

Kracker KrumbS

Odds Bits Salvaged at Random

Everything was quiet and peaceful, sultry and dry at about 1 p. m. Monday.

But the quietness was broken by the mournful moan of the fire siren.

Business picked up. Fireman dashed for the fire station on foot, others made tires scream as they rounded the corners in their autos.

Soon a fire truck pulled out of its stall—but only one—so we imagined it was not a "three alarm" fire, since all three did not head out.

The truck wasn't gone long until it returned, and the quietness of the afternoon was resumed. It was only a grass fire in the northwest part of town, up near the Dee Allred residence.

Lots of people seemed dissatisfied.

Reports are the cotton gatherers are not very well pleased with conditions as they exist.

Cotton stalks are short, the bolls aren't very plentiful, they can't make much in a day, and the weather is too hot for that kind of work.

The harvest isn't anything like it was last year—and they are dissatisfied.

By the same token, farmers aren't overjoyed with conditions, either.

They who have toiled during the spring and summer, who have scanned the skies many times in hopes of rain, who have become disgusted with men who gave out weather reports over the radio because of the same reports—"widely scattered thundershowers"—have come to harvest time with a very short crop.

Good reason for not being satisfied.

Heard of another farmer who had still more reason to be dissatisfied.

On two occasions he secured harvest hands for his cotton fields. Each time he had to supply them with cotton sacks and enough groceries to get them by a while.

He started them to work, then left them for a while. On both occasions, he found his hands, cotton sacks and grub all gone when he returned to the field.

Which reminds us of a saying we've repeated at times—Life is not always a bowl of cherries—whether you're farming or in the newspaper business.

"Cotton insects last year destroyed more than $62 million worth of lint and cottonseed in Texas," says the Extension Service. "The total for the nation was $261 million. There's no profit in feeding cotton bugs."

The dry weather beat the bugs to the draw this year. Very little poisoning was done.

A family with a cotton dusting service lived neighbors to us for a while this fall—but not for long. After a few weeks of no rain, no bugs, no poisoning, the family left for other parts.

It seemed like fall of the year Saturday.

Made the usual Saturday morning to the bank to cash our pay check, stuck our head in and saw two lines about yard-long at the tellers' windows. We backed out and waited about two hours before trying again.

And the Roy Theatre opened Saturday, and apparently enjoyed good business. Like cotton harvest, though, it won't last long.

Another failure for Knox County was reported last week when Rowan and Hope abandoned the No. 1 George Steinback, seven miles north of Munday. Drilling depth was 5,207 feet.

Open House Is Slated Saturday For P. C. A. New Building, Facilities

Directors and local employees of the Stamford Production Credit Association are observing open house at the new building in Munday next Saturday. Hours for the general public will be 1 to 5 p. m.

Invitations have gone out to all members of the local field office, as well as many others, to come and inspect the new building and facilities. J. D. Gillespie, local field representative, said he expects several hundred people to visit the office during the above hours.

"Regardless of whether you receive a special invitation or not," Gillespie said, "we want you to visit our office Saturday afternoon. The open house is for the general public, and we want you to inspect our new building and facilities. Come and bring the entire family."

Directors of the association are not holding their regular meeting at Stamford on Friday, but will come to Munday for this meeting on Saturday. They will be here for the observance of open house.

Many people of Knox County and others of the area served by the association are expected to attend.

RELEASE WHEAT ALLOTMENTS

If you plan to seed all of your 1955 wheat allotment, if you will release any part of the acreage which you cannot seed, it can then be re-appportioned to other wheat growers in the county. By doing this you will retain your full allotment history and the acreage can be seeded by some other wheat grower. This will help you by retaining the history on your farm and will help the county get the acreage seeded.

The final date for releasing wheat allotments is November 5, 1954.

President Eisenhower Says Nation Needs USO And Other UDF Services More Than Ever

"As I see it, the big thing that the United Defense Fund does is to keep the soldier abroad understanding that he is part of America, no matter where he comes from, what may be his city, what may be his race, or his religion—he still thinks, through this kind of effort, primarily of America, and of himself as an American," President Eisenhower says.

"Having moved from a fighting war to an armed peace, the nation has an even greater need for the United Defense Fund services than was the case during a fighting war. This paradoxical situation is not clearly understood by all our citizens. Obviously, if we are to maintain the United Defense Fund services, particularly those of the USO, on the high level needed to sustain the morale of the defense program, the understanding and support of the American people are vital."

United Defense Fund finances USO and four other defense-related national health and welfare agencies. UDF is supported through Community Chest or United Fund campaigns.

Cattle, sheep and goat entries increased more than 15 per cent over last year in the Pan-American Exposition and more than 4 per cent in the Junior show. No swine shows were held last year.

Munday Moguls Play Rochester On Friday Night

Both teams will be fighting to maintain their record of wins this season when the Munday Moguls and Rochester Steers meet at Rochester on Friday night for their annual game.

The Moguls, who won their first two games of the season, took a rest last Friday night. At the same time, the Steers were adding their third victory to the record books by downing the Clyde team.

The Steers are traditional foes of the Moguls, having met them annually for a number of years, and always have given the local boys a good battle. Although they play Class B football, they have won many games in the Class A bracket.

The Moguls have been shaping up well during early season games and practice sessions and are expected to be in tip-top condition for the Steer battle. Many local fans will accompany the team on this, their first journey of the year.

Caravan Planned

All football fans who plan to attend the Rochester game are requested to meet at the elementary school building at 6:40 p. m. Friday to form a caravan and accompany the team to Rochester.

PROGRESS AGAINST HANDICAPS

People in the United States enjoy the greatest retail service in the world. It is easy to see why after reading examples of regulations under which Western European retailers live, as described by David Carson of the School of Retailing, University of Pittsburgh.

In the Netherlands a store keeper has to get approval of local Chambers of Commerce before opening a store. In Norway he must notify the police if he plans to advertise a clearance sale, other than the two seasonal clearances permitted by law. In West Germany store are permitted to give away only souvenirs that bear promotional messages, and they are permitted by law from advertising the event.

In Switzerland, in 1933 to 1945, that country prohibited establishment of new department and variety stores. A discriminatory tax against large stores has been in effect since 1949, varying on gross receipts from 3/4 of 1 per cent on cooperatives and specialty stores to 2 1/2 per cent for department and 4 per cent for variety stores.

In spite of it all, however, Mr. Carson says new developments are taking place because of the increasingly closer integration of the peoples of the free world. But there can be little question that the government regulations and controls are slowing progress.

The United States has seen political agitation against chain stores under the guise of helping independents. Fortunately, both for consumers and independents, such legislation was killed and retailing forged ahead in all its branches, as in no other nation.

WHAT WILL THE END BE?

The August 23 issue of Life magazine contains a photograph of a field of circular tents in Texas. They are on sterilized earth and "inflated" with 1,600,000 bushels of grain each. It is hoped the grain will keep five years and qualify for price support loans.

The warehouses over the nation are full of grain, old ships are being cleaned out and filled with grain, and now tents are being erected.

Foreign nations are taking over our export grain markets. And still the taxpayers put up the money to maintain an inflated price for raising more grain than can be used.

"The United States can do nothing positive in the form of leading the world toward co-operative security, unless it is firm and confident at home." —President Eisenhower.

AID FOR THE INDIGENT

The American Medical Association has long been a whipping boy of those who want socialized medicine, or government-bossed medicine, or some variant thereof. The idea has been disseminated that this organization, which represents the vast majority of the country's physicians, is opposed to better medical care, and isn't at all concerned with the problems of indigent people.

Nothing could be farther from the truth. The AMA has been directly and indirectly responsible for some of the great medical advances of all times. It has thrown its weight solidly behind the voluntary health insurance movement, and has been a positive factor in that movement's extraordinary growth.

What the AMA does oppose are schemes which would inevitably reduce the standards of medical care and put the bureaucrat in the driver's seat. A spokesman put the case accurately when he said: ". . . it is essential to consider two groups of individuals: (1) those who are able to pay the normal costs of medical care, and (2) those who are indigent. Most of the American people fall within the first group . . . The other group . . . the indigent . . . poses distinctively different problems . . . If the medical care problems of this group cannot be solved by the individuals or their families, the responsibility should be assumed by the local and state government."

Every community's problem is different, and can best be solved locally. Aid and for the indigent is a basic local responsibility—not a federal function.

SERVICE COSTS MONEY

There has been considerable criticism of the nation's food retailers, because declines in farm prices have not been fully reflected at the store level.

Senator Aiken has clearly explained why this is so. A main reason is the steady increase in marketing service demanded by the housewife. He said, "She now buys cup-up poultry, instead of live chickens. She buys frozen food, instead of canned food. She buys ready-to-bake biscuits, instead of flour. It should not surprise anyone that the providing of these extra services is a costly undertaking."

Retailing, in all its branches, is an extremely competitive enterprise, and profits are very moderate. The prices we pay for goods must reflect all the costs involved in bringing them to us. When we demand, as most of us do, expensive marketing and processing services, we must expect to pay for them.

2. CONVERTS. "The law of the Lord is perfect, converting the soul." (Psa. 19:7.)
3. SAVES BY THE WORD. "Who shall tell thee words by which thou and all thy house shall be saved." (Acts 11:13-14.)
4. GIVES FAITH BY THE WORD. "So then, faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God." (Rom. 10:17.)
5. BEGETS SINNERS. "Of his own will begat he us by the word of truth." (Jas. 1:18.) "I have begotten you by the gospel." (1 Cor. 4:15.)

11. GORW BY THE WORD. "Desire the sincere milk of the word that ye may grow thereby." (1 Pet. 2:2.) Yes, the gospel "Is the power of God unto salvation." (Rom. 1:16.) It is the Spirit's power to save, and he does not save by a direct operation upon sinners, but does his work by means of his word, message, or gospel. You need not wait for something else. "All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: That the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works. (2 Tim. 3:16-17.) It is only through obedience to the word that we can be saved. (Heb. 5:8; 2 Thess. 1:7-9.)

PAYNE HATTON, Evangelist

Here and there over West Texas are a few crumbling ruins, marking the spot where a fort stood in frontier times. Doubtless man exciting and romantic events occurred in and around these outposts but only a few of the stories have survived. One is the story of two brothers.

They had enlisted in the Texas Rangers and were parting with their mother. She said to the older, "Jimmy, take good care of Dick and don't you come back without him." He promised her that he would look after his 17-year old brother and the two rode away.

The recruits were assigned to Fort Belknap. One day, a report came that a large band of Indians was committing depredations, so a force of 15 Rangers went on a scout, the brothers being of this number.

Five Redskins were sighted and the Rangers gave chase. The leader, seeing that they were being led in between the walls of a canyon, shouted an order to turn back. But the command came too late, for dozens of Indians rose from hiding on both sides and behind the Rangers. The Texans fought furiously to escape from the ambush but only two were able to break through.

One was the older brother. He looked back and saw Dick fighting furiously on foot, for his horse had been killed. Using his clubbed rifle, the youth knocked a brave from his paint pony and frantically attempted to seize the bridle.

All this, James saw in an instant and then flashed through his mind the promise he had given when they left home. Determined to rescue his young brother or die with him, the Ranger spurred his horse into the midst of the conflict, shouted, "Dick, jump on!" and turned the animal. The brother sprang behind him and they lay flat as possible while the arrows and bullets sped at them as they dashed away. The horse was wounded three times but the courageous creature bore the two riders safely to the fort. Neither brother received a scratch.

The 12 men who were trapped in the ambush were killed and scalped by the savages. The entire force of Rangers set out from the fort in pursuit, overtook the Indians on Flat Top Mountain and avenged the deaths of their comrades by annihilating the Redskins. The two brothers played a leading part in the battle.

When mustering out time came, James and Dick returned home safely; the former had made good his promise to their mother to take care of his younger brother.

Mrs. Mae Couch returned home last week from a week's visit with relatives in Houston.

Fortune-tellers can't replace Savings Bonds

Every farm could use one!

Few professions are more at the mercy of chance than farming. If you had a crystal ball to call the shots ahead, what a wonderful farmer you could be! But since you can't see ahead, it's a great idea to have a reserve in U.S. Series "E" Savings Bonds.

Bonds are easy to buy—here, at this bank. You can even arrange to have your savings or checking account automatically buy you a bond every month.

Your banker can show you how Savings Bonds fit into your picture. Come in and talk it over!

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Henry A. Holle, M. D., State Health Officer of Texas

AUSTIN—Lot owners or prospective purchasers who plan to build homes should make certain that adequate sewerage facilities can be installed, declared Dr. Henry A. Holle, State Health Officer. Many land owners are not aware of the fact that public sewerage facilities are not available or would have to be installed at high cost to the owners.

Even if public sewerage facilities are available, there are many cases where a sewer from a private home cannot readily be connected to such lines. Where public facilities are not available, or not accessible owners are required to dispose of sewerage by private methods.

Mr. V. M. Ehlers, Chief of the Bureau of Sanitary Engineering, suggests that those thinking of buying a lot contact their local health department to make certain both sewerage and water can be provided on the particular lot. This would avoid a great many difficulties on the part of the buyer who fails to consider the matter until the lot has been purchased or the home built.

When Their World Crashed... RED CROSS HEARD THEIR CALLS

Lower Right: Fire, which completely ravaged a Chicago, Ill., apartment building, killed seven, injured six, and affected 100 persons, left Michael Cruz, 2½, bewildered and frightened. Here the terrified youngster is being comforted by Mrs. Rodna Nye, Red Cross disaster representative, who established disaster headquarters at the scene of the fire.

Last year the Red Cross aided an average of one person every five minutes among those suffering disaster injury or loss, as sudden death and destruction struck communities across the United States on an average of six times every week. The 1954 Red Cross Campaign for $85,000,000 and 30,000,000 members, now underway, enables everyone to serve his neighbors in distress or need.

tion frequently has little bearing on whether adequate systems can be built. In some cases where private systems are the only means of disposing of sewage, the soil is of a non-absorbent nature and eventually the waste materials will come to the surface or even to the house and created a public health menace. The Texas State Department of Health has regulations regarding private water and sewer facilities. In conforming to these regulations the public will be protected from water-borne diseases caused by improper facilities.

FERTILIZER-PESTICIDE MIXTURES

A time and labor saving plan to combine two separate crop spraying jobs into one operation is being studied by agricultural experts in the Southwest.

The eventual goal is to work out a practical method for applying both pesticides and fertilizers at the same time. If it proves practical, it may also mean a better net profit for the farmer through lower production costs.

Since the end of World War II the use of pesticides and fertilizers on crops has far outstripped the research end of the projects. The demand has been so great for yield-increasing farm practices that new ideas are put to work in the fields before a complete, controlled study has been made of them. The same goes for the dual pesticide-insecticide operation.

As a result, there are wide differences of opinion even among soil specialists on the merits and practical feasibility of the mixtures. Recommendations concerning their use vary widely from state to state, and sometimes even between agencies in Delicate rosebuds add charm to a summer frock designed by Marjoe of Miami. The fresh-looking cotton pique is styled with the smart empire bodice and a scooped neckline. Cool floral print cottons are favorites for vacation wardrobes, the National Cotton Council reports.

Speaking of PUBLIC SAFETY

"Get tough!" That's the advice of increasing numbers of persons who are working to reduce traffic accidents. "Get tough on driver licensing procedures" . . . "Get tough on law enforcement" . . . "Get tough on penalties for violations" . . . "Get tough on drunken drivers" . . . "Get tough on teen-age speed demons" . . . "Get tough on defective vehicles" . . . "Get tough on traffic safety engineering," are typical comments of citizens reported by Edmond C. Powers of Cleveland.

Powers' summary of growing public opinion is as follows: "If we are determined to reduce traffic slaughter, we should be as tough in dealing with the situation as we would be in resisting an invasion or any other agent of destruction."

"38,000 deaths, more than a million injured people, and an economic loss of nearly $4 billion every year is a crime of the worst order."

"Mealy-mouthed measures never won a war and in terms of death and destruction, traffic accidents are the costliest conflict in our history."

"Driver education in our schools, group meetings and discussions, traffic safety organizations, public appeals through press, radio and television, all serve a useful purpose."

"But until we drive home the real seriousness of the accident problem by direct disciplinary measures, we have little hope of reducing accidents to any great extent."

"These disciplinary measures should include revocation of licenses by habitually thoughtless and incompetent drivers, ridding our streets and thoroughfares of unsafe vehicles, refusal to issue licenses to the mentally and physically unfit, and application of our best thought to the engineering of safety into our existing and new thoroughfares."

the same state.

Despite lack of experimental data on use of fertilizer-pesticide mixtures the demand for them seems likely to continue. It probably will even increase in volume as long as their use affords a convenient economical and reasonably satisfactory way of combining crop fertilization with insect control.

But many problems are still unsolved. Paramount among these are:

(1) The type of mixture that will supply the desired quantities of both pesticide and plant nutrients at the desired rate per acre.

(2) Timing of the pesticide application to fit the time for applying the fertilizer to achieve best possible benefits from both chemicals.

(3) Attaining the best method of applying the pesticide, which may not conform with the most effective or practical method of applying the fertilizer.

(4) Development of new equipment for applying the materials. When these "kinks" are ironed out, the results should prove to be a real boon to Texas farmers.

Pink Bollworm, Threat To Texas Cotton, Gets A Thorough Study

A four-pronged spear points up Texas' attack on an enemy which has become the most serious insect threat to the state's cotton industry.

Every possible weapon is being used by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station in cooperation with Entomology Research Branch USDA to combat the pink bollworm that each year eats its way across fields and costs Texas cotton farmers millions of dollars.

"Our research program includes mechanical farming equipment, cultural practices, chemicals, and nature in an effort to control pink bollworm," says Director R. D. Lewis of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. "Texas has taken the lead in certain phases of pink bollworm research that extends throughout the southern cotton growing states."

"Stalk destruction is the best known control method for pink bollworm," he says. "Some chemicals will give control. However, due to the insect's natural habits it's difficult to apply chemicals to areas in cotton bolls where worms are present."

Gins in many areas treat seed and gin trash of harvested cotton to control further spread of the pink bollworm. The insect is said to have come from Mexico.

The research program now underway includes development of a power-operated stalk shredding machine which will kill a high percentage of pink bollworms present during the shredding operation. Agricultural engineers are in the process of building a sprayer or duster to apply insecticides more thoroughly, reaching the base of cotton bolls and destroying the worms.

Chemical control of the insect is difficult because moths lay eggs at the base of bolls, sometimes under the edge of the calyx. As the worms hatch they bore directly into the boll. If not killed the worms become moths.

Concentrated effort is being made in the research laboratories to find a cotton variety with possible morphological and physiological characteristics which might be resistant to pink bollworm and reduce damage.

"We think also that chemical defoliants applied to cotton plants to remove foliage will be of benefit in stopping development of the pink bollworm," says Dr. Lewis.

Chemical compounds are being tested in the search for one which will "chemically terminate" plant growth—allowing harvest of cotton and at the same time stop development of future pink bollworm infestations.

Success of any one or a combination of the tests would mean extra profits to Texas cotton farmers who lost an estimated $28,000,000 during the 1951 season when wet weather prevented stalk destruction, allowing extra fall growth of cotton and a buildup of pink bollworm.

All practices thought to be effective are being tested thoroughly in widescale field experiments. Present research at the experiment station is being conducted in the Rio Grande Valley, at Port Lavaca and at College Station.

SHEER DELIGHT!

Sheer cottons help beat the heat of mid-summer days, and mildy goes about her activity in comfort and style. Here, a gossamer sheer chambray in pearl grey is designed for town shopping, afternoon outings, and other daytime occasions by Nali-Bee. Its simple, sleeveless design makes the sheer cotton even more comfortable and fresh looking.

CALVES SELL DOLLARS ABOVE LAST SEPTEMBER!

FORT WORTH—Just a year ago this week the calf market was at its lowest ebb in years. There was virtually no stocker trade on calves and yearlings, with the heavy September receipts of 1953 moving largely into packer channels. The break in calf prices of around 50 cents per hundred at Fort Worth Monday, with some spots on medium kinds around

50 cents to $1 per hundred lower, still left prices far ahead of a year ago on calves. On Monday good and choice slaughter calves brought $14 to $17, and a year ago on September 24th, good and choice slaughter calves were quoted at $11 to $14.50, few above $13.50. Cull, common and medium slaughter calves Monday sold from $ 9 to $13.50, and a year ago at this time drew $6 to $11. Stocker and feeder calves topped at $16 to $17 a year ago as against $18.50 to $19.50 at Fort Worth Monday. Steer yearlings at $15 to $15.50 a year ago, compared with $16 to $18 Monday. Fat steers enjoy a better market than a year ago at this same date, but cows and bulls are not selling as well. Good and choice fat steers and yearlings at $17 to $23 at mid-September of 1953, compare with $19 to $24 at this time. Common and medium grassers at $7 to $15 a year ago compare with cattle sold this week at $10 to $18.50. Fat cows a year ago drew $9.50 to $13, and this week at Fort Worth sold at $8.50 to $12.50, while canners and cutters a year ago drew $6 to $9.50, and cutters sell from $5 to $9, with some shelly canners under $5. Bulls sold at Fort Worth a year ago from $8 to $13, and Monday drew $8 to $12, a few $12.50. Monday's trade at Fort Worth saw fat steers and yearlings steady to weak, spots 25 to 50 cents off. Cows were steady. Bulls were steady to strong. Slaughter calves were mostly 50 cents lower. High grade stockers were steady to 50 cents lower, with medium and plain quality from 50 cents to $1 off. Some noteworthy cattle sales at Fort Worth Monday included a load of butcher cows at $10 from E. G. Ralls Estate, Tarrant County; a package of seven fat cows at the day's top of $12.50 averaged 1,153 lbs. from Fay P. Groebie, Tom Green County. C. F. Mock and Son, Oklahoma, had 112 fat steers at 1106 lbs. at $27. Clyde McClung, Johnson County, had 42 steers of 948 lbs. at $22, and 23 heaves at $13 lbs. at $21. S. B. Burnett Estate, 18 steers at 956 lbs. at $18; Tom L. Burnett Cattle Co., Foard County, 40 cows at 1,408 lbs. at $12. J. Carter King, Jr., Shackelford County, had some $18 yearlings at 550 to 650 lbs. W. W. Davis, Howard County, 34 yearlings at 480 lbs. at $16; Frank Kirk, Eastland County, 17 calves 544 lbs. at $19; John Driskill, Hood County, 25 calves at $19.50 averaged 341 lbs. and 25 head at 341 lbs. drew $16. Ray Roberts, Fannin County, some 428 lb. calves at $18, and some 441 pounds at $16. HOGS SELL $5.25-$5.50 UNDER YEAR AGO The hogs were 25 to 50c lower at Fort Worth Monday and the top of $20.00 to $20.25 was the lowest ebb of the year. However, this was well above the $19.50 and $19.75 tops at Chicago and Kansas City. A year ago this week, top hogs drew $25.25 to $25.50 at Fort Worth. Sows at $20 to $23.50 a year ago, compared with $14 to $18 on Monday. BREWSTER COUNTY LAMBS TOPPED AT $18 MONDAY Sheep and lambs were steady at Fort Worth Monday, and a string of 1,522 head from J. E. White of Brewster County weighing 95 pounds at $18. Lower

WOMEN AND WHEELS

An Auto Column For Gals?

By Mary Lou Chapman

This is going to be a column for the gals. And it's going to be about cars. Irreconcilable? We don't think so. In fact, we have a lot of material right at our finger tips that would indicate that women and cars influence each other pretty strongly.

Women love fashion. Just ask them! And cars have really entered the fashion world. Just as women's clothes reveal new and exciting changes every year, so automobiles reflect the fashion changes of America's population on wheels.

CASUAL CLOTHES, CARS

To cite only one example out of many—women's apparel has become much more casual for an increasingly suburban existence. Automobiles reflect this trend too. Take a look at the growing popularity of the suburban station wagon. There are many similar parallels, but that's a whole story in itself.

Women are sensitive to color and fabrics, and are quite expert about both. And car designers are very much concerned with these things too. We find new wonder fabrics and designs appearing in response to women's demands for greater wearability and beauty. We find in cars all the sparkling colors of the rainbow due to women's desire for more glamorous interiors and exteriors. It's a bright highway ahead.

Within the last year, more than one automobile manufacturer has had requests for car colors based upon woman's complexion and hair color. One designer we know has planned next year's cars with the redhead, the blond and the brunet very much in mind. Plymouth, for example, has a San Diego Gold that was designed as a complementary color for blonds. We look for more of this appeal in the future.

Another company several years ago admitted that its most popular car color, a sand beige, was taken directly from a dress which the wife of the company's president wore.

MECHANICAL GADGETS

Women request mechanical gadgets that they can operate with a minimum of effort. And today's car has been so tailored to the woman's tastes that the automobile has taken on a whole new group of functions that men alone would not have dared to demand for themselves with such conveniences as power steering, power brakes, seating adjustments and electric window lifts.

A woman is concerned with the use of the car in her life. She worries about the kind of seat-covering most practical for spilled ice-cream cones and muddy feet, and yet she wants a car she can be proud of when she drives up to Mary's house for an alumnae meeting or over to the church for a bake sale.

IT WORKS BOTH WAYS And last but most importantly, a woman wants a car that is reliable. Unlike the man she doesn't want to tinker with it. When she needs transportation she expects it to go.

For all these reasons, and even a few more, women are interested in cars. And do believe us when we say that the automobile industry is interested in the woman's viewpoint! So it works both ways.

(Fashion writer, artist and TV personality, Miss Chapman is a native of Detroit, and has spent the last several years working with automobile stylists, designers and engineers at Chrysler Corporation.)

Knox Prairie Philosopher Amazed To Learn It Took National Poll To Find People Worrying About Money

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek writes about worry this week, a subject he is no authority on.

Dear editor:

Some people go to a lot of trouble to find out something nearly everybody else already knows.

The other day I stretched out under a tree out here on my place admiring the September sky and not worryin about anything when I pulled a newspaper out of my pocket I'd been savin and glanced through it and ran across an item about a survey the Gallup Poll has just taken.

Accordin to this item, Dr. Gallup's men have conducted a nation-wide survey to find out what most people worry about these days, and after a careful scientific sampling of opinion and addin up figures and preparin complicated charts they have come up with the discovery that the chief worry today is: money.

How to get in enough money to pay the bills, how to keep ahead of the collectors, how to make income meet outgo, that's the thing that Dr. Gallup finds most people are worryin about. You mean to say he went to all that trouble to find that out? I could have told him for a two-cent post card.

There are some things in life you're supposed to know without havin to be told, and the fact that keepin ahead of the hounds financially speakin is most people's worry is one of em. Furthermore, that was what most people were worryin about last year and it's what they'll be worryin about next year.

And also, it doesn't seem to make much difference what income bracket a man is in. Nature has some sort of system whereby it enables a man's wants to keep two jumps ahead of his financial capacity to satisfy em. A man strugglin to pay for a wash pot has a neighbor strugglin to pay for an automatic washin machine. When some men finally get up in the class where they can write a check for a new car, they find one car ain't enough, they need two and they're right back in the strain they was before.

Over-expansion cause more individuals and more businesses to go busted than anything else.

I'll tell you, I'm not recommendin that anybody follow my methods, but in the big scramble for success there ought to be something said for the man who starts out in business in a hole in the wall and stays there.

LOANS FOR WATER FACILITIES TO BE INSURED BY GOVERNMENT

A new type of credit for financing soil conservation measures will be available to farmers through a recent amendment to the Water Facilities Act. In addition, loans to develop irrigation systems and farmstead water supplies, previously limited to 17 states, are extended to the rest of the nation.

The loan services will be available from the Farmers Home Administration. Applications must be made to FHA county offices.

An outstanding feature of the law is provision for insuring loans made by private lenders. Where insured loans from private sources are not available for approved projects, some direct government loans will be made.

Interest rates for insured loans from private sources will be four percent a year on the unpaid principal, plus an annual loan insurance of one percent. Direct interest will be five percent.

Loans can be used, under the amendment, to pay costs of materials, equipment and services directly related to the application or establishment of soil and water conservation practices, water facilities or drainage. This may include such things as construction or repair of terraces, dikes and ponds, pasture improvement, basic application of lime and fertilizers, and tree planting. Water facilities that can be financed with these loans include tanks, cisterns, wells pumping and irrigation equipment and similar facilities.

Eligibility for loans under this new legislation will be passed upon by the local three member county committee of the FHA. Loans will be made only for the types of soil and water conservation practices recommended by the Extension Service, Soil Conservation Service and other agricultural agencies. No loans can be made for annually recurring costs that generally are considered as farm operating costs.

Mrs. Bessie McStay visited her son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Dee McStay and John, in Vernon the past week.

See You in Church Sunday
