Odd Bits Salvaged
at Random

The Santa Fe's February crop report paints a gloomy picture for wheat growers in Kansas, Colorado, Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico—saying the farmers continue to wait in vain for anything like an adequate supply of moisture.

K-K

Unless conditions improve greatly in the near future," the report said, "it is well within the realm of possibility these five states may not produce the 143,283,000 bushels produced in Kansas alone last year. Total production of winter wheat in the five states in 1956 was 255,746,000 bushels. During the period 1945-54 the average production of the five states was 374,876,000 bushels."

K-K

Under such conditions, some have pointed out the thing for small towns to do is to invite small industries to locate in them—so we follow with what we prepared some time ago after hearing what a West Texas Chamber of Commerce official had to say about the matter:

K-K

At a recent meeting we attended, the securing of industry was brought out as a life-saver for the small towns. A talk by Paul D. Marable, Jr., manager of the industrial development of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, the following statistics regarding industry were brought out.

K-K

A new plant employing 100 new workers means: 296 more people in town, 112 more households, 51 more school children, $270,000 more in bank deposits, 107 more registered passenger cars and a total of 174 more persons gainfully employed.

K-K

On the other side of the ledger, the new industry employing 100 new workers is going to put these 51 more children in school and because of them the school will probably need 2.2 new grade rooms and 1.65 new high school rooms which will cost about $120,000. You will need about three to four new teachers—and these are hard to find. You will need to increase the school's operating budget by about $30,000 a year.

K-K

The city would have to buy about four acres of land for school and parks expansions. Besides teachers the 100 new families will require the hiring of additional municipal employees in the police and fire departments, probably increasing those budget by several thousands of dollars. This doesn't count increased expenditures for added work in cleaning streets, collecting garbage, looking after parks, etc.

K-K

The water department will have to figure on pumping about 10,000 additional gallons of water each day, and those 107 additional registered cars will be increasing traffic problems.

K-K

These are things to think about, and there are others, when thinking of inviting industry to locate in a certain area. We had a slight promise of a factory at one time, but we doubt if few of the above facts were considered.

Shivers Honors J. B. Walling Sons

Sons of State Rep. and Mrs. J. B. Walling of Wichita Falls were honored with commissions in branches of the Texas military service by Gov. Allan Shivers at Austin in one of his last official acts before leaving office.

Danny Walling, 8, became an admiral in the Texas Navy and John Walling, 5, was made a colonel in the Texas Militia. They are grandsons of Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon Boggs of Munday.

The commissions were signed by Governor Shivers and outgoing Secretary of State Tom Reavley. They were received in the House of Representatives at Austin by Representative Walling.

The House unanimously adopted a memorial resolution to Representative and Mrs. Walling's late son, Stephen Gregory Walling, who was the official mascot of the chamber. The three-year-old boy died last June in a drowning accident.

Active in Better Government Legislation

Two prominent Texas legislators are pictured here as they confer on plans for "Better Government" legislation. Sen. Crawford Martin of Hillsboro (left) is discussing Texas Press Association bills with Rep. Virginia Duff of Ferris. They have introduced identical bills in the Senate and the House. Their bills require publication of financial reports by school districts and other districts now handling millions of dollars in public funds and not making a public accounting of same.

"Better Government" Bills Of Texas Would Keep Public Informed On Funds

"Most public officials are honest and conscientious people who make an effort to do the best job possible for those who have given them positions of trust," said Rep. Virginia Duff of Ferris, in commenting on a bill she has introduced in the House of Representatives.

"Unfortunately," she continued, "it seems there always are a few who will, given an opportunity, take advantage of loopholes that have been allowed to go 'unplugged' in our laws. Legislation must be passed to prevent their virtually robbing the very people who have put them in office."

Rep. Duff referred to one of the 15 "Better Government" bills sponsored in the 55th Legislature by the Texas Press Association. The measure will require publication of an annual financial statement by all offices, boards, agencies and commissions on all levels of government. This includes school, road, soil conservation and other districts not now covered by existing laws. The bill also contains a provision for stopping payment of state funds to a school district for failure to publish the required statement.

He was born in Milam County on December 13, 1900, and was 56 years, 1 month and 18 days of age. He had made his home in Benjamin for the past 30 years, being engaged in the grocery and wholesale gasoline business and auto repair work. Prior to that time, he worked for Nick Peysen in auto repair work in Munday.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Elnora Hertel of Benjamin; three sons, W. M. and Charles of Benjamin and Don of Wichita Falls; a daughter, Mrs. Rosellen Glenn of Benjamin; his mother, Mrs. Ida Hertel, also of Benjamin; five brothers, W. C. and T. B. Hertel of Munday, J. A. and Carl Hertel of Rule, and J. F. Hertel of Fillmore, Okla.; and a sister Mrs. Elnora Duke of Benjamin.

GOP CANDIDATE—Thad Hutcheson, lone Republican candidate for the unexpired U. S. Senate seat of Gov. Price Daniel in an apparently unlimited field of Democrats, returned from Washington recently after conferences with President Eisenhower and other administration leaders. President Eisenhower endorsed the lanky Houstonian following a conference of unprecedented length at the White House.

Six of these will be selected to be shown in the junior beef show at Wichita Falls on February 21, and the other two will be entered in the Houston Fat Stock Show on February 23, it was announced by County Agent Roy England.

Judging of steers in the county show will be by Jay B. Pumphrey of Old Glory.

The Knox County Farm Bureau will present a showmanship award to the exhibitor who does the best job of showing his steer during the judging. The show will open at 10 a. m. Saturday.

Ribbons and a total of $110 in prizes will be awarded the winners.

The Knox County Junior Livestock Association, in cooperation with community organizations in each town of the county, such as Chambers of Commerce, Knox City and Munday Lions Clubs and other groups, solicited contributions amounting to more than $1,000 to sponsor the 4-H and F. F. A. shows for 1957.

The major portion of this money will be used in sponsoring the annual spring livestock show, which is scheduled for March 30 at Knox City.

Dr. P. D. (Dick) O'Brien of the First Baptist Church in Big Spring will be the keynote speaker at the banquet, and a male quartet from Hardin-Simmons University, Abilene, will also be on the program.

PROMOTE—ADVERTISE—SELL

Some time ago a group of retail executives was received by the President at the White House. The group's spokesman told the Chief Magistrate that retailing's increasing sales volume and rising capital expansion program are a reflection of confidence in the sound growth of this country's economy. He added: "We sold—and will continue to sell—the products which manufacturers have produced and made it possible for them to continue their operations at peak levels."

This particular group consisted of representatives of retail fields other than foods. The food retailers, chain and independent, are doing exactly the same thing on behalf of the country's farmers, processors and others.

This brings up a point we are apt to overlook. We watch the industrial production figures, in order to see how American enterprise and the nation fare. But the status of retailing is every bit as important. No producer could produce for long without a sufficient number of buyers of his wares. If the goods didn't move he'd have no choice but to shut down. Retailing takes the goods and moves them into the channels of consumption—and then the orders pour into the factories.

Finally, competition is wide open in retailing—and that means that every retailer must be on his toes every business day of the year. He can't just wait for customers to come in—he must continually promote, advertise, and sell.

ULTIMATE QUESTION

There are great differences of opinion as to the wisdom of the many welfare activities that government has undertaken in comparatively recent times. But there can be no difference as to one matter—the cost is tremendous, and it becomes ever heavier.

According to Insurance Economics Surveys, the national income increased by 79 per cent between 1945 and 1955. But in that same period social welfare expenditures by all levels of government rose 400 per cent—from $4½ billion to some $21½ billion.

So it would seem that the ultimate question we must answer will be this: How much of such paternalism can we afford—entirely aside from the merits or demerits of any particular welfare activity?

—SAY YOU SAW IT IN THE TIMES—

SETTING THE TRAP

Whole nations from time to time come under the freedom-destroying rule of dictators by devious methods which fool the people until they are trapped.

Powerful labor leaders and politicians in the United States have been promoting candidates and measures to build government monopolies to the exclusion of free enterprise.

If such a program is successful, rank and file workmen would find themselves mere work slaves as they did in Germany and Russia. Their labor bosses would be holding top political jobs. Strikes would be outlawed under penalties such as we have witnessed in the dictator countries. Government control of industry and individuals would be extended.

You may think this could not happen here but it is happening under many disguises. Commenting on the way workers are forced to contribute for candidates and measures which they may oppose, Raymond Moley in Newsweek lists large sums that are taken from union funds for political purposes. He points out that workmen should be interested . . . in the fact that their contributions, which should be devoted to matters related to their interests as workers are thus diverted to the ideological and political concerns of their officers.

Thus are individuals trapped into situations over which they have no control.

DON'T IMITATE FAILURE!

Writing from London, labor columnist Victor Riesel says: "Socialism has failed here. They nationalized the steel industry, coal mines, railroads and the health service. All these lost money. Wages didn't go up. Profits went down. There were strikes. And the Socialist managers were as tough as any old-fashioned capitalist manufacturers' group—more so, believe me."

There is a moral in this for all Americans—and especially for American labor, unionized or non-unionized. Everyone gets hurt by socialism—and the masses of working people get hurt most of all. We should have the intelligence not to imitate failure!

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH., TIMES: "With rain, snow, slush and road residues on the highway there is a continuous spray of film against windshields with resulting poor visibility. Courtesy on the highway could do much to reduce this hazard."

Hearings On Livestock Law In Austin This Week
 Representatives of both auctions and terminal markets in Texas were slated to start meetings with the Livestock Sanitary Commission of Texas in Austin Monday.

Due for discussion in these hearings will be the proposed levy against livestock sold through terminal markets and auction sales in the state to help defray the costs of the State's animal health program.

In their convention last week the auction owners went on record opposing any now deductions from the account sales of shippers, and this resolution was construed to mean flat opposition not only to the livestock sales tax, but for the various livestock and meat promotional campaign.

Some members of the livestock sanitary commission have indicated they are less than enthusiastic about the livestock sales tax idea, and the possibility of its being shelved was considered possible. However, some means of financing the animal health program must be found, they say.

One of the latest proposals to come up is a suggested per capita livestock tax. This proposal would presumably tax each head of livestock in the state a stipulated amount and presumably the tax would be levied on the basis of livestock population as now carried on the county rolls.

Hundreds of livestock men contacted in Fort Worth during the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show just closed, were unanimous in voicing their opposition to any sales tax or transactions tax on livestock.

Two principal points were mentioned by virtually all of them and these were:
 1. Livestock producers are already "hardship cases" because only two out of the 254 counties in the state are not designated as drought disaster areas.
 2. Livestock producers consider the program more a public health matter, than one for the farmer and stockman alone, and as such the general-public should bear the expense of animal disease cleanup.

Tax-Man Sam Sez:

The tax folks say that thousands of us fail to send in a check for the tax we owe when we file our income tax returns. They think a lot of people read the instructions, check their records, figure their tax, check their arithmetic, get all their W-2's attached, but then fail to enclose their check.

These fellows sure went to a lot of trouble to get their tax right and then forget to enclose a check. Most of us know we have to pay the tax. Let's all save Uncle Sam time and money by putting in our checks with our tax return. Don't send in your check without identifying what the check is for. The tax office has thousands of payments. They have trouble finding who to credit the payment to when you don't attach the check to your return.

Miss Henrietta Hertel, who is attending school in Wichita Falls, spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hertel.

Creek Beds And Conservation

Many thirsty Texas farmers and ranchers may be overlooking a potential water hole that's been underfoot all the time, namely the usually dry old creek bed.

In several instances, at least, Texans have managed to make tanks of water from mere trickles by proper treatment of nature's forgotten irrigation ditches which run through most everybody's land.

Use of small check dams is nothing new, but seldom have they taken so individual a turn as in the case of J. G. Brunson, Lamar County farmer who sub-irrigates 50 acres of corn and bottomland alfalfa from an old-horse-shoe shaped creek bed on his place.

Brunson created his irrigation supply by damming up the lower end of the creek so that water stands 10 to 15 feet deep in the old channel now by-passed by the Red River. The dam raised the water table in nearby bottom lands to within 10 to 12 feet of the surface, creating a natural situation for sub-irrigating.

Another dry creek bed, this one in Williamson County, became an incidental source of stock water when County Commissioner E. E. Martinets of Granger dug out tons of gravel from Donahue Creek bed for road construction purposes. When now-rare December rains came to the area, the enlarged creek beds caught and contained a great deal of water. Had the beds remained shallow, the valuable supply would have run off as it does in most cases to be swallowed up in the Gulf.

Use of small dams and ingenuity in at least one other Texas county are attempting to place run-off waters where they are most valuable—underground.

Several Uvalde county groups are attempting to check the vicious flood waters which come up unexpectedly with heavy rains along rivers and streams of the upper Edwards plateau.

In one project on the Leona River, the entrance to a large underground cave beneath the river bed was emptied of flood debris and fitted with a system of iron bars similar to a cattle guard. When and if the flood water come, the watershed-away trees, sod and grass will be swept on down-streams while a sizable amount of the otherwise-wasted water should be sent to the underground cavity, raising the critically-low water table.

Small dams are also being spot-placed to retard the run-off waters in order to give them a chance to sink into dwindling underground supplies.

It is hoped the current session of the legislature will provide some financial means of furthering this most apt means of retaining wasted waters.

MODERN HOMEMAKING RECIPES... HOUSEHOLD HELPS

By Julia Hunter
HOME ECONOMICS DIRECTOR, LONE STAR GAS COMPANY

February is the month of hearts and flowers for it brings forth the Valentine season and provides just the occasion for a party to give a lift from winter and an advance touch of spring. It also is a perfect excuse for a frilly feminine luncheon, but equally perfect for a sentimental touch to a party for a mixed crowd. Men, too, like the feminine touch and the bit of sentiment, so long as the food is as good as it looks and is filling.

Capt. Billy Brown Is Flight Instructor

Graduation ceremonies for 77 officers and cadets at Reese Air Force were held Saturday with honored guests attending.

Included in the graduation class were 37 officers, 28 aviation cadets of the U. S. Air Force, 4 Korean officers, 6 Cuban students and 2 students from Nicaragua.

Lt. Billy Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Brown of Munday, a graduate of Texas Tech in Lubbock, was one of the officers receiving wings. He graduated in the top 10% of the class and will be retained at Reese as a flight instructor.

hearts cut from shiny red paper make festive place mats for a seated meal or for a buffet supper. If time permits, edge the hearts with lace paper doilies cut in half and glued to the underside. White or red flowers may center the table, or vary from the conventional and use a pale pink. A delicate pink does wonders with red. Slip the stem of a flower through the center of a paper doilie, tie the stem with a fluff of ribbon and guests have individual nosegay corsages.

Clustered together, the nosegays first make a centerpiece. If there are men present, keep some of the flowers plain to be worn as boutonnières. Use individual Valentines for place cards—the more sentimental the better. If it's a dessert-only affair, nosegays and Valentines make plate favors.

This suggested Valentine menu will serve a mixed dinner crowd.

or omit the potatoes and it serves a ladies luncheon as well. Here's the menu:

Salmon Mousse, Spiced Crabapples, New Potatoes, Green Asparagus, Hot Biscuits and Pink Angel Hearts.

The menu fits nicely into a "hearts and flowers" theme, with the foods satisfying. Garnish the mousse with chilled canned spiced crabapple. Those with stems on look prettiest. Dress tiny new potatoes with melted butter or margarine and minced parsley. Add lemon juice and grated lemon peel to melted butter or margarine and whip to a froth to make a delicious sauce for the asparagus. One-fourth cup melted butter or margarine with two tablespoons lemon juice and one teaspoon grated peel makes enough sauce for four servings of asparagus.

Whether the biscuits are of your-own making from start to finish, are made from a packaged mix or are of the canned variety, serve them piping hot with plenty of butter or margarine.

A pink dessert seems a "must" for a Valentine party, whether it's a dessert to complete the meal or one to serve as a refreshment course. For Pink Angel Hearts, make your favorite angel food cake mix into cake layers about 1 1/4 inches thick. With a heart-shaped cookie cutter, or by cutting around a cardboard pattern with a sharp knife, cut the cake into individual servings. (Use the scraps in other desserts.) Split each heart horizontally into layers. Whip heavy cream until stiff. Sweeten it to taste, tint it a very light pink and fold into it slivered toasted almonds. Put the heart layers together with the pink cream, then cover top and sides with the cream. Chill several hours. Garnish each heart with a pink rosebud, fresh or artificial. Serve on heart-shaped paper doilies.

INTEREST SHOWN IN MOVE TO RAISE PAY OF SCHOOL BUS DRIVERS

Ever since a group of Morris, Cass and Marion Counties bus met at Atlanta a few weeks ago and organized work for a salary increase, interest has been growing. Many newspapers over Texas are supporting the movement.

A second meeting was held at Linden on January 25 to review the progress and plan further strategy. It was learned that several chapters have been formed over the state and are petitioning their representatives at Austin to support an amendment by Rev. Abe Mays of Atlanta which will make a raise possible.

Anyone wishing information about organizing a local chapter or desiring to help in any way can contact Mr. Billy Logan, Box 163, Linden, Texas.

Tax-Man Sam Sez:

Most of us are not surprised when the tax folks tell us one of the most common errors that we make in our tax returns is failing to add and subtract right. They say that most of us add in favor of ourselves instead of in favor of Uncle Sam. Most of us would save ourselves time and trouble by checking our tax returns before we mail them. The Government has lots of adding machines and they check the tax return carefully and usually send a bill for the mistakes.

Did I ever tell you about the time that I met Jack Dempsey in the ring? The third man was the late Bobby Menziel, the well-known Tyler oil operator and, in his day, a noted boxer.

As we met in the middle of the ring, I gazed unflinchingly into the eyes of the Manassa Mauler and we shook hands. I led with a Texas story and Jack grinned. Then I handed him a copy of my book, "You Can Always Tell a Texan (But You Can't Tell Him Very Much)". I left the ring under my own power—one of the few men ever to face Dempsey to do so.

The date of this historic meeting was Nov. 28, 1955 in the Adolphus Hotel in Dallas. The arena had been set up for an exhibition bout which the former world's champion refereed, one of the features at a convention where I spoke.

Incidentally, I took advantage of the opportunity to ask Jack how much he weighed at Toledo when he climbed on the scales before the fight with Jess Willard, the gigantic champion who weighed 240. Dempsey said that his own actual weight was 180 and that he did not (as legend has it) have on shoes with steel soles for the weighing-in. However, he had been induced to eat bananas and drink a lot of water so as to appear heavier and the scales showed 186 pounds.

One day when I was 8 or 9 my mother sent me to the store to buy a loaf of bread. When I came back, I said the grocer had offered me the choice of two loaves. "Why did you choose the one you did?" my mother asked.

"Because," was my reply, "it was advertised—so I figured the man who made it was proud of it and was not ashamed to let it be known that it was his."

My father, who had been a newspaper publisher, was listening and he seemed pleased at the answer.

I had always thought of Harvard as a rich university—but, shortly before the Civil War (ac-ording to U. S. Senator George F. Hoar in his autobiography), Harvard had not the money to spare to pay the cost of moving the pulpit from the end of the chapel to the side.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Comes Up With A System He Claims Will Solve The Farm Problem Permanently

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek claims he has a solution to the farm problem, but there's bound to be a bug under the chip somewhere.

J. A.

Dear editor: Everybody is always talking about the farm problem but you rarely ever hear of anybody really offering a solution to it.

L. A. PARKER
County Judge, Knox County, (SEAL) Texas. 27-3tc

A week ago I read a statement in a newspaper which turned up out here in the road near my house where somebody has spread it on the ground to keep from getting dirty while he was changing a flat, and for seven days since then I've been thinking steadily about it and I have now come to a definite solution to the farm problem.

As I understand the farm problem, we have one even when we don't have a drought, that is, a drought makes the farm problem worse, but even in a rainy year the farm problem, especially the surplus part of it, is still staring us in the face.

I am now going to offer a solution to the problem, and I'm surprised nobody has thought of it before.

Attention, Veterans!

FOR SALE: 3-bedroom home, 1,428 feet floor space, 100-foot lot, forced air heating, knotty pine kitchen, lots of built-ins.

Small down payment and closing costs.

According to this statement I read in the paper, the supply of gasoline on hand in this country is now at an all-time high, which is one of the reasons we can't ship more oil to Europe, as the more oil we refine, the more gasoline we produce, and the bigger the supply would get and there ain't enough barrels to hold it.

But, and here's the point, even though the supply of gasoline on hand is at the highest peak in history, the price of gasoline for cars and tractors is also at the highest peak in history, as anybody who's bought any gas lately knows.

What I want to know is, and this would solve the farm problem, why don't us farmers use the same economic system the oil people use? Why can't we repeal the law of supply and demand too?

I don't know how they work it, but any time you can get your price to the highest point in history and still have the biggest unused supply of the stuff on hand, you're in pretty good shape.

Us farmers' trouble has always been, right when we got a big crop on hand, the bottom falls out of the price.

The solution to the problem clearly is to pattern agriculture after oil. Understand, I'm not criticizing the oil industry, I'm just envying them boys. They've hit the nail on the head. I ain't smart enough to figure out how we can do it too, but I think I've done my part when I've pointed out that if we adopt this oil system, and get the price to move up every time the surplus moves up, all us farmers, from me on up to Mr. Benson, will have our problems solved.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.
