

Kracker Krumb's Odd Bits Salvaged At Random

What's the number? Alright, turn the right one. Whoa. Turn the left one, whoa. There it is!

That kind of talk went on part of the day Sunday and practically all day Monday.

Don't quite make sense, until you know what it's all about, but it was making sense where it was going on.

The occasion was the moving into the new post office building.

Folks were coming in locating their boxes and trying to learn the new combinations.

In some instances the combination cars were not attached to the boxes. Take ours, for instance. The card was gone.

So one post office employee got on the outside and another on the inside. The one on the inside said, "Turn the right one, whoa; turn the left one, whoa."

The second time he hollered "whoa" was when those notches on the combination wheels were at the right spot for the box to be opened. Sure enough it did! Then our troubles were over. But that sort of operation had to be repeated several hundred times as employees of the post office were teaching patrons their combinations.

We learned ours Sunday. Monday morning we went over, pulled out notes out of our pocket and started turning. It would not work!

Just as we were about to give up in despair and call for one of the post office bunch to help us out, we discovered we were trying the wrong box.

And such as that went on all day. "It's really been a madhouse today," the postmaster said, "but we're gonna get it worked out."

The postmaster then pulled out the key to his office door—the one near the front of the building marked "Postmaster."

He inserted the key. It would not work. Then he worked some time getting the key out of the lock. He tried it again. It wouldn't lock or unlock the door. We left him in that predicament.

We received a notice of package too large for our box.

Presenting it at the window, we were greeted with the woe-filled greeting, "I don't even know where to begin to look for it."

We knew it was an ad for this week's paper—and had to have it. We stepped inside the "private" door and started in to help find it. Kenneth Whittemore stepped up and knew exactly where it was.

It all goes to show what a mess things can get into when moving, and post offices are no exception.

Last Saturday, there was a sign at the letter drop in the old post office, saying something like this, "Get your mail here through Sunday. Monday morning start getting your mail at the new post office building."

So the move was made, and everything's working out. So far as we know nothing has been lost, except, maybe, a few tempers, but that all goes with moving.

Folks are complimenting the new post office, saying it's really nice.

The nice part about it all is that we have boxes that just anybody and everybody can't open.

Another nice thing is that it's off the through highway. Now one can go to the post office without so much dodging of cars and heavily loaded trucks (Continued on last Page)

Saturday Is Poppy Day

Fashioning the poppies which the public will be asked to wear next Saturday are John E. Hall of Tulsa, Okla., Clair G. Young of Crawford, Okla., Wilmer B. Reed, of Corpus Christi, Texas, and Jack Sandieffer of Elgin, Texas, all patients in the Veterans Administration Hospital at Legion, Texas. The poppy, a memorial flower to those who gave their lives in Americas service during the World Wars, is fashioned by the patients in the Legion Hospital and in numerous wards at the Veterans Administration hospital at Waco.

The making of the poppy is recognized by the doctors at the hospital as worthwhile occupational therapy. Employment for hundreds of disable veterans, in the state of Texas, confined to hospitals or unable to do other work has been provided by the Auxiliary's poppy-making program. The work has given those men the encouraging experience of earning money again and has filled empty hospital days with interesting, beneficial activity.

Local poppy sales will be sponsored by Lowry Post No. 44 of American Legion, and proceeds will go toward equipping the junior baseball team this summer.

KICKING MULE CANT PULL

Editor: It seems to me often the things that make us fume and sweat are things that never happened and probably never will. I believe we should be interested in the higher things of life and not be too hasty to find fault with folks, and not give them a kick. For even a mule cannot kick while he is pulling, and he cannot pull while he is kicking. Neither can you or I.—Contributed.

Revokes Bond Election

Members of the Munday School Board met on Friday, May 18, and revoked their order calling for a bond election in the Munday district for the purpose of repairing and building new school facilities. The revoking order read, in part, as follows:

"On this the 18th day of May, A. D. 1951, there came on to be considered by the Board of Trustees of Munday Independent School District the question of revoking the order calling for a bond election, upon the petition of John W. Inman and twenty-five others, for the purpose of construction of school buildings and improvements, and after due consideration by the Board, the Board is of the opinion and finds that it would not be advisable to hold said election May 28th, 1951, as heretofore ordered.

"It is therefore ordered by the Board of Trustees of Munday Independent School District that an order calling said election and giving notice thereof be, and the same is hereby in all respects revoked, and said election will not be held as heretofore ordered for reasons deemed sufficient by said Board of Trustees.

The consolidation petitions presented Judge Eubank were signed by 25 voters of Sunset and 51 voters of the Munday district.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

SALEM, INDIANA, REPUBLICAN LEADER:
 "The Postmaster General has asked Congress to double the postage on newspapers, which will mean an increase in costs to the people who buy them. No mention has been made however, about a means to eliminate costly expense and practices of the post office department."

ANN ARBOR, MICH., WASHTENAW, POST-TRIBUNE: "Adam Smith's rule that 'Money' should be one-fifth or one-tenth of 'Annual Produce' is even now in 1951 badly broken—for our money is now $175 billions, or more than one-half our 'Annual Produce', whereas it should not at the utmost exceed $30 billions, of one-fifth."

NEW SHARON, IOWA, STAR: "All 'welfare states' are alike. They promise you anything and everything if you'll vote them into power—security, more money for less work, sharing the wealth, soaking the rich'. Look out for all promises of something for nothing. They don't put that cheese in the trap just because somebody loves mice."

WYNNIE, ARK., PROGRESS: "When we can learn to do without some of our pork barrel projects we will have our wish—adequate government at reasonable cost. As long as we continue to call for the plush we will pay plus prices."

BRIGHTON-PITTSFORD, N. Y., POST:
 "Joined in the fighting in Korea are Turks, Greeks, Brazilians, British and many other members of the United Nations who wish to take an active part in sponsoring the cause of free men. All free nations who are a part of the United Nations can get in but Nationalist China, one of the big four, still recognized as authentic representative of that country and denied the right to fight its own cause of freedom."

CONTROLS CAN BE INFLATIONARY

As April neared its end, the Office of Price Stabilization put into effect a new set of regulations governing meat. It is hoped that they will help to stabilize meat prices and to prevent further development of the beef shortages which have appeared in many heavily-populated areas.

An organization which represents a large number of meat packers issued a statement offering the hope that the regulations would be successful. Then it added, "Unless these new regulations are enforced and work better than the freeze order has worked, more and more meat animals will be sneaked around the regular markets at the expense of the law-abiding companies. This means that people able and willing to pay any price for meat will get it, but the bulk of consumers who rely on the legitimate trade for meat will find supplies growing smaller."

"We trust that these new controls along with all others will be temporary, as administration officials have promised, and will be removed the moment the government's program permits. Controls inevitably lead to consumer rationing, which everybody knows the public does not want."

In the long run, the only way to stabilize meat prices is to increase production and neutralize excess purchasing power through sound government fiscal and monetary policies. One of the greatest dangers in even the best of controls is that they encourage the black market—and that in itself is extremely inflationary. The few wax fat at the expense of the rest of us. The sooner we can abandon all controls, the better off the country will be.

WHAT A DIFFERENCE!

A while back the Russians made a great to-do of the fact that by government decree, retail prices on a long list of items had been sliced as much as 50 percent. This was made the subject of a Chattanooga News Free Press cartoon which is both amusing and instructive. The cartoon points out that the average Russian worker is paid the equivalent of $34.61 per week. It then shows what, after the wonderful price cuts, he must pay for various commodities.

Pork costs him $4.00 a pound and rice $1.67. A pound loaf of bread comes to 68 cents, and butter is $5.00. A man's suit can be taken off the shelves for a mere $280.00, while a woman's dress is given away at $110. A table model radio can be had for $272, and a midget motor car for $2,000. All the worker has to do is save enough each week out of his $34.61 to buy what he wants!

Here are the fruits of total government ownership and control of production and distribution. Retailing in Russia, for example, is non-competitive as we understand the word. The state runs the stores—and determines what will be stocked and what will be charged. The customer can like it or lump it.

Contrast this with the stores which are found on every Main Street in America—the chains, the independents, the specialty shops, the supermarkets and so on. The results of a free, competitive market are evident on every side—better goods, attractive services and the lowest possible prices.

Uncle Sam Says

Ten years ago newspaperboys rallied to the defense of their country by organizing an active campaign for the sale of U. S. Defense Bonds. Theirs was an outstanding record. Reviving that action of a decade ago, today's newspaperboys are again undertaking an active solicitation of subscribers on behalf of their country. Their campaign will be a feature during May, "Defense Bond Month." During the week May 14-19 the carriers will distribute and collect 25 million Defense Bond Pledge Cards. U. S. Treasury Department

On the subject of "The Old Home Town", the Karnes County News of Runge once said:

"It is just a wide place in the road. It may lack man of the conveniences of the big city. Its social life may be a little slow and its people may lack a certain amount of sophistication, but it is the home town."

"It is a part of us. As we walk the block or two down main street, we know every inch of the walk; even in the dark, we know where the loose boards are and where the high places and low places are.

"We have the feeling that can come to one who knows he is among friends and those he knows and who know him. There is only one place like it in the world—the home town. No matter how far business or pleasure calls, we turn our backs on the world and come home."

Washington News Letter

By Congressman Ed Gossett

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 19—We have received numerous letters from business men protesting proposals to increase taxes on commodities they sell. Everybody whose taxes are to be increased is screaming. For this they perhaps cannot be blamed. However, the country is faced with a serious dilemma. On the one hand continued deficit financing will eventually destroy public credit. On the other hand continued deficit financing hand, greatly increased taxes will destroy many small business people and could well dry the source of revenue. We are reminded of the oft-quoted statement of the famous Chief Justice Marshall in the case of McCullough vs. Maryland, in which he said: "the power to tax is the power to destroy." The Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee of the House has a famous saying that: "you can shear a sheep many times but you can skin him only once." Actually, the only alternative to the aforesaid dilemma is a reduction in the size, cost, and activities of the Federal government. The elimination of all unnecessary spending and greater efficiency becomes more and more a national necessity. If we do not deny ourselves of the some of the things we want from government, we will soon come to the point where vital necessities will have to be curtailed.

Feeling that the very survival of our country is at stake, I have been voting for nearly all amendments making cuts in appropriations. In the same mail with the numerous letters protesting increased taxes, always comes numerous letters protesting these cuts in appropriations. It has been a common complaint in Congressional circles for years that the big labor bosses backlist a Congressman if he votes against any of their approved measures. A Congressman may vote for ten bills endorsed by the labor czars, but secure their condemnation for one vote cast against them. I was distressed this week to find some of our Rural Electrification officials falling into the same class. REA has been, and is a great program. It has been largely self-sustaining. Congress has, as a rule, provided adequate financing for REA. In the agriculture appropriation bill passed by the House this week, we gave REA twice as much money as requested by the budget, to wit: $200,000,000. In the bill passed a few weeks ago, some of us voted for the Gary amendment to eliminate an obviously unnecessary public power transmission line in the State of Virginia. All of the Virginia congressmen voted for this elimination amendment except one. Two other minor amendments opposed by REA were adopted. Now, a number of Congressmen who supported these amendments have been getting letters threatening political reprisals from some REA officials. These letters do not express the views of most officials, but of course a Congressman is hurt when large groups of patriotic farmers are falsely told that said Congressman is not a friend of their program. This is the sort of political pressure and propaganda that can result in bad government, and great harm to the country. If I belong to any bloc whatsoever, it would be the farm bloc, yet duty and honesty compel me to admit that in the Department of Agriculture, as in all Departments, there is unnecessary duplication and waste of manpower. Furthermore, the Department of Agriculture, as most other departments, has grown enormously within the last decade. For example, we list some of the administrative units in the Department of Agriculture, with the amounts of money appropriated for them in 1941 and the amounts proposed for 1952.

The stability and the prosperity of the family-sized farmer is absolutely necessary to the stability and prosperity of the Nation. We must continue to have a good farm program. I believe that a vast majority of the farmers want their Congressmen to scrutinize the Agriculture budget and to do what he can to bring about the efficiency, improvements and sound public service.

Let's Talk LIVESTOCK

(By Ted Gouley)

FORT WORTH, May 18—The livestock industry settled into the controlled pattern as outlined by OPS to a large degree during the past week.

Midwest cattle feeders, who like other cattlemen had been waiting for the meat structure to settle down somewhat, dumped a two day supply of fed cattle on the markets the first day of the week and the result was a price drop of around $1 per hundred.

As the week wore on the prices rallied, except in the case of plain and medium slaughter steers and in most cases, moderate to good advances in prices were reported by the end of the week.

At Fort Worth, receipts were heavier but as was the case at all Southwestern markets the runs were still light due to the late pasture season and due to rains in many sections which halted movement of off-pavement cattle.

The market at Fort Worth was generally steady with substantial improvement in cows, calves and stocker prices.

Hog markets were somewhat larger the first of the week on Monday, prices broke sharply all around the market circuit, but later in the week these losses were recovered with a closing Fort Worth top of $21. Heavy hogs and sows have been under pressure all around the market loop and prices 50 cents to $1.00 per hundred lower have been effective and these classes failed to rally so well as the handier weight butcher hogs.

An unusual development in the beef trade in the East this week has been the fact that some steer beef has been selling there BELOW the wholesalers permissible ceiling prices.

Such a development could take a lot of wind out of the argument for rigid controls on beef.

The Washington scene has highlighted the argument of businessmen and livestock producers before congressional committees there on renewal of the act creating OPS.

While Senator Maybank informed OPS Director DiSalle that renewal of the act was going to be tough in view of the public apathy and that it was possible a short extension of 30 to 90 days was all the OPS would get, it was considered that renewal of the act was a certainty.

President Truman this week called on all consumers to press their congressmen for renewal of controls and rent controls. This is generally regarded as the opening gun in the administration's counter-attack.

During the past week a number of sales of cattle at Fort Worth were surprisingly near the all time high points. C. T. White of Brady had some 260 pound calves at $43. In the fat cattle line, there were two loads of heavy, over 1,300 lb. steers from G. A. McClung of Johnson County. These steers at $35 and $36 per hundred were probably within 50 cents to $1.00 per hundred of what they would have brought any time, even at the highest period.

Walter Graham and M. A. Graham of Happy and Silverton, Texas, respectively had yearling steers and heifers at $35 and $36 this week that were likely within $1 per hundred of the high time. In these shipments were some cows at $28, just a shade under the all-time record for fat cows here.

On Monday at Fort Worth there was a shipment of two loads of Brahma steers that sold at $32. It is doubtful if these cattle would have brought over $33.50 or $34 at the highest time this year.

They serve as a perfect example of the varying ideas as to "What will work" under OPS regulations.

One big packed buyer told me, "We can't go over $28.50 on these kind of cattle. The federal graders would grade them Commercial and Utility on us." Another big packer said, "These cattle would have been bought under $30.00 or maybe at $30.00, to keep us in compliance." An order buyer for another large packer said, "We could pay $30 to $31, and if the bruises did not prove too bad, the higher figure would be okay, the way I see them." Yet these cattle brought $32 after the packers, large and small, had their chance.

Competition for beef is still very aggressive, despite controls.

We see where some expert in Australia says the continent Down Under could support 33 million more sheep than at present if a program of improved pastures was worked out.

squash; another group includes beets, okra, corn, white squash, onions, celery, radishes, and half mature beans and peas; and the third group is either sweet or Irish potatoes.

Prepare them well to make the "tonic" more effective. Miss Mason suggests fresh green, wilted with a hot French dressing and served with green onions. This could be garden lettuce or others like spinach, tender mustard or turnip greens. Cook a mixture of greens as turnip, mustard, spinach and beet tops, and season with bacon drippings or salt pork.

Leave some of the green stems of radishes or tops of fresh onions. Eat fresh string beans when they are young enough to have seeds no larger than a pin head. Try English peas cooked with tender young asparagus in cream sauce.

Arrange fresh vegetables on a relish tray using radish roses, celery curls, carrot strips, fresh green onions, sliced tomatoes and green pepper rings. Garnish with garden lettuce.

Miss Mason suggests you see your county home demonstration agent for further recipes and directions.

Be careful. Observe state and local traffic laws.

FARM NEWS

From the County PMA Committee

MORE OF BOTH GRASS AND GRAIN NEEDED

There is nothing inconsistent in calling on the farmers of Knox County to produce more feed grain and at the same time encouraging better pastures and hayland, says J. C. McGee, chairman of the Knox County PMA Committee.

In support of this he quoted from a recent statement made by William A. Minor, Assistant to the Secretary of Agriculture:

"In striving for abundance, there is no simple or single answer. It isn't a question which can be reduced to an either/or choice of grass or grain. We need both. Our goal, in fact, is to use every acre so that it contributes its full share."

"Grasslands offer a contribution which pays off twice—first, by making a net increase in livestock feed from pasture, hay and silage for meat, milk and other products, and, second, by guaranteeing richer yields of corn, cotton, and other crops by employing grasses and legumes in sound rotations."

"The first can ease the pressure which the growth in livestock number, particularly the forage consuming animals, beef and dairy cattle and sheep, is laying upon the Nation's supply of grain. Grasslands improvement, moreover, is one means of providing the feed supply essential to keeping cattle and sheep production on the rise. The second is fundamentally food and fiber insurance which will become increasingly valuable as the present emergency is extended into the future.

"Under these circumstances, there is nothing inconsistent in advancing a grasslands program at this time. Better grasslands for America will help lift farm production into more lasting balance with the present and future needs of the Nation—for an adequate diet at home and for a safe balance in food reserves to share with famine-stricken nations overseas."

AUSTIN—Radiological health hazards involved in civil defense will come under five days of intensive study at a short course to be conducted at the State Department of Health in Austin beginning June 11. State Health Officer George W. Cox has announced.

Radiological hazards result from atomic bombing, being one of the bomb's most dangerous aspects.

Designed primarily to indoctrinate supervisory personnel in the essentials of radiation defense so they can conduct training programs in their own communities, Dr. Cox said the course would be held each month during the summer for a different class of participants.

The health officer said the study is open to:

Representatives of counties or cities where radiological defense is not vested in local health departments; supervisory or professional personnel of local health departments; representatives of state departments engaged in civil defense work; fire or police officers or instructors; and members of industrial medical or safety departments.

Dr. Cox, chief of Texas health and emergency medical services, summarized the course as covering:

• A different kind of Diesel farm power, the Massey-Harris 4-cylinder 44 Diesel brings new efficiency, economy, pulling power... new money-saving field performance to the Diesel farmer. It's the result of an amazingly simple engine design. A special firing chamber—called a Dyna-Cell—creates a cyclonic rotary turbulence of the burning fuel on every power stroke. Burning fuel swirls the full length of the stroke exerting equal pressure throughout piston travel. Fuel burns slower, smoother... delivers a pushing force. It's cushioned power. Dependable power. Greater lugging power because there's full power on every stroke of every piston.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Sets A Good Example For The Politicians, Admits That He Has Made A Big Bust

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek seems to be changing his mind, his letter this week reveals. A mind like his ought to be changed occasionally.

Dear editor:

I've been thinking all week about that letter I wrote you last week, the one pipin ocean water to every farm in Texas and solvin the rainfall problem, and on second thought, the trouble with the world today is not enough people are big enough to admit they are wrong, for example, everybody seems to have gotten slipped up on when the Chinese jumped into the Korean war right when we'd been led to believe we had it won and the boys would be home by Christmas, last Christmas, that was, but you don't hear nobody coming right flat out and sayin he just made a plain bust; a Washington expert can guess wrong on somebody who later winds up in jail, but he won't have the spunk to admit he was 100 percent wrong, he spends his time tryin to put the blame on somebody else for steerin him wrong; what this country needs is more men with enough sense of humor to throw back their head and laugh at their own mistakes and then do their best to correct them. A few more men who admit they ain't infallible and if they're right once in a while it's a pretty good average, could be used practically everywhere these days.

At any rate, as I started out to say, on second thought I have decided maybe it wouldn't be such a perfect idea to have salt-free ocean water piped to every farm in Texas.

It would be fine, all right to sit on the front porch, throw a switch, and water your crops, but with the water meter tickin off the dollars, it would take a lot of pleasure out of it. Like it is, we may not always get enough rain, but what we do get is free.

Also, under the present system, the weather is one of the best friends a thinkin man has when it comes to thinkin up excuses for stayin out of his field, no use plowin when rain is scarce, you'll dry out what moisture you got; no one plowin when it's wet, anybody knows

FOOD BOUGHT BY ONE HOUR OF LABOR

The average American worker today can buy more food with an hour's labor than at any time in recent years, despite advanced retail prices, according to reports submitted to the House Agriculture Committee by Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan.

"An hour's earnings in a factory may buy less of some things now than it has in the past, but it will buy more food," he said.

Comparing February, 1951, purchasing power with other years, the figures showed that an hour of factory labor buys 25% more bread than in 1939, 50% more than in 1929 and twice as much as in 1919.

Analyses show that bread also contains more actual nutritive value, penny-for-penny, than any other food, according to the American Bakers Association. The baking industry this year is observing the tenth anniversary of white bread enrichment, which nutrition experts declare has improved materially the health of the American people.

Citing this improvement in health, Dr. Elmer L. Henderson, president of the American Medical Association, states that "I do not think it is too much to say that a very important part of the more buoyant health and increased mental and physical vigor the American people enjoy today can be directly credited to the enrichment of bread with essential vitamins and minerals."

that. But under the proposed new system, everything would be regulated, including working hours, and if I wanted to work regular hours, I'd moved to town.

When they start layin them water pipes, they can by-pass farm. I was wrong last week. I made a bust. Move over, Truman, MacArthur, Marshall, Atlee, Taft, Hoover, Acheson, etc. Yours faithfully, J. A.

Early Control Of Cotton Pests Is Money Saver

The economic value of effective control of insect and parasite pests which prey upon Texas crops and stock was emphatically shown in 1950. Entomologists for the A. & M. College Extension Service estimate conservatively that systematic control work during the year saved Texas farmers and ranchmen $10,000,000.

The major portion of the year's entomological work was with cotton insects but with inadequate attention being given to problems relating to animal parasites, fruit, vegetable and field crop insects, and grasshopper control. Of the 273 training meetings conducted 200 were in the field where farmers were given assistance in identifying cotton insects along with the instructions on how to make infestation counts and records. Dusting and spraying equipment also was demonstrated at these meetings.

The 1950 cotton crop was produced under most unfavorable conditions emphasized by the second highest boll weevil population in the State's records. The Extension entomologists' concentration upon salvaging the crop from invading insects was responsible for 76 percent, or 5,285,005 of the 6,912,000 acres harvested, being treated for control. Only 40 percent of the 1949 acreage was treated.

A leading factor in the high percentage of treatment was a leafworm infestation for the first time in several years. The 145,610 growers who followed insect control recommendations used more insecticides, both in dust and liquid concentrate forms, than in any preceding year.

Supplementing work in the field, a weekly insect infestation report was mailed to all cotton producing counties as well as daily and weekly newspapers, and radio farm directors.

The 1,002,574 domestic animals treated one or more times during 1950 for screw worms was occasioned by the most severe infestations of this parasite recorded in recent years. Treatments represented an estimated 93.91 percent of know cases and three times the number of animals receiving total treatment in 1949. There was a definite trend during the year toward the use of emulsified concentrates along with an increase in the number of power sprayers and a decline in dipping vats. On the other hand, the number of farm premises sprayed for fly and mosquito control declined more than 75,000 as compared to 1949.

Thirty-six training meetings in animal parasite control were held in 1950 with 4,018 farmers and ranchmen attending. Thirty-eight counties were aided directly in this work, and all of the county agricultural agents in three Extension Service districts in addition to individual agents in all other districts were trained.

Although fruit trees did not produce normally in 1950, 44,775 acres of orchards received the specialists' attention. Spraying of pecan orchards was satisfactory, one 500-acre orchard producing more than 225,000 pounds of nuts, due mainly to insect control measures. Only 239,856 acres of vegetable crops—divided between home and commercial growers—received treatment. During the season, however, Extension specialists conducted 52 garden training meetings at which 2,462 growers received instructions. Extension entomologists assisted at 4-H entomology contests conducted on district bases to select teams to compete in the State contest. The specialists prepared a kit to be used by county agricultural agents in training teams. The practical side of training teams was their help in making cotton infestation counts and assisting in town and community home garden insect control, county agents report.

Beyond their immediate field of service, Extension entomologists assisted the Texas Forest Service in planning and conducting a program for controlling cut worms which are destructive to seedlings. This program will project into the future.

WRITES FROM KOREA

Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Howard had a letter recently from their son, Pfc. Bobby Howard, who is in Korea several miles from Seoul. He said he was listening to President Truman's speech while writing his letter home.

Texas 4-H'ers Active In Dress, Home Projects

Increased activity in three national 4-H programs relating to personal appearance and the home, further emphasizes that Texas club members are striving to "make the best better."

More than 11,000 girls are expected to take part in county Dress Revues, while some 46,000 enrolled in Home Economics projects are eligible to compete in the Girls' Record Program. Approximately 15,000 4-H members are carrying out the objectives of the Home Improvement project which include jobs like refinishing furniture, sanding floors, making slipcovers, drapes and painting walls.

The Dress Revue—open to all girls enrolled in 4-H clothing—teaches poise and good grooming as well as how to select and wear clothes. The Girls' Record activity invites all girls to participate who have completed projects such as canning, clothing, garden, poultry and home rounds beautification.

Members' record books, reports of club work, demonstrations and exhibits are all considered in making awards on a county, state and national level when the 4-H Club year ends. County winners receive medals of honor and state winners a trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago next fall. In addition, $300 college scholarships are presented to national champions in both the Girls' Record and Home Improvement programs.

Dress Revue awards are provided by Simplicity Pattern Company. Girls' Record are given by Montgomery Ward, and

GOODYEAR SUPER-SURE-GRIP TRACTOR TIRE

First choice for 2 reasons!

1. Deeper soil penetration — greater pull. Goodyear's open center tread has straight deep-biting lugs. They cut cleanly into the soil, penetrate full depth, full length. Straight bars closer together at the shoulders wedge the soil for firmer grip—don't "plow out" soil at the sides.
2. Balanced straight lug tread design — longer wear. Goodyear open center lugs are all straight, all equal in size and spacing. That's why every lug works equally, pulls fully, wears more evenly.

Goodyear Super-Sure-Grips don't cost a penny more. Get them for your tractor.
