't the simple thing you might judge it to be. In fact, it is so important that neglect of this on process is enough to cause half a dozen serious complexion defects. Blackheads, whiteheads, excessive oiliness and even the pimples and blemishes of Acne may be traced in numerous cases to improper, half-effective cleansing measures. Last week I told you about the importance of washing. Today, I am going to talk about the virtues of Cleansing Cream, for it is by a clever combination of these two agents that hygienic cleanliness may be accomplished. Not even an every day morning and night wash will thoroughly cleanse your skin. You see, skin structure is layer on layer of thin, delicate tissues, and through them run pores, each one of which is the opening of a tiny feeding oil gland. These pores must be kept free of dust and powder accumulations, or they cannot function. And pores that have gone "on strike" cause half the skin troubles of the feminine world. If you think soap and water sufficiently cleansing, try this experiment. Wash as thoroughly as you like. Then spread a film of pasteurized cream all over your face. Let it stay on for four or five minutes, and then wipe it off. Look at your cloth! You need no further proof of the inadequacy of soap and water. Choose a light, delicate cleansing and massage cream if your skin is sensitive. If it is oily or inclined to blackheads, use a pasteurized cream, as through a special process it is prepared to normalize these conditions. But be regular in your cleansing if you would have a beautiful skin. Never allow make-up to remain on over night. And, as an extra reminder, tuck a jar of the pasteurized cream in your office desk or in the kitchen drawer, and treat your face to a beautifying cleansing during the day. These are simple, commonsense rules which every woman—whether she be sixteen or sixty—will be wise to heed, for strange enough, as simple as they are, they are not so widely known as they should be. Almost any day is a good day to start this scientific care of the complexion—whether it's to preserve the far I have been successful. My great ambition is to break up the outlaw gangs along the river. I have never ventured in there yet, because I've been waiting to get the lieutenant I needed. You, of course, are the man I had in mind. "It's my idea to start way up the Rio Grande and begin with Cheseldine. He's the strongest, the worst outlaw of the times. He's more than a rustler. It's Cheseldine and his gang who are operating on the banks. They're doing bank robbing. That's my private opinion; but it's not backed up by any evidence. "Cheseldine doesn't leave evidences. He's intelligent, cunning. I assume, of course, that you are a stranger to him and to the country he dominates. It's five hundred miles west of your ground, big as that. "Well, I want you to drift over into Cheseldine's country. Whatever way you decide is best you will proceed to act upon. You are your own boss. You know such men and how they can be approached. You will take all the time needed, if it's months. "It will be necessary for you to communicate with me, and that will be a difficult matter. For Cheseldine dominates several whole counties. You must find some way to let me know when I and my rangers are needed. The plan is to break up Cheseldine's gang. It's the toughest job on the border. "Arresting him alone isn't to be heard of. He couldn't be brought out. Killing him isn't much better, for his select men, the ones he operates with, are as dangerous to the community as he is. "We want to kill or jail this choice selection of robbers and break up the rest of the gang. To find them, to get their movements, to lay your trap for us rangers to spring—that, Duane, is your service to me; and God knows, it's a great one! "I have accepted it," replied Duane. "You rascal will be secret. You are now a ranger, in my service; but no one except the few I choose to tell will know of it till we pull off the job. You will simply be Buck Duane, the Lone Wolf, till it suits our purpose to acquaint Texas with the fact that you are a ranger. "You'll see there's no date on that pardon. No one will ever know just when you entered the service. Perhaps we can make it appear that all or most of your outlawry has really been good service to the State. At that, I'll believe it'll turn out so." "Captain MacNelly, I'd like to know how this came about. I can't realize it yet. Some things are strange to me. Who interested you in my case? Won't you explain?" "Sure I will," replied Captain MacNelly as he reached for another cigar. "It must have been three years ago when I first began to hear your name mentioned at Austin, in the adjutant-general's office and elsewhere. Just casually, you understand, and I took no particular notice. "Then I heard that women of your family were working to get influence for you. This was before you became famous as an outlaw. Of course, a little later, after the Bland affair, your name grew to be household word in Texas. From then on your reputation grew. "About this time, which was about the time I became exceedingly busy with my rangers, I got an anonymous letter. It was from a woman, and it entreated me not to go on your trail. It was a remarkable letter. I have it somewhere, and shall find it for you. "I was visited by a young woman who claimed to be a member of your household at Wellston. I took her for your sister or near relative—in fact, called her Miss Duane, which at the time she did not correct. "She had been to see the Governor; and, of course, he had turned her down. The Governor is against outlaws, the same as he is against rangers. This girl wanted an audience with the adjutant-general, and in his absence she ran across me. "I want to say here that she electrified me. Before she left my office I was ready to fight for her. I promised to speak to the adjutant-general and to use what influence I had in her behalf. She wanted an arrole for you, if not a pardon. "I was absent from Austin when she came the next time. She won the interest of Adjutant-General Reed, and he even went to the Governor with her. Sure, they only get turned down. I learned from Reed's secretary that this girl was a Miss Lee instead of Miss Duane. Evidently she was wealthy. "It was a fact, however, that she lived at your mother's home in Wellston. If money could have helped your case there at the capital it sure would have been forthcoming. "All this interested me. I wrote to Miss Lee, and told her that my duties would soon take me to the Nueces country again, and that I would find out all I could about you. She replied—a grateful, sweet womanly letter. "I wrote her from several towns on the border, and heard from her. It was in this way that I kind of kept in touch with your family. And it was on this trip that I hatched out my plan to make a ranger of you. "When I got back to Austin I laid my plan before Adjutant-General Reed. He hailed it with enthusiasm. I tell you your cousin, Miss Lee—I presumed she was your cousin—certainly had won over Reed. We went to call upon the Governor. "I'm not likely to forget that interview in a hurry. We called on him to give us a pardon for you. We promised that we would make you render the State a service as ranger. We found ourselves precipitated into a fierce debate upon the old question of the ranger service."
