Crack-down On Traffic Deaths Slated July 4th

CHICAGO—With the nation facing an all-time high traffic record this year, two leading traffic death record this year, two leading traffic safety organizations today called for a crack-down enforcement policy during the Fourth of July holiday.

The National Safety Council and the International Association of Chiefs of Police said that appeals to driver responsibility must be supplemented by strict enforcement of the law to curb the heedless and reckless minority.

Such action is the only effective way to hold down the death toll on an immediate and short-term basis, the two traffic safety groups agreed.

The joint enforcement recommendations for the 30-hour Fourth of July period were:

1. Cancel all days off for police and put every available officer on duty. Assign as many personnel as possible in plain clothes and unmarked cars to traffic patrol, especially from 6 p. m. to midnight on Tuesday and Wednesday.
2. Concentrate manpower on high volume or high speed streets and highways where serious accidents are most likely to occur.
3. Concentrate on hazardous moving violations, especially speeding. Be alert for erratic driving and other evidence of evening-hour driving after drinking.

4. Coordinate the effort with other enforcement agencies.
5. Use whatever other enforcement means are available locally, such as radar.
6. Publicize the program in advance so motorists will understand and cooperate with the objective.

The Council estimates that there will be 50 million vehicles on the move during the holiday. Usually extra travel means extra hazard.

One hundred and sixty national organizations are participating in the Fourth of July effort to correct three main holiday driver

Seven Steps To Insect Control

Texas farmers may be living in the modern era, but many of his problems are as old as history. And about this time each year, the farmers starts his ageless battle with a familiar enemy—crop pests.

Fortunately, the chemical industry can furnish effective implements in this unending war. But their real utility is no better than the way they are used.

Chemical control of insects—and weeds—can be a boon or a bust, depending upon methods and time of application. Just as irrigation can be wasteful or beneficial, so can crop spraying or dusting.

It will be to the Texas farmer's advantage to follow an organized method of crop treatment for the best insect control. The best plan will be to contact your county agent and study the seven-step program as set up by the Texas Extension Service.

Much effectiveness of spraying or dusting is nullified by poor timing. Treatment on a "guess basis" often catches harmful insects in the pupa stage when insecticides and pesticides have little or no effect. It may also do away with some of the useful type insects.

The seven-step program varies over the state but each area of Texas has a definite plan set up according to local climatic and insect conditions. This type of spraying assures the farmer of getting the most benefit out of money spent for insect control.

Although most insect infestations are expected to be approximately "normal" this year, one pest stands out as a threat in near plague proportions—the grasshopper. This spring the state and federal governments are carrying out an all-out fight against hoppers on range lands of the Panhandle and West Texas. But cultivated land is the farmer's own battlefield. Quick control of this pest can save many thousands of dollars in crops this year.

A word of caution about chemical preparations! Although the chemical industry has taken every precaution to make them safe as possible, some of them can be harmful if misused.

Read and study the manufacturers' recommended measures of use. They are printed on every container—and are meant to be followed.

Easterners who have struggled with the pronunciation of "Waxahachie" wonder about the origin and doubtless so do many Texans. The city was named for the creek running through it and "Waxahachie" is said to be an Indian word meaning "buffalo creek."

Robt. F. Mayfield, who could remember what is now Ellis County as far back as 1844, recorded, "Buffalo came and went like a mighty torrent. They covered the prairies as far as the eye could see. When moving rapidly, the earth trembled under their tread."

A pioneer was fleeing before a rushing herd of the shaggy creatures when his horse stumbled and pitched him into a "branch." He thought himself doomed until he remembered that buffalo did not wade a small stream but leaped over. So he lay flat while hundreds sprang over him. Had one made a misstep, he would have been killed.

Wild horses also roved—in droves of 50 or less. Colts could be caught with a lariat. The older horses, after being followed for days, could be driven into corrals, which had far-extending wings. Bears prowled in the thickets and killed the settlers' hogs. There were great numbers of deer and lesser numbers of antelope, panthers, wolves, wild turkeys and Mexican hogs. These last were wild and thin, with quill-like bristles, and from each jaw grew a tusk, the tusks crossing like an "X".

Game was so abundant that the country's first preacher, a Methodist named Welch, lived by hunting. Crops on unfenced land had to be watched to keep out the wild horses and the buffalo.

Life was filled with deprivations. There was a lack of salt. Sugar was unknown but wild bees were plentiful and the abundant honey was used for sweetening. Oxen were used almost exclusively in the plowing and hauling. Since there were no roads, the traveler went by course or used prominent features of the landscape to guide him. Men and boys wore buckskin pants, hunting coonskin caps and moccasins made of buffalo hide.

The Indians who roamed and hunted through the region were friendly tribes, mainly Tonkawas. Placidio, the chief, is said to have declined offers to join the Union army in the Civil War, declaring, "I can not fight against Texas, where my tribe and I have always lived."

A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

Criminal Defendant Has Constitutional Right To Bail

In the United States a defendant in a criminal action is presumed to be innocent until his guilt is established beyond a reasonable doubt. His guilt or innocence is established at his trial—not when he is arrested.

With this concept in mind it is not hard to see why the right to bail in criminal cases is guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States, with the exception of capital cases. A capital crime is one which the punishment may be death. In Texas murder, treason, rape and robbery with firearms are capital offenses.

All prisoners are bailable in Texas except where the proof is evident that a capital offense has been committed and it is probable that a jury will assess the death penalty.

An officer making an arrest is required by law to take the accused promptly before a magistrate. It is the duty of the magistrate to examine into the truth of the accusation made. He determines whether the accused should be discharged or bailed or held without bail. If bail is set for the defendant, the magistrate must determine the amount. The law provides a procedure for reviewing these decisions before the Court of Criminal Appeals.

When an accused is on bail when his trial commences he has the right to remain on bail during the trial of his case. Where the punishment of a defendant has been assessed at confinement in the penitentiary for fifteen years or less the defendant has the right to remain on bail pending the appeal of his case. If the penalty is more than fifteen years the defendant is kept in custody from the moment the jury returns its verdict.

The Constitution also says that bail may not be set in excessive amount. What is considered a reasonable amount depends largely upon the circumstances and the risk involved. Bail must be set high enough to assure the court and the state that the person will not run away, but will return and submit to trial on the date set.

The judge usually will ask the prosecuting attorney for a recommendation as to the amount of bail. The accused's attorney may then ask that the amount recommended be reduced, giving his reasons. The judge will settle on an amount he believes reasonable to assure the accused's presence at the trial.

Occasionally we read of someone "skipping bail". This means that he failed to show up in court at the required time. In such cases the court can order his bail forfeited. The person is still subject to re-arrest and prosecution, however.

(This column, based on Texas law, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who knows the facts because the facts may change the application of the law.)

Junior Gets "Pinned" Down

Junior Baker and friends are all set for their circus. Look for their advertisements on neighborhood trees.

The kids have had problems in staging the event. The biggest was the admission fee. Junior wanted to charge five cents, Mrs. Baker thought it would be much nicer if they charged five pins.

So Junior held a meeting with his Directors—then told his mother they'd taken her advice. The ads now read: Giant Circus in Baker's Backyard. ADMISSION FIVE PINS PLUS FIVE CENTS TAX.

From where I sit, that's a cute example of a mighty important point—if you want things to turn out your way, then you had better let the other fellow have his choice, too. For instance, if your taste should happen to run to, say, iced tea...then you owe it to yourself to see that those who prefer beer, buttermilk or whatever you get to enjoy their favorite beverages, too. After all, turn about's fair play.

U. S. Army To Form "Gyroscope" Units

Two Army "Gyroscope" units, scheduled for future service in Europe, will accept direct enlistments of young men from this area who have not had prior military service, it was announced by M/Sgt. Dennington.

The 498th Engineer Battalion, now stationed at Fort Ord, California, and the 534th Field Artillery Battalion, now at Fort Sill, Oklahoma, are the new "Gyroscope" units named under the Army's rotation plan of replacing units overseas with like units from the United States.

Departure date for Europe for the 534th Field Artillery Battalion will be February 1957, when it replaces the 290th Field Artillery Battalion. In April 1957, the 498th Engineer Battalion will fill the vacancy of the 54th Engineer Battalion.

"This is an excellent opportunity to see Europe and choose your branch of service, as well as being assured of serving in the same unit with friends and buddies throughout a complete enlistment," Sgt. Dennington pointed out.

Applications for enlistment in the 534th Field Artillery Battalion must be completed before July 15, while openings in the 498th Engineer Battalion will be accepted until September 15.

Additional information regarding this choice of Army service may be obtained at the U. S. Army Recruiting Station, Breckenridge, Texas.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a floor length dress of white chantilly lace over satin. The bodice of tucked tulle under appliqued lace was styled with peter pan collar and long torso. The skirt ended in a chapel length train. Her fingertip veil was worn with a tiara covered with tiny seed pearls. Her mitts were elbow length chantilly lace. The bride carried pink gardenias and frenched carnations atop a lace covered prayer book. She also wore a ring given to the bridegroom's mother by his father.

Norma Railsback was maid of honor. She was dressed in a ballerina length pink cotton satin ensemble. The bridesmaids, Roxene Bingham, sister of the bridegroom from Littlefield, Sherry Haskin, cousin of the bride, and Carol Garrison of Midland, wore American beauty pink cotton satin dresses. They all wore matching shoes and carried pink fans faced with pink carnations.

Reception was held in the church parlor. The table was covered with white lace over pink linen and centered with American beauty carnations, pink gladioli and pale pink fans set in sprayed pink mimosa. Houseparty members were Mrs. C. C. Haskin, Mrs. Curtis Crump, Mrs. D. C. Haskin, Sally Richter, Ruth Niebert, Beth Blackerby, Pat Putnam and Sharon Conroy. Textured Siding Gives Character to House

A TEXTURED house siding gives the building character sometimes missing when unpainted boards are used. Rapidly becoming a favorite because of its rich texture is Masonite Ridgeline, a durable hardboard which may be painted or stained to bring out the handsome but subdued pattern.

This hardboard siding has a linear texture in a restrained combed ridge effect.

Ridgeline panels are four feet wide, one-quarter inch thick and up to 16 feet long. This siding also comes in strips for horizontal application. Here the widths are 12" and 16". Those desiring shingle sizes also may have this beautiful siding.

Used on exteriors in panel form, Ridgeline may be installed with or without battens.

The unusual texture of this material has prompted its use by interior decorators, who have specified its application indoors as accent walls or "interest areas."

Like Tempered Plywood, the new siding material has unusual strength, durability and resistance to all types of weather. Its versatility is making it a favorite among builders.

Most modern truck V8's ...and the pounds prove it!

Pound for pound, the most powerful truck V8's today are Chevrolets. That's one way you can tell they're the most modern V8's going!

Chevrolet's modern short-stroke V8 truck engines do more work for their weight than any other V8 in any truck today!

That means they carry around fewer pounds for power they develop. (They weigh up to 200 pounds less than other comparable engines!) It means, too, that less of the maximum truck G.V.W. consists of engine weight—and more is devoted to payload.

Stop by and let us give you the facts on Chevrolet's compact, super-efficient truck V8's.

Weigh the facts ...
and you'll choose today's most modern trucks

Wasted weight is engineered out of Chevrolet truck V8's! The ultra short-stroke of Chevrolet's truck V8's makes possible a rugged yet compact cylinder block. Modern design cuts down engine weight and increases engine efficiency.

More power per pound means more power for your payload! Since less power is used in moving engine weight, a bigger proportion is available for moving your payloads. You get hour-saving performance on the job. And modern V8 power saves dollars, too!

There's a modern V8 for every Chevrolet Task-Force truck! There's a powerful, deep-breathing V8—either standard, or optional at extra cost—in every Chevrolet truck model. Horsepower ranges as high as 195 for fast, efficient high-tonnage hauling.

Savings Bonds Are Safer Than Cash

The slogan "Safer Than Cash" now applied to United States Savings Bonds doesn't begin to tell the full story, according to Mr. W. E. Braly, chairman of the County Savings Bonds Committee.

"Not too many people know about the fine services the Treasury offers to bond holders," Mr. Braly declared. "This service is one of the outstanding features that make the Savings Bond one of the best investments ever offered."

"A good many of us already know that we can get our lost, destroyed, or stolen bonds replaced without cost. But this is just the beginning. The Bureau of the Public Debt, which is the branch of the Treasury that handles all bonds records and redemptions, leaves no stone unturned to see that the original intent of the purchaser is carried out in the disposition of bonds."

Mr. Braly called special attention to the provision allowing for bonds to be issued to co-owners. He cited the example of the man who died suddenly without an adequate will. He had several thousands dollars in Series E savings bonds, issued in his own name and that of his wife as co-owner. The estate seemed to be in for a long period of litigation.

The widow, who needed funds badly, had been told that the savings bonds must become a part of the estate.

Upon advice of a friend, the widow wrote to the Treasury Department. She was quickly informed that bonds were her property and could be cashed at her discretion. According to regulations, whenever a bond owner dies, the bond instantly becomes the sole property of the surviving co-owner.

"The Treasury has thousands of such cases in its files," Mr. Braly said, "proving once again that savings bonds not only make a wonderful nest egg for future security, but are an excellent means of providing for loved ones after death."

Final State and Federal clearance of the first locally initiated Watershed Protection and Flood Prevention Act projects was announced on June 8 by Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson. Three Texas projects, Cummins Creek, Upper Brushy Creek and Lower Brushy Creek, are included.

Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Crouch and children of Fresno, Calif., visited her sister, Mrs. John Earl Nelson, and family and with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Huzter in Goree last week.

Civil Defense Has Key Role in Peace

Natural disasters can strike anytime, anywhere. From pioneer days to the present, neighbors have always helped each other in times of distress. But often, the power of a great hurricane, flood or tornado completely outmarched the valiant but disorganized efforts of untrained volunteers.

TODAY THE UNITED STATES has a form of disaster insurance—civil defense. Like any other insurance, it doesn't guarantee that disaster won't occur.

But by executive order, the Federal Civil Defense Administration does have the responsibility for coordinating all disaster relief efforts of the Federal Government under Public Law 536. This guarantees that the resources of the entire nation can be marshaled against nature on the rampage as required.

If a job which requires the skills of many specialists, such as the Army Corps of Engineers, the National Guard and the American Red Cross. Trained civil defense workers in the general disaster area put their rescue, traffic control, first aid and other skills to practical use.

Shades Of The Past At Cowboy Reunion

Almost everyone has read of the thousands of Longhorn cattle that once roamed the grasslands of the Texas range but today there are only a very small number of these animals, and there are many youngsters as well as grown-ups who never seen one in the flesh. This year a special treat is in store for the visitors who have always heard of but never seen a Longhorn steer.

Following the policy of keeping alive the memories of early day ranching and the men who have pioneered in the development of fine herds of cattle, Mr. W. G. Swenson, president of the Texas Cowboy Reunion, has purchased nine head of Longhorns from the herd that has been at Fort Griffin and they will be on display at the Reunion. Among the group is Bevo the 4th, a former mascot for the University of Texas Football team.

These animals are of the few remaining of an almost vanished breed. So, those who would like to see them at the Reunion in Stamford, July 2, 3, 4.

NEW PUBLICATIONS ON HORTICULTURAL SUBJECTS NOW AVAILABLE

Five new publications on many horticultural crops have been released by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and are available from the offices of local county extensions agent or from the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas.

The new publications are MP-156, Growing Tomatoes Under Irrigation; MP-149, Growing Cabbage in the Lower Rio Grande Valley; MP-147, Growing Lettuce in the Lower Rio Grande Valley; MP-148, Growing Carrots in the Lower Rio Grande Valley and L-270, Growing Eggplant in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Four of the publications were written primarily for the Valley area but the authors, W. H. Friend, associate county agent-horticulture, Weslaco and former Extension Horticulturist G. R. Williams, point out that the fundamental production information contained in the publication should be of value to commercial vegetable growers in other sections of the state.
