Odds Bits Salvaged at Random

Names make news.

That's a statement we've heard ever since we've been newspapering.

And if that's true, that little 8-page edition we got out last week as our between Christmas and New Years effort is considered a newsy paper.

We carried a total of 154 of those little gems of news that we refer to as locals—news of out of town people visiting here and local people visiting away from home.

By a conservative estimate, the locals carry an average of five names each, and by that token we had 770 names of people in these locals alone.

That is not counting the names appearing elsewhere, such as in the regular news and in news from our correspondents.

We met a local boy home from the service a few days ago, and he was also back from a hitch of overseas duty.

He'd kept the Munday Times following him wherever Uncle Sam saw fit to send him.

He commented that some of his army buddies, especially those from New York way, would pick up the local paper and get a big horse laugh out of the news or so-and-so visiting some place or other.

But, he said, a country boy from a small town like he was would pick up the paper and really go for that type of news. Which is a difference we're kinda proud of.

Big papers don't go for the lowly locals much, and that's where the New York boys found the oddity in the Munday paper.

We might add that in carrying all those locals and names, our paper didn't carry a single story of a murder, homicide, suicide, rape or burglary.

True, we don't like to print that kind of sordid news, but we weren't shying around it last week. We're happy that this type of news didn't happen in the area covered by our newspaper, to our knowledge.

The guys from New York may laugh at our news items, but it's not the type of news that gives you a sort of uncomfortable tumbling sensation at the pit of the stomach when you read it.

We've never lived in New York, nor do we have a hankering to do so. If we could, they'd probably laugh at us just like they laugh at our locals.

We wouldn't have the freedom of movement and actions that we have here.

We couldn't yell at a friend plumb across the block. In the first place, he wouldn't hear us amid the city's noise; and, in the second place we'd probably land in jail for creating a disturbance.

We couldn't wave a friend down in the middle of the street and stand beside his car and converse with him. If that happened, we'd probably land up in a hospital or morgue.

We'd like to visit New York sometime. But we imagine it wouldn't be long until we had a yearning for the wide open space that couldn't be controlled.

We were reared in the cotton patch and spent most of our days in and around the small town. Reckon it's the kind of life we like.

And we still like those little locals for our country newspaper.

Mrs. Guy Rutherford and son, John, of San Angelo were week end guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Mayes.

Mrs. Donald Jolley and sons of Muskogee, Okla., visited in the Lee Haymes home several days last week.

HOW STRONG ARE WE?

As the new year begins, it is the part of wisdom for a nation, like a business, to review its assets and liabilities.

On the credit side, the United States has an unrivaled standard of living. Our men and women enjoy wages and working conditions superior to those existing anywhere else. The tide of goods and services that flows endlessly along the American production and distribution line staggers imagination. Materially speaking, business, agriculture and labor are doing well.

We have a political system which comes as close to being responsive to the wishes of the people as any one can conceive of. In the last presidential election the people removed from power a party which had been in control for 20 years and put another in its place. In some future election the party now in power will be replaced. But no heads roll; no purges are held; the losers are not liquidated. All are free to air their views.

We are no longer actually at war, unsatisfactory as the Korean situation is. If recent reports are correct, our military strength and that of Western Europe have shown remarkable improvement. The chance of another world war is less than it was.

So much for the credit side of the ledger. What of the debts?

The most disheartening domestic development of recent time has been the growing dependence of millions of people on government, mainly the federal government, to provide services and benefits that, if a free system is to be preserved, must remain the responsibility of the individual and the family group. There has been a blind seeking for a kind of cradle-to-grave security whose end, in the sweep of history, has always been the sapping of moral fiber and spiritual values and ultimate slavery. The most obvious manifestations of super-government are crushing taxes and mounting national debts, and the inevitable undermining of economic and political freedoms.

Another phase of the debit side is found in the long strides that have been made in either socializing outright American enterprises and resources, or in subjecting them to so much government dictation and control that socialism comes ever nearer. And socialism, historically, is but the forerunner of communism or some similar system of government by oppression and terror.

It is true that our present government is pledged to reverse this deadly process. It is true that the forces that would destroy our free system and replace it with a very different kind of system are still awaiting their chance.

As a matter of self preservation we must put the welfare of the nation first in considering important national issues, because our jobs, our businesses, our farms, and our liberties depend upon the perpetuation of a strong nation of self-governing people.

What the decision will be always depends entirely upon our moral strength. Will we welcome policies and programs that are in accord with the philosophy of maximum freedom for all—and will we accept the temporary financial dislocations that such policies and programs may create? It will not be easy to end the era of do-all, give-all government. But, if the traditions and ideals to which we pay lip service, and which have made us great and strong are to be preserved, it is as necessary as the air we breathe.

Nineteen fifty-four will be a year to test whether the American people will have what it takes to maintain themselves as independent individuals.

GOOD WAGES MUST BE EARNED

When Congress meets again, efforts will be made to once more raise the federal minimum wage, which applies to all interstate commerce.

Many will favor this because of honest sympathy for the lowest-paid workers. But we would be foolish indeed if we blindly refused to consider the dislocations and the problems a higher minimum inevitably creates.

For one thing, various businesses, retailing among them, have job opportunities, often on a part-time or seasonal basis, for workers without skills. The value of such workers is obviously limited. Should the wage become too high, fewer of them will be employed and businesses will get along as best they can with minimum payrolls.

Most important, when the bottom wage is raised, forces are put in motion which tend to boost wages along the line, right up to the top. Higher paid categories of workers naturally see no reason why their historical wage differentials should not be maintained. Then prices and costs soar again, and the consumer feels another bite in the pocketbook.

Good wages are certainly desirable—but they must be earned to be sound.

"The world has always been a bad world for the cowardly, the tired, the weak; always a good world for the brave."—Bruce Barton.

WHAT AUTHORITIES SAY

John 4:23-24. "But the hour cometh, and now is, when true worshippers shall worship the Father in spirit and in truth; for such doth the Father seek to be his worshippers. God is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship in spirit and truth." John 17:17. "Sanctify them in the truth: thy word is truth." John 16:13. "How be it when he, the Spirit of truth is come, he shall guide you unto all truth."

The idea of Christmas is not found in the Bible. Not in the Word of God and therefore not guided by the Spirit of TRUTH, in relation to matters of worship.

Secular reference books have this to say concerning the subject; The World Book Encyclopedia, Vol. 3, page 1425—"In most of Europe, the day is known as Christ's birthday. Scandinavian countries still use the PAGAN name "Yule Day." "No one knows definitely when the Christmas feast was first celebrated. . . . But in the year 354, by order of Bishop Liberius of Rome, December 25th was adopted." . . . "The early church fathers chose December 25th because the feast of the sun or winter solstice was a familiar Roman Feast celebrating the victory of light over darkness. This idea was easily turned from a PAGAN to a Christian one, since Christians consider Christ as the light of life."

Encyclopedia Americana, Vol. 6, page 523—"In the fifth century the Western Church ordered it to be celebrated forever on the day of the Old Roman Feast of the birth of Sol, as no certain knowledge of the day of Christ's birth existed. The holly, the mistletoe, the Yule log and the wassail bowl are relics of pre-Christian times. In the East, Christmas was celebrated on the 6th of January."

Britannica Jr., Vol. 4, page 187—"The early Christians worshipped mainly in secret, but when Constantine became the protector of the Church many of the PAGAN festivals were taken over and changed to Christian feast."

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Dr. Geo. W. Cox, M. D., State Health Officer of Texas

AUSTIN—Regular licensing of nursing homes operating in Texas got under way this week, the State Department of Health said today.

The department has been issuing temporary licenses since last July to both nursing and convalescent homes. Regular licensing has been delayed until the State Board of Health approved minimum operating standards formulated by the department.

The board unanimously approved operating standards for nursing homes at its December 14 meeting, but standards of operation for convalescent homes have not yet been acted on.

The department was charged by the last legislature with the responsibility for seeing that elderly residents in nursing and convalescent homes are properly housed, fed and attended to when ill.

A nursing home can be granted a permanent license after a trained inspector has checked its method of operation for compliance with the law, State Health Officer Geo. W. Cox, said. The license must be renewed each year.

"We've got a responsibility to fulfill to our elderly citizens," Dr. Cox said. "We'd rather fulfill it by cooperating with nursing homes operators, rather than resorting to police tactics."

Non-compliance with minimum operating standards will mean a denial of license, and operating without a license will mean a fine. Inspectors will work through local health officials whenever possible, Dr. Cox said.

Under the terms of the law a nursing home is an institution that gives routine medical and nursing care to residents. Convalescent homes are defined as institutions giving custodial care but not nursing or medical care.

Any home, the law says, where four or more residents unrelated to the owner are furnished services beyond board, room, and laundry will fall under a nursing or convalescent home classification.

Screen for Nursery

A FOLDING screen is mighty handy to have in the nursery, where it can be used to keep drafts off the crib and as a shield against light, noise and activity.

Like the one in the illustration, the screen may be made in the home workshop and neatly decorated by means of decalcomanias or stencils. Panels without the nursery characters may be finished with blackboard slating material, so the pre-school child will have a place to draw.

Materials for this simple device may be obtained in any lumber yard—1 by 2-inch lumber for the framing and crossbars, Masonite

Tempered Duolux, a durable hardboard that's smooth on both sides, and the hardware. The panels, after being cut to size, are inserted in grooves which have been cut in the framing with a power saw.

The stick-on pictures are available at paint and hardware stores, which are sources also for stencils used in hand-painted work. Major paint companies make slate surfacing material, which simply is brushed on the Masonite Duolux with a brush after the panel has been prepared with two coats of clear sealer.

THOSE 1954 RESOLUTIONS

The old year is gone forever. The new year has been properly and appropriately rung in.

For some celebrants, the aftermath of New Year's was a colossal hangover. For others it marked a time of sober reflection, of thanksgiving of planning and resolve.

A lot of us settled back in the rocking chair and surveyed our pitfalls of last year and looked hopefully ahead for this one. Many things came to mind. We procrastinated a little—that broken hay baler that was never fixed; that stubble land that is not turned yet; that pasture tank that is dry and undredged; those profits we lost because the poultry wasn't ready in time for top prices.

LoLks like New Years resolutions are in order—resolutions that can and will be carried out to make farming operations more successful. It's one thing to say it. It's another thing to do it.

Those good resolutions, all too often, die an untimely death death along about the middle of January. But they're important! Accomplishment of our resolves by a careful planned program and lots of old "sweat of the brow" make the difference in profit and loss at the end of the year, in a large number of cases.

It's a good idea to take these factors into consideration when and as such is subject to the provisions of said House Bills. No provisions herein are intended to be in conflict with the provisions of said Acts.

In accordance with the provisions of said House Bills, the State Highway Commission has ascertained and set forth in the proposal the wage rates, for each craft or type of workman or mechanic needed to execute the work on above named project, now prevailing in the locality in which the work is to be performed, and the Contractor shall pay not less than these wages as shown in the proposal for each craft or type of laborer, workman or mechanic employed on this project.

Legal holiday work shall be paid for at the regular governing rates.

Plans and specifications available at the office of H. T. Cunningham, Resident Engineer, Munday, Texas, and Texas Highway Department, Austin. Usual rights reserved. 24-2tc

making those resolutions:

1. Crop planning. Which crop this year will return a good profit after production costs are taken out? And is this crop in demand now or is there a surplus?

2. Cultural practices. Are the methods that I use the most economical methods to cut down the costs of planting, cultivation and harvesting?

3. Insect control. How much will it cost to keep down losses from insects this year? Money spent on insect control, in most instances, is returned many times over by increased production.

4. Orderly marketing. Can I arrange the selling of my crops in such a way that I can take the best advantage of higher prices or will I have to "dump" on the market at harvest time. This is an essential point.

Texas farmers who make the best profits this year will be the ones who resurvey 1953, resolve for 1954, and they go to work immediately to accomplish those resolutions. Today is the day to start.

This pretty sportswoman is warmly clad to spend her winter holiday on skis. For her outing in the snow, she wears a smart ski jacket of Reeves cotton poplin. The cotton fabric is ideal for the cold weather outfit, for it protects her from the wind and snow.

New styling came to the trucking industry with the 1954 model GMC trucks. Two-tone paint and upholstery, new grille, instrument panel, and lots of brilliant chrome dress up this GMC pickup with passenger-car style. The engine is 125 horsepower, highest found in any pickup today, and the famed Hydra-Matic transmission is available throughout the light and medium duty lines.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Refuses To Take Gloomy View Of New Year; Says 1954 Can Take Care Of Itself

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek sizes up the new year this week, and he seems to be facing it with about the same attitude as he handled the last one with.

J. A.

Dear editor: With the new year already on us, I know it's customary to take a look at what's coming up, review what's happened, and resolve to do better.

Personally, I don't take a very gloomy view of what happened this past year or what's likely to happen in the new one.

I read the other day what you might call a gloomy outlook on things. According to this fellow, nothing seems to be going right, high school graduates can't spell, politicians don't tell the truth, business is droppin' off, atom bombs are getting bigger, crops insects are gettin' worse, crimes on the increase, mankind is gettin' meaner, cattle prices will get lower, groceries will be higher, taxes will never come down, freedom is gettin' scarcer.

The trouble with that feller is that he knows too much and at the same time he doesn't know enough.

I have never seen a year yet that turned out as good as I wanted it to or as bad as I was afraid it would.

And I expect 1954 to be about in line with all the rest. The trouble with most people is that they are always figurin' if they can just get through the present year the next one will be different, but it won't, not so you can tell it, and anybody who is waitin' till next year to enjoy life is liable to wind up with a whole series of postponements and very little fun. I know I could work harder in 1954 than I did in 1953, but I don't intend to and I doubt if very many people do either. Those that were workin' hard this past year probably will work hard this year.

Understand, I have nothing against hard work, those that go in for it claim it's the most satisfiyin' thing they've ever tried, but I can also report from personal experience that those that go in for loafin' claim it has its satisfactions too, and a man shouldn't be narrow-minded about either side of the question.

The same applies to the world in general. There always have been people who could figure out how the world couldn't keep on goin' much longer, and there never has been a time when the world didn't outsmart em. A lot of sad things are gonna happen in 1954, but a lot of funny things will too. The difference is, the sad ones aren't hard to find, but the funny ones you have to be on the look out for. As for me, I intend to be on the look out for em.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

MOUNTED PLOWS

first choice for better farming

For WD and WD-45; 3-bottom Mounted Plows in 12-, 14- and 16-inch sizes; for CA; 2-bottom Mounted Plows in 12- and 14-inch sizes.

The trend is to mounted plows and Allis-Chalmers "built-on-the-square" design is a symbol of good farming as well as great strength. Free-Swinging from a single hitchpoint the plow follows contours naturally... high clearance helps you cover trash... natural line of draft assures uniform plowing depth.

Tough, spring steel frame and beams are set at right angles to each other and rigidly braced. No other design gives you so much resistance to twisting, springing or misalignment. Triple-strength shares—3/8 in. thick, with up to 20 percent more metal, give you correspondingly longer wear.

FREE PROGRAM FOR FARM FAMILIES ON JOHN DEERE DAY

Five Color Films to Be Shown

Choosing the guest of honor for the Mapleton centennial celebration provides occasion for all kinds of conflict in the picture "Mr. Christmas," feature presentation of the forthcoming John Deere Day.

"Mr. Christmas," a full-length, full-color entertainment feature, will highlight the John Deere program planned for farmers and their families by Harrell's Motor and Equipment local John Deere dealer. The program is to be held at the School Gym on Thursday, January 14th. The program is scheduled to start at 7:30 p. m.

The picture, "Mr. Christmas," filmed specially for John Deere Day, is the story of a small community's centennial celebration and how it affects the lives of the people there.

Erville Alderson as Abijan Dean heads a cast of outstanding Hollywood players that includes B. G. Norman, Barbara Woodell Lloyd Corrigan, Minor Watson, Chic Chandler, Milburn Stone, Kirby Grant, and Emory Parnell.

"Mr. Christmas," according to Mr. Harrell, is filmed in beautiful color and the story runs the gamut of emotions from the touching to the tickling, and promises the audience many moments of suspense. Other films included on the program are "The Job Ahead," telling of the task that faces agriculture as a result of the population increases and what's being done about it; "The Safety Pin," with those John Deere Day favorites, the Gordon family; "Oddities in Farming," dealing with the unusual in farm machinery and farming practices; and "What's New" for 1954, consisting of a parade of new John Deere machines which will be available for the coming year.

In announcing the program, Mr. Harrell stated that the program is free for farmers and their families but added that admission will be by ticket only. Farmers who have not as yet received tickets by mail or who require more, are invited to stop at Harrell's Motor and Equipment and ask for them.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pruitt and Mr. and Mrs. Sargent Lowe visited relatives in Fort Worth from Wednesday until Saturday and attended the Rice and Alabama football game at the Cotton Bowl in Dallas on Friday.

BOYCE HOUSE

Probably the oddest reason ever given for building a railroad was the one that was behind the building of the Diamond Jo Railroad in Arkansas. In 1874, a man living in Chicago started to the "fount of healing waters" in Hot Springs, Arkansas, with the hope of finding a cure for rheumatism. He was Diamond Jo Reynolds.

The Cairo and Fulton Railroad then being constructed through Arkansas carried travelers bound for Hot Springs to Malvern Junction; the remainder of the 25-mile journey was by horse-drawn stage-coach and passengers suffered from bouncing, jerked and jolted painfully over the mountain road.

On Reynolds' trip, the driver boasted that he knew every rock in the 25 miles, to which Reynolds retorted: "I dare say; and it is quite evident that you are careful not to miss any of them." Before reaching the end of the trip, the stage broke down and passengers suffered from exposure, hardship and delay. When they protested, the driver replied: "These here jolts will be of more benefit to you than the baths you're going to take; just wait and see." He further suggested that those who did not like the service might try getting in some other way.

That gave Diamond Jo something to think about. After his stay at the springs, he boarded the stage for Malvern. When he arrived at the hotel in the village, he looked back over the rockway. "I've got to come back here some day," he told the hotel keeper. "But I promise you, I'll never ride that way again." "What will you do?" queried his host. "Come in on a mule."

"No," snapped Diamond Jo, "I'll build a railroad." And he did—the Diamond Jo Railroad.

This man, who became a great American industrialist, was born in New York State in 1819. He entered commercial life at the age of 17 by buying a few cattle and, after having them fattened and butchered, peddled the meat. He taught school a short time, then purchased a flour mill. He traded the mill for a tannery, which he moved to Chicago in 1856. By 1862, Reynolds had four boats on the Mississippi river collecting hides and grain at all ports between St. Paul and St. Louis.

The trademark stamped on his merchandise was a diamond-shaped figure in which was the word, "Jo." Like his railroad in Arkansas, his boats took the name of the "Diamond Jo Line."

By 1880, Reynolds had a passenger boat line on the Mississippi. The fine stern-wheel packet, Mary Morton, named for his wife, was launched that year. It was the first of the elaborately appointed passenger boats which came later made his name synonymous with luxury.

The equipment of the railroad was the finest to be had and as long as Diamond Jo lived, the system was kept in perfect condition. At first the rate was 10 cents a mile, but even $2.50 for the 25 miles seemed low compared with the horse-drawn stage coach fare of $6. Later, the railroad, including Admiral George Dewey, Charles A. Dana, Gen. John H. Logan, James G. Blaine, Admiral Bob Evans, Billy Sunday, Emma Abbot and her company, John L. Sullivan and his followers, James J. Corbett and Jake Kilrain.

The Rev. Sam Jones rested in Hot Springs between his revival meeting and the families of Gould, Pullman and Armour—all friends of Diamond Jo—often traveled his line.

In later years, Reynolds became interested in copper-mining in Arizona and from it amassed a fortune estimated at $12,000,000. He died in 1891, and his widow inherited the Diamond Jo Railroad and continued its operation until her death in 1895.

KITCHEN KOMMENT

Go ahead and toss your sneakers or tennis shoes into the washing machine. They're refreshed by soap and water just as easily as a terry cloth towel.

Don't throw away your old tooth brush. It makes a most efficient toll when cleaning jewelry, combs, zippers, or other hard-to-get-at places.

Here's a good menu for a backyard meal: hot potato salad, cold cuts, bread and margarine, raw vegetable strips, brownies and fruit.

The supply of fertilizers for the 1953-54 season is expected to be large enough to take care of demands. However, farmers will be wise to make their purchases early in order to get the grades they want.

Broiler production in East Texas has increased six fold during the past four years. Last year's estimated income from broilers in the area reached $33 million.

Texans interested in the production of peaches can pick up much valuable information by attending a statewide peach growers meeting scheduled for October 13-14 at College Station.

Salad oils, salad dressings, and mayonnaise comprised the largest outlet for cottonseed oil last year with a total of 492 million pounds going into these food uses.

Drive carefully. The life you save may be your own.

3 Texas 4-H'ers Win National Honors

THREE TEXAS state winners have been awarded national honors in the Dairy Foods Demonstration, Soil and Water Conservation and Farm and Home Safety programs.

Emilee Griffith, 16, of Haskell, a six-year 4-H'er, has been carrying dairy foods projects since she joined the club. This year her demonstration, "One Quart a Day," featured a dairy-rich meal, including cream of tomato soup made with milk and butter, a glass of milk, and an ice cream dessert. The demonstration won first place in the county, district and state contests. As national Dairy Foods Demonstration winner, she received a trip to the National 4-H Club Congress sponsored by the Carnation Company. Last year she was a member of the first-place Dairy Foods team in the county.

Don Elledge, 17, of Mabank, was a national winner in the Soil and Water Conservation program, receiving a $300.00 scholarship from the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. He used 25 acres of poor land to conduct demonstrations in crop and grass culture, which showed the possibilities of such a venture, according to Sam Munn, assistant county agent. Over three years Don successfully established five-acre hay and grazing demonstrations. He also did some terracing, laid out a waterway, and built a pond. A collection of 213 varieties of grasses is his prized possession, being in demand by the county agents and teachers to train judging teams. His club leader is Floyd Thurmon.

Margie Sellers, 17, of Whitesboro, was winner of national honors in the 4-H Farm and Safety program. General Motors of Detroit, Mich., awarded her a $300.00 scholarship. Trained in the theory and practice of "safety first" through a course in a school cited by the National Safety Council in 1951, Margie turned her sights toward her home and farm, uncovering 12 hazards which she corrected. She took the school's driver course, turning up 17 danger spots at home. Margie distributed 250 safety placards and displayed 10 posters. This year she headed a committee of four club members and placarded 200 hazards on nearby farms, winding up the drive with a big community meeting. Her local leader is her mother, Mrs. C. L. Sellers.

These programs are conducted under the direction of the Cooperative Extension Service.
