Odd Bits Salvaged

There's something rather fascinating about an oil rig coming through town.

k-k

Such event brings the statement: "Here come a rig," and folks begin to wonder where it's going and just what will be the results of it being set up and put into operation.

k-k

There's been a lot of such activity in the area lately—and as we said before, those things can set up, hit pay dirt or miss, and be gone before the week's up. It takes only a few days to go 2,000 feet with these modern rigs, so by the time we discover one in operation its just about ready to be dismantled and taken somewhere else.

k-k

We drove out the FM road toward the country club last Sunday and saw one in operation we didn't know was there. It was out there near the Leflar air field. Chances are it will be gone soon after you read this.

k-k

Excitement ran pretty high Tuesday morning when something happened at the well on the Sheedy place. We heard oil broke loose, then was shut off, then broke loose again spraying oil over a right sizeable area. Most we heard was that it looks like a good well, unless something happens.

k-k

We've been corrected in a statement made a few weeks ago. It takes about 80 hours of drilling time to drill one of those 2,000-foot holes.

k-k

Some dove hunters sat beside a water tank the other day, pretty securely hidden behind the mesquite trees. After a while a group of doves came by within shooting distance. Bang, bang, bang, went the automatic shot gun—proving it was plugged to the required three shots.

k-k

But only one dove fell. "That's an expensive one," said the hunter as he walked over to retrieve his bird.

k-k

Hunting, like most any sport or things people get enjoyment out of, is expensive. Shells for our 16-gauge pump cost around 12 cents apiece. We can't spend money quite as fast as the fellow with an automatic, but it's the quickest way to spend quite a bit of dough a little dab at a time as we know of. That hunter probably did better than we did. We were hitting 50 per cent on the first two shots, but after that came about five misses in a row—which made our one bird cost us 84 cents!

k-k

Back in the time when we were trying to play golf, that was just about as expensive. We'd rarely go out without getting one ball lost in the weeds, sending another right in the middle of a water hazard, and topping a third and cutting it up with the club until it was rather useless.

k-k

And fishing, too—that's a good sport. We go to the waters edge full of hope and ambition. We spend our time there, losing minnows or shrimp, or what have you, lose our line and hooks, or maybe a lure, in the underbush. When we get ready to go home, we examine our string of fish—and there's just the right size to throw back into the water!

k-k

We told our partner, Grady Roberts, when he dropped by for a short visit the other day that we'd been wasting some of our time on week ends getting in some fishing, but weren't catching anything. Grady is a fisherman from way back yonder, so he said, speaking from experience, we guess: "That's all right! Fishing is the best way in the world to get your mind completely off your troubles. We guess we should go fishing more often!"

k-k

Due everything is expensive—eating, keeping cool (or warm) driving your auto and keeping it in operating condition, watering your lawn and keeping it mowed, even living! Even without the sports and pleasures that tend to make living more enjoyable, it's expensive just to live. But we want to keep on trying to live!

Klug Service Held Wednesday At Rhineland

"Death by self-inflicted gunshot wounds" was ruled here Sunday night in the death of Louis Joseph Klug, 42, well known farmer of the Rhineland community.

Mr. Klug was found shot through the head in his peach orchard at about 6:50 p. m. Sunday by his brother, John Klug, Justice of the Peace J. C. Rice, H. O. Stone, deputy sheriff of Benjamin, and Tom Bullington, county attorney, investigated the death and ruled he died of self-inflicted wounds by a .22 calibre rifle.

Born in Rhineland on September 3, 1914, Klug had farmed in the community all his life. He had been in ill health for a number of years.

Surviving him are three brothers, Joe Klug of Muskogee, Okla.; Bernard Klug of Eufaula, Okla., and John Klug of Munday; three sisters, Mrs. Mary Schwind of Breckenridge, Mrs. Elizabeth Callaway of Houston and Miss Anna Klug of Wichita Falls.

Funeral services were held from St. Joseph's Church in Rhineland at 8 a. m. Wednesday, with Rev. John Walbe, O. S. B., officiating. Burial was in St. Joseph's Cemetery under the direction of McCauley Funeral Home.

Pallbearers were Joseph, Leonard, Eddie and Francis Schwind, all nephews of Breckenridge; J. C. Baty and Alvin Michalik.

Rotan Comeback Clips Moguls 7 To 6 Friday

The Munday Moguls saw their first game of the season end in heartbreak last Friday night when the Rotan Yellowhammers edged them 7 to 6 after the local boys had led the way for most of three quarters.

This was a non-conference game for the Moguls, who fought valiantly against the strong Class A Yellowhammers.

The Yellowhammers overcame a one-touchdown deficit in the closing minutes of the third quarter, when left halfback George Bridges dived across from five yards out to deadlock the score 6 to 6.

The accurate toe of halfback Bubba Edwards booted the football through the uprights for the game deciding extra point. After Bridges' tally, the Yellowhammers, led by the sterling defense tackle, Leo Petty and Jim Watson, stymied every Mogul offensive thrust to preserve the first victory for their new coach, Marvin Sanders.

Munday scored first on a 30 yard pass and run from Glenn Amerson to end Gerald Tidwell early in the second quarter. The Moguls missed their extra point try but held onto their narrow margin until quarterback Jackie Wagger guided the Yellowhammer attack that smashed to the Munday five in the third period.

Rotan had one tally, a long first period dash by Bridges, nullified by a penalty. The versatile Bridges scampered 30 yards behind good blocking for the score.

The August issue of "Electric Times", published by and for employees of West Texas Utilities Co., is of special interest to people of the Munday area, since the town was featured in this issue. Jimmie Martin, former newspaperman, is editor of the magazine.

Scott, Ray Ford, Marshal Benner Buster Pape and Norval Johnston of the service department and R. B. Beal, custodian of the property.

Another interesting feature of the magazine is headed: "Irrigation Brings New Money Crops To Munday," and shows a number of interesting pictures of the 1956 potato harvest and processing.

Moguls To Play Seymour Friday

The Munday Moguls will engage in their second non-conference game of the season next Friday night when they play the strong 2A Seymour Panthers on Panther Field.

In early season predictions, the Panthers are strong contenders with Stamford for the district 4-AA title this year, so the Moguls will go into the game as underdogs. Seymour's defense has been working well in early games.

The friendly rivalry between the Moguls and Panthers during years past has always made the annual game between the two teams very interesting.

Coaches Stewart and Spann have been giving their Moguls daily workouts this week. All members are said to be in good condition and will give the Panthers some stiff competition. As usual, Moguls boosters will "hit the road" late Friday to see their team in action against the Panthers.

Well Blows In North Of Munday

Indications last Tuesday were that a good well will be developed in the Ajax Oil and Development Company of Wichita Falls No. 1 S. Sheedy, one mile north of Munday. The well reportedly blew in early Tuesday morning and sprayed oil over a large area. Those keeping in touch with operations said "It looks like a good well."

Tannenhill production has been indicated in the Tom B. Medders, Wichita Falls, No. 1 J. L. Cloud, three miles southeast of Goree. Two-hour drillstem test from 1-612-16 feet developed gas at the surface in 21 minutes. Recovery was 1,496 feet of oil and 120 feet of mud. A second two-hour test at 1,617-21 feet developed gas at the surface in 45 minutes and returned 270 feet of oil and 390 feet of salt water. Casing was set to 1,665 feet.

Christie-Stewart Drilling Co. of Wichita Falls is drilling the No. 1 C. L. McAfee, a 2,250-foot operation two miles northeast of Knox City and about 8 miles northwest of Munday.

Contracted to 2,100 feet is Wilson Brothers et al of Dallas No. 1 Ed Whittemore, three miles southwest of Munday.

Munday's Band Hall Contracted To Abilene Man

Contracts totaling $22,920.50 were let by Munday's school board Thursday night for construction of a new band hall here. Construction is to begin immediately and is to be completed in 100 days. School Supt. W. C. Cox said.

Low bid for general construction, $20,000, was offered by Baco Construction Co. of Abilene. James Carden of Munday won the contract for both plumbing and heating and electrical work. His bids were $1,763 on plumbing and heating and $1,157.50 on electrical work.

High bid for general construction was $27,649. High bid for plumbing and heating was $2,080 and high for electrical work was $1,499.

Supt. Cox said no definite plans had been laid Friday for use of the old band hall, but voiced the opinion that it might be renovated into a field house or used for some similar activities.

The new band hall will be a one-story brick and tile building, dimensions of which will be 65x35 feet. It will be located in the vicinity of the old band hall, about 30 feet south of the high school. Included in the building will be an office-library combination, a rest room, uniform storage room, ensemble room, four practice rooms, instrument storage space and the band room proper. Featured will be built-in music racks and a trophy case.

Munday voters in July passed a bond issue in the amount of $125,000 for building the band hall, remodeling the Negro school, re-wiring the junior high school and other school remodeling.

The junior high school rewiring has been completed, Supt. Cox said, as well as the elementary school being re-plumbed. Construction is well under way on the Negro school building, he added.

The school board meeting was held Thursday night in the Munday Elementary School building.

518 Enrolled In Munday Schools

The Munday schools opened on September 3 with a slight loss in enrollment, according to Supt. W. C. Cox. The number on the rolls this year is 518, while enrollment is expected to increase with completion of improvements to all school plants.

The Dunbar colored school opened last Monday with an enrollment of around 80 pupils.

EASTERN STAR TO MEET ON TUESDAY

The Munday chapter, Order of Eastern Star, will hold its regular meeting on Tuesday night, September 18, at eight o'clock at the Masonic Hall.

Officers urge all members to be present for this important meeting.

NO REASON FOR HASTE

Speaking editorially, the New York Times recently had something extremely worthwhile to say on the subject of the development of nuclear power for peaceful purposes.

"If we have been slower than Britain or Soviet Russia in developing and introducing nuclear power," the Times observes, "it is because of our favorable economic situation. We have enormous deposits of coal. Nuclear power is still costly; coal power is cheap. Hence there is no reason for haste."

Moreover, this paper continues, "There is no such thing as a standard reactor—that is, a 'furnace' in which heat is generated and turned into energy to drive a conventional turbine and generator." There are, instead, many different kinds of reactor designs—all highly experimental, all unproven as yet. The Times ended its editorial in these words: "Which type of reactor shall we build? There are arguments for and against each of these types, for which reason we shall have to experiment with all."

The Times' remarks cover the main points of the powerful case against a "crash" program of developing atoms for peace. Such a program would, by its very nature, be enormously wasteful, simply because not enough is known as yet about this extremely complex matter. If we were in dire need of new sources of energy—as England is, for instance, we would have no choice. We are fortunate in having conventional energy sources in abundance. Thus, we can conduct an orderly atomic program—a program that will ultimately produce maximum result at minimum cost.

VITAL SPOKESMAN

A majority of citizens of the United States adhere to the basic idea that the nation will remain the freest and the most prosperous under a healthy system of competitive private enterprise. In the rural areas the country newspaper is the vital spokesman for free speech and private ownership of property. It remains the indestructible printed page that is recognized as the carrier of local documents and information, and national news of importance to every county in the 48 states.

The discussion of industrial and economic problems is a stabilizing influence and of wide interest to the American community.

IN 40 YEARS

Back in the World War I era, a Tennessee groceryman got a new idea. It was to open a store "where everything could be handled with minimum effort." The result was the first self-service store. Competitors hooted—which always seems to happen in the case of new ideas. But within a week the groceryman was issuing tickets to control the traffic. The store prospered, other stores were opened, and a chain system was born.

This year a celebration of the 40th anniversary of self-service is being conducted by a chain store association. Other groups and industries which will participate or are invited to do so include processors, manufacturers, educational institutions, apparel stores, publications, farm organizations, and others.

Self-service now represents almost 90 per cent of total retail food stores sales in this country and rapidly is spreading in the other principal countries of the world. It is also increasingly influencing other kinds of retail business, such as the variety stores. Its purpose is to give consumers better living at the most reasonable possible cost.

The philosophy of modern retailing is found in a simple set of operating principles—large volume, fast turnover, and small unit profits. These profits amount to about a penny on the sales dollar for food chains, and only a little more for other leading distributors. Mass distribution, like mass production, is one of this country's greatest material contributions to humanity.

A QUIZ

The following is reprinted from National Review: "Q. Which West European nation is the most pro-American? A. Holland, according to competent observers. Q. How much U. S. government aid is Holland getting? A. Less than nothing. Holland is currently repaying U. S. credits extended just after the war. Q. But doesn't Holland like American dollars? A. Very much, of course. And it gets lots of them by selling well-made Dutch products in the American market, and by attracting capital investment of more than $200 million since the war. Q. How did such a small country manage to lure so many dollars? A. By cutting red tape to a single official permit, by not interfering with effective operation of the affiliates and subsidiaries of American corporations, by permitting profits to be made and to be transferred."

WHAT DOES THE BIBLE SAY?

About Confessing Christ

The Bible teaches that the believer in Christ must confess his faith before others to obey Christ. "Whosoever therefore shall confess me before men, him will I confess also before my Father which is in heaven" (Matt. 10:32). "For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness; and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation" (Rom. 10:10).

Jesus stressed the fact that those who expect him to save them must have the faith which leads them not only to repent "unto" salvation, but also to confess "unto" salvation and be baptized "unto" salvation (Acts 2:38). Each of these acts is an expression of the faith which saves by the grace of God. Each is looking forward to the forgiveness of past sins.

Jesus promised that if we would confess him before men he would confess us before his Father who is in heaven (Lk. 12:8). He further promises that if we confess with our mouth "the Lord Jesus, and shall be lieve in thine heart that God raised him from the dead," we shall be saved (Rom. 10:9). It is easy to see the importance Christ attaches to confession.

Peter led the way in making this confession when he said: "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the Living God" (Matt. 16:18). Nathaniel confessed Christ in these words, "Rabbi, Thou art the Son of God; thou art the king of Israel." Martha confessed Jesus in these words, "Yea Lord, I believe that thou art the Christ, the Son of God who should come into the world."

After the church was established on Pentecost following Jesus' resurrection thousands believed in him and confessed his name even at the risk of their lives; Peter told them: "Neither is there salvation in any other, for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved" (Acts 4:12).

One of the clearest pictures we have of words used by believers who wanted to be baptized into Christ is found in Acts 8:37. After Philip had preached Christ to the Ethiopian, this man naturally asked the question, "See, here is water; what doest hinder me to be baptized?" This reveals the significant fact that preaching Christ includes the command of Jesus for believers to be baptized. Then Philip said, "If thou believest with all thine heart, thou mayest. And he answered and said, I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God." Then this confession when he said: "Thou art the Christ, the Son

Injunctions, Mandamus Are Special Remedies

Sometimes you see newspaper stories telling how various courts have issued "injunctions" to protect the owner of a patent from infringement, to stop someone from putting up a building which might harm one or more persons. Occasionally you read where a "writ of mandamus" has been directed against some public official. This column will briefly explain both of these extraordinary legal remedies.

The injunction got its name because in the old days the English king commanded ("enjoined") special action when an ordinary court action could not solve a problem at hand. Today it is an order requiring a person (or corporation) to refrain from doing a particular act.

As a rule, one would first get a "Temporary Restraining Order" which would stop someone from doing something harmful—like polluting a stream or annoying the peace of your home. By granting it the judge preserves the status quo until a hearing has been held to hear both sides of the controversy. Usually, if you want an injunction, your lawyer will take sworn statements into court to show that your grievance is one which could be taken care of only by an injunction.

Often you must put up a bond to make up for any damage you do the other side if the court doesn't see things your way.

After you've made your request, the court arranges to hear the other side. They must "show cause" why the injunction should not be issued. Because most injunctions deal with immediate problems, the court hears the merits of such a case in a very short time.

After the temporary injunction is issued, a "permanent" injunction may be obtained or either party may start a lawsuit to settle the problems which the temporary injunction has cleared up for the moment.

If the court grants an injunction, it must be served on the defendant to be effective. Then if he disobeys the order, he is disobeying the court and is subject to a fine or a jail term for "contempt of court."

"Mandamus" is a special remedy used to right wrongs or enforce proper action by a public officer.

When we elect public officers to work for us, we place a great deal of authority in their hands. Sometimes they fail to do their lawful duty. One way to make a government official do his job is to ask the court for a writ of mandamus.

Suppose you have applied for a permit to build a house under a city building code. You submit your plans which meet all the requirements of the code but the proper official won't give you the permit and you can't get one elsewhere. You can then ask the court for a writ of mandamus and if you were right and the building official had no grounds for refusal, the court will order him to issue the permit.

Before the court will issue such a strong command as this, the officer must have refused to do his clear cut legal duty—not something that he may or may not have to do as part of his job.

Applications Set For Highway Patrol

Applications for appointment as Texas Highway Patrolmen will be accepted from the present time until October 15, according to an announcement by Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., Director of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Examinations for the men qualifying will be given statewide during the latter part of October and those scoring the highest will enter the recruit training school next January. Garrison said that appointments will be made to fill the additional positions authorized by the last Texas Legislature and to fill existing vacancies caused by promotions and resignations.

Salary of patrolmen is $315 monthly, plus longevity. They are also paid during training. Other benefits include annual leave and benefits of the State Retirement System and Federal Social Security.

General requirements for appointment to the State Highway

NEAT TRICK

Teaching baby to pick up her toys is a neat trick, especially when mother uses a cotton open mesh bag which once held fresh fruit. After toys have been put away, the bag can be closed with the drawstring and hung where the toddler cannot reach it. Oranges and grapefruits, important to a growing child's health, are most frequently packaged in the cotton bags.

Patrol include: 21 to 35 years of age, inclusive; minimum height of five feet, eight inches; weight in proportion to height; excellent physical condition; and high school education or equivalent.

In addition, applicants must be citizens of the United States and residents of Texas for at least a year immediately prior to filing of the application. They are also subject to a rigid character investigation.

Application blanks or further details may be obtained by writing to W. J. Elliott, Chief, Texas Highway Patrol, at Austin or by contacting the Captain in command of the nearest Patrol District.

SOIL BANK WHEAT PAYMENTS TO BE IN CASH OR GRAIN

Compensation to farmers for reducing their 1957-crop winter wheat acreage below their wheat allotment, designating such acreage for inclusion in the Soil Bank's Acreage Reserve program, will be in the form of negotiable certificates, R. C. Shrauner, Chairman of the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, has announced.

The certificates are redeemable in cash through regular banking channels, or they may be redeemed in grain by the producer to whom they are issued. The certificates will be issued after the County ASC Committee can determine that the acreage-reduction requirements of the program have been met.

Shrauner explained that the amount of compensation for wheat on the farm will be determined by multiplying the base unit rate per bushel for the county by the smaller of (1) the normal yield for the farm or (2) the normal yield for the land designated in the agreement as the Acreage Reserve; this figure will then be multiplied by the number of acres determined as the acreage for compensation. The base unit rate per bushel varies by counties.

Except that the wheat acreage placed in the Acreage Reserve for a farm may not exceed the wheat allotment, the maximum wheat acreage which may be "reserved" is generally 50 percent of this allotment or 50 acres, whichever is larger. The minimum wheat acreage which may be placed in the Acreage Reserve is 3 acres or the allotment, whichever is smaller.

Land in the Acreage Reserve must not be cropped or grazed during the period of the Soil Bank agreement. If any winter wheat is grown on the farm this fall, Acreage Reserve agreements for the 1957 wheat crop must be signed by September 21, 1956.

COTTON MAID BIDS INDUSTRY GOOD-BY

Pretty Patricia Anne Cowden of Raleigh, N. C., has her feet firmly planted on the ground again. Pat is back home after seven months of exciting international travel as the 1956 Maid of Cotton.

Naturally, one person who is mighty glad to have Pat home again is her father. His favorite story about his famous daughter goes something like this: "One evening last December, Pat went down to the drugstore for an ice cream sundae. I didn't see her again for seven months."

Pat did stop by the drugstore on her way to the airport when she flew to Memphis, Tennessee, last year for the Maid of Cotton finals. She won the title and was immediately whisked away into the most wonderful adventure of her young life. Her tour took her to more than 40 major cities in the United States, Canada, Europe, and South America—and everywhere she went, she modeled the smartest of cotton fashions.

When Pat did come home, she drove up in a new streamlined blue and white air-conditioned station wagon. A car is presented each year to the Maid by the Memphis District Ford Dealers in tribute to her service to the cotton industry.

There's no place like home, says Pat, but she will never forget her thrilling experiences as the 1956 Maid of Cotton.

MORE USES SOUGHT FOR COTTONSEED OIL
Soon there may be some surprising new uses for cottonseed oil.

The new uses may result from experiments dealing with the chemical modification of familiar fats and oils by research scientists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Scientists are chemically changing cottonseed oil and other well-known fats and oils into new substances considered to be of great potential value to industry. The substances may be used to keep foods fresh longer, make spreads spreadable over a wide range of temperatures, produce top quality plastics, and even be used in cosmetics.

Fats or oils used as starting material make up 80 to 90 percent of the final product. The experiments are being performed at USDA's Southern Regional Research Laboratory, New Orleans, Louisiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Clowdis and daughters visited relatives in Abilene and Sweetwater over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. James Amerson, who have been living in Denton, visited recently with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Amerson and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Eubanks, enroute to their new home in Abilene where James is in the Real Estate business.

Auto Inspection Dates Announced

The Texas Public Safety Commission has set September 15, 1956 to April 15, 1957, as the period during which automobiles and other motor vehicles must be inspected under provisions of the State's Motor Vehicle Inspection law.

Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., Director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said in announcing the Commission's action that motorists should avail themselves of the opportunity to have their autos inspected as soon after September 15 as possible in order to avoid the inconvenience and delay which is usually associated with the end of the seven-month period by the "log jam" of car owners who wait until just before the deadline to have their vehicles safety checked.

George W. Bushy, Chief of the DPS Motor Vehicle Inspection Division, stated that the more than 4,200 licensed inspection stations in the State would have sufficient supplies of stickers on hand by the starting date and would be equipped to check vehicles without delay.

Feeder Sale Prices Reveal Strong Demand

FORT WORTH—Frank Reeves, dean of Southwestern livestock writers, in his account of the Angus stocker and feeder sale at Fort Worth last week said, "The supply was short of the demand and the pens were cleared early at strong prices."

"That about tells the story except for a few details. A total of 1,361 head were sold for a gross of $113,624.24, for an average per head of $83.32. Choice steers drew $18.00-26.00, and choice heifers drew $17.00-22.00. This was about 1,300 head fewer in the sale than a year ago at this date and reflected the early movement that has taken place in the calf crop in this part of the country.

H. V. Norton of Atoka, Oklahoma, came in unannounced with some fancy steers and heifers and scored the first sweep of the series of shows and sales when his heifers and steers both topped grand championships. Norton's steers drew $26 and his heifers drew $22.

165,000 Cattle And Calves Around Monday

Twelve major markets reported almost 165,000 cattle and calves Monday and the buyers sensed a lower market. However, after sparring around on the early rounds the trade at Fort Worth settled down to steady prices.

The offerings were mostly old cows and cleanup cattle and calves of various descriptions, indicating that cowmen in this territory are busily working pastures and getting herds shaped up for winter.

Buyers complained about the lack of high quality offerings in the run. However, some fed steers topped at $24 and some fed heifers topped at $23.

Comparative Prices: Good and choice steers and heifers $17.00-24.00; lower grades $10.00-17.00; butcher and beef cows $9.50-13.00; canners and cutters $6.00-9.50; bulls $9.00-13.00; good and choice fat calves $15.00-18.00; lower grades $10.00-14.00. Stocker steer calves $14.00-19.00, choice quotable to $20 or above. Feeder steers and yearlings $14.00-20.00.

Hogs Steady, Fall Runs Picking Up Over Country

Hogs and sows opened steady at Fort Worth Monday. Choice meat hogs topped at $17 and sows sold at $13 to $14. The off weights and less desirable quality hogs bulked at $14 to $16.50.

Recent days have seen a pickup in offerings of hogs over the country and this coupled with the reports that feed sales of pig and hog feeds featuring stimulated growth factors has been very heavy, indicates the farms are rushing pigs to market to try and avoid the crush later this fall and winter.

Cornbelt experts in Iowa are predicting a low of $13 to $14 on hogs when the peak runs hit in late fall or this winter. Last year they hit pretty close with a dire $11 to $12 prediction. Hogs did get to $11 and under at times in the Cornbelt last year.

Feeder Lamb Trade Brisk, Choice Eats Scarce

Top on Fat Lambs was $20 at Fort Worth Monday, but something fancy was considered eligible to sell above that figure. Feeder lambs were in broad demand, some 65 to 85-pound feeders in the $16 to $16.50 slot. Fat yearlings sold around $15 to $16. Old wethers sold from $12.50 down. Slaughter ewes hold in line with last week's better market with most sales $4 to $4.50, and a few shells less money.

Beef Buying Program Announced By Benson

USDA Secretary Benson announced a 50 million pound ground beef purchase program last week (Sept. 7). The meat will be used for school lunch and other eligible federal relief programs. The beef purchase program was announced as movement of grass cattle became heavy all across the Western Plains. The program had been advocated earlier at a Washington meeting between USDA officials and members of the industry Beef Advisory Committee made up of retailers, packers, producers, etc. It is the first beef purchase program in about two years aimed at support of livestock prices.

Agriculture
Released by The Texas Department of Agriculture
By John C. White, Commissioner

What's Happening To Agriculture?

Many people today are puzzling over the "programming" of farming by the government. They wonder why we have controls and price supports. More clearly, they want to know why the farmer can't just "take his chances" in growing and selling with no holds barred.

They wonder, without realizing that the well-being of agriculture is an absolute essential to the economic health of our nation, just how the farmer became such a governmental concern.

Quite a few years ago, when the entire national economy was on wobbly legs, first efforts for restoration were aimed at agriculture. Farm programs and adjustments and allotments were set to work.

Since that time when the age-old barometer for farm success—supply and demand—became top-heavy, new programs and new words began showing up on the agriculture front. Controls were born of necessity; allotments, restrictions and subsidies became their expression.

There are those who cling to the hope that eventually food and fiber demands will catch up close enough to supply that every man can be for himself as in any competitive business.

Others more realistically expect controls to be permanent. And if so, then it's time to be thinking about how to live with them and to face their long-time effects.

Guidance and regulation of agriculture by the government can go in several directions: the government can allow itself to become the "market" with most areas of trade and disposition covered by regulation; controls can be slackened to such a degree that the "big business" farmer could easily encroach on and swallow up the small farmer; or through careful selection of leaders in policy making posts, farmers will have personal agents to see that their interests are protected, not overrun.

This latter ideal is that which we work toward: to keep our farmers both free and prosperous, with proper alignment in the national economic picture. There will be little danger from government controls so long as they are tempered with concern. And this concern will prevent our farm people from becoming a peasantry working under rationed opportunity.

In my early boyhood, the horse was king.

The farmer plowed his fields with the horse, and on Saturday he hitched his team to his wagon and took his family in to town.

In the town, the doctor and the preacher made their calls in a buggy. And the banker and his family took the air on pleasant, late afternoons in a carriage with the top down, and a driver.

Not many townspeople however owned a horse. When a conveyance was needed, folks patronized the livery stable, which had surreys and buggies for hire. Some of the vehicles had yellow wheels but boys considered those with red wheels finer.

The swankiest of all, though, was the buggy with rubber-tired wheels and gleaming wire spokes. A livery stable had only one such and the demand for it was great. The livery stable owner was a psychologist, even if he couldn't define or even spell the word. Had he had two such buggies, the desire to rent one would not have been half as strong.

But, as it was, the gay blades of the town arranged, weeks ahead of time, for the rubber-tired buggy on a Sunday. And when the fortunate one fared forth, he knew he was universally observed and envied. And as he escorted his maiden fair down the front steps of her home and she saw the rubber-tired buggy with the fringed, parasoled top, her eyes grew wide and her cheeks became pink with pleasure—his chest inflated with pride and he felt repaid for the $2 an hour the equipage was costing him.

People, in those days, spoke of the unwisdom of "changing horses in the middle of the stream" and "horse sense" was a term that everyone understood. Poets and speakers referred to the locomotive as the "iron horse"; and the strength of engines was measured in "horse-power."

Each town had its "first Monday" or "fourth Friday" when folks gathered from quite a ways around to buy and sell—or, more likely, swap horses—or, still more likely, watch the transactions being done. With what skill the adversaries maneuvered to see which should give "boot" and how much.

The livery stake was a social center of the town for men, being rivalled only by the barber shop. Many were the stories that were told and many were the checker games played there. And, for those craving more action, there was (so it was rumored) a poker game in the loft.

The horse gave employment to multiplied thousands.

There were the factories which made buggies, wagons, carts, and victorias; and other factories which produced plows, planters, cultivators and reapers; and the others which turned out saddles, harness and buggy whips.

Then there were the teamsters, coachmen, grooms, stable boys and veterinarians; the feed stores, with their smells of oats and hay—timothy and clover; and the ringing of sledge-hammers on anvils in the innumerable blacksmith shops making merry music through the land.

Truly, the horse was king.

Weekly Health LETTER
Issued by Henry A. Holle, M. D., State Health Officer of Texas

Austin—Registration of all radiation devices and radioactive materials in use in Texas is now mandatory under new regulations adopted by the State Board of Health.

Health Commissioner Henry A. Holle said the intent of the new regulations was to insure that all devices and materials would be manufactured, handled and disposed of in such a way that no person would receive excessive doses of radiation.

The regulations became effective September 1. Dr. Holle said the duties of administering them would fall to the State Health Department's Division of Occupational Health.

Written to be consistent with the recommendations of the National Committee on Radiation Protection, the new regulations:

1. Require that persons using any type of radiation machine or handling radioactive material must notify the state health agency in writing within 30 days after starting such use. The notice must state the circumstances under which the machine or material is being used, and where the use is taking place.

2. Establish definitions, terminology, and an official radiation symbol identifying machines, materials, or rooms involved in radiation work.

3. Establish radiation concentration levels for air, water, and other environments, and require that a "responsible person" be in general charge of radiological safety programs.

4. Require continuous monitoring of personal handling radiation equipment as a safeguard against overexposure, and the keeping of records and reports.

5. Prohibit dumping or burying of radioactive wastes without permission of the State Health Department. Accidental releases of radioactive material must be reported in full, and full reports must be made of accidental exposures when the dose exceeds five times the permissible amount.

Including among the list of radiation devices which must be registered are shoe fitting machines, and the ordinary x-ray equipment to be found in any physician's or dentist's office.

The Health Commissioner said "tremendous increases in the use of radioactivity in this state" made the regulations necessary. Industrial users of radioisotopes in Texas are among the most numerous in the nation, he indicated.

Copies of the regulations have been published and are being made available to all known users of radiation equipment. Other interested persons can obtain copies by writing to the State Health Department in Austin.

Mr. and Mrs. Welton Parker and Butch of Fort Worth were week end guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Parker.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Worried Over Plight Of The City Lawns Now Suffering In So Many Drought Areas

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek is hunting for something to worry about, his letter this week reveals.

Dear editor:
I was out here on my farm the other cloudless afternoon looking at the sky and wondering when it was gonna rain, although understand I wasn't worrying about it, there are two things I never worry about because I figure they're out of my hands, one is the weather and the other is how people are going to vote in November, at any rate, while I was watching the sky I stumbled over a newspaper, or rather I didn't stumble on it, I wasn't moving, a puff of wind wrapped it around my legs while I was standing still, and I pulled it off and sat down under a tree and the first thing I noticed was a news article on the plight of city people in the big drought areas of this country.
According to it, lawns and shrubs and flowers are dying in some cities for lack of water, and people are seeing a lifetime of painstaking effort lost in one dry spell.
I know this is a tragic thing, but my advice to city people is they'll just have to tighten their belts, store their lawnmowers, turn on their television, and tough this thing out. The loss of a carefully tended lawn is a serious blow, but as a man has seen a fine crop disappear the same way, I'd say it won't be fatal. However, I have long recognized that some city people spend more per square yard on their lawn than some farmers spend per square acre on their farm, and the lawn investment in America must run into the hundreds of million of dollars.

Therefore, I am surprised that neither of the two parties has come out with a platform plank covering this. It seems to me what city people need is a Soil Bank plan for lawns and shrubs. We don't want to discourage them. The more land there is in lawns, the less there is in farm production, and the more city people work in their yards, the more they eat away at the farm surplus. You take a few million lawns out of commission and the food surplus will pile up worse than ever. A city lawn is one of the best friends a farmer has, and if Sec. Benson would bring his mind to bear on this angle, I believe he'd come up with a plan for a Lawn Support Program. Will you please call it to his attention?

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Notes From Knox Farms, Ranches

By Roy England,
Knox County Agent

Luther S. Bird and C. D. Ramsey, plant pathologists from the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, accompanied by Herbert Partridge and the County Agent, made a tour of the irrigated cotton fields of Knox County on Sunday, Sept. 9th.

These pathologists were searching for diseases that commonly follow in the wake of irrigated cotton. In the area southwest of Munday, a disease known as verticillium wilt was isolated. This fungus causes cotton to slowly wilt and die, unlike cotton root rot which causes a rapid dying of the plant. This wilt disease will tend to become more prevalent as we continue to grow cotton under irrigation, and only through a program of crop rotation can we hope to control it. This is also true in respect to cotton root rot, which is increasing rapidly in our irrigated sections.

These two diseases thrive more successfully where there is an abundance of moisture in the soil. Green manure crops plowed into the soil are very effective in destroying the bacteria of these diseases in the soil. Other methods of control, such as deep plowing to dry out the soil during fallow periods, have also shown promise. Planting of small grains and grain sorghums in the rotation plan are effective because these plants are entirely resistant to the disease and offer no food for the bacteria to feed on.

EXTENSION SERVICE AID HAY PROGRAM

Hay for Texas farmers and ranchers is being located by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Through cooperation with extension services in other states, J. D. Prewitt, associate director of the Texas service is locating sources of hay which Texans can buy.

It is already known that several thousand tons of hay is available in the middle west, Mr. Prewitt said. States which have indicated they have hay for sale include Kansas, Iowa and Minnesota.

Assistance of the state headquarters as asked earlier by agricultural agents in counties where farmers and ranchers were unable to produce hay this year due to drought.

Indications are that there is an inadequate supply of hay in Texas. Prices of the hay varies, depending on the kind and quality. Freight rates also vary according to tonnage and the distance transported. Local railroad freight officials said, however, in carloads freight rates are about $27 a ton from Minneapolis to Bryan, $23.40 from Sioux City to Bryan and $19.60 from Topeka to Bryan.

Information has been made available to agricultural agents in each Texas county for availability to local farmers and ranchers listing amounts of hay available and addresses of its location in other states, Mr. Prewitt added.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee A. Parks took their daughter, Peggy, who spent the between semester holidays here, to Wichita Falls last Monday to start the fall semester at Midwestern University.

Miss Maldee Smith was a recent visitor in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse George Smith of Dallas, who brought her home the following week end and visited with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Smith.

Sunday guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Harrison were Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Gafford and daughter of Leuders.

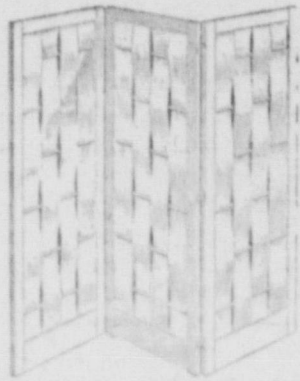

Mr. H. D. Henson and son, Glen D., were business visitors in Lubbock last Monday.

Woven Folding Screen

MANY uses exist in the home for a folding screen. This useful device may be made in the home workshop. An unusual design, which any craftsman can make, is illustrated.

The woven strips are Masonite Preswood or Duolux, a hardboard that's smooth on both sides.

Filable yet strong, either material is interlaced between wooden dowels to achieve the pleasing effect shown.

Top and bottom pieces of each panel are grooved to receive the hardboard strips.

Full details of construction are given in a free plan which also explains how an opening may be left in one of the panels to fit the picture tube area of a television set. Other uses for a screen with an aperture will occur to all. For example, the screen could be used to shut off a room with a sleeping baby. Without moving the screen, the mother could peek through the curtained opening to check up on the child. Youngsters could use the screen for "playing store."

To obtain the free plan send a postal card to the Home Service Bureau, Suite 2037, 111 W. Washington St., Chicago 2, Ill., requesting "Six Home Workshop Projects," by Craft Patterns.

Add an extra special touch to any meal by serving seeded bread slices. Spread margarine on the bread. Sprinkle with celery, carrot, poppy, or sesame seed. Heat in moderate oven or toast in broiler.
