A manufacturing firm for Munday,

Seems like a wonderful thing. Man alive! What would a good payroll do for a drouth stricken town!

It's all within the realm of possibility—however remote it might seem to lots of folks.

A manufacturing concern is casting feelers in our direction.

It would require a building of around 10,000 square feet. It would give around 50 persons steady employment at the beginning.

It would turn loose between $20,000 and $30,000 in a weekly payroll.

It would manufacture articles for the wholesale trade, and it has retail outlets in 44 states and Canada.

It's behind with its orders now, and is farming some of them out to other places. The firm wants to expand so as to be able to manufacture more goods.

The company is now on the threshold of becoming a national leader in the manufacture of western apparel. Their claim to the market is said to be around $874,000 yearly at the present time.

It's the Feldt Manufacturing Co., which opened its home office in Stamford last Saturday, and the plant hopes to employ around 500 persons in that town by fall.

It's ready to expand—and it would expand to Munday.

An available building seems to be suitable. Other things required seem to be suitable. The plant requires no water to speak of but lots of electricity, etc., which can be supplied.

But there's a catch that seems to be high as a mountain on the face of it.

This "little catch" is that people of the area must purchase $200,000 stock in the company.

And they hit our town, some remarked, in a very bad time to raise such an amount of dough—what with drought conditions prevailing, etc.

A group of Munday people visited the plant last Friday, on the eve of its formal opening. They were favorably impressed with the precision-like operation of the plant, as well as the type of people employed.

They realize, too, what a payroll of even 50 steadily employed people would mean to our town.

But the task of the purchase of stocks and bonds in the amount mentioned above seemed like a herculean one.

The company offers its stocks and bonds in units—one 5% twenty year debenture bond, face value $100 and 10 shares of common voting stock at $12.50 per share, for $225 per unit.

That pretty well covers the picture of our possibility of getting "a factory" in Munday. The company estimates that the full $200,000 in bonds would be returned to the community in personnel training and salaries in one year's time.

A gigantic task? Yes, but it could be done!

Time brings developments in most everything. Since the above was written we've been informed that Munday people will be asked to raise only $100,000 to secure the factory. A community working together can do that.

Local FFA Team Wins High Honor

The dairy products team of Munday chapter, Future Farmers of America, won another honor for themselves and their school in the area contests held at Will Rogers Coliseum in Fort Worth last Saturday. The team is composed of Lloyd Welch, Bobby Fendleton and Grady McDaniels.

They brought back a third place banner to be placed beside the other 19 banners won by other Munday teams during the past eight years.

"We feel proud of the accomplishments these teams have made," said E. R. Ponder, instructor. "It is doubtful if any other school in Area IV has won so many honors. Winning last Saturday entitles the team to enter the state meet at Texas A. and M. College on May 14.

The meat judging team did not place among the high four, and therefore, cannot go to the state meet. However, we are proud of these boys: Johnny Orsak, G. H. Coody and J. R. Booe, for doing their best."

June 1st Deadline On Student Transfers

Parents who desire to transfer their students from one school district to another must do so by June 1st, according to County Supt. Merick McGaughey. This date is the deadline for making applications for transfers for next year.

Application blanks may be secured from your local school superintendent or at the county superintendent's office.

The county school board will meet on June 1st and pass on all transfer applications, it was stated.

A series of showers during the first of this week have brought relief from the drouth and the pre-season heat wave, and renewed hopes for much of the drouth area of Texas.

The moisture in Knox County has consisted mostly of slow, steady showers, continuing over periods of several hours.

Some areas of the state have received storm warnings and heavier rains, with reports late Tuesday in various areas being .17 at Amarillo, 2.03 at Borger, 1.43 at Childress, 4 inches in Hale County, an inch at Matador, 2.10 at Odessa, 1.84 at Spur. The rain appeared to be lighter in the Amarillo-Dalhart area.

Coming mostly in the early morning hours, rainfall in Munday came up to around these measurements: .47 on Monday, .49 on Tuesday and a lighter rain early Wednesday that brought the total to a little better than an inch.

Locally, the rains have been beneficial to much of the wheat, while some crops are believed too far gone to benefit to any great extent. Wheat that has not ripened too far will be aided in maturing by the rains.

Cotton farmers regarded all showers as "good cotton showers," and many will be able to renew planting operations.

THE EDUCATION OF A DOCTOR

The education of a doctor is a long, demanding and arduous process. And, after he graduates and gets that coveted M.D. degree, he must continue studying as long as he is in practice.

According to a survey whose results were printed in the Journal of the American Medical Association, the average physician puts in a 60-hour work week. On top of that, he spends another 10 hours just keeping up with his education. Even with this heavy schedule, most physicians queried said they wished it were possible to spend much more time in educational pursuits such as reading, professional contacts with other physicians, attending hospital and medical society meetings, and taking formal postgraduate courses.

In this connection, it's interesting and important to know what happens to the physician's education under socialized medicine. In England, for example, each doctor is required to take care of a panel of patients, usually large in number. Inasmuch as the tax-subsidized service is "free" to the patient, legions of people go to the doctor for trivial or non-existent ailments, on the theory they might as well get what they have coming. English medical leaders have stated that the enormous work-load makes it impossible for doctors to adequately keep up with medical progress. It also takes time that should be devoted to preventive medicine and research. And, finally, it prevents the doctor, in many instances, from giving as much attention as he should to the seriously ill.

As the A. M. A. Journal's article said, "Every year, every month, and every day brings new changes in the panorama of knowledge of human biology, human disease, and related scientific fields. . . . What may have been acceptable treatment for one condition 20 years ago might now be considered less than worthless." We can all be thankful that American physicians have the will and the opportunity to pursue an endless educational process.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

DALLAS, PA. POST: "Maybe I shouldn't bring it up but have you got a will? I am surprised at the number of my friends and acquaintances who haven't. . . . And while I'm becoming so personal about matters that should be your business and not mine, how long has it been since you sat down with your wife and explained to her your insurance policies and other other formidable looking papers you have tucked away in the safe deposit box or some desk drawer?"

THE BEE HAS NO MARKETING PROBLEM

The wild bee seems fortunate in having the raw honey provided for him in flowers with no effort on his part, until it is realized that the spends all his productive hours collecting, transporting, and depositing it in the carefully prepared cells he has built. There he stops, his honey hidden in a hollow tree.

Mans task of providing for his wants is as never-ending as the work of the honey bee, only more so. He is not satisfied to have his food stored in the most primitive manner. He has a marketing problem to make the results of his labor available for consumption, and this is a costly process.

It is reported that in 1953 two-thirds of the consumers dollar went for marketing costs. In other words, getting the results of mans labors to the consumer has grown from the "honey in the tree" to the ready-mix cake flour and frozen food package age.

Who wants to trade the chance to distribute some honey at a profit, for a bee's life?

THE HISTORY OF LIBERTY

"The history of liberty is the history of limitations of governmental power, not the increase of it," said the late President Woodrow Wilson. Ever since civilization began, men have had to fight for freedom against all-powerful, oppressive states. And, since the Wilson era, such states have reached new zeniths of dictatorship and tyranny.

Many say that cannot happen here, in our own country. But the lesson of history is that it can happen anywhere and will happen—unless the people and their representatives are forever on guard against any avoidable extension of the power of government.

NOT ENOUGH MILLIONAIRES

Do you ever hear it argued that the way to solve the tax problem is to soak the bloated millionaires harder?

In a recent year, the Internal Revenue Service reports, 171 individuals had incomes of $1,000,000 or more. They earned a total of $344,640,000, of which the federal government alone took $213,654,000 in taxes. If it had taken it all, it would have amounted to less than one per cent of the government's revenue that year.

So it looks like we can't turn to the millionaires to carry the load. Most of the taxes, sad as the fact may be, must be paid by people of moderate means.

WHAT DOES THE BIBLE SAY?

The New Testament Church and the Church of Christ today (Continued)

How did the New Testament church raise money for the carrying on of its work?

"Upon the first day of the week let every one of you lay by him in store, as God hath prospered him." (1 Cor. 16:2). Nowhere do we find an apostle telling them that the law of tithing was binding, many gave more than a tenth. Each gave as he was prospered, and as he purposed in his heart (2 Cor. 9:7). Nowhere do we read of the early church taxing each member so much. Neither do we read of the early church staging pie suppers, rummage sales or parties of any kind to raise money for the church. Community begging was not engaged in. The church of Christ today raises its money from its members who give as they have been prospered, and as they purpose in their hearts to give. To raise money for the church in any other way, we would lack just that much being like the New Testament church.

In the worship of the churches of Christ today you will find many prayers offered just as they were in the New Testament times, 1 Tim. 2:8. You will also find in our worship singing just as they were commanded to sing then. Paul in giving instructions to the early church said, "Speaking to your selves in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and making melody in your heart to the Lord" (Eph. 5:19). Again in Col. 3:16 "Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom; teaching and admonishing one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing with grace in your hearts to the Lord." What was the teaching of the early church as to how to become a Christian?

On the day of Pentecost, Peter preached Jesus as the Christ, the Son of the living God. He called upon the men of Israel to know assuredly, that God had made the Jesus when they had crucified both Lord and Christ (Acts 2:36). Here he was calling for strong faith. We know they believed for verse 37 says, "Now when they heard this they were pricked in their hearts, and said unto Peter and the rest of the apostles, 'men and brethren, what shall we do?'" Then in verse 38 Peter said unto them, "repent and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of your sins." From this we learn that the apostles of the early church taught men to believe, repent, and be baptized in order that they might be saved. This is exactly what churches of Christ teach today. To teach anything different we would lack just that much being the church of the New Testament.

Conclusion: Since the church of Christ today teaches the same thing the apostles taught, since it worships in the same way, has the same organization, wears the same name, and has the same creed, we believe we are the New Testament church and not just a denomination. Can this be said of the church of which you are a member?

IT'S THE LAW
in Texas
 A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

CONTRACTS WITH MINORS ARE RISKY

Your son or daughter is considered a minor in the "law of contracts" until he or she becomes 21 years old. A parent frequently asks, "Am I responsible for the contracts entered into by my minor child?" A parent further wonders what rights his child may have once he enters into a contract.

All adults, particularly businessmen, contract with minors at their peril. What are their rights?

As a parent you are not responsible for the contracts of your minor child unless you, yourself, enter into the contract or unless you guarantee the child's performance of the terms of the contract.

What rights does your minor child have? The law of contracts protects those not yet twenty-one years of age. Contracts of minors are "voidable." This means that those contracts are perfectly valid ones and adult parties are bound by them but the minor party has a right to refuse to perform his part of the contract and the law will not require him to do so.

Most contracts may be rejected by the minor either before he is 21 years old or shortly afterwards.

If a minor rejects a contract, he "disaffirms" it. He may notify the other party and the contract becomes null and void. This right applies to many types of contracts, such as deeds, mortgages, promissory notes, contracts of employment, street improvement contracts and contracts for the purchase of automobiles.

The law requires a minor who desires to reject his contract to do so within a reasonable time after he reaches 21 years of age. If he fails to disaffirm within a reasonable time, he is regarded as having accepted the contract and is bound by it.

What constitutes a "reasonable time" depends upon the facts of each individual case. The fact that the parent approves the contract does not prevent a minor, at any time, from rejecting it.

An adult who contracts with a minor, as has been seen is at a serious disadvantage. The law requires him to perform his part of the bargain, but the minor may elect to disaffirm the contract.

The duty is upon those who contract with minors to ascertain their ages; otherwise, such persons may someday be defeated by the shield with which the law protects the minor.

If a minor purchases an automobile, or some other article of value, and he wishes to revoke the purchase, he may recover from the seller the money that he has paid. But he must restore, or offer to restore, the automobile or article to the seller if he still has it.

After a child reaches the age of 21, he is no longer a minor and he may ratify any contracts that he made during his minority; and they are then valid and binding. He may ratify by expressly stating that he will perform the obligations of the contract. If he uses the purchased property beyond a reasonable time after becoming of age, the law may hold that this amounts to a ratification and require him to perform his obligations under the contract.

News From The U. S. Congress

Congressman Frank Ikard

The appropriation of the Defense Department which is by far the largest appropriation bill considered by the Congress is before the House this week. The Appropriations Committee in its report gives the Defense Department $31,500,000,000 in new funds for the fiscal year starting July 31st. This figure will enable the Department to spend somewhere in the neighborhood of $43,000,000,000 during the same year when unobligated funds from prior appropriations are added to the amount provided by the Committee. The Committee Report cut the request of the Administration some $744,000,000. Under this appropriation bill, the Army will get approximately Seven and One-Third Billion Dollars which is $244,000,000 less than was requested and $290,000,000 less than the Army is spending this year. $900,000,000 is allocated to the Navy which represents $108,000,000 less than was requested and $640,000,000 less than it is spending this year. Almost $14,500,000 goes to the Air Force which is $382,000,000 less than their request but will amount to $3,500,000,000 more money than they spent during this fiscal year. The amounts of money in this Appropriation Bill are, of course, staggering and represent by far the greater percentage of our National Budget. As burdensome as these expenditures are, there can be no question but what during these times it is essential that we maintain the best Air Force, Navy, and Army in the world, and in the long run it is a lot cheaper to maintain these branches of our military service as well equipped units rather than to let them deteriorate and have to build them up suddenly in times of extreme emergency. The point of controversy in this Appropriation Bill, of course, will be the reduction in the Army which has been widely discussed for the last several weeks throughout the coun-

AUSTIN HIGHLIGHTS

(By George Moffett)

We are approaching the end of a hard session. More than 1500 bills and resolutions have been introduced, which exceeds the record for several years past. Probably one-third of them will become law.

Among the bills which have already passed is a bill increasing the daytime passenger car speed limit to 65 miles per hour on ordinary 2-lane highways and 70 miles per hour on 4-lane divided highways. This bill also raises the speed limit for pickup trucks from 45 miles per hour to 60 miles per hour. No other speed limits are affected. No changes are made in night driving speed limits. This law will become effective 90 days after the Legislature adjourns.

Due to the increased need for funds for our public school system, the old age assistance program, the State hospitals for the insane and feebleminded, and the State highway system, the Legislature must raise more money. There is no chance, however, that the gasoline tax will be increased by two cents. Many members will reluctantly vote for a one cent increase, since this money goes partly to the schools and partly to the highway system.

If we do not provide more money for the public school system, it will be necessary for each school district to raise more money locally. Many districts can not do this, and it will particularly work a hardship upon the districts in the drought areas to do so. Therefore, the State is indirectly helping the drought situation when it raises the necessary money to continue to keep the schools open. The State sends to each local district each year slightly more than 80% of the total cost of support and maintenance of the school in that district, including bus transportation.

Hundreds of people have come to Austin protesting against the new taxes which have been proposed. This is quite natural. It can be truthfully said, however, that Texas is better off than any surrounding state with respect to taxes. All of our neighboring states have at least a six-cent tax on a gallon of gasoline; Louisiana and Arkansas have a seven-cent tax. Their tax on cigarettes is higher than ours. Furthermore, each of these surrounding states also levies a state income tax and a general sales tax, even on food.

Qualified authorities say that Texas is spending its tax dollars well, and every effort must be made to continue this good record.

try. Most of the debate on the bill, I am sure, will be concerning this question. In spite of our great developments in atomic warfare and the continual progress that is being made with the development of faster and more powerful aircraft, there still is unquestionably a need for a strong ground force, for even though we have many entirely new instruments of war, so far none of these have effectively provided any substitute for the well trained, well equipped infantryman, who, historically, has always borne the brunt of battle and unquestionably will continue to do so in the future.

Other matters that are being considered on the Floor are the Postal Pay Raise Conference Report and the Hawaiian-Alaskan Statehood.

LET'S TALK LIVESTOCK BY TED GOULDY

Cattle Prices Skid; Meat Trade Dull

FORT WORTH—Last Monday the nation's 12 major markets reported close to 125,000 cattle and calves. This was about 20,000 more than a year ago the same date, and 10,000 ahead of a week earlier. It was the signal for renewed pressure on prices across the nation.

Chicago reported cattle 50 cents to $1.50 lower. Kansas City chalked up losses of 50 cents to $1 per hundred. It was the same story at all points. Here at Fort Worth grainfed cattle were scarce and pretty close to steady, but the rank and file cattle and calves averaged 50 cents to $1 lower, some spots more and some spots less.

In livestock circles this happens every year, usually in June. However, the season governs the "June Break." An early season such as this one sees the break in cattle prices come early, and in a "late" season, sometimes the break comes in July or later.

Usually the "June Break" comes soon after the first interval of high temperature and the burning Summer winds, which sear pastures.

Tippy fed cattle sold at Fort Worth at $22 to $23.50, two loads at the latter figure from M. L. Smith, Jack County, averaged about 950 lbs. Another top feeder, I. S. Scott, Castro County, sold fed steers at $23 and their heifer mates at $22. Some other well fitted cattle at $22 and $23 on the yards were fully steady. But, otherwise cattle and calves lost ground, whether sold as slaughter or stocker kinds.

Cows $6.00-$13.00; bulls $9.00-$13.50; slaughter calves $9.00-$21.00; stocker calves and yearlings $13.00-$21.00; heifer mates $3 to $5 under stocker steers.

World Cattle Numbers Again Show Increase

Virtually all important cattle producing countries of the world show increases in the past year in their cattle population. Latest report covering end of 1954 estimates world cattle number of 877,000,000, this is ten million above the 1953 total.

In the U. S. the increase last year was about one per cent. In the face of the current big supplies of feed grains in storage in the U. S. ample production of meat, poultry, milk, eggs and other farm produce in which feed or proteins figure—should remain at high levels for a year or longer.

Current feed grain index is ten points behind a year ago this date, oil seed meal prices are better than 50 points under a year ago.

the Vera church for four years, at one time.

One hundred and three teachers and parents of the Vera 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 5th and 6th grades attended a picnic at the Seymour park last Friday. Teachers accompanying the group included Mrs. Tom Russell, Mrs. Braden McWhorter, Miss Jessie Myers and Supt. and Mrs. Milton Kirby.

The tremendous cavern, located in Longhorn Cavern State Park near Burnet, is the largest cave in Texas and the third largest in the world.

Hogs 25 To 50 Cents Higher; Sows Sag

Top hogs at Fort Worth Monday sold at $17.50 and $17.75. This was 25 to 50 cents up, but sows were weak to $1 lower. Sows topped at $13.50, but some heavy weight sows sold down to $10 and $11—new low for the current season on that kind here.

What To Cal 'Em Still Bothers USDA

We note that inquiries from USDA to the meat trade about names for top hogs are again going the rounds. Seems the Department of Agriculture bosses have at last decided perhaps the industry might possibly be right in refusing to accept Choice No. 1; Choice No. 2; and Choice No. 3 as good names. Some think U. S. No. 1; U. S. No. 2; U. S. No. 3 might better fit. One thing wrong with most USDA "names" is the fact they (1) pick names that suit USDA but are not familiar to the trade, (2) change names too frequently for general usage to take over.

Sheep Prices Dip; Weak To $1 Off

Prices of Spring lambs were weak to 50 cents lower, some spots $1 off at Fort Worth Monday. Shorn old crop lambs closed mostly 50 cents to $1 off. Many Spring lambs are definitely shrinking and showing loss of bloom now. Top milk fat lambs $20 to $21, fat shorn old crop lambs topped at $15 to $15.25. Old ewes $3 to $4. Feeder old crop mixed feeder and fat lambs sold at $13.50 down; and feeder Springs lambs sold around $14 to $16, with packers still paying more than feeders on most of these kinds. E. C. West of Fort Worth visited his sister, Mrs. S. A. Bowden, this week.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Takes Issue With The Expert Who Contends That Machines Now Do 99% Of Work

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek is talking about work this week, which apparently is about all he ever does about it.

Dear editor:
Just for the novelty of the thing, to keep from getting stale, I lit in and worked pretty hard for a while on my farm out here yesterday, and after I'd been going pretty steady for three or four hours I headed for the shade and was sitting there getting my breath back and after a while I pulled a newspaper out of my pocket and glanced over it, just to get my mind off the rest of the work still to be done. I was reading along not paying much attention to what I was looking at when suddenly I caught an article that made me go back and take a second look.

According to it an expert has announced that "today, humans and animals together do perhaps one percent of all the work. The rest is done by machines."

I thought this over a long time. There was bound to be a catch in it, but I couldn't find it right off.

Maybe, when you add up all the work in the world, counting every time a piston moves, etc., machines actually do 99 percent of it and human beings and horses do the rest, but it only works out that way on paper. From me and the horse's standpoint, those figures sure do leave something out.

And if you ever find a farmer who does one percent of the work making a crop and the tractor does the other 99, I'd like to study his methods.

The catch is that while machines may be doing most of the work, there's a blame lot more being done. It used to be that 40 acres and one mule plus a man was a pretty sizeable farming unit, and while nowadays a man with four or six row equipment can farm three or four hundred acres, let's not confuse 1 percent of the total work with 1 percent of the working time.

It's not the number of acres a man farms, it's the number of hours, and despite all the technological progress and mechanical marvels, hasn't anybody been able to substitute a sunup to sundown day for a farmer when planting time arrives.

Machines may do 99 percent of the world's work but they don't do 99 percent of mine. The way mine's divided, machines do about 30 percent, I do about 25

The man who told me this story is no longer living. At the time he told it, he was a middle-aged superintendent of schools and that was many years ago. The events were long before that because they happened when he was a young county attorney.

A man's body had been found on a railroad track. It was at night when the train ran over him at a point just around a curve, so the engineer did not see him in time to stop—in fact, the engineer did not see him at all and did not know until next day that he had struck a man. The tragedy was accepted as an accident; presumably, the victim had gone to sleep on the track. His shoes were off to one side. Perhaps he had been drinking.

started to undress, fell asleep. So people reasoned.

Some time afterward, the county attorney visited the small town which was near the scene of the tragedy. As he was walking along the street, he heard his name called in a hissing sort of whisper. He looked around and saw, inside a doorway, a doctor. The physician beckoned and then walked up the stairs to his office. The official followed.

Behind the closed door, the doctor said, "That man's death was not an accident; it was murder!" At his visitor's look of astonishment, he continued, "I got to wondering about it; I didn't think there was enough blood. I read medical books and they confirmed my view. He was dead before the train struck him. If he had been alive, there would have been a lot more blood. He had been murdered and his body placed on the track to make it appear to be an accident."

With that "lead", the prosecutor began an investigation and soon he had a man taken into custody. The man knew the deceased and lived near the scene of the accident—or murder. The county attorney believed this man knew something. How could

YEAR-ROUNDER

This cotton frock is a year-round asset to feminine wardrobes. The National Cotton Council reports that all-season cottons like this are favorites with vacationers.

he be brought to reveal what he knew?

In the hallway squarely in front of his cell there was a very bright electric light and this light (no doubt through overnight) was left burning all night and the man obtained very little sleep. Then another prisoner was placed in the next cell. The new arrival gave some alarming information; he told the prisoner that there was talk that a mob was coming to the jail that night to get a man who had committed murder.

This was enough for the prisoner. He yelled to the jailer, "I want to talk to the county attorney." And the man related this story:

There was a bootleg ring in the community and that day the victim (let's call him Jones) had been to the county seat where he had appeared before the grand jury. The leader of the ring suspected that the man had told about the bootlegging activities. (As a matter of fact, he had not.) Late that afternoon, as

Jones was on his way home, he was stopped by several men (the prisoner who was telling all this said he was in the group) and Jones refused to tell the leader why he had appeared before the grand jury. There were words and the bootleg chieftain shot him to death.

The body was placed in a car and carried a distance. Then one of the men put on the dead man's shoes and walked through a sandy field to the railroad and there the corpse was placed on the track. But the body had stiffened to such an extent that the shoes could not be put back on him, so they were tossed into the ditch.

Circumstances tending to confirm this story were found by the prosecuting attorney. A woman who had been going out to find her cow had heard a shot at about the time the prisoner had said the shooting occurred. He took officers to the spot where he declared the man had been killed and car-tracks and several sets of foot-prints were found and there was a bush with a broken twig which could have been clipped by a bullet.

My friend ended his account to me with, "So we discovered and cleared up a mystery which would have always been considered an accident, so cleverly was it handled, if it had not been for the curiosity of a small-town doctor."

Miss Bera Fay Spann of McMurry College in Abilene and George Spann of Texas Tech in Lubbock spent the week end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Spann.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Henry A. Holle, M. D., State Health Officer of Texas

AUSTIN—Flowers and leaves are not the only things that pop out when the weather warms up. Dr. Henry A. Holle, State Health Officer, says you can expect flies, mosquitoes, chiggers, ants and spiders; if not at home certainly the first time you go on a picnic.

The mosquito is a famous carrier of malaria. Its eradication, both because of the discomfort of bites and because the bites spread disease, is advisable. Mosquito bites itch intensely, and the more you scratch them the more they itch. The itching can be lessened if you wash the spots with soap and water or alcohol, and then apply a soothing lotion.

Around the yard and on the farm mosquitoes breed in puddles of water by the roadside, in water that accumulates in furrows, in gardens, in street gutters and sagging house gutters. And they'll make their home in an old can, flower pot, bottle, or any other place where water is standing. After a rain is a good time to look around the yard and empty water out of any containers you find.

Such diseases as typhoid fever, tuberculosis and dysentery are known to have been spread by flies. It is important to protect the whole community from flies and for everyone to take measures to get rid of them.

At home, put garbage in a metal, leak-proof can with a tight-fitting lid. Flies breed in filth and the food they find in and around garbage cans. If they get into the house, they will carry germs to your food, and even to nursing bottles and the mouths of babies. Good window screens and doors will keep flies outside if you teach your children to close the doors quickly when they come in or go out. The yard, chicken houses, stables, and other likely breeding places should always be kept clean so that flies cannot find food and want to stay around. Clean, sanitary homes, alleys, and places of business do not attract flies. Chigger bites are more troublesome than mosquito bites. If you take a bath after you have been exposed to them, you will wash off most of the larvae before they burrow into the skin. Sulphur dusted on the legs and ankles will prevent many bites.

LONE STAR Agriculture

Released by The Texas Department of Agriculture

By John C. White, Commissioner

DROUGHT TOUR

One of the great injustices against Texas farmers is the widespread theory that present "dust bowl" conditions on the Plains is the result of poor farming practices.

In a few cases, this is true. But during my recent tour of West Texas, I found that only a small proportion of the land was blowing due to deliberate or unthinking misuse.

Some of the plains country should never have been touched by the plow. Eventually this land must be put back to pastureland. Even land which has had the best of care is bound to suffer some damage from wind erosion during prolonged dry spells. Yet most of the soil is shifting in West Texas because the farmer doesn't have enough money to practice those measures which would prevent it.

One of the immediate steps the federal and state governments should take in the Texas drought disaster area is the setting up of a realistic long-term loan program. It takes money to practice soil conservation. It also takes plenty of money to survive four to five consecutive years of almost complete crop failure. Unintentional neglect of the land is bound to result.

The federal government does have a loan program in operation under the FHA. But farmers everywhere tell the same

New Factory Opens At Stamford

Stamford celebrated the formal opening of its first manufacturing concern, a western clothing firm, with an all-day "Open House" Saturday. Standing before the air-conditioned building that houses the Feldt Manufacturing Company are Stamford's Mayor G. C. Carothers, Official Hostess Miss Jan Crafton, and Max Feldt, president of the firm.

The requirements are so strict that few can qualify. Those few—about one in a hundred—who do qualify for loans soon find it is not an "emergency loan" program at all. There is little difference, if any, between what is offered by the government and what can be had at the local bank.

The emergency loan program of the U. S. Department of Agriculture was originally set up to offer money at a low interest rate of 3 percent. Three months ago—without making it a matter of public record—the government increased the interest to 5 percent, completely disqualifying the program as an emergency measure.

Our Texas banks have performed a real service to drought stricken farmers. But banks can carry the load only so far—and many of them have already reached those limits.

In my discussions with Texas farmers, the feeling is that a government loan is needed to clear up 12-month notes at the bank. It is a matter of record, from 20 years experience in F. H. A. loans, that the government cannot make a better investment than lending to farmers. These loans are paid back with interest.

When the time comes that a government loan means the difference between staying on the land or starving the farmer out, then these loans are in investment in the future security of our farm economy. That time is now!
