NATURALLY!

One of best editorials in current official attitudes toward the practice of medicine appeared in the March 31 issue of the Saturday Evening Post under the title "Medicine Did All Right Before Mr. Ewing." Here is what the distinguished magazine had to say:

"In the American Federationist (December, 1950, issue) Federal Security Administrator Oscar Ewing took a swing from the floor at the American Medical Association and the horrid deficiencies of American medical care. Along toward the middle of the piece, Oscar bursts out with: 'We have made great strides in the past 50 years in reducing the toll of disease. The average child born this year can look forward to about 20 years longer life than one born in 1900.' 'Whom does Oscar mean by 'we'? Surely not the denizens of the nefarious system of private medical care which he has just been telling off as definitely no good! Or as 'we' the politicians and bureaucrats who have been urging the country to give up a system which has prolonged human life by 20 years in exchange for something which up to now hasn't done much more than make human life not worth prolonging?"

"And that floating 'we' isn't the only pronoun that Oscar kicks around. A little later in the article for the AFL house organ he explains that 'it' has 'provided Federal funds to help states and communities build new hospitals and health centers.' If you think 'it' refers to the taxpayer, who really does provide the funds, you're wrong. By 'it' Oscar meant the Hospital Survey and Construction Act. Naturally."

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

CLARK, S. D., COURIER: "Atomic explosions are serious only to a given area where the blast occurs. The stilling of the voice of a free press affects entire countries."

MORRIS, MINN., TRIBUNE: "Round after round of wage and price raises are just a method we have of kidding ourselves into pushing the costs of inflation on to the other fellow. We never really escape our share of the cost and in the end pay heavily. Every inflation in history has always ended in a depression, which brought business stagnation, precipitous decline in property values, and wide-spread unemployment. We do not seem to be wise enough to halt inflation by any other method."

SCOTLAND NECK, N. C., COMMON-WEALTH: "Back in the olden days it was said that the great corporations adopted the attitude of 'the public be damned', but now it seems that the entrenched bureaucrats at Washington have adopted a similar attitude."

FAIRFIELD, IOWA, DAILY LEDGER: "History shows that when the rulers, who should be the servants of the people, begin to curtail the rights of the sovereign people, that nation is approaching the precipice."

CONTROLS MEAN TROUBLE

Reports of dislocations in the meat supply have come from various parts of the country. In some sections retailers say that they are unable to obtain enough of certain kinds of meat to fill the consumer demand, and packing houses have been operating in low gear, with a consequent drop in their employment of workers.

The reason for this is found in the intricacies of price control. The price of wheat at retail is "fixed," but the price of live cattle, for example, is not, and is still determined by the supply-demand factor. The value of steers has risen substantially, while the price which the butcher may charge for cuts of meat from these same steers has remained static. The result is a squeeze on the packers who, in many cases, have been forced to operate at a loss in order to keep their plants going and to serve established customers. Whether one has any love for the packing industry or not, this is an essential enterprise and it is obvious that it can't keep on operating at a loss indefinitely. More important still, we are beginning to see a practical application of the fact that government controls, no matter how well meant or how efficiently administered, cannot guarantee the necessary element that will really help in the fight against inflation—the maximum production and distribution of goods.

On top of that, the government is now getting worried about the black market, which simply is a reflection of the fact that controls always drive goods into illegal channels of trade, to the profit of the racketeer. It is one thing to try to run an economy by fiat—it is a very different thing to make it work.

The Nevada Legislature recently passed and the Governor signed a law outlawing future labor contracts which require prior membership in or the joining of a labor union. In an editorial on this, the Los Angeles Times said: "Either the closed or the union shop gives to labor officials a stranglehold on a worker; he must obey their orders or lose his livelihood. In effect it is a peonage or slave system. Only when a man may join a union of his own free will, or leave it when he disagrees with its aims or its methods, can a union be made responsive to the rank and file members."

"Pat, what's this I hear about ye joining up with the communists? Be ye daft, man?"

"It's the truth, Mike. I signed up last week. The doctor told me I had but ten days to live and 'tis better one o' them communists die than a good Irishman."—Anonymous.

"The country indeed faces a dismal future if the program is not to curtail spending but only choose between whether to get money by borrowing or more taxation."—Long Prairie, Minnesota, Leader.

I ran into some trouble flying up to New York for my program—at 8,000 feet above Washington I almost bumped into some meat prices.

What the Kefauver investigation needed was a good theme song, and I have a suggestion: "Little White Lies."

Isn't spring a delightful time of year? A young man's fancy lightly turns to what us middle-aged guys have been thinking about all year.

Don't get me wrong—I'm proud to be paying taxes in the United States. The only thing is—I could be just as proud for half the money.

Speaking of taxes—it used to be I took a buck, I gave Uncle Sam a buck, and my wife took the rest. Now—my wife gets a buck, Uncle Sam gets the rest, and I charge it.

HEARD ON CBS TALENT SCOUTS

Probably no minister called upon to perform a wedding ceremony ever had quite such an experience as did a preacher know as Parson Robertson. The story is told in that excellent magazine, the Frontier Times:

In the winter of 1859, the event about to be related took place between Robertson Peak in Coleman County and Buffalo Gap in Taylor County. Accompanied by a cowboy, Parson Robertson arrived at the bride's home and there they found that during the absence of all the men folks but one, Indians had killed the old fellow, who did the chores around the place, and carried the birds away! So the preacher and the cowboy decided to follow the trail.

"Have you a good gun and plenty of ammunition?" the other asked. "Yes," said the preacher, "a friend of mine give

First Aid Kit Is Needed At Home

A home-made first-aid kit is a handy item to have around the house for accidents and everyday cuts and bruises.

A satisfactory first-aid kit can be made at home at little cost. A tight box, preferably metal, will serve as a suitable container. The box should be thoroughly clean and well labeled.

The following articles are "must" for the kit: rolls of adhesive tape of varying widths; sterile cotton; swabs and sticks; sterile white cotton cloth for large bandages and tourniquets; a tube of sterile white vaseline for minor burns; scissors; boric acid; compound tincture of benzoin; antiseptic; and aromatic spirits of ammonia.

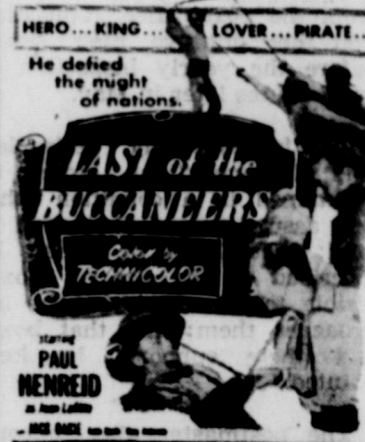

On farms several first aid kits should be prepared. One should be kept in the barn, another in the farm shop, and others near various work areas, as well as in the home, so that they will be quickly available.

me Old Betsy here and I had rather trust her in shooting buffalo than any other gun on the frontier."

"This is not going to be a buffalo hunt," the cowboy grimly reminded. "The mother says there were five Indians and there are only two of us."

"Oh, well," smiled the preacher. "I'm to have $5 for marrying Mary Ann and Bob and I can't marry them unless we get the bride back. Besides, I believe this gun is just itching to be tried on an Indian."

After two hours, the trail was hot. "I think we have the best horses," said the cowboy. "Yes," said the preacher, "and if my eyes don't fail me, I caught a glimpse of some feathered heads going over the ridge yonder."

By the time the two reached the crest of the ridge, a darkening cloud lowered and it began to snow, quickly blotting out the trail. But they rode on, faster and faster through the snow storm. Then ahead they heard the voices of Indians, the clatter of horse's hooves which came closer and closer—and a woman's scream.

Then they saw dimly a woman who was tied to a horse; she was racing at full speed and behind came the Indians. Both men fired but they had fired at the same Indian and only one redskin fell. The fight was on and the cowboy's horse was shot from under him; then he himself was wounded in the right arm and could not use his gun. This left the Parson to fight four Indians, who advanced toward him.

But just then a party of horsemen approached. They had come from the ranch and when they met the escaping bride, she turned around and guided them back. The Indians dashed away and there was no use following them in the snowstorm.

The girl explained, "When the snow began falling so thick you could hardly see your hand in front of you, the Indians stopped and commenced chattering. They were off their horses. I saw a chance to get away and, quick as lightning, I turned my horses head homeward and spoke to him. Luckily, I was on my favorite horse, which they had stolen when they got me."

After the ceremony, the groom offered a dollar more than the promised fee but the preacher declined. "Of course I was put to a little extra trouble but I didn't know whether Old Betsy had been trained for Indians or not; it was well worth the trouble to find out," said Parson Robertson.

41,000 Women Of Texas Now In H. D. Clubs

More than 41,000 organized Texas rural women in 185 counties had opportunity to study and use homemaking information originating with the A. & M. College Extension Service. This information was provided by county home demonstration agents to the 41,282 members of 2,317 community home demonstration clubs who in turn gave it to 344,753 other families. Clubs meet 12 to 24 times yearly for practical demonstrations of homemaking methods and discussion of current topics.

The rural women, through 181 county home demonstration councils in the state, advised with home demonstration agents in planning their programs, carrying homemaking information to non-club members, and learning how to function in organizations to get homemaking information. At the same time they headed public support, financial and otherwise, for Extension work in counties. An example was obtaining salary increases for home demonstration work in six of the 18 counties in one Extension district largely thru the vigorous cooperation of councils.

Subject matter leaders who attended 2,983 training meetings during the year repeated the training at 15,446 meetings of local home demonstration clubs. Six hundred and forty-five of the training meetings were to prepare leaders to work in organized groups.

Club women also appreciate their responsibility as citizens. In Cameron County, for instance, each club had a program on cancer control. A surgeon addressed a group of members, and a pamphlet, "What You Should Know About Cancer", in Spanish text was distributed through clubs in Latin American families. Club members contributed $360 to furnish a nursery in the Fisher County Hospital and in addition gave a full set of linen and accessories.

In the 1950 Texas Home Demonstration Association, with which all home demonstration clubs are federated, increased the scholarship awarded yearly to a 4-H Club girls from $300 to $500 and added a second scholarship in like amount. The awards went to Beverly Runnels of Brazoria County and Betty Jean Blackerby of Grayson County. The two former 4-H members are in college and majoring in home economics. To assist in developing their programs, the Association held one state and 14 district meetings during the year. Meanwhile, 19 members attended the annual convention of the National Home Demonstration Council at Biloxi, Mississippi.

According to Bennie Cox, Extension Service organization specialist, rural women have developed interest and latent talents through home demonstration club activities. Twelve counties have formed choral groups. While these choruses are popular on programs their real value to the women is the pleasure they get from singing together. She explains, too, that the program of work of the Texas Home Demonstration Association is designed to strengthen home and community activity, and complements that of the Extension Service.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Dr. Geo. W. Cox M. D., State Health Officer of Texas

AUSTIN—Wherever there is an over population of biting animals whose natural defense is their teeth, and which travel along the ground, there is a potential danger of a rabies outbreak.

This is the word from State Health Officer Geo. W. Cox concerning the disease which is currently flaming over East Texas. Wild foxes and skunks are chiefly responsible for the East Texas trouble, Dr. Cox said, and urged residents to take strong measures against them.

"There's a law prohibiting the sale of pets during December or January, but there is no law to prevent killing them anytime they can be caught in a rifle sight," the health official declared.

He described rabies as being of two types—"dumb" and "furious." Either type is one hundred percent fatal to animals and humans once the symptoms develop. And, he added, any warm blooded animal, including birds can contract the disease.

Disclaiming the classical mad dog with its frothing jaws as "misleading," he explained that a rabid dog's appearance frequently lead the owner to suspect a bones lodged in its throat. "More than one owner has forced open a dog's mouth to investigate, and made himself liable to rabies exposure," Cox said.

He urged that suspected animals be put in care of a veterinarian for observation, and declared that a definite change in behavior is usually the first symptom of infection.

Rotary Hoe Greatly Reduces Costs Of Labor

Many Texas cotton farmers are cutting their production costs by using rotary hoe attachments on their tractors.

Chester Huddleston of Crosbyton says, "By using rotary hoes high in the eastern section of the state, the health officer said, but indicated that they are heightened when wary farmers kill valuable stock because they suspicion rabies.

He said that of the 127 cow heads sent to the State Health Department laboratories for examination so far this year, only 38 of them were positive, indicating the others had been killed without allowing sufficient time for observation.

and 30 acres of cotton in 1949, I saved 75 percent of my chopping bill."

W. R. Kimbrough, county agricultural agent, reports that there were 1,000 rotary hoes owned by 700 farmers in Crosby County.

In 97 Texas counties, there were 10,004 rotary hoe-equipped tractors in 1950, says F. C. Elliott, Texas A. & M. College extension cotton specialist.

Elliott emphasizes that the rotary hoe equipped tractor must be operated at high speeds—at least four and one-half miles an hour. Five or six miles an hour is better. He cautions against setting the rotary hoe too deep. While the depth of setting will depend on soil and plant conditions, the spoke points should not be run more than two inches deep.

Use of the rotary hoe allows earlier planting in areas where crop of weeds is usually killed before planting. Elliott points out that the rotary hoe can also be used to cultivate peanuts and corn.

He suggests that farmers who are not too familiar with this piece of equipment ask their local farm machinery dealers for information.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Offutt and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Tuggle visited relatives in Fort Worth over the week end.

Neatest Trick of the Year

DID YOU EVER LIFT AN ELEPHANT?—You have, according to the experts, if you've been doing your washing with the old-fashioned method of rinsing. They point out that the average housewife lifts five tons a year in the rinsing process. The elephant weighs only four tons. No-Kinse Surf, now being introduced in this section, eliminates the need for rinsing through an exclusive process developed after five years of laboratory research. This means no more elephant lifting for the housewife. It means, too, a saving of 11,000 gallons of water and 125 hours of labor a year.

Spring Clean-up Week On Farms To Be Observed

Spring clean-up week for Knox County farmers has been set for the week of May 6 to 12, according to County Agent Bill Palmeyer. The clean-up week is carryin out the slogans, "Cleaner Farms-Fewer Fires" and "Spruce Up—Don't Burn Down."

"It is everyone's duty to keep the place clean," Palmeyer pointed out. "This not only results in sanitation but keeps down destructive fires and reduces accidents. Fires alone cost farmers $100,000,000 in 1950. Carelessness is the main reason for losses, so let's all join and

Soil Judging A Teaching Aid

Soil judging was brought into the demonstrational teaching of the soil and water conservation specialist of the Texas A. & M. College Extension Service in 1950. Notwithstanding, teaching of practices which have long proved effective against waste and exhaustion of soils of Texas farms and rangelands also was pursued systematically and, additionally, the Extension specialist assisted the State Soil Conservation Board in establishing six new soil conservation districts and eight annexations.

The specialist P. G. Haines characterizes the introduction of soil judging "an achievement" which should stimulate "getting soil and water conservation practices on the ground." Judging was conducted in the form of contests in six counties and at College Station during the year. The routine first requires digging soil pits on fields chosen for a contest. The routine first requires digging soil pits on fields chosen for a contest. Determinations then are made of texture, permeability and depth of soil, and the slope, degree of wind and water erosion, drainage and land capability class of the field. At the same time, recommended treatments for stabilizing, rebuilding and increasing the productivity of the soil are determined.

In order to bring soil judging into the widest and most flexible use, county agricultural agents and representatives of other agencies are being trained to conduct schools. The specialist quotes the "consensus" of those who went through the schools that soil judging "is the greatest teaching device employed in soil and water conservation practices on their lands." Field reports show that conservation work was conducted in 3,451 communities over the state, and 3,632 voluntary local leader or committeemen assisted. Meanwhile, 6,355 farmers were assigned in work based on definite farm conservation plans; 6,579 in constructing terraces; 6,682 with contour farming of cropland, and 4,600 in grassing waterways or otherwise preventing or controlling gullies.

Washington News Letter

By Congressman Ed Gossett

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 27—This week I had to fly to Galveston to keep a long-standing appointment to address the State Convention of the Lumbermen's Association of Texas. On the way back, I sat next to a distinguished old gentleman who had been one of our aviation experts for 35 years. He was a close friend of General Billy Mitchell, who was court-martialed and cashiered out of the Army in the early '30s. He told me he was sitting by the Colonels (Billy Mitchell was promoted to General by act of Congress years after his death) bedside about a week before his death in 1936. The Colonel stated that he wished he could stay around for the real war, saying that World War I had only been a prelude, and that World War II was soon to come. A second interesting comment from the dying Colonel Mitchell was that he wished he knew how General MacArthur had voted on the military court that tried him. Report now has it that General MacArthur voted to acquit Colonel Mitchell. However, General MacArthur obviously has never revealed who he voted.

Congressman Herlong, of Florida, has just placed in the Congressional Record an address by Dr. J. Oille Edmunds, President of John B. Stetson University. In his speech, Dr. Edmunds quotes from the distinguished British analyst, writer and commentator, Lord Macaulay. Lord Macaulay was very distrustful of American democracy. Writing more than a hundred years ago, he declared that one of two things would happen: (1) Either "some Caesar or Napoleon will seize the reins of government with a strong hand" or (2) "your republic will be as fearfully plundered . . . by barbarians of the twentieth century as the Roman Empire was in the fifth; with this difference . . . the Huns and Vandals who ravished the Roman Empire came from without . . . Your Huns and Vandals will have been engendered within your own institutions."

Perhaps Congressmen should not dig up these dire predictions. Perhaps we should be optimists and should seek to allay the fears and apprehensions of our countrymen. Assuming momentarily such a rule, let us repeat some history used several years ago on the subject of optimism.

In 1800, Archbishop Wilberforce said, "I dare not marry. The future is so dark and unsettled." In 1837 Queen Adelaide of England stated, "I have only one desire—to play the role of Marie Antoinette with bravery in the coming revolution." Then in 1849 the great Prime Minister of Britain, Disraeli, declared, "In industry, commerce and agriculture there is no hope." In 1851, just before his death, the Duke of Wellington remarked, "I thank God I will be spared from the consummation of ruin that is gathering around." And in 1875 another great Prime Minister, William Pitt, said, "There is scarcely anything around us but ruin and despair."

In Harpers Weekly in October 1857, there appeared the following: "It is a gloomy moment in history. Not for many years—not in the lifetime of most men who read this paper—has there been so much grave and deep apprehension; never has the future seemed so incalculable as at this time."

"In France the political cauldron seethes and bubbles with uncertainty; Russia hangs as usual like a cloud, dark and silent upon the horizon of Europe; while all the energies, resources and influences of the British Empire are sorely tried, and are yet to be tried more sorely, in coping with the vast and deadly Indian insurrection, and with its disturbed relations in China. It is a solemn moment, and no man can feel an indifference—which happily, no man pretends to feel—in the issue of events."

"Of our own troubles (in the United States) no man can see the end."

Certainly all of these prophets and philosophers of doom in all the ages repudiate all Christian doctrine. If one searches he may find everywhere evidence that man grows better, not worse, and that civilization progresses. Such progress is in proportion to our adherence to Christian ethics and principles

In the dark cloude of national and international discord there are many silver linings. I for one, believe we have enough faith, wisdom, and character to solve our problems and that tomorrow will be better than today.

FARM NEWS

From the County PMA Committee

ACP ADDS TO NATION'S STRENGTH

Farmers have added materially to the strength of the nation through the soil and water conservation practices carried out under the Agricultural Conservation Program over the past 15 years, says J. C. McGee, chairman of the Knox County PMA committee. Through these practices, he explains, fertility has been stockpiled in the soil and the Nation's farms are in much better condition to produce the food and fiber to meet defense needs.

These practices, he explains, have kept life-giving topsoil from blowing and washing away and have strengthened the land to meet the increased current demands. Topsoil has been held on the farm and built up through cover crops, grasses and legumes. The use of lime and fertilizers has been encouraged where needed to stimulate the growth of these soil building crops.

As a result of this conservation work, the chairman explains, the land in Knox County is in better condition to turn out the feed grains, cotton and wheat needed in the Nation's defense efforts.

Urging farmers to gear their conservation efforts this year to the defense production effort, chairman McGee says, "Every farmer shares in the responsibility of producing the food and fiber which are required to back up the rest of our defense program. More feed grain is needed as well as more cotton and more wheat. The need for feed is especially acute. More feed grain will be produced only if farmers increase both acreages and yields."

"Not only should farmers produce more feed but every effort should be put forth to conserve on the grain already produced. It should be protected from spoilage and from rodents and insects. Make every bushel count in producing the meat, milk, and wool and other livestock products which are so important in building a stronger nation."

The chairman also urges farmers to continue to carry out sound soil and water conservation practices on their farms so

Defense Bonds Now Maturing; Options Given

Ten years ago on the first of May, 1941, the United States Treasury sold the first Series E Savings Bonds. Americans now hold around 500 million E Bonds, worth some $34 1/2 billion, present cash value. On May 1, 1951, E bonds begin to mature.

The first E Bonds were titled "Defense Savings Bond, Series E" until after Pearl Harbor when the title became "War Savings Bond", followed in 1946 by "U. S. Savings Bond." Since mid-January the Treasury Department has been referring to them as Defense Bonds. However, under all these names it is the same Series E Savings Bond, the most widely owned security in the world.

About $1,096,000,000 of Series E Defense Bonds issued in 1941 are still outstanding and will mature month by month between now and the end of 1951. In 1952-54 the amounts will markedly increase, reflecting the heavy wartime sales of E Bonds in war loan drives and on the Payroll Savings Plan during 1942-44. In 1955, maturities will begin to come down to peacetime levels.

In a statement embodying these facts, Chairman W. E. Braly of the Knox Savings Bonds Committee, reminds owners of Series E Bonds that under a recent act of Congress (H. R. 2268), they now have three options at maturity, two of which are new privileges:

(1) CASH. The owner of any Series E Bond may receive, if he wishes, full cash payment by presenting his matured bond to any qualified bank or paying agent. This has not changed. The new options are:

(2) EXTENSION. The owner may retain the matured E Bond and for a period not to exceed ten additional years the cash value of the bond will increase each six months, interest accruing at the rate of 2 1/2% simple interest for 7 1/2 years, then at an increase rate for the remaining 2 1/2 years, to bring the aggregate interest return to approximately 2.9%, compounded semi-annually (the average rate as for the original ten-year period.) This choice requires no action by the owner of the bond; any E Bond which is not turned in for cash at its original maturity date will be extended automatically until such time as the owner does present it for payment. At the end of the extended period of ten years, interest ceases. The extended E Bond may be reduced at any time for the full face value plus interest which has accrued at the new rates.

(3) EXCHANGE. Those who prefer to receive interest as current income, rather than having it accrue and add to the cash value of the bond, may exchange maturing E Bonds in amounts of $500 or multiples

AUSTIN HIGHLIGHTS

By Senator "Cotton" George Moffett

AUSTIN, TEXAS, April 28—It is likely that a good slow three inch rain would do a lot more good at this time in North-west Texas than any bill which will be passed by the Texas Legislature. However, about 1,100 bills have been introduced at this session, some good and some bad. Not nearly all will pass and the duty of the 181 members of the Legislature is to screen out the worthwhile bills and send them to the Governor's office. This screening process brings on endless argument because there is difference of opinion as to what constitutes a good or bad bill. We do make some mistakes. However, when the final roll call is made on the last day of the session, it can usually be said that we have not made as many mistakes as we had an opportunity to do.

And it is generally conceded by those who visit other Legislatures that the State of Texas turns out a legislative product which is better than that of states which join the Lone Star State. For instance, each state around us has both a state income tax and a state general sales tax. Texas has neither. The people of our state pay only a federal income tax, and I doubt that we will have either a state general sales tax or a state income tax at any time in the near future.

The Texas Legislature has invited General MacArthur to address us in joint session. He has not yet accepted, but we sincerely hope that he will do so.

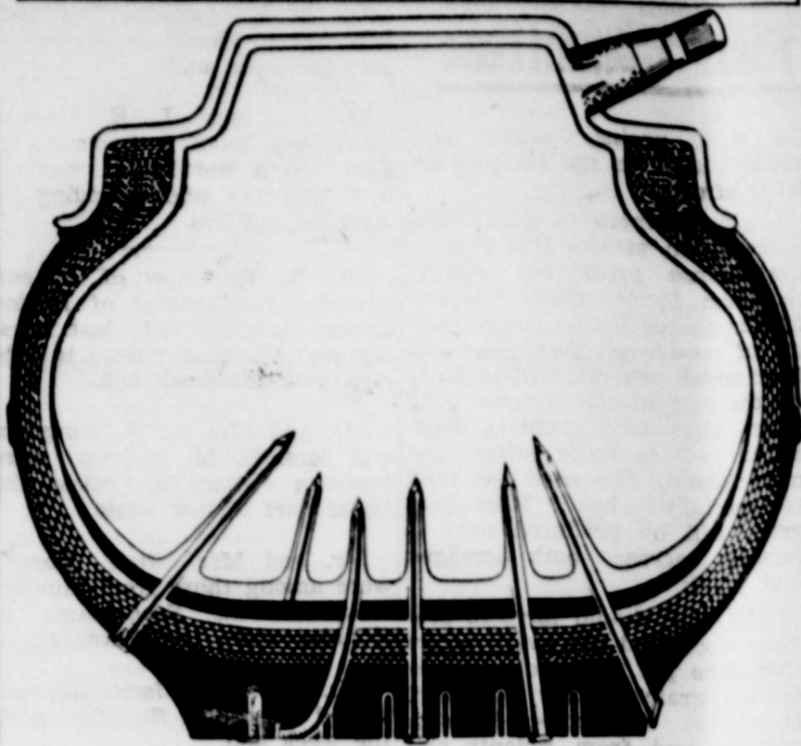

This present session will probably adjourn about Mid-May. Important bills will be discussed in a later article.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Bowley and Mrs. J. O. Tynes spent the week end in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Frank Bowley and family in Big Spring. Mrs. Tynes remained for an extended visit.

Thereof for Series G Savings Bonds. Series G Bonds are registered bonds issued at face amount (selling at par). They bear interest at the rate of 3 1/2 percent per annum, payable semi-annually from date until their maturity in 12 years. There is a time limit after maturity of E Bonds for exchanging them for G Bonds, ask at any bank for details. G Bonds may be redeemed at any time after six months from the issue date on one calendar month's notice to the owner. If issued in exchange for maturing E Bonds, they will be redeemable for full face value whenever they are presented for payment—a new privilege.

The portions outlined apply to all outstanding E Bonds as they mature and will apply to all Series E Savings Bonds issued in the future, Mr. Braly added.

Puncture-Proof Butyl Tube

The above picture shows a cross section of a tire containing Firestone's new, lightweight puncture-proof butyl tube recently announced by local Firestone (dealer), (store manager). The tube is indicated by the heavy black line and the lighter line which outlines the nail points.

The new tube, which seals itself instantly when punctured, is the first of its kind to be made entirely of butyl. It will hold air many times longer than natural rubber tubes and will outlast several sets of tires. Its price is 25 per cent lower than the price of similar products now on the market.

The tube is made in three layers with two puncture-sealing elements under the tread. The inner layer is a special soft butyl, which will flow around a nail or similar sharp object to prevent loss of air and seals the puncture after the nail is removed. An intermediate layer of especially compounded butyl resists tearing or enlargement of puncture holes. The tough, heat-resisting outer layer of butyl provides superior air retention.

County Council Meets April 27

Knox County Home Demonstration Council met in the District Court Room, Benjamin, Friday, April 27, with every club represented.

The report of the District meeting in Wellington was given by Mesdames Richard Winsted, Gilliland Club; and H. R. Hicks, Sunset Club. Mesdames Carl Patterson, Benjamin Club, and J. R. Brown, Truscott, attended the meeting, also.

The Creed to youth, as given at the Mid-Century White House Conference last December, was read.

The Chairman announced that May 2nd is Hospital Day at the State Hospital in Wichita Falls, and the women are urged to visit, and see the patients at work. The Home Demonstration Clubs of the State have sent many thousands of dollars worth of food, clothing, pictures, furnishings, etc. to the Hospitals over

Knox Prairie Philosopher Not Worried Over The Decrease In The Number Of Farmers In Good Old U.S.A.

at Baiting Part Of Spring Cleanup

Spring cleanup time should also be rodent control time, according to pest control specialists. For best results, they advise this three-point program:

One—Remedy poor sanitation.
Two—Ratproof buildings.
Three—Place rat bait according to directions.

Good sanitation demands the removal of all rubbish piles of all kinds, because they afford protection for hiding and underground breeding. Lumber and firewood should be piled on racks at least one foot from the ground—never directly on the ground. Insofar as possible, feed of all kinds should be protected.

Corn cribs, granaries, cellars, homes, warehouses, and other buildings should be ratproofed to keep the rats out. Bulletins which describe ratproofing methods may be obtained from the local health officer or county agent.

Baiting is the third and most effective blow in the Spring anti-rat campaign. Outstanding among the available poisons is warfarin, a powerful substance discovered in the laboratories of Dr. Karl Paul Link, Biochemistry Dept., University of Wisconsin, by Drs. Mark A. Stahmann, Miyoshi Ikawa, and Link. Warfarin bait is highly recommended because:

It kills both rats and mice; the potency of the poison is consistent; it is a slow killer, and does not cause "bait shyness"; rodents do not develop a tolerance for warfarin; it may be purchased as a concentrate or as ready-mixed bait; and warfarin is relatively safe to use.

In using warfarin bait, it is important that it be made available to the rodents at all times. Bait stations—shallow containers protected with a board or a wooden box—are normally examined and replenished at least every 48 hours. A limited number of permanent bait stations may be used to kill new-comers and control reinvastion.

whereas the number of farmers is determined by economics, what city jobs are payin, how hot the sun is, etc. You take this far m m fionnetu e ehres -B g farm out here, the last thing it needs is somebody else to support. It ain't half supportin me like it is.

The number of farmers in this country ought to be left up to nature, the same as the number of barbers is. Some times a given town will have too many barbers, some times not enough, but either situation don't last long, something which no expert could figure out because it is too simple takes place, and before long the thing has leveled off, either some barber takes up farmin or some farmer takes up barberin, whichever way the situation is leanin in. The same thing is true of blacksmiths and five-and-ten-cent stores and beauty parlours and fillin stations and meat markets and school teachers and candidates for county office.

I don't care if 16 percent or 2 percent of the population is still farmers, we can still raise more stuff than most town birds can pay for.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Texas Hunters Given Support

AUSTIN—The case of Texas sportsmen, as concerns improved waterfowl hunting privileges, will be presented to Federal authorities this year with new backing.

The Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission vainly tried last year to have Texas zoned for the waterfowl hunting season. Now, the Commission in preparing to renew its request will have the backing of the newly organized Outdoor Writers of Texas.

The Executive Secretary of the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission who was invited to attend the journalists' organizing meeting, said the new group's support is timely.

Several of the outdoor reporters have contacts in other states and some of them know officials of the United States Fish and Wildlife Service, the agency which decides waterfowl shooting regulations.

The Game, Fish and Oyster Commission tried last year to work out a more satisfactory season for Texas nimrods. At the Commission's May meeting, it asked to have Texas divided into a northern and a southern zone.

But in August of 1950, the Wildlife Service held the zoning plan would not be desirable from a conservation viewpoint.

In the end, Texas got a 45-day season beginning November 3. Thus, when the season ended December 17, the shoot in the coastal areas was just beginning.

The Executive Secretary said the state is so large that an ordinary statewide short season is bound to work a hardship on the sportsmen in either the northern or southern part of the state.

Approximately 15,000 Texas 4-H boys have been awarded breeding animals as a result of the Sears-Roebuck Foundation sponsored pig program. The program has been operating in the state for 14 years.

Lone star ticks, if not controlled will keep cattle in poor condition.

People who work in the sun are particularly susceptible to skin cancer on hands, face and neck. In Texas, where there is an abundance of sunlight, 140 out of every 100,000 people develop skin cancer; in Michigan which gets half as much sunlight as Texas, the rate is 24 per 100,000.

Recreation activities planned and carried out by family groups can help to relieve tension and perhaps divert many worries which probably aren't necessary anyway.

Cotton khaki takes its name from the East Indian word meaning "earth color."

Cotton farmers are urged to apply now, through organized groups, for the free classing and market news services offered under the Smith-Doxey Act.

Cotton's strength is roughly equivalent to that of structural steel, or about 100,000 pounds per square inch.

County Makes Plans For 1951 Cotton Crop

In a series of three meetings held in Knox County during last week, plans were outlined for a seven-step cotton program for 1951. County Agent Bill Paimmeyer said the meetings are being held to aid farmers in producing better crops, and a follow-up program is being planned on insect control to be carried out in July.

Meetings were held at Vera, Munday and Knox City. Included on each of the programs were talks by Roy Saunders and Mark Wadzeck of the Western Cottonoil Co., and Paimmeyer. Mr. Saunders explained the cotton variety program which is carried out in this territory under the sponsorship of the oil mill. Wadzeck spoke on the subject of cotton insect control and showed a film on the subject, while County Agent Paimmeyer also spoke on insect control.

At the Munday meeting, Russell Penick, veterans instructor, spoke on balanced farming. Care of the soil was discussed by E. R. Ponder, FFA instructor, and Clay F. Grove, soil conservation committeeman.

Included on the program at Knox City were Jess Gilpin, P. M. A. Rip Collins, veterans instructor; Charlie Cape, soil conservation service, and Ancil Waldrip, president of the Knox County Farm Bureau.

The Vera program included Alonzo Cartwright, veterans instructor, Milton Ford, PMA committeeman, and Cleland Russell. Business men made a survey of the insecticide and farm implement program, and farmers presented special problems at the meetings.

The program of meetings is sponsored jointly by the Western Cottonoil Co., the Knox County Farm Bureau, county farm implement dealers and the county agent.
