Odd Bits Salvaged at Random

They were more than pleased with the results.

People responded wonderfully to the visit of the mobile x-ray unit to Knox County during last week.

During the two days here—last Friday and Saturday—1635 people came in for the free x-rays.

Several boys paraded the streets with large banners announcing the free x-rays.

Mrs. D. C. Eiland and other ladies who worked in cooperation with the unit's visit here expressed their thanks for the good response.

Ned kinda gave this publication credit for some of the response. "It shows that people do read your paper," she said.

But we have a rather new citizen who is sometimes in doubts about our readers. He is Mr. Horton at Horton Equipment Co.

What "tees him off" is the fact that customers call on him and are surprised to learn that an International House is located in Munday.

So if you read this and don't read anything else in the paper, please remember that Horton's place is located in the building once occupied by Fred Broach, Jr., and his Pontiac agency.

You may not be ready for Christmas—but better begin to get ready.

A reminder was made Monday when the crews from the City of Munday and West Texas Utilities Company began putting up the Christmas lights.

They're two bunches who are going to be ready when Christmas comes.

They kinda jumped the gun on other years. We can't remember the lights going up before Thanksgiving before.

But it's like some other businesses. Dry goods stores get their winter merchandise in summer, spring goods in the winter, et cetera. Reckon it's not a bad idea to advertise Christmas before Thanksgiving.

It's usually a made rush to get Christmas merchandise on display just as soon after Thanksgiving possible, anyway. Still you'll find the last-minute shoppers, and usually we're among them.

Postmaster Lee Haymes brought us an article Monday about mailing Christmas cards and packages. And you know what it says down in the lower body of that article?

"The Postmaster recommends December 5 for mailing out-of-state gifts, and December 10 for those with local addresses. But the sooner the better."

That means the Christmas spirit is gonna become contagious between now and Sunday week. Unless it hurries we won't have a jam-up good freeze by that time!

The Mogus have racked their football suits for the season, and are training in other forms of athletics.

Which reminds us, the Mogus were guests of the Munday Lions Club at lunch on Tuesday of last week.

And, gee whizz, folks! If those Mogus had handled their football assignments like they did away with that grub, there isn't a team in Texas that could have beat them!

We think, though, the boys had a pretty successful season. They won six and lost four games. We think, too, that they will have an even better season next year. What do you think?

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bell and Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Bell and daughter visited relatives in Stanton over the week end.

A Three-Cent Stamp Does More To Win Friends And Influence People, Pm. Says

Postmaster Lee Haymes believes that with a three-cent stamp your Christmas cards will win more friends and influence more people than if they are mailed with a two-cent stamp. "First-class postage," he explained today, "is the best Yuletide insurance you can get. With it your greetings will be processed and delivered quicker. And they'll be forwarded, or returned, if it becomes necessary. "This eliminates any worry about whether or not your season's greetings were received. Your own return address on the envelope will help others keep their address books up to date. Then, too, Christmas cards sent with three cent stamps may carry written messages, a custom everyone enjoys."

None of these postal privileges are authorized at the third-class rates. Moreover, Christmas card envelopes smaller than 2 1/4 x 4" or larger than 9" x 12" require cancellation by hand, and must carry first-class postage.

Postmaster Haymes urges everyone to tie their Christmas cards in two separate bundles, with each address facing the same way. Then attach labels marked "ALL FOR LOCAL DELIVERY" and "ALL FOR OUT-OF-TOWN DELIVERY."

Moguls Drop Final Game To Badgers, 13-12

That all-important extra point after touchdown spelled defeat for the Munday Moguls as they closed their 1954 season at Merkel last Friday night. The Badgers emerged the victors, 13 to 12.

The hard charging Badger line got in there in time to block both of Munday's extra-point kicks. Merkel kicked off to the Moguls to open the game and Munday drove all the way for the first tally mostly on the ground. A pass, Glenn Amerson to Lee Bruce covered 16 of the yards. The final two yards were picked up by Jerry Guinn on a crash over tackle. Guinn's kick was blocked.

The Badgers took the kick off and they went all the way, getting five successive downs in the drive. Freddie Boone whirled right end for the last eight yards and George English, Merkel tackle, kicked what proved to be the game winning point.

Munday again took the next kickoff and drove to a touchdown with a 29-yard pass, Amerson to Gerald Tidwell, setting up the TD on the 16. It took two plays from here to get to the six from which Wyman Tidwell carried over. The extra point try was no good.

Near the end of the second quarter Kermit Rutledge intercepted a Munday pass on Merkel's 35 and ran it back to the Moguls' 25. A pass, Terry O'Brien to Robert McLeod, was taken on the goal line and McLeod backed over the goal line for the tally.

MEATS ON DECEMBER PLENTIFUL FOODS LIST

COLLEGE STATION—Meats are the big thing on the U. S. Department of Agriculture's December plentiful foods list.

Supplies of turkeys, broilers and fryers, beef, frozen shrimp and canned tuna are at record highs, reports Raymond J. Toro of the Agricultural Marketing Service. Also, supplies of pork are much larger than a year ago.

Eggs as well as turkeys rate as "foods for feature" on the December list because prices are favorable to consumers.

Many other foods popular for holiday cooking are plentiful—dates, filberts, almonds, grapes, grapefruit and oranges. Rice, pinto beans, salad oils and vegetable oils also will be good buys at the grocer's next month, says U. S. D. A.

Besides the parents, the child is survived by six brothers and sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Winchester visited in Fort Worth from Saturday until Tuesday. On Sunday they attended church services in Weatherford and ate lunch with Rev. and Mrs. Huron A. Polnac.

Piano Students Of Mrs. Casey In Recital Thursday

Mrs. Curtis Casey presented her piano students in recital in the Gilliland School Auditorium on Thursday evening, November 18. The program, entitled, "A Circus Fantasy", was in three parts: "The Circus Is Coming to Town", "Circus Scenes", and "Fun at the Circus". The stage was gaily decorated with balloons, and interesting costumes and varied lighting lent additional atmosphere.

The part entitled "Circus Scenes" was presented by Mrs. Wade Barker and her first and second grade pupils. This consisted of several novel stunts, a wrestling match by Dwight and Randy Reeves, a song and dance by Kay Cook (with choral background), and a vocal duet by Kay Cook and Leon Groves.

The narrator and the appropriate piano numbers told the story of a young sailor and his girl at the circus. The young couple was portrayed by Kenneth Carroll and Paula Horne. Piano solos were played by the following: Norma Jo Navratil, Charles Murray, Paula Horne, Alton Burgess, Patricia Burgess, Elise McGuire, Kenneth Carroll, Kay Miller, Laurence New, Carolyn Hickman, Sherry Cook, Sharon Burgess, Lynda Navratil, Patsy Reynolds, Margaret Bullion, Wanda Beth Welch, Jerry Tomaneck, Vivian Scott, Gena Adcock, Jane Tomaneck, Wanda Lou Navratil, Peggy Crownover and Lydia Caram. Other children assisting in the dramatization were: Dwight Reeves, Ronnie Simmons and Carolyn Crownover. James New was to have served as narrator but was prevented by illness. Mrs. Casey read his part.

Hattie Lou Rutherford and Jeannette Blakney were ushers. The program was well attended by an appreciative audience.

Cotton Harvest Is About Over

Cotton farmers and local ginners report that, with the exception of some scrapping, the 1954 cotton harvest is about over. There remains quite a bit of cotton in the irrigated fields, but in the other fields only light scrapping remains.

This is the earliest for cotton to be harvested in this area for some time. Several factors are responsible for this: the light crop on top of reduced acreage and the dry fall harvest season.

Ray Holcomb, manager of the local compress, said early this week they had weighed around 12,500 bales at the press this season.

A total of 7,455 bales had been ginned by the Munday gin plants. In addition, Rhineland has ginned 2,680, making a total of 10,135 bales for this immediate area.

Two new corn hybrids have been released by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. They are Texas 17W, a white hybrid and Texas 32, a yellow hybrid. Seed for planting in 1955 will be available through established seed dealers.

Those in charge of the mobile X-ray unit of the State Health Department did a rather thriving business during their two-day stay in Munday—last Friday and Saturday.

They were clicking off the chest x-rays at a pretty fast clip most of the time, and they could take that chest picture quicker than it took a lady to register necessary information in a card. The campaign for Munday was called a huge success, as was the one at Knox City earlier in the week.

In the two days' stay here, the department's mobile X-ray unit processed a total of 1,635 adults, far more than on any previous visit here. X-rays were made only of those 15 years old or over.

At Knox City a total of 1,561 persons were processed, making a total of 3,196 for the county. The mobile X-ray unit was only at these two places, and those of other communities in the county were urged to have X-rays made either here or at Knox City.

The total amount was almost double the number processed by previous visits, and sponsoring organizations were "more than pleased" by this good response.

Attends Stewart Meeting In Dallas

Winston Blacklock of Munday Implement Company learned of the farm machinery expansion plans of Ford Motor Company at a meeting held November 3rd at Dallas, under the auspices of The Stewart Company, Ford tractor and farm equipment distributor for Texas.

Establishment of a consolidated farm machinery research center in Birmingham, Mich., extensive improvements in the Ford Tractor Plant at Highland Park, Mich., and other far-reaching developments were described for the 500 dealers and their dealership personnel in attendance.

In a filmed message, Henry Ford II, president of Ford Motor Company, told the dealers that Ford's entry into the farm implement business "was another step in the broad program of expansion carried on during the past few years, and continuing today throughout our organization." "I can assure you," Mr. Ford said, "that in this program, tractors and farm machinery are being given the top management attention they well deserve."

Ernest R. Breech, executive vice president, also in a filmed message, declared: "Today we have a top notch organization that is making industrial history. I believe the future of Ford Motor Company holds even greater promise than the accomplishments of the past few years."

One of the highlights of the meeting was the premiere of a new motion picture, "Food, Fiber and Ford" which traced the development of tractors from the 1903 model created by Henry Ford Senior.

A special crew from Ford's Tractor and Implement Division, Birmingham, Mich., headed by John Dorn, South Central Regional Manager, presented a lively day-long program covering products, merchandising and manpower plans for dealers. Special motion pictures and live stage presentations were employed.

The meeting is one of 32 being presented by specially trained traveling crews from Ford Motor Company at central locations throughout the United States.

WHERE TO GET A JOB

One ever-present problem to young people when they finish schools and colleges and start out into the larger world is where to get a job.

Today there is a tremendous opportunity in the field of marketing, according to authorities. Young people in growing numbers are turning to retailing as a career. It has been observed that marketers need "the best youth in the country to become salesmen."

Retailing, like all other branches of marketing, is as competitive an enterprise as anyone can imagine. The day when all that was necessary was to put goods on display and then wait for the eager customers to come flocking in has long since passed. Successful stores are putting more and more stress on better selling, better advertising, better inducements and promotions of every kind. Young people with the right aptitudes and a willingness to work and learn can earn good incomes to start with, and opportunities for future progress are virtually unlimited.

Retailing has always been a business which has brought its leaders up from the ranks. As an example, the top men in the big chain systems began, for the most part, at or near the bottom—as clerks, warehouse attendants, and so on. That's also true of other kinds of stores. And today the field is bigger and more promising than ever.

THE TRUTH ABOUT UNEMPLOYMENT

The argument that he must have virtually unbridled government spending in order to keep the economy going and to maintain employment simply doesn't jibe with the facts.

According to the New York Times, unemployment at the end of October amounted to 4.2 percent of the civilian labor force. This marked a substantial decline from the February-March percentage. Yet, the paper says, the "reduction in the number of unemployed has been achieved in the fact of a cutback in Government spending in the same period equal to an annual rate of $13,000,000,000. It has been achieved, moreover, without any depreciation in the purchasing power of the dollar."

The Times points to a still more striking fact. Save for 1947 and 1948, both years of violent inflation, "there is not a single peacetime year . . . in the entire span of 1933-52 which shows an annual rate of unemployment as low as that prevailing at the present time."

Economical government is in the interest of labor as well as everyone else.

FREEDOM OF CHOICE

A New York banker recently ran an unusual kind of magazine advertisement. The text paid high tribute to another enterprise, retailing, and said nothing about banking.

Here are some excerpts from it: "Today's popular retail merchant, with an alert eye to competition, applies experience, judgment and imagination to the selection and development of more and more quality merchandise. He presents it in attractive displays and timely promotions. He studies changing patterns in living . . .

"With an unlimited variety of goods from many lands placed before them, thanks to the individual initiative of our nation's retailers, the American people enjoy a freedom of choice unmatched throughout the world."

To every retailer, as to the manufacturers and others who supply him, the desires and demands of consumers are the all-important factors of business life. This is true in a huge city such as New York—and it is true in thousands of middle-sized and small communities in every section of the land.

BANKING IN A FISH BOWL

A recent press release describes an innovation in the financial world that will come as a shocker to most people—a glass bank. It is a five-story aluminum structure with half-inch plate glass walls. Its main vault is on the street floor facing bustling Fifth Avenue in New York City. Millions of passersby will get a look at the banking business such as they have never seen before in this unique establishment, which was built by one of the oldest banking firms in the country. The management describes the new structure as a "distinctive departure in bank architecture, and likewise a refreshingly wide-open view of modern banking at its best."

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

LOS ANGELES, CALIF. (LINCOLN HEIGHTS BULLETIN-NEWS): "Free Enterprise, embodies all that brings dignity to the human race. Without this freedom there would be no profit for the individual, no satisfaction in his work, no personal liberty . . . Compare our personal freedom to work for profit, to own our own home and business, to choose daily jobs, and the satisfaction which we get from them with the rigid control over human activity in the communist world and we know indeed that 'Free Enterprise' is the greatest in the world."

PREACHING CHRIST

The apostle Paul in preaching the gospel, preached the death, burial, and resurrection of Christ. (1 Cor. 15:1-4.) Paul said, "For I determined not to know anything among you, save Jesus Christ, and him crucified." (1 Cor. 2:2.) Paul told the the Corinthian brethren that they were saved by the gospel which he had preached unto them. (1 Cor. 15:1-2.) Peter said, "This is the word which by the gospel is preached unto you." (1 Pet. 1:25.) By this we find that to preach the word was to preach the gospel, and to preach the gospel was to preach Christ.

WHAT DOES ONE PREACH WHEN HE PREACHES CHRIST?

Then Philip went down to the city of Samaria and preached Christ unto them." (Acts 8:5.) Note, Philip "Preached Christ unto them." Does not say he preached faith, repentance, nor baptism, just preached Christ.

The best way to find out what the inspired men preached when they preached Christ, is to see what conclusion the Samaritans came to when they heard Christ preached. Verse six says, "The people with one accord gave heed unto the things Philip spake." These people had been following after Simon the sorcerer. Verse twelve says, "But when they believed Philip preaching the things concerning the kingdom of God, and the name of Jesus Christ, THEY WERE BAPTIZED, BOTH MEN AND WOMEN."

Did you ever hear a preacher preach, and come to the conclusion that you did not need to be baptized? That there was absolutely nothing in baptism? Philip so preached Christ, that those who heard and believed, what he preached came to the conclusion that they should be baptized. If you ever hear a preacher preach and come to the conclusion that there is nothing in baptism, and that you do not need to be baptized, you have heard Christ preached in a different way than that which the inspired Philip preached him. Paul said, "If any man preach other gospel unto you than that ye received, let him be accursed." (Gal. 1:9.) When the people of Samaria believed Philip's preaching they were baptized, both men and women.

 PAYNE HATTOX, Evangelist

Homer Glover was justice of the peace in Kilgore at the height of the oil rush and had to pass on cases of hundreds of murderers, hi-jackers, gamblers and riff-raff who had been lured into East Texas by the promise of quick and easy riches.

Glover also was ready to back up his official actions with a six-shooter—but he didn't have to swing into action because the criminal element never got to the point that any of its members wanted a showdown with the former Texas Ranger. He had resigned from that famous manhunting organization to become justice of the peace.

The colorful, rangy ex-Ranger, who stands above six feet and moves with the grace of a panther, is ruddy-complexioned, has sandy hair and talks with a Texas drawl.

Friends telling of Glover's experiences in the East Texas rush say that he and Ranger "Lone Wolf" Gonsaulas arrived in Kilgore early in the boom and began rounding up undesirables. There was no place to keep the prisoners so an old Baptist church, which was no longer, in use, was converted into a jail. A heavy chain was fastened all the way around the wall and shorter chains were attached.

As high as 300 arrests were made in a day. Among the prisoners, finger-prints revealed, were men who were wanted for murder and robbery with firearms all over the country.

Kilgore's justice of the peace when the boom hit was a rather elderly man who said he wanted to resign and that he wanted Ranger Glover to be his successor. Glover, however, had been in the county only 30 days and there is something in the law books about having to live in a county six months before becoming eligible for a county office. But the county attorney said that since Glover was a state officer and unmarried, he could claim any county as his legal residence so he was named justice of the peace by the commissioners' court.

He assumed the duties and often would convene court at sunrise and keep going steadily, except for lunch, until sunset. Some days he tried as many as 130 cases. Some of the men were dangerous characters and reports to threats came to Glover's ears more than once.

The nearest to trouble that he had took place one day while he was sitting at the counter in a cafe. He looked up into the mirror and saw a leader of the "tough" crowd coming up behind him, with a pistol held alongside his pants leg.

Glover spun the stool around, at the same time whipping out his own gun, jammed it into the other's stomach and said, "I don't think you'll be needing this," and removed the pistol from the man's grasp.

Letters From The People

Dear Editor,

Well, here I come with more Farm Bureau news. Mrs. Patterson and I attended the State Farm Bureau Convention at Galveston recently where there were eleven hundred and thirty-seven registered, and of course we enjoyed every minute of it. We left home Sunday morning and got back Friday evening. The convention only lasted until Wednesday evening, but we visited with Mrs. Patterson's two brothers in Houston until Friday morning.

I wish every farmer in Texas learned about the necessity for the Farmer to be organized and work out and formulate their own farm program, and to learn of the tremendous influence that the Farm Bureau is having in legislative matters affecting the agriculture and the well-being of the Farm families. The only reason few are not saying exact-what kind of program we need for agriculture is that there is not enough farmer-participation in the program. We only have 58,120 members in Texas. There should be 180,000 or 200,000 members in Texas. Each county in Texas meets and discusses what is needed for the agriculture program, then those resolutions are sent to the State Farm Bureau and are worked out on a state level. The Farm Bureau is divided into thirteen districts and each district has 3 members on the resolutions committee, then those resolutions are presented to the General Assembly for consideration and each voting delegate has a chance to talk for or against adoption.

Mr. Howard Hill from Iowa brought out the fact that it was as necessary to use part of your time to Farm Bureau as it was to give part of your time to cotton, cattle or hogs, and that it was as profitable to invest ten dollars in membership dues at it was to invest in pure seed or better hogs or cattle.

Senator Eastland from Mississippi spoke on the importance of the farmer being organized to discuss and formulate their own farm program.

There are three things that are necessary for the well-being of our Nation, Industry, Labor and Agriculture. Industry does not wait for our congressmen to tell them what they should have for Industry, neither does Labor. But we farmers sit around unconcerned about agriculture and let someone who doesn't know half as much about agriculture as we farmers do tell us what we will have for our agriculture program.

Senator Eastland, as well as Mr. Hill, brought out the fact that Japan and Germany and other free nations of the world couldn't produce the necessary thing as a nation to survive and had to trade with some other nation, and that they were sitting there with the Iron Curtain of Russia on one side and tariff wall of the U. S. A. on the other side. We must break down that wall so we could trade with them to be disposing of our surpluses and do away with restrictions on production. Each of the two speakers stated that restricted acreage was necessary at present until the tariff wall be broken down so we could trade with other nations.

As I stated before, each county works out what they want for the farm families, and then it is worked out on a state level and then on a national level—it is purely democratic. We have only about 300 members in Knox County, we need 1200. When you invest $10.00 in the Farm Bureau organization in the form of membership dues, that money is not thrown away. Our Farm Bureau has brought untold benefits to the rural areas, and when you coming in we can render a bigger and better service to agriculture. We have resolutions on bigger and better service to agriculture. We have resolutions on water, education, research, transportation, legislation, disease and insect control, fish and wildlife feed control laws, poultry, dairy, commodities such as cotton, wool, beef, etc., highways and road taxes. Then we have able men as lobbyists to be at each session of the state legislature to advocate laws to favor agriculture and to oppose those that would be detrimental to agriculture.

We have and still are doing a lot for the well-being of farm families. We, as members of the Farm Bureau of Knox County, do earnestly and honestly ask you to come in and join shoulders with us in helping make a better agriculture and better living conditions for Knox County farm families. When you are in Munday drop in to see Mr. Chas. Baker, he is chucked full of Farm Bureau services such as, Insurance and Gas tax exemptions, Social Security, etc.
L. B. PATTERSON,
Membership Chairman

AS GENERAL ELECTRIC SEES IT...

Every year Americans live better because electricity costs so little

These 30 everyday General Electric appliances lined up on the front lawn dramatize the impact of low-cost electricity on American life. Per capita use of electricity in U.S. is 2 times Britain's, 5 times Russia's, 167 times India's.

An average U. S. family uses enough power each day to equal the energy output of 35 hard-working men

Nowhere on earth has electricity been put to work more widely than in the United States, and its price been kept so low.

We've come a long way since Thomas Edison invented the first home use of electricity — an electric light — just 75 years ago. There are three reasons for this progress.

First, America's electric utilities have invested in facilities ($18 billion in the last ten years!). And the electrical industry has steadily increased the efficiency of power equipment. Turbine-generators made by General Electric, for example, produce 10 times more electricity per pound of coal than Edison's original generators.

Second, appliances have been constantly improved and are mass-produced to bring their price within reach of everyone. The first 60-watt lamps cost about $1.00 and gave a light equal to 7 candles; a G-E 60-watt lamp today gives a light equal to 67 candles, and costs only 19 cents.

The third reason for progress is our free economy, which has allowed industry to grow, create jobs and produce effectively for everyone's benefit. As we see it, it adds up to a good example of progress in the American way.

Meanwhile, we're hard at work to make the future even better.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Henry A. Holle, M. D., State Health Officer of Texas

AUSTIN—“A high standard of community health is the best asset that a state can possess,” said Dr. Henry A. Holle, State Health Officer, in speaking of the progress made in public health education since the first Thanksgiving Day was observed by our forefathers.

“The State of Texas has much to be thankful for this year,” he said, “in the steadily increasing interest and cooperation of the people of the state in matters pertaining to their health.

“The control of the water and milk supplies, sewage disposal, vaccination against smallpox, immunization against diphtheria and whooping cough, food inspection, housing regulations, and many other measures have been spectacularly successful in reducing the killing power of a number of maladies that formerly took a terrific annual toll.

“Responsibility for success and advancement of a public health program lies not only with the health department, but also with the people who support and encourage the community effort put forth and who apply in their own individual lives the knowledge which they have acquired.

“The individual citizen, to reap the benefits of good health must be more concerned about his own well-being than he is today. His program should involve a conscientious effort to abide by the simple rules of healthful and rational living.

“In short, when the private citizen fully appreciates the importance of good health practice on his part, he will greatly enhance the efforts of medicine, surgery, and public health in his behalf.”

LAUNDRY TIPS

To get the best performance from your automatic washer and dryer, read this tip sheet compiled by Whirlpool Corporation home economists. Keep it for reference. Follow instructions and you're bound to get good results.

Washing

1. Choose water temperature (HOT for whites and cottons, MED. for prints and colors, WARM for delicate fabrics) then set control dial.

2. Add soap or detergent. One-half cup of detergent should yield the recommended one to two inches of suds even in hard water areas, but add more if necessary.

3. Next, deposit up to nine pounds of clothes or, if washing larger pieces, eight pounds. (Dry, a twin sheet weighs one pound, a double sheet two pounds, a man's shirt one-half pound.)

4. If you want to starch: Stop washer halfway through damp-dry period, remove clothes you don't starch, and start washer again. Pour in liquid starch while clothes spin. (Collars and cuffs should be starched by hand.)

Drying

1. Put in clothes, select temperature (HOT for rugs and woolens, MED. for whites and cottons, WARM for silks and nylons), select drying time.

2. To save time, put handkerchiefs, gloves and other small articles into a mesh bag (you can make one from two dish-cloths.) One arm motion picks up all the small pieces at one time.

3. Remove towels and linens while slightly damp. Smooth, fold and stack — they'll dry quickly and their own weight will press them.

4. Slippers should be removed when slightly damp-dried. Iron pleats and flounces and put covers back on furniture where they'll dry smooth and tight.

Miss Darlee Johnston of Lubbock and Miss Doris Melloway of Roswell, N. M., spent last Thursday with Miss Johnston's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Johnston.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Wardlaw were business visitors in Fort Worth last Monday.

An abundance of high quality turkeys at lower prices is available for the holiday season. The attractive prices should encourage consumers to buy and store turkeys for later use.

EMPHASIS ON QUALITY
Marked increases in the per capita consumption of eggs over the past few years has been accompanied by an increase in demand for a quality product. As a result, there is frequently a shortage of high quality eggs despite the surplus production which has plagued the industry from time to time.

Some of the fault lies in the failure on the part of the egg producers to follow practices to maintain quality. Seven widely recommended practices have been suggested to increase the number of top grade eggs the producer has to market. These are:

Confining the laying flock is a time tested practice of farm management known to result in greater production and more high quality eggs. It should be remembered that overcrowding in a poultry house is as bad a practice as permitting hens to roam. A lower rate of production and a higher percentage of stained and dirty eggs are certain to result.

Providing clean, dry floor litter and clean nesting material are two practices which help provide more A quality eggs. Many types of litter and nesting materials are available and most are inexpensive. Keeping them dry and clean reduces the chore of cleaning eggs.

Gathering eggs at least three times a day is a necessary practice in the production of top quality. The longer eggs stay in the nest after they are laid, the more they deteriorate. Commercial producers often collect eggs at 10 A. M., 12 and again at 4 P. M.

Collecting and cooling eggs in wire baskets permits free circulation of air to cool eggs rapidly before they are packed in cases and reduces the chance of quality deterioration.

Cooling eggs before packing, keeping them cool, and maintaining proper humidity are practices which go hand in hand. Main-

NEWS FROM VERA

(Mrs. Thelma Lee Coulston)

VERA JUNIOR FOOTBALL BANQUET HELD FRIDAY

Last Friday evening, November 19th, the Junior football boys, their girls and parents were honored with a banquet at the Vera school building. Mothers of the seventh and eighth grades furnished the food and the entire evening was termed a huge success. The football motif was carried out in the decoration of the hall. Coach Hughes acted as toastmaster and Mrs. Norman Clark gave the welcome. Jim Frank Coulston, a member of the Pilot team, gave the response. The dinner was served buffet style and consisted of chicken and dressing, stuffed celery, cranberry sauce, green beans, combination salad, buttered rolls, pecan pie, and iced tea. Following the response, Coach Hughes was presented with a gift by co-captain Travis Clark. The highlight of the evening was the crowning of the football sweetheart, and a lovely corsage was presented to the winning nominee, Carol McGaughey.

The program was concluded with a film, shown by Mr. and Mrs. Milton Ford, of the Junior boys practicing some of their plays which led to a very successful football season. Pictures were made throughout the evening by Mrs. Norman Clark. Pilots, girls and parents attending the event were Johnny Allen, Travis Bradford, Floyd Brown, Billy Hardin, Larry Dan Gore, Travis Clark, Wayland Hardin, Jim Frank Coulston, Lyndal Laws, Elmer Rutledge, Lyndal Struck, Gray Hardin, William McGaughey, Jerry Lee Richards, Barbara Kay Weiss, Joyce Richards, Nelda Dowd, Novelle Hen-

WOMEN AND WHEELS

Low Speed Saves Gas

By Mary Lou Chapman

We don't know who handles the finances in your family, but if your husband has been unhappy about car gasoline bills lately, here are tips the whole family can use while driving. You might try them for one month and see if that bill doesn't shrink.

30 M.P.H. GOOD

Keep your speed moderate, both on the highway and in the city. Recent tests showed that at a steady speed of 30 miles an hour, gas mileage was very good. At 40, gas mileage was 10 per cent less. At 60 m.p.h., it was 31 per cent less, and at a steady speed of 80, gas mileage was 52 per cent less. One 165-mile test showed that by driving around 50 instead of 70 on the open highway, you can save one gallon or more out of every four.

Avoid "jet-propelled" starts. It was found that 65 per cent of all drivers accelerated much too quickly when hurrying in traffic. (Does it really matter so much that you beat the other car away from the traffic light?) Unnecessarily fast starts make your car a real gas-eater.

TAKE IT EASY

Shift from lower gears as soon as possible, because traveling in low gears at high speeds consumes gas. Stay in low long enough to get smoothly under way, but don't keep the car in low beyond 15 m.p.h. Shift to second at 15 m.p.h. and into high at 20 m.p.h. Don't accelerate too heavily, remember.

Avoid repeated accelerating and braking. In the city, where accelerating and braking is so frequent, gas consumption can still be cut by using "planned driving," that is, using a safe steady speed. It's just a matter of timing—looking ahead as you drive, judging the speed of the traffic flow, and gauging the approximate setting of the traffic lights. If you do a good job of timing, plenty of extra stops and starts can be avoided. These tests we mentioned show that planned driving in traffic can save you one gallon out of every three.

Those are the main things to remember. The biggest point made in these tests seems to be this: that of all the factors that influence how much gas your car uses, one of the most important is the driver.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Amazed To Learn About The College Course In Politics That's Now Being Offered

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek discusses colleges or politics this week, we aren't sure which.

Dear editor:

The other afternoon I was out here walking around lookin' for signs of oncoming winter, a few leaves beginning to turn loose, what grass there is beginning to fade, a flock of geese flyin' over, the air feelin' a little brisker, and I was startled out of my reflections when a newspaper blew up and hit me in the face and I pulled it off and rolled it up and took it home for some quiet after-supper reading.

That night over on an inside page I ran across a story that got me to thinking. According to it, a college up in Minnesota has started a course in politics. The way it works is, the students pick out any candidates they like and the course consists of getting out and campaigning for em. Ring door bell, shake hands, and as far as I know, make promises. For this they get college credits.

The article didn't give very many details, but there are several questions I would like answered about this new course.

For example, does the college allow students to take courses in politics and ethics at the same time and is it possible to get a passing grade in both? How?

If your candidate loses, do you bust the course? If he wins, and it later turns out he wasn't the man you figured he was, does the college take your credits away from you? If he goes to jail, is the student confined to the campus?

The article added that some students have liked the course so well they quit school and started running for office themselves, and while I have never heard of so many college stud-who ought to be holding office, I have encountered some office-holders who maybe ought to be in college, although understand I ain't recommending college for everybody who is ignorant, as in some cases it doesn't seem to do any good.

I guess you could argue that every student needs a course in politics, but you might argue even better that every politician needs a course in college, although again this ain't necessarily true, as I have seen some pretty educated politicians who didn't turn out any better than some who never got through grammar school, and some who never got through grammar school who turned out fine.

None the less, about this new college course, I can't help feelin' a lot of voters must have been surprised when a young man knocked on their door and said he was working his way through college and would they vote for s-and-so.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.
