OUR NEEDS FOR 1950

1. Completion of our portion of the Throckmorton road, giving the farmers of that area an all-weather outlet.
2. A farm-to-market road to the north and east of Munday, possibly connecting with the Hefner road.
3. A U. S. Federal building. Munday needs a new post office home.
4. More homes in Munday. We did a good job in 1949, but there's still a housing shortage.
5. A new telephone system, giving the town adequate telephone service and tapping the rural area surrounding the town.
6. Greater cooperation of business man, farmer, and citizen toward long-range development for our community.

FIRE ON THE FARM

Fires on farms kill some 3,500 people each year, injure thousands more, and destroy property at an annual rate approaching $100,000,000. To help reduce this loss, farmers can now use a new Farm Safety Inspection Form, prepared by the National Board of Fire Underwriters. It will be sent free, on application to the Board at 85 John Street, New York City 7.

The new form is easy and convenient. All the farmer has to do is to check a series of yes or no answers. The blank was submitted to several of the nation's leading authorities on farm fire protection, as well as farmers, for criticism and suggestions. The comments received were incorporated in the final version.

The check list covers in detail such hazards as lightning, flammable liquids, electrical installations and equipment, and heating systems. These are primary causes of farm fires—as indeed, they are of all fires. And many a grave hazard goes uncorrected simply because it has been overlooked. The National Board's blank provides a way to ferret it out if it exists.

Fire on the farm is one of the gravest of matters. In many instances, organized fire fighting facilities do not exist. Once a fire starts, it usually finds a wealth of flammable materials on which to feed. It may be completely out of control in a matter of minutes. Under these circumstances, fire prevention should be one of the first and most continuous jobs of every farmer.

THE COUNTRY PRESS SAYS

STROMSBURG, NEBR., HEADLIGHT: "The government has buried its gold in Kentucky and its silver in West Point, New York. The taxpayer will be buried, as has been the custom for years, in the little hometown cemetery."

ENID, OKLA., DAILY EAGLE: "It is remarkable how politicians can delude themselves into thinking that the way to help any interest, and also to get votes, is to offer that group or inter-when the facts are that most groups want from government is to be let alone to work their own problems and to prosper or profit according to their abilities. This with government acting in its proper roll, of course, of umpire to keep the rules."

ONAWAY, MICH., NEWS: "After exhaustive hearings, the Public Service Commission allowed the Bell Telephone Company a raise in rates. If our memory serves us right the company recently allowed an increase in wages and increased pension benefits. The money to pay this increased cost of doing business must come from somewhere. The only place is from the consumer."

DAVIS, CALIF., ENTERPRISE: "Today it seems more important to a lot of people to get free handouts, or Federal aid or subsidies or one of the many something-for-nothings benevolently provided in Washington even though they bring with them no little dictation and abuse. Of course, it's easier to bow the knee as long as the hand is filled. But that attitude would never have won our independence back in 1776. And it might be said that it will not maintain our internal independence and freedom if we continue to look more to Government and less to ourselves for the solution to our problems."

PROTEINS AND THE LIFE SPAN

There appears to be a definite connection between the life expectancy of peoples and their consumption of protein foods.

This is strongly indicated in a table which was recently compiled by the American Meat Institute, on the basis of the latest available figures. The United States had the highest life expectancy at birth, 68.3 years, and its per capita consumption of meat and other protein foods was also the highest, 194 pounds. Canada was next, with a life expectancy of 67.2 years and a protein food consumption of 174 pounds. The figures for Italy were 54.9 years and 75 pounds of protein foods. At the very bottom was India, where life expectancy was but 28.6 years, and protein food consumption was 18 pounds per capita.

Other factors, such as infant mortality, have a strong bearing on life expectancy. However, the discovery of the value of the proteins has been one of the most dramatic developments of modern medical science. In addition to their influence on life expectancy, protein foods have been proven to be of the utmost value in benefiting people suffering from many types of illness. It has been found also that they have a direct, constructive influence on human and morale.

Finally, the principal protein foods, such as meat and eggs, are attractive and appetizing to the vast majority of people. Almost everyone can, and with relish, eat these foods two or three times a day. It is a case where good eating makes for good health.

Washington Irving's classic of Ichabod Crane and the Headless Horseman of Sleepy Hollow has a counterpart in Texas lore—a story as fantastic in many ways as that which came from the pen of Rip Van Winkle's creator.

Shortly before the Civil War Captain Mayne Reid, an Irish adventurer who fought on the Texas border during the War with Mexico, wrote a novel called "The Headless Horseman, or A Strange Tale from Texas." Describing the journey of a headless horseman who traveled through the Nueces country mounted on a fine stallion, the novel was based on a Texas legend long current in the border country.

Here are the highlights of that legend:

About 1850, Texas was overrun with rustlers and marauders and among the more infamous of these characters was a man named Viday who had deserted the army of Mexico and had become one of the worst horse thieves in the border country. A small man, shrewd and observant, he collected a band of thieves unequalled in the "profession", and with local branches strung out along the Rio Grande, he reaped a good profit in the horse trade—at the same time making it appear that Indians were responsible for some of his own deviltry.

One summer, he and several of his gang, made a raid along the San Antonio river which resulted in enormous losses to the settlers. He struck at a time when most of the men were away chasing Comanches, but it so happened that two men were at home, and they immediately gave chase. The story goes that before

Knox Prairie Philosopher Isn't Creating Any Scarcities By Buying Up Pillow Slips Or Plow Points

Editors note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek this week comes out against hoarding, in his own peculiar way.

Dear editor:
I went into town Saturday to catch up on the news, the kind you read in the papers and the kind you hear on the streets and while we got the closes thing there is to freedom of the press in this country there ain't no newspaper that can hold a light to street news, mainly on account of editors like to live the same as other people, and while I was in town I picked up some good stories about all this scarce buying.

One woman I understand bought 24 sheets at one time, which is 22 more than I've ever had and frequently is 23 more. Another woman bought 18 shirts for her husband, sayin he didn't have a one to his name, guess he was wearin a pull-over sweater in mid-summer. Coffee and sugar also has been pretty hard hit, along with tires and pillow slips, although personally I can't imagine a war so awful its prospect would drive me to hoardin pillow slips.

In fact, I wish to say that I personally am holdin the line for President Truman and ain't bought a single item I don't need. In fact, I'm even ahead of the President and there's a lots of things I need that I ain't buyin. If I do any plowin after the crops are in this fall I'll need some more plow points and several other items, but you ain't gonna catch me endagerin the war effort and bringin on scarcities, and I'll make the sacrifice and do without them parts before I'll stompede this country into rationin. I'll put my country ahead of plowin any day.

When the President says hold the line, I'll hold it, even if I have to sit in the shade to do it. Ain't nothin half-way about me.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

State Fair To Be Big Display Of Progress

With opening day of the 1950 State Fair of Texas Mid-Century Exposition approximately two months away, preparations are assuming an almost feverish pace on the sprawling 187-acre show grounds at Dallas, fair officials have revealed.

Hard work on this fair began months earlier because the forthcoming edition will be a bit out of the ordinary even for the monarch of the nation's expositions, R. L. Thornton, fair president, said.

"The 1950 fair will celebrate the golden anniversary of this century," Thornton said. "Despite wars and portents of wars, we have come a long way in fifty years. This fair will look back over what has been accomplished and show that the result is definitely worth celebrating."

Since the fair will not only salute the first half-century, but also preview the second, it will attempt to prognosticate what lies ahead in many fields, as in science, agriculture, art, the home, automotive and other industries.

Even before the last fair, work began on this "golden" event was well under way. The All-American Jersey Show was signed up early in 1949. Not long thereafter, officials began angling "South Pacific", the big all-time All-American musical, toward the Auditorium.

Ice Cycles arranged to show both its '49 and '50 editions at the last fair, in order to parade its bigger '51 model at the Mid-Century. Work on Rural Youth Day for the last four years has been building up to the climactic 100,000 youth gathering expected this year.

Today while painters slap gallons of brilliant hues on massive buildings outside, the fair's staff inside is grinding out arrangements for scores of added attractions destined to make this post-war fair to be remembered. Among added features will be a gigantic nightly "Parade of the Decades," a sparkling mile-long spectacle depicting the most exciting events of every decade since the turn of the century and saluting many types of achievement at the Mid-Century point.

The Museum of Fine Arts will celebrate by putting America's largest and perhaps best-loved painting on display—"Washington Crossing the Delaware," on loan from the Metropolitan Museum in New York.

"The Drunkard," world-famous preaching against sin and gin, will be a feature of "The Diamond Garter," new and nostalgic Gay Nineties refreshment center.

The Midway will bring in a world-famous circus, and present it simply as another low-cost sideshow along with some 30 other exciting attractions. But front and center on the Midway will be the Twentieth Century's most sensational riding device, the Sky-Wheels—two giant ferris wheels revolving around each other vertically.

On the lighter side, Sally Rand will present her new 1951 all-girl revue.

The Science Show, with atomic energy exhibits from Oak Ridge, cradle of the atomic bomb, and other exhibits from famous research laboratories of the world, is expected to be the most exciting educational exhibit ever unveiled at any fair. The Women's Show will be virtually doubled in size and importance.

A new-type Agriculture Show will feature an enormous revolving horn of plenty from which will spill all principal crops of the state. The livestock show, featuring the All-American Jersey Show, will in every respect be the largest, most comprehensive in the fair's history.

Many Jobs Still Call for Skilled Hands

Skilled hands continue in demand in the manufacture of automobiles, despite the rise of machines. Here's evidence in pictures taken at the Chevrolet plant: (Top)—A crew positions 60 vanes of the Powerglide automatic transmission before the assembly is spot welded. (Lower left)—To plan factory layouts draftsmen cut out cross-sections of the floor area of machines at scales of precisely one-quarter inch to one foot. (Lower right)—A pattern maker cuts a wooden model that will later be duplicated in steel to stamp out thousands of fender parts.

Many Accidents On Farm Occur In The Home

More farm accidents occur in the home than in any other single place on the farm and about the most dangerous room in the house is the kitchen. There are many reasons why accidents happen in the kitchen, says Ida Belle Allen, County Home Demonstration Agent, but few out rank carelessness and household disorder.

Poor connections on the gas stove; overheating or using kerosene in coal or wood ranges, gas escaping when a boiling pot has extinguished a flame, pots and pans containing hot food or water upset by children, using worn-out equipment, especially electrical appliances, matches not placed out of the children's reach and accidents that often happen to the home-maker while frying foods in deep fat—these are common causes of kitchen accidents.

Miss Allen says that a well kept kitchen, one that is provided with plenty of cabinet and storage space, is most likely to be a safe room. However, carelessness can nullify the features of even the best planned and constructed kitchens. One gas explosion or a fire caused from hot grease removes the kitchen and often times the housewife from further safety troubles.

The stairs and steps both inside and outside the home seem to have been made especially for creating accidents by falling since so many home accidents happen there. It is dangerous under any circumstances to walk on stairs with both arms loaded and it is doubly so when the stairs or steps are cluttered. Stairway treads should all be the same width and risers the same height, says Miss Allen, and the treads should not be polished.

The stairway is no place to store the broom, nor the children's toys. Scatter rugs should never be placed at the bottom nor the top landings of the stairway. Loose or frayed runners are extremely dangerous. Cellar steps are usually poorly lighted and also catch more of the items that are just temporarily set there until they can be moved into the cellar. These are the items that cause many of the serious home accidents. They are not moved until someone get hurt.

Protection from fire hazards, orderliness, timely repairing, using tools and equipment as they were intended to be used, disposing of worn out appliances, and the use of common sense will greatly reduce the number of home accidents, says Miss Allen.

Mr. and Mrs. Mac Haymes of Odessa spent the week end here visiting their parents. Mr. and Mrs. Lee Haymes of Munday and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Russell of Vera.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Reid and son, Jimmy, returned home Sunday from Greenville, Hot Springs, Ark., and other points where they spent a week's vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Burnes of Pep, visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Morris over the week end.

From the County PMA Committee

ALLOTMENTS IN EFFECT FOR '51 WHEAT

Farmers should soon receive notices of their wheat acreage allotments for 1951, according to B. F. Vance, Chairman of the State PMA Committee.

"I would like to remind growers that a national allotment of 72.8 million acres for the 1951 wheat crop was announced on July 14 by the Secretary of Agriculture. Acreage allotments are now being determined for States and Counties, and, as soon as this preliminary work is done, farm allotments for next year's wheat crop will be mailed out to individual growers.

"It is important that growers understand that only those who plant within their allotments will be eligible for 1951 wheat price supports.

"There will be wheat allotment but no marketing quotas for the 1951 wheat crop."

TIME Has Praise For Dudley J. LeBlanc

TIME Magazine in a recent issue told the fabulous story of Dudley J. LeBlanc, the Medicine King, and described the benefits of HADACOL. The following are excerpts from the TIME story:

"In easygoing Lafayette, La. (pop. 19,210) 425 factory workers busied each working day last week turning out more than 100,000 bottles of a murky brown liquid that tastes something like bilge water, and smells worse. The patent medicine called Hadacol has been such a resounding success in 14 Southern states that its backers expect this year to sell $20,000,000 worth (in 8-oz. bottles at $1.25, or in the 24-oz. family 'jug' at $3.50).

Very Sassy. The man responsible for the murky brown medicine is Louisiana's plump State Senator Dudley J. LeBlanc, 56, who had to rustle up a new business after he made the mistake of running for governor in 1932 against a Huey Long candidate. Recovering from a bout of rheumatism when his doctors gave him Vitamin B-complex, LeBlanc saw that there was money as well as health in vitamins. He boned up on the subject by reading at home, decided that vitamins would be better if mixed with minerals.

Neither an M.D. nor a pharmacist, LeBlanc is plainly a go-getting businessman. He pushed Hadacol with a down-to-earth selling policy that included Hadacol radio programs. "A fervent appeal to folks' fondness for patent medicines. Testimonials have poured in, extolling the work of Hadacol. . . . Samples:

From an 80-year-old Mississippian: "I was unable to get over a fence, unable to get up out of chair without help, but after I took eight bottles of Hadacol I can . . . tie up my own shoes and feel like I can jump over a six-foot fence and getting very sassy."

From a 68-year-old "batchelor" in Georgia: "Hadacol has done so much for me and I am looking so much better, think I will put a fence around my house to keep the ladies out."

Pep & Strength. Last fall LeBlanc was selling only 150,000 bottles of Hadacol a month when the advertising began to take. Then there was a sudden shortage. After that the medicine enjoyed such a boom that last month around 2,000,000 bottles were sold.

Taking care not to arouse the Food & Drug Administration or the Federal Trade Commission, which have their own views about cure-all nostrums, LeBlanc merely describes Hadacol on the box as a "Dietary Supplement. . . . formulated as an Aid to Nature in rebuilding the Pep, Strength and Energy of Buoyant Health when the System is deficient in the Vitamins and Minerals found in this Tonic. . . . In short: if it's what you need, it's what you need. . . ."

4-H Clubs Are Being Leaders In Recreation

The importance of providing recreation for the leisure hours farm folks have these days has become one of the major concerns of thousands of 4-H Club leaders and members. During the past three years, a plan has been worked out whereby adults and youth interested in directing recreational activities in their clubs and communities can take a special course set up for this purpose.

This training and club participation has been brought about through the National 4-H Recreation and Rural Arts program now in full swing in Texas. Sponsor of the program, U. S. Rubber Company, is providing $29,000 for leader training clinics, club and individual awards. Last year more than 10,200 young people and 6,400 adults attended these clinics. They receive instruction in group singing, dancing, games, sports, dramatics, handicrafts and Texas have not yet been announced but should be available in the near future. Loans will be made on cotton represented by warehouse receipts issued by warehouses approved by Commodity Credit Corporation and on farm stored cotton in structures approved by county PMA Committees. Cotton producers' notes will bear interest at the rate of 3% per annum and will mature on July 31, 1951, but will be callable on demand. Loans will be available through April 30, 1951.

Additional information and instructions relating to the cotton loan program will be available through the county PMA offices.

Water Supply On Farm Should Be Kept Safe

A few simple rules, a few checks, and probably a little work will assure a safe supply of water for the farm home at little expense, says W. S. Allen, extension agriculture engineer-buildings of Texas A. & M. College.

To be safe, Allen warns, water must be protected from contamination by dust, ground water, bugs and animals. He says that it doesn't matter what the source of water is—stock pond, well, a spring, or a cistern—if it isn't properly protected, it may be dangerous to the health of the family.

He says that privies, septic tanks, barn lots and manure piles should be at least 100 feet away and down the hill from the well, and the septic tank disposal field should be at least 150 feet away from the cistern or well.

He cautions that barn lots and septic tank disposal fields should not be laid out where they will drain toward a stock tank that is the source of water for the household. Surface privies are often a dangerous source of contamination, and Allen recommends that they be replaced by sanitary pit privies, or even better with properly constructed septic tank systems.

Giving general precautions to insure the safety of water in a well or cistern, Allen advises making sure that the cover over the well or cistern is dust tight, rodent proof, and insect proof. The well should be lined for about 10 to 15 feet down from the top with some impervious material like concrete to prevent surface water from leaking in.

A good insurance measure to determine the safety of the farm water supply is to take a sample of the water and send it to the State Health Department for a bacteriological analysis. However, the well must be chlorinated before the sample is taken, and a specifically sterilized bottle must be used. A bottle and specific instructions for taking the sample can be obtained by writing to the State Health Department, Austin, Texas, or from the local county health unit.

When surface tanks are used for the home water supply, they should be fenced off from livestock. For watering the stock, Allen recommends the use of a trough set below the tank level with a pipe leading from the tank. This setup protects the water for household use and provides cleaner drinking water for the livestock.

If the tank is filled with silt, the muddy water can be cleared up by using a commercial filter. Plans for making a home made filter can be obtained by writing to the Agricultural Engineering Department, Texas A. & M. College.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Dr. Geo. W. Cox
M. D., State Health Officer of Texas

AUSTIN—In addition to the general instructions for community sanitation which are important in preventing poliomyelitis, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, today issued an urgent warning to every individual in Texas to practice strict personal hygiene to protect his own health and that of those about him.

"Of course, cleanliness and personal hygiene are ordinarily taken for granted," Dr. Cox said "but at this time with the incidence of poliomyelitis having reached a total of 1395 cases, I would like to re-emphasize some personal sanitary measures which may help in preventing the spread of this crippling and often fatal disease."

The State Health Officer stressed the importance of scrupulous cleanliness of the person. Frequent bathing and immaculate clean clothing are vitally necessary. Oral hygiene with thorough brushing of the teeth and the use of a mild antiseptic are recommended. The nasal passages should be kept and dental defects corrected

SETS NEW RECORD

The South West area leads the nation in the buying of electric appliances for all-electric kitchens and home laundries, with purchases 32% greater than the record for any previous six-months period. This is one-third more than the national average of 24% buying increase, according to figures released by James J. Nance, president, Hotpoint, Inc., the leading producer of electric kitchens, whose sales results were used in the tabulations.

The official credited the gains to low service rates of electric utility companies and increased aggressive advertising and sales efforts by dealers. He said that the South West area is the nation's bright spot economically.

"America has reached a new all-time high plateau in its standard of living, spearheaded by electrical living," the industrialist asserted. He recently announced the rounding out of his company's expansion program which included seven new manufacturing plants to produce all major electric kitchen and laundry appliances for the home, and a modern new plant for cooking equipment for schools, churches, hospitals, and restaurants. A modern new plant to increase capacity for refrigerators is scheduled for completion soon. These new facilities have been proven in life operating, and in three years have brought the company leadership as kitchen producers.

Sanitation and thorough cleanliness in the home are instinctive with the average housewife, but at this time their importance to health must be re-emphasized. Home sanitation includes those taken for granted measures as washing the dishes in hot soapy water and wringing them in hot clear water; keeping sinks, bathtubs and fixtures scoured clean and rinsed with a mild antiseptic solution; sunning and airing bed clothes, ridding the home of flies, rats and roaches which, since poliomyelitis is believed to be a filth-borne

Texas Schools To Be Improved For Next Year

AUSTIN—Texas' already vastly improved school system will be on an even higher level during the 1950-51 school year it was predicted here today.

More classroom facilities and more and better trained teachers will be available, it was pointed out by L. P. Sturgeon, State associate commissioner of education.

Under the new Gilmer-Aiken laws which went into effect last fall the teaching staff has increased by 2,000 and more than half of the school districts of the state added to their classroom facilities.

An additional 1,500 teachers will be hired for the next school year, Sturgeon said. A survey disclosed many more schools will increase their facilities, Sturgeon also said.

Increase in pay for teachers has added to their moral and made the profession far more attractive to young people, Sturgeon pointed out. More young people are preparing for careers as teachers and those better trained instructors will be available in larger numbers next year to replace retiring instructors and those less adequately trained, according to Sturgeon. School districts which met the requirements of state law in order to receive additional financial aid from the state had a teacher to every twenty-five pupils in average daily attendance during the last school year but many districts were forced to put pupils on a half-time basis.

"This will be partly alleviated during the 1950-51 school year by the construction of more classrooms and the availability of more teachers," Sturgeon said.

Money In The Bank!

Pretty Patty Raymond is all smiles these days as she builds up the cash reserve in her household piggy bank with savings made possible by removal, July 1, of the 10 cents per pound tax on yellow margarine. According to W. L. Prentiss, head of Swift & Company's All-sweet Margarine department, Patty and millions of other U. S. homemakers should get full benefit of the recent legislation removing the tax formerly paid by manufacturers because the margarine industry will pass on the savings to consumers by reducing the wholesale price of their product. A total of 48 states now permit the sale of yellow margarine.

said. "This will add to the great benefits derived by a great many of our school children in their being in smaller classes, where they could get more personal attention.

"During the 1948-49 school year a survey conducted by the Texas State Teachers Association disclosed that more than half of the classrooms in the entire state were badly overcrowded.

Sturgeon also had high praise for the state's teachers.

"While the pay increases under the Gilmer-Aiken laws average only $500 for teachers, their moral is at the highest in the history of Texas," he said.

"I can see that in their interest in and their attendance of professional meetings I have attended throughout the entire state.

"Superintendents are unanimous in their reports of the willingness of teachers to accept additional assignments and to participate in extra-curricular activities.

"Teachers are satisfied and are proud of their professions. That means better education for the children in rooms presided over by well-trained instructors. It is only reasonably that happy, efficient teachers can do more than dissatisfied, inefficient persons.

Increased enrollment in courses leading to degrees in education in the states colleges was an indication of the attractiveness of the teaching profession also pointed to by Sturgeon as resulting benefits to the children in Texas schools now, with its

Men Of Draft Age Are Urged To Report Marriage Status To Boards

Filing of the Texas draft quota of 2,513 men for September is being jeopardized by the fact that many men, now classified in I-A, have failed to report marriages and other changes in their circumstances. Brigadier General Paul F. Wakefield, state director of Selective Service, charged in a strongly-worded statement today.

"If we fail to furnish the number of men desired from this state, this failure on the part of many men will be the chief factor in that failure," General Wakefield said.

The state director said that many of the local draft boards are reporting that when they issue orders to report for physical examination, many of the registrants are coming in with evidence of marriages that took place "many months before."

General Wakefield pointed out that if these men who have married had notified local boards immediately after the marriage took place, they would never have been sent an order to report for physical examination in the first place.

"We are operating with little time to get the job done demanded of us," the general said. "The local boards, unless they want to declare such registrants delinquent, have to turn around and get an order to report for physical examination to the next man in order of age. All this takes time, and our local boards have a short deadline to meet."

Selective Service wants to "be reasonable about this situation," the state director said, "but we know that the patience of our local board members are wearing thin. We just want to point out that it is not mandatory under the law that married men be classified into III-A under such circumstances."

"Such men who fail to report change of status, such as marriage, or a change of address legally are eligible to be declared delinquent for failing to comply with the law. A delinquent can be inducted immediately ahead of all others under this law, and if we are forced to do so in order to meet our calls, we will comply with the law to the letter," General Wakefield continued.

The state director concluded with the statement that notifications concerning marriage, change of address, and other changes of status are "the entire responsibility of the registrant," and that notifications of change must be sent to local boards in writing over the signature of the registrant.

"Too much damage already has been done," he said. "The time is almost past for men to get things squared with their draft boards."
