Odds Bits Salvaged at Random

Will Rogers, Jr., is coming to the theatres of this area soon in the picture, "The Boy From Oklahoma."

The picture will show at the Roxy Theatre in Munday on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week. Sunday and Monday, February 7-8, it will be showing at the Goree Theatre.

From all press release pictures of Rogers, he is the "spitfire" image of his famous father. If he wins the hearts of people of the world through his picture and radio parts, like his father did in his roles, he might become equally as famous.

We have occasion to listen to Rogers in his weekly radio feature, "Rogers of the Gazette," in which he is editor of a small-town weekly newspaper. Rogers has his ups and downs as an editor, and as a country editor we find the story rather amusing.

One of his sayings in a recent show that has kinda stuck with us was: "That's what I like about a small town. People will mind your baby part of the time, your dog part of the time, and your business all the time!"

People of Knox County have completed one drive, have another this month and others to follow. Various drives in which people are asked to give of their funds are helping to combat many dread diseases.

We don't know when each community of the county was more enthusiastic in a fund drive than in the March of Dimes drive just concluded.

In Munday, we had various activities and benefit shows for the drive, and in addition, we watched those little test tubes in the stores gradually become fuller and fuller.

"Coffee Day" in which the merchants furnished coffee free and the customers paid a dime a cup, left money jingling in the little ice cream cartons.

Then there was game night, the mothers' march and the benefit show, all of which helped to put the drive over.

Every other community seemed equally active, and most of them are reporting "over the top" in their quotas. The fight against dread polio is nationwide.

This month we have the 1954 Heart Fund Drive, and February has been declared "Heart Month in Texas."

The slogan for the 1954 drive is "Help Your Heart Fund—Help Your Heart."

It seems there's been quite a word battle and idea battle over at the city hall recently.

The argument was over proposed hikes in local telephone rates. On the affirmative side was the telephone company, and members of the city council took the negative.

We've been told that the telephone company was at least partial winner, and we'll likely learn the results in a future telephone bill, possibly the one coming out pretty soon.

Here's a couple little excerpts we picked up in glancing through the Texas Grand Lodge Magazine recently:

"Debt is a trap which a man sets and baits himself, and then deliberately gets into."

"Worry is interest paid by those who borrow trouble."

TEXAS LAND VALUES DECLINE 4 PER CENT

Farm land values in Texas show moderate declines from postwar peaks established in 1952.

This decline coincides with a nationwide trend, says John G. McHaney, assistant extension economist, and is a reflection toward slightly lower farm real estate values.

Value of farm land in the state declined four percent last year, but still is still 145 percent over the 1935-39 average, says McHaney.

Declines of two percent or more were recorded in all but three states, and 10 states had drops of five percent or more. Sharpest land value decreases were evident in Kentucky and Tennessee westward to Utah, an area including most of the states where drought was a major factor in reducing farm incomes.

First apparent during the spring and summer of 1953, a mild decrease in land values continued in most of the country and now effects current developments in the farm real estate market, he says.

Farm real estate dealers and economists over the nation were asked recently whether they thought prices for rural real estate would increase, remain stable, or decrease further.

Only four percent of the reporters expected an increase in price while 40 percent thought prices would continue to lower. The remaining group, more than half the total, believe prices will not change.

Most reporters expect greater price drops for poor farms than for good farms.

RED CROSS WATER SAFETY 40 YEARS OLD

Only forty years have passed since February 1, 1914, when the first Red Cross Water Safety courses were introduced to the world by the "amiable whale," the late Commodore Wilbert E. Longfellow (on running board). And, though styles in bathing attire have changed drastically in that time, the principles of water safety which the Red Cross has taught to 9,300,000 persons have remained constant. Waterproofing America has paid big dividends; since 1914 the drowning rate per 100,000 population has been cut in half. Water Safety is one of the many Red Cross services you support by your contributions to the annual Red Cross Campaign in March.

MEDICINE LOOKS AHEAD

One welcome section of the President's State of the Union message was his reiteration of his determined opposition to socialized medicine. Mr. Eisenhower said, in effect, that he believes our medical problems should and can be solved within the framework of our free system.

The progress that has been made in solving many of the problems involved in a comparatively brief period of time has been tremendous. No major nation can boast of health standards or of medical service equal to ours. And the most intensive kind of work is being done to solve and alleviate the problems that remain.

The attitude of the medical fraternity as a whole was indicated in a recent statement by the head of the American Medical Association. He predicted that 1954 will be a year of great achievement in the medical field. He then urged the nation's doctors to continue to bring the best service possible to all of our people; to make available full service to all rural areas; to solve the problem of indigent medical care and chronic illness through their own efforts; to engage in all civic and other non-medical enterprises that are of benefit to their communities, and to faithfully abide by medicine's traditional high ethics.

No one knows anything of American medicine's past history can doubt that the overwhelming majority of doctors and scientists will live up to these purposes and ideals. The work that medicine has been and is doing is the best answer to the false claims of the socialist-minded.

FACTS AGAINST RUMORS

Every now and then it is charged that retailers are making excessive profits on some commodity or group of commodities. That recently happened in the case of meat, and the clamor was sufficient to cause a Department of Agriculture investigation.

What was found? As a CBS network news program briefed the Department's report, "The conclusion is that there is no widespread disparity between changes in the price of cattle being sold off the farm and of the meats at the local butcher shops. The Department says . . . that, on the whole, nobody has been making any unusual or abnormal profits.

When the facts are separated from the rumors, it's usually proven that profiteering is almost as rare as hen's teeth in a free, competitive system. Retailing in all its branches is a particularly good example. When all the bills are paid, typical retailers have left, as profit, only from one to three or four cents out of each dollar taken in.

HOW TO MEASURE PRICE

A great deal of the complaint about high prices would be avoided if we related those prices to our purchasing power. To take one example, for an industrial worker the actual dollar-and-cents price of an article is not necessarily the big thing. A much more important factor is how long he has to work to earn enough money to buy it.

The same thing is true in agriculture. A case in point is mechanized farm equipment—the highly efficient machines that are a "must" in present-day farming. Naturally, the prices of these machines have risen along with everything else. But the value of basic farm products has risen more.

For instance, in the 1935-39 period a two-plow tractor of a type in wide use cost the equivalent of 1,621 bushels of corn—in the first six months of last year it cost 1,449. In the previous period, it cost the equivalent of 63.9 hogs—in the first half of 1953 the figure was down to 51.3. In the case of most other crops and equipment the situation is comparable. And farm equipment today is much better than that of the past.

It remains a good buy.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

DILLON, S. C., HERALD: "The United States is the great bulwark that stands between freedom and slavery. If the communists could get control of this nation it would not be very long before the whole world would be reduced to a state of slavery."

WALTHAM, MASS., NEWS-TRIBUNE: "The failures of domestic government and the personality clashes are part of the price we pay for a system founded on freedom of personal expression. The rewards far outweigh the penalties, so despite all the uproar over subversion and malfeasance the domestic situation is never really out of control."

DOS PALOS, CALIF., STAR: "By backing the Benson program and sounding a call for ultimate independence of Government help, the California Farm Bureau Federation, has given a powerful push toward saner national farm policy."

ALBANY, ORE., DEMOCRAT-HERALD: "Is there any reason why parties to a labor contract should be on a different basis from the parties to any other contract?"

EAST ROCHESTER, N. Y., HERALD: "There is no dishonor in being a capitalist. Just to be sure, and this to every small home owner and worker, that some one doesn't try to take it away from you some time."

TAKE HEED LEST WE FALL

In Acts chapter one, verse twenty-five, Peter in his prayer to the Lord concerning the selection of one to take the place of Judas said, "That he may part of this ministry and apostleship, from which Judas by transgression fell that he might go to his own place." In verse 17 Peter said, "For he was numbered with us, and had obtained part of this ministry."

Jesus taught in the fifteenth chapter of John that his disciples were the branches of Him, the vine. In verse six he said, "If a man abide not in me, he is cast forth as a branch, and is withered; and men gather them and cast them into the fire, and they are burned." In verse two, "Every branch in me that beareth not fruit he taketh away."

To some of the Galatians who were leaving the doctrine of Christ and returning to the Law. Paul said in Galatians 5:4: "Christ is become of no effect unto you, whosoever of you are justified by the law; ye are fallen from grace."

Concerning the children of Israel Paul wrote in the tenth chapter of 1st Corinthians, that they: Were all baptized unto Moses; All did eat the same spiritual meat; All did drink the same spiritual drink; But with many of them God was not well pleased; for they were overthrown in the wilderness; that they lusted; that some of them were idolaters; that some of them committed fornication; and fell in one day three and twenty thousand. Then he warns that these things happened as an ensample and were written for our admonition. "Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall. (1 Cor. 10:1-12).

How readest thou? Can a child of God so act as to fall from the grace or favor of God?

CLIFFORD WILSON, Evangelist

A man may get less—and he frequently does—than he pays for; but (and you can write this down as a certainty), in the long run he will not get more than he pays for.

During summer school at a big university, a fine arts course was given. What do you think that 100 students were studying? Music? Painting? Sculpture? Writing?

No, these 100 students of fine arts were studying baton twirling. A Broadway columnist who quit writing a year ago has resumed. He took time out for a little scandal in which the wife of another man tried to kill herself in the aforesaid columnist's apartment. Also during this interlude, he was sued for divorce and he and his wife issued fiery statements and counter-statements through the press.

Now this great thinker whose life has been such an inspiration has resumed writing his view on life.

To paraphrase Shakespeare: A Rose by any other name would smell.

My Uncle Henry says the only place a horse-tail looks good is on a horse.

In a book called "Sam Jones, Lawyer", there is a little anecdote about Jones and two other attorneys who examined a candidate for a law license. The applicant was asked, "What is the rule in Shelley's case?" He replied, "I didn't know Shelley had a case." His other replies were on a par. The other two committeemen wanted to turn him down but Jones favored granting the license. He said, "I admit that he doesn't know any law and probably never will but just think what an ideal district judge he would make!"

Wallace Irwin, one of the most noted writers of his day, had quite a struggle before getting established and he said he had found the perfect solution for economical eating: coffee and doughnuts at midnight. "It will give you such a case of indigestion that you won't want anything the next day," he explained.

Drive carefully. The life you save may be your own.

Munday Study Club Enjoys Musical Program Recently

Out of town musicians were in the spotlight when the Munday Study Club had their annual guest day in the sanctuary of the Methodist Church.

Mrs. Chan Hughes, director of the program, introduced the guest artists, Mrs. Charles A. Harris, Mrs. E. F. Robertson and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Key. Mrs. Robertson sang original compositions of her accompanist, Mrs. Harris. Their program consisted of these works, "Jesus Thou Joy Of Loving Hearts", hymn; "The Guest", words by Grace Coolidge; "Texas", words by Myrtle Morrison Hudson, mother of these two artists; "Completeness", words by Betty Clyce; "Understood", words by Eugene Fields and "The Cooky Jar", words by Helen Welshelmer.

A series of duets were presented with Mrs. Edwin Key at the piano and Mr. Key at the organ. Their program consisted of the following works: "Franc", "Jesus Joy of Man's Desiring", Bach; and "Adoration", Borowski.

These artists are relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Key.

A social hour followed the musical with Mmes. J. C. Harpham, J. B. Graham, Chester Bowden and Levi Bowden as hostesses.

Methodist WMS To See Exhibits Of Biblical Days

The ladies of the First Methodist Church are not only studying about the prophet Jeremiah but are also going to see some of the actual articles which Jeremiah himself may have seen. During the month of February the church has on loan an Archeological exhibit from the Palestine Institute, Pacific School of Religion at Berkeley, California. The ladies of the Woman's Society will be the first to see the exhibit. They will see it immediately following their study on Monday afternoon, Feb. 8. The study on Jeremiah is being conducted under the leadership of Mrs. G. R. Eiland.

Between 1926 and 1935 Tell en-Nasbeh, a site seven miles north of Jerusalem on the Damascus road, was completely excavated by the Pacific School of Religion, under the direction of the late Professor William F. Bade. The buried city here uncovered is believed by scholars to have been the Biblical Mizpah.

With the exception of a sling replica, all the objects in the exhibit are the actual things used by the Hebrews during the time that the Bible was being written. The oldest object in the display is a small pot dated around 3000 B. C. It is probably early Canaanite pottery. The exhibit is of special interest to the ladies who are studying Jeremiah because of the nearness of Mizpah to his home town.

The Archeological exhibit will be used in the Church School and will be open to the public during the afternoons of February 14 and February 21. There is no charge for seeing the exhibit. The pastor, a former graduate student at the Pacific School of Religion, made the arrangements for the exhibit.

Fred L. Crenshaw Miss Glenna Brown Marry At Seymour

Fred Lewis Crenshaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Freddie Crenshaw of Benjamin, and Miss Glenna Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Brown of Megargel were united in marriage on Monday evening at seven o'clock. The marriage vows were recited in the home of Mrs. Kathielee Tucker of Seymour.

The couple will make their

Farm Youths Talk Safety

What would you do if you had only one day to make your farm safer? That's what newsmen asked a group of young safety experts at the recent National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago. They were winners of awards presented by General Motors in the National 4-H Farm and Home Safety Program.

"I'd declare a 'safety day' and turn out the whole family to locate and mark all hazards on the farm," was the answer of Margie Sellers, 17, Whitesboro, Texas. Margie was one of eight national winners awarded $300 college scholarships by GM, which also presented expense-paid trips to the 4-H Congress to both national and state winners among the 425,000 4-H youths who took part in the safety program.

All the youngsters agreed that although safety demands continuing, day-by-day attention, it might be good to set aside one day for eliminating hazards—and then go at the job as though there would be no more time for it.

"It would make you decide what safety improvements were most important, and then concentrate on them," said George N. Fleming, 18, Simms, Montana. "I would check the things that get most use, such as farm machinery and home appliances, and make sure that they were in safe operating condition."

Gayle Givens, 17, Frederick, Oklahoma, observed that a "safety day" would be a hard blow against one of safety's most dangerous enemies—procrastination. She and Erich Willen, 17, Westminster, Maryland, both national winners, said that if they had only one day for safety they would concentrate on the home.

"That's where most accidents happen," Erich explained. "I would check things like stairs, rugs, and medicines."

Hope E. Caswell, 17, Canton, New York, said she would concentrate on eliminating fire hazards.

"They are often the least obvious," she said. "And a bad fire is just about the most serious disaster that can hit a farm."

Other suggestions included proper storage of tools; building sturdy pens for livestock, and checking electrical equipment.

What would you do?

WEEDING OUT ACCIDENTS

Ever stop to think how much time a farmer spends in weeding operations?

It's not just a question of getting rid of unwanted plant growth in the fields. It also involves weeding out inefficient farm methods, cutting down high production costs and eliminating unprofitable crops and livestock.

Right now, during the winter "slack season", another weeding job is in order. It is time to weed out accident hazards in the barnyard.

Many a farm barn is just one big Pandora's box full of accidents waiting to happen. When winter stops field work and the farmer spends most of his time attending to chores in the barn, these accidents begin to multiply. The newspapers report them every day.

The first job is to find these accident hazards. Some of them may have remained unnoticed for years. If so, then some housecleaning is necessary.

If alleyways or work areas are obstructed with feed, stools, carts or other obstacles, locate a safe place for them. A "barked" shin is painful, but misplaced implements can lead to more serious accidents. A storage rack should be constructed for pitchforks, scrapers and other barn cleaning tools.

Loft doors, feed chutes, ladders and stairways can be real booby traps for the unwary. Ladders and stairwells should never be used as hay chutes. A well constructed, clean stairway with strong handrails provide the safest and easiest passage to hay mows. When it is necessary to use a ladder, see that it extends well above the loft floor and that it is kept in good condition.

Another good rule is "never work in the dark." Fumbling around in dimly lighted work areas is really asking for trouble. Good lights properly placed not only help prevent accidents but also speed up the work.

Finally, observe a "no smoking" rule around the barn. And always be on guard against fires.

News From The U. S. Congress

Congressman Frank Ikard

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29—Late-ly we have been hearing a great deal about the proposed Constitutional amendment which would allow eighteen year olds to vote. It has been argued by some that the average eighteen year old of today is a high school graduate, well informed on public issues, and, therefore, capable of voting with intelligence. Others say that since eighteen year olds are called into military service to fight for their country, that they should have the right to vote. These and other arguments in favor of this proposal are good and make sense; however, in considering this issue, I think we should bear in mind that if such a Constitutional amendment is adopted, we would be making a very fundamental change in our whole concept of Federal government.

Since the earliest days of this republic, it has been the almost universal thinking that the states, and not the Federal government were the ones to decide what the qualifications of voters should be. Throughout our history, the states have determined the qualifications of its voters, and at least one state now allows eighteen year olds to vote. Of course, the Federal constitution does provide that the right to vote shall not be denied to any citizen by and state on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude. It also provides that the time, places, and manner of holding the election for Federal offices shall be prescribed in each state by the state legislature, but that the Congress may at any time by law make or alter such regulation. The courts have held that the Constitution also guarantees to each citizen the right to vote if he meets the qualifications of his state. To give to the Federal government the right to determine the qualifications of voters would be taking from the states one of their basic and fundamental rights under our system of government, and it would be one more step on the part of the Federal government in gradually absorbing all of the authority and rights of the states. We have seen the Federal government's power to grow tremendously during the last two or three generations. Most of this authority has been absorbed from the states. For example, at the turn of the century, about 85% of the tax dollars in this country were collected by the states, counties, cities and towns, and school districts, and 15% by the Federal government. Now, this fraction has just about reversed itself in that, roughly, 85% of the tax dollars are collected by the Federal government, and the remaining 15% is left for the States, counties, towns, and schools to operate on. This gradual drying-up of sources of revenue by the Federal government has made for the states and the cities and the schools to come more and more to the Federal government for financial aid. This aid by the Federal government is, generally speaking, inefficient, ineffective, and the thing that gives the spark of life to the growing Federal bureaucracy. I hope we can stop this trend in taxation, and I believe that some progress has been made. I further hope that we will not add to the growth of the central government by giving to it the authority to determine the qualifications of the voters of this country. If a Constitutional amendment should be adopted giving to the Federal government the right to say who

FORT WORTH — Woolled slaughter lambs advanced sharply at Fort Worth Monday and prices were 50 cents to $1 above last week's close. Shorn fat lambs were strong to 50 cents higher, and slaughter ewes sold strong to 75 cents higher. Some 100-pound woolled lambs topped at $21.50, a new high for the current movement. Fresh shorn ewes at $9.75 were fully 75 cents above last week's close. Feeder lambs and yearlings were fully steady to strong.

In the cattle division all classes sold fully steady on the early rounds and in the cleanup sales in the latter part of the day some spots were easier on fat cows and on the shortfed beef steers and yearlings.

Calves drew firm prices, some sales of the more desirable kinds stronger. There was some slowness on the medium in-between fleshed calves of heavier weights that weighed in the light yearling bracket.

Stocker demand was fully adequate to provide strong prices for the class, quality considered. High quality load lots of stockers and feeders were quotable $1 or more above most sales recorded Monday.

Shippers took about 25 percent of the run of hogs at prices steady to 50 cents lower than Thursday's best prices, or at $26.75 to $27.25, and later sales of hogs of choice grades were made at $26 to $26.75, or 50 cents to 75 cents lower. Sows were fully steady.

Good and choice fed steers and yearlings cashed at $18 to $23, and common to medium offerings cashed at $12 to $17. There were several loads of well finished cattle in the $20 to $22 bracket.

Fat cows cleared at $11 to $13.50, and canners and cutters sold from $7 to $11. Bulls sold from $10 to $14.

Good and choice slaughter calves cleared at $16 to $19, with a few fancy heavies to $20. Common and medium offerings cashed at $12 to $15, and culls sold from $10 to $12.

Medium and stocker calves sold from $15 to $19, with choice loads quotable higher. Medium

Lubbock Memorial Hospital Accepted By Area Methodists

LUBBOCK, Jan. 29 — Northwest Texas Conference Methodists meeting at First Methodist Church today, voted to accept ownership and operation of Lubbock Memorial Hospital and the Krueger, Hutchinson, Overton Clinic by a vote of 190-45. Total assets are valued at $4,490,943.21.

Action followed informal discussion of several years and negotiations which began last September.

Under the Hill-Burton Federal grant, the hospital received $1,500,000 to construct the hospital to be operated on a non-profit basis. Hospital owners put $1,231,197 into the plant, leaving a balance of $850,000 to be paid by the conference on a semi-annual basis for ten years at 4% interest rate. At the end of ten years, the balance of $425,000 can be refinanced for such extended time as may be agreed.

Cost of the clinic buildings and equipment except that reserved by Dr. J. T. Krueger is $909,746.

21. Northwest Texas Methodist First church, Lamesa; and Jim Willson of Floydada; elected by the Conference today. Both loans are for a period of 15 years, and are to be paid monthly at 4% interest. Methodists make no cash down payment.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Dr. Geo. W. Cox, M. D., State Health Officer of Texas

AUSTIN—Reports coming in from various sections of the state indicate that influenza is quite prevalent throughout Texas, according to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. Colds, grippe, influenza or whatever we may call them are spread from person to person through discharges from the nose and throat.

To protect yourself and others from such diseases, here are some of the things to remember: Influenza is highly infectious. Practically everybody is susceptible to it. No matter how many times you have had the disease, you may contract it again. Therefore keep away from people who are coughing, sneezing or who may be actively ill with colds, influenza or pneumonia. Keep away from crowded places. Have your own towel; always wash your hands before eating and sneeze or cough into your handkerchief.

Keep fit by drinking plenty of water, eating simple nourishing food and taking some outdoor exercise every day. Dress according to the weather; get plenty of sleep in a well ventilated room and keep the bowels regulated.

Dr. Cox warns that disastrous results may follow this disease if influenza cases are allowed to get about too soon. Persons convalescing from this disease are susceptible to other infections, so, if you are just getting over some illness return to your normal routine of life gradually.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Explains Just Why The Price Of Coffee Has Gone Up; It Takes More In Times Like These

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek apparently needs a cup of coffee himself to steady his nerves, his letter this week indicates.

Dear editor:
I notice everybody nearly these days is talking about the high price of coffee, restaurants raise the price of a cup of coffee, grocery stores raise the price on the shelf as the wholesalers raise the price in the warehouse because the importer raised the price because he claims the grower raised the price.

J. A.

In Brazil, they didn't raise the price, the market just went up because there's a shortage of coffee due to a freeze last spring which killed off a lot of coffee beans.

I don't know anything about the weather in Brazil last spring, all I know is that it's been too cold out here recently, but I think I know why the price of coffee is so high. It's not the weather.

It's high because the demand for it has mounted, and the reason it has mounted is that the shape the world's in these days just naturally promotes more coffee drinking.

I notice one Congressman has suggested a "coffee-less day" once a week to cut down on the demand, and it might work, but I believe a "tax-less day" set aside once a week by Congress might accomplish the same end.

And if you think the fact Congress is in session and turn over some new tax measures has any bearing on the increased demands for more coffee throughout the country, just watch the demand leap up when the Texas Legislature gets in session. The minute the Governor said he would call a special session to raise the teachers' pay, most grocery stores throughout the state doubled their order for coffee and most cafes sent our rush orders for more cups and saucers. Everybody knows the teachers need a raise, but everybody knows also if they get it the money has to come from somewhere and most people know what that means, so naturally the Brazilian coffee growers are rubbing their hands in anticipation.

In a time of crisis, I guess coffee-growin beats cotton or corn or wheat or rice or cattle ten to one. In fact, if my Johnson grass farm out here would only grow coffee, and somebody would arrange to keep Congress and the Texas Legislature both in session all the time, my worries would be over.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

"I start where the last man left off"

—Thomas A. Edison

Edison, to explain his incessant and tireless reading of scientific journals, technical papers, patents and books, said that he read to avoid useless repetition of old experiments. "I start where the last man left off."

What Edison knew, and perhaps said in an unquoted moment, is that thousands of men would be needed to "start where he left off."

"Just wait a little while," prophesied Edison, "and we'll make electric light so cheap that only the wealthy can afford to burn candles." Edison lived to see lamps that gave four times as much light and cost one-fifth as much to buy. And electric lighting has progressed far beyond that.

He recognized that an invention does not end a search. It begins a search.

The lamp was a beginning in forcing not only its own evolution but the evolution of meters, fuses, sockets, wiring, power distribution systems, transformers and generating stations.

He lived to see the company that was formed to carry on development of electric light and power evolve into one of the world's most important industrial research centers. Today General Electric laboratories employ several thousand men and women who are seeking new things on widely different fronts.

It is seventy-five years since Edison lit the first successful carbon lamp. He will be remembered for inventions that changed the world. But let him be remembered, too, for inspiring so many men to start where he left off.
