"Everyone interested in the development of good livestock and good boys are invited to attend the show."

That invitation struck us as being rather interesting. It isn't ours, but is one which County Agent W. J. Bryan has placed at the bottom of his story on the junior livestock show story.

The show will be held at Benjamin next Monday, and our guess is that lots of people will be there to show their interest in good livestock and good boys.

Which reminds us—that's a pretty good looking bunch of boys we're showing on our front page.

They are boys who will be running, jumping, vaulting, shot putting, discus, throwing and golfing for Munday High School down at Brownwood Friday and Saturday.

Coach Leverett is pretty proud of these boys, too, because they are the greatest representation Munday has had in track and field events for several years.

Coach said boys generally don't like the hard work connected with track training, but these boys have stayed in there this year.

The fact that they won in the district meet and are now participating in the regional meet shows that they are also doing their part in putting Munday on the map.

People in general were pretty well pleased with the way our Mogul Band "acted up" at the annual spring concert last Thursday night.

They agreed that the concert showed much credit for the hard work and practice the band members have gone through during the year, and reflected much credit to Harold Jackson, band director, in his fine work with the members.

It is generally agreed, too, that a town without any school or churches would not be a very desirable place to live, and our church and school activities this year are bringing credit to our town.

Mr. Farmer, how's your cotton acreage allotment? Do you have more acres allotted to you than you plan to use?

We have word from the county committee that an excess allotment may be released to the committee, then it can be reapportioned to other farms in the county.

Such an act will help hold up the cotton history for the county, in addition to enabling other farmers to plant a few more acres.

May 4 is the final date for releasing unused acreage, so if you ain't gonna use it, let some other fellow have it!

Churches reported almost record attendance at the Easter services last Sunday, but we reckon we didn't get as much out of the preacher's sermon as we should have.

It wasn't the preacher's fault, however.

You see, we went back to the old home town of Wellington for the Easter, and to services at the church we used to attend.

We'd catch ourselves, instead of following the pastor in his message, kinda glancing around to see how many people we knew.

It was interesting to see those faces you'd see in church twenty years ago. It was interesting, too, to see the many new faces and to note how the personnel of a congregation changes.

It was an interesting service.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Yandell last week end were Mr. and Mrs. Sam Gossett of Brownfield and Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Yandell of Lubbock.

Munday Firemen Begin Campaign On Fire Safety

The Munday Volunteer Fire Department has mailed out letters to residents of Munday telling about the new Co-2 (carbon dioxide) fire extinguishers for the home and other uses. The firemen will start Monday evening, April 26, with samples of these extinguishers.

Four teams of two men will show complete samples to local residents so they can see the extinguisher they will want to put in their home, car or barn. They are made under supervision of the Interstate Commerce Commission, are non-poisonous and will not leave a mess to clean up should they need to be used.

Chief E. Y. Johnson says: "We firemen know every home in Munday and every farm home should have one or more of these extinguishers in case of emergency. We are going to spend evenings during the next two weeks to show them to you—this safety measure is just that important. If anyone has been inadvertently overlooked in the mailing of our letters, the fireboys are sorry, and they will send a man to see you if you will call."

A display of sample extinguishers has been set up in the show window at the Firestone store, and anyone desiring one or more may order there.

Chief Johnson says: "It is to the interest of everyone to have one or more extinguishers in the home because they might save a home from destruction, and might save a life."

THE WORLD'S BEST INVESTMENT

We in Texas have always had sincere sympathy for our fellow men in the other 47 states. Over the past 100 years or so, we've tried to boost the morale of these unfortunates by telling and showing them that Texas is truly God's spot on earth.

Apparently, we've done a good job. Two and a half million "outsiders" in the past few years have been welcomed within our boundaries as settlers on Texas soil. But this creates a problem. For if this rate of immigration continues we will start running out of the wide, open spaces so dear to a native Texan's heart. Now we hear something that sounds like a solution to the problem.

Some folks in Fort Bend County, near Houston, are offering out-of-staters the opportunity to share in the privileges and pleasures of Texas land ownership and still go on living in one of the other 48. Headed by Captain M. T. (Lone Wolf) Gonzaulas of Texas Ranger fame, the Lazy C Ranch, Incorporated, of Sugarland is sharing its property with anyone interested enough in Texas to put up $75. We figure that's quite a lot of people.

For six bits, you get ownership of a two-square tract of good, rich Texas land. A bonafide deed states which two-inch square on the Lazy C is yours.

While this is too small a tract to pitch a tent on, it is enough to brag about and we think investment in any Texas land is so good people will want to come down just to see their property. We know all Texans will welcome their fellow land owners when they come south. And motel and hotel owners in Houston and elsewhere in the state will make every effort to make the visiting landowners comfortable while they are here.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

HARDIN, MONTANT, TRIBUNE-HERALD:
 "We're not trying to prove there isn't unemployment at the present time, or that it is not a serious problem, but it does seem that some groups—for obvious reasons—are overemphasizing the situation. These same groups often are the first to advocate more government spending as a means of curbing unemployment and assuring prosperity. The federal government cannot forever operate with a deficit, increase spending, and then cut taxes. It isn't in the cards."

CUB SCOUTS LEARN ABOUT OIL

This April, tens of thousands of Cub Scouts are learning about the oil industry. With parental aid, they will spend considerable time preparing exhibits, displays and projects revolving around this great enterprise. An oil industry organization has made 100,000 informative kits available to help in the work, and these have been distributed by the National Cub Scout organization.

It is certainly desirable that our very young citizens should be given an insight into American industry, and oil is a good example. It is an absolutely essential enterprise in either peace or war. All through its century-old history, the oil industry and the people involved in it have demonstrated those characteristics and habits of mind that we think of as typically American. These include hard work, the willingness to take long risks in the hope of reward, the urge to do a better job than the other fellow, the unremitting search for improved products, the determination to grow and to progress and give good service and good value to the customer. An, in the American tradition, it is intensely competitive through and through.

Youngsters are often exposed to sweeping denunciations of American enterprise and the American way of doing things. They should be shown the falsity of such charges.

GUARANTEE OF VALUE

All of us naturally like to find bargains. All of us, when shopping, try to get top return for each dollar spent. And in the long run, the surest way to achieve that is to patronize established merchants who are concerned with the future—not just today's sales.

That was the theme of an editorial in the Garner, Iowa, Leader. The paper advised its readers: "In any home town, the reputable merchants and dealers will be the kind of people that you like and trust. This editor does not think you will lose any peace of mind or money if you rely on them for good values at a fair price. I am sure you will find this procedure is much safer and simpler than searching for bargains in strange places."

Many a "bargain" bought at an alleged big discount from some fly-by-night operator, has proven worthless. The established local merchants, chain and independent, have to protect their reputations—and that's your best guarantee of value.

BE NOT DECEIVED

—By Ted W. McElroy.

CIRCUMSTANCES JUSTIFY EVIL

Rom. 12:17, Recompense to no man evil for evil." This verse teaches that no circumstances or situation justifies a man in wrong doing. No injury, or insult, or slight is sufficient cause to excuse the one who does evil. A man deceived himself, when he reasons that the hurt he has suffered is ground for taking vengeance in his own hands and retaliating with evil against his adversary. A man deceives himself when he thinks, because his adversary tries to cheat him, he is at liberty to take advantage and swindle. A man is deceived when he suffers real or imaginary offense from a member of the church and thinks therefore he is vindicated if he wants to quit and forsake the church. Be not deceived. No circumstance is sufficient warrant for a man to do evil. Balance the Good and Evil

James 2:10, "For whosoever shall keep the whole law, and yet offend in one point he is guilty of all." This teaches, when we offend in one item, we disregard the authority of the lawgiver and are in rebellion and guilty of all. Obedience to part of the will of God will not offset disobedience to another command. There is a popular deception that the good and evil that a man has done will be balanced in the judgment; if the good outweighs the evil he will be ushered into heaven. Then the deceptive idea, that a man who has two good habits can practice vice. Be not deceived, with part obedience and part disobedience, such a mixture of good and evil will not please Jehovah.

 CLIFFORD WILSON, Evangelist

The story of the Adobe Walls goes back to famous Kit Carson for he helped to found the little settlement more than a century ago—the first buildings erected by white men in the Panhandle of Texas. It was more than a trading post to which Indians came but, after several seasons, Apaches attacked, took the horses and that led to abandonment of the post. Many years went by and then in 1874 the buffalo hunters came and in sight of the crumbling, old adobe walls, a new settlement sprang up—two stores, a blacksmith shop and a saloon.

The killing of buffalo was proceeding apace when Indians began to ambush the scattered hunters, so they gathered in the little settlement. After a few days, however, the apprehension of further attacks died down and wagons were loaded and the men were in readiness to set out again the next morning to resume the hunt. The talk that night was about the prospects of big money-making; and at Hanrahan's saloon, with its unpainted pine bar, jests were banded back and forth and practical jokes brought roars of laughter.

It was midnight when the last men lay down to sleep. Silence reigned. Two o'clock in the morning. Suddenly a shot rang out like the crack of a rifle. It was the crackling of the ridge-pole in the saloon. The men sleeping there were awakened and, fearing that the roof (which was covered with dirt) might cave in, they called for aid. A prop was put up and the ridge-pole was examined and a most amazing thing was found: there was absolutely no sign of a break in the ridge-pole. The men talked about the occurrence until the first streaks of dawn.

Billy Dixon, famous scout, whose wife later wrote "The Life of Billy Dixon" (P. L. Turner Co., Dallas) was busy about his wagon when he heard a noise like thunder and he saw one of the men running toward him and, half a mile or so behind, came the Indians. Quannah Parker, the Comanche chief, had stirred his nation as well as the Kiowas and Cheyennes to go on the war-path to wipe out the hide-hunters who were exterminating the buffalo in this red man's hunting ground. Had not that ridge-pole cracked mysteriously, the entire group of 28 men and one woman would still have been asleep when the attack came!

Dixon fired a rifle in warning and the hunters took refuge in the buildings—all except two men who were killed before they could spring from their blankets and seize guns. Desperately the 26 men and the wife of one of them barricaded doors and windows with sacks of grain and flour. The mass of redskins surged against the walls, some whirling their horses and backing them against the doors in an effort to force them open. Some of the attackers thrust pistols and rifles through the windows and fired.

The warwhoops were almost deafening. But the hunters went into action with their booming buffalo guns, making every bullet count, and soon the rooms were thick with gun-smoke and the ground was strewn with the bodies of Indians.

The attackers drew back before the deadly defense and sped away; but it was only to return and this time they raced around the buildings and fired into the windows as they dashed by. They were driven back again because they were opposed by as fine a set of marksmen as could be found in all the West. Again and again the Indians attacked; so many times that the white men lost count. At the end of the day only one of the buffalo-hunters had lost his life in addition to the two who were slain at the outset. And the close of the day saw the close of the Battle of Adobe Walls—though for a week, from time to time, bands of Indians could be seen surveying the situation from a distant bluff and one of these occasions, Billy Dixon achieved immortality by killing an Indian chief with a rifle at a distance of almost seven-eighths of a mile.

Years afterward when Quannah Parker was told Billy Dixon was one of the men who fought against him at Adobe Walls, he leaned from his horse and shook hands with his former foe.

Today, great ranches, productive farms, colleges, churches and cities mark the empire where once the buffalo roamed and the red man rode and the Battle of Adobe Walls was Arthritis?

 I have been wonderfully blessed in being restored to active life after being crippled in nearly every joint in my body and with muscular soreness from head to foot. I had Rheumatoid Arthritis and other forms of Rheumatism, hands deformed and my ankles were set.
 Limited space prohibits telling you more here but if you will write me I will reply at once and tell you how I received this wonderful relief.

News From The U. S. Congress

Congressman Frank Ikard

During the past few weeks, we have all been reading and seeing a lot about the most recent hydrogen bomb explosion in the Pacific. The awfulness of this new weapon was impressed on me when I saw the pictures of this explosion a month or six weeks ago. These pictures have been released to the public, and possibly many of you have seen them. After seeing the motion pictures of this terrible weapon and reading of its devastating effect, I am sure we have been startled to learn that one bomb can destroy large cities and that where it exploded large enough to hold fifteen buildings the size of our national capital. In reflecting on the effect that this new development will have upon all of us, I have thought many times that that momentous little word, "if," will be so important to all of us in the coming months and years. "If" is one of the shortest and most meaningful words in our language. It is written across every promise of spiritual guidance and enrichment. From Genesis to Revelation we are constantly assured that certain things will happen sure as the rising sun if—if—the conditions are fulfilled. If this new source of energy that man has stumbled upon is dedicated to the benefits of mankind, it will revolutionize our future and bring to us many advantages and benefits we have never before dreamed of. If it is dedicated to war, the advancement of our civilization is at an end, and everything that we know, love, and cherish is finished. The great hope of our time is that the "ifs" may be resolved for peace and humanity and that we as a nation of people and that peoples everywhere may continue to make a rational choice among the "ifs".

This week the House passed the Agriculture Appropriation Bill for the fiscal year beginning July 1st. This bill furnishes the funds that are necessary to carry on the agricultural program. Among other things, it made appropriations for agricultural research, the Agricultural Extension Service, forest development, soil conservation, agricultural marketing services, National school lunch fund, plant and animal diseases and pest control, upstream flood prevention, and other programs and services connected with agriculture. This bill placed considerable emphasis on agricultural research.

Visitors from home this week were Mr. Bill Wright and R. H. Coffee of Vernon; Senator Wayne W. Wagonseller of Bowie, Mr. Boyd Kelley, Mr. Rhea Howard, and Mr. Dwight M. Ross, Jr., of Wichita Falls.

RENEW 4-H PUBLIC SPEAKING PROGRAM FOR FIFTH YEAR

The 4-H Public Speaking program, in which thousands of boys and girls throughout the nation have learned how to speak convincingly, has been renewed by the State Extension Service for 1954.

This is the fifth consecutive year that the Pure Oil Company has provided the awards in this program.

County and state awards are offered by the donor in 26 states. County-wide public speaking finals will be arranged by Extension agents, and the outstanding boy and girl in each county will receive a gold-filled medal of honor. The state awards are a 19-jewel watch for the high ranking boy, and a set of silverware for the top ranking girl.

In addition, two college scholarships of $300.00 each and two all-expense trips to the 33rd National 4-H Club Congress next November will be awarded to a 4-H boy and girl selected from the state winners. All states are eligible to submit candidates for these national awards.

The two national 4-H Public Speaking achievement winners last year were Rosemary Gladhart Highland, Kansas, and Billy Sam Moore, of Petersburg, Tennessee.

The program is directed by the Cooperative Extension Service.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

So They Stopped Baiting Each Other

If you want to hear a real hassle, listen to Cob James and Whitey Baker on trout fishing sometime. You'd think it was more important than anything.

Cob favors dry flies. Whitey pooh-poohs anything but wet flies. Cob swears by a Fan-Wing Royal Coachman; Whitey won't hear of anything but Silver Doctor. And so it goes—they can't even get together on steel rods versus bamboo rods.

But on Saturday, each got back from Fox Creek with a catch that couldn't have differed by more than a couple of ounces! Then over a friendly glass of beer, they allowed as how maybe they were both right... which is how so many arguments should end.

From where I sit, life would be a whole lot pleasanter if we all respected one another's opinions—whether about trout flies, or having a glass of beer, or voting. After all, a person has a right to follow his own line of thinking.

100 YEARS OF INSECT CONTROL PROGRESS

Primitive "Swat That Fly" campaigns are now as outdated as the buggywhip. Today, scientists are calling on the awesome power of atomic energy to help fight man's perpetual battle against the insects. Using atomic energy as a tool to learn the secrets of insects is an ultra-modern development. Researchers believe it can help them determine insect resistance to insecticides and reveal the cause of insect outbreaks. This new step comes on the 100th birthday of insect research in the United States.

The science of entomology began serving the public in 1854, when New York State and the Federal government each employed an entomologist. Dr. Asa Fitch focused his attention on New York's insect problems and Townsend Glover originated Federal research on pests of cotton and citrus fruits.

Since that time, more than 10,000 species of insect pests have been the target of entomologists. The fight has involved research, quarantine and active area-wide control efforts. Among the major accomplishments can be listed the successful campaigns against house flies and mosquitoes that began about 1900. A "Swat That Fly" program started that year had much to do with the present 90 per cent decrease in the number of typhoid cases, one of the many diseases carried by flies.

Serious efforts to control mosquitoes began when medical men learned the connection between diseases and insects. As a result of entomological and medical efforts, there has been no outbreak of yellow fever in the United States since 1950.

Food-wise, the codling moth that once took 50 percent of the apple crop now gets less than 5 percent of the U. S. production because of the development and application of methods to control it. And 80 years ago, the Colorado beetle destroyed a major portion of the crop over wide areas. Arsenical dusts were first used to control this pest, and since 1946, modern insecticides and insect control methods have increased potato production per acre by about 50 percent.

One of the promising new fields opening up today is that of systemic insecticides—chemicals capable of being carried by the sap of plants, and the blood streams of livestock. When this is perfected, they really will be living, relatively speaking, in a "modern age of miracles."

DAYTIME DENIM

The coat dress is back again this season, more popular than ever. Here, a neat afternoon dress in cotton denim is designed with coat lines. A white pique collar and big round buttons accent the coat dress, one of a fashionable group of summer denims designed by Stephanie Koret of California.

JOHN DEERE . . . The Quality Name in Farm Equipment

STRONG DEMAND FOR CATTLE CONTINUES—

FORT WORTH—Movement of cattle to markets over the nation on Monday was again far behind a week earlier and also the same date a year ago. This same situation enabled most classes of cattle and calves to hold onto gains established at Fort Worth earlier when rains drenched the bulk of the Western and Northwestern countries.

Stocker demand remained strong on the kinds with quality. Some packers complained canner and cutter prices were at unrealistic heights but could accomplish little when a downward adjustment was tried.

Creeped calves again topped at $18 to $22 freely and the medium and lower grades sold from $17.50 downward to $10 to $14 for culls. Medium and good stocker steer calves and yearlings drew $16 to $20, and indications were numerous that load lots of strictly choice steer calves could bring $22. Replacement cows drew $10 to $14.

Fed cattle were pretty scarce again, with some good kinds at $18 to $23, odd head to $24. Others drew $13 to $17.50. Fat cows cleared at $11 to $15, a load from Kirk Edwards, Clay County, was representative of the top at $15 and they weighed 1,170 lbs. Cannors and cutters drew $8 to $11, a few shells below $8, some cannors from the JA Ranch drew $9.75.

LAMBS STAGING STRONG COMEBACK—

The better than 10,000 sheep and lambs at Fort Worth Monday did not deter the salesmen in their fight to win back lost ground during the ten days before Easter when sheep and lamb prices broke drastically.

On Monday at Fort Worth good and choice Spring lambs drew $23 to $25.50, while the medium and lower grade scaled from $10 to $13 on culls to $15 to $22 on common to medium killers. The market was steady to 50c higher on the class, the top lambs were $2 to $2.50 above the low time eight days earlier. Shorn fat lambs of good and choice kinds sold for $20 to $22 or 50c to $1 higher. Cull, common and medium shorn lambs drew $9 to $18. Stocker and feeder lambs drew $15 to $20.

Yearlings and two-year-olds sold from $14 to $16.50. Old wethers cashed at $9 to $12.50. Slaughter ewes sold for $5 to $7. Old bucks bulked at $4 to $5.

Some very good quality solid mouthed ewes went out as breeders for $12.50, and some young ewes with quality went to the range at $14 to $15.

HOGS HIT ANOTHER NEW SEASON HIGH—

The short hog crop was reflected again by curtailed receipts at all points and higher prices Monday. Top at Fort Worth was $28 to $28.50, or steady to 50c higher. Sows were also fully steady to strong at $22 to $24, a few to $24.50.

Highlights

In "Quo Vadis", Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has produced a film that is destined to become a motion picture milestone.

With Robert Taylor and Deborah Kerr heading this cast of thousands, this thrilling story of the birth of Christianity in a pagan world is brought to the screen with magnificent splendor. Etched against the most spectacular of all of history's backdrops, that of ancient Rome in the days of the Emperor Nero, this is the story of a handsome warrior and a beautiful girl who find their love matched by their devotion to a cause which becomes a crusade against man's inhumanity to man.

It is based on the novel by Henryk Sienkiewicz, which headed the best seller lists for twenty-five years after its first publication in 1895 and which has been translated into every language in the world. It was filmed entirely in Rome amid the actual scenes of its historic locale. Its spectacular scenes required more sets (115), including a reproduction of the Circus of Nero and the filming of the burning of Rome; more actors (6,500 in one scene alone); more costumes (15,000); more props (150,000); more cast principals (110 actors in speaking roles); more animals (including 63 lions) than any motion picture ever made.

So that "Quo Vadis" could be brought to the screen in Technicolor (the first such ever made in Italy), more than 250 tons of electrical equipment was shipped from Hollywood to Italy.

Robert Taylor, most recently seen in "Westward the Women" and "Devil's Doorway," plays his most colorful role as the Roman warrior, Marcus Vinicius. Deborah Kerr, last seen in "King Solomon's Mines," enacts the loving Lygia. Leo Genn and Peter Ustinov, both prominent in the English theatre, are cast respectively as Petronius and Nero, with other important roles enacted by Patricia Laffan, as Poppaea; Finlay Currie, as Peter; Abraham Sofaer, as Paul; Marina Berti as Eunice; and Buddy Baer, former heavyweight champion contender, as Ursus, the giant who wrestles a ferocious bull.

"Quo Vadis" was directed by Mervyn LeRoy, who has given the screen such notable pictures as "Waterloo Bridge", "Random Harvest", "Madame Curie" and "Little Women." It was produced by Sam Zimbalist, following his successful production of "King Solomon's Mines."

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Cooper and children of Elmer, La., have returned home after visiting her mother, Mrs. Emily Carden, and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Crowder and Jim Forman of Wichita Falls spent the week end with Mrs. Crowder's mother, Mrs. Emily Carden, and other relatives. Mrs. Carden had all of her children together on Easter.

Munday's Housing Group Answers Public Questions

Q—Is Low-Rent Public Housing a new program?

A—No. It has been in operation for more than fifteen years and 24 housing authorities in the Southwest have approximately ten years or more experience with the program.

Q—Does Low-Rent Public Housing clear the slums?

A—Most of the projects built by the 24 housing authorities in the Southwest were on slum sites and about half of the substandard units eliminated were on the sites of these original projects. The balance were eliminated elsewhere in these cities by demolition or by compulsory repair.

Q—Are the projects being built on slum sites also?

A—Most of them are not. High land and improvement costs together with a critical housing shortage have made it necessary or desirable for most authorities to build at least the first projects on vacant land.

Q—When a family moves into a Low-Rent Project does it stay there forever?

A—Nearly 90 percent of all the original tenants have moved from the low-rent projects in the Southwest and an average of nearly four families has occupied every low-rent unit. This means that in many instances that families are able to better themselves and move out because of the advantage of better housing.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Comes Out With Unworkable Defense Idea Against The Awful Hydrogen Bomb

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek won't get anywhere with his idea this week, but that has never stopped him.

Dear editor:

I was out here the other afternoon watchin my rain gauge while we were getting a little shower, three are few pleasures in life greater than the fun of watchin rain fall after a long drouth, even a shower, and I found a water-soaked newspaper caught in a clump of weeds and took it to the house and dried it out, some newspapers are dull enough when dry but when wet they're about like water-logged lightbread.

The only article in the paper that attracted my attention was one about a United States Senator who was urgin the government to put up cash awards for inventions for defense, to head off the inventions for attack.

Accordin to this Senator, the government ought to put up some real money to get the inventors to turn their minds toward defense, and he wants to offer as much as $75,000 per idea if it'll work.

I think this fellow is on the right track, although I don't know what the results will be. There are some people who say man isn't as smart say as insects. Take flies. When man brought out DDT a few years ago, it must have been as alarming and nerve-wracking to flies as the hydrogen bomb is to man, but what happened? The flies went to work and in less than two years h e d maneuvered around to where they had developed immunity to DDT, even without the help of government cash.

But I contend man is as smart as most insects, and I would like to see this new program of defense invention started. What the defense against a hydrogen bomb will be, I have no idea. As I understand it, it'll dig a hole 150 feet deep and spread heat for miles around, so bomb shelters are out. Tryin to intercept a plane carryin one of them bombs is hazardous and sooner or later one of em is bound to get through.

What we really need is something along the line of radar rays of some sort which can be sent out all over the world from one spot and explode the bomb ahead of time. Probably would not anything slow a man down from makin a bomb as the knowledge somebody else was likely to make it go off before he was ready to drop it. Very few people would be interested in carrying a time bomb around in their coat pocket if somebody else was in charge of the clock.

If you think this idea will work, go ahead and work out the mechanical details while I move on to other thinkin and we will split the $75,000. I advise speed, though. We may not have

How to Use a Wrench

THE National Safety Council offers the following instructions for the safe and correct use of wrenches:

1. Use wrenches that are the right type and size for the job. Never use a piece of pipe on the handle to get more leverage.

WRENCHES

2. Use only wrenches having jaws in good condition; keep pipe wrench jaws sharp and clean.
3. Never use a shim to make the wrong size wrench fit the nut.
4. Do not use a wrench as a hammer. Such use weakens it.
5. Always place the wrench on the nut so that the pull on the handle tends to force the jaws further, onto the nut.
6. Pulling on a wrench is safer than pushing. If you must push, keep your knuckles in the clear.
7. Avoid falls; see that your footing is good before you pull.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Dr. Geo. W. Cox,
M. D., State Health Officer of Texas

This is the time of year that most towns in Texas conduct their annual clean-up campaigns. Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, suggests that whenever such activities are planned to keep in mind the various measures necessary to get rid of rats.

Rats are noted carriers of disease. Some of the diseases transmitted by rats or their hosts are bubonic plague, typhus fever, dysentery, food infection, trichinosis, infectious jaundice, and Rocky mountain fever. Rats are scavengers that live on filth as well as edible foods. They thrive in insanitary places such as garbage dumps, trash piles and sewers.

If you don't see rats it doesn't necessarily mean that they are not near you. Rats are not often seen but their destruction is evident wherever they have been. Sometimes they can be traced by their dirty runways. In storehouses, sacks and boxes of grain and food with holes gnawed in them and the contents spilled are evidence of rat destruction. Occasionally rats start fires by gnawing and short-circuiting electric wires or by chewing on matches.

The rat lives in filth. Almost any pile of trash, small piles of lumber, cluttered barns, garages, yards or homes afford harborage for him. Rat proofing is effective and permanent. However, even rat proofed buildings may become infested if rats are allowed in through open doors or windows. It has been calculated that a pair of rats having plenty of food and shelter could be responsible for the production of 1400 rats in a single year.

Because of the danger rats bring to humans and because of their enormous destruction of food, crops and merchandise, the importance of getting rid of rats is apparent. In addition, homes and communities are more enjoyable if they are clean and free of animals and insects that cause disease.
