

Kracker Krumb's

Odds Bits Salvaged at Random

A little babe is born. He's a lucky little rascal—he ain't got no teeth!

He's entirely on a liquid diet, but he doesn't mind. Soon, though, he advances to a semi-solid sort of food.

As time passes, he sprouts some teeth—and folks are just as proud of him as they can be. Most everyone who happens by wants to see his "little toothies."

More teeth come through, and he advances further to solid foods. But he has to kinda learn how to eat the solids with his new teeth.

Finally, he has practically a full set of teeth, but he soon learns that they are just "baby teeth" and are not to last him very long.

He doesn't worry about it much, though, because he learns that when he sheds a baby tooth a new one pretty soon pops up in its place.

Sometimes the pulling of a loose tooth bothers him, and he's been known to consider tying one end of a string to the tooth, the other end to the door knob, then slamming the door shut. That takes nerve, but sometimes there's a young'un with nerve enough to do it.

In the course of time all the baby teeth are gone, and the new ones have replaced them.

He thinks he's now fixed for life. He now has what he's to find out later are erringly called "permanent teeth!"

With good luck and proper care, he gets by a number of years with a set of teeth that will crack pecans with ease and fiddle around with "jaw breaker" candy without trouble.

Then maybe his luck runs out, and he finds out that his permanent teeth are not permanent any more.

Cavities came that need to be filled, then another molar starts cutting up something awful, and he finds that the only real relief and proper remedy for it is extraction.

Luck continues with him, in a measure, and maybe he reaches nearly half a hundred years in age.

He had friends, good friends, in the dental profession who warm him that his permanent teeth are more of a liability than an asset to him. He's getting along pretty good, yet, and may be thinks the friend who gave those first words of warning just didn't know what he was talking about.

Some more chompers flare up, and again he finds the only remedy is extraction. He studies a little more about the friendly counsel given by his friend of the dental art.

But his mastication is still pretty good and he postpones the inevitable a little while longer.

He then discovers one day that every little ivory in his head is pounding like a blacksmith on an anvil. A week end of that kind of stuff, then he's ready to look up his friend again, admit the friend is right, and ask for relief.

In about four sittings and so many weeks, all the defective little trouble makers are uprooted and removed, and he's back just like a little baby again—no teeth.

He gets his real permanent, but removable, ones and is told to keep them in and learn to use them. He's back on liquid and semi-solid food again, just like the little babe. It's all just one vicious cycle.

He pretty nearly has to learn to talk again, too. And keeping them in his mouth is a pretty big order because—well, just because.

We've just completed the vicious cycle—and it ain't no picnic, Jasper!

Knox 4-H And FFA Stock Top Ft. Worth Market

Top market prices were received for nine steers and two lambs sold by Knox County 4-H and F. F. A. boys at the Fort Worth Stockyards on April 20. This stock was presented to the people of Knox County in the second annual junior livestock show held at Knox City on April 18, and was assigned to Farmers Commission Company. Oil Activities

Although the official 24-hour potential test figures had not been announced the latter part of last week, Sid Katz's No. 1 Alexander Trust Estate well, five miles southwest of Truscott, seemed to be a Ben Conglomerate discovery.

Latest available reports were that the well flowed 13 barrels of oil per hour during a three-hour test. Flow was through 20-64-inch choke.

Completion is being made from open hole from the pay zone reported around 685-92 feet. Casing was set at 6276 feet.

The No. 1 Alexander is about 10 miles east of production. Katz has also staked another wildcat, the No. 1 Masterson, three miles northwest of the Alexander venture.

In the North Knox City Field, Stanolind Oil and Gas Company completed the No. 1 Carl Wall, four miles northeast of Knox City, in section 4, block 5, D. C. Burnett subdivision. Equipped to the pump, the well produced 108.23 barrels of 39 gravity oil per day. Production is from perforations at 4196-259 feet. Gas-oil ratio was 22-1.

Boy Scouts Go On All-Night Trip

Last Saturday the Munday Boy Scout Troop went out to the City Park for most of the day and all night returning home Sunday morning.

An unexpected event was when a puppy got a fish hook in his tongue and it was taken out by John Sahadi, Jerry Jungman, Roger Bell and Dr. McClellan. Later a possum was caught by Mr. Howard and given to the Scouts who chased it, freed it but all kept their distance from its fangs.

While gathering wood for firing a small grass snake was found and captured. The specimen was studied and played with to see if it would crawl over rones and un walls. May be a eroun of herpetologists in that Scout eroun some day.

A rose swine was made in a large tree and all took turns on this unscheduled ride. Although some may have gotten dizzy they all enjoyed the event.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

PERRIS, CALIF., PROGRESS: "In the strike of electrical workers against the Southern California Edison Company, the firm's president, W. C. Mullendore, vigorously exercised his Constitutional right of freedom of speech by presenting the company's side of the controversy . . . For exercising the right of free speech, however, charges of unfair labor practices have been filed with the National Labor Relations Board against the Edison Company by the electrical workers' union . . . Labor, no less than management, should recognize that for this Nation to remain free, Constitutional rights cannot be denied groups or individuals."

ROSEBURG, OREGON, NEWS-REVIEW: "If the free world can be lulled into acceptance of Russian declarations of peaceful intent, the Reds will gain time to adjust their internal position. Freed from external pressures, they can devote full attention to establishing stronger holds over the Soviet sphere of influence, tightening controls, and building up aggressive strength. Naturally, we must show an interest in any peace overtures . . . But, from the lessons of the past, we should remain fully aware of the real purpose behind Red declarations. We should intensify, rather than relax, our pressures."

EAST ROCHESTER, N. Y., HERALD: " . . . the Delaware Courier ran a story as follows: 'Congress has adjourned! Let us be thankful for this mercy if for no other. It has shoveled money right and left as if the Treasury were a bottomless reservoir of gold.' . . . But this was March 8th, issue of the Delaware Courier, in 1853 . . . It must be admitted that time changes nothing, and the battle against the federal government was just as acute 100 years ago."

LOST IN THE SHUFFLE

Writing in the Oregon Voter on that eternal problem, taxation, Ralph T. Moore said, "The idea of taking from each in accord with ability to pay . . . was irresistible in the days when we had the rich to tax. But it is losing its glamor in these days when the poor man finds that he is the fellow with the presumed ability to pay. Somehow the ability part has been lost in the shuffle. Only the pay part remains."

The lowest federal income tax rate is 22.2 per cent and it applies only to taxable incomes under $2,000. In other words, those with extremely modest means must pay out almost a quarter of their taxable earnings to the U. S. Treasury—and the rate rises very swiftly thereafter. All other taxes must be piled on top of this levy. The great masses of the people have the most to gain from economy in government.

A gentleman farmer is one who usually raises nothing but his hat.

SALUTE TO COMPETITION

A businessman has a plaque on a wall above his desk which reads as follows:

"My competitors do more for me than my friends do; my friends are too polite to point out my weaknesses, but my competitors go to great expense to advertise them."

"My competitors are efficient, diligent and attentive; they make me search for ways to improve my products and services."

"My competitors would take my business away from me, if they could; this keeps me alert to hold what I have."

"If I had no competitors I would be lazy, incompetent, inattentive; I need the discipline they enforce upon me."

"I salute my competitors; they have been good to me. God bless them all!"

Business competition takes many forms. Sometimes it is in price. Other times it is in the quality of service. Other times still it is in some innovation which people find interesting and attractive. Whatever the form, competition—which exists in its true state only in a free economy—is the greatest force for progress that exists.

GOOD CITIZENS

In the highly competitive retail field it is a time-tried axiom that business goes where it is invited and stays where it is well treated.

As part of their constant program of giving better service to customers many retailers, both chain and independent, are working with towns and cities in which they are located to help iron out the traffic congestion problems that harass legions of communities today. Anybody who has ever tried to park a car on a busy downtown street can certainly appreciate the magnitude of the job to be done.

Many stores are providing parking lots for their customers. In an effort to move people rather than automobiles, a transit company in one city was encouraged to offer round-trip tickets at special prices during certain hours of the day so that shoppers could get to town without increasing the traffic jam.

This is just one way in which the local retailer, serving his own best interest, is a good citizen of the community. By helping his home town he helps himself.

WHERE THE MONEY GOES

Do you ever kick about the high cost of food and other goods? You'd be wiser to kick about the high cost of government.

Last year the average American family of four had an income of $3400. It paid out $1100 of it in direct and indirect taxes. That $1100 would have been enough to buy a $21 basket of groceries each and every week of the year.

THE PREACHER'S BOX

AN ALLEGED LETTER TO A FATHER FROM HIS SON

I am just a little fellow, but I have been doing some thinking. Some day I will be a big man just like you. You are my ideal—I think you can do anything. I like to hear you talk, and to watch you walk, and to see you drive the car. You are so strong, and it seems that you know how to handle any situation. I am never afraid when you are around.

But, Dad, there is something that is bothering me a lot. I know that I am going to be like you, even though I should try to be different. I like to go to Sunday school and church. When I get a little older, very likely I will not—'cause you don't go. I like to study the Bible now, but will I when I get as big as you? You do not. When I get big like you, Daddy, I want to go to church with my wife; but will I? You don't very often. I am going to be like you. I want to give thanks at the table for food, clothing, and the home God has given us. But, Daddy, I want to help my wife win others to Christ, and especially our children—but how can I? You think only of your work, and paying for our house, and buying our food and clothes. This is very nice, Daddy, but the Bible says, "Man shall not live by bread alone," and I know that is true, because people are dying every day and leaving their pretty homes behind, and also their savings accounts. Daddy, I am afraid you wouldn't take time off from the store to go to heaven.

Anyway, Dad, I have enjoyed talking with you about these things. I do hope you will become a Christian some time—so that I can be the kind of man I want to be—and be just like you, too.

Love,
 YOUR SON

News From The U. S. Congress

Congressman Frank Ikard

Washington, D. C., April 24, 1953. For the last two weeks the Subcommittee on Military Operations of which I am a Member has been holding hearings inquiring into the purchase of certain supplies by the Armed Services. One of the most interesting examples we had was the case where the Army had purchased Forty-Five Million Dollars worth of overcoats which were designed in such a way that they were of little use. The design of these coats was really something—they were too big and bulky, and then as an added feature, they had built-in leggings that were sewed on at the bottom of the coat and were supposed to be zipped around the soldiers' legs, which pretty obviously would not lend itself to very rapid action or movement under combat conditions. From my observation as a combat soldier, I agree wholeheartedly with the testimony of a Korean veteran who testified that when he had to run in Korea, the only thing he could think of to do was just take the coat off and run off and leave it. In addition to the faulty design of the coat, this hearing pointed up what appears to be a practice of the Military of trying to spend all of the money that is appropriated to them in any given time whether there is any real need to spend it or not. There was some testimony that would indicate that this Forty-Five million Dollars worth of coats was purchased on the last day of the fiscal year principally because on the next day the money would have been lost to the Military and would have had to be re-appropriated by Congress. Another case we considered was one in which the Military had acquired a number of small trucks to be used for material handling, which involved several million dollars. This purchase had been made from a Company that had never made this sort of equipment before, and after delivery, most of the trucks would break down after just a few hours of operation. From the evidence we heard, it appears that their only value was for scrap. It is careless purchases such as these, and in many instances an apparent disregard of the intent of Congress in making its purchases, that leads many of us to believe that there can be substantial reductions in military appropriations without in any way affecting the armament of this country. One witness before our committee who has had forty years of experience in military procurement said that it was a common practice and policy for the military to try to spend every cent of money that was available to them every year regardless of actual need and that some people felt that this had to be done in order to justify their requests for appropriations to Congress. He said further that as a result of this policy that many times thirty or forty percent of the military purchases were made in the last two

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Dr. Geo. W. Cox, M. D., State Health Officer of Texas

AUSTIN—A cough is just a symptom and not a disease says Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. It is an indication that something is wrong in the body's respiratory tract or breathing tube.

When an object obstructs the respiratory passage a cough is nature's reflex to remove the obstruction. Such a cough is simple and transient. The same thing happens when the throat or three weeks of the fiscal year. This practice costs the people millions of dollars, and when the day comes that those responsible for handling this money realize that it is no crime to return a balance to the treasury, we will have a much more effective defense establishment at a whole lot less cost.

This time of the year finds many people coming to Washington for conventions and meetings. Recently we have had the newspaper people from all over the country and the D. A. R. Representatives. There are many more conventions scheduled for the next few weeks.

Visitors in our office this week were Mrs. E. R. Riggs of Graham, Mrs. J. Brooks of Denton, Mrs. J. E. Hall, Mrs. H. H. Martin, Mrs. Paul J. Pond, and Rev. and Mrs. Raybon Porter, all of Wichita Falls.

or lower passages are irritated during a cold, whooping cough, asthma, smoking, low humidity and dust.

A cough can be produced by more serious conditions such as tuberculosis or cancer. Constant coughing brings on fatigue as a person's rest is affected by the constant hacking.

A prolonged cough might indicate chronic bronchitis, a condition which in most cases is secondary to an infection elsewhere, such as the nose, throat or sinuses. Mucous draining into the throat may cause such irritation that the victim may involuntarily cough repeatedly to bring up the material.

Hoarseness is produced by persistent coughing in some persons. Hoarseness is a symptom of an inflamed larynx. Hoarseness lasting for six weeks or more is a serious symptom suggestive of cancer and must not be disregarded.

No persistent cough should be disregarded. The nature of the infection and its location may be shown by an examination of the material expelled, and a thorough examination by the family physician will determine the cause and give a basis for treatment.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Wants All Tax Collecting Handled Through The Pentagon, Where The Red Tape Is

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek ought to know what he's talking about this week, inefficiency.

Dear editor:
Since I had plenty to do, you know most people usually say since they didn't have anything to do they took it easy but if I waited until I didn't have anything to do before taking things easy I'd never get around to it, at any rate, I was out here taking things easy yesterday when I stopped under a tree and sat down and pulled a newspaper out of my pocket I'd been carrying around a few weeks and unfolded it and after I got comfortable read where one of the reasons there was an ammunition shortage in Korea some time back was that it took things so long to get through the Pentagon.

As I understand it, the Pentagon is a building in Washington where the army transacts its business on paper and according to this story it sometimes requires an order nine months to a year to get from one end of the Pentagon to the other, due to the involved red tape. Consequently when a General in Korea calls for some more bullets, it takes months before the order trickles down through the Pentagon, and the obvious remedy is to get Generals who can tell twelve months in advance what the enemy is gonna do, which directions he's gonna move in and at what hour, and get set for him.

But what I started out to say was is what I want to know is why don't we use the Pentagon for other phases of government? For example, why don't they put the tax collecting department over there? Nothing would make a bigger hit with me than its taking the government nine months to a year to get around to sending me a tax bill. People are always talking about government inefficiency, but there are some phases of government that can't get too inefficient to suit me, and mailing tax statements heads the list. Also, I could use a lot more efficiency and sloppy bookkeeping in crediting taxes and getting around to finding out who hasn't paid up yet.

I believe with the proper plan and channel in the collecting through the proper offices in the Pentagon or any other building they got up there where red tape is swirling, a man could get by for years without paying taxes and it might be years after that before anybody got around to discovering it.

There's nothin' wrong with red tape, it just ought to be removed from the ammunition orders and hauled over to the tax collecting room.

Yours faithfully,

LUGGAGE FASHIONS FAVOR "SOFT" BAG

A new trend in women's luggage is to the "soft" bag.

Many soft-sided new "carryalls" are coming out in all sizes. Typical of the new style luggage is one zippered case in tan and white canvas. This bag has a place for six pairs of shoes, but when the shoe compartment is removed, there is a big expandable space for such clothing as pajamas, sweaters, and other pieces that pack better rolled than folded flat.

Another popular new style is built along lines of the Navy's sea bag. In Scotch plaid canvas, it has handles at the top. This deep, roomy bag is ideal for packing odd-size items and for clothing that does not have to be folded flat.

THE WD TRACTOR DELIVERS MORE POWER PER GALLON

The Allis-Chalmers Model WD Tractor, with center fire combustion, gets more power from each gallon of fuel.

Extensive research by Allis-Chalmers engineers resulted in a new combustion chamber design. Spark plugs are located so that ignition occurs right in the center of the chamber. Manifold design, valve location and ignition timing are all carefully coordinated. As a result, the fuel mixture fires smoothly and expands out evenly . . . like ripples from the center of a pond.

With this design you get new power for engine size . . . new fuel economy.

Creep Feeding Recommended For Beef Calves For Faster, Uniform Gains

Beef producers can put extra pounds on their calves—faster and more efficiently—by creep feeding. That word comes from U. D. Thompson, animal husbandman for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Right now, he adds, every "trick-of-the-trade" must be used by producers if they are to realize a profit from their operations.

Creep feeding will put additional weight and finish on calves and thus increase their market value. The mother cows, nursing creep fed calves, will remain in better condition; usually less time is needed to get the calves in top market condition and they go to market before losing their bloom.

Grain prices are still high points out Thompson, but since the cows have had a pretty rough time, calves were weak when they arrived and the grain should give them a chance to overcome this condition between now and weaning time. It will also, he adds, give the cow her a chance to more fully utilize the good range growth for getting back into top condition.

Thompson says one of the best growing feeds for calves is whole oats. Additional protein feeds may not be needed for this, can be supplied by milk and grass. When calves reach four months of age, they are old enough to take on corn or milo and these two grains may be added to the oat ration.

The specialist suggests a ration of 65 pounds of corn or milo and 25 pounds of oats for calves when they reach four months of age. When the green grazing disappears, consideration should be house Saturday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock. Assisting her were Miss Billie Jo Dickerson, Mrs. Travis Martin and Mrs. Jo Griffith of Seymour.

About two hundred people attending held at the Baptist Church Tuesday evening.

given, he says, to the addition of protein to the ration.

If protein is needed Thompson suggests adding about 10 pounds of cottonseed meal to a mixture of 25 pounds of oats and 65 pounds of corn or milo. He adds that the total supply of the protein should probably amount to more than 15 per cent of the ration—with the balance grain.

Generally, he says, early calves started on creep feeders make more economical gains and learn to eat in less time than do calves started at later dates. It is not necessary, he explains, to grind the grains since young calves can efficiently utilize threshed grains. However, he adds, the older mid-summer calves being creep fed should have their grain cracked or ground.

Don't, says Thompson, overlook having bonemeal and salt available at all times for the calves. He likes to locate the salt and bonemeal supplies near the creep so both cows and calves can get their necessary minerals.

Finally, he says, the local county agent can supply additional information on creep feeding including a bulletin which contains details on the subject.

BOYCE HOUSE
Gives You Texas

I walked into the Mexican government's travel information office last summer in Los Angeles and asked a young lady in Mexican costume a question. A man walked toward me and said, "You're from Texas." I replied, "Yes, I know—it's the way I talk, the drawl." He continued, "You're from Fort Worth."

"Well," your favorite (I hope) columnist rejoined, "you're better than the others out here; you not only name my state but my city; how do you do it?"

He went on, "And your name is House, Boyce House."

It turned out that he was from Texas, too; that we worked together in Fort Worth during the Casa Manana days 15 years before. His name was Mike Gallagher and, appropriately, he was born in Dublin—Texas, however, not Ireland. He has charge of the Mexican government's travel information office in Los Angeles and owns a coffee plantation in Mexico.

But he plans to return to Texas and raise dairy cattle near

While in Los Angeles, I took a street car ride and obtained a transfer but saw that I wouldn't have time to get to the baseball park before the game started and so didn't use the transfer. I was about to throw it away when I read these words, "To sell, exchange or give away this transfer is a misdemeanor for which the penalty is fine or imprisonment, L. A. Municipal Code, Sec. 72-20."

Although no specific mention was made as to a penalty for throwing it away, I figured that might be illegal, too. So, Traction Company, if your books are out of balance and you wonder what happened to Transfer 001 896 issued on Saturday, August 30, 1952, the answer is: I burned it—after returning to Texas.

One thing I can get along without: Chicken-fried steak—which tastes like neither chicken or steak.

Beneficial "Hold-Up"

A "HOLD-UP" that's helpful in the home workshop is illustrated as it appeared in Family Handyman. It's really a boon when you are working alone.

Just take a scrap piece of lumber, either a 1 by 3 or a 1 by 4; a hinge, and a hook and eye. How to put the "hold-up" together is clearly indicated in the drawing. When the prop is not needed to support long pieces of lumber, hardboard or other panel material, it drops out of the way.

After hinging it, hold it in position that's level with the work bench, in order to locate the correct position for the hook and eye

DECORATOR TOUCHES TRANSFORM ROOMS

Home decorators use the formula, cotton-plus-imagination, to transform drab, uninspired-looking rooms into happy havens.

The beautiful finishes, varied rooms is covered with cottons to have always made them popular with homemakers for draperies, slipcovers, rugs, bedspreads, curtains. But new home decorators are working cotton even into architectural devices for altering the appearance of a room.

A cotton-covered screen is made to divide the living room from the dining area. Cotton is used as "wallpaper" to give a "separate room" look to dining or sewing nooks or foyers. A single wall or a foyer or living room is covered with cottons to serve as a focal point.

THE SECRETARY'S PROGRAM FOR 1953

I am sure you have read in the newspapers or heard over the radio that the Secretary of Agriculture is asking cotton farmers to produce about 12 to 12½ million bales of cotton in 1953.

WHY IS HE ASKING FOR A REDUCTION FROM THE 15 MILLION BALE CROPS OF 1951 AND 1952?

1. The 15 million bale crops of the last two years has supplied our domestic and export markets and in addition have rebuilt reserves (carryover) from a very low 2 million bales to over 4 million bales.

2. Although our domestic needs for cotton have stabilized at about 9½ million bales, export markets have declined sharply in the last 12 to 18 months so that likely no more than 4 million bales will be reported during the 1952-53 marketing year.

3. These factors of production and disappearance of cotton have acted to reduce prices by 25 per cent or more. It is felt that a smaller 1953 crop will strengthen cotton prices to farmers.

4. A 1953 crop much in excess of 12½ million bales would almost certainly have a further depressing effect on cotton prices and bring production controls in 1954 and thereafter. Most cotton farmers do not want to see these results of a large 1953 crop.

WHAT DOES THE SECRETARY SUGGEST?

1. It is suggested that cotton farmers as a whole plant less than five acres for each six planted in 1952. Some farmers will need to reduce more than the average if the acreage reduction is achieved. It is known that because of unfavorable weather and moisture conditions cotton was not planted or a low acreage was planted on some

2. It is suggested that soil improving crops and feed crops be produced on diverted acreage. Most farmers need to grow soil improving crops. In addition our large numbers of livestock require more feeds and forages than were produced in 1951 or 1952.

Driving Through Water is Not the Time to Make a "Big Splash"

PHOTOS BY CHEVROLET MOTOR DIVISION

Although today's automobile has progressed far beyond the point where a severe spring rain will stall the engine, it still is not an amphibious vehicle.

Failure of the engine to bring you through normal flood waters, which might cover highways, can be attributed mostly to water on the ignition system caused by splashing. Today's engines are better equipped to combat excessive moisture and driving through water, by the use of such things as improved rubber housings on the spark plug terminals.

These pictures show the splash effect when a car "plows" into a seven-inch depth on a flooded highway.

At 20 m.p.h., the water shoots high, completely drenching the underneath part of the car. At 5 m.p.h., the forward motion of the car creates a small wave running ahead of the front bumper, with control of the vehicle greatly improved.

When you encounter an inundated highway, slow your car down and approach with caution. As a safety tip, on driving through flooded areas, remember to try out your brakes at slow speed immediately after reaching dry ground. When wet brakes do not respond to pedal action, hold brake-pedal down moderately with left foot, while right foot feeds enough power to carry car forward and dry out brakes. This action, over a few hundred yards, should restore your brakes to safe driving condition.

LIVESTOCK
BY TED GOULDY

FORT WORTH—The likelihood that Southwestern cattlemen may well consider supplemental feeding of this year's calf crop to enhance the chances of selling many of beef calves loomed on the basis of the way the stocker market behaved in the opening session of the week at Fort Worth. Indifferent demand for stockers except cows and high grade calves and yearlings was notable. Reports from Corn Belt points indicated feeders there aloof. A recent survey by the Wall Street Journal summed up the intent of many feeders to put their corn in the loan instead of into cattle feeding. Some 200 head of high grade
